This policy is being changed this year, and the county and school district have an advertisement in this edition telling property owners of the change.

HEART FUND DRIVE TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

The annual fund drive for the Heart Association will be held in Foard County next week. Mrs. Jack Welch, fund drive chairman, announced this week.

The drive was kicked off this week as the president of the Texas affiliate of the American Heart Association, Dr. Hugh Edward Wilson, III, of Dallas, visited in Crowell. Dr. Wilson spoke at a school assembly here Wednesday morning at 11, and was the featured speaker at a combined meeting of the Women's Service League, Lions and Rotary Clubs Wednesday at noon at the community center. He was introduced by Dr. W. H. Stapp.

A clinical associate professor of thoracic surgery at Southwest Medical School in Dallas, Dr. Wilson is also chief of the thoracic surgery department at St. Paul Hospital and associate in the thoracic surgical department of Parkland Hospital; and assistant director of surgery at the Children's Medical Center of Texas. He is a consultant in cardiac and thoracic surgery for Veterans Administration hospitals.

February is earmarked as Heart Month. The Heart Fund is not just another "cause," Mrs. Welch said. It supports an extraordinary, nationwide program to meet the problem of heart and blood vessel diseases that take close to a million American lives each year, more than all other causes of death combined. The Heart Fund fights many diseases, any one of which might ordinarily be considered the basis for a national campaign. Chief among these diseases are: heart attack (accounting for 500,000 lives each year); stroke (annual toll, 200,000); high blood pressure (5,000,000 affected); rheumatic fever; inborn heart defects.

The Foard County Heart Association is hoping for a generous response from county residents in this campaign.

STATE Capital NEWS

Austin, Tex.—A feud between big city and rural school districts over the cost of education is expected to go to federal court soon in a major lawsuit.

Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston school boards questioned the "financial fairness" of collection and distribution of the state's minimum foundation funds.

They claim that the distribution formula favors rural districts. A bill to correct this brought a storm of protest from rural districts during last year's legislative session. Best the legislature could come up with under the circumstances was a bill creating an 18-member committee to recommend "a fair and equitable basis for a division of financial responsibilities between the state and the various local districts of Texas."

Suit will seek statewide uniform property tax valuations. Action is due to be directed against the State Board of Education.

Meanwhile, the Texas Research League pointed out that aid to local school districts is the most expensive obligation of state government and most important determinant of future tax requirements.

Expansion of the foundation school program and teacher pay raises voted last year will increase state expenditures for public elementary and secondary education by $345 million in the current biennium and will produce an additional 50 per cent increase in total state costs during the next six years.

Cumulative total increase in state aid for a six-year period is calculated at $1.6 billion in new state funds. Higher salaries accounting for 65 per cent of this.

Research League predicts that the legislature will have to raise $298 million in new funds for public schools next year, $270 million more in 1973 and $186 million more in 1975.

LICENSING EMPHASIZED—Department of Public Safety is launching a statewide program emphasizing driver licensing. A study showed that many of the serious traffic accidents involved unlicensed drivers.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, DPS director, said the drive is in conjunction with Gov. Preston Smith's coordinated traffic safety program. Studies revealed that 9.6 per cent of drivers involved in fatal accidents were unlicensed. Here's what the program will undertake immediately:

—To urge all drivers to see that they are properly licensed.

—Provide for periodic, frequent license checks by patrolmen.

—Develop special training schools for those who need more knowledge and skill to qualify for driver licenses.

—Urge employers in large plants and business establishments to encourage employees to obtain proper licenses, particularly those moving to Texas from other states.

Safety groups and local agencies will be called on to aid.

COURTS SPEAK—Texas Supreme Court was called on to decide whether Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall is eligible to run for governor in view of a constitutional provision that a legislator must serve out his term before running for an office created, or for which the pay was raised, during his tenure. (Hall voted with other legislators to increase the governor's salary from $40,000 to $55,000 a year.)

Supreme Court finalized judgment that Army Sgt. Albert Buckman Wharton III is sole heir to the $45 million Electra Waggoner estate.

Arguments before the High Court were set for March 5 on the suit between Tenneco Oil Company and Padre Drilling Company Inc. over a wildcat oil well in Zavala County. Tenneco argues that Padre Company is not entitled to payments because the well was not completed.

District Court here granted a temporary restraining order to stop the City of Galveston from allowing treasure hunters to excavate in Pelican Park, citing the new antiquities code.

SHORT SNORTS—Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. has dissolved 25 chapters of "fraternal organizations" after they failed to comply with a request for information about their operations.

