No. 22.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS IN MISS McCUNEY SEEKS COUNTY

The following communication addressed to the Chamber of Commerce came into our hands this week. We have no Chamber of Commerce here, but who wants a job, there are several open. The letter is self explanatory.

Shamrock, Texas, Jan. 13h 1920. I am appealing to you for assistance in the matter of securing an adequate number of enumerators to do the Census in your County for you full well know the census enumeration of 18th District has been greatly retarded and I must say it is account of my inability to secure complement of workers to carry the work.

As you are aware of the fact that correct and complete census means much to the citizens of your County it is a great means of advertising resources of your particular part of Texas as well as telling the world why what you have done in the past but the facts of what you are to do will be told at the same time and for that reason I am sure you are sufficiently interested in your County to aid me in securing help I shall need.

I have been advised, recently, the Director of Census, that I shall be permitted to offer enumerators in your County for their services in the districts the sum of $6.00 per man for eight hours work as well as additional sum of $2.00 per diem subsistence, while those in cities will work on the per capita plan receiving for their services 4 cents per day for each person enumerated, and 1 cent for each barn containing live stock on farm and 30c for each cow listed.

The work of enumeration in your County commence just as soon as the enumerators are appointed and the necessary supplies are received by you.

Now it is my earnest desire that you assist me in filling up the vacancies in the following districts in your County, to-wit:

E. D. 212, Justice Precinct 1, including Miami city, and Justice Precinct 2.
E. D. 213, Justice Precinct 3, 4, 5.

And any assistance you are able to render me in the matter of securing enumerators for the above vacancies in your district will be appreciated by me.

Thanking you, I am,
Very respectfully,
James H. Carperton,
Supervisor of Census, 18th District of Texas.

A. COFFEE ASKS FOR RE-ELECTION

Sheriff L. A. Coffee has made formal announcement this week of his candidacy for re-election to the office of Sheriff and Tax Collector. Subject to the action of the Democratic Primary which will be held in May.

Mr. Coffee has served the people of this county in this position since re-election and we doubt if there is more capable peace officer in the State of Texas. His records as Tax Collector are also good and we feel that he is justly entitled to expect a second term to serve the people in his capacity. This is one of the most responsible positions of any county office, and one that requires skill and knowledge of human nature. Mr. Coffee does well his duty, and Mr. Coffee has made good.

MISS McCUNEY SEEKS TREASURERSHIP

Miss Cora McCune who has so faithfully performed the duties of County Treasurer for Roberts County the past two years comes before the voters again this year, asking their support for a second term, and will make the race, subject to the Democratic Primary in July of this year.

Miss McCune is a capable lady for this position and having held the office only one term, is justly entitled to it for the coming term. Not a fault can be found with her accuracy in keeping the records of the finance of the county straight, her reports all coming up to standard, and she has proved to be an efficient and accommodating county official. Miss McCune is the only woman office holder in the county at present, and we would be treating the ladies hardly fair not to give them one representative in the county offices.

ASKING FOR SECOND TERM AS TAX ASSESSOR

Few men in the county know it or its people better than does Tom Pursley, and with his long years of residence here and intimate knowledge of property values, especially fit him for the office of Tax Assessor, which office he now holds, and comes asking the voters for re-election to the second term. Good officers are almost always tendered a second term of office, and some times more, and Mr. Pursley will be entitled to a second term, for his records since the last election have been up to the standard of perfection.

Mr. Pursley is asking for the office through the Democratic Primary which will be held in July, and having made his formal announcement, he will appreciate your influence and vote at election.

HOLD WOMEN MUST PAY SAME POLL TAX IN CITIES AS MEN.

Austin, Texas, Jan. 6.—It was held by the Attorney General today that in cities collectig poll tax from male voters women must pay a city poll tax as well as that to the county and the state, in order to vote in primary election held, even though primary elections be for State county and district offices.

The law requires male voters to pay city tax and the Attorney General construes that part of the women suffrage act requiring the same qualifications as male voters to compel payment of the city tax by women.

With the city poll tax usually about $1. women residing in such places will have to pay a total of $2.75 to get the privilege of voting in this years primary elections. Not all of Texas cities require payment of a poll tax. In such places women will pay the usual $1.75 for State and county purposes.

IMPORTANT MEETING

Amarillo, Texas, Jan. 14th, 1920. Much of benefit to the Panhandle farmer is expected of the coming meeting of the Directors of the Panhandle Plains Chamber of Commerce, which is to be held in the offices of the organization Tuesday, January 20th. Notice has been sent out to the Directors from the Thirty-eight counties included in the district, urging their presence at the meeting. Communications from the Panhandle Grain Dealer's Association and the Panhandle Banker's Association indicate that a large number of representatives of these organization will attend the meeting, and will pledge their aid to the efforts being made to move the grain, cotton and all other crops, also all manner of live stock.

