

CARBON MESSENGER

Vol. 28 No. 4

Carbon, Eastland County Texas Friday June 5, 1931

$1.00 Year

Town Talk

Rev. Z. L. Howell received a message Saturday informing him of the death of a niece in Temple and the Howell family left immediately for the funeral.

Lester Locke and family of Brownwood were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Dingler.

Mrs. Clifford Green with her aunt and uncle George Jones were in a car wreck Saturday on the Carbon-Eastland highway. J. H. Armstrong of near Cisco in another car and Dick Watson in a wagon were mixed up in the collision but no one was hurt.

J. L. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. George Hayner were over Sunday to see John Wilson who is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Bunch Green of Yellow Mound were in Carbon Monday seeing after the damage done by the hail to the home of Mrs. Green.

Edwin Boone of Gorman was the week end guest of Bobbie Williams.

W. J. Greer and family spent the week end in Brownwood and W. J. attended the Roper Trainers Association Saturday.

Miss Adele Kuykendoll of Eastland visited her cousin, Miss Doris Courtney last week.

Mrs. F. A. Hollis spent part of last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Horace Robason of May.

Rev. Henry Cox of Jackson, Tenn., who preached his first sermon in Carbon 26 years ago, filled the pulpit at the Baptist Church last Sunday and delivered a good sermon.

Misses Virgie Lee Crossley and Maxine Hampton visited in Ranger Friday.

W. R. Usery attended county school board business meeting in Eastland Monday.

Mrs. Idella Browning is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Payne. Mr. and Mrs. Browning will be in Amarillo next year where he has a position in the school.

C. J. Williams and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Childress of Gorman.

I. A. Dingler and wife left Sunday to attend the annual U. C. V. reunion being held at Montgomery Ala. June 2-5 Mr. Dingler, who will be 87 his next birthday and W. I. Snow 89, are the only Confederate veterans residing in Carbon. Mr. and Mrs. Dingler will visit for a few weeks with relatives in Ga. before returning home.

For Trade

One good model T ford truck for sale. Also good trade for good team or farm tools.

Walter H. Gilbert.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Parker, Mrs. M. H. Wilson and Mrs. J. M. Cowsey of Dallas were guests of their parents Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Courtney and family Saturday and Sunday. Miss Willie Jo Kuykendoll of Eastland returned home with them for a visit.

Mrs. Charlie Wright received a message Thursday announcing the death of her sister, Mrs. R. E. Allison of Malikooff.

Reminiscences

Here we are back in the old Home Town and many are the scenes that recall the old days—the old back-gallery—the gallery that has caused us so much pain and tribulation of spirit in other days. Full well we remember how the Missus used to lambast us about that gallery—how she would advise us to go out into the oil field and buy an old derrick to repair it, how she would say it was a shame to have to put up with it and the man who cared for his wife would allow such a thing to stand. Yes, we remember that old gallery—but now alas, the recent hail has pounded upon that old relic and it is again in disrepair.

Down on the streets we met many of the old boys—Doc Jackson, Edgar Yarbrough, Harry Hall, Lindsey Barnett, A. B. Rankin and many others—and Walker Puett was down there. And in the old print shop there was Mrs. Jenna, who for so many years has been a faithful helper in the old shop. And what pleasant memories and associations all these names recall! But these old days are gone—many changes have come about—many of the old timers are gone. Time is gliding by and leaving in his wake many foot prints of decay. But we must press on and keep our eyes on the goal. The past will be many blessings and hardships to be remembered. The future is before us. We can't change the past but we can, in a large measure, mould our future. So let us brace up and cheerfully face the future.

So, dear old Carbon friends of the past, we bid you—God speed. We shall never forget the many acts of friendship you have bestowed upon us. We spent many years in your midst—and happy years they were. May you and your town prosper, is our sincere wish.

J. S. D.

Elmer Gilbert of Roby, enroute home from Marin, where he has been taking treatment, stopped for a few days visit with relatives and friends in Carbon last week. Mrs. Gilbert came down Friday and both returned home Saturday.

Mrs. M. V. Crossley is visiting in Eastland this week.

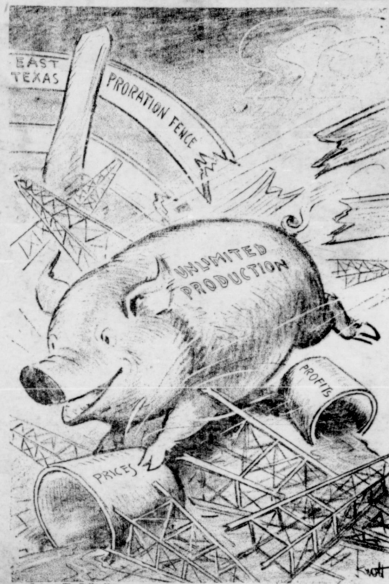

Misses Loraine and Cleo Dover of Austin are the guests of their parents and other relatives.

The Immunization Program a Success

The immunization program, as carried out Monday morning by Dr. Jackson and State Health Nurse, Mrs. Hassley, was very successful, there being twelve children who were vaccinated for smallpox and thirty-nine were given the toxoid for diphtheria.

The second and last dose for diphtheria will be given at Dr. Jackson's office on Monday June 22, from 9 to 10 o'clock.

The supply of typhoid vaccine, as sent out by the State Health Department has been exhausted and this phase of the work can not be taken up.

Mangum News

Sunday School was well attended Sunday.

We are having a good lot of cloudy weather but not much rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank and family attended the program given by the Boy's Optimist Home children last Wednesday night, at Eastland.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Swanson and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Smith visited their sister, Mrs. Abe May and family Thursday night, and made ice cream.

Roy Smith was seen in Eastland Saturday.

Mrs. June Jones and children visited her mother, Mrs. Bettie Bransford, Monday.

Millard Slaughter and wife spent Saturday night and Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Abe May and family.

Some of the Mangum folks attended singing at Oden Sunday afternoon.

Next Sunday is regular meeting day at Mangum, everybody invited. The County Singing League meets here next Sunday night.

Willard Wells from Bell County visited his uncle, John Wells, Monday.

Willie Reagen and wife visited Will May and family one night last week.

Uncle Joe Hearn and wife attended the 85th birthday dinner of Rev. George White at Yellow Mound last Sunday.

They report a delicious dinner including a cake decorated with 85 candles. More than thirty relatives and friends were in attendance from various points.

Rev. White is an ex-Carbonite, having lived here many years ago.

Moore Hines of Big Springs visited his mother last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Robason and Tex Johnson of May spent Monday night with Rev. and Mrs. Hollis.

Every Day Prices

Flour 48 lb Cotton White	150
Flour 48lb Pride of Perry	$1.35
48 lb. Golden Seal Flour	$1.15
25 oz K. C. Baking Powder	20c
Sour Pickles 1 qt	25c
Peanut Butter 1 qt	35c
Fry our Six O'clock Coffee	25c lb
Lipton Coffee 3 lbs.	$1.25

Carbon Trading Company.

Carbon, Texas.

New Connelley Theatre

Eastland, Texas.

Sunday-Monday-Tuesday

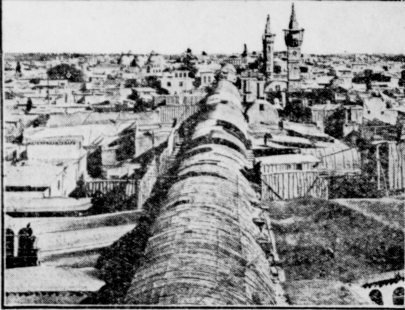

John Barrymore

In

"Svengali"

Here is Barrymore at his best with Marian Marsh

Syrian Scenes

Roof of "Straight" Street in Damascus.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

A TRAIL, rich in history and dotted with ruins and living cities that have played important roles in world affairs is being traversed by the Trans-Asia expedition which recently left Beyrouth (Beirut), Syria, by motor caravan for a journey of more than 5,000 miles to Peking (Peking), over the mountains and deserts of the world's greatest continent. The expedition, with which the National Geographic Society is co-operating, is traveling in seven especially designed tractor-cars, capable of negotiating the most difficult terrain. Its personnel of specialists has the latest apparatus to aid in the collection of scientific data. This equipment includes motion picture and sound-recording mechanisms, a photographic laboratory, a mobile radio station, and facilities for the collection and preservation of botanical, zoological and geological specimens.

Leaving Beyrouth (Beirut), the chief port of Syria, the expedition first traversed that French mandated territory, passing through Damascus and on into Iraq, stopping at Bagdad.

At Syria, at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, finds itself wedged between Turkey and Palestine and with its back against Iraq and desert Arabia. Heavier rains give agriculture a better chance in Syria than in Palestine, so improved political conditions should see an increase in such standard crops as licorice to favor American chewing tobacco, olive, cotton, tobacco and wheat.

The Republic of Syria appeared seven years after the establishment by France of the first republic in her Syrian mandate, that of the Lebanese republic which includes the famous mountains of Liban or Lebanon and runs down to the Mediterranean shore. This latter republic, with its capital at the ancient Moslem center of Damascus, includes by no means all of the area of the mandate. In addition to omitting the Lebanese republic it also excludes the state of the Alouites, and the state of Djebel Druze, mountain home of the fiery Druze tribesmen, the Unitarians of Syria.

Four Religions, Many Creeds. Religion draws the political boundaries in the Syrian mandate. Not only is the independence of the Alouites and the Druzes recognized for religious reasons, but also the new Syrian republic and the Lebanese republic represent a Moslem republic and a Christian republic respectively.

Four religious states in an area no larger than Georgia still leave many creeds out in the political cold. To recognize them would require cutting Syria up into more pieces than Blue Beard ever chopped his wives.

Syria's creeds and peoples are woven of many odd and separate threads. Fourths of the population of 2,000,000 are Mohammedans, but part of them are Sunnites and part Shites, and as different in their religious practices and Protestants. Then there are the Alouites whose secret religion is believed to be halfway between Mohammedanism and Christianity, and the Druzes who usually attend the Unitarian church when they emigrate to the United States, and the heretical Ismailites, who follow the original Assassins of Crusader days.

The country hopes to regain its ancient privileges and perquisites as dookeeper to Asia. The vast trade of both Persia and Iraq with Europe and the New World that now goes clear around the Arabian peninsula could find a short cut across Syria if only the Berlin to Bagdad railroad could be finished. Recent completion of the last link in the Asia Minor railway which makes possible through service from Cairo to Calcutta has already brought Syria into a more favorable position.

But at present the country is living on hope and America's thousands of Syrians have come to both North and South America. While villages in the Lebanon have been abandoned for fruit stands in the New World, Sometimes the ex-Syrians seek luck money; sometimes they go back with their money and live like lords, and in honor of the source of their wealth retrace their steps. One town now has a Beirut street named so by returned and retired emigrants.

