A look at Texas Boys State

by Christian Barrett

Texas Boys State was an amazing experience that I would highly encourage any young man (about to become a senior) if he is outgoing, enjoys speaking, or has interest in leadership, however this program will be beneficial to all willing to participate. The American Legion does a wonderful job with this camp and has a huge patriotic impact in these boy's lives.

Texas Boys state is designed to teach kids by doing, the principles of our local, county, district, and state governments. They do this by separating students into simulated parties (Nationalist, and the Federalist) and to encourage them to run for an elected political office. While very few of the elected officials act out their duties, the process of election and the duties of the offices are understood. We were split into cities with even numbers of Nats and Feds. These 'cities' were our 'cabins' for the week.

My Texas boys state experience was amazing. I was the Lieutenant Governor nominee for the Nationalist party. I came in second for the second highest position at Boys state. I also was the Flint City precinct chair for the Nationalist and the platform committee's Co-Chair. Most nights, I went to bed at 2am and woke up at 6:25am to meet with my city at 6:30 every morning. Needless to say everyone there could have used a nap. I grew very close with several of my city members, some of whom will be dear friends and valuable assets for life. I knew I was surrounded by a fantastic group of guys when we belted out any song that comes to mind, shamelessly walking from place to place. They campaigned for me, voted for me, and encouraged me. I couldn't ask for more.

One of my favorite things to be a part of, and was fairly easy and fun, was developing the Platform for each party. This committee debates and comes up with the agenda of the parties. Unfortunately, since the parties were formed randomly the platforms of both parties were very similar. The first meeting was total chaos because of varying opinions and lack of guidance. I approached the chair and he promoted me to Co-chair. I was able to lead the meeting with the Parliamentary procedure rules that were taught in FFA. (Thank you Mr. Morris) Calming the chaos and helping lead them smoothly through the process was my favorite part of the entire experience. Working through the organized debates were very entertaining and satisfying.

The finale was the LT. Governor/ governor race. Every time I spoke for this election, I was in front of more than 500 students at a time. Again, I was thanking Mr. Morris (FFA) and Mrs. Goodwin (Communications) for their mentoring in speaking. From this experience I gained a whole new respect for any major politician. From asking people to vote for me, to trying to stick to my gut rather than say what the crowd wanted to hear, to simply not being corrupted by chasing power, fake power might I add. Honestly, I felt like an imposter by making political promises for an office of which I will hold no real power. I did love the speaking and touring of the final elections. I had a front row seat to tons of drama between the boys clawing for power. I witnessed undermining, false accusations, and two-sided politicians on all sides all for a job with no real power. It makes me wonder how close it was to real political races. It was truly an impactful and an entertaining experience.

While I was surprised that discussions did not end up talking about President Trump all week, we did pass several humorous laws in Congress. We talked a lot about gun issues (because it's Texas) and we need to stand firm for our rights to bear arms. Texas will be in good hands with this next generation to come from politicians, to Academy grads, to new informed citizens, keeping their eye on the government. Texas Boys state will be impactful for many generations to come. Also our week was filmed by a documentary group, so keep an eye out for the, Texas Boys State Show, and watch first hand our amazing and drama filled experience!

City of Friona reveals new website

The City of Friona has created a website to serve as a resource to the public. The website was created to give residents an opportunity to learn more about City services, make online payments for traffic citations, and to share information about upcoming events and activities. The website is still new and will be going through some minor changes over the next few months. Additionally, the City has created a Facebook page (www.facebook.com/cityoffriona) and Instagram page (@cityoffriona). "By creating social media outlets, the City is hoping to increase its online presence," says City Manager Lee Davila. The City of Friona would like to personally extend their appreciation to Emma Rector whose tireless work helped create the website.

tournament August 8-10. The tournament will be limited to the first 16 entries, and the deadline is August 5. Trophies will be awarded to first, second, and third place winners. First place winners will also receive individual trophies.

