

THE BALLINGER LEDGER

VOLUME 53.

BALLINGER, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1939.

NUMBER 39.

Citizens of Two Sections Approve Two Bond Issues

Two bond issues were voted in Runnels county Saturday, large majorities favoring both proposals. The $15,000 bond issue for the city of Ballinger was favored by a vote of 104 to 13 and the bonds will be printed and sold at an early date to permit refunding money to the general fund which has been drawn on in carrying on WPA projects. About $4,500 will be used to take up outstanding warrants against the city which bear interest rates of 5 and 6 per cent. The bonds voted will only bear 3 per cent interest.

In road district No. 5, which includes Winters, Wilmet, Wingate, Harmony, Crews, and surrounding area, a bond issue of $128,000 was voted. The tabulations showed 560 favored the proposition and 249 opposed.

These bonds will be sold and $28,000 used to refund outstanding indebtedness and $100,000 applied on road work in the district. Plans call for building a large amount of lateral roads in the northern portion of the county and other important work. The projects will provide employment for a large number of people and the government will grant assistance in all work to be done.

The Ballinger issue did not create much interest, but practically every citizen favored the proposal.

Group Advertising Rodeo at Coleman Visits Ballinger

A group of Coleman business men with a band and the Coleman Swingers arrived here Wednesday morning, advertising their annual rodeo, to be held on July 12 to 15. They made a brief stop on the streets here to present a concert and to extend an invitation to the citizens of this section to attend the four night programs.

The Coleman show is just four years old but has grown to one of the best western performances in this part of the state. Events arranged for the 1939 rodeo promise to surpass any yet presented by the organization.

The first day, July 12, a big parade will be held. Cowboys, cowgirls, sponsors and numerous horseback riders will participate. Special prizes are offered for the three most popular saddle horses in the parade. These horses will be selected by popular ballot. Also on the first day of the four-day event there will be a meeting of "old timers" at the city park, persons who have resided in Coleman county for fifty years or more, and persons who resided in the county fifty years or more ago.

The final day of the show will be known as Hella Temple night. One hundred or more Shriners from Hella Temple are visiting the rodeo and will entertain in their own style.

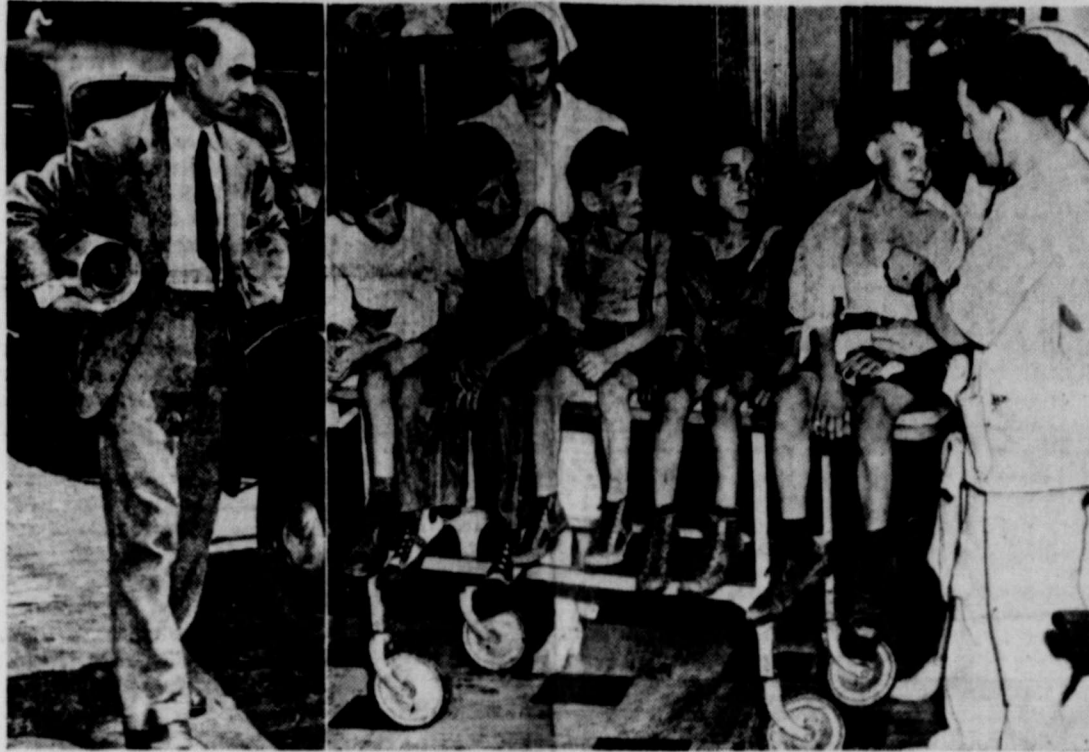

Additional seats have been added to accommodate the large crowds expected each night and the green turf on the arena will show up under the floodlights one of the most colorful and beautiful scenes witnessed by rodeo spectators.

School Children Examined in Mass Poisoning

A thorough examination is in order for these youthful victims of Staten Island's recent mass food poisoning "epidemic," which struck 368 students in 41 public schools. New York school officials investigated the epidemic and found it the result of tainted food served to the children during school hours. Emergency hospital resources of island towns were strained to the utmost. Left: Abraham Churchrow, investigator for the federal bureau of food and drugs, carrying canisters of food to be analyzed.

Hawk Appointed Deputy District Governor of Lions

R. J. Hawk, president of the Ballinger Lions Club, has been appointed deputy district governor by Orville I. Cox, of McAllen, district governor. Mr. Hawk will begin his new duties at once and will serve clubs in Ballinger, Winters, Robert Lee, Sonora, Ozona, San Angelo, Miles, Junction and Sterling City.

He will resign as group chairman, a place to which he was recently elected, and a new man will be elected to that place. Mr. Hawk supported Mr. Cox for the office of district governor at the state meeting and since then has been looking after work for him in this section. The Ballinger club started a campaign to have Mr. Hawk appointed as deputy for this division, and the notice was received here this week.