Stabilization of the governments of the Syrian mandate will undoubtedly bring a higher tide of tourist travel because of Syria, although in European interest by the Holy Land to the south, holds some treasures worth going miles to see. Baalbek's ruins are second only to Athens' Acropolis. Palestine holds no surviving Crusader castle to equal Kalat el Huns and into whose banquet halls keep and fastidiously towers the Arabians have moved like hermit crabs. Damascus, an overgrown oasis on the edge of the desert, still lives and breathes the atmosphere of a vanished night while not far to the west a new summer colony develops on the cool heights under the shade of the cedars of Lebanon. American visitors are always interested in Beyrouth because the college on the promontory overlooking the Mediterranean that has educated many of the modern Near East leaders of every creed is an American college.

Syria still has the lure of the unknown; unknown religions, undiscovered cities of the past, unexplored Crusader castles, unexcavated fortresses, secret societies, and little-known races.

Damascus, where the expedition stopped for several days en route to Bagdad, is located in southwestern Syria. It was old in the days of Abraham and in the days of the Crusades. The bazaars of Damascus, more celebrated even than those of Cairo or Algiers, reflect the change brought by modern manufacturing. Barges from Manchester, machinery from Birmingham and talking machines from the United States now crowd the market. In Damascus each street is devoted to some special trade and all the shops on that thoroughfare sell one type of article.

Bazaars of Damascus. The silk bazaar has a wide scope in its merchandise, as its products run from lengths of silk and harem veils to kaffiyehs, the flowing head-dresses of the Bedouins. The shoe bazaar has boots of goatskin dyed red and yellow with heels of camelhide. Wooden sandals are inlaid with mother of pearl for wealthy women customers. Curiously enough the famed Damascus blades are found in the Greek bazaar. They are a rarity now, and it is fitting that they should be found in a bazaar devoted to antiquities. However, the Damascus is a wily merchant and glibble tourist's claim to purchase "antiques" imported from Germany, and "oriental art" from Birmingham.

The old cloths bazaar is also inlaid with antiquities, and the appellation reveals its consequent neglect by tourists. It is always a center of activity for the people of Damascus and Arab and Jew haggle over the comparative worth of hand-made burghouses and kaffiyehs and accidental business sniffs.

A commercial center of Damascus is the Der-el-Mustakim, the Street Called Straight, made famous by Saul of Tarsus. Here in former days walked units of Arab, khans from Bokhara and Tunisian beys. Along its sides are Arabian cafes of which the city possesses the most numerous and largest in the East. The Damascus "man in the street" may be found puffing his narghile and sipping coffee or cinnamon in the cafe. He will sit cross-legged on a bench, playing backgammon or listening for hours to a professional story teller.

Despite modern improvements and transportation methods, Damascus is still an intrinsically oriental city.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(By H. B. W. Western Newswriter Union, N.Y.)

"It has been said that a man is known by the company he keeps, and we can tell the quality and type of any one's life by the things he allows to absorb."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To restore a white spot caused from heat, on a polished surface, rub lightly with alcohol.

Brushed spots on dark furniture may be removed by rubbing with a walnut shell. Press the meat into the scratch or scar. If very deep, a bit of color may be needed to cover it.

In washing linens add a little vinegar to the water; it removes any grease that ordinary washing might not remove.

A salad may be made more attractive by dipping the dried edges of the lettuce leaves into paprika.

When rum goes on the furniture, cover with a wet cloth and press with a hot iron. When in small daughter's hair, that is quite a different matter—cover the spot with lard and carefully rub it out.

To remove varnish and paint from woodwork add two tablespoonsful of lye to one quart of hot starch. Mix carefully and apply with a brush using an old sock. Leave on for forty minutes, then remove with cold water with an old paintbrush. After allowing to stand for several days apply wood filler and varnish.

When food burns on granite or aluminum dishes, fill with cold water, add washing soda and bring to a boil. To keep clothes fresh, wrap in a cloth moistened with vinegar. This will also keep it from molding.

Home-made wall paper cleaner—use a tablespoonful of lemon juice and salt, two tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of ammonia and one-half cupful of warm water. Mix together and scrub with the brush. It is well scalded. Knead with the hands. Make a ball of the dough and use as an eraser on the wall paper to remove grease and dirt.

Wall paper worn side up makes good shelf covering. The leftover paper may be used for an edge paper, if desired.

To keep starch from sticking when ironing add a bit of lard the size of a pea to a quart of starch while cooking.

Steel Plow in America

In this country, about 1707, John Newbome demonstrated a cast-iron plow. It was similar to cast-iron plows which had been demonstrated shortly before in England. Records in delicate the farmers' need of efficient tools from so much iron in contact with the soil, and evidently this first American cast-iron plow was never repeated after its moldboard came broken. The obstinate quality of the soil in the Mississippi valley led to the use of steel instead of iron strips in the moldboard plow. J. F. Deere, 1837, and William Parlan, 1842 were pioneers in the steel plow business of the Middle West. Much credit is due also to James Oliver, who, by his experiments in 1835, greatly advanced the process for churning cast-iron plow points.

Scriptural Books

"Ecclesiastes" and "Ecclesiasticus" are the names of different portions of the Scriptures. The former is accepted by both Catholics and Protestants as one of the essential and canonical books of the Bible. "Ecclesiastes," or "Wisdom of Jesus, Son of Sirach" as it is also called, is the name of a portion of the Catholic Bible. It was included in the canon fixed by the Council of Trent (1545-1563) and is a part of the deutero-canonical books. Protestants regard Ecclesiastes as one of the Apocrypha and consequently, although they read it, do not use it in their devotion. They do not use it to fix points of doctrine.—Fats Bird Magazine.

Theory of Evolution

Herbert Spencer finds that through out the universe there is an unceasing redistribution of matter and motion, and that redistribution constitutes evolution. When there is a predominant integration of matter and dissipation of motion, and constitute dissolution where there is a predominant absorption of motion and integration of matter.

Salt in Commerce

The best grade of salt is procured by the evaporation method. This because the brine is first purified before it is evaporated. It costs per cent pure. The impurities are from 1 to 1 1/2 per cent less in sodium chloride content than salt procured by the evaporation method. Incidentally, the purest rock salt comes from Louisiana.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. DR. J. W. WATSON, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 7
JESUS CRUCIFIED

GOLDEN TEXT—"I have been crucified for you, that I might bring you to God, and with his stripes you are healed."—LUSION TEXT—John 19:30-42.

PRIMARILY TOPIC—Jesus Dies on the Cross.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Taking the Intermediate and Senior TOPIC—That One to the Lord Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Loves Supreme Sacrifice.

I. The Place of Crucifixion (v. 23). They led Jesus away to Calvary, a hill north of Jerusalem resembling a skull. Calvary is the Latin word and Golgotha is the Hebrew. This is a most significant name for the place where man died to redeem man and be punished. The skull is an apt picture of man's condition as the result of sin—life and intelligence gone, leaving only a dark, empty cavern, which once contained them. Jesus was not crucified in the city for he was to suffer without the gate (Heb. 13:12).

II. His Companions on the Cross (v. 25).

Two malefactors were crucified with him. This was in fulfillment of the Scripture, "He was numbered among the transgressors" (Isa. 53:12). He was silent, but became sin for us.

III. His Forgiving Love (v. 34).

He cried, "Father forgive them." He not only had in mind the soldiers who had crucified him, but also the Jews who in their blindness were ignorant of the enormity of their crime.

The World Revealed (v. 34-42).

Jesus Christ on the cross is the supreme touchstone of human life. It is the cross that the world's heart is ready to confess, and a section of the world at any time since Christ was crucified, and representatives of the various classes therein were found around the world's chief indifference.

1. The Jew (v. 34). They gazed at his agonizing robe right under the cross, whose he was dying. This represents those whose primary interest in Christ is a means to get out of their present suffering, and sense the cross is the judgment of this world (John 12:31).

2. The Gentile (v. 34). They gazed at his agonizing robe right under the cross, whose he was dying. This represents those whose primary interest in Christ is a means to get out of their present suffering, and sense the cross is the judgment of this world (John 12:31).

3. The scorners (v. 35-39).

The rulers reviled him for his claim to be the Savior (v. 35). They called him a knave (v. 36). They called him a blasphemer (v. 37). Many today are religious, but have only contempt for a salvation which centers in an atonement made by a man who suffered a great truth when he said, "He saved others, but he saved himself." He could not save himself and others, because God's plan was to save others by giving himself.

4. The hypocrites (v. 39-42).

The title "King of the Jews" had been placed over him in bitter irony, but it was true, for by right of the Davidic Covenant he shall one day be King over Israel (II Sam. 7:16). Through his death he came into the place of Lordship over all; so will acknowledge him. The fact that the super scription was in Greek, Hebrew, and Latin shows that he was to be King over all the world.

5. The impatient malefactor (v. 40). This brutal man joined in reviling the Savior, even though he persecuted him by his condemnation.

6. The penitent malefactor (v. 40-42). This conscious sinner who discovered the heart of the Savior prayed for mercy. He said that the dying man, who had forgiven him, he would be acknowledged his sin as against God showed that he was penitent. His request for Christ to remember him when he came into his kingdom shows that he recognized that the One who was dying on the cross was making atonement for sin and that he would also be saved as a King.

7. The penitent thief (v. 40-42). This man, who had been crucified with Jesus, was dying on the cross when he was making atonement for sin and that he would also be saved as a King.

That the salvation of this penitent thief was immediate, Christ said, "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

8. The good thief (v. 41-42).

Who was the crime that nature herself threw around the Son of God a shroud to hide him from the godless crowd. Darkness was upon earth and in mourning. When the price of sin had been paid, he cried with a loud voice, showing that he still had vitality, that his death was not through exhaustion but by his will.

HEALTHY COMPLEXIONS

Healthy complexion comes from healthy systems. Free the body of poisons with Feen-a-mint. Effective in smaller doses. All druggists sell this safe, scientific laxative.

Feen-a-mint FOR CONSTIPATION

Census in Canada

In the Canadian census, to be taken this year, every domesticated living creature, down to the house cat and bees, has to be counted. Town dwellers will have to answer only forty questions, against the 900 put to farmers.

WINTER'S CHILL TONIC

For over 50 years it has been the household remedy for all forms of Malaria, Chills, and Fever.

It is a Reliable, General Invigorating Tonic.

Going Too Far

Henpeck—Just for the joke of the thing I took my wife up in my airplane yesterday.

Meechum—Yes; but what was the joke?

Henpeck—Why, she couldn't hear herself talk.

SWELLING REDUCED

And Short Breathing relieved when caused by unnatural collection of water in abdomen, back and legs, and when pressure is relieved, less a doctor's fee. FREE. COLLUM MEDICINE COMPANY, Dept. D, Atlanta, Ga.

Signs of Dinner

"I don't see any signs of dinner" "Is that so? And here I stand with a can opener in one hand and the grocer's boy is fixing the back-door bell."—Chicago Daily News.

