No. 27.

OLD MAN HEARE SENDS GREETINGS:

Word of Caution to his N. S. Club.

Dear Comrades: May I not be pardoned for calling your attention to conditions that appear to be brewing upon the horizon of the future in this vicinity?

Prospects for a staggering harvest for the harvest of 1921 in this part of the Panhandle, will scarcely be realized.

There will call for much labor, and it is my duty to caution each of you to be very careful!

Another encroachment that is now making the peace and quietude of the country adjacent to the Canadian River is the Oil Field Craze!

It is known for centuries that there was forming in the Blue and Salt water under this part of the country, but, thought best to keep quiet.

A blubbering earthquake at the well, gave the thing away and they will drill! drill! drill! How much matter so much to let the tanks of oil and the tens of thousands of derricks spoil the grass, the cattlemen are most all going to business, and the Sheepmen are largely turned Bolohevic.

They should have quit and joined the Club when I did in A. D. 1919.

The pestering that is causing our aspiring cities in this belt of West Texas misery is the fact that my friend Pat vetoed the A. & M. College Bill. Why worry? What can we do with an A. & M.

We do cut loose from East Texas and form a new State, I want it to be a High Windy, and I want to boost me for its first year.

Old Man Heare as Governor of High Windy, will insure every member of my club a soft job. I should be having the capitol of the new State in Miami.

We won't have any Legislature, in session form of government to be run by our Club!

Should we had better let a few of us hold office, in order to get their heads in the water? Think about it! It need not cost you much if Old Lady Heare will run for Congress. She has a Easter Hat. I think it cost 98c.

She will probably trim it with a spruce! That would add to its price and would only cost 2c.

Total $1.00. Who can beat it? Need economy in Government. Remember the warning of my Predecessor Old Man Heare.

WHEAT GROWERS WILL MEET

To The Wheat Growers:

The Committee of the National Wheat Growers Association was firm in the plan of compulsory pooling as a means of controlling the marketing of wheat in such a manner as to regulate the supply to the demand and thereby prevent the dumping of wheat on the market at a greatly depressed price. With the hope of cooperating with the Committee of Seventeen in going before the farmers with a marketing plan upon which all could agree and at the same time save the compulsory principles of marketing wheat the Committee of Wheat Growers proposed as a compromise measure that the Committee of Seventeen include compulsory pooling of one-third of all wheat signed up under contract by its marketing plan. This attempt of our Committee and other proposals by it to reach an agreement for united action under one marketing plan was rejected both by the Committee of Seventeen in its report to the convention and later by the convention with the vote as herein given.

That the optional pooling marketing plan with its consignment features of the Committee of Seventeen be given fair consideration by the members of our Association and also to determine the future methods of all organization work, state mass meetings of all members of the National Wheat Growers Association and all others interested in growing and marketing wheat are called by the National Executive Board to meet in the following states and places herein named: Hutchinson Auditorium, Kansas, Tuesday 10 a. m. April 19; Enid, Oklahoma, Wednesday 10 a. m. April 20; Pampa, Texas, Thursday 10 a. m. April 21.

These meetings and the action taken by them relative to proposed marketing plans of both the National Wheat Growers Association and the Committee of Seventeen is of vital importance to our wheat growers and in order that we may have a democratic expression of sentiment and future action of our wheat growers a large attendance at these meetings is urged by the Executive Board of the National Wheat Growers Association.

These meetings which directly effect the interests and well being of our wheat growers in securing and operating a better marketing plan for wheat is called at meeting places surrounded by the vast wheat fields of our wheat states which makes it possible for our wheat growers to attend and express their wishes which is impossible for them to do at such distant points as Chicago and Washington, D. C. where representatives of farmers have been called in the past, and which representatives in general are not familiar with the conditions and needs of the wheat farmers of our Middle Western wheat states.

SCHOOL CARVINAL BIG SUCCESS

The Miami Public School gave a big street parade and Carnival at the school house Monday night, which proved to be a very profitable success. After the parade, a large crowd gathered at the school building, where some outside free exhibitions were offered. After this the side shows were opened and the eager patrons visited all of them at a small admission price, following which the Auditorium was used for the main attraction.

A very large crowd attended, and the proceeds were up near $100.00 which will be used for school benefits.

WHEELER TO HAVE NEW NEWSPAPER

After all, Wheeler is to have a newspaper again. Douglas Merriman former editor and owner of the Wheeler News Review, has announced that he will install a plant in June, and resume publication of the sheet.

The Review building was burned in the fire which destroyed one-half of a block in Wheeler last December. Merriman may purchase the printing shop owned by John T. Hilburn, and use that equipment in his office.—Amarillo Tribune.

FARM MEASURES BEING PASSED

Legislation that affects the farmers has been receiving the attention of farmers and farmer's organizations in several states during the past few months. The Texas Legislature's House Bill No. 227 on cooperative marketing is the most important Bill passed by that body and ranks among the most advanced legislative measures for rural cooperation, according to officials of the Legislative Department of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

In Minnesota, the Senate passed four bills looking to the interests of the farmer in less than three hours, and President L. E. Potter of the State Farm Bureau there said that the organization had won a decided victory in getting so much constructive legislation through.

Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Colorado and several other states have passed much legislation for the relief of farmers. Farm leaders said that "the most universal need for the legislation is evidenced by the fact that very little, and in many instances no opposition was offered. This also proves that the conservation farmers are not asking for anything that is radical, or reactionary, but are insisting on what they consider right and of material aid to the common good of American Industry."

PRESS COMMENT

Randall County News: Governor Neff won almost unanimous approval from the people of Texas when he entered office and started in on his program of retrenchment and reorganization of the state's business. He won the approval of his latest enemies upon the good judgement he used. A little later it became evident that the legislature would not stand too much dictation from the chief executive, and a breach was caused between Neff and the legislature over the program Neff had adopted.

Now comes the veto of the West Texas A and M. College bill and that of the $4,000,000 for the common schools of Texas.

The veto of the first bill is not a surprise to those who have closely watched the Governor, and knew what was passing in his mind regarding the expenses of the state government. No matter the motive of the veto, or the justice of the veto, as the Governor may seem himself justified in the act, he has brought down upon his head the wrath of all West Texas.