K. V. Northington was in charge of the program for the club last Friday, speaking on "Your City Government." He told of the progress made by the administration during the past ten years and at the close of his speech answered questions regarding the proposed bond issue, the election on which was held last Saturday.

Crews of the Runnels county agricultural conservation association office will begin signing farmers of this county for the first payments of the 1939 program tomorrow (Friday). Thomas B. Hill, secretary of the Runnels county ACA, has issued a notice to all farmers advising them of the places of meetings where crews will be present to take signatures and urge that every farmer be on hand at the designated place.

The first sign-up will be on applications for payment for the 1939 cotton price adjustment payments, or subsidy payments as they are commonly known. This will bring in checks for Runnels county farmers totalling about $200,000. Figures for this purpose are arrived at by taking the 1939 cotton allotment times the normal yield times 16 cents per pound. The acreage allotment for the county this year is 113,748.3, and the normal yield in the county is fixed at 142 pounds.

Meetings arranged for the sign-up crews are as follows:

- Miles—Friday, July 7, 8 to 11:30 a. m.
- Maverick—Friday, July 7, 2 to 4 p. m.
- Winters—Saturday, July 8, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.
- Wilmet—Monday, July 10, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.
- Crews—Tuesday, July 11, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.
- Ballinger—Wednesday, July 12, 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Every farmer living near a place of meeting is urged to attend there on the day the crew is to be there and bring the letter mailed from the ACA office which bears the contract number.

The ACA office is in the midst of its summer work and at present is employing a force of 115. There are 29 crews of three men each in the field measuring land. Each of these crews is headed by one supervisor and two chairmen. The compliance section has 16 men at work rechecking the planimeter reports against the aerial maps. Two crews are employed daily in this department, one working from 4 a. m. to noon, the other from 1 to 9:30 p. m.

Measuring is well under way with approximately 40 per cent of the work finished this week. There are 2,230 farmers to be measured comprising approximately 333,000 acres.

PATROLMEN RENEWING DRIVERS' LICENSES

State highway patrolmen will be in Ballinger every Wednesday from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. with offices in the court house for the purpose of renewing drivers' licenses. All holders of licenses are asked to bring them on these days and the men in charge of the offices will stamp and renew them until April, 1942.

This is in compliance with a law passed by the last session of the legislature.

Miss Ena Talbott visited friends at Vera Tuesday.

Important Meeting Of B. C. D. Directors To be Held Tonight

Gus Barr, secretary of the Ballinger Board of Community Development has called a meeting of the directors at the city hall tonight at 8 o'clock. The regular meeting was scheduled for Tuesday evening but was changed on account of Tuesday being a legal holiday and a number of the directors being out of town.

Mr. Barr stated that it was important that all directors be present as some urgent items were to come up for discussion.

Construction crews are to start work in the near future on REA lines near Ballinger and many requests are being received by the organization for rooms. Mr. Barr asked that citizens having rooms or apartments for rent call the office and list them and as soon as workmen arrive they would be sent to inspect the rooms.

The organization has selected Miss Lynette Spreen to represent Ballinger at the Coleman rodeo this month. Miss Spreen is an expert rider and will take part in all feature parades during the three-night program.

Postal Receipts Here First Half Of 1939 Increase

Postal receipts at Ballinger made a substantial gain in the first two quarters of 1939 over the same periods in 1938. Postmaster Tom Caudle announced the figures at the end of the second quarter on June 30.

Comparison of the same quarters last year and this year are as follows:

First quarter $5,369.69 $5,272.16
Second quarter 4,976.92 4,934.59

These sums are for the sale of stamps, permits and box rentals and do not include money orders, bond sales or other transactions.

Mr. Caudle said the two middle quarters of the year, the second and third, are usually the light ones and that the first and fourth invariably ran far above the spring and summer periods.

Receipts to date are very satisfactory and probably will assure the local postoffice a good year's business.

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Boelsche left Sunday for Carlsbad to visit the caverns and from there went to Roswell for a few days' outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo Goss and children, of Shreveport, spent the week-end here, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Troy Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harold Tucker, of Jermyn, spent Independence Day here, visiting relatives and friends.

REA Work Order Issued For 280 Miles of Lines

Opening of Bethel Church Attracts Large Attendance

A large number of people were in Bethel Sunday afternoon to attend the opening of the new Methodist church. Several hundred people were served dinner at 1 o'clock by housewives of the community. Barbecue was supplemented by baskets of edibles and for more than an hour the delicious food was enjoyed by the home people and their guests.

During the noon hour it was learned that only $70 was owed on the new building and friends visiting there quickly made up this sum so that at the first service in the building a report was made of all debts paid in full.

There are only eight families belonging to the Bethel church, a total of 32 members. Rev. Hubert Crain, of Norton, is pastor. Several months ago it was decided to raze the old structure, which had been in use 30 years, and construct a new one. Rev. Crain, who is a rock-mason, drew the plans and was in charge of the construction. All labor was donated by members and material from the old building was utilized.

A large auditorium and four Sunday school rooms are finished and ready for use. The interior is of paneled celotex in colors.

The first service began with a devotional and was followed by communion, of which only members of the church partook. Dr. S. W. Williams, presiding elder, of Brownwood, was in charge of this part of the service, assisted by the pastor. Rev. Crain preached the first sermon.

A dedication service, planned for later in the summer, will also be a home-coming day for the church.

Offenites Prepare For Convention Starting Tuesday

Rev. G. A. Boeckman, pastor of St. Boniface parish, was in Ballinger Wednesday and stated that everything was in readiness for the entertainment of the convention of the Catholic State League at Olfen on July 11, 12 and 13. The first public announcement of the meeting last week gave some citizens of this section the impression that the Olfen people were staging a celebration and would serve dinner for the public. This is in error; members of St. Boniface parish are hosts to the state delegation that will attend the convention at Olfen for three days.

