Report Of 1939 Class Reunion

The Goldthwaite High School Class of '39 recently held their 3rd reunion since graduating forty years ago. Twenty-eight class members, five former teachers, spouses and guests totaling 60 were present.

Activities of the evening included a 'renewal of acquaintances' followed by dinner and an informal program. The invocation was given by Robert Peterson, former mathematics teacher of the class. A moment of silent prayer was observed in memory of deceased teachers and classmates.

Acting as Masters of Ceremonies were Herbert Faulkner (class vice president) and Fred Marshall, chairman of the reunion committee.

A warm welcome was extended to teachers and their spouses; namely, Mr. and Mrs. Delton Barnett, Miss Love Gatlin, Goldthwaite; Mr. and Mrs. S.E. Cloninger, Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peterson, Jacksboro; and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Henry, Burnet.

The Goldthwaite Eagle on May 19, 1939, cited this graduating class of 48 students as the largest in Goldthwaite High School's history.

The class voted to meet again in three years and the reunion committee elected includes Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. John (Veseva Sellers) James.

Thanks were extended to Dr. and Mrs. Joe B. Kerby, and the program was concluded with the singing of the school song led by Mrs. Delton Barnett, the sponsor of the class of '39.

Those attending were: Gloria Armstrong Barron, Georgetown; Mr. & Mrs. Sterling Barton, Longview; M/M Earl Davis (Roselyn Berry), Pocatello, Idaho; Eva Faye Boland Harvey, Pearland; Col. (ret.) and Mrs. John Bowman, San Angelo; Willis Aubrey Crook, Houston; M/M Oda Daniel, Brownwood; M/M Edward Dean Dickerson, Goldthwaite; M/M Eugene Dyas, G'waite; M/M Rex Collier (Opal Faulkner), Odessa; Mr. & Mrs. Robert Sumter Gerald (Laura Helen Saylor), Eules; M/M Luis Dominguez (Thelma Henry), Austin; Dr. & Mrs. Joe Bailey Kerby, Houston.

Also, Duard Langford, Farmersville, CA.; M/M Fred D. Marshall, Lubbock; M/M Marshall Miller, College Station; M/M Pat Obenhaus, B'wood; M/M Marvin Hodges (Allene Ross), Englewood, Colo.;

M/M H. L. Long (Virginia Ruth Rudd), Ft. Worth; M/M Billy Saylor, Port Lavaca; M/M Alton Tharp (Jacque Sebolt), Plano; M/M John James (Veseva Sellers), Houston; M/M Walter Grizzle (Wanda Stewart), Grand Prairie; M/M Milton Tate, Gonzales; M/M John Kuhn (Joyce Weaver), Killeen; Mr. & Mrs. John Campbell (Mamie Lou Womack), of Dallas; M/M Herbert Faulkner, Goldthwaite; and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Armstrong of Goldthwaite.

Window shades do powerful "blocking" for energy-saving touchdowns.

Opaque, light-colored shades block air flow better than draperies and venetian blinds, saving up to 21 cents on every home-cooling dollar and 8 cents on each home-heating dollar.

Since glass in windows conducts heat, window shades save energy by blocking the passage of heat through the glass itself.

Window shades reduce heat gain in a home from the summer sun by 63%, and they prevent 24-31% heat loss in the winter.

Proper Installation For maximum energy-saving, install window shades inside the window frame about one inch from the glass.

That sets up an effective barrier between the glass and the shade. The one inch of dead air space acts as insulation.

Be sure the shade "fills" the window space as much as possible, leaving only the narrowest margin possible between the shade and the window frame.

Proper Use of Shades For the biggest energy savings in the summer, pull shades down during hot, sunny parts of the day. This will deflect the sun's hot rays and keep their heat from building up inside the house - and that will save home-cooling energy.

Raise the shades during early morning, evenings and nights to allow cooler air inside and reduce the need for air conditioning.

For big energy savings during the winter, keep shades down during the coldest hours of the day - early morning, evenings and nights - to keep indoor heat locked inside the home. Raise the shades during the warmest parts of the day and let the sun's heat help warm the house.