State is seeking $425,000 in federal pollution control funds under a plan that would make industries responsible for cleaning up any oil spills on state waters.

Two Minutes With the Bible

Go, and Sin No More

The self-righteous pharisees had brought a fallen woman to Jesus and "when they had set her in the midst," they began to accuse her, saying: "Now Moses in the Law commanded us that such should be stoned, but what sayest thou?" (John 8:5).

They were using this fallen woman to embarrass the Lord into agreeing that this woman should be stoned, or else leaving Himself open to a charge of repudiating Moses' Law.

At first He made "as though He heard them not," but when they continued asking they got what they asked for! Simply answering: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her," the Lord turned away again to let that sentence do its work. They had "set her in the midst." Now He had set them in the midst and, "convicted by their consciences," they "went out one by one" (ver. 9).

And there stood the woman alone before Him: a great sinner and a great Savior. Since none of the pharisees had dared to cast a stone at her, the Lord said: "Neither do I condemn thee. Go, and sin no more" (ver. 11).

Thus the Lord graciously forgave the sinner-woman, yet without ignoring the demand of the Law. He had not denied that the woman deserved punishment. He had only pointed out that the Pharisees themselves were sinners; that they, like she, needed a Savior.

Thank God! Since "Christ died for our sins," God can justly forgive us—and He will, if we but acknowledge our sin and our need of a Savior, and do not join the self-righteous who keep "going about to establish their own righteousness" (Rom. 10:3).

"This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners . . ." (I Tim. 1:15). God is very gracious to those who will acknowledge their sin and their need: "For the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon Him, for whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Rom. 10:12,13).

Takes Public to Task

"Officials of the American Medical Association have taken the public to task for adopting the attitude that modern medicine is so accomplished it can keep an individual well in spite of his habits . . . Our affluence has reduced physical exercise and increased over-eating, excess drinking, smoking, late hours and drug consumption," says the AMA board of trustees, in urging the nation's doctors to "educate the American people to the role of the individual in the delivery of health care." —Harrisonburg, Va., News-Record.

Census to Be Taken Across Nation on April 1st

Every 10 years Americans take a good look at themselves to reinforce the platform of facts on which to base plans for the future course of the nation. The occasion is the census of population and housing conducted once each decade as required by the Constitution. The 19th in a series going back without interruption to 1790 will be taken on April 1.

Responsible for the census is the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce. The count will be conducted from 395 temporary bureau district offices throughout the United States, each of which will cover an area containing approximately 500,000 persons. District offices began opening on January 19 with the entire group scheduled to be in operation by February 9.

The census tells us what we are as a nation and is necessary stocktaking. History has shown us to be a practical people, busy in the pursuit of our concerns, and we need a careful look at ourselves at regular intervals. The census will throw light on all the changes that have taken place in recent years.

For the average American, the census will be a simple exercise. The government asks that he devote a few minutes to answer questions about himself and his housing. The questions will be on printed forms that will be sent by mail to each household.

For 80 per cent of the households there will be about 23 questions. For the other 20 per cent of the households, there will be an average of 69 questions.

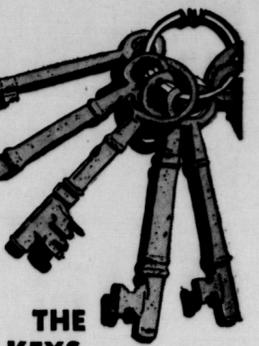

It is impossible to overstate the importance of taking these few minutes to put the facts on record. Crucial decisions affecting every person in the nation depend upon the accuracy and completeness of the census. To begin with, political power hinges on the census count: official population figures are used to determine the fair apportionment of seats in the Congress as well as in state and local legislative bodies. Further, federal funds are distributed locally on the basis of census population figures.

Government leaders from the highest federal authorities to local officials plan and develop programs involving billions of dollars on the basis of what the census tells of the characteristics of people and their housing.

For the individual, the census is secret. No individual need fear that he is exposing himself to public view. The answers he gives about himself and his housing are held in strictest confidence. Census employees are forbidden by law from disclosing any fact about a person and would be subject to heavy fine or imprisonment for a violation of the law. In processing, facts about individuals are added in various ways resulting in statistical totals that depict the state of the nation.

Change has even affected the mode of taking the 1970 census. This year, the 65 million U. S. households can be their own census takers. Each household will receive a census questionnaire by mail on or about March 28 and will be asked to fill it out as of April 1 according to enclosed instructions. The number of questions asked will be on the average the fewest of any census in the past century.

