Programs Lake Cisco Bring Large Crowds

The regular Thursday evening and Sunday afternoon programs, which are weekly features of the Lake Cisco Swimming Pool are attaining wide popularity. Band concerts, swimming events, diving contests, water polo and grass-sole contests are among the events offered.

Teams from nearby towns compete in the water polo contests. While teams from clubs, athletic organizations and schools regularly enter the swimming and diving contests. Contestants are invited to participate in these contests. They hold competitions with E. B. Bass, manager of the Lake Cisco Amusement Company.

Activities of Jack Farling, water clown, whose breathtaking act from the top of a 16 ft. foot tower, bungee and board, attracts thousands July 2, are a feature after the safety of such program.

Free swimming and life saving lessons are given by Miss Fay Dean Yarbro 123 Cross examiner, each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and her classes are growing week by week.

WHEN M. H. Cabill, chairman of the board and president of the M-K-T Lines, recently authorized an appropriation of $300,000 to relay Katy track between McAlester and Stringtown, Okla., a distance of 36 miles, authorities pointed to it as a bright spot in an otherwise dark industrial picture and indication of a trend toward better times.

The Katy is pressing ahead with its construction program not so much because of the need for immediate track improvement as because it provides an opportunity to put a number of employees, laid off on account of decreased revenues, back on the payroll.

Thanks To My Many Friends

I sincerely appreciate the vote I received in my "Home Town" and Eastland County, in the primary of July 23. I shall always feel grateful to the people of my county for bestowing this honor upon me. As promised, "I shall always remember that the office belongs to the people, and that I am just your servant, and I will do my very best to show the people that their confidence in me shall not have been in vain.

Very truly yours,
P. L. Cressley.

*"That all-softening, overpowering blend
 The toxin of the soul—the dinner bell."*

WHEN Byron wrote those lines, we surmise he was hungry. For we have all heard and heeded that all-softening sound. If the dinner bell is to be a real toxin of the soul, the dinner must be good. It needn't be expensive, either. You

THE COMMERCIAL USE OF TEXAS HIGHWAYS IS A PRIVILEGE, NOT A RIGHT

● The highways of Texas are the property of its citizens. They constitute a system of nearly 20,000 miles of road of which 20,000 miles are designated as State highways and the remainder are county roads. All types of road are represented in this system, less than 5% have so-called "permanent" surface.

The total cost of these highways is unknown but it amounts to many hundred million dollars. From 1917 to 1930, inclusive, counties and road districts of the State issued $243,592,834 in bonds for the construction and improvement of roads and bridges. In the two-year period ending August 31, 1930, the State Highway Commission expended $89,032,825, of which $22,488,426 was for maintenance of the State highways.

In view of these tremendous costs the preservation of our highways from rapid wear and destruction is a matter of very vital interest to their owners, viz., the public. It is especially important that they be made to outlast the life of the bonds, which run from 20 to 30 years.

The use of the public highways for commercial purposes is not a right but a privilege which may be withheld or granted subject to such restrictions, regulations and charges as the Legislature may see fit to impose. Such regulations are intended to promote safety, preserve the highways and safeguard the interests of the public.

Texas Railroads, which pay the entire cost of construction and maintenance of their own roadbeds and, in addition, make substantial contributions to the cost of Texas highways, are thoroughly regulated with respect to their services, rates, methods and practices. There is no good reason why commercial users of the highways, built and maintained at the expense of the public, should not likewise be regulated to such extent as the public interest requires and pay such charges as will represent proper compensation for the privileges granted them.

● The statutes governing highway transportation as enacted by the Forty-second Legislature represent the wishes of the citizens of this State and express their desire to give equal rights to all and special privileges to none. These statutes should be given a fair trial and their value ascertained. Unless this is done, a chaotic condition in transportation as a whole will surely ensue.

 I cried... for you... Now it's your turn to cry o-ver

THEY'VE got to be good to last like this song has. It was written a long time ago by Abe Lyman and Gus Arnheim together with Arthur Freed, and its background is as colorful as its melody. It first became popular when Abe Lyman was creating such a furore at the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles, Abe featuring it on nearly all of his programs. Its popularity spread, and at the time it was numbered among the country's leading songs.

The years rolled by and Lyman journeyed East to even bigger triumphs. The song stayed on at the Coconut Grove, however, becoming a regular tradition and each successive bison wailer or singer was by popular request, included in his repertoire.

When I was at the Coconut Grove a year ago, I sang it just as the others had done, and it immediately became one of the most popular numbers I had ever sung.

Naturally, I have a sentimental attachment for the song, but that alone would never make me sing it on my Cremona program, and pick it as my "Song of the Week." I am featuring it because I feel that there's a reason for the tremendous popularity it has gained and held over such a long period. Very few popular songs can claim as long a life. Then, too, it's a torch song (slow meaning tempo) a style of number all the rage just now. All in all, it's a song with a great past and possibilities for an even greater future.

Liquid Long Preserved
 Liquid, at least 1,000,000 years old, is contained in a sealed cavity in the center of a beautiful crystal of a mineral known as calcite, recently acquired by the Academy of Natural Sciences at Philadelphia. The cavity contains "the half gill of what is believed to be water with some minerals in solution. The crystal came from lead mines near Rosie, N. Y. Bubbles and small drops of liquid have been found in crystals previously, but not in such a large quantity.—Popular Mechanics Magazine

Wanted Movies
 Nobody knows where she got her pass to the symphony concert at Severance hall, or why she thought of crashing the portals of that dignified concert hall.
 She was obviously not the symphony type. She sat and squirmed throughout the first part of the program, looking very bored and very puzzled. At the intermission she left her seat and went in search of an usher.
 "Say," she demanded, "when do the movies start?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Tabloid
 A tabloid newspaper is one that expresses the news briefly. It is usually of smaller size than the ordinary newspaper because the news has been condensed. The firm of Burroughs, Wellcome & Co., London, England, coined the word and applied it to a preparation of drugs in a concentrated and condensed form. Although the term is a copyrighted trade mark of that firm, it is now widely used with reference to anything concise or condensed, especially newspapers that summarize or condense the news.
