MIAMI, ROBERTS COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1922

NUMBER 39

CONTEST TO BE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Account of the bad roads, and the weather, the Baby Clinic, advertised to be held Monday afternoon, at the Court House, opened till Friday afternoon. It is an event, with which Miners have had very little experience, and possibly not all of them know what a baby clinic is. It may be sure, that if you enquire for examination, you will be sorry.

You baby to the clinic. It will be held at the Court House, Friday afternoon, and will begin at 1 o'clock. Each of the doctors in Miami will conduct a clinic, which there are five, and the will be under the charge of Wittlauffer, County Health Officer of Carson County.

COFFEE-WILLIS

At eleven o'clock last morning, Miss Oliver Coffee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coffee, and Waid S. Willis, of Vocational Agricultural High School, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's Rev. Pennington, of the Church, officiated, and the ceremony was used.

Willis is one of Miami's most young ladies, and was a member of the 1920 class of Miami High School. The following year she attended Texas University. Mr. Willis also attended Texas University.

Immediately after the ceremony, wedding cake was cut, Dorothy drew the thimble, Jack Cotter, and Rev. Pennington, the young couple then returned to the Amarillo, returning Sunday, making their home at present Mrs. Willis' parents.

LARD-HALE

By Lard, youngest daughter of Mrs. Mage Lard, and Hale, son of Paul Hale were united in marriage, at the home of the bride's parents, Friday night, Pennington, pastor of the Baptist Church, performing the ceremony.

These young people are counting among the most popular of the set, in Miami, and they have many friends, who wish them all the happiness possible.

ENTERTAIN LEGION BOYS

The American Legion Auxiliary entertain the members of the local American Legion post, with a social at the American Legion Hall, Tuesday night, May 2nd. All members, and all visiting Legion members are cordially invited to attend, for the Auxiliary is going to show you all a good time.

CAMP-FIRE GIRLS MEETING

Thursday, April 20th, the Camp-Fire Girls, of Miami, held their regular meeting at their home, and set days to practice songs, and what we can take in some new members, whose petitions we have received.

All the girls of the Camp-Fire wish to thank everyone who helped to secure the room at the Court House, for our meetings.

SEE WHAT THE CAMP-FIRE IS DOING!

All the talk is, "Just see what our Scouts do," but you never hear word about the Camp-Fire, and we want the people of Miami to say a word for us, as well as for the Scouts.

P. R.

Gov. Neff is expected to arrive from Canadian at 7:13 to-night, and is scheduled to speak at the Baptist Church at 7:30. It is reported that he has given up his trip to Perryton this afternoon.

"POLLY OF THE STORM COUNTRY" NEXT WEEK.

Those of you who saw Mary Pickford, some two months ago, in "Storm Country Polly" at the Pastime, will be anxious to read the story itself, and next week the first installment of "Polly of the Storm Country" will be found in the Chief.

It is a story of love, and the wonderful power and influence it has on peoples' lives. Polly is a sweet girl, whose home is among the squatter folk in the outskirts of Oneida, New York, and the love and smiles she has for friends, as well as those who are trying to harm her and her people, is the outstanding feature of the story, all the way through, and in the end, they win salvation for the humble squatter folks, as well as happiness for Polly herself, and her family. Remember, the story begins in next week's Chief.

A JOLLY TRIP

Tuesday morning found seven of the XX girls and Mrs. Charlie Burnett all mounted and ready for an outing. We left Mrs. Burnett's at nine o'clock and ate dinner in one of their pastures, near two large tanks. We surely enjoyed the dinner, as everyone of us was very hungry after the morning's ride, and it was one of those good, old-fashioned picnic dinners—coffee, bacon, pickles, and most every thing. After lunch we rested a while and then were on our horses again and headed toward Dial's ranch, and got there about three o'clock, but did not stay but a short while, as it was getting late. We turned our horses toward Mrs. Burnett's ranch again, stopping there just long enough to compare our sunburned faces and necks, then riding on into town. We had a very, very good time and each one especially enjoyed Mrs. Burnett's companionship.

One Who Went Along.

MEETING COMING ALONG FINE

Interest in the meetings at the Church of Christ is very good, and the attendance so far has been very good. B. R. Bassell, who is leading the singing, is a singer who has an unusually fine voice, and is a song leader of exceptional ability. The singing alone is well worth attendance at the meetings, and Elder Lamberth, has a way of bringing the message he intends to convey, right to your heart. Don't fail to go. You will be glad you did.

TROY SMITH NAMED AS SPECIAL DISTRICT JUDGE

At a meeting of the Tyler Bar Association this morning Hon. Troy Smith was elected as special judge in the absence of Judge Warren, district judge, who was called to Gilmer on account of the death of a relative.

Mr. Smith is one of the younger members of the Tyler Bar Association, and is eminently well qualified to discharge the duties of district judge.

Judge Warren will be out of the city for several days.—Courier Times.

CAN YOU?

