WILDCATS WIN 14-0 OVER HENRIETTA FRIDAY NITE

Crowell Wildcat football team won the first game of the season Friday night at Henrietta, defeating the Bearcats in their first conference game.

The two teams fought to a tie during the first half, but the Wildcats came alive in the second half, travelling 79 yards in 14 plays to score the TD. Mike Payne, Wildcat QB, carried the ball eight times in the drive for a total of 53 yards rushing; however, the Bearcats did manage to complete 3 of 9 passes for 56 yards. The Wildcats rolled up 175 yards on the ground and completed two of three passes for a total of 35 yards.

Steve Bell and Randy Smith were standouts in the Wildcats' defense.

To Holiday Friday night

The Wildcats are on the road again this week as they go to Holiday to battle the Eagles. Forecasts are that the winner of this game could very possibly be the District 11-A champion.

Randy Adkins suffered an ankle injury in the Henrietta game, and Dan Mike Bird is still performing at less-than-capacity due to a pre-season leg injury.

Coach Thayne Amonett has announced that the Holiday game and all games remaining on the Wildcats' schedule will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Dust Storms, Shower, Norther Dominate Weather

If variety in weather is to be desired, Foard County should be a very desirable place to live. Following the dry hot summer which was halted by an 8.6 inch rain and cool weather for several days, Tuesday and Wednesday last week were again hot with a high south wind last Wednesday kicking up a terrific dust storm. Late Wednesday afternoon, a light shower fell in Crowell, temporarily settling the dust. Then a norther blew in that night cooling things off and again kicking up a dust storm which lasted most of Thursday.

How's that for variety?

County Gets More Rain Last Monday

Foard County was the recipient of another fine rain the first part of the week. The light rain began Sunday night and continued all of Monday and Tuesday. A total of .6 inch was registered by the government gauge. The slow-falling rain almost soaked in and is ideal for farmers who have already sowed or will in the next few days.

The rain was general over the entire county.

The high winds of last week had already dried out the surface of the earth from the "gully-washer" of some 2 1/2 weeks ago.

The rain halted cotton harvest which was beginning to get started in this area.

WANTED: SCHOOL SPIRIT

This year holds for us a good chance for a winning football team. As one knows this can not be achieved entirely by the team and their coaches. They must have the full support of the citizens of the community and of the student body of Crowell High School.

However, as one may not realize, a school will slowly die from lack of school spirit. As it stands we do not have enough backing to carry on a progressive school. Without a progressive school, a town tends to decline.

Let's improve our school and community by attending and participating at pep rallies and ball games in order to show our boys we are behind them all the way. So, let's join together as a school, community, and ball club to raise the standards of our school. If everyone will cooperate with the cheerleaders, band, and pep squad, we are bound to have the best school spirit in the state.

See ya at the ball game. Let's tear those Eagles apart!

CHEVROLET'S 1966 CARS ON DISPLAY OCTOBER 7

Variety, safety and new peaks of luxury highlight the 1966 Chevrolets—plus the greatest assortment of models in the division's 55-year history.

E. M. Estes, general manager, said the new Chevrolets, totaling 50 models in six passenger car lines, will go on display in dealer showrooms on Thursday, Oct. 7.

"Model, option, color and interior combinations in the new Chevrolets number in the billions, giving the buyer an unparalleled opportunity to individually customize his car," Estes said.

Principal features include: New Models—A Caprice top-of-the-line series with four prestige models is added to the top selling regular Chevrolets. A four-door hardtop joins the Chevelle line, plus a distinctive Super Sport 396 series.

Styling: The Chevy II receives its first complete redesign since introduction in 1962 models. The Chevelle is restyled, there are design refinements in the Corvair and Corvette, and the regular Chevrolet has an even "bigger car" look.

Safety Features: Numerous safety features are made standard on all models ranging from a padded instrument panel and padded sun visors to rear seat belts and backup lamps.

Mechanical Features: New engines include a 250-cubic inch L6 and two 427-cubic inch V8's. A new three-speed fully synchronized transmission is standard on all Chevrolet models.