In most of the large metropolitan areas, people will be asked to mail completed questionnaires back to their census district offices in a brown postpaid envelope provided for the purpose. The envelope and form with all questions answered should be mailed on April 1. These people need not see a census taker unless they return the form incomplete, neglect to return it at all, or ask for as-assistance.

In the remainder of the nation, people will be asked to fill out the form on April 1 and hold it until it is picked up by a census taker.

About 185,000 temporary workers will be hired by the bureau to take the census. Included will be 160,000 census takers (called enumerators); 13,000 workers in the 395 temporary offices and 12,000 crew leaders and other supervisors, including a manager for each district office. Had not the changes in census taking methods been made and successfully proved out in field tests over a period of several years, it is estimated that 220,000 workers would have been needed to take this year's census using the same procedures employed in 1960. The 1960 population was 180 million compared with an estimated 205 million for 1970. The cost of taking and compiling the 1970 census will be about $210 million.

Census workers will be employed 4 to 6 weeks, some longer. The process of hiring and training is underway now and will continue until April.

ENZYME RESEARCH

Recent advertising campaigns shout that enzymes are powerful little critters that eat up dirt or unlock stains, depending on the product purchased.

Scientifically, they are a bit more complicated—and more useful. They control vital life processes by acting as catalysts for chemical reactions.

Scientists have long been interested in enzymes, but only in recent years has there been a growth spurt in large-scale enzyme production for research purposes.

Robert D. Cole, a specialist in cell production at the University of Georgia, explains that these protein substances—enzymes—are the principal products sought in research-oriented fermentation.

Fermentation is a decomposition process that gives energy for the growth of bacteria, he said. The enzymes are produced by the bacteria during fermentation.

At Georgia, Robert Cole has helped establish the nucleus of what may become "one of the finest enzyme production centers in the nation." It is the first campus-based fermentation plant in the Southeast, and will provide scientists with important biological raw materials for research.

The Veterans Administration says permanently and totally disabled veterans are eligible for grants up to $12,500 for the construction, remodeling or adaptation of homes.

"Born" 90 Years Ago

Public Utilities Fortnightly revealed that telephone numbers, according to one source, were in 90 years ago in Lowell, Massachusetts, because of a measles epidemic. Dr. Moses Parker, a physician, grew concerned that city's four telephone operators did not be able to work. He recommended the use of numbers that substitute operators could be trained more easily.

COMMENTS ON FOARD HISTORY

The Foard County Historical Survey Committee and the News continue to receive letters from recipients of the Foard County history. Some of them follow:

I also want to express my thanks and appreciation to Mr. Bailey Phelps and each committee member for the many hours of toil spent to make the Foard County history book, "They Loved the Land," possible. I hope everyone is enjoying it as much as I am.

Julia Hrabal Cepica,
 Portland, Oregon.

I received the book history of Foard County and I must say that it is indeed a fine book. However since arriving it has created some difficulty in our house about who reads first.

I extend my appreciation and thanks to the Committee for a job well done. Without your effort there would be no book. I am very sorry that Abb is not here to receive my thanks for his contribution to the book.

There are a lot of fine things in the book and I think one of the finest is the page set aside for the pictures of the committee. Thanks again.

Geo. W. Burress,
 Seabrook, Texas.

I sure was proud to get the Foard County History. It sure brings back old memories. It really is worth the price. I didn't dream that my picture would be in there, but that school picture was made in 1910.

Thanks again for the history. Very truly yours,
 Ozzie Turner,
 Amarillo.

My copies of They Loved the Land have been received, and I would like to congratulate your members on an excellent job. I am so very happy with the book and am enjoying it immensely. In fact, the only fault I can find is that I can't put it down to do anything else—it is that interesting.

As a longtime Foard County resident, tho not quite a native, I thank you and all who helped put out this treasure. You've done a great service to many, many people.

Most cordially yours,
 Addie Coffman,
 Albuquerque, N. M.

I want to thank you for a job well done. When the book came Joe W. was in bed with flu. He was so thrilled with the stories of the early day. He read until after 12:00 although he was real sick. I, too, have enjoyed it very much; it is so well written and the sketches are so beautiful, thanks to Bettie B.

Thanks again,
 Runie Maude Beverly,
 Austin, Texas.

I have collected quite a few county histories in my life, but this is the best of all. It is very well arranged and the illustrations are very good. The book is so interesting that I want two more copies for my two sons. I had one sent to my daughter at Lark, Utah.