The Governor may be right in his veto of the four million for the common schools. No doubt some of this money has been wasted. The school question is the biggest question confronting the people of Texas. It is absurd to appropriate large sums of money for schools and at the same time issue certificates to just any person who wants to make a livelihood by teaching. If the teacher is not up to standard in her educational requirements, the state might spend hundreds of millions and never benefit the schools of the state.

The News sees danger ahead for Governor Neff. If he uses the veto power as freely upon other educational bills as he has used upon those passed by the regular session of the legislature, he will find himself opposing a candidate in the next election whose platform will demand the establishment of the West Texas A. and M., the proper support of the rural schools, and a liberal educational policy for the educational institutions of Texas.

HOW TO EVADE BACHELOR'S TAX

If you will take a peep through the windows, you will see two bachelors that have finished their days work, supper is over and the dishes washed, but it is not bedtime yet. As the old man picks up his pencil in one hand and scratches the cuckle-burrs from his long red whiskers with the other. While the other one lets the news paper fall idly from his lap, it is plain to see that they are both in deep study.

Some time ago there was talk about paying a bachelor's tax, and as we all know times are hard and money scarce, we want to save all we can. As these two men sit and study, they look at each other and as their eyes meet, a smile comes over each face and we know the problem has been solved.

Sometime ago there appeared a small item in the Chief, telling of a country social that was held at C. R. Cowan's ranch, Bachelor's Hall No. One, the item said that Ross Cowan acted as host and Clarence Williamson as hostess. Anyone knows where there is a host and hostess, that there will never be any bachelor's tax to pay, even if the bill passes Congress, there was not any name signed to the item, but we take pleasure in thanking the writer, as they have eased our minds without us having to reach for an empty pocket-book or call on any of our bachelor neighbors for financial help.

For the benefit of the bachelors of Roberts County County only, I am going to give you a copy of the rules and regulations of a bachelors hall.

No. 1, Visitors expected and welcome at all times, day or night.

No. 2, You will be seated and make yourself as miserable as possible for dinner will be ready in a few minutes.

No. 4, If you don't know anything to tell, ask some questions as you might receive valuable information.

No. 5, Ladies between the age of twelve and twenty-five are forbidden in the kitchen while there is fire in the stove as they always excite the cook.

No. 6, The occupants always eat with their hats on, company will be required to do likewise.

No. 7, You will always find the rooms warm and the accommodation splendid by making yourself useful.

No. 8, Each person should make up their own bed and wash their own dishes.

No. 9, $10.00 reward offered for the toe-nails of any person attempting to clean the mud from their feet during rainy weather.

No. 10, Old maids, bachelors and men with cross wives will always find a hearty welcome and a big bowl of B. E. A. N. S. at a bachelors hall. Pay us a visit and see if we live up to our rules.

Big Fund for Food Research

Carnegie Corporation Supplies $700,000 for Study at Leland Stanford University.

WAS SUGGESTED BY HOOVER

One Aim is to Avert Waste, and Marketing and Distribution Will Be Studied—New Institute Will Begin Work in July.

New York.—A food research institute for the study of all problems of production, distribution and consumption is to be established at Leland Stanford Jr. university, with an endowment of $700,000 provided by Carnegie corporation. This announcement was made by the corporation here.

"The need for such an institute was first suggested to Carnegie corporation by Herbert Hoover," said the announcement, "and the selection of Leland Stanford Jr. university as its home was due in part to the fact that it is the point at which the great unique collection of documentary material relative to the economic side of the war, gathered by Mr. Hoover during the war, is deposited."

"The value of such an institute as it is now proposed to establish also was emphasized by experience during the war, when the study of food supply in its different phases was necessary in order to attain maximum efficiency in the nutrition of the nations involved. The knowledge thus acquired clearly indicates the great importance of continued research effort. The general field of the institute will be the problems arising after food has left the farmer's hands.

Efforts to Reduce Waste.

"A special feature of the work of the institute will be the scientific study of the marketing and distribution of food products. The objects of the institute, however, are thoroughly practical, and will, it is hoped, contribute to the welfare of the producer and consumer by eliminating present wastes in the process of marketing nearly all kinds of food. The objects of the institute are not only important from the standpoint of the farmer, but have a direct effect on the question of proper nutrition of the nation.

"In every nation at war, and in neutral nations as well, much of the previous data of production, distribution and consumption of food was found to be inaccurate. Faced with the necessity of securing immediate results, governmental authorities in charge of food programs were frequently compelled to grope in the dark for long periods before they could accomplish the end sought.

"Under the terms of the agreement with Carnegie corporation the university agrees to establish a research organization under the name of the Food Research Institute of Leland Stanford Jr. university and to appoint three men of science to be known as directors of the institute. These directors will have authority to determine the scientific policies of the institute and the problems to be studied. It is the hope of the Carnegie corporation that eventually the new organization will be known as the Hoover Institute.

"There will also be an advisory committee made up of men of national prominence, representing agricultural, consumer, economic and other groups of the community, one of whom will be Mr. Hoover. The university will appoint seven members of this body, who, with the president of the university ex officio, and the president of the Carnegie corporation, ex officio, will make the committee number nine men.

To Begin Work July 1.

"The institute will begin its work on July 1 next, and the Carnegie corporation will provide a fund of $700,000 for its support for a period of ten years.

"James R. Angell, president of Carnegie corporation, who has just been called to the presidency of Yale university, announces that Leland Stanford Jr. university has agreed to make its scientific laboratories available to the institute. It is not intended to duplicate the equipment of research laboratories working in the field of nutrition, but as far as it is practicable to have the institute cooperate with other agencies working in the general field.

"The directors to be appointed will head three separate divisions. One will be an expert in the field of physiology and chemistry of nutrition, one an expert in economics and food distribution, and one an expert in chemistry of food manufacture and agriculture. They will work co-operatively from three avenues of approach upon fundamental issues of widest human significance. It is also provided that the institute may receive from time to time such specially qualified students as it may be possible to instruct without disadvantage to the primary research purposes of the organization.