Options: Offered for the first time, in addition to the more than 400 options and accessories already available to Chevrolet buyers, are a single-dial automatic heating and air conditioning system, a bench front seat with center armrest, adjustable front seat headrests and tilt-telescoping steering.

Interiors: Restyled, high fashion interiors are featured in all models. Bucket seats in Chevrolet, Chevelle and Chevy II models are a new slim "Strato" design. Each of the 14 station wagons has an all-vinyl interior.

Here are details on the six Chevrolet lines for 1966:

Regular Chevrolet: Headed by the luxury Caprice series, there are 19 models in five series. A color-keyed paint stripe distinguishes the Caprice Custom coupe—which has a special roofline unique among all Chevrolet models—and the Caprice Custom sedan. The two Caprice Custom station wagons have walnut grained exterior trim. All Caprice models have high prestige interiors.

The regular Chevrolets have a more powerful appearance, with a forward-thrust to front fenders and bold horizontal bars in the grille. Individual moldings and ornamentation designate each series. All have taillamps integrated into the rear quarters and deck giving a wider look.

Structural improvements have been made in both chassis and body. New springs, shock absorbers and softer bushings and body mounts increase smoothness and quietness of ride. The 110-inch wheelbase is retained.

Performance of the base six cylinder engine is improved by increasing displacement from 230 to 250 inches. Six V8's are available, including the two new 427-cubic inch engines. Horsepower range is from 155 to 425. Five basic transmissions are offered, including Turbo Hydra-Matic.

Chevelle: The popular 4-door hardtop body style joins Chevelle models for the first time. A total of 12 models in four series are offered.

Distinctive will be two Super Sport 396 models. Simulated scoops on the hood emphasize that a new 396-cubic inch engine is standard on the "SS 396" convertible and a companion "SS 396" sport coupe. The hardtop also has a new roof line employing wide, flowing rear quarters and a recessed rear window.

Length and width of Chevilles are increased approximately one-half inch while the wheelbase remains at 115 inches. Redesigned body panels and front end with wrap-around grille give a longer and lower silhouette. Rooflines are new for 2 and 4-door sedans.

Chevy II: The most complete change in exterior and interior appearance since its introduction in 1962 models gives new beauty to the seven models in three series of Chevy II.

Retaining its 110-inch wheelbase, the 1966 Chevy II is slightly lower and longer and more than 1.5 inches wider than previous models. There are new rooflines on all sedans and coupes.

A low, wide appearance is given the front end by a massive front bumper and new aluminum grille.

Corvair: The smooth continental styling of Corvair is continued for 1966. Styling refinements include new rocker sill and wheel opening moldings, new front panel emblem, plus fresh design of the rear grille and taillights.

Corvette: America's only sports car continues its program of annual styling refinement with a new nameplate on the hood, body side trim, grille and wheel covers.

Sportvan: Combining passenger car luxury with durable commercial chassis components, this ve-

In 1933, Dean established a National League strike-out record when 17 Chicago Cubs went down before his blinding speedball. He was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1933. ## Prairie Flower Reburied in Fort Sill Ceremony

Nocona—Here at the north part of the Upper Cross Timbers—the Comanche Indians' old hunting grounds—a reburial procession bearing the remains of Prairie Flower, young daughter of Cynthia Ann Parker and Chief Peta Nocona, paused Saturday afternoon on its way to the post cemetery at Fort Sill, Okla.

A funeral home limousine carrying the child's small white casket, with a red Indian blanket neatly folded length-wise across the top of the coffin, was escorted into Nocona's city limits on U. S. Highway 82, east, by highway patrolmen, Nocona officers, and the Chisholm Trail Riding Club.

A small group of citizens, some of them pioneers in this proud and historic town named for the Indian chief, gathered at the front steps of Nocona Boot Co., off the highway, to hear Nocona pay its respects and welcome relatives of Cynthia Ann Parker and descendants of Chief Nocona, professional attendants.

"Time is a great healer of sorrow, trial and tribulation," said Glenn Wilson, president of Montague County Historical Society. He recounted the tragic separation of Cynthia Ann and Prairie Flower from their husband and father and their subsequent early deaths.