Rev. Boeckman stated that the Work orders for the construction of 280 miles of rural electrification lines in Runnels county have been issued by Engineer Clifford Thompson to the Walco Construction Company. Work on the lines will commence as soon as material, which has already been shipped, arrives here.

The contractor will have crews working out of Winters and Rowena at the same time and no time will be lost in building the lines and supplying current.

The original contract was for 380 miles. No mileage has been eliminated in the Rowena section but about 60 miles in the Winters area will be left unbuild due to non-compliance of prospective patrons. The engineers will complete their work in the Shep community within a few days and release a work order for the construction in that section which is a part of this project.

Officials in charge of the work in Runnels county expect work to progress rapidly and the lines to be ready by early fall. They urge patrons to have their houses wired and ready for service when the current is switched on.

A number of employees of the Walco company are arriving here this week to rent rooms and apartments.

WESLEY ANDERSONS MOVE TO SAN ANGELO

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Anderson and daughters, Misses Virginia, Frances and Jane, left Tuesday for San Angelo where they will make home. Mr. Anderson, with the state highway department here for a number of years, has been very active in Boy Scout work, teaching first aid and life saving classes here. Miss Virginia Anderson was a Bearcat banner carrier for the high school pep squad the past two years.

OFFICERS HAVE LITTLE WORK ON JULY FOURTH

County and city peace officers report Ballinger a quiet place on Independence Day. No disturbances of any kind were reported and no arrests were made. County Attorney Roy L. Hill stated that he had no investigations to make following the holiday and no cases of any kind were filed either in justice, county or city courts.

Many local citizens left town for the day, attending celebrations in this part of the state, for outings on the rivers, or for trips to distant points.

REVIVAL TO COMMENCE AT BARNETT FRIDAY

A revival has been announced to begin at the Barnett school house Friday night, July 21. Rev. Alvah Kelley, of Brownwood, will do the preaching and local talent will have charge of the music. Services will be held twice daily. The public is cordially invited to attend.

SOVIET AIRMEN PERFECT SELF-OPENING PARACHUTE

MOSCOW, July 5.—Russia is expected to further perfect its "flying army" because two Soviet airmen have invented a self-opening parachute. The device automatically opens the "chute" in from five seconds to two minutes after the jumper leaves the airplane. It does not prevent the opening of the parachute in the ordinary way, so failure of the mechanism is provided for.

Moscow reports that tests have been remarkably successful. The invention is finding much favor among military men, who claim that Russia already leads the world in army parachute work. A Russian general declares that he can carry an entire battalion inside an enemy line by airplane and parachute.

Harold Clark was operated on at San Angelo last Thursday and is reported to be improving. W. R. Clark returned from his bedside Monday.

Mrs. Miller Entertains Ace of Clubs
Rosebuds, zinnias and gladioli added charm to the Roy Miller home Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Miller was hostess to the Ace of Clubs.

Women Answer From 12 States

To date, Touring Reporters have visited the principal cities of 12 Southern states; have asked 1297 users their famous question: "Did CARDUI help you?" Of those 1297 users, 1206 said they were definitely benefited by CARDUI. That's 93 out of every 100. What a record! CARDUI is a good stimulant for lagging appetites, a real aid to digestion and assimilation. That's why its proper use enables so many women and girls to build up physical resistance, and thus helps them avoid the periodic pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Following the games in which Mrs. H. G. Agnew won high score award and Mrs. W. L. Inmon high cut prize, iced watermelon was served to the following: Mmes. Mike Wright, Agnew, Ted Jones, Walter Moss, Royal Bishop, E. A. Sommer, Rothal O'Kelly, and Inmon of Little Rock, Arkansas.

War? Unthinkable, Says London Woman

When Sir John Anderson, British civilian defense minister, planned his air raid precautions shelters, he forgot all about Mrs. Dodson of London, who, through no fault of her own, just can't get through the doorway of a standard shelter. Mrs. Dodson, as you may have noticed, is somewhat oversized, and even with the help of friends is at somewhat of a loss. She undoubtedly believes in a policy of further appeasement.

TAYLOR COUNTY PIONEERS TO MEET AT BUFFALO GAP

The annual Old Settlers' Reunion of Taylor county will be held at Buffalo Gap July 21. All old settlers and ex-Taylor county residents are invited to come and meet their friends.

Sam Houston Made Hero Of Thrilling Texas Epic

A sweeping spectacle is "Man of Conquest"—a vivid epic high-light in the progress of the screen and of the company which produced it. This great production is scheduled at the Texas Theatre in midnight preview Saturday night and in regular presentations Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 9-10-11.

The story is replete with characters whose names are etched in Texas history's thrilling pages. Richard Dix gives an unforgettable portrayal of Sam Houston; Gail Patrick and Joan Fontaine are lovely and capable. Such crack character performers as Edward Ellis, C. Henry Gordon, Victor Jory, Robert Armstrong, George Hayes, Max Terhune, Robert Barrat, Ralph Morgan, William Benedict, and Janet Beecher enhance every scene.

The story traces Houston's life from the time he left the Cherokee Indian tribe, with whom he had been living for a year, to fight with Jackson in the War of 1812.

We are taken on Houston's violent, exciting campaign for the governorship of Tennessee; his tragic love affair with Eliza Allen, his first wife, his long period of despair and neglect in trying to forget Eliza; on through his memorable fight to free Texas from Mexico.

Republic spent two years in research to guarantee historical accuracy. The only liberty taken with actual events is the time of Gen. Houston's romance with Margaret Lea, played by Gail Patrick, since the film only takes Houston's life to the time he frees Texas.

The direction of George Nicholls, Jr. is highly laudable, previewers declare, who say he has drawn the utmost from a wealth of story and cost.

Mystery Play Teams Walter Pidgeon and Virginia Bruce

Walter Pidgeon and Virginia Bruce are teamed for the first time in "Society Lawyer," to be the main attraction at the Ritz Theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 9-10-11.

Pidgeon plays the role of a society lawyer with a penchant for sleuthing who dispenses his legal associates by delving into criminal cases. In pursuit of a murderer, whom he believes has framed one of his friends, Pidgeon meets Miss Bruce, in the role of a beautiful night club entertainer, and from thence their romance races merrily onward.