Can you stand the gaff of the strain young man?
Are you made of the proper stuff?
To take the knocks with the boost, young man?
And fight when the going's rough?

Can you find the courage and will, young man,
When you come to a rocky road,
To grit your teeth and get beneath
An deling to your heavy load?

Can you keep your nerve in a pinch,
old top?
Can you carry a cheerful smile,
To keep plugging against all odds
And feel that it's worth the while?

Can you take the count and come back, old boy,
Can you fight till the fight is done;
Can you play the game on the square
and feel
That success has been fairly won?

If you can, then the world is yours,
my friend,
With its glory and wealth and fame;
who has
The courage to play the game!
If not, then you'll never succeed, my friend,

There is victory ahead for the lad
For the road to success is rough,
And the fellow who gets to the top,
my friend,
Must be made of the proper stuff.

HEALTH WEEK PROGRAMS WELL WORTH THE TIME

The extensive programs outlined in the Chief last week, for Health week, are exciting considerable interest, and the attendance at the different sessions so far, has been even better than was expected it would be, regardless of the inclement weather. A world of good can be derived by the community, by such a series of lectures and talks as are being given this week, and those charge deserve a great deal of credit for making it possible for the community to have the opportunity of hearing them.

Two talks Tuesday afternoon deserve special mention. The first by Dr. Hicks, on "The Teeth and their Care" was one that was well worth listening to and a great deal of good was derived from it. The other was given by Dr. Snyder, of Canadian, on "The Eyes and Their Care," and was greatly appreciated by everyone. Dr. Snyder deserves a grateful appreciation from the committee, for he left a very sick child at Canadian, to fill his engagement here.

Miss Wittlauffer, County Health Nurse of Carson County, is in charge of the demonstrations that are being carried on this week, and gave a most interesting and instructive demonstration of "How to Care for the sick room."

XX CLUB MEETING

Tuesday night the XX Club met at the home of Miss Ruth Chisum, with every member present, except two. Some very important business was attended to, after which they adjourned. Neither Mrs. Gething nor Mrs. Burnett could be present on account of the bad weather.

TO THE VOTERS OF ROBERTS COUNTY

I suppose most all of you people noticed my announcement, in the Miami Chief sometime in March.

If there is anyone that I have not talked to on this line I will be proud to talk with you yet, and I wish to assure each and everyone of you, that your support will be appreciated.

If I am elected it will be by the people, and I will try to make a Sheriff and Tax Collector for the people of Roberts County.

J. C. (Clarence) Williamson.

NEFF TO SPEAK AT BAPTIST CHURCH

It has been arranged that Governor Neff will speak at the Baptist Church, tonight, instead of at the Auditorium, as formerly announced. The Governor is planning on speaking to the school children at the house, Friday morning, we are told.

The local Shriners have planned an elaborate banquet to be given in Governor Neff's honor, following the speaking tonight.

LOST TO PAMPA IN SLOW GAME

Miami lost the first game of the season Tuesday, When the local team mixed with Pampa, here, by a score of 5 to 4.

Pampa gained a lead of three runs in the first, on a bunch of errors, which they held until the fifth. A cold wind made the crowd at the game small.

The game by innings:
Pampa - - 300 010 001—5
Miami - - 000 011 200—4

STUDY CLUB NOTES

Mrs. Barnett was hostess to the Study Club on Friday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. Will Locke was leader and the subject for the afternoon was, "The Girl of Yesterday and The Girl of Today." She gave a very interesting paper on these "Girls" and every member of the club responded with well prepared parts, some had prepared papers others made short talks and all were good.

There was no business and the club was adjourned to meet May the 5th with Mrs. N. S. Locke.

We had as guest, Mrs. Harry Robbins of Eureka, Kansas, Mrs. S. E. Robbins and Mrs. Lee Newman.

The hostess served delicious cake and ice cream and a social hour was enjoyed.

RADIO DEPARTMENT AND COMICS COME LATER

Owing to a little misunderstanding the Radio news and Comic section, are not to begin next week, but will be in the Chief in the issue of May 18th. This service comes from Wichita, Kansas, and the order, we are advised, did not get in time to be included in the next two issues, as we hoped.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE DOINGS

Although the weather was pretty bad last night, there were several out to the regular meeting of the Commercial League, and several matters were discussed. It was decided that the committee that was appointed to see about the bridging of Coon Hollow, be retained and an effort be made to devise ways and means, whereby this much needed improvement be made. There is going to be a lot of traffic over this road into town, and the present bridge is really unsafe.

It was called to the attention of the members that the April and May dues are now due, and should be paid in to the secretary, C. C. Mead, at once. And it is very important that every member of the League be present at the next meeting, May 10th, for some projects that are extremely vital to the business men of Miami, and the town as a whole are to be discussed. Make it a point to be present, and if you are not already a member, and want to line up with the progressive men of the community, be on hand. The Club needs you and your influence.