"This is a noble deed that you are engaged in," he told some 15 relatives of the famous couple. "May God bless you and guide your footsteps into the future, and may we, the citizens of Nocona, ever strive to bear honorably the name, Nocona."

The center of attention seemed to be Mrs. Harry (Wanada) Page of Lawton, oldest living daughter of Quannah Parker (son of Cynthia Ann and Chief Nocona), and the great grandson of Quannah Parker.

The procession, which started at Tyler earlier in the day, reached its destination a little after 4 p. m. Saturday at Fort Sill, where Prairie Flower was reburied. A memorial service, open to the public, was held at the post cemetery at 2 p. m. Sunday.

Remains of Prairie Flower, originally buried in Asbury Cemetery southwest of Edom near Tyler, were disinterred Friday for reburial next to the graves of her mother and brother in the cemetery of the old Army post.

"Today our thoughts go back into the past to an event which transpired on the Texas frontier when a young girl was taken into captivity by Chief Nocona, chief of the Noconne band of Comanches," said Wilson.

"Prairie Flower whose memory we honor today and who is being returned to the land of her people was a victim of this period and condition. It is entirely fitting that we, the citizens of Nocona, honor the families of Chief Nocona and Cynthia Ann Parker for we proudly bear the name of this Comanche chief," Wilson said.

The attorney noted that an early-day postmaster at Nocona, John L. Davis, was a Texas Ranger during a fight on the Pease River near Crowell when Rangers rescued Cynthia Ann and Prairie Flower from the Comanches.

History records that Prairie Flower, then 2, and Cynthia Ann, in her late 30's, were taken to live at the East Texas home of Silas Parker Jr., Cynthia's youngest brother.

But even though she had been reunited with her kin, Cynthia Ann grieved, for she considered herself a Comanche. Then, three years later, Prairie Flower, at the age of 5, died. She was buried in Asbury Cemetery beside the grave of a sister of Cynthia Ann. Heart-broken, the mother later died, never learning the whereabouts of her husband, Chief Nocona.

Cynthia Ann was buried in Foster Cemetery in Henderson County, Texas, but in 1910, Chief Quannah reburied his mother's remains at the Fort Sill Cemetery. When Quannah died in 1911, he was buried beside her.

Two Minutes With the Bible

Majorities Can Be Wrong

When St. Paul was at Ephesus his mighty message about Christ and the riches of God's grace had a profound effect. Demetrius and the silversmiths had been doing a big business, making silver shrines for the goddess Diana, but now their business was falling off steadily. They could not take this lying down, for they adored Diana—also they adored the money they made selling images to help other people adore her!

Finally somebody started a chant: "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" Soon others joined and swelled the chorus until "all with one voice, about the space of two hours cried out, Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" You see! The great mass of people were still faithful to Diana! Referring to the religion which surrounded this pagan goddess, the town clerk said confidently: "These things cannot be spoken against" (Acts. 19:34-36).

In striking contrast, Paul was later informed at Rome concerning those who stood with him: "As concerning this sect, we know that everywhere it is spoken against" (Acts 28:22).

We wonder which side our readers would now prefer to be on: that of the superstitious multitude, or that of the minority who place their faith in the Bible.

Millions worshipped the goddess Diana from a thousand years before Christ to two centuries after, but who knows her today? Where is the evidence of all the miracles she is supposed to have wrought? Her glory is little more than a memory and the religion which revolved around her name is a thing of the past.

But the Bible, for all these centuries and more, has stood unchanged and unchangeable. It has weathered, not barely but handsomely, all the storms of criticism and opposition and has proved itself to be indeed the Word of God.

Read the Bible, especially that part which is meant for us today: the epistles of Paul. There we find how God, the Judge of all, can be just and still justify

Fall Produce Starts Arriving

Produce counters soon will begin to fill with fall vegetables and fruits. There are vivid red apples, green and yellow squash and bright orange pumpkins. Sweet potatoes, cabbage, eggplant, collards and turnips and greens are other good vegetable choices for fall, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Texas A&M University Extension consumer marketing specialist.

