THE BURIED CITY

Upper reaches of Wolf Creek, forty-five miles north of Miami, is what has been the old timers ever since the "Buried City." It is on what was the Jim Clegg, now owned by the state, on an elevated table-land, about a mile and a half from the creek. Warren K. Morehead, of the department of archeology at Andover, Mass., a crew of men were digging the ruins of the city and extending the country around for what is believed to be of the scientific world. A party of explorers discovered the ruins of twenty-six old buildings. Old, perhaps when the western sea.

of these ruins, which consist of the lower walls, and on the Handy place, the rest of the valley of the widely separated localities. In the ruins at other points explorers made no excavation other than on the lower walls of a building. Their presence only by the short grass, clearly in most places the outline of the building. A building which was about seventy feet was excavated. Every evidence was found of an ancient civilization, which is possible ante-dated the cliff.

In the building, in which human remains, ancient pottery, bones of various other things had been found, the explorers discovered fragments of two human heads and war points; and small ornaments made of pearl, beautifully draped in workmanship.

The ruins were built on a high place where the food and warm themselves of the finds were made. Morehead says that some of these relics were found to be the fact that these ancient dwellers, but he could not determine whether the dwellers of Wolf Creek were the cliff dwellers, or that came after that ancient people.

Whoever these ancient people may have been it is quite evident that they were far more advanced in the arts of civilization than any of the Indian tribes known after the arrival of the people in the new world. The erection of a building, such as the largest ruin implies, indicates a civilization far in advance of the plains Indian, or any of his contemporaries. Whom these ancient people may have been we know not. Like many people in the history of the world, they lived their allotted time, fulfilling whatever destiny might have been theirs, and they passed away into the darkness of the oblivion of the ages that have gone.

PANHANDLE-PLAINS C. OF C. MEET TODAY

The First Annual meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce will be held today at Amarillo. This organization was effected at a mass meeting just one year ago, and has been a great source of benefit to every county in the Panhandle almost every month since its organization. Frank R. Jamison, Secretary Manager, is perpetually working for the upbuilding and benefit of this section of the country, and his report at this meeting will be very interesting, showing exactly what the organization has done and the great future of work to be done.

J. W. Voyles, President of the Miami Chamber of Commerce will be at the meeting to represent our Commercial Organization and county Commissioner, J. A. Meade will attend as a county official. Some other citizens of the county are also expected to attend.

HOME PROGRESS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Home Progress Club met Thursday, May 27, with Mrs. Sam Seiber as hostess. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. R. Ewing.

Quite an interesting program on the "Study of Wild Flowers" was led by Mrs. W. F. Locke, assisted by Mrs. O'Loughlin and Mrs. C. T. Locke.

Huge bouquets containing many different specimens of wild flowers, also the decorations in the home added an interesting object lesson to the study.

Following officers were elected for the coming year:

- Mrs. W. A. Dyer, President.
- Mrs. J. L. Seiber, Vice Pres.
- Mrs. W. F. Locke, Secretary.
- Mrs. J. E. Kinney, Treasurer.
- Mrs. B. F. Jackson, Critic.
- Mrs. C. S. Seiber, Parliamentarian.
- Mrs. Thos. J. Boney, Press Reporter.

The committee was appointed as follows:

- Mrs. W. R. Ewing.
- Mrs. C. T. Locke.
- Mrs. J. K. McKenzie.

A motion was carried to meet only the last Thursday of each month during the summer.

Dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to eighteen members and Mrs. Ellis as a guest.

At the same time the bodies of the dead, and whatever else had been left by the marauders, was covered by the soil, and is now being dug up for the interest and edification of the people of today.

It is quite likely that in the years that have elapsed, those portions of the walls that were not covered by the soil, have crumbled away beneath the touch of time, and are now mingling with the sands of the creek bed. Famous Mexican General a Cousin of J. E. Hill of Amarillo

General Benjamin Chambers Hill, one of General Obregon's chiefs of staff in leading the Mexican revolutionists in the war against Carranza, is a first cousin of J. E. Hill, vice president and general manager of the Panhandle Lumber Company of Amarillo. The relationship was accidentally discovered by the Tribune when a search was made for papers giving an account of the leader of the Mexican forces. Mr. Hill was reticent about giving his story, having as yet received no confirmation from the family of his cousin.

J. E. Hill and Benjamin C. Hill knew each other when the former was working in a bank in Indianapolis and when the latter was a student in the Indiana state university at Bloomington. All the facts concerning the general in press reports tally exactly with the Amarillo man's knowledge of his famous cousin.

When Benjamin C. Hill was graduated from the law school at Bloomington he went to Tucson, Arizona, where he began the practice of law. During the eight years he had been in Tucson he had been active in state politics. J. E. Hill has not heard from him in about two years.

Tribune dispatches reported that the general was from Tucson that he was known as Bennie, which his Amarillo cousin remembers as a fact concerning him, and he was further reported as being from Charleston, Ill., where the Amarillo lumberman knows his grandmother to still be living.

Bennie's motto when a boy in college was: "Never Do Anything by Halves," said Mr. Hill today when asked if he recalled any of the traits of his cousin. He added that the boy's parents had difficulty in keeping him in school as he wanted to be traveling all the time. Mr. Hill also recalled that the young law student was one of the first men in town to ride a motorcycle when that machine first appeared. He early showed his daring spirit by insisting on riding after being thrown. The future general, however, at this time showed no belligerent traits, others than a daring spirit.

His being now a leader of troops who are fighting for what they consider their liberality is easily accounted for, however, when his ancestry is known.

J. E. Hill and the general, who are about the same age, are the sons of brothers. The family is Scottish, and traces its descent from the Wallaces and Cunninghams of Scottish border fame. The Amarillo man has in his library a family heirloom, a book bearing the name of Martha "Wallace, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, 1777." The general's mother was from Kentucky which may also account for his fighting blood. The great-great grandfather of the two men was reared a captive among the Pennsylvania Indians. Their great grandmother was a Methodist circuit rider, and their grandfather a gold miner. They had an uncle who fought as a captain in the Black Hawk war. A brother of J. E. Hill is well known as a missionary in India, supported by the First Christian Church of Amarillo.—Amarillo Tribune.