Representatives of the Railroad Administration will also attend the meeting, which is being called primarily to bring a more spontaneous effort to secure better co-operation between the farmer and common carriers, the whole force of the public being brought to bear on the situation.

County Directors are asked to get information on the following facts in their respective counties, in order to place the entire situation before those in attendance:

Kind of crops involved;
Total production;
Total amount to be moved;
Amount that has already been moved; and Approximate rate per day for moving balance of crop.

It is urged that each Director have specific data covering these points. This data will be compiled for the entire region during the morning session of the meeting. President A. S. Stinnett of the Chamber of Commerce issued an appeal to the people of the Panhandle region to send representatives to the meeting of the 20, in the Amarillo Daily News of Sunday morning, Jan. 11th.

CALLED MEETING TOMORROW

In order to get the proper data for representatives going to the Amarillo Meeting of the Panhandle Plains Chamber of Commerce, meeting, which will be held in Amarillo next Tuesday, a call meeting of the Miami Grain dealers, County officials, Depot Agent and Bankers will be held tomorrow afternoon at the rear of the First State Bank. This is a very important meeting and those present will be asked as to the number of cars shipped out, number of cars needed and an estimate as to the number of cars yet remaining in the county of wheat, oats, corn, rye, barley, kafir, milo, maize, cotton, and all Panhandle crops.

AT THE CHURCH OF CHRIST

Once a week the Lord has ask us to meet at the house of God. So don't forget your obligation next Sunday. Our subject for the morning service will be, What is a Christian? At 6 p. m. Love, Courtship, and marriage.

P., is an expert in judging fine cattle, and while in the business only a few years, is proving to be one of the best pure bred cattle raisers in the state.

NEXT YEARS LYCEUM ASSURED

Mr. A. B. Calley, traveling representative for the Dixie Lyceum Bureau was in Miami Thursday and succeeded in getting a contract for the course next year. Miami has never had a course with these people but we are sure from the selections he had and the press reports on them that they are really something good. The courses for next year will be, Columbia Sextette in the month of October, Arthur W. Evans in Nov., Liberty Bells in December, Musical Arts in January, and Maude Stevens Co. in February. We have three purely musical numbers, one lecture and one mixed program for the coming season. These numbers were chosen from some fifty different attractions Mr. Calley had and we are sure they will meet the approval of the Miami people.

These five numbers are to cost four hundred dollars and the contract is signed by forty of Miami's most prominent business men and young men who have pep enough to put it over. If you failed to get your name on the list we are sorry as it was a privilage you do not have every day in helping the rising generation to see and appreciate higher entertainment.

HOW MUCH?

IT WAS a tea party and little Margery was there by special favor. There had been much conversation about the high cost of living and much bemoaning of the get-rich-quick methods of the butcher, baker and garage man.

Margery listened in well trained silence for a time; then with the abrupt simplicity of the eight-year-old mind she said:

"Mother how much money do you have to live before you are rich?"

A little laugh went round the room; then Margery's mother said lightly, "Enough to keep one from worry."

How much is that? asked Margery. You make me think of Paul Dombey, Margery, exclaimed Mrs. A.

He asked his father what money was and his father replied that money was something that could accomplish anything. And Paul said, "Then why didn't it save my mother, and the astute older Dombey had no reply."

Well what is money? shrilled Margery.

There was a short silence. Then Mrs. A., said soberly, "I guess money is, about what you make it my dear; a little sometimes, is a blessing and a great deal a curse."

I was thinking last night, said Margery's mother, that if I were back where I was ten years ago I'd be doing my own house work and not caring a fig about servants' wages. And Joe would be working in the garden Saturdays instead of playing golf.

Oh I know how you feel! exclaimed Mrs. A., it seems sometimes as if it would be a relief if a crash would come and we'd all have to go back to the simple days of our grandmothers. Heavens! How it would simplify our problems!

Margery wiggled in her chair. But you don't tell me how money makes you rich, she insisted. I want to be rich some day, and I must know.

Little Miss B., the librarian, leaned forward to take the child's hand.

"Oh, my dear!" she exclaimed. It's not money that makes one rich. The people with money I know are mostly stupid and mostly unhappy. I have little money, but I count myself rich. I know through my work most of the great minds of the ages. I have enough salary to feed and clothe myself decently and to save toward my old age. And I envy no one. Who says I'm not rich?"

The child looked puzzled. Then she said: "Aren't all great people rich?" "I mean, don't they have lots of money?"

"Very, very few great people have been rich" replied the little librarian so that there is little room for and so that there is little room for the finer things."

"Were Christ and Abraham Lincoln poor?" asked the child.

"They were the richest men in the world, because they had everything but money," said Miss B.

