Requirements on Brucellosis Given by State

S. B. Walker, executive director of the Texas Animal Health Commission has sent the following information to the News:

All cattle entering Modified Certified counties or Counties in the process of certification must be tested and be negative to the brucellosis agglutination test within 30 days prior to entry and be retested negative in not less than 30 nor more days after entry except those cattle exempt below:

A. Steers, spayed heifers, calves under 8 months of age, and official brucellosis vaccinates under 30 months of age.

B. Cattle originating from Certified Brucellosis Free Herds when accompanied by an Official Health Certificate indicating status of herd of origin.

C. Cattle, individually identified, originating from non-quarantined herds within Modified Certified Brucellosis areas accompanied by an Official Health Certificate.

D. Cattle consigned directly to an approved livestock market.

E. Cattle consigned and delivered to an approved feedlot.

Dr. Walker added that these regulations are very important to livestock owners in Foard County as failure to comply with them could jeopardize the brucellosis status of the county.

Library Staff Thanks Visitors

The Crowell High School Library staff, under the direction of Mrs. Irene New, librarian, this week thanked area residents for the interest shown by those who visited the library during Public School Week.

"The interest and appreciation manifested prompted much zeal which will continue to inspire us to work even more diligently to make the library one of the best," Mrs. New said.

Deadline Near on Testing of Cattle for Brucellosis

Deadline near on Brucellosis testing of cattle in Foard County. Approximately 4,000 head of cattle have been tested for brucellosis in Foard County. The infection has run just about one per cent, according to Dr. W. H. Horn, State Veterinarian in charge.

Livestock producers who haven't had their cattle tested are urged to contact the lab in Crowell and make arrangements for having their cattle tested as soon as possible.

The lab will leave Foard County March 27. After that date all blood samples will be sent to Austin for testing and there will be a waiting period of five days or longer to get the results. The lab phone number is 684-5501.

Dr. W. H. Horn and the lab technician would like to thank all the Foard County livestock producers for their cooperation and thoughtfulness.

Paper Published One Day Late

Sickness has caused this issue of the News to be published a day later than usual.

The Linotype operator, Bill Klepper, was in the hospital from Sunday night until Wednesday afternoon. Jimmy Clay of Vernon helped out by setting type Monday all day and also Tuesday night, and the paper was printed Thursday afternoon.

Some items may have been omitted and others shortened. It was the best we could do under the circumstances.

W. S. L. to Help People at Abilene Hospital

The Women's Service League at their March 9 meeting, heard Mrs. Cornelia McDaniel, president, read a letter from the State Home for the Mentally Retarded at Abilene. The letter asked that good used clothing is urgently needed for Easter and money for Easter baskets. From its beginning, the League has sponsored this institution as a charitable undertaking.

The league members voted to each bring one nice outfit for either man, woman, boy or girl six years and over to the next meeting.

The Reserve Champion Fat Lamb was shown by Baldemar Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brown of Crowell. The Foard County Farm Bureau paid 39.75c per pound for the Reserve Champion.

Mike Matus' Grand Champion Barrow was purchased by Foard County Farmers Union for 50 1/2c per pound. Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Matus.

Following is a list of the owners, buyer, and price paid per pound for:

Extremes Noted in Temperature During Past Week

Temperature-wise, Foard County has had a variation this past week, but moisture-wise, it's the same old story—dry.

On Wednesday morning of last week, the mercury dropped to the teens to set a record low for that day, and since that time, at least three days saw the mercury rise to record highs for this date, with the temperature getting up into the 90's.

However, a norther which hit early Wednesday morning of this week brought some relief from the heat, but no relief from the drought which is plaguing Foard County and all of West Texas.

Lions Club Hears Singer-Evangelist

Pointers Given on Filing Medicare Claims

Reports from Group Medical & Surgical Services, the part of the Blue Cross-Blue Shield organization in Dallas which handles Medicare doctor bills claims for the Foard County area indicate that payment of some claims is being slowed up because Medicare identification numbers are not shown on the request for payment form.

Edwin Draughon, Social Security manager in Vernon, said the problem of missing Medicare numbers has been most frequent on claims submitted by beneficiaries. "Even though the number may seem like a very simple item, it is very important to the Medicare carrier," he said. "Without the Medicare identification number, it is very difficult for the carrier to find out if you are actually signed up for doctor bill insurance or if you have met your $50 deductible for the year."

When the number is not shown on the request for payment form, Mr. Draughon said, the carrier must write to the social security district office or the beneficiary to get it. Naturally, time is lost and the payment is not made as quickly as it could be.

Mr. Draughon advised beneficiaries to be sure that they copy the number from their red, white and blue Medicare card in the blank at the upper right hand corner of the request for payment form before sending it to Group Medical & Surgical Services.