DO YOU FEEL DIZZY, UPSET?

If your tongue coated, your appetite off, your head dizzy and your stomach upset? Just take Dr. Joseph's Lax-a-na (double strength) tonight and jump out of bed tomorrow feeling fine and fit. Lax-a-na is great. It acts as a Laxative, Tonic and Appetizer, and brings overnight results because of its double strength. All drug stores sell Joseph's Lax-a-na on a money-back guarantee.

LAX-ANA DOUBLE STRENGTH

According to Hoyle

"Courtship's a game of cards." "How's that?" "A girl has a heart. A man takes it with a diamond, and then her hand is his."

Might Do

Jones (in book store)—Have you any of Shakespeare's works? Clerk—No, sir; but we have all of his plays.

BUILD UP TO PREVENT PAINS

How a Missouri woman was healed by taking Cardui is described below by Mrs. Joe Schomer, of Cape Girardeau: "I suffered with irregularity. For weeks at a time I was so weak I could not work. I had aches in my back and head and legs—I ached all over—I suffered with dizziness and faint. I had read about Cardui, so I got some and took it. I improved a great deal. After I had taken four bottles I felt like a different person."—Mrs. Joe Schomer.

W. N. U., DALLAS, MO. 23-1931.

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

Current Wit and Humor

WE WOULD, TOO

Executive (interviewing applicant for important position)—Are you absolutely honest, straightforward and trustworthy?

Applicant—Yes, indeed, I am, sir. Eye-mine—if you should enter the office tomorrow morning and find a wallet containing $100,000, what would you do?

Applicant—What would I do? I'd do nothing and live on my income.

Sore Love, Sour Honey

Love and Honey came into the life of Harry Somerfield last, apparently he objected to their manner of artificial. Elmer Love and Kaycraft Honey were in Love's car when it collided with Somerfield's. All three men sighed.

"Love," testified Somerfield, "hit me in the jaw, and Honey kicked me."—Washington Star.

COLLEGE CONNECTION

"You say you were once connected with a college. Were you a tutor?"

"Yes. I tutored a horn once for de football rosters."

The One Exception

"Complained your wife, dearth."

"The only thing my hub takes out Evenings is his false teeth."

Unbelief

"What are you going to tell your wife kept you away from home so late?"

"The truth. I was working hard on a business deal."

"Will she believe you?"

"Certainly not. She'd rather believe what she reads about husbands in the comic papers."

The Thinking Woman

"George, if you buy a motor car, I'll be able to save such a lot of money this summer."

"How do you make that out?"

"Well, you see, if we go to one seaside resort, as formerly, I'll need new dresses; but if you buy the car we can go to seven resorts, and I'll need only one dress."

MUSICAL CLARA

"Clara seems to be very fond of music."

"Yes, indeed. You'll always find her at the piano when her mother is washing the dishes."

Voice of Experience

"A little jack can lift a car, but, oh dear me," said Harp, "it takes an awful lot of jack To keep the darn thing up."

Still There

Wife (first time at a ball game)—What was all that cheering for? Husband—Some one just stole a base.

Wife—Where are the buses? Husband—Those three white bags on the ground. Wife—But they are still there.

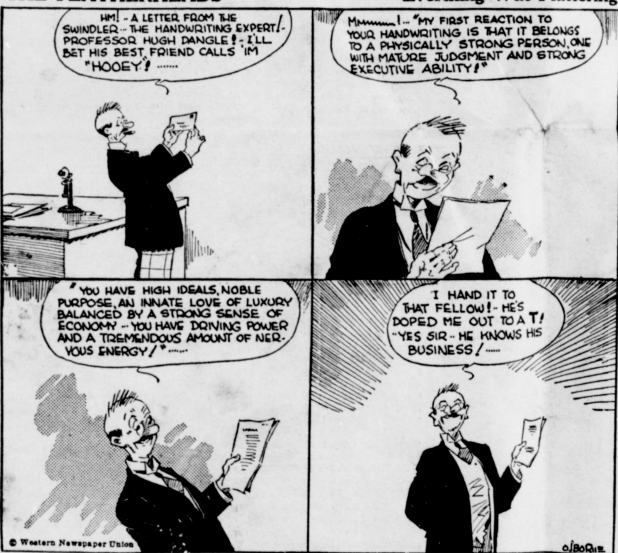

Reason

"Dolly's father rather likes the modern sheiks."

"Master of business; he owns a cigarette factory."

THE FEATHERHEADS

Everthing Was Flattering

Laying and Relaying
Mrs. Benham—Both hens have laid again.
Benham—Yes, we are getting our eggs in relays.

ONE BIG ESSENTIAL
Newed—"Say, old man, you don't know what you miss by not being married." Bachelor—"I guess not. Do you count your money every night and morning?"

Heard in an Office
First Man—My wife certainly serves some weird meals.
Second Man—Well, I should think you'd like 'em uncanny.
A true insomniae will be kept awake by crickets in the country as certainly as he will by barking dogs in town.

The Important Question
Sultor—I would like to marry your daughter, sir.
Modern Father—Can you support her better than her other three husbands did?

Alphabet Soup
Lawyer—Don't you think you are straining a point in your explanation?
Witness—Maybe I am, but you often have to strain things to make them clear.—Boston Transcript.

Why, Look Who's Here!
Overheard at the station hotel:
"Beastly treacherous things these fogs—lost my way coming off the train last night and the next thing I knew I was at home."

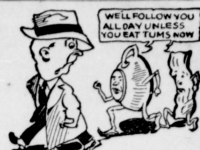

Freshmen
"Say, you kissed my girl at that party."
"How could I know, I didn't have a flashlight."

Firm Foundations
Son—What is the best way to get out?
Father—Plant your feet firmly and let the world revolve.

A Punctured Proverb
Smith (munching)—You know what is said about eating apples?
Smart—Nothing to it! The one Eve ate didn't keep doctors away, it brought them into existence.

WORKING A CLAIM
Clara—"That foreigner who is visiting the Parvenues claims to be a nobleman." Jennie—"And the Parvenues are working the claim for all they are worth."

Gist of His Remarks
Magistrate—Give me the gist of his remarks.
Witness—They were gist terrible, sir.
Learn to think continentally.

"BACON AND COFFEE ALWAYS UPSET MY STOMACH"

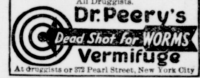

BACON and coffee—what a delightful combination—but they often cause heartburn, indigestion, gas—that "uneasy feeling." Most everyone has some favorite foods that disagree. Here's a pleasant new way for quick relief. Just eat Tums, the delicious new Antacid mints that neutralize acid conditions—sweeten breath—and heartburn, sour stomach, gas, acid indigestion. Munch a few Tums after meals and stop trouble before it starts. Get a handy roll today. At all drugstores. Only 10c.

TUMS ARE ANTACID—Not a Laxative For a Laxative, use the LAXATIVE TUMS (Nature's Remedy). Only 5c.

AGENTS: Good House-Home Seller and Reader Service Dept., Write Today! M. G. Green, 618 N. Milwaukee, Chicago, Ill.

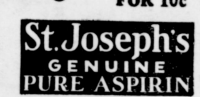

Worms expelled promptly from the human system in 10 to 15 days. Write Today! "Dose Not." One single dose does the trick. 50c. Dr. Peery's Vermifuge.

AL Druggists or 272 Pearl Street, New York City

"Eternal Match" Invented Capable of being lit 600 times before becoming useless, a match has been invented by Dr. Ferdinand Ringer of Vienna, Austria, and promises to become one of the greatest commercial inventions of the present century. Doctor Ringer has named it the "Eternal Match."

THE LARGEST SELLING PURE ASPIRIN IN THE WORLD FOR 10c

12 TABLETS 10c
36 TABLETS 25c 100 TABLETS 60c

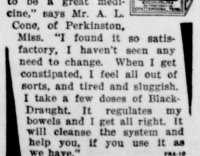

Sap Season
"The sap season is short."
"Is that maple sugar or financial news?"

"I COMPLAINED
—all the time. I knew it was hard on my family but I couldn't help it. I was tired and run-down and I suffered from pain continually. I had just about given up hope when I tried G.F.P. This splendid tonic helped me right from the start and now my pains are gone and I am strong and healthy again."

St. Joseph's G.F.P. The Woman's Tonic

He Remembered Her
Mother—Say hello to the lady, Junior; don't you remember meeting her with daddy, last week?
Junior—Hello, baby.—Life.

BLACK-DRAUGHT
IN USE NEARLY 100 YEARS

Published Thursday
Dated Friday

at Carbon Hotel, Eastland Co., Texas
Entered as second-class matter at Carbon post office at Carbon
Texas, under the act of Congress
March 3, 1919.

W. M. Dunn, Publisher

AGENTS WANTED
Ramsey's AustinNurse, Inc.
Austin, Texas

Permanent Waving, Round
Curl $4.00, Marcel $5.00
Mrs. A. L. Butler.

Swim - Dance LAKE CISCO

Swim every Day
Dance Every Wed. & Sat.

Special Bargains In Used Cars

We carry a complete line of good, dependable, used cars, priced at prices you can afford to pay. See our line before you buy.

1930 Model Chevrolet Coupe.
Paint in extra good condition,
motor has been overhauled. Car in extra good shape and priced right.

Butler & Harvey Chevrolet Co.
Eastland, Texas.

We have quite an assortment of good, cheap, used cars. Priced for quick sale. If interested in a good used car, well worth the money, see what we have before you buy.

Butler & Harvey Chevrolet Co.
Eastland, Texas.

Good Fordson Tractor and
Grain Binder, in A1 shape.
J. B. Johnson.

Announcement

Wish to advise my friends and customers in Carbon and trade territory I am now connected with Butler & Harvey Chevrolet Company, of Eastland, I will be glad to figure with you on your requirements in either used or new cars. Can give you liberal trade in allowance on your car and give convenient GMAC terms if desired.

J. W. (John) Hamrick
Salesman, Butler & Harvey Chev rolet Co.

Adv

Stops Headache in Five Minutes

A Wonderful Formula Ends Aches and Pains Almost Like Magic.
Something Better and More
Thousands of men and women are now stopping throbbing, sick, dizzy, splitting headaches, as well as the excruciating pains of rheu matism, neuritis, toothache, etc., with a marvelous new formula that is said to be far superior to any thing heretofore used.
It contains no aspirin, acetanilid, etc., and is absolutely safe and harmless. This remarkable for mula, called A-VOL, is being pre scribed by thousands of doctors, dentists and welfare nurses be cause of the quick, efficient way it relieves all types of aches and pains without depressing the heart, or causing any other harmful ef fects. A-VOL quickly stops the most dolorous pain, leaving the patient re freshed and feeling fine. Especially effective in women's period pains.
To quickly prove to yourself that this is truly a remarkable formula, just stop into your nearest drug store and get a package of A-VOL for a few cents. Take a couple of tablets right there. If your pain is not gone in five minutes, the store will return your money.