SOUTHWEST DURBAR, AT DALLAS IN MAY

The Southwest, Durbar, a spring festival, is to be held at Dallas, the week, beginning, May 21st. The Passenger Agents' Association, at their meeting at San Antonio, voted to grant a railway fare, to the Durbar, of one fare and one-fifth.

Some of the features of the Durbar, are said to be a bond contest for bands all over Texas, in which prizes totaling $1,500 are to be awarded; two grand concerts with over 650 trained voices, and a symphony orchestra; a pageant featuring out state flower, the blue-bonnet, and entitled "The Durbar of the Flowers;" an electrically illuminated night parade of floats, bands, etc.; a world's championship Rodeo and Frontier Days celebration, under the direction of Tom Burnett, of Fort Worth; polo matches, golf matches and tennis tournaments for the Southwestern championship, and many other features.

It is thought that at least 50 bands will take part in the contest making in all a total of over 1500 musicians, largest number, it is thought, that was ever brought together in the southwest.

THE PRESS MEETING.

There were more than 125 editors and their wives at the annual meeting of the Panhandle Press Association meeting at Amarillo last Friday and Saturday.

Amarillo did itself proud in making the occasion one to be remembered by the visiting members of the Press Gang. At one o'clock Friday, the visitors were entertained with a luncheon at the Hotel Amarillo, by the City Board of Development, and that afternoon, all attended the ball game between Amarillo High School and North Fort Worth High, also as guest of the City Board of Development. At 6:30 that evening, Col. E. O. Thompson, owner of the Amarillo Hotel, entertained the guests with a dinner at the Amarillo Hotel, after which the Mission and Deandi Theatres were thrown open to the editors.

Saturday morning was devoted entirely to business, which was concluded at the luncheon at the Amarillo Hotel, served with the compliments of Congressman Marvin Jones.

The new officers of the Association are:
E. A. Carlock, Paducah Post, President.
L. P. Loomis, Canadian Record, Vice-President.
F. R. Jamison, Amarillo Tribune, Secretary-Treasurer.
B. O. Brown, Electra News, Post.
T. A. Landers, McLean News, Sergeant-at-arms.

At the Friday night dinner, L. P. Loomis, of Canadian, read a beautiful prose poem, "Beyond the End of the Trail," in which a glorious tribute was paid to L. G. Waggoner, who was a former president of the P. P. A., and no one feature of the banquet programs was more appreciated than this tribute to one of the most respected and loved men of the Association.

The Association will meet at Amarillo again next year.

W. O. W. NOTICE

To the membership of Miami Camp, No. 900, W. O. W.: A called meeting will be held on Friday night, April 28th, at the American Legion Hall, T. M. Barnes, District Manager will be with us and all members will be expected to attend.

Radio Phone Is No Longer Fad

From a Toy Wireless Telephone Has Now Become Household Convenience.

35 STATIONS GIVING SERVICE

Out of the Air Come Daily News Bulletins, Lectures, Sermons, Vocal and Instrumental Concerts and Other Features.

New York.—Have you got your "ear to the air"?

Thousands have. Enthusiasm over the wireless telephone is spreading tremendously. From a fad and a toy the radio receiving set has become a household convenience.

Out of the air come daily news bulletins, lectures, sermons, vocal and instrumental concerts, opera, market reports, government time signals, shipping news, weather forecasts, fashion tips, agricultural reports, church services and children's bed-time stories.

Radio broadcasting service is available in all parts of the United States. Probably not less than 250,000 receiving sets are in operation, the daily audience that listens in numbering more than 1,000,000 people.

There are 14,000 amateur transmitting stations operated by enthusiastic experimenters and capable of short-distance broadcasting. Numerous government stations broadcast official business, but also can be used in distributing speeches or messages to the country at large.

35 Stations Active.

Broadcasting stations giving public service now are operated in 35 cities. Here is the list:

Newark, N. J.—Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company station; hourly service from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m.

New York—Western Electric company station (experimental); occasional service.

Roselle Park, N. J.—Radio Corporation station; daily service.

Deal Beach, N. J.—Western Electric company station (experimental); occasional service.

Springfield, Mass.—Westinghouse station; hourly service.

Hartford, Conn.—C. D. Tuska company station; concerts Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Medford, Mass.—American Radio and Research corporation; news service.

Schenectady, N. Y.—Union college station; occasional programs of music.

Washington, D. C.—Government station, broadcasting correct time at noon and 10 p. m. daily. White and Boyer station, concerts and radio lectures Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Atlanta, Ga.—Carter Electric company station; news and music program Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Westinghouse station; complete daily program.

Cincinnati, O.—Precision Equipment company station; music and vaudeville programs and sport reports Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Chicago, Ill.—Westinghouse station; complete daily program; concerts Friday evening; grand opera program every evening except Friday during opera season.

Madison, Wis.—University of Wisconsin station; weather reports daily, except Sunday, at 12:35 p. m.; music program Friday evenings.

Kansas City, Mo.—Western Radio company station; market reports and weather forecasts daily; concerts every evening.

Lincoln, Neb.—University of Nebraska station; concerts every evening.