The Moline Menace

by Bob Altenloh

HOW DO I KNOW?... We are in a new and challenging age, the era of narcissism whereby so many are crying out for recognition as individuals, in reaction to the impersonal computerized and bureaucratic so-called "system". Youth speaks of "finding itself". It is the age of "me". Consider dancing. Here is a sport in which the dancers dance with themselves. Each individual jumps up and down without his feet ever leaving the floor in an attitude of "Hey! Look at me!" No longer is it "us", where Herbert held onto Juliet as closely as possible.

At the same time youth seeks escape in various ways because of the abhorrence of the system, the vast bureaucratic machine geared to global war with its data centers, information input, communication networks, memory banks, files and even spies.

Youth seeks to escape from the second vast system with its pressures to produce more wealth, GNP, and supply the first one. Certainly within these octupal machines an individual loses all possibilities of self-expression becoming merely a number and a cog. This is true of many jobs. The youth, the trainee, the graduate becomes conscious that cities boast a "job market", in a market oriented world. They evaluate a job with a lifetime as a gnome in a shop, a commodity making commodities. What horrifies them most is the 9 to 5 job.

Fred Busby worked in linens in a gigantic department store for 50 years. At his retirement he received a gold watch, a pin, a dinner, and a speech. Youth shudders at this as being the waste of a life.

Upon my complimenting the quality of meat sold in the meat department of a large grocery, the manager was moved to what seemed to be the beginning of an emotional swelling.

"Oh!" he said, "You ought to get with Ray Kneeweather back there. We visited him at his home the other evening. Now there's a guy that can really talk meat. He can talk about meat for a whole evening. He really knows his meat."

I didn't think I could survive a whole evening on meat. If the fellow who devoted his entire life to his meat had written a ten volume work on the sex and love life of the clam, I might have gotten excited.

But to be on one job for a lifetime terrifies youth. This is why they cry out to "be me," and seek avenues of escape. What youth doesn't know is that Busby was happy in linens for 50 years. He was pleased with having a nice home. When the newspaper ran his picture with his wife as they appeared at their 50th wedding anniversary, he enjoyed it. He said, "Just think! A half a century!" He couldn't think of much more to say about it.

Ray Kneeweather, too, was happy with his meat, it was his whole life's work. He found great pleasure in being consulted by a shopper on the question of what a Boston cut means.

What youth cannot seem to understand is that recognition, contact, next experience, and security can be found in linens or meat. They need to pick one that suits them, then they can constantly reward themselves for having done well with it - taking pride in their meat or getting wrapped up in linens.

SHEEP PRODUCTION

The normal breeding season for sheep is in the fall. Generally ewes are first bred at 18 months of age. They lamb when they are about 2 years old. Breeding ewes as lambs to lamb at 1 year is increasing.

Ewes come in heat in late August or early September. The periods in which ewes will breed last from 1 to 3 days and recur every 14 to 19 days. Ewes should be gaining weight when they are bred.

The length of time from breeding to lambing is about 140 to 150 days. Ewes bred in September lamb in February. You can then market lambs born in winter before the start of the summer season when parasites get bad and your grass is poor.

If you buy a ram to breed your ewes, get him well in advance of breeding time so he can get used to his new home. Give him a little grain to get him in good condition.

When your flock is small and you only use one ram, you may need a way of knowing when each ewe has been bred so you can figure out about when she will lamb. Pigment smeared on the ram's brisket every day or so shows which ewes he has mated. Any commercial coloring (yellow, red or ordinary lamp black) can be used. Mix the color with castor, linseed or old crankcase oil.

After 2 weeks change the pigment color. If, after a few days, most of the ewes with the first color are coming back into heat, a new ram should be used.

Keeping ewes in good physical condition probably influences good reproductive efficiency more than any other factor. When ewes are not too fat, increasing the level of nutrition about 2 weeks before breeding (flushing) sometimes will increase the number of lambs born by increasing the ovulation rate. Young ewes must be in good body condition before flushing is effective. Ewes in poor to weak body conditions have a higher incidence of silent estrus, which the ram cannot detect.

Too low a level of nutrition during early gestation may result in embryo loss and a lower lamb crop. The data suggest that most of these losses occur early in gestation. These results may not be applicable to ewes kept on the farm where nutrition is usually more adequate.

