Construction to Start in January

Knox Brine Control Project Approved

80 per cent of the brine sources of the Wichita River will be controlled by the Red River Authority. U.S. Corps of Engineers, the Texas Water Commission was told in Austin.

The project, which will be a 107,000-acre-foot reservoir, will be used to store water of chloride-polluted through evaporation, approved by commission.

this with interest." Commission Chairman Joe Carter said. "Because we see the Red River as a future prolific water source if we can just get the chlorides (salt) out of it."

A Corps spokesman told the commission that after all the TWRC projects in the Red River Basin are completed, the Corps expects the water in Lake Texoma to meet water health standards 96 per cent of the time.

Carter, a Sherman, Texas native, said the commission will do all it can to help. He added that the commission also is thinking of the water-short Trinity River Basin.

The Corps spokesman explained that the Corps will begin construction on the Wichita project in January with a budget of $6.3 million. The Red River Authority will act as local sponsor for all the projects which include facilities on the Red, Wichita, Pease, Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red, Salt Fork of the Red and North Fork of the Red rivers.

The plan involves several inflatable low flow dams to hold back briny water during dry periods. The water then will be pumped to the large Truscott brine lake west of Truscott on Bluff Creek in Knox County.

The Corps spokesman said the reservoir should be able to handle brine in the Wichita Basin for about 100 years before filling up.

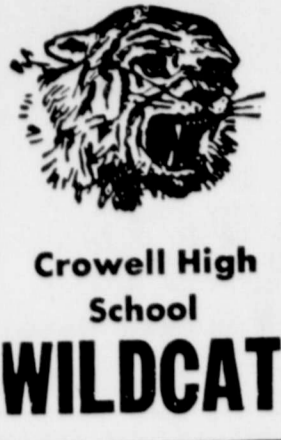

In addition to approving construction of Truscott brine lake, the commission approved three pumping stations in King County.

NOTES FROM JILL AND MOLLYE
Thanksgiving. To many it's just a holiday, a time away from school for eating and watching college football. To others it's a time to be grateful for what they are and what they have, modest as both may be. We live in a nation where our freedoms are taken for granted. Be thankful you are living here and not under some stifling dictatorship. There never has been a nation such as this one. It's unique. Be thankful you live in Crowell, Texas, U. S. A.

The residents having birthdays in December are Grover Owens, Charlie Sue Thompson and Ben Kenner. The Assembly of God Church will host the December birthday party.

We have begun planning for our Christmas party. Mr.

and Mrs. Tommy Forister offered to sponsor the party, which is a great beginning. We will send out invitations to out of town families and the time and date will be posted on the bulletin board in the lobby of the Center for in town families.

Our prayers and sympathy goes out to the family of Annie Owens.

Mr. and Mrs. John Todd and Mrs. Tanner Billington of Fort Worth visited in the Center last week.

The Assembly of God Church held services last Sunday. Rev. Bobby Argo brought the message. Mrs. Argo played the piano for the service and for Mr. and Mrs. Allison Denton who sang and also for Jason Argo who sang a solo. Mr. Denton led the singing. The First United Methodist will hold services next Sunday.

Have a happy Thanksgiving and remember, when you think all is lost, the future remains.

Your Dollar Is BIGGER at Home...

It's a statistical fact that about one-third of every Dollar we spend goes into the taxes and contributions that pay for community services and facilities... IN THE COMMUNITY WHERE IT IS SPENT. When we run a Dollar through our own home trade channels, WE enjoy the benefits of better living and richer opportunities which a third of that dollar buys.

The dollar we spend somewhere else, pays for these advantages FOR SOMEBODY ELSE. Our money has bought the same things... but WE do not get ALL it has paid for... we have received LESS for it. And... since, obviously, we get MORE for a home-spent dollar, who can deny that your dollar is BIGGER at home?