Some 45 residents of Friona took part July 20-25 in one of the most sweeping and ambitious "good neighbor" programs ever undertaken here. Sponsored by the First Baptist Church and Templo Bautista of Friona, the efforts resulted in a new church building, a new water well, plus special medical care for the people in Banderas, Mexico. During the week, the Frionans worked in a boiling sun that sent temperatures as high as 120 degrees. They lived in tents, and the only air conditioning was "natural." Yet, they accomplished their task, even finishing ahead of schedule.

Extremely hot weather has increased the use of electricity for air conditioning during the last few weeks and has established a new system peak for Southwestern Public Service Company. The peak, which is the highest amount of electricity used during the year, reached 2,651,000 kilowatts on July 14, at 5 p.m.

Coach Pete Hubbard announced this week that Friona High School coaches will begin passing out running equipment on August 6 at 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Prospective football players, freshman through seniors in high school, may check out their material in order to break in their shoes to practice.

3 Things Parents Should Know for Tax-Free Weekend

During this weekend's Texas Sales Tax Holiday, Aug. 10 - 12, certain items priced less than $100 are exempt from state and local sales tax. But did you know shoppers can purchase much more than just school supplies tax-free? Keep the following three things in mind when you hit the stores.

1. Clothing and Footwear
Certain articles of clothing and footwear are tax-free

during the holiday. These include multi-purpose athletic clothing as well as professional and school uniforms that are purchased, not rented.

2. Non-Qualifying Items
Some items don't qualify. Clothing, footwear and protective-use gear specially designed for athletic activities are not included. However, multi-purpose clothing and footwear such as tennis shoes qualify for the exemption.

3. Lesser-Known Items
Some tax-free items won't be on classroom supply lists. Hiking boots, bow ties, diapers, costumes and even veils - these items and much more are included. Get the complete list. You might be surprised by what you find.

Xcel Energy serving record demand this summer

Texas-New Mexico customers gain from recent investments in power systems

AMARILLO, Texas (July 30, 2018) - A July heat wave that baked Texas and New Mexico provided a good test for Xcel Energy's investments in generating capabilities and an improved high-voltage transmission network as demand on the company's regional transmission system reached 6,151 megawatts on July 19 - several weeks ahead of the anticipated summer peak.

have caused serious concerns just a few years ago before we made these critical upgrades."

Over the past several years, Xcel Energy has been freeing up power plant capacity that was historically reserved by wholesale customers such as rural electrical cooperatives and municipal utilities, which are increasingly procuring their own power supplies. As power demand grows in Xcel Energy's service area, this capacity has become available to area towns and cities at a cost much lower than the cost of building new power plants. Hudson pointed out that the July peak was 350 megawatts above forecasted demand, and without the extra capacity from area power plants, the company would've had a difficult time meeting customer needs.

expanded its import capabilities through new high-voltage transmission connections that have opened the region up to a wider power market. And with new lines such as the recently completed line between Hobbs and the Carlsbad area, the expanded network within the region is better able to move this extra power to growing load centers such as the southeast New Mexico oil fields.

Hudson said the company also is planning more than a dozen new distribution substations to relieve loading on existing facilities that, in the heat of the summer, operate at maximum capacity. A recent expansion in the Bushland, Texas, area is one of several enhancements planned for metro Amarillo, where customer demand has also surged this summer.

A single megawatt is enough electricity to serve up to 500 typical homes in this region.

"Overall, our ability to supply the vast amount of electricity needed to meet this record demand has been largely unhindered, which is a direct result of the investments we've made in power lines, substations and power generating capacity," said David Hudson, president, Xcel Energy - New Mexico, Texas. "This large amount of demand would

"The investments we're making are designed with the idea that our Texas-New Mexico service region will continue to grow economically, and it is our responsibility to be prepared for this growth," Hudson said.

Xcel Energy's strategy for serving the growing economies in its Texas and New Mexico service area is detailed in an initiative called "Our Energy Future," which focuses on building practical investments for the future, delivering affordable and reliable energy, and developing a diverse energy portfolio with environmental foresight. More information can be found at www.xcelenergy.com/ourenergy-futuresw.