Mrs. Cobb: "Was the grocer's boy impudent to you again when you telephoned this morning?" The Cook: "Yes, Mrs. Cobb, he was that, but I fixed him this time. I sez 'Who the H do you think you're talking to. This is Mrs. Cobb.'"—Santa Fe Magazine.

CHRISTOPHER PROFITS IN CALVES

W. C. Christopher returned Tuesday from Kansas City where he went with a car of calves and a car of hogs. Mr. Christopher gave a few figures on the profit of feeding calves which were very encouraging.

Mr. Christopher had 36 calves, for which he was offered $35 per head last fall. He ran them on pasture until in January, and began feeding them which was continued until shipping date. The calves averaged in weight on the market 656 pounds each, and brought $13.25, or $87 each. Following the calves he had 29 head of hogs, which he fed nothing, and they showed a net gain while following the calves of 150 pounds each. The hogs brought 14 cents, a net profit of $21 on each hog, thus making a $35 calf last fall, bring near $100 on the market this spring, after shipping charges were paid.

Mr. Christopher is a successful stockman-farmer, but what he can do in the Panhandle, others can do also. It is profitable to feed calves in the Panhandle.

BAPTIST REVIVAL IN PROGRESS

Evangelist J. A. Roper of Lone oak and singer, B. B. McKinney of Ft. Worth started a big revival meeting at the Baptist Church Sunday, and with the close cooperation the meeting is receiving from the local Pastor and members, the meeting promises to be one of the best the local congregation has had.

While the attendance has not been extra large, it is steadily increasing and it is expected to fill the spacious church to its capacity every night before the meeting progresses far.

WHEAT GROWERS MEET

The Wheat Growers Association held a meeting Saturday afternoon at the Pastime Theatre which was well attended and a large number of new members were admitted. E. M. McCracken, of the Executive Committee of the National Association was present at the meeting and gave some interesting facts on what happened at the meeting in Kansas. Mr. McCracken stated that he was organizing from one to three local organizations daily over this part of the Panhandle, and that they expected to get beneficial results for

COUGHED FOR 2 YEARS ORDERED TO DENVER

Doctor said she couldn't get well in Illinois, but she did.

"I had a very bad cough for two years, all the time, day and night. Could sleep but little. I tried everything but got no relief. Finally my doctor said he could do no more for me, that I had better go to Denver, as I couldn't live in Illinois. Then I tried Milk's Emulsion. From the very first it helped me. By the time I had taken 15 bottles my cough left me entirely. I have gained in strength and flesh and am now in perfect health."

-Mrs. Alice M. Huntley, 152 No. Pearl St., Glasgow, Ill.

Build up your system and give it a chance to fight off disease. Milk's Emulsion costs nothing to try and it has done the work for thousands of others. Milk's Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength Milk's Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened, and is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Truly wonderful for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk's Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results your money will be promptly refunded. Price 5c and 15c per bottle. The Milk's Emulsion Co. Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Mucous Surfaces. SUITABLE TAFFETAS FOR SUMMER WEAR

There are so many pretty taffeta dresses this season, made up in so many ways, that it seems almost an entire wardrobe might be assembled from among them, if all other fabrics were barred. Then, to add to their diversity, designers have hit upon combinations of taffeta and organdie, taffeta, and net, and taffeta and lace.

An example of original and beautiful designing, the dress at the left of the two shown above will interest every lover of taffeta. Its bodice is cut on kimono lines but departs from them with a wide flare in elbow sleeves and its fastening at the back. It has a round neck and extends six or eight inches below the waistline. The skirt at the front forms a panel extending a little way above the waist and merging into the bodice in a "V"-shaped opening outlined with embroidery in silk. In the back it terminates at the waist line.

The bodice forms a narrow yoke at each side over the hips and the skirt is fastened to the yoke in a series of penicil folds, bordered with a narrow band of silk in a lighter shade than the frock. This light silk faces the sleeves that are turned back to reveal it and gathered under a small disk of embroidery above the facing. An unexpected detail in the management of this frock is the harem skirt gathering at the bottom.

Another pretty taffeta, shown at the right, is made on more familiar lines but contrives to be just as pleasing as its rival. Its bodice with turned-back elbow sleeves has a group of small tucks at each side and a soft grille that fastens under one large ornament at the right side. Narrow frills of the taffeta, set on in bands at the front and back and across the hips at the side, make a charming trimming. A frill of lace about the round neck provides a youthful neck dress. Necks in this style invite the use of beautiful old lace collars shaped to fit them and already they have made their appearance.

For Matrons---Brilliant Hats

MODISTES and costumers may make clothes in greater variety and quantity for young women than for matrons, but it is the matron's outfitting that gives them most concern. In the province of millinery the designing of matrons' hats is of such importance that gifted men and women give all their time to it. In the group shown here four semi-dress hats are pictured.

The hat at the top of the group is a spirited shape of brilliant black straw that recalls the Napoleon. The high luster of the braid and the lines in the shape, are both contributors to the smart style of this model, which is less trimmed than any of its companions. It has an ornament made of long glycerined ostrich plumes and celopane foliage.

The handsome turban of black moire ribbon and a jet ornament at the left of the group is a Russian inspiration in which very rich ribbon is very cleverly draped over a frame. This is a handsome hat, with plenty of character that might be made in any rich color or in black. Facing it a fami-lar straw shape is almost covered with very large, flat silk blossoms partly veiled with malines; those on top of the crown give it additional height. A shape of string-colored braid with blue or American Beauty shades in the trimming would be handsome, the malines in the same color as the hat; or the flowers might be in several colors.

The last hat is built on a shape of lisere braid, which may be imagined in dark blue or brown or black, with a very high drapery of "hairnet" cloth, wired to sweep upward and backward, veiling a few handsome roses in natural shades. A collar of ribbon with bow at the left side, completes an ideal of becoming smartness in matrons' hats. This hair-net cloth is a novelty in millinery materials that is specially well suited to hats for older women.