Among the major parasites of sheep and goats are lice, ticks, keds, fleeceworms and mites. These pests plus infestations of internal parasites among a tremendous reduction in profit potential to producers each year. Among the more commonly recommended insecticide treatments for these pests are:

Lice, ticks, keds - Ciodrin, Co-Ral, Diazinon (sheep only), Lindane, Malathion and others.
Fleeceworms - Co-Ral, Ronnel.
Mites - ?

Some chemicals are recommended for one species and not for others. Before purchase, read all label instructions regarding use restrictions. The materials listed above are highly toxic and should be used with caution. We list these only to provide you with a starting place for selection and not as a specific recommendation. Some cannot be used on sheep and others cannot be used on goats or lactating animals of either specie. Read and follow all label instructions.

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED
CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
SPECIAL ELECTION
NOVEMBER 6, 1979

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 108)

House Joint Resolution 108 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution relating to the appointment and terms of notaries public. The proposed amendment would: Require the Secretary of State to appoint a convenient number of Notaries Public for the state; and Authorize terms of office of Notaries Public of not less than two years nor more than four years.

A temporary provision of the proposed constitutional amendment provides that the amendment would take effect January 1, 1980; that each person who was appointed a notary public before January 1, 1980, would continue to serve as a notary public for the term for which the person was appointed; and that this temporary provision would expire January 1, 1982.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to provide for the appointment of notaries public for the state and for a term of not less than two years nor more than four years as provided by law."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 133)

House Joint Resolution 133 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to provide for legislative review of the process of rulemaking by agencies in the executive department. The proposed amendment would allow the Legislature to enact laws:

- To provide for legislative review of the process of rulemaking by agencies in the executive department;
- To prescribe conditions for rules to take effect;
- To provide for suspension, repeal, or expiration of rules;
- To prescribe procedures; and
- To delegate powers to either or both houses or to committees of either or both houses.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide for legislative review of the process of rulemaking by agencies in the executive department."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 13)

Senate Joint Resolution 13 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution authorizing the Legislature to provide for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate for qualified borrowers. The proposed amendment would allow for, issue, and sell general obligation bonds called "Farm and Ranch Loan Security Bonds" of the State of Texas not to exceed 10 million dollars. All money received from the sale of such bonds would be deposited in a separate fund with the State Treasurer and administered by the commissioner of agriculture without further appropriations. These funds would be used to guarantee loans for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate. The commissioner of agriculture would use these funds, under provisions to be prescribed by the Legislature for the purpose of guaranteeing loans used for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate, to acquire real estate mortgages or deeds of trust on lands purchased with guaranteed loans. These funds would also be used to advance to the borrower a percentage of the principal and interest due. The Legislature may also authorize the commissioner of agriculture to sell at foreclosure any land acquired in the manner authorized by this amendment. The commissioner of agriculture would be required to charge at least 6 percent interest on such loans. The proposed amendment appropriates an amount that is sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the bonds that mature or become due during the fiscal year less the amount in the interest and sinking fund at the close of the prior fiscal year.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans for purchase of farm and ranch real estate for qualified borrowers by the sale of general obligation bonds of the State of Texas."

Sheep & Goat Industry News

From the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association

Participation in government is a constitutionally guaranteed right in this country, but that right carries certain responsibilities. One of the primary responsibilities is to know what you're talking about before you go demanding that things be done your way.

Judging from the public reaction to the federal predator control program, a whale of a lot of our citizenry devotes much more attention to its rights than to its responsibilities. Simply stated, those who do the most yelling also do the least thinking.

A recently released environmental impact statement on predator control contained roughly 300 letters, about half from individuals and the balance from government agencies, organizations and institutions. No pun intended, but a goodly sampling of those from individuals read like they originated inside the walls of certain institutions, too.

Actually, the Fish and Wildlife Service, which collected the letters and published the impact statement, notes that there were a total of 1418 letters from "individuals". They declined to print 1288 of them in the statement, however, because they were "almost identical" duplicates of two other letters. The letter "writers" who engaged in this little exercise in duplicity were all opponents of predator control.