Aug 9— Psalm 87—Jerusalem

Brett Hoyle, Pastor, First Baptist Church

Have you ever wanted to go to the Holy Land and tour that land that Jesus walked and even visit the city where Christ was crucified, resurrected, and where the church was started? If you went to Jerusalem today you would find a historic and divided city, with tensions balancing on pins and needles. Unfortunately, Jerusalem is not the city it once was, nor is it the city it one day shall be, in regards to being a place where people come and worship the Lord.

Psalm 87 is a prophetic Psalm that points to the glory of Jerusalem, the City of Zion, as God's special city that He has set apart in His redemptive plan. Jerusalem is the city where Jesus Christ walked, talked, was crucified, rose from the grave and ascended into heaven. This place is one of the most important places in the universe from a redemptive standpoint, but one day it will be the gathering place where even Israel's enemies will come and recognize that God is the Most High God. In fact, the book of Revelation speaks of people from every tribe, tongue and nation worshipping around the throne of God, which takes place in heaven, and also in the New Jerusalem. Today, Jerusalem is a divided place, filled with unbelievers opposed to Christ, but one day it will be a fountain of worship of God, who provides forgiveness of our sins through Jesus Christ.

Gasoline prices remain steady

Gasoline prices in Texas are unchanged in the past week, averaging $2.64/g yesterday, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 13,114 stations in Texas. This compares with the national average that is unchanged versus last week to $2.86/g, according to GasBuddy.

Including the change locally during the past week, prices yesterday were 47.6 cents per gallon higher than a year ago and are 1.7 cents per gallon lower than a month ago. The national average has dropped 0.7 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 52.1 cents per gallon higher than a year ago.

"The national average price of gasoline jumped to start last week before slowly tapering off during the latter half, but remains very close to their week ago levels. Oil prices have held under $70 per barrel, giving promise to gas prices that will continue to hold south of $3 per gallon and near where they have spent much of the summer so far," said Patrick DeHaan, head of petroleum analysis for GasBuddy. "With several bullish and bearish factors weighing on oil prices, you may see gas prices stuck in some sort of late summer blues before motorists see more sizable relief coming after Labor Day. Refiners continue to hum along meeting high demand with few kinks, leading to gas prices that have remained between $2.80-$2.89 per gallon the entire summer thus far."

GasBuddy is available on all mobile platforms. For more information, visit www.gasbuddy.com.

Listening to God

By Teena Hughs

I don't know about anyone else, but sometimes when I pray, and I need an immediate answer, I am not always sure who is talking to me.

A couple of weeks ago, I had a chance to go on a retreat, but I wasn't sure if I was supposed to or not. So, I prayed. I told God I needed an immediate answer, and I needed to hear it clearly!!! I got an immediate, resounding NO!!!

I couldn't understand why the answer was NO, so I decided to pray the next day and see what happened; I got the same answer.

I fully expected the answer to be YES, and when it wasn't, I questioned who I was hearing from, and why couldn't I go?

It bothers me when I don't feel like I am hearing God speak to me. I know when I read the Bible and He is speaking to me, but just like in this situation, I am not always sure about what I am hearing or who it is coming from.

As it turned out, what I heard was from God. I didn't go to the retreat, and it was the right thing to do. A calf ran into Feller's knee, straining the ligaments, and causing us to spend Saturday morning in the emergency room!

I have been reading devotionals about listening to God, and I am starting a Priscilla Shirer study, "Discerning the Voice of God" to help me figure out some things.

One thing I know for sure, you can't hear God when your life is filled completely full of busyness, like my life has been this summer. So, I need to slow down and spend more quiet time with Him. I am not good with silence, but I need to concentrate on being silent, wait for Him to speak, and I need to be open to what He says. And hopefully, I will learn to recognize who is speaking to me.

It may be a long, drawn out process, or it may be something quick and easy. I just know this is something I have needed to work on for a long time, and the results depend on me and what I do.

Thankful for Friona

Seven years ago, I was invited to join the staff of Calvary Baptist Church in Friona as an interim worship leader. The job soon became part-time for two years. When our pastor left for another church, I was called as the new pastor of the church. It's a position that I have dearly loved for the past five years and four months. I will always treasure it among the best times in over 30 years of public church ministry.