Important information from the U.S. Public Health Service about Swine Flu and Victoria Flu Vaccines

You probably have heard a good deal about swine flu and swine flu vaccine. You may know, for example, that swine flu caused an outbreak of several hundred cases at Ft. Dix, New Jersey, early in 1976—and that before then swine flu had not caused outbreaks among people since the 1920's.

With the vast majority of Americans being susceptible to swine flu, it is possible that there could be an epidemic this winter. No one can say for sure. However, if an epidemic were to break out, millions of people could get sick. Therefore, a special swine flu vaccine has been prepared and tested which should protect most people who receive it.

Certain people, such as those with chronic medical problems and the elderly, need annual protection against flu. Therefore, besides protection against swine flu, they also need protection against another type of flu (Victoria flu) that was around last winter and could occur again this winter. A separate vaccine has been prepared to give them protection against both types of flu.

These vaccines have been field tested and shown to produce very few side effects. Some people who received the vaccine had fever and soreness during the first day or two after vaccination. These tests and past experience with other flu vaccines indicate that anything more severe than this would be highly unlikely.

Many people ask questions about flu vaccination during pregnancy. An advisory committee of the Public Health Service examined this question and reported that "there are no data specifically to contraindicate vaccination with the available killed virus vaccine in pregnancy. Women who are pregnant should be considered as having essentially the same balance of benefits and risks regarding influenza vaccination and influenza as the general population."

As indicated, some individuals will develop fever and soreness after vaccination. If you have more severe symptoms or if you have fever which lasts longer than a couple of days after vaccination, please consult your doctor or a health worker wherever you receive medical care.

While there is no reason to expect more serious reactions to this flu vaccination, persons who believe that they have been injured by this vaccination may have a claim. The Congress recently passed a law providing that such claims, with certain exceptions, may be filed only against the United States Government. Information regarding the filing of claims may be obtained by writing to the U.S. Public Health Service Claims Office, Parklawn Building, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20852.

Below is more information about flu and flu vaccine. Please take the time to read it carefully. You will be asked to sign this form indicating that you understand this information and that you consent to vaccination.

The Disease. Influenza (flu) is caused by viruses. When people get flu they may have fever, chills, headache, dry cough or muscle aches. Illness may last several days or a week or more, and complete recovery is usual. However, complications may lead to pneumonia or death in some people. For the elderly and people with diabetes or heart, lung, or kidney diseases, flu may be especially serious.

It is unlikely that you have adequate protection against swine flu, since it has not caused widespread human outbreaks in the past 45 years. You may or may not have adequate protection against Victoria flu, although many Americans had this flu last winter. It was responsible for over 12,000 deaths.

The Vaccine. The vaccine will not give you flu because it is made from killed viruses. Today's flu vaccines cause fewer side effects than those used in the past. In contrast with some other vaccines, flu vaccine can be taken safely during pregnancy.

One shot will protect most people from swine and Victoria flu during the next flu season; however, either a second shot or a different dosage may be required for persons under age 25. If you are under 25 and a notice regarding such information is not attached, this information will be provided to you wherever you receive the vaccine.

Possible Vaccine Side Effects. Most people will have no side effects from the vaccine. However, tenderness at the site of the shot may occur and last for several days. Some people will also have fever, chills, headache, or muscle aches within the first 48 hours.

Special Precautions. As with any vaccine or drug, the possibility of severe or potentially fatal reactions exists. However, flu vaccine has rarely been associated with severe or fatal reactions. In some instances people receiving vaccine have had allergic reactions. You should note very carefully the following precautions:

- Children under a certain age should not routinely receive flu vaccine. Please ask about age limitations if this information is not attached.
- People with known allergy to eggs should receive the vaccine only under special medical supervision.
- People with fever should delay getting vaccinated until the fever is gone.
- People who have received another type of vaccine in the past 14 days should consult a physician before taking the flu vaccine.

If you have any questions about flu or flu vaccine, please ask.

Texas Office of Traffic Safety

Published as a public service by this newspaper.

