July Is Wet Month

Foard County closed out its wettest July in many years last Thursday with a total of 7.60 inches recorded by the official government gauge at the Crowell State Bank.

This brings the total for the year to 21.36 inches which is only about three inches short of the year's average rainfall for the county which is about 24 inches.

The county also experienced some of the coolest weather during July that summer has brought in many years. The rains also brought out a bumper crop of mosquitoes which kept most residents using mosquito repellent if they were outside for long at a time.

Heavy Rains Do Extensive Erosion Damage in County

Heavy rains of July 25, did extensive erosion damage to Foard County soils and local erosion control practices such as terraces, diversions and grassed waterways. The soils which were already saturated from recent rains received extensive damage when up to six-inch rains and 95 percent runoff found its way to depressions and low areas leading to creeks and rivers. According to David Seitz of SCS, up to 50 percent of all terraces have been damaged as floodwater overtopped them. Seitz stressed the importance of doing all possible to repair breaks in terraces. Broken areas will continue to concentrate water, even from small rains, and enhance small gulleys to enlarge. Terraces may be built up slightly with mold board and one-way disk plows, but most of the damage is so severe that major earthmoving equipment will be needed. Terraces and other erosion control measures are very expensive; therefore, land users are encouraged to perform tillage operations on the contour with terraces.

DPS Needs Qualified Applicants for Training

The Texas Department of Public Safety is in need of qualified applicants of both sexes and from all racial backgrounds. The next class for Department of Public Safety recruits will begin October 28, with what we hope will be a full complement of 110 persons. Major C. W. Bell, regional commander, said Monday. "The qualifications an applicant must meet are to be between 20 and 35 years of age, of good moral character, excellent physical condition, weight proportionable to height, visual acuity of 20/40 correctable to 20/20, a citizen of the United States and have a minimum of sixty college hours." Major Bell continued, "Among the benefits that a Department of Public Safety trooper enjoys are: two weeks annual vacation, all holidays provided for by the legislature, modern liberal retirement system, group hospitalization and life insurance plan, traveling expenses, longevity pay, and uniforms with all necessary equipment to perform their duties."

A Department of Public Safety recruits training consists of 18 weeks of comprehensive programs in all aspects of modern law enforcement at the Homer Garrison Law Enforcement Academy in Austin. During the October school recruit will receive pay of $768 a month. Upon graduation the new trooper will be assigned to one of the uniformed services of the department.

Crowell Water Consumption Takes Drop

The extremely wet summer experienced thus far is dramatically illustrated in the purchase of water by the City of Crowell. In July 1975, Crowell bought 10,539,000 gallons which is about one-third less than the 15,350,000 gallons purchased in July 1974. The wet summer dropped consumption over the entire Greenbelt system from 168,021,000 gallons in July '74 to 98,092,000 in July 1975.

NOT FAR AWAY...SEED MEETING COMING SOON, TOO...BRUCELLOSIS HEARING A MONTH FROM NOW...SCREWWORMS AGAIN!

August 15 is not far away, and that is the deadline for entry in the 1975 Texas Family Land Heritage Program. More than 100 entries have been received so far.

The program honors those families and descendants in Texas who have owned and operated the same piece of land for 100 years or more continuously. It is sponsored by the Texas Department of Agriculture. Last year, a total of 560 families were honored. Their names are in the Texas Family Land Heritage. If you think you can qualify, write to the Texas Department of Agriculture, Austin, Texas 78711 and ask for a registration form or contact the county judge.

The form must be signed by the county judge in which the land is located. The Family Land Heritage Registry has already proven to be a valuable historical document as well as a token of recognition.

PROPOSED changes in Texas seed laws will be discussed at a hearing in Austin August 21. It will be held at 10 a.m. in Room 1046 of the Stephen F. Austin Building.

Purpose is to discuss changes necessary to bring Texas Department of Agriculture rules and regulations into line with recent legislative amendments of the Texas seed law.

