

Chicago, Convention Champion of 1932

Chicago Stadium in which the Democratic National Convention will be held. Inset—Melvin A. Traylor, member of the Civic Committee which obtained the Convention for Chicago.

Chicago has jumped into a long lead over other cities in the race for winning convention assignments, and particularly the two great assemblages of Democrats and Republicans in June puts Chicago well in the lead and gives the "Windy City" an opportunity to stage these colorful affairs as a curtain raiser to the "Century of Progress" which will be a headline attraction in 1933. Already the convention pot is boiling merrily as committees of prominent business men are organizing to receive thousands of visitors in Chicago during June.

One of the leaders who has helped to bring the blue ribbon convention assignments to Chicago is Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank and a business man with a flair for tackling big jobs. Mr. Traylor, a resident of Carbon, Texas, is the national and international fame in finance and business by his distinguished service in Chicago, Texas and elsewhere in the Middle West. He was one of the delegates headed by E. N. Hurley and Mayor Cermak of Chicago who went to Washington and clinched their bid for the National Democratic Convention with a fund of $200,000. Chicago has exceptional facilities for entertaining both Republican and Democratic conventions within a single month. Already the engineers are at work with blue prints to arrange the interior of the huge Chicago Stadium where both conventions will be held. The assembling of both conventions promises to be a great spectacle, for the arena where delegates will be seated will accommodate between 8,000 and 10,000. Circling the arena are 16,000 seats for guests and the stadium will hold 20,000.

Gorman Picnic

The German Pythian Picnic comes off Saturday and Sunday of this week and will be two days filled with plenty doing for those who want a good time. The picnic will be held in phase 1 of the new school building. There will be good speakers and there Saturday afternoon will be given over to county candidates to make their announcements and at night Judge Joe Jones will speak. There will be something doing all the time.

Early Motion Pictures
The modern motion picture dates from about the year 1888, when Edison produced his kinetograph, the first machine of the kind using film. Edvard Muybridge, often called the "father of moving pictures," had preceded him by about 20 years, but his handi- capped by the fact that he had to use glass plates. Other pioneers before Edison were Sellers, Lincoln, Marey, etc. In 1894 G. Francis Jenkins was the first to produce moving pictures by modern methods. The first public showing of moving pictures was made in June, 1894.

Island of Human Wee
The Indian name for Blackwell's island was Minnehannock, meaning "long island." In 1694 the island was granted to Capt. John Manning, and was known as Manning's Island. His stepdaughter, who inherited it, married Robert Blackwell, for whom it was then named. In 1828 the city of New York bought it for $50,000. Recently the name has been changed to Welfare Island. It now contains the Metropolitan hospital, home for the aged, the workhouse and the penitentiary.

"Nagging"
From the days of Socrates and Xanthippe, men and women have known what is meant by nagging, although philology cannot define it or legal chemistry resolve it into its elements. Humor cannot soften or wit divert it. Prayers avail nothing and threats are idle. Soft words will increase its velocity, and harsh ones its violence. Darkness has for it no terrors, and the long hours of the night draw no drapery of the couch around it. The chamber where love and peace should dwell becomes an inferno, driving the poor man to the saloon, the rich one to the club, and both to the arms of the harlot. It takes the sparkle out of the wine of life, and turns at night into ashes the fruits of the labor of the day.—Justice Hill, in West's Doctet.

Fruits With Meat

WHEN you select your lighter clothes for spring—don't forget to select your lighter diet. An unseasonable dinner is as unbecoming as an unseasonable frock—and just as uncomfortable. The recipe for fruits with meat offers some very new and pleasing ensembles.

Have you ever eaten roast shoulder of lamb with browned pears? If so, you haven't forgotten how delicious it was. The roast is prepared as usual, and when it is nearly finished canned pears, which have been well drained and lightly sprinkled with flour, are placed around the meat. When browned, dust with paprika and serve on the platter to garnish the meat.

New Suggestions
A pot roast of veal and plums is a likeable combination.