If you smell natural gas, follow these 3 steps to safety.

The natural gas industry has one of the best safety records of any energy source in the United States.

The fact that you can smell natural gas is because we add a harmless chemical to it as an extra safety feature. Otherwise, it would be completely odorless. If you detect faint whiffs of what you think may be gas, investigate. It may be something that is as easily and safely corrected as a pilot light that has gone out, or a burner valve that's partially open.

If your equipment seems to be working properly and the odor intensifies and seems to be everywhere, please follow these precautions:

1. Do not switch anything electrical on or off. Don't use the telephone in your own home. Do not strike a match. Do not do anything that might cause a spark.
2. Have everyone leave the house immediately, leaving doors open to help ventilate.
3. Go to a nearby telephone and call Texas Natural Gas Company. Wait until we have found the source of the odor to determine whether it's safe for you to return to the house.

You may never have a natural gas leak, but we want you to be informed in case one does occur. Please make sure your family is aware of these precautionary steps. And we suggest that you keep this message for future reference.

Series Continues on Child Abuse

(This is the third article in a five-part series on child abuse and neglect and is part of a regional campaign sponsored by the Texas Department of Public Welfare. This week's article is on what the Texas law says about child abuse and neglect.)

Day care workers, school teachers, doctors, neighbors—anyone, in fact, who suspects child abuse and neglect and fails to report it may be charged with a misdemeanor and punished by fine or jail sentence under Texas law.

The law, Chapter 34 of the Texas Family Code on the Report of Child Abuse, was passed by the Texas legislature in 1973 and became effective on Jan. 1, 1974. Section 7 of the code states, "A person commits an offense if the person has cause to believe that a child's physical or mental health or welfare has been or may be further adversely affected by abuse or neglect and knowingly fails to report it in accordance with Section 34.02 of this code."

An offense under Section 34.07 is a Class B misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of up to $1,000 or a jail term of 10 days to six months, or both.

The chapter on the reporting of child abuse begins with a paragraph on persons required to report. In Section 1, it says, "Any person having cause to believe that a child's physical or mental health or welfare has been or may be adversely affected by abuse or neglect shall report it in accordance with Section 34.02 of this code."

In a capsule, Section 1 says that the person who believes a child (defined by the Act as an individual below age 18) has been abused or neglected reports his suspicions to the local welfare office or to any state or local law enforcement agency.

Barry Fredrickson, regional administrator in Abilene for the Texas Department of Public Welfare, said the reports can also be made to a statewide, toll-free, hotline number at 1-800-292-5400.

According to Section 2, the reports must contain the names of the parents and child, their address, the child's age, and the nature of the abuse. If not all these facts are known, then any information which can direct an investigator to the scene should be reported.

Also in Section 2, it states that all reports received by any local or state law enforcement agency will be referred to the local welfare office. The section also indicates that an oral report shall be made immediately upon learning of the abuse or neglect and a written report shall follow within five days to the same agency.

Anonymous reports, while not encouraged, will be received and acted upon in the same manner as acknowledged reports.

Section 3 of Chapter 34 is important to persons who fear legal reprisals by the people they report. This section of the law states that "Any person reporting pursuant to this chapter is immune from liability, civil or criminal, that might otherwise be incurred or imposed. Immunity extends to participation in any judicial proceeding resulting from the report. Persons reporting in bad faith or malice are not protected by this section."

In summary, if you report a suspected act in good faith rather than, for example, giving a false report to get even with someone, you are protected by law against civil suits or criminal proceedings the abuser might bring against you for reporting him.

Most doctors know how to recognize abuse, particularly through bone x-rays. They also know how to question multiple bruises and cuts, unexplained burns, hemorrhages and anemia.

School teachers, day care and nursery school personnel, neighbors and relatives are also in positions to protect children by reporting signs of neglect or abuse which they have observed.