Items to be discussed include definitions of terms, noxious weed seeds, service testing, and minimum germination standards for vegetable seeds as well as agricultural seed inspection fees and vegetable seed license fees.

Texas has a nationwide reputation of having one of the finest—if not the finest—seed programs to be found anywhere. One of the reasons for this is the expertise offered by individual seed producers and agricultural producers. The hearing is open to the public.

BRUCELLOSIS continues to make news, too. A public hearing is being called September 4 by the Texas Animal Health Commission to discuss proposed changes in state provisions relating to federal regulations.

Federal authorities continue to intensify efforts to eradicate brucellosis from the nation. Less than one per cent of all herds in the nation are brucellosis-infected.

Brucellosis eradication in Texas will continue to affect livestock producers more and more in the future months as only 23 counties in the state are officially brucellosis-free.

ONCE AGAIN, it's time to be concerned about screwworms. That pest is continuing to make inroads into many counties in the state which haven't had a confirmed case in two years or more.

As a livestock producer, if you're not already cooperating with the program, here is the recommendations again from the officials at the fly lab in Mission:

Check your livestock regularly; treat wounds on livestock with approved screwworm-control remedies; delay surgery on livestock as long as possible; submit suspected samples of screwworms to the fly laboratory at Mission.

Hopefully, this will be the last year in which producers will have to worry too much about the screwworm. A combined effort to eradicate screwworms from Mexico and the United States is set to begin some time next year.

Meanwhile, officials need to know their whereabouts of the screwworms so they can make plans to combat the usual Fall build-up of the pest as well as controlling the situation now.

Texas No. 1
In '74 Export
Of Livestock

AUSTIN—Texas remained a leading state in livestock exportation in 1974, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has reported.

Statistics from the USDA show the state to be the number one exporter of beef-breeding cattle in the U.S., having sold 13,450 head in 1974.

Texas hog producers placed the state second in exports of breeding swine, shipping 3,055, only 168 fewer than the first-ranking state of Illinois. In the sales of dairy breeding cattle, the state was eighth with a total of 2,275.

White attributed the increase in exports from Texas to intensive marketing activities by the livestock industry.

"The Texas Department of Agriculture has stepped up efforts to bring in more foreign buyers," White said. "The Livestock Directory which the Department publishes has stimulated many sales."

Brahmans ranked highest in number exported from Texas with a total of 3,991. Santa Gertrudis, Herefords, and crossbreeds were other major choices of foreign buyers.

Texas supplied almost one third of the Charolais cattle shipped from the U.S.

Principal breeds of swine sold from Texas hog farms were Duroc, Yorkshire, Hampshire, and crossbreeds. Dairy cattle breeds exported from Texas included Holsteins, Jerseys, Brown Swiss, and Guernseys.

Brucellosis Meeting

A meeting of livestock producers to explain the proposed changes in the brucellosis program in Texas continue to reflect a declining population, the rate is much slower than between 1960 and 1970, points out Benson. In addition, a recent U.S. Census Bureau report indicates a growth in the population base of many counties that had lost population during that 10-year period.

Rural areas working through their county Extension committees and the appropriate Extension specialist are overcoming some of the problems created by the massive outmigration of citizens during the 1960's, notes Benson. District 3 rural counties lost 17.6 per cent or 22,094 individuals between 1960-1970.

The specialist sites several examples of how county groups are working to slow the exodus of people and even reverse the trend.

MUSIC IN WORSHIP

A reader writes: "Why does the church of Christ not use music in its worship?"

The church of Christ does use music in its worship. There are different kinds of music—instrumental music and vocal.

God chose the kind of music he wants in our worship to Him. We may enjoy hearing instruments of various kinds, and had we been making the decision as to which kind of music to use, we may have chosen instrumental music—but God made the decision and choice. Let us look at some Scriptures which should answer the question.