Produced by John W. Considine, Jr., and directed by Edwin L. Marin, "Society Lawyer" has been filmed against a modern New York background with an admirable cast that includes Leo Carrillo, Eduardo Ciannella, Lee Bowman, Frances Mercer, Ann Morriss, Herbert Mundin, Frank M. Thomas, Edward S. Brophy, Tom Kennedy, Clarence Kolb, Pierre Watkin, Ian Wolfe, Paul Guilfoyle and Joseph Crehan.

It is the story of Durant, the society lawyer, and Pat Allen, the night club singer. When Pat's roommate is slain in the pent-

That was the origin of the Lone Star Gas System which today serves 299 towns in Texas and Oklahoma and this year celebrates its thirtieth anniversary. The 126-mile pipe line has increased to 4,700 miles of pipe, and where once there were only 15 to 25 employees, today there are more than 3,000 watching over the gas service.

Mr. Denning, however, can still recall the struggles of the little company during its early years. He remembers particularly the dark days of the World War, when new sources of supply were unobtainable and customers complained each winter about the lack of pressure in their stoves. With pride he recalls the days of 1924 when experiments conducted by company engineers developed a successful method of utilizing gas from oil wells. This, with the company's ceaseless prospecting for new fields, has increased supplies from the single Petrolia field to 46 fields located in the Panhandle, Southern Oklahoma, West Texas and East Texas. Twenty-one compressor stations keep constant watch over the pressures which insure dependable gas service in more than a quarter million Texas and Oklahoma homes.

Archie Crews, of San Angelo, transacted business in Ballinger Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. White and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baker and family, of Winters; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jeffers, of San Angelo, spent the Fourth of July in camp at Christoval. They returned to San Angelo Tuesday night for the speaking and fireworks display.

Origin and Future Of Lake Buchanan

(By W. B. Willis, Ponotoc, in The Texas Outlook)

A short time ago I spent a week end fishing in the blue depths of Lake Buchanan which is situated on the Colorado River between Llano and Burnett counties about sixty miles up stream from our state capitol at Austin. While there, I was asked the question, "What were the forces behind the building of the Buchanan dam which gives this beautiful inland body of water?" I was so much impressed by this question that I became interested and decided to find the reason behind the construction of this gigantic structure of concrete and steel at a cost of approximately $7,000,000.

These facts are being presented to you so that you may see how and why this giant structure which creates one of the many large pleasure spots in Texas came to be built. The Buchanan dam is not a recent hope or expectation. It was first dreamed of and planned in 1854 by Adam R. Johnson, a young man of twenty-one, who came to Texas from Kentucky, and who later, after being blinded by a Federal bullet while serving as a general in the Confederate army, carried on his plans and efforts which were for flood control, irrigation, and power for manufacture of southern raw materials.

General Johnson's efforts aroused the interest of the Alexanders, who with a surveyor by the name of Arnold, surveyed the Colorado River its entire length and acquired permits from the government to build six dams on this river. To date there have been four of these permits used. The first attempt at actual construction of the present Buchanan dam was made by the Embury, Peck & Rockwood Development Company in 1908 who abandoned their project and sold to the Texas Hydro-Electric Company who in turn abandoned it soon afterward.

The West Texas Utilities Co., headed by Samuel Insull, gained

Hoess Housing Plan May Be U. S. Model

The four Hoess brothers of Hammond, Ind., who devised a low cost homestead and housing plan to fit the average working man's small income, may have started a nationwide movement. Frank Hoess, (third left) eldest of the brothers, was subpoenaed to appear before Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney's so-called monopolies investigating committee. This committee is considering amendments to the 1937 housing act, and the Hoess plan has been suggested as the basis for a national program. Left to right, the brothers are William, John, Frank and Joseph.

possession of the permit in 1926, in 1930 the intended structure was christened Hamilton dam in honor of Hamilton who was vice-president of the utilities at that time.

A contract for construction that would cover a period of five years was let to Fegals Construction Company at a cost of $5,000,000, but its construction was doomed to another setback for in 1932 the West Texas Utilities went bankrupt and the partially built structure was the third time abandoned, this time for a period of four years while several thousand dollars worth of equipment lay ideal. With the collapse of Insull, the project was taken over by a corporation which was known as the Lower Colorado River Authority, promoted by Ralph W. Morrison, a wealthy Texan.

Both the RFC and the WPA refused the company a loan to complete the dam, but under pressure exerted by the Texas delegation in congress, led by the late James P. Buchanan, chairman of the house appropriations committee, a loan and grant of $4,500,000 was made to the LCRA by PWA in 1934. With this grant the long planned structure was assured. So in honor of Chairman Buchanan the dam was rechristened Buchanan dam, and the first concrete was poured under the supervision of the federal government and LCRA by the bureau of reclamation in March 1936.

On February 12, 1937, the giant valves were closed, and the waters of the Colorado River slowly began to cover the vast basin in Texas at the present. By August 1937, three years after the LCRA was formed, the massive barrier realized completion.

At the time the valves were closed, it was estimated that five years would be required for the lake to reach its capacity, but due to flood waters, in July, 1938, the water surged over the spillway only one year and a half after the valves were closed.

This beautiful and impressive structure is 150 1/2 feet high and 11,290 feet long. When the lake it forms is at its capacity, it has a surface of 23,000 acres.

With the exception of one large overflow on the Colorado River, working conditions were ideal during the four years of actual construction, due to the moderate climate of this particular section of Texas.

One of the most outstanding achievements on record, and that was made possible by the ceaseless vigil by government supervisors and the splendid cooperation of the loyal and valiant men who labored to make this structure possible, is the fact that only one fatality occurred, and that was the result of an unavoidable accident. The beautiful lake is not only one of the most valuable commercial assets of Central Texas, providing rural electrification for five adjoining counties; but it has proved to be a sportsman's paradise as well. It is located in a rugged section of country where deer and wild turkeys are found in abundance.