Wild Beasts' Toll in India.

Not a day passes of your own life but somewhere in India some 50 people have died through the action of wild beasts. It is not to be supposed that efforts are not made to destroy these monsters. Standing rewards are offered by the government for the killing of all the more dangerous types. But so wild and impenetrable are their sanctuaries that it is impossible to do anything except to keep their number within bounds in the more populous territories.

No woman would ever quarrel with a man if it were not for the pleasure of making it up again.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism. You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

Honey Yield Higher.

The average yield of surplus honey in 1919 was 50 pounds to a colony of honey bees, as estimated by the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture. This is considerably above average of 45 pounds in 1918, and of 41 6-10 pounds for the five years 1913-1917. The relative proportions in which the honey of the last two years was marketed are indicated by 59 for extracted honey, 31 for comb honey and 10 for bulk honey. About one-third of the product goes to "outside" markets.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

THE NEWCOMES

By WILLIAM M. THACKERAY

Condensation by Charles K. Bolton, Librarian of the Boston Athenaeum

William Makepeace Thackeray, son of a civil servant in India, was born July 18, 1811, in Calcutta. He died Dec. 24, 1863, in London, where most of his life was spent. From 1840 on his wife was insane, so there lived in his heart, as in that of the other great humorist of his time, Dickens, constant sorrow.

Thackeray began in school days rather to absorb life than to attain a scholarship. He delighted even then to reproduce it in comic verse and caricature. At Cambridge, in Welmor, in Paris art schools and London law school, he went gaily on his way, indolent in study but eager in friendship, ardent in life. At twenty-one he owned and managed a London newspaper, at twenty-five he was penniless, after scattering a comfortable fortune. But he had bought experience invaluable to the young journalist, priceless to the novelist.

Thackeray's astonishing versatility was early realized. He aspired to illustrate Dickens' novels; he wrote travel sketches, stories, ballads and burlesques.

"Barry Lyndon," his first notable novel, was the history of a rascal; but, in the most fascinating of feminine fasciols, Dickens' novels; he wrote travel sketches, stories, ballads and burlesques.

"Barry Lyndon," his first notable novel, was the history of a rascal; but, in the most fascinating of feminine fasciols, Dickens' novels; he wrote travel sketches, stories, ballads and burlesques.

"Pendennis" (1849-50) was, like Dickens' "David Copperfield," in essence autobiographical. The need of money drove Thackeray reluctantly to the lecture field. His course on Eighteenth Century Humourists, popular in England and America (1851), prepared the ground for "Emmond" (1852), his unsurpassed historical novel. "The Newcomes" (1854), "The Virginians" (1859), and the unfinished "Dennis Poval" complete the list of his best novels.

COL. THOMAS NEWCOME, the hero of Argom, and of Blart-pour, had loved the beautiful Leonore de Blois, but having incurred the wrath of his stepmother, he fled to India to carve out his career. There he had married the widow, Mrs. Casey, and a few years later sent their son Clive to England. He regaled the ladies of the regiment with Clive's letters; sporting young men would give or take odds that the colonel would mention Clive's name once before five minutes, or three times in ten minutes. But those who laughed at Clive's father laughed very kindly.

At last the happy time came for which the colonel had been longing, and he took leave of his regiment. In England he had in his family circle two half brothers, Sir Brian, who had married Lady Ann, daughter of the Earl of Kew, and Hobson Newcome.

One morning at breakfast while Sir Brian champed his dry toast, Barnes, the son, said to his sister Ethel: "My uncle, the colonel of sepoy, and his amiable son have been paying a visit to Newcome."

"You are always sneering about our uncle," broke in Ethel, "and saying unkind things about Clive. Our uncle is a dear, good, kind man, and I love him."
At Hobson Newcome's and elsewhere the family party often assembled, the colonel, his friend Mr. Binnie and Binnie's sister, Mrs. Mackenzie with her daughter Rosey, Sir Brian and Lady Ann, and Clive who had become a painter. From one of these parties Clive and I, his friend Arthur Pendennis, walked with the usual Havana to light us home. "I can't help thinking," said the astute Clive, "that they fancied I was in love with Ethel. Now, I suppose, they think I am engaged to Rosey. She is as good a little creature as can be, and never out of temper, though I fancy Mrs. Mackenzie tries her."

Time passed and our Mr. Clive went to Baden, where he found old Lady Kew with her granddaughter Ethel. "You have no taste for pictures, only for painters, I suppose," said Lady Kew one day to Ethel.
"I was not looking at the picture," said Ethel, "but at the little green ticket in the corner. I think, grandmamma," she said, "we young ladies in the world ought to have little green tickets pinned on our backs, with 'sold' written on them."

Barnes Newcome, too, was at Baden, for he was to marry pretty little Lady Clara Pulley, free at last from that undrable Jack Belsize, Lord Highgate's son. Lady Kew had plans which Clive's growing regard for his cousin Ethel put in jeopardy.
"My good young man, I think it is time you were off," Lady Kew said to Clive with great good humor. "I have been to see that poor little creature to whom Captain Belsize behaved so cruelly. She does not care a fig for him—not one fig. She is engaged, as you know, to my grandson Barnes; in all respects a most eligible union; and Ethel's engagement to my grandson, Lord Kew, has long been settled. When we saw you in London we heard that you too were engaged to a young lady in your own rank of life—Miss Mackenzie."

Clive's departure led to more flirtations by Ethel than old Lady Kew could countenance, but Ethel had found out how undesirable a man Lord Kew was and broke the engagement so dear to her grandmother's heart.

When Clive heard that the engagement was over between Kew and Ethel he set out in haste for London. I was installed as confidant, and to me Clive said: "Mrs. Mackenzie bothers me so I hardly know where to turn, and poor little Rosey is made to write me a note about something twice a day. Oh Pen! I'm up another tree now!"