Adv

Saturday Specials

Dress Shirts

Size 14 to 17

Fast Colors

Variety of Patterns

69c

Just In

New Adelon Hose

Size 8 1/2 to 10

All the Wanted Colors
Service and Chiffon weight

Regular $1.50 seller

$1.00

UNITED DRY GOODS STORES
Eastland, Texas.

Eastland County Lumber Company.

Phone 334, West Main Street, Eastland, Texas

Good Building Material.

All kinds of Bird Roofing, Cement, Lime etc.

DO YOU WANT A BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN?

We need honest men and women everywhere. We will show you how to get into a big paying business of YOUR OWN, from which you can earn $45.00 to $75.00 a month in your spare time, and if you own a car or other conveyance, and can work full time, you can earn $25.00 and up per year, supplying BAKER
QUALITY PRODUCTS and the popu lar KERBA Toilet. Excursions de voted to the homes of the women of
Ask us to explain in BAKER PLAN,
All particulars FREE. Write
BAKER LABORATORIES, Inc.
241-243 North Second St.
MEMPHIS, TENN.

The BIGGEST TIRE BARGAIN you ever saw

New 1931
Lifetime Guaranteed

GOODYEAR

SUPERTWIST CORD

Pathfinder

Superior to many makers' high priced tires.
Value only Goodyear offers. Possible be cause Goodyear builds MILLIONS
MORE tires.

OUR LOW PRICES enable everyone to say: "I will buy only the leading make of tire!—GOODYEAR."

TRADE US YOUR OLD
TIRES for new Goodyear
All Weathers—Double Eagles

LOOK at these prices!

BUY THEM IN PAIRS
AND SAVE EVEN MORE!

Full Over-size—All Firsts

30x3 1/2.....$4.39

4.40-21.....4.98

(29x4.40)

4.50-21.....5.69

(30x4.50)

4.75-19.....6.65

(28x4.75)

5.00-19.....6.98

(29x5.00)

5.25-20.....8.30

(30x5.25)

All Sizes Low Priced!

J. Z. Phillips Garage

THE SMALL TOWN
Some people are attracted by the rush and whirl of the city where people stay out nearly all night and sleep all day, but we prefer the smaller city where life is lived a day at a time, where people are not so rushed but what they have time to wonder what it is all about, where they are going and why.

DR. GEORGE BLACKWELL

Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist

At

BLACKWELL SANITARIUM
Gorman, Texas.

Finger Waving

Every Saturday at Carbon Hot el by Opal Lucas, experienced and—25c.

The State of Texas,
To the Sheriff or any Constable
of Eastland County Greeting:

You are hereby command ed to summon Mrs. Dell Williams, a feme sole, Mrs. Thelma Wil liams Smith, and her husband
Dee Smith, who are non-residents of the State of Texas, to appear at the next regular term of the Justice of the Peace Court, Pre cinct No. 1, Eastland county, Texas, to be held in my office in the Court House of Eastland County, Texas, at Eastland, Tex as, on the fifth Monday in June,
1931, same being the 29 day of June, 1931 then and there to an swer a petition filed in said court on the 27th day of February,
1931, file number of which is 9108, in which suit J. A. Cito is plaintiff and Mrs. Dell Williams
Mrs. Thelma Williams Smith, join ed by her husband, Dee Smith, are defendants; the cause of ac tion alleged being that defend ants and each of them are in debted to the plaintiff on an op en verified, itemized statement of account in the sum of $155.22,
for goods, wares and merchan dise sold and delivered to de fendants by plaintiff at their in stances and request, and acknow ledged in writing to be true and correct.

You are commanded to sum mon such defendants, and to serve this citation, by making publication of this citation on each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper pub lished in your county; but if there be no newspaper published in said county, then in any news paper published in the nearest county where a newspaper is published.

HEREIN FAIL NOT. But have you before said Court, on first day of the next term hereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you executed the same

Given under my hand this May 25th, 1931.

Jim Steele
Justice of the Peace, Precinct
No. 1, Eastland County, Texas.
Issued this the 25 day of May
A. D. 1931.

Jim Steele
Justice of the Peace, Precinct
No. 1, Eastland County, Texas. #

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Eastland County—Greeting: You Are Hereby Commanded to summon Lacey McCarey, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, and 88th Judicial District to appear at the next regular term of the 88th District Court of Eastland County, Texas, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Eastland, on the first Monday in July, A. D. 1931, the same being the 6th day of July, A. D. 1931, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 3rd day of June A. D. 1931 in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court, No 14,894 wherein, Helin McCarey, is Plaintiff and Lacey McCarey is Defendant and the cause of action being alleged as follows:

Same is a suit for divorce and the plaintiff alleges as grounds for the same three years of abandonment on the part of defendant.

Herein Paul Not, But have you before said, Court, on said first day of the next term thereof, this Writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness My Hand And Official Seal At my office in Eastland, Texas, this 3rd day of June, A. D. 1931.

W. H. McDonald
Clerk District Court, Eastland County Texas.
By Dorothy Watson Deputy

*Little ad-ventures
by don herold*

THIS DOOR
IS THE ONLY
MOVING PART

I'M not Einstein, but I'd say that where there is no movement there is no wear.

The only moving part in the Electrolux is the front door. Everywhere the employees wore rubber gloves, which added to the general sanitary effect.

All of which is very satisfactory, but the woman in the home wants also to know the best ways to serve this fruit which has been found by the government investigators to be so carefully and wholesomely handled. So here are some of the latest recipes which have been evolved for its use:

ELECTROLUX
THE Gall REFRIGERATOR
At my gas flame takes the place of all moving parts

Empire Southern Gas Co.

CENOL FLY DESTROYER

SPRAY THE ROOM
FLIES FALL DEAD

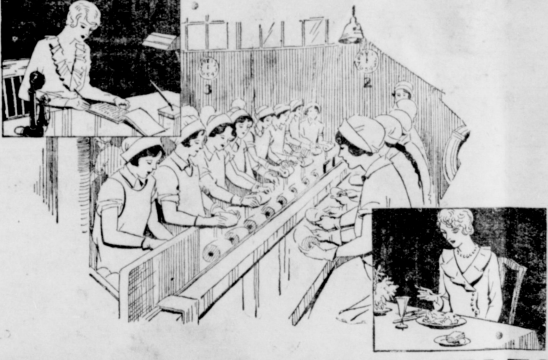

Flies don't live in a room sprayed with CENOL FLY DESTROYER. Kills them outside. Just spray room thoroughly. Easy to use. Retardation only.

Higgin bathom Bartlett Co.
Eastland
Dealers in Lumber, Wire, Paints, Oils, Wall Paper and Builders Material.
Let Us Estimate Your Next Bill.
Opposite Post Office.

Vacation Rates
The Crazy Water Hotel at Mineral Wells, Texas, Announces

Very low rates for those who desire a real health vacation. Excellent room with outside exposure, ceiling fans, circulating ice water and private bath as low as $1.50 per day. Other good rooms as low as $1.00. You can be a guest of this magnificent Hotel, built at a cost of approximately a million dollars, as cheap as you can stay at home. Come to the Crazy Water Hotel, Mineral Wells, Texas. "Where America Drinks Its Way To Health."

For further information write or wire
Crazy Water Hotel Company.
Mineral Wells, Texas.

WOMEN AND PINEAPPLES

WHEN women make a study of women in industry, the results are sometimes interesting to the women in the home, as well as to women with jobs. This is especially so when the industry investigated is work on food in commercial kitchens. Then questions leap to the lips. "Are the kitchens clean?" "Is the food wholesome and immaculately handled?" "Is the working environment all that it should be?"

Immaculately Clean

The Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor recently turned its attention to the answers to these and many other questions in regard to Hawaii's second largest industry, the canning of pineapples. The results of this investigation, published in pamphlet form, showed that not one of the cannery buildings visited was old. Those most recently built were high, light and airy, and as spotless as your own kitchen. All were adequately drained.

"Conspicuous to anyone visiting the canneries even casually," says a review of this report by Joan Collier Brown in "Practical Home Economics," "would be the uniform worn by the girls at work, generally furnished and laundered by the firm. It was reported that upon the deposit of a soiled apron the miron in charge gave out a clean one, the exchange being made at any hour of the day and as often as necessary. Everywhere the employees wore rubber gloves, which added to the general sanitary effect."

All of which is very satisfactory, but the woman in the home wants also to know the best ways to serve this fruit which has been found by the government investigators to be so carefully and wholesomely handled. So here are some of the latest recipes which have been evolved for its use:

Orange Flower Salad: Drain one pineapple can of pineapple tidbits, add one-half cup diced celery and marinate in French dressing for an hour. Add one-fourth cup chopped walnuts and pile in mounds in the center of lettuce leaves. Remove sections from two oranges, leaving on none of the white fibre, and arrange star fashion over the mound of fruit. On top radiate a date cut in strips. Serve with cream mayonnaise. This serves four persons.

Pineapple Pistachio Rice: Beat one cup heavy cream and fold into two cups of cold boiled rice. Add two cups crushed pineapple, one-fourth cup confectioner's sugar, one-half cup chopped pistachio nuts, and chili. Serve in glass dessert dishes with a teaspoon of orange marmalade on top for garnish. This serves eight persons.

Chocolate Pineapple Slices: Melt

four squares of chocolate in a double boiler, add one-third cup peanut butter and stir until well-blended. Add three-fourths cup confectioner's sugar and three-fourths cup evaporated milk, and cook until thick. Drain eight slices of pineapple and dip each one in the chocolate until well coated. Place one slice on each small service plate and sprinkle with salted peanuts. Place a marshmallow in the center of each.

Still More Treats

Pineapple Charlotte: Remove crusts from eight slices of bread and spread with butter. Heat the contents of a No. 2 can of crushed pineapple and one-fourth cup of sugar to boiling. Put layers of the buttered bread and the hot pineapple in a rather deep dish and press down well. Let stand several hours in the refrigerator, then turn out in mold form and serve cut in slices. Garnish with whipped cream and maraschino cherries. This serves eight persons.

Baked Pineapple and Rhubarb: Cut six cups rhubarb, unpeeled, in small pieces. Put in a baking dish with one cup sugar, ten cloves, one-eighth teaspoon cinnamon and one cup pineapple syrup. Cover and bake until tender in an oven 375 degrees. Serve cold with some simple cake, such as sponge cake. This serves eight persons.

Katy MKT NOW
REDUCED LOW
ROUND TRIP FARES
ON SALE DAILY

With limit to return in 30 days
From any station on the M-K-T
Lines in Texas.
To all points in Texas and Louisiana
Only one and one third fares for the Round Trip.
Stopovers! You can stopover at any point enroute either on going or returning trip.