Denver, Col.—Regents Radio company; news twice daily; concerts every evening.

Dallas, Tex.—Police and Fire department station; news, weather forecast and concerts every evening.

Austin, Tex.—University of Texas station; local news and athletic reports daily.

San Francisco, Cal.—Commercial and hotel stations broadcasting concerts every evening. California theater broadcasting performances nightly.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Hamberger's department store; daily service.

San Jose, Cal.—Harrold laboratories station; daily service.

Other cities having broadcasting stations include: Cleveland, Philadelphia, Columbus, O., Buffalo, Detroit, Mich., Akron, O., Hamilton, O., Seattle, Wash., Houston, Tex., Davenport, Ia., Iowa City, Ia., Rome, Ga., Paris, Tex.

This does not include government stations, except the Arlington naval station. In addition, the government has 230 land radio stations. Probably the biggest public service broadcasting station in the country is being built by the American Telegraph and Telephone company in New York. After it is placed in operation others will be built in various centers over the country.

NO MONKEY BUSINESS

"Now, cut out the 'monkey business' and let's get weighed," says Keeper Parker of the Lincoln park zoo, Chicago. This is a common occurrence at the zoo, for Mr. Parker keeps his "children" in the pink of condition. This one is the prime favorite of the young visitors to the zoo.

Wraps Have Fur Collars; Capes Worn This Spring

FUR collars are the correct thing on spring wraps this season. Even if they do, perhaps, suggest "the wedding of May and December," they are logical and sensible, especially in this age of motoring. Then, too, cool breezes have a way of springing up even on "a perfect day in June." A separate fur neckpiece is a constant responsibility, for it has a way of losing itself, much to the disturbance of fashion's prophecy rings true, few there are who will go capeless this season.

Wrap of Navy Blue Veldyne.

There is a fancy to use gray fur on rust or henna cloth. This combination is wonderfully effective. Often the tones are carried out by embroidering the henna cloth with gray angora wool, supplemented with oxidized silver buttons and perhaps a gray metal grille. As to fringe, it is coming in stronger than ever, and especially as a trimming on the new capes. This season it is of exaggerated depth and finds lavish placement on the garment. It is matched perfectly to the wrap and the hand-tied fringe is favored. The idea of tying strands at intervals over the skirt of the blouse cape-like wraps is very good. In this way very effective results are obtained with a minimum use of the silk. The wrap pictured is a navy blue veldyne, with fringe used to the extreme. The collar is of the leading cocoa-colored caracul. Have you joined the cape brigade? If not, you undoubtedly will, for if

Artisans Who Love Beauty
In Lafayette, Ind., the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Hangers has issued a brochure describing their four-story building erected in that city. The building is in the Italian architectural style—peculiarly appropriate for the home of an organization devoted to the decorative arts. It is stated that the "color effects" in the building are evidence that the age has developed not only materials to work with, but the genius to put these materials together beautifully.

Met 20 Ghosts; Now An Expert

Washington Man Upsets Popular Belief by Saying Hands Not Clammy.

ONE GHOST BROUGHT APPLES

Liked All His Spooky Visitors Except One—Treat Them Kindly, Is His Advice—One Ghost Wore Patched Garments.

Washington.—Antagonish and its ethereal visitor, which apparently has gone on a strike since the arrival of scientists and curiosity seekers, is backed into insignificance when compared to the bodiless visitors who sometimes pick out Washington as a ghostly rendezvous.

At least so says William H. Bryson, 1002 M street, N. W., amateur ghost chaser of the District, who allows that since he first started studying the habits and mannerisms of spooks, five years ago, he has been visited by 20 assorted ghosts, all of whom turned out with one exception to be first rate chaps.

Bryson, who until recently was employed in the government service in a semi-scientific capacity, had come out with the blanket statement that ghosts do have bodily characteristics and, contrary to popular belief, the hand clasp of a spook is warm and not cold and clammy.

While the hunter after the habitat of the dweller in the world beyond has made no effort to photograph his nocturnal visitors, he says he has held protracted conversations with many of his friends and relatives who have passed on.

One Ghost Carried Apples. It might be said that Bryson goes further in his research in the fact that he avers that one of the ghosts who

Relic of California Gold Rush Imperiled

Coloma, Cal.—The historic Weimar oak here is in peril. Because it endangers his farm home, Homer Metcalf may cut down the oak. It was under this tree that Mr. and Mrs. Peter Weimar constructed their home when they came to Coloma with James W. Marshall, the discoverer of gold, in 1848, and part of the historic old home still stands on the spot. It was in this house that Mrs. Weimar boiled the nuggets in soap suds and discovered their preciousness, and it was this discovery that sent the news round the world which brought the gold rush to California.

He paid him a visit about three months ago wore silk gloves or what appeared to be silk and felt like that material, and was carrying a few red apples.

Asked if he had held any protracted conversation with his ghostly friend Bryson admitted he had and went so far as to say he ate a shady apple. The fruit had no flavor, he said, but Bryson declares that a core was left and can produce it if occasion demands.

