Go Back to School Next Week

(The following editorial was written by the Texas Citizens Committee on Public Schools Week and was to every weekly and daily newspaper in the State of Texas for publication. George Moffett of Vernon is that committee.)

Remember, how as a child, you were eager to see your mother and father notice your achievements—encourage your aims and ambitions? Stop to think about it, and we find that even as adults, attention in a while still feels good.

It's the same for your children. That's why Public Schools Week in Texas is such a good idea.

This year, March 4th through 8th is Texas Public Schools Week, and it's your chance to visit at his school. You'll meet his teachers, and see first hand what he's accomplishing—the progress he's making toward his goals.

Besides offering him encouragement, a visit to your child's classroom will let you see how your tax dollars are being spent for modern education. You'll marvel at the many advancements Texas education has made in just the last year.

Texas teachers and the newest innovations in Texas schools are readying your child for tomorrow's world. You can help your child, and our public schools with a visit to your child's classroom during Public Schools Week in Texas, March 4th through 8th. This is your responsibility. But, it's one both you and your child will enjoy.

VEHICLE INSPECTIONS WILL LAG IN COUNTY

As many as one-third of the vehicles in Foard County have not had their safety inspection, District Safety Officer Ralph Briscoe reported this week in releasing the public of the April 1st deadline. Of 1,844 registered vehicles in the county, as of February 20, only 563 had been inspected—only 30 percent which have been registered.

Inspection stations in Crowell, Borchardt-Goodwin Chevrolet, One Martin's Garage, Leroy Briscoe urged motorists to get their cars inspected as soon as possible in order to avoid the lines which will undoubtedly develop as the inspection period draws to a close.

Those motorists who wait until the last weeks of the inspection period to have their cars inspected may find that they will need to install seat belts," Briscoe said. "And with the last minute rush, there may not be enough seat belts kits in supply to take care of the demand. Dealers will have no way of knowing how many sets to have on hand, so to be on the safe side, we urge all owners to have the work done as soon as possible."

Manufacturers started installing seat belts on all American made cars from 1962 on to the present. In answer to a question about pickups, Mr. Briscoe said that the late 1965 model Ford pickups have seat belt anchors, and all makes and models of 1966, '67 and '68.

Four New Vehicles

Four new vehicles were registered here last week, as follows: February 20, F. A. Traweck, 1968 Ford 4-door; February 22, Mrs. Larry R. Kinsey, 1968 Oldsmobile station wagon; February 23, Kinlau Sheet Metal Works, Inc., two 1968 Chevrolet pickups.

Little League Organized for Coming Season

In an organizational meeting of Foard County Little League on Friday night, February 16, the following officers were elected to serve during the current baseball season, according to Secretary F. B. Thomas:

President, Marion Crowell; vice president, Marcus Mills; secretary-treasurer, F. B. Thomas; player agents, Bud McLain and Glen Goodwin; procurement agent, Mike Bird; umpire-in-chief and safety officer, F. C. Borchardt; official scorers, Marcus Mills and J. W. Whitley.

Foard County Little League consists of four teams managed by Richard Blackburn-B. J. Halencak; Wilson Myers and Ace Whitley, Baylor Weathered and Ray Santos; and Bill Bell and Dale Henry.

Tentative date for opening night was set for May 14, with an eighteen-game schedule to be drawn up with games on Tuesday and Friday nights. Managers voted to start the games at the same as last season (7:30 p. m.).

This year's all-star team will be managed by Richard Blackburn and B. J. Halencak. In this meeting, however, it was voted to change the procedure of selecting all-star managers. After this season, managers winning the league that season will also manage the all-stars.

Foard County Little League enters its tenth season of Little League participation.

Marker at Old Pease City to Be Erected This Week

The official Texas Historical Marker for "Pease" frontier post office will be erected this week, Charles Woodburn of Amarillo, president of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee said this week. This is a "state matching fund" marker.

Mr. Virgil Johnson of Crowell, chairman of the Foard County Historical Survey Committee, said the marker will be placed at the site of Pease on Highway 283, 4½ miles north of Crowell, by the Texas Highway Department. Old Pease City was located on land now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Carroll.

Dedication plans will be announced later by Mrs. Johnson. The inscription on this 18x28-inch marker reads: Site of Old Pease City, Founded in 1880 by Benjamin E. Lower, John Wesley and wife, first postmaster, 1880; Mrs. Wesley was second, 1882. Place was named for Pease River and E. M. Pease, Texas Governor (1853-57 and 1867-69). Second group of settlers was family of W. T. Dunn. Stone post office-trading post served 3,500 square miles of sparsely settled country. Mail delivery was by stage or horse. The post office was abolished 1885 when Margaret became seat of Hardeman County. In 1891 site of Old Pease City and Margaret became part of Foard County. (1967)

This marker and its location will appear in the next edition of the "Guide to Official Texas Historical Markers," in tourist guides and on maps to stimulate tourist interest in this area, to provide interest on historical tours, and to acquaint the people of Foard County with their own unique historical past.

