Working Soil At Proper Time Is Important For Best Result

CRUMBLY OR CLODDY — Crumbly soil is in good tith and a pleasure to work. Cloddy soil is hard to work and restricts plant growth. Good management makes soil crumbly easy to work and allows maximum plant growth.

Tillers of the soil enjoy working crumbly friable soil in good tith. It is disheartening to have to work soil that is cloddy and run together. Good tith is of major importance to the backyard gardener as well as to the large scale farmer.

Maintaining good soil tith is one of the most serious soil management problems in this area. Soil management at this season is of utmost importance in building good tith. The chief causes of the accelerated breakdown of the structure of the soil are too wet or too dry, compaction by grazing when the land is too wet, and, cropping systems which return too little plant residue to the land.

The plastic soils found here in the North Central Prairie Land Resource Area have an inherent nature, causing them to "puddle," especially if they are worked when wet. Moreover, they are prone to become hard and cloddy when dry, due to the cohesive tendencies found in these soils.

Plowing these soils when they are wet breaks down their natural aggregation, and plowing when too dry may turn up great clods which are difficult to break down for a seed bed. Plowing dry also causes the firmer particles in the soil to sift to the bottom of the furrow which is a partial cause of plow pans. Proper timing of all tillage operations is of utmost importance to encourage natural granulation in the soil.

Grazing cropland fields while the land is wet is a major cause of much soil puddling in this vicinity. Compaction by livestock hoofs on wet soil has about the same effect as plowing too wet. Many soils even on native grasslands of this area show "hoof pans" resulting from wet grazing. A good litter of grass residue on grassland will do much to cushion livestock tramping.

The stability of soil structure can only be built up and maintained with cropping systems which return large amounts of plant residue to the land. Best results are obtained from plant residue if legumes are used in the rotation for nitrogen fertilizer for the specific crop.

The maximum potential plant growth on soil is obtained only when the soil is in good tith. A soil in good physical condition is well aggregated. Soil aggregation is desirable when wet and resistant to erosion and running water. Re contain organic matter and the various chemical cements that result from the decomposition of plant residue. A soil in good tith has an open structure, and absorbs water readily, and resist erosion.

Conservation construction is once more in full swing after a period of wet weather. Farmers recently completing farm ponds are R. O. Watson near Almeda and Aubrey Easter on Highway 80 west of Eastland.

Farmers recently completing terrace and diversion terrace systems are Roy Adams near Dothan, H. C. Pounds north east of Morton Valley, and J. O. Jones west of Chaney. Grass planting time is here. Several farmers will be planting grass in the next few days.

"Safety in the Home" was the theme used in the demonstration that the boy and girl team composed of Bobby Spink and Wannie Kanady, Nimrod, used at the contest at the Texas Electric Conference room last month. They will represent the county 4-H Clubs in this division at the district contests at Tarleton College on April 19th. Farm and Home Safety is a popular contest among club members in the county.

Saturday afternoon, April 26, is the date set for the annual Eastland County 4-H Club rally Day. It will begin at the Eastland High School auditorium on that date when the county winners of the various contests for 1957 will receive their medals and honors. The group will go to the City Park grounds for refreshments and games. The affair was recently planned by the County 4-H Club Council.

Winners in the various contests are expected to be announced soon.

About 70 different club members from all of the different clubs in the county show for the first time. Our hats are off to you for the fine job that you did. Probably more lambs were shown than any other type of animal. The sheep population has been steadily growing for a good many years and this is being reflected in the lamb and sheep division at the county livestock show.

Rodney Stephens, Gorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer E. Stephens, showed his dairy cow to grand championship honors at the county livestock show. Rodney also had the champion sow of the Other Breeds division. This Hampshire then went on to win reserve championship honors of all of the sows entered in the swine division. Rodney had his Jersey well groomed for the annual show.

"I looked and I looked and I could hardly find anything wrong with that big red Durco sow," Jack Hancock, Abilene, swine judge, was talking about the sow that was shown by Franklin James, Scranton, that won Grand Champion honors at the recent show. We heartily agreed with Franklin won in the Sears Swine contest in 1956.

More Money Due For Land Loans To Texas Vets

AUSTIN — Further speed-ups in the already accelerated Veterans' Land Program are anticipated when money is received from the April 1 sale of $12½ million worth of Veterans' Land bonds.
So says Bill Allcorn, chairman of the Veterans' Land Board and Texas land commissioner.
The board had already speeded up its buy program as funds became available on January 16 from $12½ million worth of bonds sold in December, 1957.
The bonds sold on April 1 went at 2.89 per cent interest, well below the three per cent limit provided in the State constitution.
The board is now sending out application forms to 300 veterans each week. Allcorn notes that money now available is expected to carry the program through May of 1958.