Clive met his cousin Ethel at a party or two in the ensuing weeks of the season, and at one of their meetings Ethel told him that her grandmother would not receive him. It was then that Clive thought Ethel worldly, although much of her attitude was due to the keen and unrelenting Lady Kew. The colonel and James Bennie during all this time put their two fond heads together, and Mrs. Mackenzie flattered both of them and Clive as well.

Meanwhile the Lady Clara was not happy with her Barnes. All the life and spirit had been crushed out of the girl, consigned to cruel usage, loneliness and to bitter recollections of the past. Jack Belsize, now Lord Highgate, could stand the strain no longer and took Lady Clara away from her bullying but cowardly husband. The elopement of Clara opened Ethel's eyes to the misery of loveless marriages, and the mamma of her new love, the Marquis of Farintosh, already distressed over the unpleasant notoriety of the proposed Newcome alliance, received a letter from Ethel which set her son free.

Ethel then turned to the lonely, motherless children of her brother Barnes, and found comfort in devoting herself to them. Clive married his Rosey, and his father determined to become a member of parliament in place of Sir Barnes. One night the colonel returning from his electioneering, met Clive, candle in hand. As each saw the other's face, it was so very sad and worn and pale, that Colonel Newcome with quite the tenderness of old days, cried "God bless me, my boy, how ill you look! Come and warm yourself, Clive!"

"I have seen a ghost, father," Clive said, "the ghost of my youth, father, the ghost of my happiness, and the best days of my life. I saw Ethel today?"
"Nay, my boy, you mustn't talk to me so. You have the dearest little wife at home, a dear little wife and child."

"You had a wife; but that doesn't prevent other—other thoughts. Do you know you never spoke twice in your life about my mother? You didn't care for her."
"—I did my duty by her," interposed the colonel.
"I know, but your heart was with the other. So is mine. It's fatal, it runs in the family, father."

The shares of the Bundelcund Banking company, in which the colonel had made his fortune, now declined steadily, and at last the crash came, wiping out all the colonel's money and with it all Rosey's fortune. The impoverished Newcomes settled down first at Boulogne, and then in London, the colonel weary, feeble, white haired, Mrs. Mackenzie a perfect ternant, Rosey pale and ailing, and little Tommy, the baby, a comfort and a care to the hard-worked Clive.

The colonel, no longer able to live under the same roof with Mrs. Mackenzie, found a home with the Grey Friars and here I saw him.

When the colonel's misfortunes were at their worst Ethel, in reading an old book, found a letter from the colonel's stepfather between the covers. It was a memorandum of a proposed bequest to Clive. Ethel at once determined to carry out this intended bequest, and so she and I hastened to Clive's home; but not even good news could soften Mrs. Mackenzie's evil temper. That was a sad and wretched night, in which Mrs. Mackenzie stormed until the poor delicate Rosey fell into the fever to which she owed her death. We soon repaired to the Grey Friars where we found that the colonel was in his last illness. He talked loudly, he gave the word of command, spoke Hindustanee as if to his men. Then he spoke words in French rapidly, seizing a hand that was near him, and crying, "tousjours, toujours!" Ethel and Clive and the nurse were in the room with him. The old man talked on rapidly for awhile; then again he would sigh and be still; once more I heard him say, hurriedly, "Take care of him when I'm in India; and then with a heart-rending voice he called for the love of his youth "Leonore, Leonore!" The patient's voice sank into faint murmurs; only a moan now and then announced that he was not asleep.

At the usual evening hour the chapel bell began to toll, and Thomas Newcome's hands outside the bed feebly beat a time. And just as the last bell struck a peculiar sweet smile shone over his face, and he lifted up his head a little, and quickly said, "Adsum," and fell back. It was the word we used at school, when names were called; and lo, he whose heart was as that of a little child, had answered to his name, and stood in the presence of the Master.

Some Californian has invented a new device for gathering nuts.
"That's unnecessary. All you have to do is to advertise a meeting for harmonizing opinions on the peace treaty or explaining how to shoot tourists into Mars."

DEW HAS VITALIZING EFFECT

Abundant Proof That It Possesses Invigorating Action That Affects Growth of Plants.

Dew is vitalizing, not entirely because it is water but because it possesses an invigorating action due partly to its saturation with oxygen, and it has been stated that during its formation peroxide of hydrogen and some ozone are developed. It is not improbable that the peculiarly attractive and refreshing quality that marks the early-morning air has its origin in this way. The difficulty of inducing grass to flourish under a tree in full leaf is well known and is generally explained by saying that the tree absorbs the nourishing constituents of the soil or that it keeps the sunlight away from the grass and protects it from rain. It is doubtful whether any of these explanations is true, the real reason most probably being that the vitalizing dew cannot form upon the grass under a tree, whereas as a rule both rain and light can reach it.

Order Filled.

"Did you see where some woman complained because she had to pay $1 for a glass of lemonade?"
"Well, she asked to have a lemon handed her, didn't she?"

An Inducement.

"The prices in this fashionable restaurant are very steep."
"Maybe that is why so many climbers are to be seen here."

Naturally.

"Why are you lashing yourself into such a state of excitement?"
"Because I want to get off the beaten track."

The plainer the woman the longer it takes her to select a becoming bonnet.

It is easier to start a rumor than it is to head it off.

COULDN'T FORGET THE GREEN

Mrs. Flannigan's Neat Expression of Loyalty to Her Native and Her Adopted Land.

Mrs. Flannigan for years has proudly exhibited from her front window a row of geraniums, in pots wrapped in bright, Irish green crepe paper, says the Indianapolis News. But the other day when her neighbor, whose son was in France for several months, pulled back her window curtain and revealed her flower pots, decorated in red, white and blue paper, Mrs. Flannigan was visibly troubled. She worried and worried. It is quite hard to be loyal to two countries at the same time, yet Mrs. Flannigan desired to be so.
Then one morning her wide Irish smile came back to her face. And passers-by saw in the Flannigan front window a row of flower pots brave in red, white and blue coverings and every covering was tied to the pot with a wide band of green ribbon.