Supplies of russet and red potatoes are increasing and prices are below those of last year. Corn, okra, blackeye, crowder and purple hull peas are still available but supplies are declining. Snap beans are the featured item at some stores.

Grapes are an attractive fruit choice with both white seedless and Tokay of excellent quality available. Golden delicious is one of the early apple varieties now on the market. Cantaloupes, honeydews, pears, oranges and pineapples are available. New crop grapefruit is just beginning to arrive.

For an economical beverage, Mrs. Clyatt says to mix equal quantities of fresh whole milk and reconstituted nonfat dry milk. Use this combination in hot chocolate or cream soups, both favorites for cool weather.

Fryers are in good supply with prices at bargain levels. Large size chicken hens and turkeys are attractive buys.

Beef prices are generally about the same as a week ago. Hindquarter cuts of beef may be just a little lower in price, which means that steaks may cost less. The forequarter cuts including cuts for pot roasting and ground beef continue to give the most for value.

the sinner (Rom. 3:21-26), how He paid for our sins Himself when He died as God the Son on Calvary's cross (I Cor. 15:1-3), and how He can now offer salvation to all solely by grace, through faith in Christ (Eph. 1:7; 2:7-10).

Those who believe these things may not be in the majority; they may even be "spoken against," but they alone, in all the world, enjoy the knowledge, the assurance and the joy of salvation.

Fort Belknap Historical Society to Meet Oct. 16

The annual meeting of the Fort Belknap Historical Society will be held at the restored Fort Belknap near Newcastle on October 16 with Mrs. Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls, president, presiding.

Featured speaker will be Robert S. Weddle, publisher and owner of the Menard News. Mr. Weddle has made an extensive study of the San Saba Mission and Presidio and their effects on the development of Texas. In his recently-published book, "The San Saba Mission, Spanish Pivot in Texas," he has combined all available material related to these historical structures which were established in 1757. He also will discuss Parrilla's campaign to the Red River and Old Spanish Fort and its implications.

Texas Wesleyan College speech-drama students under the direction of Mason Johnson will be presented featuring Spanish costumes and music with a descriptive narration.

Also featured at the meeting will be an exhibit of paintings of Sally Gee Pettus of Goliad. Her pictures have been shown throughout the southern United States and have drawn much interest because her chief subjects are places of historical interest in Texas. She has been able to bring to focus in her art her deep interest in Texas history.

History students of Roland Hose of Newcastle High School will serve coffee for the art exhibit at 9 a. m.

Reservations for the barbecue luncheon may be made with Clarence Daniels, First National Bank, Newcastle. Barbecue lunch is $1.50.

Lions Club Meeting

Miss Sharon Mapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mapp, who was a delegate from Foard County to a citizenship seminar held at Huntsville Aug. 10-13, told members of the Lions Club at their Tuesday meeting of the seminar. Miss Mapp was sponsored by the Foard County Farm Bureau, which sponsors a student to the seminar each year. This year a total of 320 students from 130 Texas counties attended.

President Robert Kincaid gave the club a report on the 16th annual Lions Club street carnival, which had gross receipts of about $1300, and earning a net profit of $600 to $650.

Richard Vecera was introduced to the club as a new member. Bill Painter of Lubbock was a visitor.

Federation Hears About Sewing Course and Head Start

An adult sewing course and Project Heart Start were described for members of the Foard County Federation of Women's Clubs at the meeting Monday, Sept. 27, in the Adelphi Club house.

Mrs. James Welch said that eleven Negro women who took the adult sewing course were anxious to learn. A few could not read and this made teaching more difficult but not impossible. She said one cannot understand the phrase "culturally deprived" until working with such a group. It was difficult for these women to associate the pattern pieces with their proper place in the finished garment because they have been unaccustomed to such abstract thinking.