"A small group of fellowships will be available for graduate students of high intellectual promise. These students will receive wholly unusual training for public service while at the same time contributing valuable assistance to the work of the institute.

"Carnegie corporation, after the institute is once established, will abstain from any attempt to direct or control its work."

Give Valuable Aid in Campaign to Americanize New York's East Side Immigrants.

SEEK CORRECTION OF EVILS

Harry H. Schliact, Head of the Commission on Immigration Aid, Has Unique Plan to Protect New-comers Against Exploitation.

New York.—The scriptural dictum that "a little child shall lead them" is being applied 10,000-fold in Americanization of New York's east side immigrants.

Its practical demonstration was described by Harry H. Schliact, head of the commission on immigrant aid at Ellis Island, who has conceived a unique plan to protect newcomers from exploitation by their unscrupulous predecessors and radicals.

Through the downtown chamber of commerce, membership of which is limited to foreign-born immigrants, bankers and other business men who have gained wealth in this country, Mr. Schliact has developed the idea of placing each immigrant family—fresh from the bewildering of official red tape and the fantastic New York skyline—in the custody of an American, or Americanized, school-girl. Ten thousand of such girls are spending their evenings and spare hours infusing their charges with American ideas and the rudiments of the English language.

Stimulated not only by innate interest in the quaint, dejected and often victimized and disillusioned seekers for new homes, but also by rewards from the chamber of commerce for meritorious results, these

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

A FIELD NIGHT.

Although the boy and the girl had taken along no tent with them when they had gone forth for adventures, they had fared very well.

Now that it was night they found that some beds had been put in the field for them by the great bedmakers I. Rest and Company.

They had had such a fine party which had been given by Master Thoughtfulness, aided by the many good friends they had met on their journeys.

They had had a dinner and an entertainment in the valley.

Just then they heard Master Thoughtfulness speak to them.

"I've just said good-by to the guests and have seen them to the road as a polite host should do," said Master Thoughtfulness, laughing. "I'm paying myself compliments, eh? They did matter me so this evening. I suppose I am doing a little of it myself. Well, I'll have to go and see Madame False Vanity. That's what I will have to do. We'll be two of a kind if I don't look out."

"Madame False Vanity," said the girl. "What does she look like? But how absurd. Master Thoughtfulness, to say that you need to see her. Of course everyone complimented you this evening and you deserved the compliments. You thought of everything for everyone."

"I wish we could call on Madame False Vanity," said the boy. "She sounds rather different from most of our friends. It might be nice to have a look at her, mightn't it?"

"All right," said Master Thoughtfulness, "I'll take you. We can go and see her tomorrow and she will tell our fortunes."

"Oh, does she tell fortunes?" asked the boy. "That will be fun. Maybe she will tell me whether I'll become a leader or not. Oh, if she doesn't tell me that I will feel dreadful."

"Now boy," said Master Thoughtfulness, "I will take you to Madame False Vanity, but you must know what sort of person she is, first."

"Neither of you, I am thankful to say, are her sort, and I don't believe I am either. I am too busy to ever become really vain. I have too much to think about."

"But Madame False Vanity does a lot of harm by her fortune telling. So many believe that what she says is true, and of course she is only guessing and making up and flattering. She has a lot of luck with her flattery."

"Sometimes I'm rather vain," said the girl. "I've strutted before my glass and admired myself, as the boy can tell you."

"Ah, but the boy didn't tell me! He's not a tattle tale. And that reminds me that Mr. Wood Elf wants to take you tomorrow to visit the Tattle-Tale-Twins. He thinks you might do them good. You both might show them a thing or two."

"So we'll have to see about bed now, for tomorrow you've two engagements. We'll see Madame False Vanity in the morning and you can go with Mr. Wood Elf to see the Tattle-Tale-Twins in the afternoon. I'll tell him that will be a good time for you to go. It's all on the good road which leads to the House of Secrets. One finds all these creatures along the way, the good creatures and the bad ones—the mean ones and the kind ones—all sorts.

"But I'm talking too much. We'll have breakfast in this field at ten o'clock, for you need a good rest. And besides it would never do to call upon Madame False Vanity before eleven o'clock. She would never be up before!" he laughed.

Look for Hidden Good.

How easy it is to find something good in the people who are not with us any longer. The classmate who died last month had never been one of your favorites, yet how many good things you see in her now. If we could judge the living as generously as we do the dead, and look as eagerly for their good points, we should be saved many a headache when it is too late.—Giris' Companion.

SEASONABLE FOODS.

In the great majority of American homes, because of lack of education along these lines and because of indifference in many, the meals are prepared for the sole purpose of pleasing the palate and with little knowledge of food values. Because of this there is waste not only in food but in health as well. When one thinks a bit in regard to the meal getting and remembers that every year more than a thousand meals are prepared in every home, even a small waste multiplied by a thousand looms up at the end of the year into amounts and sums that no family should be willing to face.

We all like variety. We all like foods in season, and fortunately, we do not like everything equally well. The well-trained child today is able to sit at any table where food is clean and well-cooked and make a comfortable meal, but unfortunately all our children are not yet well trained. Foods out of season, except in cases of illness where the appetite needs to be excited, or when used as an occasional garnish, are an extravagance which in most homes could be easily eliminated.

What is needed in all of our homes is more simple, wholesome, well-balanced and attractive meals. "Let us study to show ourselves approved, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

Cabbage Salad.—Shred part of a small head of cabbage very fine. Plunge into cold water and let stand until crisp and curly. Drain until dry, dress with sour cream and sugar or sweet cream, sugar and a dash of vinegar. Add salt to season.

Apple Delmonico.—Butter a baking dish and lay in a layer of tart apples cored, pared and cut in rings. Sprinkle with ground almonds and sugar, cover with another layer of apple, add crushed macaroons, pour over a cupful of sweet preserve juice or jelly and bake three-quarters of an hour in a quick oven. Pile on whipped cream and serve.

Individual Baked Apples.—Use the small glass baking dishes. Cut apples in quarters and remove all the core. Set the apples in cups to resemble a whole apple. Fill the center with pieces of fig, dates or raisins. Add to each cup one tablespoonful of water. Bake until tender. The skin is not removed from the apple. Serve hot or cold with cream and sugar.