A War Lesson.

"Sponelegh borrowed $20 from me this morning, but I didn't mind letting him have the money."

"Why not?"
"I noticed that he jotted down the amount on a scrap of paper."
"I thought it generally understood that a scrap of paper signifies an obligation that won't be met."

Unqualified Indorsement.

"Are you in favor of votes for women?"
"Why ask such a question at this late day?" inquired Senator Sorghum in return. "How can a statesman hope to get 'em if he isn't in favor of 'em?"

Its Class.

"What steed do you suppose was most popular in the days of chivalry?"
"It must have been a knight-mare."

An occasional domestic storm is necessary to clarify the matrimonial atmosphere.

"Ripe water melons on the vines" says a headline from Brownville the other day. That's nothing, Canadian has had "cabbage heads" walking on the streets all winter.

Every body ought to be happy. Any man who wants to work can make a living. Sure times are getting better. It hasn't always been thus.

Higgins is one of the latest towns in the Panhandle to organize a commercial club. They are a necessary organization and must be maintained if a town ever expects to get anywhere.

Automobile thieves are a lot worse now than horse thieves ever were. Thieves used to steal horses worth twenty dollars each, and now they steal automobiles worth $2,000 each. Lock your car.

The Panhandle of Texas is not a land of milk and honey. We have plenty of milk but honey comes pretty high. We do have a land of Wheat and Cattle, and 300,000 of the best people on earth.

Panhandle farmers are worrying very little over the Pink Bowl worm session of the Pink Bowl Worm. What we need is assurance that the Santa Fe will furnish plenty of cars to haul off this years crop.

The War Department reports that 59 per cent of the people of the United States who have answered queries wish that their dead relatives, buried in France be returned to the United States. They are making preparations to start bringing them back in September of this year.

Just why should the United States be burdened with the Armenian peoples success, when we have Mexico, right here at home, a set of people in almost as deplorable condition. Turkey has been everlastingly massacring the Armenians, but these Mexican greasers massacre each other.

"Whether your nose is Grecian, Roman or Pug, you should keep it out of other peoples business.—Pampa News.

In other words, Bro. Smith, you would have a lot of people not to use their nose at all. Some of them use it only for butting into other peoples business.

Those Mexico Greasers won't have a leader who would respect anybody or anything. They have killed or run off half a dozen men who might have tried to give them a government, but none ever gets the Bandit Villa. The only way to get rid of him seems to be elect him president and it is a sure thing that he won't last long then. Villa for president.

Wheeler county is the latest county to get into the oil drilling game. A well was started last week six miles north-west of Shamrock.

We can hardly see how so many young men, full of ambition and desire to succeed financially will remain in cities, when there are opportunities beyond description open in agriculture for anyone who will try. Not all those engaged in agriculture succeed, neither do all who go into business succeed, but the per cent is greatly in favor of the farmer and stockman.

A New York paper came out the other day printed on brown wrapping paper, and stated that the paper cost them 14-2 cents per pound, four and a half cents per pound more than the meat it wrapped up in earlier days. Still if newspapers were printed on twenty dollar bills, and sold for two dollars per year, some subscribers would insist upon getting the paper four or five years on credit.

The political machine of Texas seems to have taken, in charge, the candidacy of Pat M. Neff for Governor. Reports from the Democrat convention puts Neff on top, but it is not always the "machine" that elects the man. There is the common voter to be considered, who really tells the tale, and so far as the Panhandle country is concerned, we are guessing that Thomason of El Paso is going to lead by a big majority. We'll ask Old Man Heare about it when he gets back, anyhow.

Higgins News: We now know what is meant by a "flowery bed of ease." A nice quiet spot where the grass is thick and green and the shade under the trees is just right and a lot of wild flowers are blooming and the birds are singing, not too boisterously, and all one has to do is to lie there and watch the clouds and dream and be happy while the other fellow does the cooking. It's great.

ADVERTISING RATES

A number of printers and publishers of Abilene, Baird, Cisco and oil field towns had a meeting last week and resolved that: "Under the present high wages and exorbitant prices of news print we find by careful calculation that a newspaper with a minimum circulation of 500 copies cannot be produced profitably and sell advertising space at a rate less than 30c per column inch."

The proposed graduate schedule of prices fix a rate of 45c an inch for papers of the Signal's circulation class and 75 cents an inch for papers having 5,000 circulation. Nearly all country newspapers are running advertisements too cheap in proportion to the cost of production.—Snyder Signal.

Weak Links in a Strong chain

That's just what imitation parts are when they become part of your Ford car. They look strong enough, but the metal isn't there—the strong, durable Vandium steel goes into the Ford Chassis and every Ford part. Ford parts specially cast and heat-treated each according to its use. Some require a hard, flint like wearing surface, others need resistance, and some need just "toughness."

Ford metallurgists have been studying these problems for sixteen years and know just how each unit should be made to endure a maximum wear and tear. They know that honest Ford parts wear from thirty-five to one hundred percent longer than counterfeits.

We carry a complete assortment of genuine Ford parts for both passenger cars and trucks. And our garage is equipped to give careful, prompt Ford service—from minor adjustments to complete overhauls. Drive in, it's better to be safe than sorry. Come to the Authorized Ford Dealer for service.

Highway Improvement

KEEP ROADS IN GOOD REPAIR

Farmer Can Make Much Improvement by Dragging Highway in Front of His Property.

Every farmer should feel his dependence upon good roads. Whether or not one lives on a public highway he should take an interest in the nearest one to his farm or the road he must use to market his farm, orchard and garden products.

There are many times when a day's work can be spared on the road. After heavy rains the road may need certain repairs or improvements when the overseer is not ready to call out the hands. Why not individual farmers donate a day's work on the road at such time?

By keeping a road drag and dragging the road along one's land after heavy rains the road may be greatly

The Above is a Cut of Seager Wheeler's Plank Drag. It is of the Type for Good Road Maintenance. The Cut Shows Fully the Method of Construction.