She told of their pride in finishing each sewing project and the need for material, patterns and "findings" with which to start another class. It was pointed out that this is one of the most direct ways to "help people help themselves" through education. The class was well received by its students and supported by many persons in Crowell through donations of sewing supplies. Mrs. Welch has started a pattern file for these women and will be glad to accept old patterns and other sewing supplies for a new sewing class now being planned.

Mrs. Lewis Sloan described Project Headstart, for pre-school children, as one of the most interesting experiments in education. More than 25 students enrolled in the Crowell program. She said some of the children could not cut with scissors, hold a crayon or do any number of other things which children need to know before starting first grade. The pre-school program was designed "not to work miracles, but to help the children from being a year behind in skills before they even start to school." She pointed out that children who repeat first grade are a heavier expense on the school than children who are given pre-school training. Some of the children will still have to repeat, but, hopefully, not as many.

At a business meeting preceding the program, the FCFWC voted to change the fiscal year from a September 1 opening to January 1.

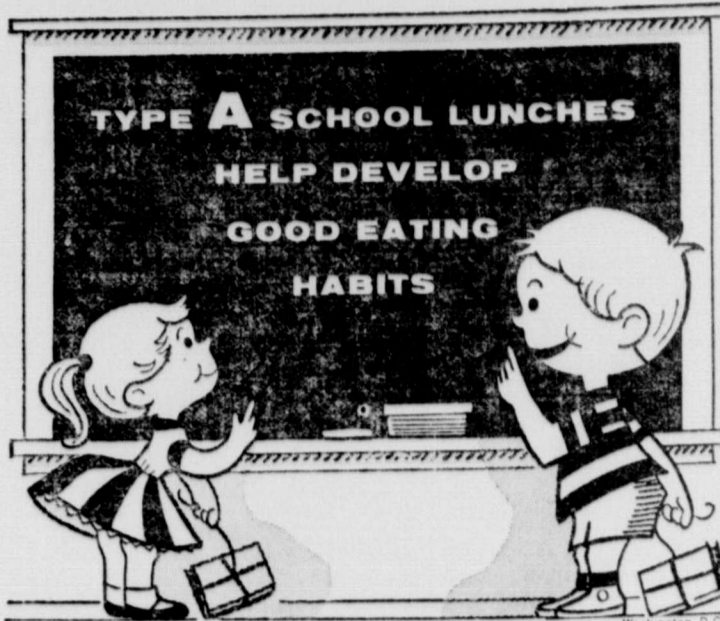

Mrs. Virgil Johnson was appointed chairman of a committee to obtain and refinish display cases and frames needed for the Foard County Museum in the courthouse. Others on the committee are Meses, Ed Huskey, L. A. Andrews and Clarence Garrett. Those present contributed $16 to be used in the museum display project. They also voted to suggest that each member club donate $2.50 to the museum fund.

Members of the Crowell Garden Club were hostesses for the meeting. Refreshments were served from a tea table laid with a pale pink organdy cloth and with table appointments of silver and crystal. An arrangement of fall flowers in deep wine shades was used on the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Duckworth Honored at Open House Sunday

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. George Fox and visited with Mr. and Mrs. Duckworth.

NATIONAL SCHOOL LUNCH WEEK OCTOBER 10-16. In the current school year about 18 million children will be served nutritious noonday meals under the National School Lunch Program. It is administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, which provides about a fifth of the total cost in cash and food. This program makes it possible for children to enjoy a complete lunch for an average payment of only 27 cents. A tenth of the nearly 3 billion lunches consumed last year were served free or at reduced prices to youngsters who could not afford the full price. About 71,000 public and non-profit private schools are expected to take part in the program this year.

Columbian Club

Fashion news was the topic of study on September 29 when Mrs. Homer Black entertained the Columbian Club. Mrs. John S. Ray presided over the business session and Mrs. D. R. Magee was the program leader.

Thoreau's words, "Every generation laughs at the old fashions but follows religiously the new," were quoted. Mrs. Magee listed the newest trends in ladies' ready-to-wear. Mrs. Grady Halbert discussed the latest innovations in hair styles and the "contour" look in cosmetics.