March winds are blowing o'er mountains and vale,
Flinging the snow-drifts away,
Rivers run riot and laugh at the gale,
Sides are all sunless and gray,
Robins regretting their journey so long
From Southland, where blossoms are bright,
Seek shelter from storm, forgetting their song,
While swift fall the shadows of night,
But out in the woodland the children have found
Sweet bloom on a low trailing vine,
"Arbutus! 'Tis Springtime!" Their voices resound
With joy, and their joy shall be mine.

DISHES FOR TWO.

It is comparatively no problem to cook a small steak, a chop or two and prepare and cook vegetables for one or two, but a dessert is not always easy to handle. The following may be helpful:

Caramel Custard.—Melt two and two-thirds tablespoonfuls of sugar to a rich brown and pour into two small custard cups, tipping the cup so that the sides as well as the bottom are covered. Have the cups hot and the caramel will not harden so quickly. Beat one egg, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one cupful of thin cream or rich milk. If desired a few drops of vanilla may be added. Set in a pan of hot water and bake until the custard is set. Turn out while hot on individual plates and chill before serving.

Angel Parfait.—Take two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one teaspoonful of water, cook until the soft ball stage, pour over the stiffly beaten white of one egg and flavor with a few drops of almond. When cold add one-half cupful of whipped cream lightly folded in. Pack in a small mold in ice and salt for two hours.

Blanc Manger.—Stir one and one-half tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with one and one-fourth teaspoonfuls of sugar and add three-fourths of a cupful of milk. Add a pinch of salt and cook until thick. Fold in the stiffly beaten white of an egg, flavor to taste and pour into a mold to chill. Serve with macaroons or cookies and serve with:

Orange Cream.—Whip one-half cupful of cream, add orange extract and a little yellow fruit coloring until of a soft custard shade.

Who Developed Speed Bug?
In 1882 twenty miles were first den within the hour. The rider, Dr. H. L. Curtis, one of the great English amateurs of his day, rode a fifty-nine-inch high wheeler, the track was surfaced with clay. It is interesting to note the progress made since Dr. Curtis first developed the speed mania. The fifty-nine-inch high wheeler has developed into modern, record-breaking motorcycles today, while the twenty-nine-inch hour pace has been pushed up to 136 miles-per-hour mark. What was the speed record forty years from now?

Surely Lacked Sense.

There is a New Yorker who recently decided to investigate his family tree. He had to visit a rural village Maine to look up one of his ancestors. He went around to a certain house and found an old man sitting on the porch. He asked him if he remembered a certain relative. The man snorted. "Don't mention my name to me," he said. "He was a cussed fool that ever lived in the parts. He didn't have no more sense than to drive a six-horse circus wagon up a blind alley one day."

Quite in Keeping.

A society woman called on a famous painter who, when necessary, could express himself with emphasis. Her ceaseless chatter did not permit him to get in a word edgewise.

At length a pause to take breath allowed him to say, "We had boiled mutton and turnips for dinner today."

"What a strange observation!" the woman exclaimed.

"Why," he said, "it is as good as anything you have been saying for the last two hours."

SHORT-CUT TO MARKET

Today progressive farmers are subjecting old farming methods to a serious appraisal of their values. In the search for economies, the always-important work of farm hauling is being strenuously revised. On many farms, the International Motor Truck has already proved its efficiency in saving time and labor.

By this transportation short-cut you can market your stock and dairy products in less time and with less shrinkage or spoilage you can haul your crops when the price is right—you can get your supplies promptly when needed. Hard hauling tasks are made easy and long trips short. No hauling work need be put off because you can't spare the time. Delays cost money, but short-cuts pay profits.

The sizes range from 3-4 ton to 3 1-2 ton capacities. There is a size and style of body for every hauling requirement.

Preventative Medicine.
The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained.

RHEUMATISM
A Farmer Cured of Rheumatism.
"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and told him to use it freely," says C. P. Rayder, Patten Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar saying, give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment; I want it in the house all the time for it cured me."

Mother is gone. The angel of earth will not again smile and with loving arms clasp us to her breast. Mother, the one lover, the one friend, the one companion, the one sweetheart who has never forsaken, and who never will throughout ceaseless ages of eternity. Mother—our hope, our light, the one rescuing angel of all earthly life; the sweetest rose of all roses; the brightest light of all lights; the grandest of all earthly glories; the one perpetrix of humanity. Mother—a word as sacred as that of the Great Redeemer—without Mother there would be nothing to redeem. A flower so tender and sweet, pure gold with all its value, polished diamonds with all their luster are not a tithe to the value of mother. A Royal shining palace with all its glory and splendor, the beauty of the sitting sun, all nature in its grandest scenery are rugged and rough compared with the tenderest and beauty of mother. Mother may lose hope in herself, but never in her child. Mother knows our hearts as no other ever will know; she knows our desires, our loves and our fancies. The greatest sacrifice that mother can make for us comes as free as the downward tendency of gravity. Mothers love even if not returned, is greater than all other love returned ten fold. No other lasts from the time we breathe the first sweet breath until our last pulse has ceased. All love, respect, confidence, honor and glory should belong to our own sweet mother.

The Chief editor was called Friday of last week to Carter, Oklahoma to the deathbed of our own sweet mother, Marget Ann Waggoner, whose spirit left Friday morning April 8th at eight thirty for its everlasting resting place among the good and pure. She was sixty-five years, eleven months and twenty days old, a Kentuckian by birth and married in the home community to James Henderson Waggoner forty-nine years ago. She leaves a husband and three sons and three daughters, whom she has loved and cared for until their lives have reached to and past the average life of man, and three sons have preceded her through the black portals of death. Her remains were laid to rest Saturday afternoon April 9th in the old home community cemetery near Carter. Mother had been in ill health for several years which followed a life of continuous duty to God and her home. Mother never failed in a duty she owed to her God, her husband, her children or her friends. Just a plain, old-fashioned woman living to make others happy, to teach her offspring and those about her what duty to God and humanity was. A woman not aspiring to attain greatness in reputation, but only pureness in character. Satisfied to let others attain greatness among men, and striving to be the meek and lowly deer of good deeds.