There are some Scriptures which indicate that under the Law of Moses instruments of music were used. One instance is found in 2 Chronicles 29:26,27, which states, "And the Levites stood with the instruments of David, and the priests with the trumpets. And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt offering upon the altar. And when the burnt offering began, the song of the Lord began also with the trumpets, and with the instruments ordained by David king of Israel." If we use such verses to justify instruments of music, we will also have to offer burnt sacrifices by the same reasoning. But today, is the Law of Moses our authority?

In Colossians 2:14, Paul writes that the old law has been abrogated. He writes about Christ at His death as "Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to the cross."

Since the old law or Law of Moses was abolished at the death of Christ, what does the new law (the Will of Christ) say? Paul writes three times about the subject at hand. In 1 Corinthians 14:15, "I will sing with the spirit, and I will sing with the understanding also." Then in Ephesians 5:19 he pens, "Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your hearts unto the Lord." Third, in Colossians 3:16 he writes, "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord." James admonishes, "Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry? Let him sing psalms." James 5:13.

The above are the New Testament teachings on the music question. Not once are instruments of music authority for use in worship in the church today.

Yes, the church of Christ does use music in its worship just as the Holy Spirit has directed. We are instructed in this act of worship as in all acts of worship. Let us heed the Word.

Farabee Praises Rural School Organization

Wichita Falls... State Senator Ray Farabee said today that he was glad to see recent efforts to organize rural school districts. Several large meetings of school officials have been held across the state recently in an effort to organize school districts in non-metropolitan areas to more effectively represent their interests at the state level.

Senator Farabee told nearly 400 West Texas school officials at a recent meeting in Munday, Texas that an organization of rural school districts would give non-metropolitan legislators increased support when representing the interests of those districts in the Legislature. Farabee stressed that school finance is still the state's number one problem. "We can't afford to leave politics to those who go out and run for office," Farabee said. "We have to organize to make better legislation."

During the meeting the inequities of the present ad valorem tax structure were pointed out. Organizers of the rural school effort pointed out that real property accounts for only 25 percent of the total amount of property in urban areas. Since ad valorem taxes are based on real property, as opposed to other forms of wealth such as stocks and bonds, a disproportionate tax burden is placed on rural areas.

Various state and local officials were in attendance at the meeting. State officials included House Speaker Bill Clayton of Springlake, Senator Farabee, Senator Kent Hance of Lubbock, Representative Bill Heatly of Paducah, Representative Mike Ezzell of Snyder, and Representative Elmer Martin of Colorado City.

COUNTY OFFICIALS IN STATEWIDE SERVICE

Increasing numbers of Texas county officials are demonstrating leadership capabilities in governmental duties of statewide importance, contends a county officials program specialist for the extension service. These county officials serve on such state and regional boards and councils as the County and District Retirement System, Advisory Commission of Intergovernmental Relations, and Regional Councils of Government and as advisors to such state agencies as the Coordinating Board of Texas College and University Systems.

Sweet melodies played by music master Val Wallace must have inspired his late-planted cucumber vine.

The vine—heavily laden with pickles—has climbed to the roof overhang at the southeast corner of Val's house and now, he suspects, is shooting for the moon or some distant space galaxy.

Wallace and his wife live at 514 East Angelina, where the high-climbing, pickle-producing vine has grown up since it was late-planted in April.

That's not all the Palestine Music Man has reaching for the high notes back behind his house. One tomato vine which he has staked and tied is reaching about six feet, outstripping the height of the stake to which he has tied it. The cucumber has climbed a wire netting.

Val says in Crowell, in northwest Texas where he grew up. "Anything that can get water will grow big. We had watermelon vines that climbed all over the place, and we had to put up baskets for the heavy melons to rest in."

So, he thought, why wouldn't a cucumber vine climb too if it had the right chance? He took some good advice on planting and fertilization. He planted after getting out of a short stay in a Dallas Hospital around last April 1.

The vine now is covered with blooms and small cucumbers which are pulled for pickling when they get to be 3½ inches long. The vine—which has kingsize leaves is making one bumper pickle crop after another.