Many of the other respondents condemning predator control had obviously also let others do much of their thinking for them, judging from the fact that so many of them kept bringing up the same obscure points of complaint. Not that it would have been totally impossible for so many of them to have hit upon the same minor details -- improbable, yes, but still possible. What gives them away is that they kept parroting each other, right down to the same sentences and even entire paragraphs.

Still, the apparent necessity these people felt to play copycat is not the most disturbing aspect of the letters. That distinction must be reserved for the high degree of ignorance so many of them displayed -- especially when it's realized that Washington politicians and bureaucrats, in their own remarkable ignorance, will undoubtedly allow the poor thinking of such people to influence the future of predator control efforts.

Take for instance, the writer who demanded an end to predator control entirely, insisting that stockmen instead "train dogs and geese to guard duty".

Nor was that by any means an unusual letter; most of the respondents insisted that livestock and livestock producers be controlled, rather than predators. A popular theme was that stockmen should be forced by law to manage their stock the way the urban letter writers think they ought to be managed--after all, who should be better qualified to dictate ranching procedures than a New Yorker who knows for a fact that meat comes from Safeway and livestock are just an excuse for crazy ranchers to murder helpless little coyotes?

Don't snicker. The letters make it apparent many people actually believe that sort of thing. They also apparently believe that sheep destroy every inch of rangeland they trod; ranchers force their stock to go weeks without a drink of water and months without grazing or feed; and, incredibly, that coyotes are a threatened or endangered species.

One family wrote that they sleep outdoors roughly 50 nights a year (that averages once a week with 2 weeks off for Christmas) and are thus able to state with certainty that coyotes are nowhere near as prevalent as the experts have determined. The family apparently judges coyote density on the basis of a yelp count. They also apparently take the experts' averages literally -- when it is reported that density is equivalent to one coyote per 2.3 square miles, they expect to find exactly one coyote on every 2.3 square miles.

Such foolishness pours from scores of other letters, including those from people who should know better, in fact from some who are PAID to know better. Take the letter from a state wildlife official in Wyoming of all places! who demands to know why ranchers still want to control predators when they should instead be breeding a type of sheep IMMUNE TO PREDATION.

The letters as a whole are hilarious, or they would be except that they will probably be the basis for decisions about the future of predator control, indeed the future of livestock production in most of this country.

On second thought maybe there's nothing hilarious about them -- maybe they are instead a warning of just how far our citizenry has wandered from the basic virtues of common sense, practicality and belief in productivity that once made this nation great.

Mullin 4-H Meets To Elect Officers

The Mullin 4-H Club met Wednesday, September 12, at the Mullin High School.

During the business meeting, a new rule was made and voted on. This rule is that if a person is elected to an office and is absent from two consecutive meetings the club will elect a new officer to fill that office.

Officers elected at the meeting were: Margaret Roberts-President; Becky Roberts - Vice president; Beverly Roberts - Secretary; Charlie Leverett-Treasurer; Cynthia Hasley - Reporter; and Council Delegates are Curtis Smith and Sharron Roberts.

Fall Tour Planned For Senior Citizens

The Committee on Aging has planned a trip for the Senior Citizens of Mills County on October 13, which will fall on a Saturday. This trip will be to the Inner Space Caverns at Georgetown.

This cavern is called a "unique underground theater", and is easily accessible for young and old alike, in that it has a subway train and guide to take the group in and out of the cavern. There will be no walking over rough terrain.

Be sure to take a sack lunch along as we will eat out in the midst of Nature. We will return by way of Salado to see the "restored ruins" there.

The tour can only accommodate 60 people, so be sure to get your name in if you are a senior citizen.

We will leave the Senior Center building at 7:00 o'clock a.m., October 13, and return by 5:00 p.m. Cost of ticket and gas will be $5.00 per person.

The number to call to reserve a seat is 648-2650.

Remember, October 13, 7:00 a.m. - Senior Center - Sack lunch - and of course $5.00 plus any money you want to spend enroute.

See yall for a big day of fun and excitement!

Halloween Carnival October 31 In Goldthwaite

The Annual Halloween Carnival, sponsored by the Mills County Ministerial Association, will be held on the Tennis Courts at First United Methodist Church of Goldthwaite on Wednesday, October 31 from 7:00 (dusk) till 9:30 p.m.