HEAVY SNOW LAST WEEK AGAIN CLOSES CROWELL SCHOOLS

Blizzard conditions which prevailed last Wednesday morning brought such a threat to travel that the local schools were dismissed about 10 a. m.

The norther, which had early that morning brought the freezing rain and later the heavy snow, came in on high winds which broke 22 telephone poles off just a few miles east of Crowell on U. S. 70.

Also, a power failure occurred in Crowell for about an hour last Wednesday morning during the height of the blizzard. Manager of the West Texas Utilities Co. office, Cecil Davis, said that two poles and several wires were broken by the high winds. The breaks occurred just west of Crowell.

Power was back on in most of the town within an hour.

The snow quit that morning, and prevented a major tie-up in highway travel. The mercury plunged into the teens both early Wednesday morning and also that night and Thursday.

Although the snow stopped temporarily Wednesday, it began again Thursday morning and heavy snow fell most of Thursday, again causing school to be dismissed—this time just after noon—and bringing 6 or 8 inches of new snow.

School was also dismissed Friday.

About the only activity observed last Thursday were a few snow sleds being towed behind cars and pickups, and a number of pickups loaded heavily with hay to feed the many cattle suffering from the snow and cold.

The moisture content from the last snow was .52 inch, to bring the February moisture total up to 1.11 inches through Monday of this week, all of which was derived from snow and sleet and freezing rain.

Thunder and lightning accompanied a spring-like rain shower which fell Tuesday night, bringing about one-quarter of an inch of additional moisture.

Total rainfall for the year is now about 6½ inches.

BROOKS AUTO SUPPLY

Hold out on the phone company.

After 7 p.m., you can call anywhere in the country for a dollar.

All long distance callers worth their salt know that calling in the daytime is more expensive than calling in the evening hours. (Actually, most people call during the day, when we charge our regular rates.) But long distance callers aren't interested in explanations.

The only thing they care about is calling for the cheapest possible price. So to get more for their money, they devised a scheme you might call The Waiting Game.

The idea is to do just what the name implies: Wait and wait and wait and wait. Because they know if they can hold out till after 7 p.m. or any time of the day on Saturday or Sunday, they can call anywhere in the country for a dollar or less.*

Which just goes to prove that anybody can afford to call long distance.

Provided they know how to play The Game.

Easter Seal Appeal Letters to Be Mailed This Week

Easter Seal Appeal letters are to be delivered this week in Foard County, according to Robert Kincaid, the Easter Seal representative of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas. As representative, Mr. Kincaid serves as contact representative for disabled persons needing Easter Seal rehabilitation services and also serves as treasurer of the Easter Seal Appeal in Foard County.

The Easter Seal Society offers physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing programs and special equipment loans to enable disabled persons to make the best use of their abilities to overcome handicaps. These services are financed by the annual Easter Seal Appeal.

The society also provides for research into the causes and cures of crippling conditions, finances public education programs, and provides scholarships for training of professional personnel to staff rehabilitation centers.

Mr. Kincaid pointed out that all these programs are important if Texas is going to continue to provide the best in rehabilitation services for its own disabled citizens.

During 1967, the Texas Easter Seal Society provided treatment and services to 17,622 children and adults who were in need of rehabilitation services. These services are available to any disabled person who can benefit from help provided by the Easter Seal Society, Mr. Kincaid added.

The Easter Seal campaign will run through Easter Sunday, April 14.

Book Released on Foard Farm Demonstrations

A book containing results of agricultural demonstrations conducted in Foard County during 1967, has been released by the County Program Building Committee. The new book contains tables and other pertinent information concerning the results of the various demonstrations and is available to interested persons from County Agent Joe Burkett. The book's foreword states "agriculture on the Rolling Plains is undergoing dynamic changes, and to those who lag behind the future looks dim indeed. Opportunities for increased profits exist within the area as set forth in the Rolling Plains Economic Program (RPEP). Additional net income can be obtained by those who adapt to changing conditions. Greater returns on investments will be obtained only by those who adjust quickly to change and use agricultural resources efficiently. Rapid adoption of the best known technology provided by research and by results of actual demonstrations as outlined in this handbook is essential for more bountiful harvests. Through the use of this technology in water utilization and management, brush control, range management, and crop production, annual income for the Rolling Plains area could be increased by more than $66,000,000. The RPEP was established to provide goals for producers and businessmen in Foard County and to cast light on the tremendous potential which exists for increased economic activity."