On one occasion, Bryson said, his brother visited him and complained bitterly about conditions on the Florida seacoast where a self-respecting ghost of the past decade could not enjoy himself. Whether it was the beach nymphs or the conditions regarding the influx of foreign spirits from Scotland the ghost did not say, but he nevertheless said he would seek some other climate during the winter of 1923.

The wandering ones also are subject to down-and-out periods in "shadowland." Bryson states, as one friend who was rather opulent here came wandering into his room with ghostly garments that had been patched in several places.

Don't Like Cold Reception. In this connection the saying that "you can't take it with you" may be erroneous, as the spook gave every evidence, according to the spectator, of being in need of a few shades of greenbacks to buy a new set of garments.

Some of the shades that return and haunt the scenes of their life are not inclined to be kindly disposed, especially if one turns the covers over the head and keeps mum until the ghost blows off to some more hospitable place.

Another ghost that Bryson knew in the flesh, according to the medium, appeared to him on one occasion and bitterly berated him for having lost a few dollars of his while on earth in a business deal. "In the future you will see me often," the spook is said to have announced in the language of the beyond, and to prove it he came for six nights running.

Asked if he ever became nervous at the nocturnal visitations, Bryson hastened to remark that he did not invite the bodiless ones to visit him, but did not put up signs that no spook traffic would be allowed.

He qualified his last statement by saying that a prohibitive sign would only go to rile the departed ones and he would no doubt have his home cluttered up with a bevy of ghosts each night who might berate him for his unkindness.

Luncheon in Medinet Hobu Temple

Here's a nice quiet spot for luncheon in the Temple of Medinet Hobu, directly across the Nile from Karnak. The three little girls in the picture are watercarriers and the reeds they are holding are to fan flies from the travelers and their donkeys. From the time the tourist sets forth on his ride to the ruins until he returns, several of the children follow him on their self-appointed tasks.

which was blazing freshly up to the chimney's great throat. He sat down, staring at the flames.

Buck pushed open the swinging door between the pantry and the sitting room, and came in, a question in his bright eyes, his great plummy tail beating the floor as he lay down at Peter's side.

Presently the dog laid his head on Peter's knee and poured forth a faint sound that was not quite a whine, not quite a sigh, and rose restlessly, and went to the closed door of Alix's room, and pawed it, his eager nose to the threshold.

"Not here, old fellow!" Peter said, stroking the silky head under his hand.

He had not been in this room since the day of her death. It struck him as strangely changed, strangely and heartrendingly familiar. The windows were closed, as Alix had never had them closed, winter or summer, rain or sunshine. Her books stood in their old order, her student's Shakespeares, and some of her girlhood's books, "Little Women," and "Uncle Max."

In the closet, which exhaled a damp and woody smell, were one or two of the boyish-looking hats he had so often seen her crush carelessly on her dark hair, and the big belted coat that was as plain as his own, and the big boots she wore when she tramped about the poultry yard, still spattered with pale, dry mud. Her father's worn little Bible lay on the table, and beside it another book, "Duck Raising for the Market," with the marks of muddied and mealy hands still lingering on its cover.

Suddenly, evoked by these silent witnesses to her busy and happy life, the whole woman seemed to stand beside Peter, the tall, eager, vital woman who had been at home here, who had ruled the cabin with a splendid and vital personality. He seemed to feel her near him again, to see the interested eyes, the high cheekbones touched with scarlet, the wisp of hair that would fall across her face some times when she was deep in baking, or preserving, or poultry-farming, and that she would brush away with the back of an impatient hand, only to have it slip loose again.

One of her kitchen aprons, caught in the current of air from the opened door, blew about on its hook. He remembered her, on many a wintry day, buttoned into just such a crisp apron, radiantly busy and brisk in her kitchen, stirring and chopping, moving constantly between stove and table. With strong hands still showing traces of flour she would come to sit beside him at the piano, to play a duet with her characteristic dash and finish, only to jump up in sudden compunction, with an exclamation: "Oh, my ducks—I'd forgotten them! Oh, the poor little wretches!"

And she would be gone, leaving a streak of wet, fresh air through the warm house from the open door, and he would perhaps glance from a window to see her, roughly coated and booted, ploughing about her duck yard, delving into barrels of grain, turning on faucets, wielding a stubby old broom.

She loved her life, he mused, with a bitter heartache, as he stood here in her empty room. Sometimes he had marveled at the complete and unquestioning joy she had brought to it. Peter reminded himself that never in their years together had he heard her complain about anything, or seem to feel bored or at a loss.

"We've always thought of Cherry as the child," he thought. "But it was she, Alix, who was the real child. She never grew up. She never entered into the time of moods and self-analysis and jealousies and desires! She would have played and picknicked all her life."

His heart pressed like a dull pain in his chest. Dully, quietly, he went out to the fire again, and dully and quietly moved through the day. Her books and music might stand as they were, her potted ferns and her scattered small possessions—the sewing-basket that she always handled with a boy's awkwardness, and the camera she used so well—should keep their places. But he went to her desk, thinking in this long, solitary evening, to destroy various papers that she might wish destroyed before the cabin was deserted. And here he found her letter.