Improved. It is an easy matter to have an agreement so each farmer will drag the road in front of his farm. This would maintain the road till the regular hands could be called out at stated intervals or till the commissioner could make the necessary repairs.

The time has come when we must consider the roads an asset, indispensable to the well-being of the farmer and his family. This being true, is it not every man's duty to do all he can to keep the roads in good condition? The individual as well as the county is responsible.

RECORDS PROMISED IN 1920

Millions to Be Spent in Improving Public Highways and Transportation Facilities.

The year 1920 promises to develop a revolution in America's two great problems—highways and transportation.

All over the country great interest is being manifested in better roads and improved transportation facilities.

The coming of the pneumatic-tired motortruck has given an impetus to the movement for a national highway system that is sweeping everything before it.

State after state has passed, without noticeable opposition, appropriations for millions of dollars to build and improve main market and inter-county highways.

What these activities portend can be visualized in some measure when it is said that of the 2,000,000 miles of roads in this country only 200,000 miles are improved.

Motor transports work at highest efficiency on good roads, although the pneumatic truck tire is rendering conspicuous service in transporting heavy loads over swamp ground and the sandy soil of fruit groves.

GOOD ROADS AID APPEARANCE

Farmstead Buildings on Improved Highways Found in Better Shape and Fences Kept Up.

Have you ever compared the farmstead on an improved highway with one on a dirt road? Why in the former are the buildings in so much better shape, the fences up and in a state of repair, the fields spick and span, the house grounds well kept and hedges trimmed, while in the latter the buildings are unpainted? Strange as it may seem, the difference is caused by the road.

VARIOUS KINDS OF HIGHWAYS

Each Community Should Select Type That Can Be Built and Maintained at Lowest Cost.

There are various types of roads that last, and each community should choose the type that can be built and maintained at the least expense. For some communities it may be gravel, for others concrete, for others sand-clay roads. But in every community there should be good roads every day in the year.

Last Carver of Totems

William Shelton Carving His "Life Work."

THIS unusual photograph shows one of the last—possibly the last—of the carvers of totem poles. He is William Shelton, head of the Indian reservation school at Tulalip, Wash. The making of totem poles is an art and few nowadays are the men who can carve them. What a totem pole looks like when completed and set up is shown in the side picture.

Shelton regards this enormous totem pole as his life work. He has already put in 1,000 hours on it. It will set forth the family history of the Snohomish tribe of western Washington. When set in place it will be 8 feet in diameter and will rise 84 feet. Upon completion of this life work Shelton intends to devote the rest of his days to informing the world of the true inwardness of totem poles. It is a large undertaking.

What is a totem? Well, it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to figure it out and then he'd have hard work to make the average man understand the true inwardness of totemism, totem and totem pole.

Totemism, the anthropologists say, is common to primitive man in many parts of the world, but is far from being universal. It is found among the American Indians, but there are tribes which show no trace of it. The Eskimos know nothing of it. Certain African savages have it. The Australians have it.

A totem is a class of material objects which a savage regards with superstitious respect, believing that there exists between him and every member of the class an intimate and altogether special relation. The connection between a man and his totem is mutually beneficent; the totem protects the man and the man shows his respect for the totem in various ways. If his totem is an animal he may show this respect either by refusing to kill and eat it or by making it his favorite diet.

Early explorers found the American Indian communities, independent of their local distribution into tribes, bands and villages, composed of several distinct clans. Each clan had its emblem, consisting of the figure of some bird, beast or reptile, as for example, the clans of the wolf, deer, otter and hawk. In the language of the Algonquins these emblems are known as totems. Members of the same clan were prohibited from intermarriage; a man could take a wife from any clan but his own. To different totems attached different degrees of rank and dignity; those of the bear, tortoise and wolf were among the first in honor. Members of the same clan, though they might dwell far apart and speak different dialects, were yet bound by the closest ties of fraternity. This kind of totem was found in at least three varieties: the clan totem, common to a whole clan and passing by inheritance from generation to generation; the sex totem, common either to all the males or to all the females in a tribe, to the exclusion in either case of the other sex; the individual totem, belonging to an individual and not passing to his descendants.

As to the totem pole, it is hard to say what it is. There is one thing however, which it is not; it is not a fetish or an idol or a thing to be worshipped. The totem pole of one man may be simply his individual totem. A second totem pole may also bear the clan totem of the owner. Then a chief or a rich man may have an elaborate totem pole containing "all his crests and all the stories connected with them." So that a very large and pretentious totem pole may be a sort of family tree of the owner or even an autobiography.

Even in case the carvers of totem poles become extinct, a number of the most noteworthy of these remarkable creations will be preserved for posterity for several generations to come. Uncle Sam realized quite a while ago the advisability of this. The result is that there are two national monuments in Alaska, created in large part with the view of preserving some very fine examples of these curious relics of bygone days.

Sitka National monument was created in 1908. It is about a mile from Sitka and contains 17 acres. It contains 18 totem poles, the highest of which rises 60 feet. These totem poles are carved from wet cedar and when the paint wears off the unpainted wood cracks badly. These totem poles have recently been given two coats of paint by the National park service in six colors. When the carvings were broken or damaged they were replaced. This monument is a panoramic view of beauty and interest as the scene of the massacre of Russian fur hunters by Indians in the early days when all this region was owned by Russia.

1907 Kansas National monument was created in 1916. It contains 38 acres and within its bounds are an abandoned Indian village, numerous remarkable totem poles and other objects of historical interest.

WAR AND FUTURE OF ART

Fresh Creative Force May Reasonably Be Hoped for, Is Conclusion of Noted Writer.

As for the action of the world's great war upon the world's great art, it is a theme too vast for easy handling, writes Agnes Repplier in Art and Life, New York. It was said in the spring of 1915 that the Quartier Latin had ceased to produce, having nothing which breathless humanity could pause to look at. Death took its toll of artists and month after month saw the blighting of hope, as men died with their work undone.