Foard Native, Bartel LaRue, Called "Definitely a Man for All Seasons"

A Foard County native, Sweetwater High School graduate and former McMurry College teacher has been called "Definitely a Man for All Seasons" by the Ontario Upland, California, newspaper.

Bart LaRue, son of Mrs. H. A. Sherill of Sweetwater, and the late J. B. LaRue, is a 1949 graduate of SHS and former McMurry instructor, was recently interviewed by Betty Simmons of the Daily Report in California.

LaRue was born at Margaret on January 23, 1932. He is a nephew of Mrs. Clyde Cobb, Mrs. Ector Solis and John Teague, all of Crowell.

A resident of Diamond Bar, Calif., LaRue has over 180 plays to his credit, including "Night Circus" with Ben Gazzara and Janice Rule; "The Enchanted," "Summer Smoke," "Happy Journey," "The Little Foxes," "Holiday for Lovers" with Robert Alda; "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" with Veronica Lake and "Shadow with Substance" with Sheppard Stedwick.

He has played a bandit in a TV episode of "Sgt. Bilko," waterfront hood in the movie "Never Steal Anything Small" with James Cagney and Shirley Jones and he was thrown out of a night club by Rocky Graziano in the movie "Country Music Holiday" with Zsa Zsa Gabor.

On the culture side, he has appeared in a number of Shakespeare plays and also has taught a course on Shakespeare. In his jam-packed life, he has acquired degrees in drama and English literature from Boston University.

As a teacher of drama at McMurry College he taught courses in acting, directing and writing plays. However, his greatest love is directing and he is at present director of the video tape department at Take 1 Productions, Inc., Hollywood, and recently finished directing a screen test for Universal Studios.

How did it all begin? LaRue, while growing up in Sweetwater, became a part-time radio disc jockey at the age of 14.

"When my folks lost their land during a drought, the only thing I really knew how to do well was ride a horse. A circus came to town and I lied about my age and got a job as a bareback rider," related LaRue.

From that beginning, LaRue stated he "bluffed his way into playing a clown." He told the circus owner that he had experience.

Really, all he actually had done was watch the other clowns. He was hired on a trial basis and decided to be a tramp clown. This decision was made, stated LaRue, "because I figured I could rig up a costume with the least expense. I bought the worst looking suit I could find at a used clothing store and then ripped it up more."

He studied the clowns' varied makeups and experimented on his own clown expressions, finally deciding on the sad face of the Emmett Kelly type. With this beginning, he developed what he called a "double whammy," from the Lil' Abner comic strip.

After two years, LaRue quit the circus near San Francisco, Calif., and became a stand-up comedian at the age of 16. "But most of the time I starved," he admitted. Working his way toward Hollywood, he tried to break into the movies. After two years with no luck, LaRue moved East again and had a chance there to do both acting and directing.

LaRue met his wife, Valarie, while they were in the same play in summer stock. Although both wanted to go on the stage, they decided college should come first.

They enrolled at Boston University. There LaRue received the George Gershwin Award (full scholarship) and he was voted the best actor in Boston three years in a row and the best director in Boston in 1957.

LaRue and his wife toured the country in the play, "The Four Poster," during one summer vacation.

Still remembering the days in the circus and with haunting thoughts, after 10 years, his old circus came to town where LaRue was a college professor.

He recalled that his former buddies found out that he was close so the next day a full-page spread in the newspaper complete with his clown picture and an advertisement saying, "College prof will entertain at circus."

"Fortunately, it was a benefit performance for some crippled children and the college took the whole thing very well." That marked LaRue's last time to perform his clown act.

But with the act, LaRue stated that the grease paint stirred something in his bones again, because before he knew it, he was back in the theatrical circuit both acting in and directing plays.

The next big move made by the LaRues was when they traveled back to Abilene and bought an 1,800 seat theatre in downtown. It was an ancient municipal auditorium and it took a year to remodel it.

The couple purchased lighting equipment from the old Ziegfeld theatre in New York, which was being torn down. After the close of the Abilene theatre, the couple did not have the heart to sell the equipment and it was moved to California and is still stored in their garage.

Arriving in California to be nearer the major movie and TV studios, Bart taught acting for a year at the Hollywood Actors Workshop with Curt Conway, who is now head of talent at 20th Century Fox.

Mrs. LaRue retired from acting to raise their four children and to pursue a teaching career. She worked as substitute teacher in the West End area this past year and Bart continues with his varied schedule.