So called "common sense" may tell you the difference in a parent's right to discipline his child and the cruel battering or neglect of a child. When in doubt, though, individuals are encouraged to call their local welfare office, or the statewide hotline number.

"We encourage everyone to call their local welfare office or the toll-free statewide hotline number if they know of any cases of possible child abuse or neglect," said Fredrickson. "You may report it at any hour of the day or night."

The local and statewide numbers are maintained by the Texas DPW, the legally responsible agency for the investigation of suspected child abuse and neglect.

Highway Accident Report Given

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated four accidents on rural highways in Foard County during the month of October 1976, according to Sgt. Billy Dean, highway patrol supervisor of this area. These crashes resulted in no deaths and one person injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first ten months of 1976 shows a total of 12 accidents resulting in three persons killed and six persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety region for October 1976 shows a total of 608 accidents resulting in 17 persons killed and 324 persons injured, as compared to October 1975 with 543 accidents resulting in 18 persons killed and 283 persons injured. This was 65 more accidents, one less killed, and 41 more injured in 1976 at the same period of time.

The 17 traffic deaths for the month of October 1976 occurred in the following counties: three each in Parker, Young; two each in Sherman, Wise; one each in Archer, Lamb, Montague, Palo Pinto, Wichita, Deaf Smith and Roberts.

Judge Ed Gossett Sets Retirement

Judge Ed Gossett, who has presided over Criminal District Court No. 5 for eight years, will retire Dec. 31. Gossett says he's retiring because he will turn 75, the mandatory retirement age for Texas judges.

His retirement will end a lengthy political and legal career which began when Gossett was graduated from the University of Texas Law School in 1927.

After practicing law for five years in Vernon, Gossett was elected district attorney for the 46th Judicial District of Texas, which included Foard, Hardeman and Wilbarger counties.

In 1938, he was elected to Congress from the 13th Congressional District, which includes Foard County, and he served in Congress until 1951. He worked as general attorney in Texas for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., and for a Dallas law firm briefly before he was appointed to the bench in 1968.

"I haven't lost a day of work since I've been on the bench, and I've tried more felony cases than any judge in the state," Gossett said last week.

That's not surprising, since Gossett's admonition to "move along, counsel," when testimony drags, is well known to attorneys who practice in his court.

Although Gossett may not sit as a full-time judge after the age of 75, he may hear cases as a retired judge, or may serve as a visiting judge in other counties. Gossett said he intends to do so.

State's Red Meat Production Boosted by Cattle Slaughter

AUSTIN—Continued high cattle slaughter coupled with increases in pork production again boosted Texas' total red meat output during September, despite slight declines in calf, sheep and lamb kills from a year earlier.

Commercial slaughtering plants produced 303 million pounds of red meat during September, six percent higher than September 1975, and three percent more than a month earlier, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White noted.

Cattle slaughtered during September totaled $18,000 head, 8,000 more than last year and 7,000 head above August 1976.

The hog industry has rebounded, with the 95,500 head killed in September some 17,500 head above September 1975, and 10,000

New Weapon Named to Fight Cancer

A new "weapon" against cancer is now available in Foard County to provide the public with current, factual information on cancer, its prevention and early detection.

Called the Cancer Information Service, the new program utilizes a toll-free phone line (1-800-392-2040) to answer public inquiries on cancer. The service will be extended to all residents of Texas by late this year.

The CIS is part of a public educational effort sponsored by The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute with assistance from the American Red Cross, American Cancer Society and many other health agencies in Texas which provide services to cancer patients and their families.

Funded by the National Cancer Institute, the CIS functions as part of a nation-wide network.

Open from 8 a. m. on weekdays, the phone lines are operated by trained American Red Cross volunteers. All background material used to answer questions is reviewed by physicians to insure accuracy.

The program is designed to help create a positive sense of awareness about cancer that will encourage the public to seek physician evaluation for early detection and prompt treatment of suspected cancers.