Although the lake is not two years old, every specie of wild ducks and geese have been sighted resting on its surface. Also its shores are swiftly becoming nesting places for ducks, so there is assurance of a never ending supply of waterfowl. In addition to the waterfowl, there is an unlimited quantity of gamefish, consisting of perch, bream, crappie, and large and small mouth black bass on which the never-tiring angler may exhibit his skill. Catfish, carp, and gasper are plentiful in the coves and small streams that empty into the lake.

This sportsman's paradise which affords the deer hunting of Texas and the duck shooting of the Great Lakes and the coast, the fishing of the mountainous streams of Canada, the swimming and the boat racing of the Gulf, and an unlimited supply of electric power, all within Llano and Burnett counties, is easily accessible by highway No. 29 which runs within a hundred yards of the dam. It is also accessible by highway No. 116, the beautiful Lake Shore Drive now under construction and which has recently been opened to traffic. The new drive extends from the dam to Port Bluffton, a small town located about twelve miles up the lake shore on the Llano county side of the lake.

FORMER BALLINGERITE RECEIVES PROMOTION

OPEN LETTER TO THE EDITOR OF THE BALLINGER LEDGER

"Mr. Troy Simpson,
"Ballinger Ledger
"Ballinger, Texas

"Dear Sir:

"Occasionally there comes a time in the life of every showman when he has a picture he cannot find words to properly describe, one that he feels is too big for his descriptive powers, yes, even too big for filmdom's longest descriptive adjectives.

"That time has come for me and I have on my hands a picture that is all of the above and more.

"How can I possibly tell with mere words of the thrills, action, heartbreaks, love and drama that made up the life of that 'Man of Conquest,' Sam Houston—how he with a small handful of men became the liberator of this, the greatest state in the Union?

"What words can I best use to tell every man, woman and child reader of The Ledger that the picture, 'Man of Conquest,' depicting the life of Sam Houston and starring Richard Dix in his greatest picture since 'Cimmaron' and a long list of other stars is one of the grandest pictures ever to be shown on the Texas Theatre screen.

"From the thrilling scenes of 'San Jacinto' and the 'Alamo' to the tender love this great man had for the woman who gave him courage to go on against such mighty odds, it is one heart-throb right after another—the true story of a great man, a great love, and a great state!

"You see!!! I ran out of words before I even got started, so won't you please help me with my copy, because this great picture, 'Man of Conquest,' we are showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, has me completely licked for words.

"Sincerely yours,

"BENNIE ADAMS,

Fate gave Charlie Fung, Chinese newsboy, a 50-50 break recently when fire broke out in New York's Chinatown. He was away when flames destroyed the rooming house where he lived, taking several lives. But $1,000 of his carefully collected savings went up in smoke. He risked his life to save the remaining $800 in silver.

Married Man

PROFESSOR WAKES was worried. The letter from Crewe university promised him exactly the appointment he desired. It included a house (and this meant he could keep chickens and study the psychology of the domestic fowl, something he'd wished to study for ages). It also meant a satisfactory increase in salary and increased personal prestige.

But the president demanded a married man, and the last thing on earth Professor Wakes wanted was a wife. Women, in his mind, were composed of those who ministered to his comfort, such as cooks, and those dreadful flappers, whom he didn't know but occasionally glimpsed through what he described as the written word.

He rang the bell. Mrs. Lawrence had acted as housekeeper for him and his crony, Assistant Professor Dawson (in the ethnology department) for seven years. He had some respect for the judgment of Mrs. Lawrence.

"Ah, good morning, good morning," he said fustily when Mrs. Lawrence appeared.

"No bad news, I hope, professor?" she asked, taking an indicated chair by the window.

"No, er, that is to say, I fear it is bad for you, and, er, for me, too. I have been very comfortable in your house, Mrs. Lawrence, very comfortable, indeed."

Mrs. Lawrence smiled and waited. A sensible woman, thought the professor; most of them would have demanded to know why it was bad news.

"The University of Crewe," he said, "asks me to come and fill the chair of zoology. A very desirable position."

"I am thankful you will get the recognition you deserve," cried Mrs. Lawrence. "Of course, I shall miss you, but I must not think of myself when such a fine offer comes your way."

A noble-hearted woman, said the professor to himself, and good-looking, too. Never noticed it before.

"But, er," he continued aloud, "there is one consideration that will, I fear, prevent my accepting the position."

"What is that, if I may ask?" Mrs. Lawrence smiled charmingly. (Professor Wakes didn't know her nephew was a freshman at Crewe university.)

"Er, the position is usually held by a married man. A house goes with it, and, er, in short, I fear, it is not for me. I am too old a man to consider, er, marriage."

"Isn't that rather hard on some nice young girl, professor?" very sweetly. "Now, I know some real lovely girls I should be glad to have you meet. There's Marty Sales, and"

"Flappers," snapped Wakes. "Scandalous, young people are these days, scandalous." The little man fidgeted with a paper knife and Mrs. Lawrence hoped he might not intend a personal injury to any marauding flapper.

"Well," said Mrs. Lawrence, "if you dislike young girls there are older women."

Professor Wakes looked at her. But he was nervous. Would she allow him liberty to measure the abilities of chickens she probably merely considered in terms of frying?

"I fear an old bachelor is difficult to live with," he faltered.

Mrs. Lawrence smiled some more. Wonderful teeth she had. She stood up. "Well, I must not waste your morning," she said.

"No, wait," he called as she half closed the door. Just the way he preferred it in summer-time. A clever and thoughtful woman.

"I, er—the truth is that I don't know how to say to you what I want to say," he declared lamely.

"Well, professor, there's no need to say anything in a hurry. I quite understand this thing has taken you all by surprise. You just have a little talk to me later."

Professor Wakes sat still for half an hour, his thoughts roaming over that garden and the chickens, which went with the Crewe appointment, and at noon jumped up, seized his note-books and stuffed them into his brief-case.

He knocked gently on Mrs. Lawrence's partially opened door.