He occasionally makes commercials, continues to direct at Take 1 Productions and is active in radio. There is talk that he might just show up this coming season in extraordinary shapes and forms in "Star Trek."

He has a feature role and was associate producer in the movie "Conception 3," already released in the East and soon to be released in the West by Allied Artists.

And in his "spare" time he is writing a screen play with motion picture star James McArthur. He also has just finished a pilot film for TV as associate producer with producer Russell Haydin who was "Lucky" in the Hopalong Cassidy series.

Bart LaRue will carry on in his role of playing and directing the rich man, poor man, beggarman, thief, doctor, lawyer, merchant or chief!

People Have Got to Help People

(An Editorial)

The offer of help to one human being by another is one of the most ancient traditions. It is just as true today as it was in the Biblical time of the "good Samaritan."

Today, each of us is even more conscious of the debt we owe our brothers. This awareness, many believe, has played an important part in making our nation and our world a better place to live.

The Texas Easter Seal Society puts it this way: "People have got to help people."

That's the theme of the 1968 Easter Seal Campaign to raise funds for crippled children and adults, to help them walk, talk, and do all the other things most of us take for granted.

Last year, the Society provided rehabilitation services to 17,622 Texans through its state network of centers. The real credit belongs to those Texans who contribute each year to enable the Easter Seal Society to help people. For in the world today, it takes a lot more than one or two "good Samaritans."

Without the dollars we give, the Society could not pay its state-wide staff of rehabilitation professionals. It could not maintain the specially designed and equipped centers that offer modern therapy and other services. And thousands of crippled persons could not hope to get the help they need to overcome their handicaps.

Even if you haven't given to Easter Seals in the past, please do this year. Despite the march of progress, the ranks of the handicapped are growing, and more money than ever before is needed to continue helping them.

Be a person who helps people. You'll feel good if you are.

The Riverside Home Demonstration Club met February 20 in the home of Mrs. L. H. Hammonds with nine members and one visitor present. Mrs. John Ray gave the opening exercise, an editorial from the Southwest Crop & Stock entitled "What Is An American" and three short poems.

Roll call was "my favorite craft." Bad roads prevented Mrs. Jack Brown of Truscott from coming to give a demonstration on decoupage.

After routine business was attended to, the remainder of the afternoon was spent doing some short historical and geographical quizzes and visiting. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Robert Hammonds, served delicious refreshments.

The next regular meeting will be with Mrs. Robert Hammonds and the lesson will be on nutrition.

THE CHANGING SCENE OF EDUCATION HERE

In February, 1960, Foard County had 3 schools with a combined enrollment of 659 students and 35 teachers.

Today, we have 1 school with 504 students and 27 teachers and the following government salaried personnel:

Remedial reading teachers, 2; visiting teacher, 1; teachers aides, 3; adult education, 2 teachers with 36 adult students.

This is a loss of two schools, and 155 students in eight years.

Couples Attend Sled-Dog Racing at Anchorage

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zak and son, John, of Mercer Island, Washington, spent last week visiting Mrs. Zak's sister, Mrs. Thomas B. Johnson, and family in Anchorage, Alaska. The two families attended the world championship sled-dog races that were held in Anchorage last week.

In a letter to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Brown of Crowell, Mrs. Johnson said that snowfall in Anchorage had been below normal this winter, but that about six inches of fresh snow last Friday and Saturday would be sufficient for sled-dog races to be held.

According to a recent news article in The Wall Street Journal, sled-dog racing has become a popular sport. It isn't a sport for the delicate. It's hard work driving teams of up to 18 huskies over snowy trails in biting cold weather. It's not a cheap sport, either.

ATTEST:
WILMA CATES,
City Secretary.

A good team dog sells for $250 to $500. A lead dog, the key to the team's success, can cost $1,000 or more. And the dogs can't just be stacked in the basement like skis between races.

Persons who grew up listening to Sergeant Preston of the Yukon (Well, King, this case is closed!) holler "Mush, you huskies!" would be disappointed to watch a real sled-dog driver. "Mush is hardly ever used now," says Dr. Roland Lombard, a veterinarian from Auburn, Mass., the champion of the sled-dog races.

"You only have to release the dogs and yell the leader's name." (Mush derives from the French marcher, meaning "Let's go.")

The lead dog usually takes directions perfectly—"gee" means right and "haw" means turn left—but sometimes the dog shows he has a mind of his own. In one race in California, the lead dog led his colleagues smack into a hot dog stand. Havoc reigned, and it took the driver 11 minutes to separate the cold dogs from the hot ones.

