THE KING IS DEAD . . . Babe Ruth, a legend while he lived, has become an American epic after his death. He was all the guys in the world who ever pulled out of obscurity to become big leaguers. The Babe grew up to become the biggest, best, hardest hitting, most colorful baseball player on earth. His unforgettable diamond career began with the Baltimere Orioles when he was still an open-faced, overgrown boy (inset). He reached the climax of his baseball life in the third game of the Yankee-Cubs world series on October 1, 1932. With two strikes on him and the Chicago crowd heckling him, the Babe pointed to the center field wall. Then he hit the next pitch past the flagpole. This picture, from Esquire magazine's "Great Moments in Sports" series, captures the simple but dramatic faith in himself that made Babe Ruth

Thanks---

I wish to express my deep gratitude to the voters of Runnels County for the fine majority I received in the election last Saturday which named me your sheriff.

Your confidence makes me realize more the responsibility of my job and I will strive at all times to serve you well and in a manner that you will have no regrets for your support.

To those who supported my opponent, let me assure you I have no ill feeling. You supported an excellent officer, a good man and one who has served you well.

To one and all, I invite your cooperation after January 1 and feel that without your help I will be at a loss to serve you to the best of my ability. Again I say thanks.

MATERIAL We're ready for it!

"Bring on the material, we're ready for it," says Reddy Kilowatt and his fellow workers. "We are pushing the work on our Company's $18,000,000 construction program to supply more and better electric service to more and more West Texas homes, farms, and industries."

Yes, Reddy, thanks to the West Texas Utilities Company's policy of anticipating future needs, most of the material you need to keep the construction program rolling is on hand or scheduled for delivery as needed. In fact, much of the material to be used in this construction program was ordered nearly two years ago! However, due to the continuing critical shortages of heavy electrical equipment and wire, deliveries are just now being made on materials ordered as early as September, 1946.

Eighteen million dollars! Each of those dollars, Reddy, is a vote of confidence in the growth and development of West Texas.

Here's A Job That's Never Finished

The cables and wires of the telephone company extend over hundreds of miles throughout the Southwest. There is an unending job for maintenance patrols to keep telephone service at the peak of satisfactory performance.

Because of the almost unending miles of lines and cables . in cities, towns and rural areas it is beyond the scope of human endeavors to prevent occasional breaks in telephone service. The public can help measurably in preventing these breaks by the observance of care when moving large objects down the hiways. House movers and truckers of high loads should advise the telephone company so that any disruption of service caused by breaking lines or cables can be repaired immediately.

Acts of God such as torrential rains, windstorms, hail, floods, lightning and ice cause unsatisfactory telephone service, but maintenance crews are on duty 24 hours a day to correct these unavoidable circumstances.

When there is any disruption in service the telephone company appreciates the cooperative attitude of the public in advising of these conditions. Telephone service is not per-

FLIGHT THAT FAILED TEMPORARILY . . . Mel Patton, U. S. anchor man, is shown as he whisked past the finish line in the much disputed (hence, famous) 400 meter relay race in the London Olympics, Although Patton finished yards ahead of the British runner who came in second, field judges disqualified the United States relay team for illegal passing of the baton outside the 20-yard zone and declared the British team the winner. Armed with righteous wrath, American officials entered a vociferous protest of the ruling, contending that the baton was passed from Lorenzo Wright to Barney Ewell in a completely legal manner. A subsequent showing of slow motion pictures of the race verified the U. S. stand and the judges altered their decision, declaring the American team was the winner of the race.

DESERT SYMBOLISM, NOT A PIPE DREAM . . . Seasoned old travelers say that things start to look queer out on the desert if you stay long enough, but few things could look more strange than this photograph which makes a string of camels appear as though they are plodding along the top of a pipeline, flowever, it's just a matter of perspective. Also, it is slightly symbolic—the old camel caravan being replaced by modern technology and stuff like that. The big tube is the 30-inch pipeline now under construction in the desert wasteland of Saudi Arabia. Here it is! Here's the bread you asked for. We know it's the best bread we ever baked. Here's why: First we made a survey to find out exactly what you wanted in a loaf of bread. You insisted on freshness, fine grain, tenderness, even-colored crust, fluffiness, white color and sweet taste-in that order. Then we spent a lot of time and money developing this superior loaf. Skylark is this bread. Try it. And remember, your money back if you don't agree it's the finest bread you ever tasted.