Organizations in Mills County are urged to participate in the carnival by operating a "booth." Each "booth" will donate $5 to the Ministerial Association to help defray the expense of giving a hot dog and a drink to every student in each school in the county.

The operating procedure adopted by the Ministerial Association is that no booth will be accepted for gambling purposes (bingo, penny pitching, raffles, etc.) The general rule is to give value of some kind for the money charged - fun, a prize of value, etc.

Organizations are to contact Ben Welch, 648-2629 or 648-3275, to sign up for a booth.

Since Halloween falls on Wednesday this year, everyone is urged to participate in any of their church activities and come to the carnival afterwards.

Shipments of Sheep, Goats To Mexico Boost Aug. Exports

AUSTIN—Extremely large shipments to Mexico of slaughter sheep and goats helped to make August the largest volume month this year for livestock exports through the Texas Department of Agriculture export pens.

"Mexico has become a very valuable market for Texas sheep and goat raisers," commented Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, "since few other ready outlets exist for their slaughter-type animals."

There were 6,476 head of slaughter sheep and 4,323 head of Spanish slaughter goats shipped through TDA facilities during August. This brought the total number of cattle, horses, swine, sheep and goats exported to 13,943. These animals were valued at $2,474,246. Although August was a record month as far as volume of livestock shipped, the total dollar-value figure for that period has been

Mills Countians Benefit Through Human Resources

People needing help in Mills County received benefits worth $911,791 during the 1978 fiscal year, mostly for medical care, according to figures recently released by the Texas Department of Human Resources.

Its 1978 annual report, DHR reports that its total state budget was $1.2 billion. Nearly two-thirds of that amount was provided by the federal government, and, as in Mills County, most if it went for medical care.

Medical payments in Mills County totaled

A little boy who went to the ballet for the first time with his father was amazed watching all the girls dancing on their toes. He turned to his father and asked, "Why don't they just get taller girls, dad?"

$783,196, with $621,976 going to nursing homes and institutions; $88,330 for hospitals, physicians' services, X-ray, and laboratory services; $44,743 for prescribed medicine; and $28,147 for other medical services, including health screening for children, dentures, hearing aids, eyeglasses, chiropractic services, and premiums for Medicare.

DHR programs also had an impact on the county's nutrition. $23,143 worth of surplus agricultural commodities were distributed to certain schools, day care centers, nursing homes and other institutions serving poor people. In addition, an average 158 food stamp recipients had $43,697 worth of bonus food stamps added to their food budgets.

Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), the Department's only cash grant program, contributed $14,511 to some 12 Mills County families with children deprived of the financial support of one or both parents. In Texas, a family in which an able-bodied father is present is normally not eligible for AFDC. The maximum monthly grant for a mother and one child is $86; for a family of four, $140. This is expected to cover, at a minimum, rent, utilities, clothing and transportation. Only two states—Mississippi and South Carolina—have lower grants.

Contracts to local providers of homemaker and day services to low-income elderly residents of the county amounted to $47,244. Providers make regular visits to clients help with cooking, cleaning, shopping, bathing, take prescribed medicine, and other personal needs. The aim of the program is to allow older persons who cannot take care of themselves to remain in their own homes and receive the much more expensive care of a nursing home.

Chamber Comments

compiled by the Mills County Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture

I want to come to a meeting and share my ideas. I have that I think it would be good for agricultural or business in the area. Can I do it --- even if I'm not a chamber member?

Certainly! Let me outline the simplest way to do it. Call the Chamber (648-3619) and ask to be on the agenda. This is not a requirement, but it will benefit you in terms of scheduling your idea. The agenda is not too long. The directors tend to go home - 10:00 & 10:30, and if the agenda is long, your idea might get as close attention as would in a shorter meeting. [After a working session, even your "work" directors sometimes attend.]

And, come to the meeting. At present the Chamber meets the third Monday of each month. We find it necessary to change meeting dates, but the Chamber office will have that information for me just exactly the Chamber has done. We applied for and had our Articles of

11. Started a Work Force Registry for businesses with job openings to list those jobs in the Chamber files. Need a good job? Need that second income? We have over 50 positions available RIGHT NOW. Call Chamber Office.