Generations not yet born will thank you for this record of many dear people who settled Foard County. Their precious family records are safe in this book.

Thank you for everything.
 Josie Main Bledsoe (Mrs. Carl) Wildhorse, Colorado.

I don't know how to thank each of you who made it possible for us to read They Loved the Land. We keep reading it over and over and would not take any kind of money for it. Thanking you again for giving us such a wonderful book.

Mrs. August Rummel,
 Route 2, Crowell.

Many thanks for sending me the book. Old Foard County always comes up with the best of everything. It is the best one I have ever seen, it is well worth the money. Many thanks to all who helped with the book.

John Thompson,
 Vernon.

The book came one day last week. I was home with a cold. I read, cried, read some more, remembered, cried some more, and loved every minute of it. I looked for every mention of those dear to my childhood, the Ownbays, the Millers, Erwins, Kimseys, Shaws, Piggs. It must have been a tremendous undertaking for you and I am very proud of your accomplishments. Love,
 Mary Louise Fox Squyres,

Governor Smith Proclaims Public Schools Week

Governor Preston Smith has issued the following proclamation concerning the March observance of Public Schools Week in Texas: Special observance of increased emphasis on our education system has been marked annually for twenty years by a Public Schools Week in Texas.

During this period, parents are encouraged to visit the public schools, and all citizens are urged through special programs to recognize the tremendous importance of our system of education. Our goal is to make Texas public schools the finest in the Nation, and to achieve this our citizens are urged to take an active interest in the school system and to cooperate with their school boards, superintendents, principals and teachers.

Never before in our history has there been a greater need for educated leadership. As we rush to train young people in science and technology to keep pace with world events, it is also important to remember that our public schools will furnish our tomorrow's leaders with the basic human, moral and spiritual foundations necessary for more advanced training and knowledge.

Therefore, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the period of March 2-6, 1970, as Public Schools Week in Texas.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 28th day of Aug., 1969.
 PRESTON SMITH,
 Governor of Texas.

Get Set for Jolt

Editor Makes Timely Comments on Small Towns

H. M. Baggarely, editor of the Thalia weekly newspaper, was the speaker at the Wellington Chamber of Commerce's annual meeting February 2. Some of Mr. Baggarely's comments were especially of interest to small town residents. "Plug your economic leaks. It is not what you make, it's what you keep." This was the last and hardest of four things Mr. Baggarely said towns like Wellington, Thalia and Crowell can do for themselves to solve their own economic problems.

Compared to this, going out and getting a large industrial plant is easy, and solving the farm problem is easy, he declared.

Mr. Baggarely took note of the problems of small towns compared to those of the cities, pointing out that farmers are penalized for their efficiency and that small towns suffer accordingly.

First on his list of things that will plug small town economic leaks is buying at home.

Women handle most of the retail dollar, he noted.

"Every time you take a dollar out of town you jeopardize every salary in town, including your husband's. Every dollar spent here is a boost to his salary and to the economy of the town."

Recognizing the responsibility of the merchants, he added:

"I am asking you to be selfish and spend every dollar in Wellington. If you did that for 30 days, you'd have the boom I was talking about from industry."

First of the four things small towns can do to help themselves is to recognize that agriculture is an industry.

"If we could get big industry into Wellington, it would still be second to agriculture," he said.

"Agriculture is our No. 1 industry and too often we treat it like an unwanted step-child. We wouldn't treat industry that way. But every farm is a little industry, and think of the industry you'd have to get to take the place of 1200 farms."

There is no problem that the farmer has that parity prices couldn't solve, even to bringing back its young people, Mr. Baggarely pointed out. Farmers are a minority, but if they had the support of the small town merchants, they would be a potent force.

After pointing out some of the things which a small town must do if it is to be attractive to industries, Mr. Baggarely reminded that from his town—and Wellington—a person can get to the airport in Amarillo quicker than a resident of Chicago can get to its O'Hair, or a resident of New York City to one of its airports.

"Towns like Wellington must be preserved if America is to be preserved," he said in closing.

Editor's note: Although Mr. Baggarely's address was made in Wellington, the News is reprinting his remarks that they apply equally as well to towns like Crowell.

Bunkhouse on Masterson Ranch Donated to Tech

(Editor's note: The following article appeared in the Texas Tech newspaper recently and was given to the News by Mrs. N. L. Looney of Truscott.)