Coast Trains and in sleeping cars on payment of Pullman fare.
Ride in comfort; save time and expense.
Comfortable coaches and chair cars
Peaceful Pullmans
Excellent Dining Car Service

Apply this new innovation in low travel fares and be convinced.

Apply to any Katy Ticket Agent, or Write
Passenger Traffic Manager,
Dallas, Texas.

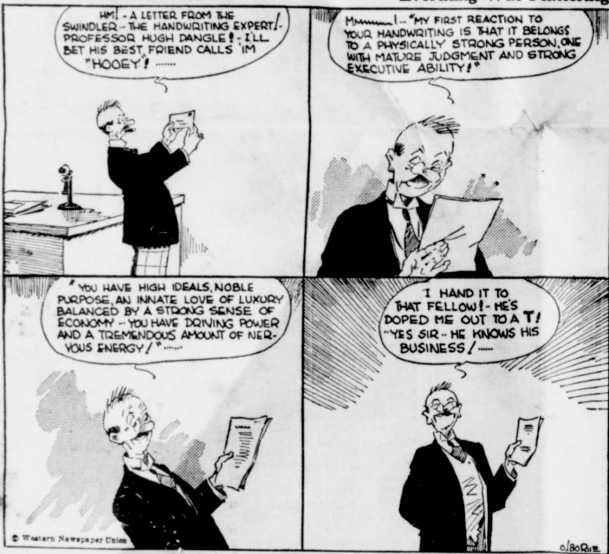

Wanted—ten young men and five young women to work in College office for a part-attention. Splendid opportunity to get ready for a good business position at a big salary. Inquire prospectus now. Write today. Draughon's College, Abilene, Texas. A17

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

THE FEATHERHEADS

Everthing Was Flattering

Laying and Relaying
Mrs. Deham—Both hens have laid again.
Deham—Yes, we are getting our eggs in relays.

ONE BIG ESSENTIAL
Newswed—"Say, old man, you don't know what you miss by not being married." Bachelor—"I guess not. Do you count your money every night and morning?"

Held in an Office
First Man—My wife certainly serves some weird meals.
Second Man—Well, I should think you'd like 'em uncanny.

A true insomniac will be kept awake by crickets in the country as certainly as he will by barking dogs in town.

The Important Question
Sultor—I would like to marry your daughter, sir.
Modern Father—Can you support her better than her other three husbands did?

Alphabet Soup
Lawyer—Don't you think you are straining a point in your explanation?
Witness—Maybe I am, but you often have to strain things to make them clear.—Boston Transcript.

Why, Look Who's Here!
Overheard at the station hotel:
"Heavily treacherous things these fogs—lost my way coming off the train last night and the next thing I knew I was at home."

Freshmen
"Say, you kissed my girl at that party."
"How could I know, I didn't have a flashlight."

Firm Foundations
Son—What is the best way to get on?
Father—Plant your feet firmly and let the world revolve.

A Punctured Preverb
Smith (nunching)—You know what is said about eating apples?
Smart—Nothing to it! The one Eve ate didn't keep doctors away, it brought them into existence.

WORKING A CLAIM
"Clara—That foreigner who is visiting the Parzenes claims to be a nobleman." Jennie—"And the Parzenes are working the claim for all they are worth."

Gist of His Remarks
Magistrate—Give me the gist of his remarks.
Witness—They were gist terrible, sir.

Learn to think continually.

Current Wit and Humor

WE WOULD, TOO

Executive (Interviewing applicant for important position)—Are you absolutely honest, straightforward and trustworthy?

Applicant—Yes, indeed, I am, sir.
Executive—If you should enter the office tomorrow morning and find a wallet containing $100,000, what would you do?

Applicant—What would I do? I'd do nothing and live on tax income.

Sore Love, Sour Honey

Love and Honey came into the life of Harry Somerfield 1st, apparently he objected to their manner of arrival. Elmer Love and Hayercraft Honey were in Love's car when it collided with Somerfield's. All three men aligned.

"Love," testified Somerfield, "hit me in the jaw and Honey kicked me"—Washington Star.

COLLEGE CONNECTION

"You say you were once connected with a college. Were you a tutor?"
"Yes, I tutored a horn once for de football rovers!"

The One Exception

"We age no friends, we go nowhere," complained poor Mrs. Smith.
"The only thing my hub takes out Eventide is his false teeth."

Unbelief

"What are you going to tell your wife kept you away from home so late?"

"The truth. I was working hard on a business deal."

"Will she believe you?"

"Certainly not. She'd rather believe what she reads about husbands in the comic papers."

The Thinking Woman

"George, if you buy a motor car, I'll be able to save such a lot of money this summer."

"How do you make that out?"

"Well, you see, if we go to one seaside res. rt. as formerly, I'll need seven dresses; but if you buy the car we can go to seven resorts, and I'll need only one dress."

MUSICAL CLARA

"Clara seems to be very fond of music."

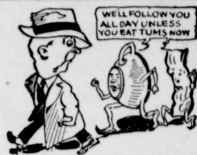

"Yes, indeed. You'll always find her at the piano when her mother is washing the dishes."

Voice of Experience
"A little Jack can lift a car, but, oh dear me," said Happ.
"It takes an awful lot of Jack to keep the darn thing up."

Still There
Wife (first time at a ball game)—What was all that cheering for?
Husband—Some one just stole a base.

Wife—Where are the buses?
Husband—Those three white bugs on the ground.
Wife—But they are still there.

Reason
"Dolly's father rather likes the modern sheiks."
"Mother of business; he owns a skeleton factory."

"BACON AND COFFEE

ALWAYS

UPSET MY STOMACH"

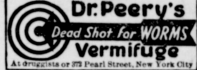

BACON and coffee—what a delightful combination—but they often cause heartburn, indigestion, gas—that "uneasy feeling." Most everyone has some favorite foods that disagree. Here's a pleasant new way for quick relief. Just eat Tums, the delicious new Antacid mints that neutralize acid conditions—sweeten breath—and heartburn, sour stomach, gas, acid indigestion. Munch a few Tums after meals and stop trouble before it starts. Get a handy roll today. At all drug stores. Only 10c.

TUMS ARE ANTACID—Not a Laxative
For a Laxative, use the safe, doctor-recommended, Non-Habitual Laxative
DR. (Nature's Remedy), Only Size NR

ANTACID. Good house-to-house seller and distributor. 1700 N. Milwaukee, Chicago, Ill.

Worms expelled promptly from the human system with the safe, doctor-recommended, "Dead Shot." One single dose does the trick. 60c.

At all drug stores or 275 Pearl Street, New York City

"Eternal Match" Invented
Capable of being lit 600 times before becoming useless, a match has been invented by Dr. Ferdinand Ringer of Vienna, Austria, and promises to become one of the greatest commercial inventions of the present century. Doctor Ringer has named it the "Eternal Match."

Now the LARGEST SELLING PURE ASPIRIN IN THE WORLD FOR 10c

St. Joseph's GENUINE PURE ASPIRIN

12 TABLETS 10c
36 TABLETS 25c 100 TABLETS 60c

Sap Season
"The sap season is short."
"Is that maple sugar or financial news?"

"I COMPLAINED

—all the time. I knew it was hard on my family but I couldn't help it. I was tired and run-down and I suffered from pain continually. I had just about given up hope when I tried G.F.P. This splendid tonic helped me right from the start and now my pains are gone and I am strong and healthy again."

St. Joseph's G.F.P. The Woman's Tonic

He Remembered Her
Mother—Say hello to the lady, Junior; don't you remember meeting her with daddy, last week?
Junior—Hello, baby—Life.

CLEANSING LAXATIVE

"For fully 20 years I have, by using it, known Black-Draught to be a great mean to a great mean in cine," says Mr. A. L. Cone, of Perkinston, Miss. "It does it so satisfactory, I haven't seen any need to change. When I get constipated, I feel all out of sorts, and tired and sluggish. I take a few doses of Black-Draught. It regulates my bowels and I get all right. It will cleanse the system and help you, if you use it as we have."

BLACK-DRAUGHT IN USE NEARLY 100 YEARS

"I'll Call Her Old Glory!"

SURGEON GENERAL

Maj. Gen. Robert U. Patterson, medical corps, whose recommendation for appointment as surgeon general of the army has been approved by President Hoover. The appointment is for a term of four years. General Patterson saw overseas service in 1917-18, and since August, 1939, has been surgeon of the Hawaiian department.

TWENTY GRAND WINS

Twenty Grand, the Greentree Stable horse which won the Kentucky derby, with Jockey C. Kurlingsger. Time, 2:01 4/5 was a new record for the derby.

WHITE HOUSE AIDE

George Aubrey Hastings, press promoter for welfare organizations in New York, who replaces French Strother, reputed "ghost writer" and research man for the President.

HONDURAS REBEL

Gen. Gregorio Ferrera, well known as an Indian leader, is the chief of the rebel forces that are trying to overthrow the government of President Cullender in Honduras.

POULTRY

MINERAL SUPPLY MAY CAUSE ILLS

Small Amount Only Needed With Meat Scraps.

Too much mineral in the chick ration may cause as much trouble as too little, declares P. B. Zumbo, extension specialist in poultry husbandry for the Ohio State university.

An oversupply of mineral may cause abnormal bone development in young chicks, and be responsible for chicks "pecking down on their legs" just as too little mineral may be responsible for abnormal development of bone with the same result.

If plenty of meat scrap and skim milk is included in the ration for chicks from hatching time to ten weeks of age, there is need for but little mineral materials in the ration, Zumbo says. Meat scraps contain 30 to 25 per cent of lime and calcium, the two minerals that make up 75 per cent of the ash in chickens, and one-fourth of the ash in its skeleton is phosphorus and calcium.

More minerals are required in the ration when some form of vegetable protein is substituted for meat scraps, or when a high-protein meat scrap is used, he says.

Zumbo recommends a ration containing 45 pounds of ground yellow corn, 25 pounds of middlings, 5 pounds of bran, 10 pounds of oats, and, to supply the minerals, 12 pounds of meat scrap, 5 pounds of dried milk, and 1 pound of salt.

Some poultrymen are mistaking the amount of cod liver oil fed in the ration if plenty of minerals are fed. The cod liver oil is necessary to supply the vitamins which enable the chicks to assimilate the minerals into the bones, Zumbo explains.

Turkeys and Chickens

Should Be Separated

Turkeys and chickens cannot get along together. The intestinal parasites which hold their eggs in their droppings do not seem to affect chickens and therefore, when the two come together, the hens act as host to the parasite-carrying the blackhead virus. Turkeys do not seem to be affected by this disease among the turkeys.

Remove all the turkeys from the poultry range, give them a light laxative, and change the water supply from an every two or three times during the winter and often during the summer. If you are limited out space for range, you can keep turkeys in a screen wire floor, using wire netting over the top of their run on the south side of the poultry house.