When the pot roast is nearly done, add a cupful of canned green peas with one cupful of their syrup and continue cooking slowly for a short time. Serve the plums about the meat, strain and thicken the gravy and serve it separately.

A delicious breakfast suggestion is broiled beef and apple rings. If you have eggs in little individual pans bake in the top of the oven while the bacon and apple rings are broiling below—breakfast is quick served.

And for the quick-prepared dinner, after an afternoon at your bridge club, try Lamb Chops Paris Avenue—just place six chops on a well-oiled broiler and cook for eight minutes without turning. Turn each chop and cover with a slice of Hawaiian pineapple. Broil eight minutes more and serve on a hot platter.

You know that a little powder now and then is well worth the money it costs. In fact, compared with the effect, the price is so trifling, you hardly consider it at all. Yet the cost of electricity is just as moderate. Consider the examples below. They are typical. Where else does a penny buy more than in electric service? Electricity is cheap—use more of it.

D. 1931, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court, No. 15,319, wherein J. H. Stubblefield, is Plaintiff and J. A. Pittsford, E. C. Walker, Mrs. Lizzie Williams and husband, H. R. Williams are Defendants, and the cause of action being alleged as follows:

That on March 19, 1930, plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed with the following described land and premises, holding and claiming the same in fee simple to wit: All that certain lot, tract or parcel of land situated in Eastland County, Texas, and being a part of the E. That said notes were just, due and unpaid; that James L. Walker died in Eastland County, Texas, on or about April 23, 1931; that he left surviving two heirs, E. C. Walker, a son, and Mrs. Lizzie Williams, a daughter; that H. R. Williams is the husband of Mrs. Lizzie Williams; that E. C. Walker was appointed executor of the will of James L. Walker.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays for judgment for the title and possession of the above described land and premises, and that writ of restitution issue for his rents, damages and costs of suit; that the defendants be restrained from removing any of the permanent improvements from said land and premises; that plaintiff have judgment for the amount of the reasonable rental value of said land and premises, amounting to $100.00; or, in the event the plaintiff should be denied said recovery, then that the plaintiff have judgment for the principal and interest and attorney's fees provided for in said notes, and for such other and further relief as the plaintiff may be entitled to recover and for cost of suit.

Capacity for Work

Napoleon "could work for eighteen hours for a stretch at one subject or many." No "short" day for him. "Never," says Roosevelt, "have I seen his mind without spring; not in the strain of body, wrath or the most violent exercise." One of his ministers complained that "it would require a constitution of iron to go through with what we do. After a day's ride in a carriage we no sooner alight than we mount on horseback and sometimes remain in our saddles for ten or twelve hours successively." In his fortieth year Napoleon rode ninety miles without stirrups in five hours and a half. His surgeon, Percy, said that he was "made of iron, soul and body, always ad forward, galloping about in all weathers, bivouacking, working like ten men, never ill, never tired." Even his enemies declared that Napoleon had a capacity for work equal to that of four other men—Scientific Monthly.

Are Your Tires planning a big blowout?

Tires are bad at all seasons . . . but at their worst in hot weather. A hidden weak spot in the carcass is likely to collapse under the increased strain of high speeds and blistering roads.

New tires are much cheaper than hospital bills, and even repair bills. If your tires have that guilty look, smooth treads . . . you'd better replace them before they make you the guest at a road-side blow-out party.

Odd Reasons Given for

Crushing of Eggshells

Solomon Reinach is a learned man, a deep thinker, but he is surely mistaken when he traces the habit of crushing an eggshell, after a soft-boiled egg has been eaten, to primitive people who were snake worshippers. Philip Hale asserts, in the Boston Herald, "As snakes were fond of eggs," he says, "it was considered disrespectful to leave an empty shell and so disappoint the family snake." All other well-informed persons have known that the shell should be crushed so that witches cannot sail in it, nor can they draw or prick on it the name of the person they wish to injure.