While the missing Medicare identification number has been noted as one of the most frequent errors on the claims forms, signatures, addresses and other items have also been reported missing from some forms.

"There are a couple of important things for beneficiaries who pay their doctor bills and send in their own request for payment to find out if you are actually

New Proposal by Secretary of Labor

"Secretary of Labor Wirtz has come up with the crying need for a method by which it can be assured that dropouts who don't want to go to school can reap the maximum benefit from this great and glorious society called USA . . . Calling for a rational, equitable and effective policy for youth, Wirtz would establish community 'Opportunity Boards' where youths would be required to register on reaching the age of 18 or quitting school . . . The aim of the community 'Opportunity Board' would be as follows:

1. To provide badly needed 'human inventory' (translated: A large group of live bodies). 2. To arrange for every American boy and girl to proceed along the course—education, employment, training, or service—that he or she wants or ought to take' . . . The choice of words seems to imply that if they don't want to take the course they ought to take, they then would be compelled to take the course they ought to take . . . Cradle to the grave maintenance of people by their government is abhorrent . . . and always has been. Each program enacted for the so-called welfare of the people has drawn a net tighter and tighter 'round the citizen by giving him something and then taking some of his freedom away in exchange."—South Bend, Wash., Journal.

Existing efforts to augment survival of endangered wild creatures are described in a recent issue of Texas Parks and Wildlife magazine.

Typical of the species facing extinction is that commonly called the prairie dog.

This cunning animal, the magazine notes, is not a dog at all "but a perky ground squirrel, with somewhat of a resemblance to a fat puppy."

The article, headlined 'The Eleventh Hour,' and written by Joan Pearsall, continues: "It is a pinkish cinnamon color, mixed with buff, its tail tipped with black. It has large eyes and short rounded ears. In the 1890's it was estimated that more than 800 million of the animals inhabited an area of 90,000 square miles in western Texas. They now occupy the western half of Texas from the Panhandle south to San Antonio, and west to El Paso, but are rare throughout most of their range."

"They prefer short grass prairies, which allow for good visibility for their colonies or 'towns,' that could vary in size from a few to several thousand individuals, except that the large concentrations are now a thing of the past. Their homes consist of deep burrows with funnel-shaped entrances that descend sharply before leveling off. The main entrances have crater-like mounds around them, for protection from floods and to serve as lookout points. They partially hibernate in the northern part of Texas, storing up reserves of fat in summer to tide them over the winters.

"Their food is chiefly low growing weeds and grasses, which they eat voraciously . . . Since this was a heavy drain on range vegetation, livestock and farming interests joined forces with government rodent control specialists in poisoning millions of the animals, using mainly strychnine-treated grain. This campaign, together with their being a target for hunters, reduced their population to a few small, scattered colonies by 1940. By 1960, it was almost eliminated completely."

"Now, not only have they become something of a novelty, but it is strongly suspected that removal of the prairie dogs has resulted in an undesirable spread of brush, with far more detrimental effects on the livestock industry than damage done by prairie dogs. Moderate populations are now seen to be beneficial, and ranchers are working to keep the surviving remnants."

HOLIDAY PARTY CENTERPIECE—Having a hand in making party decorations is every child's delight. This two-foot Santa, made from paint-mixing buckets and paper, is easy to construct. Q-tip cotton swabs form a three-dimensional beard. Miniature Santas made from small paper cups can be given young guests for take-home favors.

Giant Turtle Project Gets P&WD Support

Another chapter in the story about "The Long Road Back"—or the never-ending effort to restore near extinct wild creatures—is being written near Rockport by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and associated agencies.

This narrative concerns the mighty green sea turtle. These ponderous marine denizens have been known to reach 300 pounds and an age of more than 200 years. They once roamed the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico providing countless tons of meat for shore squatters and for cuisine fanciers far and wide. It was the demand for their prized flesh that contributed primarily to their near extinction.