Mr. Wallace, a musician since his youth, was launched by his dad on an electrician's career. His job was highly dangerous in spots.

One day when he had to do a job on which his chance of survival was 50-50, Valton Wallace went home to his wife, and said, "You may not like this, I'm quitting my job." She said, "I'm glad you're quitting."

He went back to his first professional forte, music. He went into the music business.

He had one music store in the Big Town Shopping Center and another in another Mesquite Shopping Center. While in business at Mesquite, he accompanied the Mesquite Band on a trip to the West Coast for a performance.

In 1969, he opened Val's Music Store on Oak Street in Palestine. He accompanied the Palestine High School Wildcat

Band at his own expense when it went to Vienna, Austria, to participate in an international music festival.

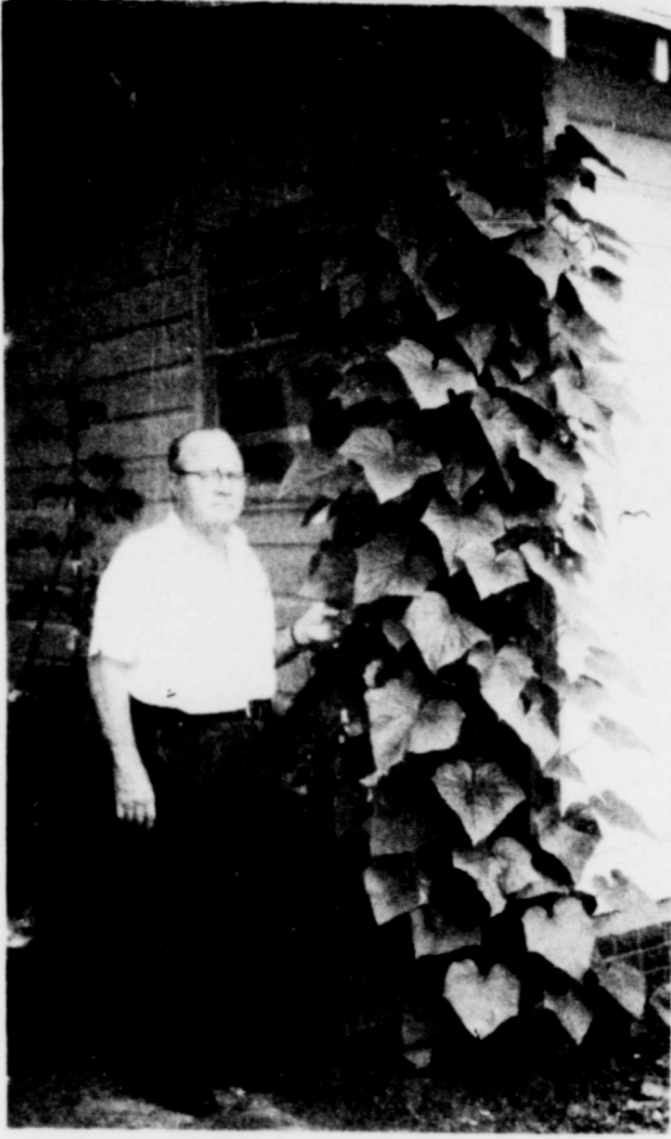

He sold his Palestine store April 1, 1974.

In his home he has appreciation awards from Mesquite, PHS and Westwood bands.

Wallace has been a member of the electricians' union 35 years.

He stays active with his musical instrument repair shop, located at 107½ West Oak here. He has two employees and gets instruments for repair from all over. McCarty Music Company in Wichita Falls sent him 45 clarinets; a clarinet was sent in from Athens, a saxophone from Groveton, and other instruments are sent in and repaired from Jacksonville and other cities.