Father having sold his movable property, will make his home among the six children, and will spend the first few months at Hoffman, Oklahoma.

There is no use of feeling blue looking for the worst of it all the time. There isn't time enough to get blue after it has all happened, and then it don't pay to grieve over "spilt milk."—Shattuck Monitor.

"We told you so," is a very unpleasant remark, unethical to use, and we despise the phrase. However, West Texas ought to be reminded that a West Texas man ran for Governor, and many voters turned him down. West Texas never will get anywhere until they stick together. When a West Texas man runs for a state office, we must support him absolutely, or West Texas will never get anywhere.

The Chief editor having been away until Tuesday of this week, will necessarily have to cut things just a little short this week, and ask the many wanting job work to be patient until the first of next week. Having been officially designated as "the Goat" for the Panhandle Press Association which meets tomorrow and Saturday at Amarillo, we are duty bound to attend the meeting, show up a few checker experts, enjoy the Association of the fraternity, and see that we are not re-elected.

And now comes the president of the State Probation Association of Texas with the announcement that he will make an effort to have Governor Neff submit a bill at the special session of the legislature providing for a state training school for delinquent girls to be located in the central portion of Texas, the bill to carry an appropriation of $200,000 for the proposed school. The president of the State Probation Association of Texas should write for a copy of the West Texas A. and M. college veto message filed by the governor. After reading it he may change his mind.—Fort Worth Record.

THE FORD COUPE

Here is one of the most useful of all closed cars. Specifically so when not more than two or three are to be accommodated with reliable car service. The Ford Coupe is a mighty cosy car, in that it is absolutely water-tight, at the same time with its sliding plate glass windows you can have an open car, to all intents and purposes, in a couple of minutes. So it doesn't make any difference what the weather may be, rain or shine, summer or winter, in the Ford Coupe you have an enclosed car of comfort and service. What more do you want?

It has proven particularly a valuable car for traveling salesmen, physicians, engineers, architects, and others who have much out-of-door work all the year around. We have never been able to fully meet all demands for the Ford Coupe, but with the increased producing capacities of the factory we are now able to make reasonably prompt deliveries. Yet we urge you to leave your order with as little delay as possible—our allotment is limited.

World's Greatest Question Answerer

In your boyhood you probably asked your parents "What is Steel?"—"What is Engineering?"—"What is Municipal Government?" and a thousand other questions.

And the answers doubtless were: "Steel is superheated iron"—"Engineering is a knowledge of the physical laws" or "Laying out the route for a railroad," or "The construction or operating of engines"—"Municipal Government is the governing of towns and cities." These answers gave you a general idea, but not a definite knowledge.

Now, if your father had referred you to a reliable down to date Encyclopaedia, you would have learned that there are five distinct types of engineering, each having a distinct practical application; that there are twelve kinds of steel, all serving special, individual purposes of every-day use, and you would have been shown by a simple diagram just how the crude iron as it comes from the ground is converted into the steel from which our great buildings are constructed.

You would have learned the difference between Town and Municipal Government—in whom the powers of governing are vested, how the are controlled, not only throughout the United States, and Canada, but in all other countries. These and over a million other topics are treated in

THE NEW WORLD REFERENCE SYSTEM

Nelson's Encyclopaedia, is kept always absolutely up-to-date by means of the Nelson Patented Loose-Leaf Binding Device. It cannot grow old—it is perpetually new. Every six months the publishers furnish 250 or more new pages. You insert these new pages and discard the old, and you have the Loose-Leaf Encyclopaedia constantly keeping pace with the world's progress.

Old Encyclopaedia methods were perhaps all right when the world was pursuing a normal stride year in and year out, but the New World demands a new encyclopaedia. A reference work giving information of the world's affairs can no longer be planned for a decade's use. THE NEW TRUTHS MAKE THE OLD TRUTHS UNTRUE. Of what use is an encyclopaedia of a world that no longer exists? The efficient man is the man who knows—the man who has the knowledge of the New World as well as of the past; the man who has the information or knows where to find it.

Nelson's Loose-Leaf Encyclopaedia is an Authority in the Library of Congress, U. S. Depts. of State, Justice, War, Navy and Agriculture, U. S. War Ships, U. S. MRS. HAYDOCK SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Followed Advice of Her Druggist's Wife and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 25 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have never had occasion to take it again as I have been so well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to any one who wants a personal letter."—Mrs. E. H. HAYDOCK, 6824 St. Lawrence Avenue, Chicago Illinois.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved Mrs. Haydock from an operation we cannot claim that all operations may be avoided by it,—but many women have escaped operations by the timely use of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine.

Not a Complete Stranger. A man who used to tramp ties on a railroad section was summoned as a witness at an inquest. He had been cautioned that he must be very exact in his statements. "Was the deceased a complete stranger?" asked the coroner. After duly pondering the question, he replied: "He was what I should call a partial stranger." "Either you knew him or you did not," said the coroner sternly. "There is no such thing as a partial stranger." "Well," he answered, "I don't know how else to describe him. He was a one-legged man."

Substitute for Cork. A chemical works at Bruenn-Koenigsfeld has been carrying on experiments with a view to finding a substitute for cork, says a Prague correspondent in the Times Travel Supplement, and these have now led to tangible results. Turf treated by a special patented process furnishes a material for insulation and building purposes that is said to be, in most respects, not inferior, and in some superior, to cork. The product is reported to be equally light, firm, and sound-proof, to possess great insulating properties, and to be damp-proof.

ROAD BUILDING

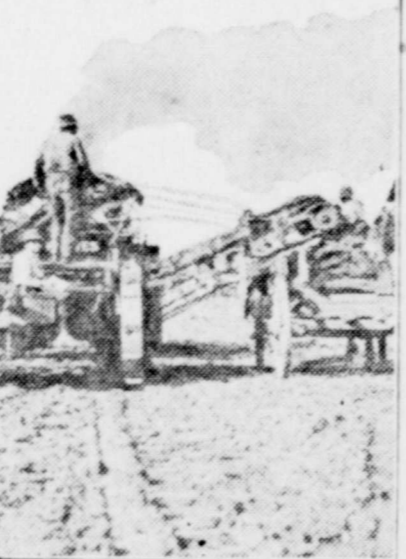

SEES NEED OF FEDERAL AID

Road Congress Favors Creation of Highway Transportation Bureau—Roads Lead to Wealth.