Mr. Pennell, an acute, but not a sanguine observer, says plainly that new inspiration—as a result of the conflict—is not to be hoped for. Yet if national fervor was fed by the simplicities of art, by the cartoon, the verses of the trench, the "half articulate songs" that set the soldier's blood a-tinging, it is reasonable to believe that the high tide of human passion will not ebb before impregnating a lethargic world with fresh creative force.

Rodin, brooding over the darkest hour and minimizing no peril or calamity, spoke with heroic assurance of the future: "Our young soldiers and our old cathedrals fall that there may flourish again a youth, pure, ardent, healthy, hostile to materialism, keen for spirituality; and that a renewed and sublime art may spring from the soil washed and fertilized by blood."

Milk Consumption.
As it is estimated that only 2.9 of the milk produced in this country is used in making condensed milk, the industry can not have any considerable effect upon the milk industry of the cities. According to figures given for last year, 43.1 per cent of milk produced is used as liquid milk, 4.1 per cent for making butter, 4.3 per cent for making cheese, 3.7 per cent for making ice cream, and 2.9 per cent for condensed milk. The United States has about 23,000,000 dairy cows. It is estimated that Europe lost about 22,000,000 cows in the last few years.

Limited Vocabulary.
"Hark to the lament of a former doughboy."
"What about?"
"He says he's been out of the army only eight months and he's forgotten every word of French he knew."
"Too bad. How many words did he know?"
"About six."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

LIVE STOCK

LESS FARM ANIMALS IN 1919

Interesting to Note That Mules and Milch Cows Show Slight Increase in Numbers.

A slight increase in the number of milch cows and mules and a moderate increase in the number of other cattle, horses, sheep, and swine are the outstanding features of a survey of live stock on farms and ranges of the United States on January 1, as compared with a year ago, made by the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture.

Milch cows have increased about 272,000 head, or 1.2 per cent; mules increased 42,000 head or 0.8 per cent; "other" cattle (as designated above) decreased 700,000 head, or 1.6 per cent; horses decreased 373,000 head, or 1.7 per cent; sheep decreased 251,000 head, or 0.3 per cent; and swine decreased 1,077,000 head, or 2.2 per cent.

The estimated number of animals on farms and ranges January 1 are 21,369,000 horses, 4,395,000 mules, 23,747,000 milch cows, 44,385,000 other cattle, 48,312,000 sheep, and 72,909,000 hogs. The total of all animals is 215,799,000, which is 2,686,000 head, or 1.2 per cent, less than a year ago.

The total value of all farm animals on January 1 was about $8,561,000,000, which is a shrinkage of $295,000,000, or 3 per cent, compared with a year ago. It is an interesting observation that mules and milch cows which in-

A Good Mule Can Stand More Hard Work Than a Horse and He Will Consume Less Feed.

Increased in numbers also increased in value per head; whereas all other classes of animals decreased in value per head, as well as in total numbers.

RULES FOR LIVE STOCK MEN

Satisfied Purchaser Is Best Advertisement and Breeder Should Live Up to Guarantees.

Here are ten good rules for live stock breeders, vouchered for by the animal husbandry men at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca:

Be honest.
Choose a breed, and stick to it.
Breed with the correct type in mind.
Study pedigree for inherited characteristics, relative merit and value.
Keep your herd or flock free from disease.
Develop the young animals and maintain the breeding animals through wise feeding and management.
Boost better live stock in your community.

Advertise judiciously.
Exhibit at the county, state and other live stock shows.
Remember that a satisfied purchaser is your best advertisement. So be prompt in registering and transferring animals, and make good all guarantees.

BUSINESS OF FEEDING STOCK

Frequent Shifts and Changes Require One Should Be Alive to Keep Up With Progression.

The business of feeding livestock is a shifting, changing sort of thing which requires that one should be alive if he is going to keep up with the progression. If you wish to make the most profit you must use economy in production and in feeding. If you do this and profit to the greatest extent from the experience of your neighbors and from the experiment stations, your chances of success are good.

CARING FOR PREGNANT SOWS

Animal Should Not Be Fed So Heavily That She Is Too Fat to Take Sufficient Exercise.

Pregnant sows should not be fed so heavily that they become too fat or refuse to take sufficient exercise. The amount fed is as important as the kind of food supplied. A mature sow should gain as much during the breeding and gestation periods as she normally loses during the farrowing and suckling periods. On the average this will be from 65 to 85 pounds.

MORALE AIDED BY MUSIC

Embarrassing. I was giving a lecture to my juniors on the life of Shakespeare. PERU'S DRIFTING SAND DUNES Plateau Shelf Has Strange Crescent Shaped Formations That Are Packed Hard.

As one makes the ascent of the Andes from the Pacific port of Mollendo, Peru, following the line of the Southern Peru railway, the climb to the divide is broken by two great steps or widespread shelves of desert or pampa.

On the first of these steps, about two hours' steep climb from the sea, and at an altitude of from four thousand to five thousand feet, are located the famous drifting sand hills of Peru. The plateau is here about twenty miles wide, the air thin and dry and no trace of vegetation to be seen, only these gigantic crescent-shaped sand dunes dotting the pampa as far as the eye can see.

Composed of fine gray crystal sand, they gleam white against the brown of the desert, and their horns point toward the prevailing south wind of this region. They are from fifteen to twenty feet in breadth across the thick part of the crescent and sometimes one hundred feet from horn to horn. So tightly is the sand packed that the feet of the horses or mules make little impression on it.

The Verdict.

No Poetry Then.

"Stone walls do not a prison make nor iron bars a cage," said the sympathetic visitor to the convict.

"That's fine poetry, ma'am," replied the prisoner, "but just let 'em lock you up inside stone walls and behind iron bars and see if you can get out."

The OilPull Never Overheats

INVESTIGATION has proved that one of the big troubles developed by the average tractor is the overheating of the engine due to the heavy work which the tractor is called upon to perform.

This is because the average tractor is cooled with water.

The reason the OilPull never overheats, and is entirely free from all the ordinary cooling troubles, is because it is cooled with oil. This is an exclusive OilPull feature.