He found it only after he had somewhat explored the different small drawers and pigeonholes of the desk, drawers and pigeonholes which were, to his surprise, all in astonishing order for Alix. Everything was marked, tied, pocketed; her accounts were balanced, and if she had anywhere left private papers, they were at least nowhere to be found.

Seeing in all this a dread confirmation of his first suspicion of her death, Peter nevertheless experienced a shock when he found her letter.

It had been placed in an empty drawer, face up, and was sealed, and addressed simply with his name.

He sat holding it in his hand, and moments passed before he could open it.

So it had been true, then, the fear that he had tried all these weeks to crush? He had been weighing, measuring, remembering, until his very soul was sick with the uncertainty. His mind had been a confused web of memories, of this casual word and that look, of what she had possibly heard, had probably seen, had suspected—known—

Now he would know. He tore open the envelope, and the dozen written lines were before his eyes. The letter was dated, a most unusual thing for Alix to do, and "Saturday, one o'clock," was written under the date. It was the day of her death.

He read: "Peter, Dear—Don't feel too badly if I find a stupid way out. I've been thinking for several days about it. You've done so much for me, and after you, of course, there's no one but Cherry. She could be free now, he couldn't prevent it. When I saw your face a few minutes ago I knew you couldn't fight it. Remember, this is our secret. And always remember that I want you to be happy because I love you so!"

It was unsigned. Peter sat staring at it for a while without moving, without the stir of a changing expression on his face. Then he folded it up, and put it in the pocket of his coat, and went out to the back yard, where Kow was feeding the chickens. The wet, dark day was ending brilliantly in a wash of red sunset light that sent long shadows from the young fruit trees, and touched every twig with a dull glow.

"Kow," Peter said, after an effort to speak that was unsuccessful. The Chinese boy looked at him solicitously; for Peter's face was ashen, and about his mouth were drawn lines. "Kow," he said, "I go now!"

"Go now other house?" Kow nodded, glancing toward the valley.

But Peter jerked his head instead toward the bare ridge. "No, I go now—not come back!" he said, briefly. "Tonight—maybe Bolinas—tomorrow, Inverness. I don't know. By and by the big mountains, Kow—by and by I forget!"

Tears glittered in the Chinese boy's eyes, but he smiled with a great air of cheer. "I keep house!" he promised. The dog came fawning and springing from the stables, and Peter whistled to him.

"Come on Buck! We're going now!" He opened the farmyard gate where her hand had so often rested, crossed the muddy corral, opened another gate, and struck off across the darkening world toward the ridge. The last sunlight lingered on crest and tree-top, tangled itself redly in the uppermost branches of a few tall redwoods, and was gone. Twilight—a long twilight that had in it some hint of spring—lay softly over the valley; the mountain loomed high in the clear shadow.

Gaining the top of the first ridge, he paused and looked back at the cabin, the little brown house that he had built almost fifteen years ago. He remembered that it was in the beginning a sort of experiment; his mother and he were too much alone in their big city house, and she had suggested, with rare wisdom, that as he did not care for society, and as his travels always meant great loneliness for her, he should have a little eyrie of his own, to which he might retreat whenever the fancy touched him.

She liked Del Monte and Tahoe, herself, but she had come to Mill Valley now and then in the days of his first wild delight in its freedom and beauty, silk-gowned and white-gloved and very much disliking dust. She had sent him plants, roses, and fruit trees, and she had told him one day that he had a neighbor in the valley who was an old friend of hers, a Doctor Strickland, a widower, with children.

He remembered sauntering up the opposite canyon to dully call upon this inventor-physician one day, and his delight upon finding a well-read, music-loving, philosophic, erratic man, who had at once recognized a kindred spirit, and who had made the younger man warmly welcome.

Presently, on the first call, an enchanting little girl in a shabby smock had come in—a little girl all dimples, demureness and untouched boyish beauty. She had said that "Anne wath mad wiv her, and that Alix—" she managed to lip the name, "wath up in the madrons!"

A somewhat older child, named Alix, a freckled, leazy little person with enormous front teeth, had proved the claim by falling out of the madrone, and had received no sympathy for a bump, but a—to him—rather surprising cure. He had yet to realize that nothing ever hurt Alix, but that she always ruined her clothes, and frequently hurt other persons and other things. He found her a spirited, enthusiastic little person, extremely articulate, and quite unself-conscious, and she had entertained him with an excited account of a sex feud that was being pushed with some violence at her school, and had used expressions that rather shocked Peter. A quiet third girl—a niece, he gathered—had joined the group, a girl with braids and clean hands, who elucidated:

"Alix and I don't like our teacher!" "She's a sneak and a skunk!" Alix had frankly contributed. Cherry, now quietly established in her father's lap, had smiled with mischievous enjoyment; nobody else, to Peter's surprise, had paid this extraordinary remark the slightest attention. He remembered that he had fancied only the smallest of these children, and had been glad when they all went out of the room.