Alison and I have made so many great friends in Friona, both in our church and in this community. It has been a real treat to serve in a small community and experience the richness of the small town life that we had never known before moving back to West Texas.

We will be leaving Friona this week and moving to San Angelo where the Lord has opened a special door of opportunity for us in another church. It is a difficult move, made so because of the many friends we leave behind.

To our many friends in and outside our local churches as well as to the whole community, we want to say thank you for showing us your friendship and accepting us as part of a great town for the past seven years. Know that you will be in our prayers and that we will always remember you with thanksgiving for all the ways you have shown your love and appreciation to us. May God bless you always.

Philippians 1:3-6

With Thanksgiving,
Rev. Bobby and
Alison Broughton

Ray Dean Fleming

Ray Dean Fleming passed away Sunday, July 29, 2018. A gathering for fellowship and remembrance was held on August 1, 2018 at Lake Ridge Chapel and Memorial Designers. Family and friends gathered to celebrate his life of 79 years on Thursday, August 2, 2018, at 10 a.m. at Lake Ridge Chapel. A tribute of Ray's life may be found at www.memorialdesigners.net, where you may leave memories and expressions of sympathy for his family.

Ray Dean Fleming was born on September 13, 1938, in Clovis, New Mexico, to Raymond Fleming and Marie Beall. The family lived in Melrose, New Mexico, then Orange, Texas, and later settled in Friona, Texas where he graduated high school in 1956. After high school, Ray Dean joined the Navy. He was stationed in Maine and the Mediterranean island of Malta. He served as a radio operator for a P3 Orion Sub Chaser. During this time, he also had the opportunity to travel to Greece, Italy, and Turkey.

After being honorably discharged from the Navy, he returned to Texas. While attending Texas Tech he met the love of his life, Jan Widener. They married on October 10, 1959 in Lockney, Texas. The couple lived in Friona where he joined his father in a very successful housing construction business. For several years, Ray Dean was the owner of the clothing store "The Hut" on Main Street in Friona. While in Friona, the couple had four children, Kipi, Karla, Reese and Loyd (known to the family as Patches). He was very involved in his children's lives through coaching, attending their sporting events, and booster club. Ray Dean was a major contributor to his children's love of football; particularly the Dallas Cowboys and many happy Thanksgivings were spent at Texas Stadium watching the game.

He had a very special place in his heart for his son-in-law, Milton. They were close friends. His two granddaughters-in-law were more than just relatives by marriage. He truly loved "his girls" Deidre and Morgan. They were as special to him as any blood-related granddaughters could have been and he was so blessed to have them in his life. Later in his life, he enjoyed spending time with his grandchildren: Dallas, Sasha, Haylee, Jalayna, Trapper, Brooklyn, Raeley, Jaxon and Jacob. As with his own children, he enjoyed watching them participate in sporting activities. Later still, he enjoyed his great-grandchildren, Rowan, Kix, Riggs, Poppie, Gavin, Elijah, Keiran, Romy Beau, and Witten.

Survivors include his wife, Janis Fleming; two daughters, Kipi Lee Fleming, and Karla Dixon and husband, Milton; son, Loyd Widener and wife, Alison; five granddaughters, Haylee Swinford and husband, Alan; Jalayna Hooten and husband, Bobby; Brooklyn Ward; Sasha Medchill and husband, Brad; and Raeley Paige Fleming; four grandsons, Dallas Dixon and wife, Deidre; Trapper Dixon and wife, Morgan; Jaxon Ray Fleming, and Jacob Reese Fleming; six great-grandsons, Gavin and Kieran Swinford, Elijah Hooten, Riggs Dixon, Kix Hollingworth, and Witten Medchill; 3 great-granddaughters, Rowan Dixon, Poppie Hollingworth, and Romy Beau Medchill; sister, LaVon Reeve and husband, Don Reeve.

BULL TOWN DAYS

Originally part of the XIT Ranch in the late 1800s and known as the Hay Hook Line Camp, the City of Bovina was also referred to as "Bull Town" since more cattle were shipped from there than any other place in the world. The name "Bovina" was chosen when establishing the Post Office in 1899. Bull Town Days is an annual celebration held around the first part of August.