Creation of a permanent national bureau of transportation, together with continuance of state organizations, has been recommended as one of the most important steps in the work of reconstruction. Without attempting to seize any credit for themselves, it is the opinion of highway officials that such investigations as had been undertaken in the several states of the Union had disclosed an immediate economic need for the continuance of the work which has for its basis elimination of waste effort in transportation, with a resultant decrease of living costs, as an immediate development of the vast potential resources of the nation now lying dormant for want of means of conveyance.

As a result of the deliberations of a meeting in Chicago the committee went on record as favoring these points: The enactment by congress of an amendment to the present federal aid road act, which would provide $500,000,000 for work on the roads of the United States during the next seven years; the creation of a federal highway commission of five skilled engineers who should have charge of the expenditure of this fund in conference with the highway commissions of the various states; the construction of a national system of highways, the location of which is to be determined by the commission and the supervision of which is to remain in charge of the state highway departments, and, finally, changes in the present federal aid act which would do away with the restrictions now limiting federal aid to roads on 70 per cent of the mileage of which there is post delivery and of the limitation of $10,000 per mile under federal aid.

Reports from all sections of the country showed that it has been possible to bring about a very marked increase in marketing through improved transportation wherever the road would stand the traffic. The conclusions reached were that all that is necessary today to add untold wealth to the resources of the country, together with an enormously stimulated production of all kinds of supplies, is a road system which will not only open up the virgin territories of the West and South, but which will quicken the pulse of trade in the most congested districts of the East, where the casual observer might believe that traffic has been fully developed, but which close students say could be geared up to a remarkable extent through efficient use of the highways.

In standing by the creation of a federal road commission, the officials of the body expressed their belief in the feeling now generally prevalent throughout the United States among road men, that the time has come when transportation on the highways is deserving of more substantial recognition than that accorded it as a bureau, which, while it has been as efficient as the limitations of the law has permitted, would be dignified if elevated to the rank of a commission, and would make possible representation of five different districts of the United States with their diverse needs. As for the future of the highways transport committee, the work already done by the voluntary organizations has opened such a vast field for research in the economic life of the country that it is believed this work should be continued as a branch under the proposed road commission by salaried men who should be experts in the field, and who would give all of their time to a close development of the problems which the present committee has thus far only had time to uncover.

GOOD ROADS OF IMPORTANCE

Developed Into National Problem and Deserves Thoughtful Consideration of Citizens. The question of good roads is of national importance. It used to be discussed in local townships; it grew to be a county question, then a state problem, and now it has assumed national importance and deserves the thoughtful consideration of every citizen.

MRS. NANCY SHARP, of Los Angeles, who says she received the greatest surprise of her life when Tanlac completely restored her health after she had almost lost hope of ever getting well. Suffered twelve years.

"After seeing the wonderful results my husband obtained from Tanlac I began taking the medicine myself, and now we both agree that it is the greatest medicine on earth," said Mrs. Nancy Sharp, a prominent and highly esteemed resident of Los Angeles, Calif., living at 921 Caninus street, whose husband is proprietor of the Merchants' Express Co.

"During the twelve years that I suffered with indigestion and stomach trouble I tried nearly every medicine I heard about, but nothing helped me and I lost faith in everything. So, my wonderful restoration to health has been the greatest surprise of my life."

"I began to feel an improvement on finishing my second bottle of Tanlac, and now after taking six bottles I am like a new woman. I have a splendid appetite, eat three hearty meals a day, enjoy them thoroughly and am never troubled in the least with indigestion or any other disagreeable after effects."

"Before taking Tanlac most everything I ate caused my stomach to rebel and I would suffer for hours afterwards. I was so dreadfully nervous that many nights I never closed my eyes in sleep, but now I am not the least nervous, and I sleep like a child. My strength has been wonderfully increased, and I have much more energy."

"I just wish it was so everybody troubled like I was knew about this wonderful medicine."

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound. Start treatment at once. COLT NEGLECTED IN SPRING

No One Considers That He Should Be Gradually Changed Over From Dry Winter Ration.

Consider the colt in the springtime! Maybe he is a yearling with a half-formed equine mind full of curiosity and wonderment. Every old horse on the place is off in the fields somewhere at work in daylight. His owner neglects the colt as much as he "an and have the youngster live. The half remembered green fields and pastures of last year become green once more. The colt has vague memories of the taste of green things that mingled on his taste-nerves with the flavor of mother's milk. From between the cracks in the post-and-plank fence that incloses his world he looks upon the springing grass, narvois and hungers. Part of his hunger is plain hunger, part is memory, and most of it is instinct, but it is all very real.

He is a lonely little hideful of instincts and cravings about to start his second year. He is a bewildered orphan of the farm stalls and stables, accustomed to his corn and alfalfa, and with all the troubles of horsehood's life before him. About half the time no one considers that he should be gradually changed over from the dry-winter ration to the soft green summer ration, and when the change comes it comes so quickly that there is not a day's time for that young horse's stomach to get used to it.

For long weeks the plow teams have been getting ready for the change. If they could not sense the spring in the air, in any other way they might know it from the gradually increasing amount of corn that is going in the feed boxes. They are being worked a little more and a little steeper than they were while January's snows still covered the pastures. The colt, though, goes his neglected way until some day after the oats are in and every plow moldboard on the place is like burished silver, then all at once some one decides it is high time that the colt was on the pasture.

On the pasture he goes. It may be just enough of a pasture to keep life within his hide, but he must get along with an occasional salting on sunny Sunday mornings. The grass may be thin and watery, tasteless compared with that good alfalfa he has been getting all winter long, but if he gets thin and hard-belled, then that must be the colt's fault and not because he is not getting enough to eat. Is he not on a pasture and is not a pasture supposed to be the very place for colts?

Of course, it stands to reason that the change from the warm stable and the regular corn and alfalfa to the open pasture and the yellow-green, thin, spring grass should be a gradual one. Still, no one is supposed to use a great deal of reason in dealing with a boy, a pup or a colt.