Looking down at the cabin, the years slipped past him like a flying film, and it was the present again, and Alix—Alix was gone.

He roused himself, spoke to the dog, and they went on their way again. Mud squelched beneath Peter's boots in the roadway; the dog sprang lightly from clump to clump of dried grass. But when they left the road, and cut straight across the rise of the hillside, the ground was firmer, and the two figures moved swiftly through the dark night. The early stars came out, and showed them, silhouetted against the sky above Alix's beloved Tamalpais, the man's erect form with its slight limp, the dog following faithfully, his plump tail and feathered ruff showing a dull luster in the starlight.

Cherry, with her violet eyes and corn-colored hair, Cherry, with her little hands gathered in his, and her heart beating against his heart, and Alix, his chum, his companion, his comrade on so many night walks under the stars—he had lost them both. But it was Alix who was closest to his thoughts tonight, Alix, the thought of whom was gradually gripping his heart and soul with a new pain.

Alix was his own; Cherry had never been his own. It was for him to comfort Cherry, it had always been his mission to comfort Cherry, since the days of her broken dolls and cut fingers. But Alix was his own comforter, and Alix might have been laughing and stumbling and chattering beside him here, in the dark, wet woods, full of a child's happy satisfaction in the moment and confidence in the morrow.

"Alix, my wife!" he said softly, aloud. "I loved Cherry—always. But you were mine—you were mine. We belonged to each other—for better and for worse—and I have let you go!"

He went on and on and on. They were plunging down hill now, under the trees. He would see a light after a while, and sleep for a few hours, and have a hunter's breakfast, and be gone again. And he knew that for weeks—for months—perhaps for years, he would wander so, through the great mountains, with their snow and their forests, over the seas, in strange cities and stranger solitudes. Always alone, always moving, always remembering. That would be his life. And some day—some day perhaps he would come back to the valley she had loved—

But even now he recalled in distaste from that hour. To see the familiar faces, to come up to the cabin again, to touch the music and the books—

Worse, to find Cherry a little older, happy and busy in her life of sacrifice, not needing him, not very much wanting the reminder of the old tragic times—

An owl cried in the woods; the mournful sound floated and drifted away into utter silence. Some small animal, meeting the death of its brief life had evaded a hundred times, screamed shrilly, and was silent. Great branches, stirred by the night wind, moved high above his head, and when there was utter silence, Peter could hear the steady, soft rush of the ocean, dulled here to the sound of a gigantic, quiet breathing.

Suddenly she seemed again to be beside him. He seemed to see the dark, animated face, the slender, tall girl wrapped in her big, rough coat. He seemed to hear her vibrating voice, with that new, tender note in it that he had noticed when she last spoke to him.

"I'll go home ahead of you, Peter, and wait for you there!"

Tears suddenly flooded his eyes, and he put his hand over them and pressed it there, standing still, while the wave of tender and poignant and exquisite memories broke over him.

"We'll go on, Buck," he whispered, looking up through the trees at a strip of dark sky spangled with cold stars. "We'll go on. She's—she's waiting for us somewhere, old fellow!"

GOOD ROADS

PROPER CONCRETE MATERIAL

Just What Kinds Are Best and Proportions for Mixing Made Subject for Experiments.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Experiments to determine just what kinds of materials are best for concrete, and in what proportions to mix them so that they will wear well in a road are being made by engineers of the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture. An apparatus will be used that consists of heavy steel wheels which, guided by a mechanical arrangement, roll continuously back and forth over the pavement.

More than 40 different sections of concrete pavement, each ten feet long, will be laid. Materials from many different parts of the county are being shipped to the government experiment farm at Arlington, Va., near Washington. They will be mixed with varying quantities of cement and water to determine which is best. Experience has shown that there is a measurable amount of wear of the surface of a concrete road each year.

REINFORCED CONCRETE ROAD

Experiments Conducted in Suburbs of Washington to Determine Strength of Foundation.

How a reinforced concrete road holds up under heavy traffic is to be determined by the bureau of public roads. United States Department of Agriculture, through experiments to be conducted on such a road now being built in the suburbs of Washington in co-operation with Arlington county, Va.

The road is being reinforced with many different arrangements of wire mesh and round steel rods embedded in the concrete. The joints will be either a crack left in the road, to be filled with tar, or simply a sheet of corrugated metal set on edge with the concrete poured around it. Some sections are to have joints running along the middle of the road, some across it, and some will be built without joints.

Of especial interest is the construction of ribbed sections. Instead of placing the concrete on a nearly flat subgrade, trenches will be dug in the subgrade running parallel to the edges of the road and also across the road. These trenches will be filled with concrete, giving the slab downward projection of concrete, and presumably strengthening it. Experiments also will be conducted to determine the strengthening effect of treating the earth under the concrete. On one section the earth for a depth of 6 inches will be mixed with cement, using 1 part of cement to 20 parts of earth. In some places where there is a grade a trench under the concrete will be filled with gravel. These trenches will slope toward the edges of the road and drain away any water that might otherwise accumulate under the surface.