"Many of our fashions for this season are being influenced by fabrics and designs from the Orient, while crocheted weaves, more elaborate corduroys, quilted, bordered and stretch fabrics, fountains, fur by the yard, synthetics and challis are especially popular," according to Mrs. Black.

Accessories to complement the new wardrobe were discussed by Mrs. Allen Shultz. "Not only must you choose accessories appropriate to your attire," she said, "you must also choose them in relation to their being suitable for you." During the social hour, a refreshment plate was served to the club members.

Soil Management Discussed by SCS Employee

by Ray Duckworth

Farming is like any successful business—many factors of management are involved. In farming, a very important one of these is soil management. Good soil management is using each acre of land within its capabilities and treating the land in accordance with its needs to keep it permanently productive so as to yield the greatest continuous profit. Misuse of land costs money. By using practices that have been tested and proven by practical farming according to the capability of his land, the farmer obtains the maximum return for his labor. The profit from farming is determined by the yields, the prices received, and the cost of production. If yields can be increased without greatly effecting the cost of production, profits will be greater regardless of the prices received for the products sold.

The most important factor of all is the human element—the farmer. The farmer is responsible for making the decisions involved in management. The productivity of the land can be changed by good or poor soil management.

Things to consider in good soil management are: (1) the soil organic supply (humus), (2) the plant nutrient supply (fertility), (3) the physical condition of the land, (4) and the effective depth of soil (erosion). These are all very important. It is difficult to change any one without causing a change in the others.

When the land was first being settled, the humus, tilth, fertility, and erosion were fairly well in balance with the climate. After the virgin land was cultivated, the soil organic matter began to oxidize or burn out more rapidly, the soil structure or tilth began to deteriorate, water could not penetrate the soil as readily, and erosion became more rapid, washing away fertility and humus leaving more gullies, less productive soil.

Having a good supply of moisture now in the ground, why not sow a winter legume crop, either Austrian winter peas, or vetch? In so doing, you will be adding back organic matter, fertility, improving the physical condition, or tilth, and controlling erosion. Nature should be studied more carefully and understood better for good soil management.

Cotton Harvest Lags in Area

Only a little over 4,000 bales of the 1965 cotton crop have been classed to date by the Altus classing office of the USDA's cotton division. "A late crop combined with several harvesting problems have held the gathering of the cotton to a slow pace," reported Charles E. Cox, in charge of the Altus office. "We have classed only 4,045 samples through October 1, compared with nearly 6,000 bales to the same date last year and about 25,000 bales time two years ago."

Nearly half of the crop so far this season, however, was handled the past week, indicating the volume of harvesting ginning to build.

Middling light spotted, most prevalent grade of cotton so far this season, has averaged 31-32 of an inch. The average has been good, with 92 per cent in the 3.6 to 5.1 ranges.

Pressley strength is also good, averaging 83 per cent ranges 80,000 pounds per inch and above.

White River Lake Is New Fish Spot

White River Lake, located 58 miles from Lubbock in a triangle between Floydada, Ralls and Dickens, is the latest fish facility for Texas, according to Leo D. Lewis, regional fishery supervisor for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The October 1 opening date found the lake, constructed in the early 60's and stocked in December, 1963, after a preliminary rough fish eradication program, full and teeming with three-year-old game fish.

Initial stocking included 45,000 channel catfish and 25,000 black bass from state fish hatcheries. Lewis said the new lake is expected to produce some fine strings of game fish for lower plains anglers.

Federation Hears About Sewing Course and Head Start

An adult sewing course and Project Head Start were described for members of the Foard County Federation of Women's Clubs at the meeting Monday, Sept. 27, in the Adelpian Club house.

Mrs. James Welch said that eleven Negro women who took the adult sewing course were anxious to learn. A few could not read and this made teaching more difficult but not impossible. She said one cannot understand the phrase "culturally deprived" until working with such a group. It was difficult for these women to associate the pattern pieces with their proper place in the finished garment because they have been unaccustomed to such abstract thinking.