Culling Roosters Good

Practice for Farmers

Permitting the roosters to run with the laying flock during the summer season costs the farmer an undue amount of his country a good many millions of dollars every year. The feed which the roosters eat will go a long way toward covering the cost of the production and increasing the egg production. The important source of loss, however, is the fact that fertile eggs spoil so rapidly during summer months. Except in the case of valuable breeding animals, the cockerels should be sent to market at once, and even those which are kept should be banded.

Market Infertile Eggs

for Superior Quality

Poultrymen who cater to markets demanding prime quality eggs may experience difficulty in meeting such a demand during hot weather unless their eggs are infertile. Such is the belief of Prof. Willard C. Thompson, poultry husbandman for the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, who explains that some development of fertile eggs begins at a temperature of 85 degrees Fahrenheit. Once the hatching season is passed, he adds, there is no reason to continue producing fertile eggs, as the presence of a male bird is never essential to egg production.

New Chick Disease

A respiratory disease in poultry in Minnesota and North Dakota had been attracting considerable attention recently. Chicks become droopy and die down apparently. Every few seconds the chicks raise their heads and gasp for air. The mortality usually runs about 50 per cent in infected birds. No cures are known to resist this disease in general requires only of pure fresh air. Uniformly arm temperatures and clean quarters are the recommendations offered.

CAPT. DRIVER'S MONUMENT IN OLD CITY CEMETERY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

THE American flag, whose birth-day we celebrate on June 14, is known by a number of figurative names. It is probable that it was called "The Red, White and Blue" or "The Stars and Stripes" very soon after the first flag was made in accordance with the resolution passed by the Continental congress on June 14, 1777. "That the flag of the United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

The name "The Star-Spangled Banner" dates from 1814 when Francis Scott Key, watching the British bombardment of Fort M'Henry, was inspired to write the poem which was later set to music and became the official national anthem. But the name "Old Glory" is a more recent one. It was just a hundred years ago that a Yankee skipper had the inspiration which resulted in that affectionate name being bestowed upon our national colors. Here is the story of how "Old Glory" got that name:

From the beginning of New England maritime history the Driver family of Salem, Mass., had been leaders in the shipping trade, not only as ship-builders but as owners, captains and sailors of their own vessels. In the year 1831 Capt. William Driver was carrying on the family tradition. As a boy of twelve he had shipped on a sailing vessel for Europe and before he was twenty he was master of the brig, Charles Baggott, one of that innumerable fleet which sailed the Seven Seas and carried the name of Salem to every corner of the earth.

In September of that year Captain Driver was preparing to sail for a trip around the world. Just before leaving a party of his friends gathered to present him with a farewell gift, an American flag, because he was noted for his love for the national colors and what they betokened. He, overcome with emotion, was silent for a moment. Then he looked aloft and saw the flag which he loved so well floating in the breeze he exclaimed: "I'll call her Old Glory, boys; old Glory." And thus was the American flag christened with a new name for he was the first to use that name and by no other did he ever refer to it.

In 1837 Captain Driver retired from the sea and went to Nashville, Tenn., to make his home, but when he sold his ship his beloved "Old Glory," went to Tennessee with him. On patriotic occasions and on his own birthday—St. Patrick's day, for he was born

March 17, 1806—it was invariably taken out and flung to the breeze for all to see and to reverence. And Captain Driver invariably saluted it with these words, "My country, my flag—Old Glory!"

As the dispute between the North and South became more intense and the Civil war drew nearer and nearer, Captain Driver became increasingly unpopular with his neighbors in Nashville because of his outspoken devotion to his country and his flag. During the Presidential campaign "Old Glory" was displayed on a rope stretched from his home to a tree across the street but the bitterness of that campaign brought to Captain Driver's ears unmistakable hints that his flag might be stolen or destroyed, so he bought another flag for display.

After the secession of Tennessee from the Union, the captain began to fear for safety of his flag at the hands of the Confederates. So he took it by night to the house of a Union sympathizer named Bailey and asked Mrs. Bailey and her daughters, Mary and Patience, to hide it for him so that it could not be found and destroyed if the Confederates searched his house. At the time Mary and Patience Bailey were making a comfort, padding it heavily with cotton, and thus suggested an ideal hiding place. So Captain Driver folded "Old Glory," placed it between the layers of cotton in the comfort where the Bailey girls tucked it in and sewed up the outside covering. Again at night Captain Driver took the comfort to his home and placed it in a large iron wash kettle in the attic of his home.

There "Old Glory" stayed until Union troops occupied Nashville in February, 1862. Immediately thereafter Captain Driver and a group of soldiers ripped open the comfort, took out the flag and hoisted it over the state capitol to the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner," played by a regimental band. It remained there for hours, but so fearful was Captain Driver that his flag might even then be injured by a hostile hand that he stood guard over it day and night. In the morning "Old Glory" was taken down and replaced with another American flag. By this time it was very old, much worn and the captain feared that a strong wind would whip it to pieces.

After this "Old Glory" was always kept in the captain's house and late in his life he gave it to his daughter, Mrs. M. J. Roland of Nevada, where, so far as is known, it still is. In 1907 the flag had become so worn that Mrs. Roland placed it on a piece of sheeting and stitched it fast to the cloth to preserve it for future generations of the family. Captain Driver died March 2, 1883, and was buried in Old City cemetery in Nashville. Just as it was a Yankee sea captain which gave to our flag its name of "Old Glory," so it was that another Yankee—a soldier, instead of a sailor, however—who took another "Old Glory" on one of the most romantic expeditions in our history. Bates was his name and he had served as color sergeant in the Twenty-fourth Massachusetts regiment in the Civil war.

After the war there was much talk in this country of the hostility of Great Britain toward the United States. Determined to find out for himself whether this talk was fostered by politicians for their own selfish ends or was a genuine anti-English, Bates resolved to cross the Atlantic, start from the northern border of England and march to London bearing aloft an unfurled American flag just as he had done on the battlefields of 1861-65. His reception by the people of England would show whether or not there was any foundation for this talk of John Bull's hostility toward Uncle Sam.

Clad in his blue uniform, Bates on November 5, 1872, left Edinburgh for Gretna Green, at Sark bridge on the border line between Scotland and England he unfurled "Old Glory" and stood beneath it with uncovered head. Then he started on his march. That evening he tramped into Carlisle where a group of commercial travelers at the Bush hotel gave him a hearty welcome. More than that; they sent word on ahead of his strange pilgrimage and when he came to the mining towns of Penrith and Skipton, great crowds of men were on hand to cheer him.

The warm welcome given Bates there was repeated in every place through which he traveled. The London daily press gave much space to the American soldier on December 2. A dense mass packed the Guildhall yard, where a British sergeant was carrying the English standard. Bates was borne on the shoulders of men into the crowded Guildhall, and then took to the carriage, from which he made a speech before retiring his flag.

Bates' reception in London was the crowning touch to his pilgrimage. There was no longer any doubt of John Bull's friendliness toward Uncle Sam, at least so far as the common people of England were concerned.

She's Controlling a Rolling Mill

No, the young lady is not playing an organ or any other musical instrument. She is operating the controls for a reversing rolling mill in the steel industry. This "player" type control keyboard is designed so that one person can easily control a large number of auxiliary mill drives. The foot pedals cause two large motors to reverse their direction of rotation. From full speed to full speed, in less than two seconds.

Tells Tale of an Ocean Tragedy

Boy Relates How Marooned Comrades Perished on Island.

Paris.—The transport Chambord of the Messageries Maritimes, plying between the islands of the South Seas and Indian ocean, and assigned to carry the Madagascar mail, slipped into Marseilles recently with one of the most tragic stories of the sea, a story of seven marooned fisherfolk, one being a woman, who gave birth to an unmarooned babe.

Four slow and languishing deaths were caused by starvation and scurvy. The three survivors helplessly awaited the next to go when the long-promised relief ship arrived. The infant that perished counted five in the fatalities.

Youth Tells Story.

The story was told by Le Merdy Herdelan, nineteen, a Breton youth from Pont Aven. Three years ago a Parisian firm established a lobster cannery on the tiny island of St. Paul, one of those isolated, lost islands in the middle of the Indian ocean, between Australia and Africa. Stray fishermen were brought from Pont Aven and Comcarneau in Brittany.

At the beginning of 1930 hard times hit the cannery and three months later the company decided to withdraw its workmen, leaving seven volunteers to look after the material and to be taken off by a relief ship. The band included young Herdelan Puloch, a machinist; M. and Mme. Brunon; Quillize and Huleudt, fishermen, and a negro, Francois.

Life on the island was good enough until spring, when the necessary food was lacking. Fire had destroyed or scorched most of the dried goods. The water condensing apparatus was out of order and scurvy attacked the party, which was existing on penquin eggs, rabbit, mussel, shellfish and ratwatter caught in the volcanic craters.

Dies as Comrades Watch.

Puloch, the machinist, died first, from scurvy, and was buried in a shallow grave. Food of rabbit meat and penquin eggs soon caused the end of M. Brunon, whose wife was prostrated. Her baby, born some weeks later, had died quickly. One day the negro, Francois, collapsed on the rocks. Finally Quillize, a fisherman, endeavoring to catch some meaty fish in an improvised boat, was lost in sight of his comrades, his body, torn with scurvy and beriberi, having no resistance.

Three were left—Herdelan, Mme. Brunon and Huleudt. Mme. Brunon seemed only to wait to join her husband and child in the grave. The rabbits jumped about, penquins stood mournfully on the rocks and the three survivors moved about and talked like ghosts, fearing to eat that same awful food which brought scurvy. The youth of young Herdelan probably kept him the strongest, though the tragedy showed in his melancholy face.

"What did you do when the relief ship finally came?" he was asked. "I hardly remember," he said. "Fifty people came ashore. They brought food, supplies and machinery and they are going to rebuild the cannery factory. Huleudt and Mme. Brunon are staying there."

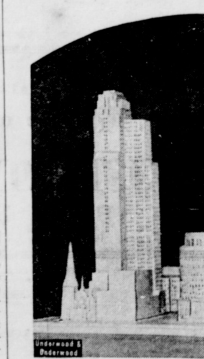

Tide May Assist in Lifting Treasure Ship

Seattle, Wash.—If ambition counts for anything, several of the 100 major ships wrecked in Alaskan waters, and even the Lustania, may be raised to the surface, with resulting recovery of fortunes.

Frank Curtis, a Seattle oil mover, has dreams of great enterprises and huge fortunes nowadays as he prepares to lift the steamship Islander, which sank with heavy loss of life and fortune in Stephens pass, August 15, 1901.

He plans to let nature help him raise the Islander in this manner: He will use a diving bell to place cables

Model of "Radio City" for New York

The New York public got its first conception of the $250,000,000 "Radio City" which plans for the project, which is to occupy three blocks facing Fifth avenue, between Forty-eighth and Fifty-first streets, were shown in the office of the engineers for the enterprise. The 50-story skyscraper group, which will be established through the interest of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is expected to be completed by 1934.