TO ESTABLISH SHEEP FLOCK

Farmers Should Not Hesitate to Pay Good Price for Ewes That Produce Thrifty Lambs.

In establishing a flock of sheep do not hesitate to pay a good price for ewes if they are exactly adapted, and especially for those that, when judiciously mated, are likely to produce lambs that will give the best return for the food which they consume. It is of the utmost importance to make use of rams that possess great individual merit, and strongly inherit the good points by which they are distinguished. Unless a ram has a good masculine head and stands firmly on strong legs he should not be selected, however great his merits may be in other respects. Breeding ewes should be kept in good store condition. Show condition and low condition both must be avoided.

BEST TIME TO TRAIN COLTS

Mistake Not to Halt Foals and Teach Them to Lead During Infancy—Means Less Trouble.

It is a mistake not to halt foals and teach them to lead during infancy, when it can be done with less trouble than at any other time. A few minutes two or three times a week is sufficient, as they should be by no means pulled about so as to make them perspire, as there is then a risk of their taking cold. As well as the halter lessons the youngster should be taught to eat dry food, which he will soon do if it is held to him or if allowed to eat from the manger with his dam.

REALLY DESERVING OF PITY

Those Who Allow Themselves to Get Into the Habit of Self-Excuse Are Unfortunate.

The tendency to self-excuse is typical of the conceited. They simply will not see themselves for what they are—persons who have a great deal to learn. And because they will not admit even to themselves that they need self-improvement they remain perpetually in need of it. Are not persons thus conditioned more deserving of pity than of contempt? Even their monumental self-satisfaction should not make people laugh at them. Poor souls! Life to them is a game of blind man's bluff, in which they are forever "it," forever groping wildly, but never grasping.

No truer words have been penned than Ruskin's, "Conceit may puff a man up, but not pro him up." And how sadly hard it is to convince the conceited that they are conceited, and thus save them from the painful penalties of conceit.—H. Addington Bruce in Chicago Daily News.

BILLBOARD THAT HAS MERIT

If There Must Be Out-of-Door Advertising This Is Less Offensive Than Most.

This suggestion of happily wedded art and advertising, is one that may prove of value in ending the guerrilla warfare that has long raged between artists and the artistic-minded public on the one hand, and outdoor-publicity men on the other.

The upright supports of this sign are made from old telegraph poles sunk into the ground; the smaller round pieces, which form the ornamental braces, are furnished by straight sapplings. The curved top pieces are made by nailing planks to a framework of

Art and Advertising Are Happily Wedded in This Attractive Outdoor Advertising Sign in Japanese Effect

2 by 4-inch material. The signboard proper, the part that contains the advertising announcement, is made by riveting together several sheets of galvanized iron. The corners are reinforced with heavier metal, so that the whole sign may be held by chains from each corner, as shown in the drawing. By exercising a little care as to location and with tasteful arrangement of inexpensive shrubbery about the base, the appearance of the whole will be decidedly pleasing and the Japanese effect of the signboard will be considerably heightened.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

NEW SPRING SUITS ARE APPROVED

IN THE pursuit of happiness women have been going earnestly and industriously in quest of new suits—for what is Easter without the inspiration of new and gladsome apparel? The quest has reached the acute stage during the present week and merchants know what style ideas have proved most successful. To begin with the longer skirt is finally and emphatically approved by fashionables—skirts are longer by many inches, the rule being eight or even six inches from the floor. Also they are plain, Poret twill, tulle and serge are all well represented in suits and decorative features appear on coats, which are made in at least three distinct styles, including the box coat, the straight line belted coat and the semi-fitted models.

In the matter of decorations, braids may come and heads may go but embroideries go on forever, apparently. A few models reveal beaded decorations, many are trimmed with flat braids or ribbon, but still greater numbers are either embroidered or finished off with stitching of heavy silks. At least nine times out of ten these decorations are in the same color as the suit, but there are exceptions to all rules, and the new suits present models with a contrasting color or black used with the matching color. There are occasional models in which short coats are elaborately embroidered with many colors.

Two representative suits, each embellished with embroidery, are shown in the picture above. The model at the left having points that pronounce it up to date, in the fastening of the coat at the waist line only, and in the bell sleeves. Blouses and handsome neckwear are much in evidence in coats of this kind. The skirt may be taken as a criterion in length and width, and every other particular, including tailoring that must be described as exquisite.

In the suit of beige-colored poret twill at the right, the straight-line coat invites attention to elaborate embroidery across the back. Small embroidered motifs at each side the front also help to enrich it.

Accessories Lend Tone

IN NECKWEAR, veils, gloves, purses, vanity boxes and jewelry, the shops are showing novel and smart things that will tone up the plainest of street suits or frocks. And now that simplicity is the keynote of street dress these distinctive accessories are important and growing more so, along with hats which must always make or mar the success of the rest of the costume. Women are centering attention on these details and on footwear—therefore we see dawning a summer that ought to add the witness of one more season to the claim that American women are better dressed than any others.

cream or ecru is preferred to white. A pretty example of net, val lace and swiss embroidery appears in the picture at the upper left.

Both a veil and neckpiece invite attention in the picture at the right. Deep cream batiste, with eyelid embroidery and edging of cluny lace, make the round collar and vestee worn with a boxcoat. The navy blue veil is one of the square variety that covers the hat; it has many rivals in face veils of various lengths. The most popular of neckpieces appears at the lower left of fine embroidered batiste adorned with lace and hemstitching. It is a snowy white companion of a silk sweatercoat worn with a sports skirt of the sort one sees on the street. Another neckpiece for the open throat appears at the right, made of cream-colored lace and resembling tulle.

Neckwear is important because the new coats call for it. There are high-necked pieces among the displays for wear with suit coats, as well as many that leave the throat uncovered. Jabots and frills have reappeared among the high-necked gimpms, although there are many without frills. Very handsome ones are intricately made up of several kinds of laces and fine embroideries set together and deep

WAS WARDING OFF BAD LUCK SUCH A NICE YOUNG MAN!