12. Began several investigations into different recreational events which would pull outside money into the area, as well as ways to enhance already existing programs.

The Chamber realizes that results are hard to see very quickly. We may get tired of hearing it, but it's true: It takes TIME. We covet your ideas, your patience, and your support. We could also use your money. Why not join with us. We'll be glad you did!

Chamber Bravos & Boos

Bravos: To Curly Tully who is ranked number two in the nation in cutting horse contest competition. The National Cutting Horse Association finals will be in Amarillo, November 1-3. Good luck Curly riding Lonesome Tiger.

Boos: To people who don't back our local retail stores and industries, but when needing donations, expect the local stores and industries to help. (Our local businesses usually do, too! Bravo!)

Bravos: To the newest members of the Mills County Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture:

Super Bravos: To our Chamber secretary, Wilora Tucker, for manning our office so beautifully 9-12 and 1-4 five days a week - and would you believe she's VOLUNTEERING that time!

COA Monthly Trips Resumed

The Committee on Aging has voted to resume the monthly trips for our Senior Citizens on every first Monday of each month. These trips will be somewhere within the county and will rotate between Goldthwaite, Star, Mullin and Priddy. Star Senior Citizens will make the first tour on Monday, October 1st. The van will only accommodate eleven (11) persons, so if you are interested in a short sight-seeing outing, call 648-2650 and leave your name.

John Davidson has volunteered to drive the van for the Star trip.

These trips, even though they are short ones, are designated to give our people an "airing", and where else could be a better place to do this than in our own wonderful Mills County.

Watch for the announcement of which group will make the next tour.

Wedding Announcement

October 13th has been set as the wedding date for Brenda Anne Russell and Dudley Earl Berry. The couple will exchange vows at 7:00 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Goldthwaite.

Both are graduates of Southwest Texas State University. Dudley is employed as a field engineer with Milchem.

The bride elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Younger, Jr. of San Marcos and Mr. Don Russell of Austin. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Berry of Goldthwaite.

DeLeon Sr. Center Seminar

Over 100 Green Thumb workers and sponsors recently attended a quarterly Green Thumb Training Seminar at the De Leon Senior Center.

Area Green Thumb workers attending the meeting included Jo B. Horne and Callie Pyburn.

Texas Green Thumb, a Federally-funded program through the Department of Labor, is sponsored by Texas Farmers Union and provides part-time work opportunities for older rural workers who meet income eligibility requirements.

These workers are placed with local non-profit organizations. Through their work experience, Green Thumbs gain self-esteem and renewed self-confidence enabling them to re-enter the private sector of America's labor force.

Red Meat Supplies Decline Due to Beef Drop Despite Higher Output of Pork, Lamb, Mutton

AUSTIN--The 13-percent decline in total red meat output in Texas, resulting from continuing downward supplies of beef during July, was partially offset by higher production of pork, lamb and mutton, according to Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

"Nationwide, commercial red meat production was up 3 percent in July," Brown noted. "However, a net decrease in meat production was recorded in Texas during the month because we are the top beef producing state, and sharp declines in cattle slaughter are more strongly reflected here."

Brown pointed out that increased production of pork and poultry will be a major factor in keeping retail meat price increases well below their previous levels for the rest of 1979.

During July, Texas commercial slaughter facilities produced 280 million pounds of red meat, said Brown. This was 13 percent less than a year ago, and was down 5 percent from the previous month. "So far this year, Texas red meat production is running 7 percent below 1978, although this does not include poultry, which has been increasing," he added.

Thus far this year, U.S. red meat production totals 21.1 billion pounds, down 4 percent from the same period a year ago.

Cattle slaughtered during July in Texas numbered 412,300 head, down 102,700 head from a year ago. However, average weight was up 20 pounds per animal, and helped ease the dropoff in beef production. Veal production (from calves) has shown a 47-percent dropoff over the first seven months of this year, since declining cattle herds have made these younger animals increasingly valuable for breeding purposes.

July hog slaughter, at 103,200 head, topped July 1978 by over 28,000 head, and average live weight was up by 9 pounds. So far this year, Texas pork production is up 10 percent from a year ago. Total sheep and lamb kill was up substantially at 69,800 head, while average live weight also increased 5 pounds.