Pet Dog Provided a Grave by Will

Stamford, Conn.—"Buby," a pet dog of the late Mrs. Lizzie T. Smith, has been assured of a permanent grave in the Hartdale, N. Y., canine cemetery. Under the terms of her will, offered for probate here, Mrs. Smith left $2,000 for the maintenance of the dog's final resting place.

Under the ship, 20 to each side, and leading to a buoy, are 285 feet. Winches will crutch on the cables at low tide and Curtis figures that the barge will lift the bulk when the tide rises. This operation will be repeated and the barge will be towed toward shore until the sunken ship is dragged to shallow water.

The Islander was believed to have carried more than $100,000 in gold dust and nuggets.

Flaw in Story Convicts Man as Wife Murderer

Whitehall, N. Y.—Convicted of murdering his pretty young wife while their baby daughter lay sleeping in her mother's arms, Thomas Marion, prominent young farmer, of near High Point, must serve twenty to thirty years in the state penitentiary.

Marion's conviction, which came despite his protestations that a negro bandit shot Mrs. Marion to death during a holdup, was attributed by defense attorneys and court attendants to one flaw in the young planter's story.

Marion claimed he had a firm grip on the bandit's pistol when the shot fell to Mrs. Marion's neck.

This part of Marion's story, the prosecution averred, proved the falsity of his entire account of the tragedy.

The state introduced expert testimony to show that had Marion's hands been gripping the negro's pistol, powder marks would have been visible to those who talked to him a few minutes later.

Wyoming Turtle Death Puzzles U. S. Scientists

Washington.—What hit the turtles is one of the things Smithsonian institution excavators hope to discover in future examination of fossil fields of the Bridger Basin, Wyoming.

In its report recently published, the institution's fossil party describes a vast turtle death scene where one dinosaur foot print was composed almost exclusively of turtle shells side by side. What caused this wholesale and obviously sudden annihilation could not be learned.

Charles W. Gilmore, leader of the vast party, thought it might have been noxious gas, volcanic ash or perhaps a sudden flow of boiling water—all hindling at paleontologists' appeals in the Wyoming had later.

Crocodile skulls and an almost complete skeleton of the long extinct Hydrarchus, which is similar to a rhinoceros, were among the expedition's finds in Wyoming.

Plaque on Old Home Honors Clemenceau

Paris.—Without ceremony and practically without the knowledge of anyone, a group of Clemenceau admirers recently place a bronze plaque on the house at 8 Rue Franklin where the statesman lived and died. The tablet stated: "Her lived Clemenceau from 1896 to his death, the 24th of November 1929."

BRENNON LONGED FOR A HOME

By FANNIE HURST

Twenty-five years is a long time to be heart, bone and fiber part of a business, and then at the end of it feel frustration.

That however was the case with Charles Brennon, superintendent, proprietor, manager, and general manager of the Hotel Savoy, the first rate hotel of a city of considerably over two hundred thousand inhabitants.

Brennon had personally built up his hotel to its important proportions, dividing it successfully into two sections: The Annex, or family wing, and the hotel proper, which invited the patronage of transients and those who were availing themselves of the town's famous curative waters, which were renowned for their medicinal qualities.

And so it happened that the Savoy came to be three distinct groups. Families, Commercial men and women, Rheumatic patients.

One might think that such a variety of patronage would have lent interest and even glamour to Brennon's role of hotel man, and in a way it did, yet the same fact was a factor in the ultimate sense of frustration that time and again, as he grew older and more deeply entrenched in his work, swept and depressed him.

What struck most painfully into the sense of loneliness which was more and more oppressing him in his daily life and the crowd was the fact that of all the hundreds who daily milled in and out of his hostery; lived there; entertained there; dined there; wineed there, he alone seemed the homeless one. He alone among all the coming and going, seemed to be the one who was neither coming nor going. Even the transient in the Annex were usually there on a temporary basis; awaiting the completion of a new home; pending a marriage; taking a year-off between changes of permanent address.

In fact, it was the families in the Annex that contributed most of all to the loneliness of the hotel man. The unit of these little groups was so snug. Even sitting around with them of an evening in the lobby and then seeing them troop off together to their rooms, their suites, their apartments, gave him that cold alien sense he was more than ever beginning to dread. Husbands and wives trailing off together. Brothers and sisters bantering their way up to their rooms. Men and women in the intimacies of family life; of domestic life. Then, in the commercial and transient wing, men and women on their way to homes. Men and women eager for mail from homes, anxious to get back to domestic groups; awaited at some remote point by eager loved ones.

Then Brennon himself, doomed, as he was beginning to put it, to the impersonal detached existence of the hotel. Brennon himself went to his rooms nights there was the paraphernalia of hotel. Bed turned down by impersonal chambermaid hands. Night light turned on by those same employed hands. Carafe of hot water. Bowl of hotel flowers. Cold. Impersonal. And all under the same roof. Families waiting to track themselves into homes. Transients eager to return to homes.

Twenty-five years of hotel life had made something of a self-pitiful outcast of Brennon. He felt sorry over the cold detached quality of his existence. It felt left out. Left over. Chilled.

But it was not until after twenty-five years of it that consciously he began to set about doing something about it. Well, in his worldly goods by now content within his own mind that he had proved himself capable of success, thought of retirement now began to grip him. Retirement and an attempt at a suddenly flourishing hope and ambition for marriage.

Into a life peculiarly barren, where women entered, taking him by storm. In his success and maturity, Brennon wanted marriage and domesticity; wanted something as far removed as possible from the lobby, the grillroom, or the thoroughfare.

These elements might have entered more fully into his reckoning except for the fact that at fifty-three, Brennon fell in love; fell in love to such an extent that had the widow Smead stipulated that they live their lives out atop an omnibus, Brennon would have consented. Fortunately, however, the desire of the widow Smead for a simple, intelligent one that fitted in nicely with his scheme. A hotel dweller herself, for fourteen years past, it was with a certain relief that she fell in with the plans of Brennon to divorce themselves as far as possible from the more totemic unperpetual existence of the public hostelry.

The Savoy was offered for sale, and brought a price far handsomer than he had anticipated.

At fifty-four, feeling younger than he had been in his youth, married to a lovely, well-preserved woman of his passionate choice, he was in the blessed position of giving expression to the desires that had so long rankled him.

The Brennons chose a home on one of the private, restricted, residential streets of the town, married to it to the Queen's and their own tastes, created a garden about it, stocked their garage with cars, hired servants, and set about the delightful business of making their home a home in every sense of the word.

And the new Mrs. Brennon had a knack. Under her firm and automatic touch, the home took on life so to speak. In all his previous frustrated dreams, Brennon admitted to himself, he had never quite succeeded in visualizing the kind of perfection this woman brought to the creation of a home.

Privacy, lovely furnishings, small personal touches of flowers in bowls arranged by her; color schemes worked out according to her knowledge of the colors, married to it by her loving hands because she knew the way he liked his pillows piled, sentimental, if you will, but where his own equipment was concerned, Brennon was unashamedly that.

It was not until after five years of their cloudless marriage that Brennon and his wife took their first trip out into the world which flowed about their home. They went to a city some four hundred miles removed from theirs, there to enjoy the theaters and concerts of the larger metropolis.

It was while they were at the Grand Hotel there and enjoying what they were pleased to call their second honeymoon, that the wife happened to purchase the hostelry at an absurdly low price literally fell into Brennon's lap.

At first the idea was preposterous and both he and his wife turned willing backs upon the entire idea. But strangely, in the case of both of them, the idea simply would not die down. After all, the new Mrs. Brennon had lived fourteen years in the light and glamour of hotel life and now she was something about—something about it.

As for Brennon, he was the old-fashioned type of man that was Brennon time again he turned his face away, only to seek back again, hypnotized. The inevitable happened. For seven years they were together, and his wife occupied a six-room suite in their hotel, the Grand. During that time the institution has more than tripled its patronage and its success redounds to the credit of Brennon.

Meanwhile, he and his wife promise themselves, with optimism, that one of these days they will turn their backs on the shallowness of hotel life, and really create themselves a home.

Oct. 1931, Messageries Maritimes Syndicate (TWN)

No Waiting

"My girl gave me a surprise last night when I called to take her out to a dance," said Simpson.

"What was that?" asked his fellow clerk.

"She was all dressed up in a new evening gown," Simpson enlightened him.

"You say she was all dressed when you got there?" asked the other.

"Yes, I said so," came from the young lover. "Why do you ask in that tone of voice?"

"Well, that wasn't a surprise," retorted the other. "That was a giddy miracle."

Highwayman "Hero"

Dick Turpin, famous English highwayman, was born in Hempton, Essex county, England, 1753.

His father was a butcher and apprentice Richard to a butcher. He stole his master's cattle and, on being discovered, fled and joined a gang of highwaymen. He was associated with Tom King, whom he fatally shot while trying to protect him from arrest. He escaped for some time, but was finally captured and executed.

Leisure

The use of leisure is a difficult thing, and for many a man freedom is given into our hands, fly to the excitement of some form of recreation. We must be riding something—preferably something that is as fast as we are, we are lost without resource. This is why holidays sometimes pall, and leave us at a loss.

Variation in Ocean Water

According to recent researches, there are at least three kinds of water in the ocean, active plant and animal life being maintained in the first layer, decomposed organic matter in the second, while the lowest water is from the polar regions.

"I'll Call Her Old Glory!"

CAPT. DRIVER'S MONUMENT IN OLD CITY CEMETERY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

THE American flag, whose birthday we celebrate on June 14, is known by a number of figurative names. It is probable that it was called "The Red, White and Blue" or "The Stars and Stripes" very soon after the first flag was made in accordance with the resolution passed by the Continental congress on June 14, 1777. "That the flag of the United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

The name "The Star-Spangled Banner" dates from 1814 when Francis Scott Key, watching the British bombardment of Fort Mifflin, was inspired to write the poem which was later set to music and became the official national anthem. But the name "Old Glory" is a more recent one. It was just a hundred years ago that a Yankee skipper had the inspiration, which resulted in that affectionate name being bestowed upon our national colors. Here is the story of how "Old Glory" got that name:

From the beginning of New England maritime history the Driver family of Salem, Mass., had been leaders in the shipping trade, not only as shipbuilders but as owners, captains and sailors of their own vessels. In the year 1831 Capt. William Driver was carrying on the family tradition, as a boy of twelve he had shipped on a sailing vessel for Europe and before he was twenty he was master of the brig, Charles Baggett, one of that invincible fleet which sailed the Seven Seas and carried the name of Salem to every corner of the earth.