Small Matter to Young Woman That She Was Also Holding Up Busy Street Traffic.
"Traffic gets held up in queer ways," said a cop at Forty-second street and Fifth avenue. "It was only just the other day that we had a blockade that tied things up for half an hour."
"I noticed a young woman pounding something against the curb. Looked funny to me, and I could not figure what it was. People passing by started to run, looked again and crowded around her. I headed for the middle of the bunch and saw she had busted open her package and was breaking a lot of mirrors on the sidewalk, one by one."
"What's all this about?" I asked.
"Oh, mister officer," she says, "I broke a mirror a while ago and if I don't break seven more right quick I'll have seven years bad luck. By rights they should be broken all at once, but I could only do it one at a time. And now, please, won't you help me get out of this crowd?"—New York Sun.

He was a young minister of the old school. He did not follow the modern doctrine of frankness in his speech, especially with the lambkins of his flock. Flustered and "fussed," he stood before a large gathering of smiling, good-looking up-to-the-minute peppy lamkinettes and in guarded tones reminded them of the pitfalls and evils of this wayward world. He reached the climax of his address and with a blush of ultra-modesty he said: "And, my dear young friends, do you know that even this very day there has come to mine ears a rumor that there is in this very community a band of bold, bad bootlinbers!"—Indianapolis News.

ROSE MARY
 By RUBY H. MARTYN.
 (The 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
 Rose Mary wrapped the loaf slowly. She always put aside the best loaf of the baking for this sombre-eyed small customer who came at twilight to the little house room where Rose Mary kept her shop of home-made candles and bread and cakes.
 "I'm glad to hear that Mr. Armitage is better," she said quietly.
 "Oh, but yes! He sits by the fire today!"
 "I guess you are a good cake eater, Henri."
 The boy's lip trembled and Rose Mary thought he was going to speak, but with bare thanks he took his loaf and went out into the wind-swept shadows.
 For a moment Rose Mary's fair head bent over hands that she clenched on the counter edge.
 "Ben! Ben Armitage! What makes you another man toward me?" she breathed intensely. "What makes you lavish all your kindness on this lad? I want my share!"
 But she did not mix salt tears with bread dough and candy sugar with counter waiting. Only the second night when Henri failed to come for bread at the accustomed time Rose Mary kept the shop open and watched anxiously. When the village doctor pushed open the door her smile was forced.
 "I haven't come to scare you out of your wits, girl!" he laughed. "But Henri has the measles hard enough to need care tonight. The youngster fled when he said he had had them, because he was bound to stay with Armitage through his sleep. Now Henri's down and Armitage isn't fit to watch out. I'm going to Ten Acre Corner to make some cuts and I'll bring Mrs. Jackson on the way back. But Henri keeps calling for you and I don't see any reason you shouldn't stay with him while I'm at Ten Acre."
 Rose Mary's strong fingers curled over the counter edge.
 "Does Ben know you're asking me?"
 "Not a word! He—see here, Rose Mary, Ben'll bump by the fire, and the lad needs you."
 "I'll go," said Rose Mary throwing on outer garments. Her only moment of hesitation was with her hand raised to knock at the Armitage door.
 "Entrez!" called Ben's voice when she did knock.
 Rose Mary pushed the door, and entered the room. A man sat in a deep chair by the hearth, but he did not turn his face to greet her. Henri lay on a narrow bed beyond the man, muttering wearily in French.
 "Doctor Gales sent me to stay with Henri for an hour," said Rose Mary. The lad cried out gladly, and she crossed the room to where he lay and quipped him. She glanced toward Ben Armitage. Would he never turn her back to her? She had not seen him so near as this since he hurried away to commence service, leaving her to know without words that he loved her.
 And then after the tense months of uncertainty, and the other months of impatience, Ben Armitage had returned with small French Henri, and lived alone with him in the low farm house, receiving old friends with nonchalant coolness, refusing his old maid-like position while he roamed the woods beyond the fallow farm fields. He seemed to have forgotten Rose Mary's very existence—she wondered sometimes if he even knew that Henri came to her little house shop for bread and cakes and candy.
 The lad turned and cried out and started up in his troubled sleep. As Rose Mary knelt to quiet him she heard Ben rise from the chair. There was a crash and cry. The man had tumbled squarely into the small table on which the lamp stood. For an instant the room was in darkness, and then a long tongue of flame leaped up. Rose Mary grabbed a heavy rug and smothered out the fire that spread with the spreading oil.
 "I seem to have made a mess!" said Ben slowly.
 To Rose Mary his voice seemed to come from a far distance. She felt her way to throw some sticks on the hearth embers and when they flared up she went to where he stood over the charred, singed table.
 "Why, didn't you see that table?" she asked.
 The man's face twisted grimly.
 "I can't see anything but the stars in my own head. The blamed measles finished what the blooming gas had left. When Henri cries out like that, he's seeing things we saw over there, and I started for him. I thought I had things properly located in this shack."
 But Rose Mary had heard only the first sentence.
 "Ben! Is that why you didn't come straight to me? Is that why?"
 "I can't stand pity! You wouldn't have known now if I hadn't been pushed into a corner. Henri understands things and I've learned a lot about the wood up there on my lot. It's worth enough to keep me independent. I—"
 Rose Mary's hands tightened over his lean, quivering fingers.
 "Ben, Ben!" she whispered. "Do you think a true love doesn't understand best of all?"
 "Rose Mary! Every single hour has held my prayer that you'd keep loving me!"

Pampa Mutual Hail Insurance
 The Pampa Mutual has been fortunate in building up a large cash Reserve Fund, approximately $100,000.00, during the last two years and is now ready to really insure your wheat against hail losses. This big Cash Reserve Fund operates as additional security to every hail policy and makes the insurance as safe as Oldlin while it is actually carried at cost.
 Do not wait until you have a shall have had a hail loss before you insure but get the full season's Protection by insuring now—the cost is the same. New members accepted on same terms as they were last year which is practically upon same terms as old members. The latter should pay their $2.00 Annual Dues before April 15th.
 See J. R. Durrett at First State Bank and have your Policy written up. You would save but 50 cents by making a trip to Pampa for that purpose, if you are an old member, nothing if you are just joining.
 J. R. DURRETT.