Margery sat staring thoughtfully at the cream tart in her hand. Her mother sighed and smiled.

"I feel as if I'd had a pretty fair sermon, thanks to Margery and Miss B.," she said.

"But nobody's told me how much money makes you rich," shrilled Margery. "And I want to know!"—Delineator.

TO THE PATRONS OF

The City Light and Water Co.

Owing to the increased cost of running expenses for the Light and water plant, the City Council met in regular session and made the following new rates, which are absolutely necessary for the maintenance of our lights and water service. The light rate minimum which has been $1.50 per month was raised to a minimum of $2.50 per month, making the first ten kilowatts cost 25 cents but over that amount, the rate will be only 12 1-2 cents. The water minimum was raised from $1.50 per month to $2.00 per month. The ten per cent discount on bills paid before the tenth of the month was also discontinued.

The raise in rate was inevitable or a curtailment of service, and we believe that the people want service and would prefer to pay more for good service than the same for poor. We trust that this method meets with the approval of the customers, and believe that it was the best possible for us all.

By order of the City Council.

WEAK LINKS IN A STRONG CHAIN

That's just what imitation parts are when they become a part of your Ford car. They look strong enough, but the metal isn't there—the strong, durable Vanadium steel that goes into the Ford Chassis and every Ford part. Ford parts specially cast and heat-treated, each according to its use. Some require a hard, flint-like wearing surface, others need resistency, and some need just "toughness."

Ford metallurgists have been studying these problems for sixteen years and know just how each unit should be made to endure a maximum of wear and tear. They know that result can be obtained only by the use of special formulas for different parts, and that honest Ford parts wear from thirty-five to one hundred per cent longer than counterfeits.

We carry complete assortments of genuine Ford parts for both passenger cars and trucks. And our garage is equipped to give careful, prompt Ford service—from minor adjustments to complete overhauls. Drive in, it's better to be safe than sorry. Come to the Authorized Ford dealer for service. Insist on Genuine Ford Parts.

The Upward Path

By WALTER JOSEPH DELANEY

A gentlemanly appearing individual of middle age slipped slightly on the wet pavement and the impact of his body nearly carried Rayne Eilers off his feet. The latter was in no frame of mind for courtesy or consideration. Quite roughly he gave the other a push.

"Why don't you jump into somebody?" demanded Eilers rudely, at that moment out of patience with himself and all of the world besides. Then he noticed that one arm of the man was in a sling. He saw him curse it, a spasm of pain protruding his face. In an instant Eilers was again his better self.

"I am sorry," he said quickly, and sincerely. "A dislocated arm, only," observed the other quietly, "but we must remember the deeper sufferings of one greater sympathy and use patience. We should be indulgent, very kind when we remember Jesus and Pilate." Eilers stared straight at the owner of the arm, present flow.

"I am ashamed of myself, sir," he began, but just then there was a groan in the throng, and the subject of his impatience and roughness was carried behind him in the crowding current of humanity. Eilers, indeed, felt his amazement. He was a victim of 35 fortune and had been going down hill especially for many months. He could not secure regular and profitable employment and was homeless and he felt hopeless. He longed the world around him and was going to meet trial upon trial of indifference with bitterness.

Eilers did not sleep well that night. The gentle approach of the man he had treated so roughly haunted him. He felt he should have had more respect for the enlightenment of early years training. There was a mild consolation in the last words of the man he had pushed that humiliated him, wounded him and caused him to think. The personality of the stranger remained with him as a strong memory. He wondered why he could not forget the circumstances and look his being to heart. He was careful not to show rudeness to anyone, he ever went out of his way to lift a crumpled rag from the street and carry him for the said who was sweeping over the gutter.

It was about a week later that Eilers, proceeding down a long thoroughfare, turned sharply at the edge of a tunnel. At a glance he made out a great black and better track dashing about at reckless speed.

It was a serious runaway, for the driver had evidently been thrown off the seat and the furious wheels, unguided, swung from side to side. The track struck a vapor and reduced it to kindling wood. About thirty yards from the smoking Eilers realized if he failed the warning, falling off the track was likely to create havoc along the curb of the busy street.

Just ahead of him a white haired pedagogue was seated in an automobile creating the confusion.

With a spring Eilers reached the machine and seized the wheel. In a flashing second he checked the rush, speeded half a block and dived into an alley. He he uttered a choking bark he discovered the man who had sped him to the identified spot where the automobile had coast.

His startled passenger grasped only half of what had occurred until his chauffeur came hurrying to the spot. Then he comprehended that for his timely action of Eilers he might have met his doom.

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

A gentlemanly appearing individual of middle age slipped slightly on the wet pavement and the impact of his body nearly carried Bayne Eilers off his feet. The latter was in no frame of mind for courtesy or consideration. Quite roughly he gave the other a push.