Life Underwriters Warn of Deceptive Selling Practices

The general public should become aware of misleading and deceptive practices being used in the mail order insurance industry to solicit sales.

The Greenbelt Association of Life Underwriters called attention to results of an investigation of deceptive insurance selling practices recently completed by the Federal Trade Commission. It revealed a number of abuses in which insurance is sold through advertising and other printed promotional material sent by mail to residents in Texas and other states.

"Public awareness of such promotional practices can save the consumer money, future embarrassment, and provide more adequate protection for his family," said Ora Mae Fox, member of the Greenbelt life underwriter organization. She said, "When buying insurance, a person should fully understand what he is paying for and the provisions of the policy. This understanding can be accomplished through an ethical agent who represents a reputable company."

Miss Fox said abuses were primarily found in the selling of accident and health insurance, but included some life insurance. She pointed out that the FTC investigation revealed the following primary practices used which appear to be misleading and deceptive:

1. Offering life insurance policies to the parents of servicemen with the implication that the insurance is being made available by the United States Government.

2. Offering life insurance to veterans under circumstances indicating that such insurance has been endorsed or approved by the United States Government and is being offered at government rates.

3. Representing that policies are "guaranteed renewable," or can be cancelled only by the insured, whereas the company may cancel or rescind the policy because of alleged misstatements in the application form or because of "pre-existing" health conditions.

4. Using such terms as "Medicare" or otherwise falsely representing that the policies are in some way connected with the government's Medicare program.

5. Misrepresenting the coverage of the policy or failing to disclose limitations or restrictions in the policy which prevent the insured from recovering losses sustained under the policy.

6. Failing to disclose that the premium rates may be substantially increased when the insured reaches a certain age or at some other period of time.

7. Misrepresenting the business status through the use of such terms as "Foundation Plan" or well-known names in the insurance industry.

Some protection for the public was provided by a new insurance law which was passed by the 60th Legislature. It allows the State Board of Insurance to regulate unlicensed out-of-state insurers and prohibits them from doing the business of insurance by mail in Texas. However, it has no effect on the practices used by insurers licensed to operate in Texas.

A Senate investigating committee is currently conducting an investigation in accident and health insurance procedures in Texas. Many complaints received by FTC dealt with improper claim settlement, alleged unfair cancellation of policies after long period of premium payments, and alleged unfair premium increases.

"These can be avoided," Miss Fox said, "if the consumer carefully examines the agent, the company, and the policy before purchasing insurance."

She further pointed out that complaints should be brought to the attention of the Greenbelt association which can provide guidance in channeling the complaints to the proper authority.

Two Minutes With the Bible

The Bible on the Floor
"...Thou hast magnified Thy Word above all Thy name" (Psa. 138:2).

As I passed by my study the other night, I noticed that I had left a Bible lying on the floor next to a chair. In studying I had put it down momentarily to consult a reference book and had neglected to pick it up again.

Now, as I caught a fleeting glimpse of that blessed Book lying there, it bothered me; in fact, it bothered me enough to make me go back and pick it up and put it where it belonged.

Then I began wondering why so trivial a matter had troubled me. Was it because I remembered how dad would never allow anything to lie on top of the Bible? Had mere sentiment confused my thinking?

Surely the Word of God is forever settled in heaven and that book lying on the floor was only paper, ink and a leather cover. Or was it? Was it not also the Word of God as given to us? And as such, was it not representative of God Himself? If our country's flag must be treated with honor and respect; if it is sacrilege to treat it as mere cloth, how much more the Holy Bible!

No, it was not merely dad's example that came to mind as I saw the Bible lying there; certainly it was not only that. Rather it was a Scripture passage of which he often reminded us; the inspired words of David quoted above:

"Thou hast magnified Thy Word above all Thy name."
To be sure God would have us use His Word as a textbook from which to learn His will. It is no sign of reverence for this great Book to leave it lying untouched on the living room table. He would have us study it, perhaps underlining important passages and marking significant connections. But with all this we must never forget to treat it with the reverence and honor due the written Word of God.

Since 1956 more than $2.5 million has been spent by the Easter Seal Research Foundation for projects to fight crippling.

If you have a question about preparing your income tax return after reading the income tax instructions you received in the mail, IRS has three booklets that can help you. If you have farm tax problems, you can get a copy of the Farmer's Tax Guide free at any Internal Revenue Service office or at your county agent's office. Internal Revenue sells "Your Federal Income Tax" and the "Tax Guide for Small Business" for 50c each. "Your Federal Income Tax" answers most of the questions for an individual. The "Tax Guide for Small Business" does the same thing for a business.