"Come right in, professor. I hope you've made up your mind not to let a little thing like a wife prevent your taking that lovely position." Her eyes were laughing now.

"Not if you'll come along with me and be the wife," he said, red to his neat little ears.

"Why, bless your heart, I've cared for you ever since that first Christmas day you came here. D'you remember how you said that you believed turkeys were less intelligent than hens? And I said I'd never thought either of them very bright, but maybe you were right."

So she actually remembered his first words. This was the woman for him, and he could easily explain that part of the hen-yard was a laboratory and only part connected with the table.

"I am much honored," he said quietly and turned to run for a class at which he was usually and notoriously late.

Tomatoes supply iron, which helps build rich red blood; they contain other minerals which tone up the body and ward off disease.

The tomato originated in Aemriand was long regarded as a poisonous plant in Europe. Today there are more than a hundred recognized improved varieties.

New China City Replaces Los Angeles Landmark

Buddhist rites, devil dancers and the traditional cavorting Chinese lion featured pagentry in Los Angeles' new China city recently when that picturesque quarter was cleaned of ghosts and demons. Replacing the old Chinatown, which was evacuated to make way for a new Union station, China city is the site of many historic incidents of early Los Angeles days. The ceremonies were intended to lay the ghosts of its past.

The tomato, say food specialists of the Texas A. & M. College extension service, is a fair source of vitamin G, the pellagra preventing factor. Texas has around 600 deaths from pellagra annually.

Water Consumption Increases in June; Collections are Good

Water consumers in the city of Ballinger used 10,487,000 gallons during June, an average of 349,000 gallons a day. This was a considerable increase and required operation of the pumps nine hours a day. A survey water connections on the last day of June revealed 18 vacant houses of all types and three occupied without connections.

Flood damage at the city park was repaired during the month. Damage to the grass and flower beds required extra labor but by the end of the month everything was in good condition. An estimate of flood-lighting the park has been made by the West Texas Utilities Co. and will be presented to the city commission at its next regular meeting.

Municipal collections during June totalled $2,540.93. Receipts by the water department were $1,611.62; delinquent taxes, $329.57; split tax payments, $412.66; sanitary, $129.15; fines, $4.70; occupation taxes, $3.13; plumbing, $18.35; and sale of hay, $31.75.

Regular WPA work continued on city sponsored projects with caliche base on blocks awaiting topping being watered and rolled fifteen times during the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. George West and children were among Ballinger people at Christoval on July 4.

To preserve the vitamin C in tomatoes when canning, do not expose the cut tomatoes and juice to the jar any more than necessary, and cut delay between the steps of preparing, precooking, processing, and cooling to the minimum.

to Tony and he'll say, "I no advertise!" But, of course, you know that he's doing just that, perhaps in another way. He does it when he puts up that sign . . . when he paints his cart a bright red and blue so that it can be easily identified, so that it looks gay . . . when he stops at a busy corner, because Tony knows that he can sell more apples when more people see his apples . . . when he shouts "Apples!" as he pushes his cart along.

TONY HAS LEARNED

the first principle of successful selling: bring your wares before the eyes of great numbers of people and you can sell profitably! But not everyone in Ballinger is a Tony, and few businessmen specialize in apples. Moreover, Tony is satisfied with the number of apples he sells. A progressive merchant would never stop there. Tony is advertising—yes, but in a feeble, limited sort of way. If you are not like Tony—if you are not satisfied with the number of "apples" you are selling, and you want to sell more—you'll advertise in a newspaper that has a loyal local following, one that is read by thousands of people who are able to buy your "apples." In Ballinger, that paper is The Ledger.

Hints for the Farm

When the AAA gets through with its new aerial mapping program this summer it will have obtained bird's-eye views of two counties which haven't had their pictures taken yet and 30 others which have developed surface changes requiring new photographs to be made.

Recent contracts call for 1,571 square miles of virgin aerial photography and 25,356 miles of reflight in counties where additional terraces have been built, new roads constructed, timber cleared, farm boundaries moved or other changes made in the face of the earth which might enter into checking of compliance with the farm program.

Romeo Korth, Electo stock farmer and member of the Texas agricultural conservation committee, said the negatives will be retained by the AAA and that farmers will be able to purchase copies of the new maps at relatively small cost and use them in planning their farming operations.

Hood and Clay counties will be photographed for the first time, under the current contracts. Counties to be re-flown are Austin, Angelina, Caldwell, Cameron, Crosby, Dawson, De Witt, Fayette, Freestone, Gonzales, Gregg, Harrison, Haskell, Hidalgo, Houston, Howard, Knox, Limestone, Madison, Marion, Martin, Nacogdoches, Panola, Rusk, San Patricio, Shelby, Titus, Upshur, and Washington.

The photography will cost $58,155 and is to be done by Edgar Tobin, aerial surveyor of San Antonio; C. S. Robinson aerial surveyor of Ithaca, New York, and Aero Service Corporation, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The AAA is checking compliance by means of aerial maps this year in 158 counties, 50 of which are having it done that way this year for the first time.

Korth estimated that gathering and preparing aerial maps in Texas has cost around $326,000, but that the economics and accuracy effected through use of the photos have amounted to many times the cost.

A. & M. COLLEGE ISSUES LEAFLET ON TOMATOES COLLEGE STATION, July 5—The tomato is one of America's contributions to the world. Early explorers carried it back to Europe where it was regarded as a curiosity, then as a poisonous plant, and finally as the "love apple." Italy first recognized the tomato as a prized food, and it was grown there for nearly three centuries before it came back to America. Since 1835 it has had a valuable place in American gardens.

This is the history of the tomato as set forth in a leaflet, C-147, "starring Tomatoes," recently issued by the Texas A. & M. College extension service in support of its campaign for more food on Texas farms. The leaflet is now in the hands of county agricultural and home demonstration agents.

Every individual, states the publication, needs a serving of tomatoes or citrus daily. In addition to a discussion of the food and health values of the tomato, the leaflet contains directions for canning and a wide selection of tomato recipes.