Now, 200 green sea turtles have been flown from Costa Rica. The final leg of the turtle lift was handled by a Department aircraft. It made the pickup from a U. S. Navy plane in Florida. The shipment was part of a huge consignment allocated to remote main-

Population of
Is Growing

The number of aged persons in Texas, those 65 and over, is increasing at a faster rate than the state's total population. Projections for 1980 indicate an aged population of over 1.1 million, say R. L. Skrabanek, B. E. Dickson and W. K. Upham of Texas

Texas A&M's Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology. In a recent publication, they indicate that the number of Texas aged persons will command wider public attention in the future. As a group, their political importance will continue to grow, and more attention will be given their recreation and housing needs, pension plans, retirement programs and medical and welfare services programs. Preventive medicines, better diets and control of communicable diseases have resulted in more people living longer. In 1960 there were 610 persons 100 years old or older living in Texas, and 43,000 were 85 or older. The researchers reason that, with current retirement policies in effect, an increasing number of Texans will have 35 years or more of "doing nothing" after retirement. Also, since women live, on the average, 6 years longer than men, female numerical superiority increases with age and women will continue to control a greater share of the nation's wealth in the future. The researchers point out that, with many young people entering the labor market each year, and the need to advance younger workers, a sharp increase in voluntary and compulsory retirements has taken place. This has resulted in a decided downward trend in the employment of older people in recent years. Many elderly people have an income problem. In 1959 the median income of all families where the head of the household was an elderly person and where both husband and wife were living was less than half the income of all families in Texas with both husband and wife living. Another problem is housing. After retirement, income usually drops, often making necessary a move to less expensive housing or accepting an invitation to live with younger relatives. Homes for the aged offer a solution to this problem. Since 1960, these homes are no longer being established in isolated locations; excellent medical care, rehabilitation and food services are being offered, and programs have been developed for purposeful activity and maintenance of community contacts for the residents. More detailed information on the aged population in Texas may be found in bulletin No. B-1057, Characteristics of the Texas Aged. This publication was published jointly by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Copies are available at the county extension office.

Six Flags over Texas to Begin 1967 Season April 29

Six Flags over Texas will begin its 1967 season on Saturday, April 29. The announcement came from Angus G. Wynne Jr., president of Great Southwest Corporation, owner-operator of the famed 115-acre, historical-theme entertainment park located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth. During the spring, Six Flags over Texas will be open on Fridays from 5 p. m. to 11 p. m., and on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Starting May 26 and continuing through Labor Day, the park will be open seven days a week from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Following Labor Day and until the season closes October 29, Six Flags will operate on Saturdays and Sundays only from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. The Run-a-Way Mine Train ride, key project in the $1,000,000 expansion of the Boom Town section of the park which was begun last season, has been completed over the winter months. The ride, one of the most exciting ever developed, was introduced to visitors on a limited basis near the end of last season, while work continued on the project. An attendance milestone will also be reached during the forthcoming season, as Six Flags anticipates welcoming its ten-millionth visitor sometime during the month of August. The park, which opened in 1961, has already counted over 8.5 million visitors.

Space Age Refrigeration

What's in your refrigerator future? Small cabinet refrigerators placed throughout the kitchen will be on the mass market during the 1970's, according to Miss Joy Arrington, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M. She explained that kitchen cabinets will be insulated so that the homemaker can refrigerate as many as she wishes and have them installed where she needs them most. For example, a freezer cabinet especially for meat might be placed near the range; or a cabinet with ice trays would be handy by the sink. Custom controls for each food type will be possible with this system. Refrigerators for 1967 emphasize improvements in existing features rather than the addition of new ones. There are more settings on temperature controls, more shelf variations, and more new colors to choose from. Crispers and meat keepers are offered on more lower-priced models than in the past. Much of the emphasis is on large units ranging from 16 to 30 cubic feet. Another prediction is that no-frost refrigerators may well be the standard of the future. They now account for about 50 per cent of refrigerator sales. Models with automatic ice makers are growing in popularity, and they may soon come with ice dispensing mechanisms which will eliminate opening the door for the ice. There is also increased interest in portable refrigerators. Small units powered by batteries are used for camping, picnics, and other family activities. Tiny units that plug into the car battery may be available soon. These would be especially suitable for long trips, Miss Arrington noted.

From the News . . . THIRTY YEARS AGO

News items below were taken from the Thursday, March 18, 1937, issue of The Foard County News:

Another boxing bout will be held Thursday night in the Crowell gymnasium at 8 o'clock. The proceeds will go to the athletic fund to help buy sweaters for the members of the basketball team. The money made last week was placed in the track fund.

A bill appropriating $250,000 for the purpose of establishing a cotton research laboratory in Texas, wherein new uses of cotton and expansion of present uses may be sought out, discovered, and made available, introduced by George Moffett, Representative from this district, was given unanimous approval by the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives. Unanimous approval of this committee on any bill is unusual.

Three hundred and fifty worksheets for the 1937 Soil Conservation Program have been signed so far by Foard County farmers.

Varied conditions during the past week end brought precipitation enough to raise the total rainfall for March to about 2.50 inches. A norther struck Saturday afternoon, followed by rain during the night, which turned to ice as fast as it fell. A light snow fell Sunday morning.