BEEF PROFITS HINGE ON PRICES

Retail prices hold the key to beef producer profits, says a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Higher prices plus an increase in beef consumption can pave the way to economic recovery for cattlemen. There is plenty of room for U. S. beef consumption to increase but this is affected by the price of beef. Cutting deeply into producer profits are marketing costs which have increased at a fantastic rate.

To get maximum attention, it's hard to beat a good, big mistake.

Protests Are Heard on Book Selection

The State Board of Education heard protests from 10 Texas citizens at its annual textbook hearing Thursday, Nov. 11 in Austin. Thirty-three books submitted by 13 publishers were protested during the one-day hearing, according to J. Henry Perry, director of the Texas Education Agency textbook division. All objections had been voiced earlier in a week-long hearing by Dr. M. L. Brockette, Texas commissioner of education, and the State Textbook Committee. Brockette removed five dictionaries from the recommended list because they do not meet the textbook proclamation requirements in two key areas. These include provisions against the use of "offensive language" and against material "which would cause embarrassing situations or interference in the learning atmosphere of the classroom." Dictionaries removed include American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language, Houghton Mifflin Company; The Doubleday Dictionary, Doubleday & Co., Inc.; Seventh New Collegiate, American Book Company; The Random House College Dictionary, Random House, Inc.; and Webster's New World Dictionary of the American Language, Prentice Hall, Inc. A geology text, "The Paradox of Earth and Man" by Houghton Mifflin Company, was deleted because the book "is not objectively developed and is styled in a manner inappropriate to secondary students."

Sack a Turkey For Holiday Dinner

AUSTIN—If you want to serve baked turkey for a special holiday meal, but are afraid the meat will turn out dry and unattractive, don't despair.
The Texas Department of Agriculture home economist suggests the following method of preparing turkey. With no basting and careful watching, the turkey will be tender and golden brown.
Turkey-in-the-Sack
1 tsp. pepper
2 tsp. salt
3 tsp. paprika
4 tsp. hot water
1 cup peanut oil
1 turkey, 14 to 16 lbs.
Combine pepper, salt, paprika and hot water. Let stand at least 10 minutes.
Add peanut oil and mix thoroughly. Wash and dry turkey. Rub peanut oil mixture into inside and outside of turkey. Truss as desired. Pour remaining oil and additional oil into large paper sack (type used in grocery stores). Rub oil into inside of sack until every pore in every inch of the sack is sealed. Place turkey in sack, breast up. Fold over end of sack and tie securely. Place on cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees, approximately 10 minutes per pound. Before removing from sack, place in a large pan to catch drippings. Let stand 20 minutes before opening sack. Since the sack is airtight, the turkey is cooked by steam; therefore, be careful when sack is opened.

Texas Farm Prices Continue to Decline

AUSTIN—The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service report for the month ending October 15 showed the continuing decline in farm prices from the previous month.
Of the 26 agricultural commodities surveyed for average prices in Texas, only potatoes rose above the break-even parity level with 41 cents.
Parity prices are not an actual break-even figure, but they do serve as a gauge, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White explained.
"Losses that farmers are sustaining are evident in the gap between the parity price and the market price, such as $2.19 per bushel of wheat, $1.07 for corn and $1.70 for grain sorghum," White said.
Livestock prices were dismal. Beef cattle prices averaged $30.10; parity was set at $57. And although calves showed some gain in market prices, they were $34.90 below parity.
Hogs, which were bringing good prices last year, are now $20.70 below parity.
Sheep were only $3.50 below, but lambs averaged $11.60 under parity.
Feed prices remained fairly stable.
Baled hay prices rose $4 over the September average, in Texas hay sold for $49.50 a ton, while across the nation, it sold for $60.10.
Grains all decreased in price.

Dark green color sometimes present on the outside of the yolk and white of hardcooked eggs is harmless. It is caused by heating too long or at too high a temperature. Mrs. Sally Coble, foods and nutrition specialist with the extension service, explains.