NAOMI'S WEDDING DRESS

In 1825, Empresario Green DeWitt received from the Mexican government a grant to settle 400 families in Texas. He immediately began his colonizing efforts, establishing the town of Gonzales before the year was out.

In 1828, he brought his wife, two sons and four daughters there to live. The second of these daughters was Naomi.

We know little of what Naomi was like, other than that she was a member of the Gonzales district's most influential family. If she lacked beauty, her breeding may have blunted the impediments of plainness.

In 1833, William Mathis, one of Stephen F. Austin's Old 300, found her attractions overwhelming, and asked for her hand.

Her mother, Sarah DeWitt, planned a wedding that would be Gonzales' biggest and best. She sent east for the finest silk money could buy, and the wedding was postponed until the precious material could arrive and be sewn into Naomi's wedding dress.

For more than a year there was happiness in the Mathis home, proud in its own right and heir to DeWitt power.

Then a son, William, was born, and happiness would have grown - except that Naomi grew steadily weaker, then quietly died. Her beautiful dress was returned to the bereaved mother who had made it with such high expectations.

Green DeWitt died early in 1835, leaving Sarah to preside over the house from which Gonzales authority was expected.

Times were troubled; the Texans sensed that revolution was certain, but none knew where or when the first shot would be fired.

Back in 1831, the government had given Gonzales a cannon with which to fight Indians. Now the American colonists were distrusted, and Domingo de Ugartechea wanted it back. Gonzales would not give it up. They buried it in George Davis' peach orchard and the word went out. Gonzales' 18 defenders became 160. They dug up the disputed cannon, mounted it on ox-cart wheels, and filled it with chains and scrap metal. As they set out to meet the enemy across the Guadalupe, Sarah DeWitt came forward with a flag made of quality white silk. In its center was a black cannon and the words "Come And Take It."

And so, on October 2, 1835, the little army of Green DeWitt's Gonzales fired the first shot of the Texas Revolution as Naomi's wedding dress furlled in the river breeze.

San Antonio was taken by the upstart Texas Army, and the rebels settled down to await Santa Anna's reaction. It came in February, 5,000 troops commanded by Santa Anna himself.

Bill Travis took 155 men into the old Alamo mission and sent Jim Bonham riding for help.

In all of Texas, only one town would respond; Gonzales had started this war, and they would see it through. Out rode 32 men and boys, to death as certain as the rising of the sun. In all the history of mankind, no greater courage has ever been shown than that of the 32 men from Gonzales who rode out under their Come And Take It flag that had once been Naomi's wedding dress. They entered the Alamo on March 1, and all save John Smith, who carried Travis' last plea for aid, died on March 6 in the epic battle that would ever afterward be mankind's symbol of courage.

Famed though it is, studied as it has been by historians, there are things uncertain about the Battle of the Alamo.

One of these things concerns the flag under which the Alamo defenders fought.

Some favor the red, white and green flag of Coahuila and Texas. Others argue for the Mexican tricolor of 1824, and a few favor the liberty flag now in the Old Stone Fort at Nacogdoches.

The Mexicans, of course, know what flag they captured from Alamo's walls and sent home in triumph to Mexico's National Museum. It is there yet. Ask to see the Alamo flag, and they will show you, locked away under glass, Naomi's wedding dress.

Day Care Center Hearing Set For September 24th

A public hearing on proposed changes in the state's minimum standards for day care centers will be held Friday, September 24, at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. in room 406 of the John H. Reagan Building, 15th and Congress, in Austin. The only substantive changes being proposed concern character investigation of day care staff. The Texas Department of Human Resources, which is charged with enforcing the standards, received recommendations from day care administrators, advisory groups, and interested individuals pointing out the need for more carefully screening persons entering the child care field. The proposed standards prohibit employment of any staff member directly involved in child care who has been convicted within the preceding 10 years of: 1) any felony, 2) any misdemeanor classified as an offense against the person, or 3) the violation of any law enacted to protect children. The proposed changes also require the removal from direct child care activities of any employee indicated for these offenses, or against whom an official complaint has been made for alleged commission of such offenses. Eleven similar hearings are scheduled in September and October across the state.