A historic stone bunkhouse used on the JY Ranch—established in the 1880's by R. B. (Ben) Masterson, Sr., in Knox and King counties—is the most recent addition to the Ranch Headquarters now being developed at Tech.

The acquisition was announced Saturday (Jan. 31) by Jerry Rogers, director of the Ranch Headquarters which will recreate on the Tech campus an outdoor museum of ranch life.

structure has been donated by Ed Lowrance of San Antonio.

The bunkhouse comes from an eastern portion of the old Masterson Ranch which Lowrance and his father purchased from R. B. Masterson, Jr., now deceased.

In making the gift, Lowrance stated that "I have always considered the building a part of the historical heritage of the Masterson family, and I am pleased to make it available for preservation in the Ranch Headquarters project."

The rock building will be brought to the 12-acre site on the Tech campus to become a part of the living historical museum which will tell the story of the ranching industry from the 1830's to the early 1900's.

Other historical ranch buildings previously announced for the Headquarters include a meat and milk house from the JA Ranch near Clarendon, a blacksmith shop from the Renderbrook-Spade ranch at Colorado City, a log cabin headquarters of the Capote Ranch west of Gonzalez, a two-story dugout from the C. C. Slaughter Silver Lake Ranch near Whiteface, and a carriage, harness and saddle house from the J. B. Slaughter U. Lazy S. Ranch near Post.

The pioneer ingenuity displayed by Masterson in solving problems of the free range and of transition to the enclosed ranching era has been carried on by his descendants.

His son, Thomas B. Masterson I, was instrumental in bringing the Santa Fe railroad into Truscott, so that cattle loaded one day could be marketed the next morning in Kansas City. Thomas Masterson's bank in Truscott was so soundly managed that it was one of the few in the nation that did not close during the 1933 banking holiday.

Today the third and fourth generations of the family employ new breeding and range management techniques, water development and desalinization experiments, as well as working their ranges with airplane, helicopter and radio communication.

"This program to preserve the historical evidence of the development of the ranching industry in West Texas, where water was scarce and the land was hostile to man," said R. B. Masterson, III, "should also show the creative imagination with which the early cattlemen approached the problems of life on the frontier."

"If you can do this in a way that will interest the young people and the world visitor, you will have created a fitting memorial to our grandfather and to other men of his time. You will have created an awareness for all people who live in the ranching sections of the United States."

Historical buildings for the Ranch Headquarters museum project are being selected by a committee of ranching historians and history-minded ranchers. Co-chairmen of the committee are Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Holden. Other members include John F. Lott, D. Burns, Miss Christine DeVitt, Mrs. Wilson Connell, Watt R. Matthews, Frank H. Chappell, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Schreiner III.

Mrs. D. S. Kritzer of Amarillo, one of R. B. Masterson's daughters, spoke for other members of the family.

"We are pleased that the bunkhouse has been selected for preservation in the Ranch Headquarters project. Mr. Lowrance's generosity in donating the building is typical of the old time neighborliness of the ranching tradition. Each member of our family is grateful to him."

"Eternity" Case

"The small son of a doctor answered the phone and told the caller that his father was not at home. 'Do you know when he will be in?' he was asked. 'No, I don't,' said the boy. 'He went out on an eternity case.'"—Wichita, Kansas, Record.

of the few in the nation that did not close during the 1933 banking holiday.

Today the third and fourth generations of the family employ new breeding and range management techniques, water development and desalinization experiments, as well as working their ranges with airplane, helicopter and radio communication.

"This program to preserve the historical evidence of the development of the ranching industry in West Texas, where water was scarce and the land was hostile to man," said R. B. Masterson, III, "should also show the creative imagination with which the early cattlemen approached the problems of life on the frontier."

"If you can do this in a way that will interest the young people and the world visitor, you will have created a fitting memorial to our grandfather and to other men of his time. You will have created an awareness for all people who live in the ranching sections of the United States."

Historical buildings for the Ranch Headquarters museum project are being selected by a committee of ranching historians and history-minded ranchers. Co-chairmen of the committee are Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Holden. Other members include John F. Lott, D. Burns, Miss Christine DeVitt, Mrs. Wilson Connell, Watt R. Matthews, Frank H. Chappell, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Schreiner III.

Mrs. D. S. Kritzer of Amarillo, one of R. B. Masterson's daughters, spoke for other members of the family.

"We are pleased that the bunkhouse has been selected for preservation in the Ranch Headquarters project. Mr. Lowrance's generosity in donating the building is typical of the old time neighborliness of the ranching tradition. Each member of our family is grateful to him."