ENGLAND'S PERFECT BOY THRIVES IN WOODS

LONDON, July 5—Described as the perfect boy, a lad of 9 is living in a house buried in the woods in southern England, and doctors declare he is the perfect product of scientific rearing. He has amazed medical men of London by his physical fitness, his vitality and stamina.

In the British Medical Journal, official organ of the British Medical Association, Sir Leonard Hill, the physiologist, described tests conducted at St. Thomas' Hospital. The boy weighs 59 pounds and is 4 feet 4 inches tall. He is bright and intelligent, with clear skin and eyes, walks ten miles a day with ease, takes a cold bath every morning and an air bath out of doors. He eats no meat, fish, eggs or bread at home.

AUSTIN, July 5.—Fish rescue work, of which much is done each year by the Texas game, fish and oyster commission, has started. State Game Warden Sam Turner, of Waco, reports the rescue of 21,000 fish from an old channel of the Bosque River. A large party of Waco sportsmen cooperated in the rescue work. All the members of the finny tribe saved were placed in the Bosque below the Lake Waco dam. Receding waters following heavy rains and streams, lakes and bays drying up during the summer months strands millions of fish in Texas. During the fiscal year of 1937-38 game department employees rescued a total of 2,864,279 fish and placed them in rivers, streams and lakes which there was no danger of going dry. The fish rescued totaled nearly as many as were produced in the state fish hatcheries during the same period, 3,068,705 crappie, cat, bass and bream being propagated by the hatcheries and used to stock waters of the state.

How'd you like to catch a six-foot forty-eight pound alligator on your trotline? That is just what a party of four Belton fishermen did on the Lampasas River in Bell county, south of Belton recently, State Game Warden K. S. Hull reports.

The alligator, far from its natural habitat, which in Texas is deep East Texas, became tangled in the fishermen's lines and had drowned when the four anglers pulled it from the water.

Gators are occasionally found in Central and North Texas, but they are not native and have generally escaped from pens.

Due to cooperation obtained by State Game Warden F. O. Lytton the Valley section of Texas will 'Come Into the Kitchen', Invites Modern Woman

The kitchen today can be the loveliest room in the average home! This is possible because time and labor saving electric servants keep it clean, cool and cozy," says Miss Eudora Hawkins (inset), home economist for the West Texas Utilities, who frequently visits in the numerous homes here which now are equipped with the electric range. "Come into the kitchen' is a standing invitation in thousands of homes where women are proud to show the beauty of cooking equipment and the ease with which they cook," Miss Hawkins declares. She insists that the electric range is the foundation for an all-electric kitchen, supplemented by electric refrigerator, dishwasher, hot-water heater and the many smaller appliances designed to "take drudgery out of the home."

This is a DAY of MIRACLES

... and though it has been remarked before, we call it to your attention again because the scientists and the engineers have made the miraculous so commonplace that maybe we have ceased a little to wonder at the marvels all about us. The world progresses at such an accelerated pace that what another day would have hailed as revolutionary progress, we accept today as a matter of course. . . . So it behooves us now and again to take stock of the progress we are making, to call a momentary halt and consciously to wonder at the miracles of our age, to drift back in time to their beginnings and note how far they've come. . . . Do you remember when they called automobiles "horseless carriages"? When one of the hit tunes was "Get Out and Get Under"? When 20 miles an hour was reckless speed and 40 suicidal? When carriage and wagon roads made every journey by automobile a thrilling adventure? When the first mile-a-minute stock car was put on the market? When the town dude "cadillacked" down Main Street? . . . It's a far cry from those early days to these: we've come a long way. And we're going farther. The engineers are going to build—are building!—better cars every year: 10 years from now today's automotive marvels may well be yesterday's jalopies. . . . In the service of the automotive industry and its customers, one of whom, if you please, is you, we, too, keep step with the times. From day to day, Humble technicians are seeking new ways to improve the performance of Humble motor fuels, Humble motor oils: they operate under a policy of continuous improvement of all Humble products. . . . And when this day of miracles passes into the next, Humble products will still be second to none!

have thousands more white-winged doves this year. The warden found employees of a huge ranch operating a brush machine with the intention of pushing down 2,000 acres of brush. Warden Lytton persuaded the landowners to wait a month before destroying the brush, in which thousands of whitewings were nesting. They will now have ample time to raise the young before their habitat is destroyed.

Early reports from several sections of Texas to the game department are to the effect that quail and doves are prospering. Should conditions during the remainder of the rearing season continue good, nimrods should have some excellent sport this year.

The trapping of antelope, as carried on by the game department in the trans-Pecos region two months ago is being hailed by big game experts in a large number of states as the most successful project of its kind ever attempted. More trapping will be done this fall after the young antelope have attained some size, it is announced by Will J. Tucker, executive secretary.

Antelope, strange as it may seem, will not leap a fence higher than four feet. As a result, many ranches of West Texas have become overpopulated with the fleet-footed animals, while other sections have none. The antelope trapped were transported to ranges as far distant as 100 miles, thus stocking new territory and relieving some ranch owners of having their range overgrazed and having the animals undernourished.

However, the plains region is the natural habitat of the antelope and they will not thrive in wooded areas. Therefore, no attempt will be made by the game department to stock any areas other than those on the plains. But, should antelope continue to increase in numbers as they have done in the last few years, there is a possibility of an open season on them not so many years from now.

Wilbur Gully Wins Over 14 Club Boys For Western Trip

J. M. Williams, of Winters, and Wallace Martin, of Wingate, were here Monday to grade records of 4-H club boys in this county for a trip through several states in August. Fifteen Rannels county boys filed their records and after carefully checking all papers the trip was awarded to Wilbur Gully, of the Rowena section, on a sheep production project.

Based on a total of 1,000 points, Gully scored 975, and received compliments from the two judges, both vocational agriculture teachers in this county. The next two highest ranking boys were Arnold Alcorn, of Crews, and Eugene Loika, of Bethel.