Unlike water—oil does not evaporate—there is no boiling in the hottest weather.

The temperature of the OilPull engine is held within correct limits at all times under all loads and climatic conditions. When the OilPull is working at top speed the oil is automatically kept cooler than when it is working at light load or running idle. There is absolutely no possibility of the OilPull overheating. And not only that, but the proper temperature for perfect kerosene combustion is maintained at all times.

Oil does not deposit scale or sediment—the OilPull circulating system is always open. Oil does not rust the system parts—the OilPull radiator will last the life of the tractor.

There are four sizes—12-20, 16-30, 20-40 and 30-60 H. P. Which do you need?

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION CLOSES

LARGEST RELIGIOUS ASSEMBLY IN COUNTRY PLANS FUTURE PROGRAM.

The seventy-fifth annual session of the Southern Baptist Convention, which has just recently closed in Washington, D. C., was marked by an attendance of over ten thousand, and was declared to be the most remarkable session of the convention in its history. Union Plaza of Washington has not been so crowded since war days as it was when the hosts of Southern Baptists here down upon the gates of Liberty Hut, the Billy Sunday tabernacle, where the sessions of the convention were held. The attendance was so great that as many as three simultaneous overflow meetings were being held in different auditoriums of the city, Liberty Hut not being able to handle half the crowds. Texas, though on the Western outskirts of the convention territory, was represented by more than 1,000 delegates.

Texas Man Re-Elected President.

Dr. J. B. Gambrell of Fort Worth, Texas, was re-elected for the fourth consecutive year as president of the body, thus breaking a twenty year precedent that no person shall serve the convention as president more than three years. His election is regarded as significant as indicating that Southern Baptists have not changed in their attitude respecting the inter-church World Movement in declining to enter the movement. Dr. Gambrell has been the spokesman for the denomination in expressions concerning the inter-church World Movement, and his re-election is recognition of his continued leadership among Southern Baptists.

Convention Addressed By Vice-President Marshall.

Vice-President of the United States, Thomas R. Marshall, in an address of welcome to the Baptists on behalf of the Government, pleaded for the fuller acceptance of Jesus Christ in the minds and hearts of individual men and women, and added that it was his conviction that peace would never come to the world unless founded upon the teachings and principles of the lowly Nazarene. In his address Mr. Marshall paid his respects to churches that had forgotten to preach the gospel and were trying to reform society by dabbling in politics and trying to reform the government. He declared that the true church were the anchors of safety for the nation.

Letter From President Read.

During the proceedings of the Convention the following letter from President Wilson was read:

THE WHITE HOUSE

Washington, May 12, 1926.

My Dear Dr. Tupper:
It is a matter of genuine and very deep regret on my part that I cannot personally greet the members of the Southern Baptist Convention now gathering to hold the Diamond Anniversary Convention in this city. It would be a great pleasure to me, if I could meet the members personally and express my deep concern in all the great interests which they represent. It is of special significance and timeliness that a great Christian Convention should be held in Washington, because the nation now faces nothing less than the question whether it is to help Christian people in other parts of the world to realize their ideals of justice and of ordered peace. And I am sure that the nation will listen with the greatest deference to the utterances of the Convention.

Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

Final Report on 75 Million Campaign
Dr. R. L. Scarborough of Fort Worth, Texas, General Director of the Baptist 75 Million Campaign, made his final report on the results of the drive. The total amount raised was $1,000,000.00. The expenses of the campaign for raising this huge sum were remarkably low, being less than three-fourths of one per cent. Following the report a committee, consisting of one member from each state, and headed by Dr. F. S. Groner, of Dallas, Texas, was appointed to make recommendations for the program during the next four years of the five-year campaign.

Truett Addresses 10,000 From Capitol Steps

The climax of the convention was reached in an address by Dr. Geo. W. Truett of Dallas, Texas, delivered from the steps of the east entrance of the Capitol, overlooking the spot where the presidential inaugurations are held. Dr. Truett spoke on Baptists and Civil and Religious Liberty to an audience estimated at ten thousand, which frequently cheered him during his references to the League of Nations and to President Wilson. "Standing in the shadow of the Senate Chamber," said Dr. Truett, "I declare that the moral forces of the country, without regard to political party, regard the delay on the League of Nations a national and world-wide tragedy. I can certify to men of all political parties that the moral forces of this country will not be silent until there is put forth a great league of nations that shall strive with all its might to put an end to the diabolism and horror of war. I thank God that that stricken man yonder in the White House pleaded and pleads yet that the Nation will take its part with others in bringing a new era wherein shall dwell righteousness and peace." In his address Dr. Truett recounted the fight Baptists have made and won for civil and religious liberty in America. "With the intelligent Baptist," declared the speaker, "religion is forever voluntary uncoerced, dictated by no power, civil or ecclesiastical."

Will Establish Hospital in New Orleans

Following a report on hospitals and sanitariums, which was prepared and read by Dr. F. S. Groner, the general secretary of the Baptist General Convention of Dallas, Texas, the convention voted to help establish a hospital in New Orleans to cost $1,500,000. Chattanooga, Tenn., was selected as the place for the convention next year. Dr. H. L. Winburn of Arkansas, will preach the convention sermon.

E. P. Welsh and Mr. Welsh are back from Oklahoma where they have been visiting. They report that the Good old free State of Oklahoma is very wet.

Lawton Hoffer and Clyde Gray were accepted into the Bachelor Club, into the home of joy and peace. Lodge pin has been changed to safety pin. Don't forget your pin as you cannot get past the janitor unless you show your pins. Don't forget the election.

TO THE PEOPLE OF MIAMI

I have purchased Mr. Rowe's interests in the photo business at Miami. Now the hard luck for the Miami people, but we have to take the bad along with the good. But you have this consolation, I'll only be there one day each week, Saturday and every Saturday. The Addison Photo is too well known at Miami to need comment. Will carry a line of picture frame, take orders for enlargements etc. Thanking you for your very best and liberal patronage in years past and soliciting a share in the future I remain,

Sincerely yours,
G. A. Addison.