The Crowell FFA meat judging team won eighth place in the State meat judging contest held in Fort Worth last Friday and Saturday at the Armour & Co. plant. James Welch, member of the Crowell team, was one of the first twenty high point men of the state with 250 points out of a possible 320, and will receive a handbook on meats. Other members of the Crowell team were Carl Connell, Chippie Griffin and David Sallis. The boys were accompanied to Fort Worth by Walker Todd, vocational agriculture instructor, and Hughes Fish.

W. D. McFarlane of Graham, United States representative from the 13th District, has been appointed to replace the late Rep. James Buchanan as a member of the powerful Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives.

Remodeling and repainting of the White Rose Cafe was completed Tuesday by the owner, Joe Eddy.

Vance Favor, State Highway official, was in Truscott Monday.

Several from Ogden attended the play, "Cafe Yourself," at the Vivian school house Friday night.

A play entitled, "Plain Jane," was presented at the Truscott High School auditorium last Friday night by the senior class.

The play, "Professor Pepp," which was given by the Junior Class of the Thalia High School Wednesday night, was well attended. Over $30.00 was made from the play which is to be used for the Junior-Senior banquet.

Knox City cattlemen, A. E. Propps and Carl Davis, were in Truscott Tuesday.

A scrimmage will be held Wednesday afternoon at the high school stadium between the Wildcats of 1937 and footballers from Margaret.

Social Security Benefits Go to Young as Well as the Old

Social security is often thought of as a monthly check that most age 62 or 65 and over people can get if they or their spouse worked a certain period of time and made enough contributions to special social security funds to be insured for the payments.

Edwin Draughon, manager of the Vernon social security office, this week indicated, though, that many monthly checks go to middle-aged people, young people and even infants in this area. Most people know that they can get benefits at age 62 or 65 and later but do not know much about the income protection social security provides dependents of young disabled workers and survivors of workers who die at young ages.

Monthly payments can be made to these dependents of young disabled workers or the dependents when the younger worker dies:

—unmarried children under 18 years of age or between 18 and 22 if they are full-time students;

—unmarried children 18 or over who were severely disabled before they reached 18 and who continue to be disabled;

—a wife or widow, regardless of her age, if she is caring for a child who is getting payments based on the worker's social security account;

—certain other dependents.

Of course, the young severely disabled worker can also receive monthly benefits if the disability will prevent any work for at least 12 months and the worker had employment covered by social security in five of the ten years before the disability began.

For more information, write Social Security Administration, Box 1417, Vernon, Texas, and ask for Pamphlet 35 or see the representative when he comes to Crowell from 10 a. m. to noon at the court house March 23.

Two Minutes With the Bible

Paul's Three "I Ams"

Three times in Rom. 1:14-16, the Apostle Paul uses the phrase "I am," and each one carries an important message for every true believer in Christ.

First he says in verse 14: "I am debtor"—debtor to all men to tell them about the saving work of Christ. But why was he indebted to people he had never even seen? For several reasons.

First, he had in his hand what they needed to be saved from the penalty and power of sin. If I see a drunkard lying across the railroad track and I do nothing about it, am I not a murderer if he is killed? If I see a man drowning and I have a life buoy in my hand but do not throw it to him, am I not a murderer if he goes down for the last time? If I see millions of lost souls about me and, knowing the message of salvation, do not tell them, am I not guilty if they die without Christ?

Further, Paul felt himself a debtor to others, because the Christ who had died for his sins had also died for the sins of others. As he says in II Cor. 5:14, 15: "Christ died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves but unto Him who died for them and rose again."

Finally, the Christ who had died for Paul's sins, had commissioned him to tell others of His saving grace. Thus he says in I Cor. 9:16, 17: "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel! For . . . a dispensation of the gospel is committed unto me."

Paul could say further what every true believer should be able to say: Not "But," but "so, as much as in me is I am ready." (Rom. 1:15). He was ready to discharge his debt because he had that with which to discharge it—the wonderful "gospel of the grace of God." And he did in-

Local Baptist Pastor Opposes Liquor by the Drink Bill

"If the saloon bill is passed and liquor by the drink is allowed by law, more than 600 Texans will die needlessly in automobile accidents the first year," Rev. Glenn Willson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, said this week.

Rev. Willson said the 600 figure is based on a 20 per cent increase in fatal automobile accidents that occurred in other states after liquor by the drink was legalized.

In addition to the 600 additional deaths in automobile accidents, the number of alcoholics would increase by 50 per cent, Rev. Willson added.

Open saloons would not increase available tax money because so much alcohol-caused costs would arise, according to statistics from Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education Inc.

"In 'bottle only' states, per capita consumption of alcohol is slightly under one gallon per person per year. In open saloon states it is nearly two gallons, Rev. Willson said.