"Why don't you bump into somebody?" demanded Eilers surily, at that moment out of patience with himself and all of the world besides. Then he noticed that one arm of the man was in a sling. He saw him nurse it, a spasm of pain traversing his face. In an instant Eilers was again Mr. better self.

"I am sorry," he said quickly, and sincerely.

"A dislocated arm, only," observed the other quietly, "but we must remember the deeper sufferings of one greater exemplar and use patience. We should be indulgent, very kind when we remember Judas and Pilate."

Eilers stared strangely at the owner of the calm, pleasant face.

"I am ashamed of myself, sir," he began, but just then there was a press in the throng, and the subject of his impatience and roughness was carried beyond him in the crowding current of humanity.

Eilers, indeed, felt his abatement. He was a victim of ill fortune and had been going down hill financially for many months. He could not secure regular and profitable employment and was homeless and he felt friendless. He judged the world harshly and was ready to resent trivial imposition or indifference with bitterness.

Eilers did not sleep well that night. The gentle touch of the man he had treated so roughly haunted him. He felt its justice, for he had not forgotten the enlightenment of early moral training. There was a mild condemnation in the last words of the man he had pushed that humiliated him, censured him and caused him to think. The personality of the stranger remained with him as a strong memory. He wondered why he could not forget the circumstance and took his lesson to heart. He was careful not to show rudeness to anyone, he even went out of his way to lift a crippled dog from the street and carry him for the child who was mourning over the accident.

It was about a week later that Eilers, proceeding down a busy thoroughfare, turned sharply at the echo of a tumbler. At a glance he made out a great load and ladder truck dashing along at reckless speed.

It was a serious runaway, for the driver had evidently been thrown off the seat and the furious steeds, unguided, swung from side to side. The truck struck a wagon and reduced it to kindling wood. About thirty yards from the crossing, Eilers realized, if not halted the wagon, that the fire truck was likely to create havoc along the curb of the next square.

Just ahead of him a white haired gentleman was seated in an automobile awaiting the chauffeur.

With a spring Eilers reached the machine and seized the wheel. In a flashing second he cleared the curb, speeded half a block and darted into an alley. As he entered it, looking back he discerned the fire truck upset and wrecked at the identical spot where the automobile had stood.

His startled passenger guessed only half of what had occurred until his chauffeur came hurrying to the spot. Then he comprehended that but for timely action of Eilers he might have met his doom.

"I owe you my life, young man," he said calmly, but his face was pale. Eilers, too, was shaken. He had recognized the old man. At last he had again met the person who had become a haunting memory with him. His soul swelled with relief and surprise. Surely he had now atoned for that episode of rudeness which had taught him a salutary lesson!

"Come into the back seat here, will you?" spoke the old gentleman, and his eyes scanned Eilers closely. "Tell me something about yourself, will you?" continued Daniel Worth. "I have reason to be interested in you."

It all came out. There was something in the face of Daniel Worth that invited confidence. He was deeply stirred with emotion as Eilers told of his constant thought of the man who had so strangely met him. There was a fatherly searching into the depths of Eilers' soul by his new friend. Without pretense Mr. Worth went direct to the root of Eilers' necessities.

Fate, coincidence seemed to have lined up circumstances for his full benefit at last, for Daniel Worth was a person of means and influence. Then, once more firmly upon his feet, Eilers was invited to the home of his benefactor.

To meet his daughter Alice, to feel a new and powerful influence come into his life, to bless the day his better self had started him on the upward path. "I can trust fully in such love as yours," Mr. Worth told Eilers the day he informed him of his new found devotion; "you have always told me you hoped and believed that somewhere, some time your dream of home and love and happiness would come true. Let the somewhere be here, and the some time now."

LAUNDRY NOTICE
Owing to the very unsatisfactory service we have been getting from the laundry, we are forced to quit guaranteeing a return of your clothes, and most especially family washing.
This condition, we regret very much to exhibit, but with the scarcity of help that our laundry seems to have, with so many inexperienced marking clerks, it seems almost impossible to keep things right.
We assure you that your patronage with us in the laundry business has been appreciated, and only regret that we are unable to extend to all a first-class laundry service. We will continue sending the basket which leaves every Monday, but solicit only such laundry as cannot be done at home.

What's your Tailor?
PEOPLE CAN WEAR MORE CLOTHES IN WINTER THAN IN SUMMER.
That is why we have been so very careful in selecting a line of samples that will suite you in style, workmanship and price. Of course we can show you samples of men's suits up to $60 and $75 each, but we also can show you some of as fine samples as you ever saw at from $35 to $50. Our Fall and Winter samples are here, and if you will need a suit or overcoat we will be more than glad to show you, and prove to you that THE TOGGERY can give you better fit, better style and better prices than you can find elsewhere.