The early Italians believed that witches used shells for drinking. After the egg was eaten, the shell was crushed and thrown into a running stream.

Unfeminine Occupations

The census bureau lists many occupations in which it is unusual for women to be employed. Some of these are: Blacksmith, baggage man, boot-maker, brakeman, butcher, condpector on the railroad, cooper-smith, electrician, locomotive engineer or fireman, fireman in the fire-department, forester, garbage man, hostler, pilot, plumber, railway mail clerk, stone mason, street cleaner and tinsmith.

Today much of the responsibility for promoting the welfare and prosperity of our state rests upon the shoulders of bankers-lenders in each community. They can favorably influence the income of rural sections by business-like guidance in the vital problem of fertilizing crops.

This season more than ever before, bankers are recommending the use of the American-made Nitrate of Soda. This product by innumerable tests has proved its real value and since it is made in this country, employing American labor, its use by farmers aids in promoting American prosperity.

Traylor Finds Too Much Silence Responsible for Business Slump

Chicago Banker Traces Crash to Failure of Leaders to Give Warnings

Danger Signals Disregarded

Speaking before the International Chamber of Commerce at Washington, Melvin A. Traylor, President of the First National Bank of Chicago, said in part:

Business management, however, is not to be blamed for the course that followed. Unfortunately, it has had the cooperation of finance and government and will likewise have to have their cooperation in adjusting its affairs to a saner course. What, in fact, did the leaders of finance do to encourage the expansion which took place in the last decade?

What, if anything, did we do to prevent such expansion with the consequences which they certainly did know or should have known would follow?

I believe their record in that connection is not an enviable one. As early as 1927, it was clearly obvious to anyone having experience with the granting of credit that if the situation was allowed to continue, and if expansion and speculation were carried on unchecked, there could be but one end—disaster. Yet the record of American financial leadership and of responsible government officials was regrettably one of too much silence.

Sounded Few Warnings

Few warnings were issued, and few attempts were made to attract public attention to the danger that threatened. Credit for the expansion of productive facilities to meet temporary demands was granted to business without adequate consideration of the consequences. Credit without stint was furnished to consumers to buy consumable goods, thereby further increasing false purchasing power and multiplying debt. No one called a halt.

Every kind and character of combination and consolidation was made, regardless of its economic advisability or the possibility of economies in management or increased profits therefrom. Little or no consideration was given to the nature of the business involved; in one instance, for example, soap and candies were united. Such combinations and mergers were promoted and securities were sold on the theory that temporary earnings derived from a false demand would not only continue, but would forever increase.

Furthermore, these securities were not sold to those in a position to buy, or who could buy for investment purposes, but rather to those less able to buy—to men and women fascinated by high-powered salesmanship and an un-born desire to gamble for big profits. Was such financial leadership calculated to inspire confidence or make for an economic stability which insures social welfare? I am afraid not.

But financial leadership did not stop there. It actively promoted the purchase of equity stocks and split its own unit of stock par in order, as it did, to bring its market value within the reach of the small investor. May I add, parenthetically, that such action would have been unnecessary for their purpose had they waited only a few months.

Financial leaders organized and promoted so-called investment trusts to profit the small investor a chance to profit in the stock market. Leadership, made foreign home of speculative value and, altogether following the procession obviously intent upon getting their while the getting was good.

Must Chart New Course

Are we to have a repetition of this kind of financial leadership? If it be true—as I believe it is—that credit is the life-blood of the nation, and that there can be no economic stability or social progress without a sound financial structure; and if it be true—as I also believe—that no financial system is sounder or more useful than its management, then financial leadership in this country must take stock of itself turn over a new leaf, and chart a new course of conduct for its future guidance.

If it be objected that not all financial leaders are guilty of such misconduct—and certainly there are some who are not—the indictment, nevertheless, stands. As far as the record discloses, not one had the courage to fight in the open against the tendencies he knew were wrong and to demand a right-about-face. Knowledge is one thing, but courage of leadership is another.
