New Plymouth On Display In Eastland

The new 1958 Plymouths will be displayed in Eastland Friday and Saturday, Nov. 1 and 2.

Dual head lamps are standard equipment on all models of the 1958 Plymouth. An important safety feature, the dual lamps throw four scientifically-placed beams on the road ahead for the most efficient lighting yet devised for night driving.

Star of Plymouth's line of engines for 1958 is a brand new V-8, the Golden Commando. Following assembly, the new engine is dynamically balanced as a complete unit to assure smoothest possible operation.

Fifteen solid body colors and 44 two-tone color combinations (in two different treatments for a total of 88) are options on 1958 Plymouths.

There is a good chance that your iron is collecting a mineral deposit unless you are using softened or distilled water, according to extension home management specialists. Combat this deposit in the water cavity and the steam vents by using distilled vinegar occasionally. Simply fill the cavity with vinegar, steam for 15 minutes, and then let iron stand overnight. In the morning, pour the vinegar out of the cavity and rinse thoroughly. This rinsing is important and should be very completely done, since vinegar steam on your freshly-laundered clothes is most undesirable.

Until recently laundry starch was the only fabric sold for use at home. Now there are several finishes available at the grocers. Homemakers who want to give cotton fabrics best care and appearance need to know which finish is easiest to apply, offers most protection against soil, and is easiest to iron. You also ask how the various finishes affect comfort and durability.

These finishes were studied by Mary Anna Grimes, Department of Home Economics at Texas A&M College; Ordinary laundry starch, a long-lasting resin starch, and CMC (carboxymethyl cellulose). Findings would indicate that the finish to choose depends on the qualities most desired by wearer or the homemaker. CMC proved more difficult to apply than the other finishes but was most effective in protecting fabric against soiling.

Shirts finished with starch, plastic and CMC became whiter with successive launderings. Wearers reported that the shirts with no finish at all were most comfortable, but they thought that the finishes all improved the appearance. Shirts with no finish or with plastic finish were easiest to iron.

gent. Never put a dust mop away dry. To treat the floor mop, so it will pick up dust without leaving an oily streak or damaging the waxed surface, follow this recipe. Use one pint of boiling water and one-fourth cup lemon oil furniture polish to treat the mop. Stir the mop into boiling water. Immerse a clean mop in it and let it absorb as much liquid as it will. Wring it as dry as possible and let it hang until thoroughly dry. When the water evaporates there will be enough oil to do a good job of dusting.

Sixty 4-H boys and girls have indicated that they are going to show fat lambs next spring at the county Livestock Show. Twenty-six boys are planning to feed out and show fat barrows and gilts at the show. Lamb feeding has been on the increase for several years. Even town boys can feed out lambs.

Larry Campbell, Gorman, Larry Majors, Desdemona, and Mickey Walker, Rising Star, although interested in the livestock and crop exhibits were also much interested in the new car models at the State Fair. There was some discussion as to whether the girl sitting in the driver's seat in one of the new cars was a mannikin or a real girl. She turned out to be real.

The Scranton 4-H Club had their first Club meeting last week, at which time they elected officers and discussed what would be suitable 4-H projects.