Club boys in district No. 7 will leave Abilene on August 5. John A. Barton, Rannels county agent, will accompany them on the bus trip through New Mexico with a stop at the Carlsbad Caverns, into Wyoming where they will visit several large cattle ranches, and into Colorado where they will see the scenery. On the journey they will visit a number of irrigated tracts and take a number of educational side trips. The lads will go into Utah before starting back towards Texas.

The expense is $25 per head and this amount will be raised locally to give the Rannels county winner an entirely free trip.

Mrs. Crawford Lemberg and daughter, of Menard, returned home with Mr. Lemberg Tuesday after several days' visit with Mrs. Lemberg's mother, Mrs. J. M. Skinner.

THE ENTIRE COST OF THE C.C.C. COULD BE PAID FOR BY THE TAXES OF THE BREWING INDUSTRY!

The Treasury Department shows expenditures of 326 million dollars for the Civilian Conservation Corps for the fiscal year of 1938. The brewing industry pays over a million dollars a day in taxes.

What Beer contributes to the re-building of America would fill a great volume

Over 400 million dollars in taxes every year. Over 1,000,000 jobs. A market for 3,000,000 farm acres of produce.

The brewing industry would like to preserve for itself and the people the many economic benefits it has created in the past five years. Brewers everywhere realize that this is a question bound up with the proper distribution of their mild and wholesome beverage through retail outlets whose character will be a credit to the community. Obviously, the brewers can enforce no laws. But they can—and will—cooperate with the local law-enforcement authorities. They will cooperate with every group—friend or critic—to the end that retail beer outlets give no offense to anyone.

First Gas Mask Made

By Londoner in 1854

It has just been discovered by the Bulletin of the Imperial Institute that the first practical gas mask was invented by a Dr. Stenhouse in 1854, and its manufacture placed in the hands of the instrument makers of St. Bartholomew's hospital, London. It was intended for physicians and nurses as a protection against air communicable diseases. On a back shelf of the hospital museum, what is believed to be the only specimen in existence was found.

In a thin copper sheet, padded with velvet and shaped to cover the nose and mouth, were inset two fine wire gauzes, one-eighth inch to one-quarter inch apart, with charcoal between. The respirator was held in position by a stout elastic band passing round the back of the head, and was designed "to absorb and destroy any miasmata or infectious particles present in the air in the case of fever and cholera hospitals, and of districts infected with ague, yellow fever and similar diseases."

Dr. Stenhouse also suggested that "persons living in pestiferous areas might wear their houses as airtight as possible, and admit air only through charcoal filters. "It is a pity," the Bulletin comments, "that so much valuable work should have been overlooked in the period of emergency which arose some 60-odd years later, during the early part of the World war."

Old Letters Sometimes Carry Valuable Stamps

One frequently hears stories of rare stamp finds in old accumulations of mail. Usually the stories are not very well authenticated. There must be some interesting items still hidden away, but most old desks and trunks of letters have been pretty well ransacked by juvenile collectors.

Still, if you are so fortunate as to have an attic in the family, it would be interesting to have a look at the old letters. It might possibly pay. Should you find a five-cent brown stamp of the year 1861 with the head of Jefferson on it, which someone forgot to use, you will never again scold Aunt Emma for saving old papers. The stamp is catalogued at $2,250.

A one-cent indigo of the same vintage (head of Franklin) is worth $3,500, while an unused 12-cent black (head of Washington) calls for $7,000. But they must be the first issue of this series, which was on very thin paper. Later ones are on thick paper and are low in value.

Maybe there is a New Haven, Conn., stamped envelope of 1845, a five-cent blue stamp on a buff envelope—one of those tiresome letters of advice Great-Great-Aunt Hetty used to write to her nephews. Her advice was valuable; that stamped envelope is worth $10,000! —Commentator.

Family Tradition Survives

In the days when the Venetians held the secret of fine glass making and kept it under penalty of death, the skill of the glass blowers was passed from father to son for generations. The death penalty was repealed a thousand years ago and the glass blowers gave way to modern machinery early in the present century. But the skill of the plate glass polishers continues as a family tradition in the big glass plants of Toledo, Ohio. For example, on the 1,700-foot polishing line in the Libbey-Owens-Ford plant here there are seven father-and-son combinations. Technical developments have given them a 350-ton machine, electrically controlled, with which to grind off a paper-thin layer of glass to give the plate its crystal polish. Nevertheless, the perfected product depends largely on their skill in grading and handling more than 30 different sands and polishing materials, some of it so fine that it could almost be used to brush your teeth!

Gas Tells Age of Rock

A new method of measuring small amounts of gases extracted from rocks has been developed by Dr. Alfred C. Lane, professor emeritus of geology at Tufts college. It will measure a volume as small as a grain of wheat extracted from a ton of rock or very much smaller amounts taken from smaller samples. It is a vacuum tube containing a fine wire whose resistance is altered by the impact of the gas molecules which reduce its temperature. It is used in measuring the amount of helium produced by the breakdown of radium in rocks. The amount of this gas gives an index of the length of time the radium has been disintegrating in the rock and this gives the rock's age and that in turn gives an index of the earth's age. The more accurate determination made by this device gives the earth's age as 2,000,000,000 years or more, says Professor Lane.

Ember Day Adaptation

Ember days, which were instituted by Pope Gregory as days of fasting and prayer, are the Wednesday, Friday and Saturday after the first Sunday in Lent, after Whitsunday, after the fourteenth of September and after the thirteenth of December. They were an adaptation of a Roman season of prayer and fasting with petitions to the Roman deities for success in the spring seeding, the June beautiful harvest, September rich vintage and December winter seeding.

There will be a large throng at Olfen for the convention next week and some of the most prominent Catholic leaders in the state are to be present. Officials of all three divisions of the Catholic State League, the men's and the women's sections, and the insurance branch, will attend this meeting. The convention will consider the addition of a youth section.

Arrangements are being made to entertain the delegates, and meals are to be served at the community hall. This is necessary because there are no cafes or hotel accommodations at Olfen.