She told of their pride in finishing each sewing project and the need for material, patterns and "findings" with which to start another class. It was pointed out that this is one of the most direct ways to "help people help themselves" through education. The class was well received by its students and supported by many persons in Crowell through donations of sewing supplies. Mrs. Welch has started a pattern file for these women and will be glad to accept old patterns and other sewing supplies for a new sewing class now being planned.

Mrs. Lewis Sloan described Project Headstart, for pre-school children, as one of the most interesting experiments in education. More than 25 students enrolled in the Crowell program. She said some of the children could not cut with scissors, hold a crayon or do any number of other things which children need to know before starting first grade. The pre-school program was designed "not to work miracles, but to help the children from being a year behind in skills before they even start to school." She pointed out that children who repeat first grade are a heavier expense on the school than children who are given pre-school training. Some of the children will still have to repeat, but, hopefully, not as many.

At a business meeting preceding the program, the FCFWC voted to change the fiscal year from a September 1 opening to January 1.

Mrs. Virgil Johnson was appointed chairman of a committee to obtain and refinish display cases and frames needed for the Foard County Museum in the courthouse. Others on the committee are Mmes. Ed Huskey, L. A. Andrews and Clarence Garrett. Those present contributed $16 to be used in the museum display project. They also voted to suggest that each member club donate $2.50 to the museum fund.

Members of the Crowell Garden Club were hostesses for the meeting. Refreshments were served from a tea table laid with a pale pink organdy cloth and with table appointments of silver and crystal. An arrangement of fall flowers in deep wine shades was used on the table.

White River Lake Is New Fish Spot

White River Lake, located 58 miles from Lubbock in a triangle between Floydada, Ralls and Dickens, is the latest fish facility for Texas, according to Leo D. Lewis, regional fishery supervisor for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The October 1 opening date found the lake, constructed in the early 60's and stocked in December, 1963, after a preliminary rough fish eradication program, full and teeming with three-year-old game fish.

Initial stocking included 45,000 channel catfish and 25,000 black bass from state fish hatcheries.

Lewis said the new lake is expected to produce some fine strings of game fish for lower plains anglers.

Roll Call Minus 193 Water Toll

The summer recreational herds have returned to seasonal routine but their number is short by 193 young and old.

That is the final tragic toll of drownings from water sports as reported to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department which last April began publicizing a casualty card as a safety reminder.

The collapse of the summertime hazard was reflected in the last two weeks' total which showed only two victims as compared with the peak high of 24.

The last two deaths were typical of the summertime victims. A seven-year-old boy stepped into a deep hole while wading in Waco creek, near the Brazos river. A nine-year-old boy drowned in a private Kingsville pool.

J. B. Phillips, law enforcement coordinator for the Department, said water hazards still exist mainly for fishermen since they will be wearing heavier clothing and more susceptible to disaster from capsizing boats.

He cautioned anglers and boating enthusiasts that life belts "are absolute necessity plus a legal requirement" and that "extreme alertness should prevail concerning squally weather hazards now that chilly water pose a threat from exposure."

Reg. Authority vs. State Law; Here's Status

So you're trapped in the gobblegook main stream, completely baffled by the current talk about counties where wildlife is harvested under "regulatory authority" or under "state law."

Well, don't feel lonesome, brother, because you have company to spare. Your next door neighbor might not know either.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, in fact, requires a sizeable stamp budget for mailing out information leaflets covering the subject. And it is never certain that it has succeeded in fully explaining the arrangement.

P. B. Uzell, wildlife coordinator for the Department, says the hunters' problems are understandable. He explains "regulatory authority" this way:

Regulatory authority for the Parks and Wildlife Commission simply means that the people of a county, through their representatives in the Legislature, have turned over the responsibility of conducting scientific research on game and fish problems, setting of open seasons, bag limits, and methods of taking wildlife resources to the Commission.

About 15 years ago, the first counties were given such a status. Now this number has grown to 184 of the 254 counties.

"Under state law" means that wildlife is managed by statute, at least as concerns game seasons, bag limits, dates, hunting hours and other details. The speific arrangements are determined by the State Legislature which alone has the power to change the laws in many ways.

13 Shallow Dry Holes Reported