In September of that year Captain Driver was preparing to sail for a trip around the world. Just before leaving a party of his friends gathered to present him with a farewell gift, an American flag, because he was noted for his love for the national colors and what they betokened. He, overcome with emotion, was silent for a moment. Then as he looked aloft and saw the flag which he loved so well floating in the breeze he exclaimed: "I'll call her 'Old Glory,' boys; 'Old Glory.'" And thus was the American flag christened with a new name and by no other did he ever refer to it.

In 1837 Captain Driver retired from the sea and went to Nashville, Tenn., to make his home, but when he sold his ship his beloved "Old Glory" went to Tennessee with him. On patriotic occasions and on his own birthday—St. Patrick's day, for he was born

March 17, 1808—it was invariably taken out and flung to the breeze for all to see and reverence. And Captain Driver invariably saluted it with these words: "My country, my flag—Old Glory!"

As the dispute between the North and South became more intense and the Civil war drew nearer and nearer, Captain Driver became increasingly unpopular with his neighbors in Nashville because of his outspoken devotion to his country and his flag. During the Presidential campaign "Old Glory" was displayed on a rope stretched from his home to a tree across the street but the bitterness of that campaign brought to Captain Driver's ears unmistakable hints that his flag might be stolen or destroyed, so he bought another flag for display.

After the accession of Tennessee to the Union, the captain began to fear for safety of his flag at the hands of the Confederates. So he took it by night to the house of a Union sympathizer named Bailey and asked Mrs. Bailey and her daughters, Mary and Patience, to hide it for him so that it could not be found and destroyed if the Confederates searched his house. At the time Mary and Patience Bailey were making a comfort, padding it heavily with cotton, and thus suggested an ideal hiding place. So Captain Driver folded "Old Glory," placed it between the layers of cotton in the comfort where the Bailey girls tucked it in and sewed up the outside covering. Again at night Captain Driver took the comfort to his home and placed it in a large iron wash kettle in the attic of his home.

There "Old Glory" stayed until Union troops occupied Nashville in February, 1862. Immediately thereafter Captain Driver and a group of soldiers ripped open the comfort, took the flag and hoisted it over the state capitol to the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner," played by a regimental band. It remained there for hours, but so fearful was Captain Driver that his flag might even then be injured by a hostile hand that he stood guard over it day and night. In the morning "Old Glory" was taken down and replaced with another American flag. By this time it was very old, much worn and the captain feared that a strong wind would whip it to pieces.

After this "Old Glory" was always kept in the captain's house and late in his life he gave it to his daughter, Mrs. M. J. Roland of Nevada, where, so far as is known, it still is. In 1907 the flag had become so worn that Mrs. Roland placed it on a piece of sheeting and stitiched it fast to the cloth to preserve it for future generations of the family. Captain Driver died March 2, 1861, and was buried in Old City cemetery in Nashville.

Just as it was a Yankee sea captain which gave to our flag its name of "Old Glory," so it was that another Yankee—a soldier, instead of a sailor, however—who took another "Old Glory" on one of the most romantic expeditions in our history. Bates was his name and he had served as color sergeant in the Twenty-fourth Massachusetts regiment in the Civil war.

After the war there was much talk in this country of the hostility of Great Britain toward the United States. Determined to find out for himself whether this talk was fostered by politicians for their own selfish ends or was a genuine antipathy, Bates resolved to cross the Atlantic, start from the northern border of England and march to London bearing aloft an undented American flag just as he had done on the battlefields of 1862. His reception by the people of England would show whether or not there was any foundation for this talk of John Bull's hostility toward Uncle Sam.

Cloth in his blue uniform, Bates on November 5, 1872, left Edinburgh for Gretna Green. At Sark bridge on the border line between Scotland and England he unfurled "Old Glory" and stood beneath it with uncovered head. Then he started on his march. That evening he trapped into Carlisle where a group of commercial travelers at the Bush hotel gave him a hearty welcome. More than that; they sent him on ahead of his strange pilgrimage and when he came to the mining towns of Perth and Shap, great crowds of miners were on hand to cheer him.

The warm welcome given Bates there was repeated in every place through which he traveled.

The London daily press gave much space to the American soldier on December 2. A dense mass packed the Guildhall yard, where a British sergeant was carrying the English standard. Bates was borne on the shoulders of men into the crowded Guildhall, and then back to the carriage, from which he made a speech before referring his flag.

Bates received in London was the crowning touch to his pilgrimage. There was no longer any doubt of John Bull's friendliness toward Uncle Sam, at least so far as the common people of England were concerned.

SURGEON GENERAL

Maj. Gen. Robert U. Patterson, medical corps, whose recommendation for appointment as surgeon general of the army has been approved by President Hoover. The appointment is for a term of four years. General Patterson saw overseas service in 1917-1918, and since August, 1920, has been surgeon of the Hawaiian department.

POULTRY

MINERAL SUPPLY MAY CAUSE ILLS

Small Amount Only Needed With Meat Scraps.

Too much mineral in the chick ration may cause as much trouble as too little, declares P. R. Zimbro, extension specialist in poultry husbandry for the Ohio State university.

An oversupply of mineral may cause abnormal bone development in young chicks, and be responsible for chicks "going down on their legs" just as too little mineral may be responsible for abnormal development of bone with the same result.

If plenty of meat scrap and skim milk is included in the ration for chicks from hatching time to ten weeks of age, there is need for but little mineral materials in the ration, Zimbro says. Meat scraps contain 20 to 25 per cent of lime and calcium, the two minerals that make up 75 per cent of the ash in chickens, and one-tenth of the total solids in skim milk is phosphorus and calcium.

More minerals are required in the ration when some form of vegetable protein is substituted for meat scraps, or when a high-protein meat scrap is used, he says.

Zimbro recommends a ration containing 45 pounds of ground yellow corn, 15 pounds of mid-dlings, 5 pounds of bran, 10 pounds of oats, and, to supply the minerals, 12 pounds of meat scrap, 5 pounds of dried milk, and 1 pound of salt.

Some poultrymen are mistakenly reducing the amount of cod liver oil fed in the ration if plenty of minerals are fed. The cod liver oil is necessary to supply the vitamins which enable the chicks to assimilate the minerals into the bones, Zimbro explains.

TWENTY GRAND WINS

Twenty Grand, the Greentree Stable horse which won the Kentucky derby, with Jockey C. Kurstinger up. Time, 2:01.45 was a new record for the derby.

WHITE HOUSE AIDE

George Aubrey Hastings, press promoter for welfare organizations in New York, who replaces French Strother, reputed "ghost writer" and research man for the President.

HONDURAS REBEL

Gen. Gregorio Ferrera, well known as an Indian leader, is the chief of the rebel forces that are trying to overthrow the government of President Coidres in Honduras.

Turkeys and Chickens Should Be Separated

Turkeys and chickens cannot get along together. The intestinal parasites which bother turkeys do not seem to affect chickens and therefore, when the two come together, the hens act as food to the parasite carrying the black-headed organism—and this soon spreads disease among the turkeys.

Remove all the turkeys from the poultry range, give them a light laxative ration, and change the range, often as every two or three months during the winter and often during the summer. If you are limited on space for range, you can keep turkeys in a screen wire floor, using wire netting over the top of their run on the south side of the poultry house.

Culling Roosters Good Practice for Farmers

Permitting the roosters to run with the laying flock during the summer season costs the poultry industry of this country a good many millions of dollars every year. The feed which roosters eat will do a long way toward breeding the flock in good condition and increasing the egg production. The important source of loss, however, is the fact that the eggs spoil so rapidly during warm weather. Except in the case of valuable breeding animals, the cockerels should be sent to market at once, and even those which are kept should be isolated.

Market Infertile Eggs for Superior Quality

Poultrymen who cater to markets demanding prime quality eggs may experience difficulty in meeting such a demand during hot weather unless their eggs are infertile. Such is the belief of Prof. Willard C. Thompson, poultry husbandman for the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, who explains that germ development of fertile eggs begins at a temperature of 68 degrees Fahrenheit, and as the breeding season is passed, he adds, there is no reason to continue producing fertile eggs, as the presence of a male bird is never essential to egg production.

New Chick Disease

A respiratory disease in poultry in Minnesota and North Dakota has been attracting considerable attention recently. Chicks become droopy and the down appears rough. Every few seconds the chicks raise their heads, but they cannot get their heads up. The mortality is about 50 per cent in infected birds. No cures are known but respiratory disease in general requires easy of pure fresh air. Uniformly even temperature and clean water are the recommendations of the affected.

Eastland Directory

We invite you to visit us while in Eastland.
You will always find a Welcome

Cash Prices Paid for your POULTRY & EGGS Give us a chance to give you A SQUARE DEAL. R. J. Rains Bankhead Stand, N. Lamar-Eastland Texas.	This is Used Car Bargain Week Good Coupes Sedans and Roadsters, at Low Prices. Buy on GMAC Time Payment Plan. Clyd D. Cox SALESMAN Butler & Harvey Chevrolet Co. Eastland, Texas.	Preslar's Ladies Laire Ready-to-wear and Millinery. Visit Our BEAUTY PARLOR in charge of Miss Flora Mae Todd, experienced operator. Eastland, Texas.
Buy At The BANKRUPT STORE formerly Green's For Real Bargains. Eastland, Texas.	BOHNING MOTOR COMPANY Ford Dealers Eastland, Texas. Come to see us for your New and Secondhand Cars.	Eat At The TEXAS HOTEL Dining Room The place where you get a Square Meal. Under New Management. Eastland, Texas.

We Want Your Trade .

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

"A Good Bank To Bank With"

Gorman

The most valuable asset of this old, strong bank is the confidence of its customers. With such confidence we are enabled to render the best measure of banking service.

Having gained a reputation for careful, conservative management, we shall steadfastly endeavor to maintain it.

The Oldest Bank In Eastland County.

Let Us-
Replace Your Roof
with one guaranteed for Ten Years,
also, against Hail and Tornado—
True's 100 per cent
Pure Paints, and good Prices on Wall Paper.

Pickering Lumber
Sales Co.

Phone 300, Eastland, Texas.

FARMERS

Attention

Strictly High Grade
Peerless Binder Twine

Every Ball Guaranteed

100 Pounds $8.95

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER CO.

Binder Twine

100 Pounds $8.95

Grain Cradles $3.75

Pecans 2 lbs. 25c; 5 lbs. 50c

2 qt. Metal Bucket Cream Freezer. 79c

2 Quart Wood Bucket, Steel Frame Cream Freezers $2.25

3 Quart Wood Bucket, Steel Frame Cream Freezers $3.85

4 Quart Wood Bucket, Steel Frame Cream Freezers $4.65

6 Quart Wood Bucket, Steel Frame Cream Freezers $5.65

A Full Stock of Bolts to Repair
Binders, Mowers and Plows.

THE STORE WITH THE GOODS

Mickle

Hardware & Furniture Co.

Phone 70

West Main Street Eastland, Texas.