COOL CLIMBER—Val Wallace with climbing cucumber, a cool pickle factory producing while it reaches beyond the roof of the Wallace home, 514 East Angelina, and he suspects is headed for outer space. It may have been inspired by lofty melodies the music master renders on his galaxy of instruments in the house. (Staff photo by Ernest Jones)

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

Last night I heard a little girl ask, "Mom, why does medicine have to taste bad to make you feel good?" "But" she answered, "here's some that tastes good." "Will it help me?" she wondered. A thing may be pleasant without being good, or good, without being pleasant. But the 133rd Psalm tells of something that is good and pleasant. What is? "For brethren to dwell together in unity."

The word "brethren" is never used of all men in the Bible, but only of such as are united by some affinity, chiefly religious. In the New Testament it is used of those who have been born again. And to all who receive Jesus, He gives the right to become children of God.

One day in Rome I attended a dinner at which Christians from many nations were present. Before parting we stood with linked hands - an Italian, a Russian, a German, an Egyptian, an Israeli, and an American - and sang: "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love."

With love in our hearts, not hatred; with peace on our minds, not war; I said, "How good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

Alcoholism Called "Nobody's Disease"

Alcoholism has been called "nobody's disease". It belongs to no particular medical specialty and often is denied by the public because of the social stigma attached.

But an increasing awareness of the widespread public health implications of alcohol and related drug abuse have caused the Texas Tech University School of Medicine (TTUSM) to develop a program to educate physicians about this disease.

TTUSM's educational program, one of the few in the country to involve medical students and residents in the direct treatment of alcoholics, was begun in 1973 in the Department of Psychiatry under grants from the Texas Commission on Alcoholism and through the National Institutes of Health Career Teacher Program.

Dean George Tyner, a professor in Psychiatry, initiated the program because he considers alcoholism to be "probably the most serious disease the nation faces." Some experts estimate that in the U.S. population of approximately 200 million, nine million are alcoholics. Dr. Tyner said predictions are that 10 percent of other persons who now use alcohol will develop the disease. He said, "among health care workers the incidence is even higher."

Although most people are aware of alcohol's addictive properties, few realize that certain drugs can cause the same type of dependency, but without side effects such as liver disease.

"That...goes back to the definition of alcoholism," Dr. Tyner explained. "Alcoholism is a disease associated with the repetitious, compulsive ingestion of any sedative compound, the chief one of which is alcohol, to the point of interfering with function."

He emphasized that this state can be caused by any number of different sedatives, or tranquilizers, as well as alcohol. "The word 'alcoholism' is a misnomer," he said.

Dr. Tyner noted that persons having the closest working relationship with sedative drugs are in the health and allied health fields. However, although the problem of alcoholism has been recognized for several years, until recently no formal medical training in the treatment of the disease was available. He said that the stigma attached to the disease often cause both the public and the medical profession to ignore it.

In an effort to recognize and legitimize the disease among medical professionals, Dr. Tyner decided that the best way to prevent the problem was to educate physicians during their medical training and in continuing education.

Energy costs are a major concern of consumers. Laboratory tests simulating the use of 1,150 refrigerators were used to determine the energy consumption of the brands tested. The way a family uses and maintains the appliance may increase or decrease cost of operation.

Once you have purchased a new refrigerator, you'll want to keep it looking brand new. The most common problem in maintaining the original beauty in today's refrigerators is odor retention and easy scarring of plastics.

Easy-to-mold plastics are widely used in today's refrigerator interiors—but special care is required to keep them clean. These plastics are softer than historically durable porcelain enamel. Some guidelines for their special care are:

Use only liquid or nonabrasive cleaners. Avoid letting strong-flavored or odorous foods directly contact plastic surfaces.

Avoid scented cleaners because their odor may stay and be transferred to food.

Avoid placing fresh green vegetables directly on plastic crispers.

Wipe plastics with a damp rather than dry cloth to remove surface dust.

Plastics have a static attraction for soil. Soil is an abrasive; so clean plastic surfaces regularly with a warm solution of detergent or baking soda.