BUILD ROADS IN WISCONSIN

Predicted That State Will Experience Greatest Period of Activity During 1922.

The state of Wisconsin for fifteen years has been considered a good roads state. Highway building activity has added vast sums of wealth to the state. However, it is predicted that the state will experience its greatest period of road construction in 1922. Information emanating from the state highway department of the Badger state indicates that the construction of concrete roads in Wisconsin will probably surpass that of 1921.

Mud Road is Passing.

The whole nation has been aroused to the necessity of road building and nearly all communities are aware of the necessity of getting good roads and by good roads is meant roads of the durable variety. The day of the mud road is passing.

Blight of Poor Roads.

The long-existing blight of poor roads must be wiped out. The active development of a better, modern system of road construction bodes well for the future.

Miserable With Backache?

Why put up with that nagging backache? You can't be happy when every day brings morning lameness, sharp, shooting pains and that all-worn-out feeling. The best way to get well is to find the cause of your trouble and correct it. Likely, a cold or a chill has slowed up your kidneys and that is why you have backaches, stabbing pains, headaches and dizziness. Just take things easier and help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

NOTHING DOING!

Possibly we favor Sunday baseball—and then again, possibly we do not. Our personal feelings have nothing whatever to do with the case. The main point is, that the Chief is not going to be used as an open forum in the discussion for and against Sunday baseball in Miami. This controversy, that is being carried on is going to have to hunt another means than the Chief for the arguments, pro and con. If you don't believe in it, and think the American Legion can stop it, and want to talk to the boys about it, the American Legion has a regular meeting night, and undoubtedly, they will be glad to hear whatever grievance you have, in person, and if you object to the Sunday ball games you will probably get quicker action than you will by making a public denunciation in the Chief. And it is very possible that you will engender less hard feelings. As this aforesaid statement holds good for the other side as well. You know who the objector are, and if you have anything to say in defense of your views, go to them and say it. Don't ask the Chief to permit its columns to be used for any controversy, for there's nothing doing.

YOU TELL 'EM WE ENJOYED IT.

The editor had the nice privilege—and it would be a nice one, even if it came every month—of attending the meeting of the Panhandle Press Association, at Amarillo, the last of the week. The Panhandle can well be proud of the men who make up its press, for among these fellows will be found, some of the biggest men of the Southwest. They are the men who have a clear vision of the big things the future has in store for our big country, out here on the plains, and every man of them is do-all in his power to encourage his own particular community to do its part in bringing those things about.

HAVE YOU THE RADIO "BUG"?

There are a lot of Miami folks—and they are not all kids, either—that are getting it. And the last of the week, we heard that there was a possibility that the business men would go together to buy a large receiving outfit, that would reach Denver, Kansas City, and St. Louis and would install it in the Auditorium. Along with the rest of them, we have the fever too. Guess it's catching. The Chief is going to start a department, probably next week, devoted entirely to radio news. Watch for it.

Every farmer that comes to town is growing more and more optimistic in regard to crop prospects. Six weeks ago, the average fellow was pretty blue, and seemed to be afraid that the wheat crop was "blowed up." But with the rains of the past few weeks, and the warm weather along with it, wheat has come out and the prospects are mighty encouraging. And the country around Miami seems to be the most favored of the north Panhandle. Going south, wheat is mighty scarce, all the way to Ft. Worth, while up in Ochiltree county, they tell us, most of the wheat has been plowed up, and either oats or row crops planted. Miami's not so bad after all.

THE NEW TREASURY CERTIFICATES

With the new issue of Treasury Savings Certificates, registered series, yielding a higher rate of interest—if held until maturity—than any other government obligation now obtainable on the market, investments in these securities locally are perceptibly increasing, according to Postmaster, Mrs. Ada Rogers.

"These securities are issued in three attractive denominations, and the discounted to sell at $800 per $1,000; $80 per $100; $20 per $25.

"Held for a period of five years, Treasury Savings Certificates return a total yield of 25 per cent for the period; or, in other words, every dollar invested in this security increases itself by one-fourth in five years," the postmaster pointed out.

"The following tabulation gives investment yield information in Treasury Savings Certificates that is asked for almost daily by patrons of this Office: $4,000 invested in Treasury Savings Certificates purchases five of the $1,000 Certificates and becomes $5,000 at the expiration of five years; $3,200 increases itself to $4,000; $2,400 grows to $3,000; $1,600 increases itself to $2,000; $800 becomes $1,000; $80 grows to $100; $20 increases itself by one fourth and becomes $25.

"These certificates are issued in to any market fluctuations; and when they are sold, the Government gives the purchaser complete protection. Each event it yields the purchase damage or loss in any other way whatsoever.

"This security is a direct obligation of the United States Government; runs for a period of five years from date of purchase, but it may be cashed at any time before maturity, in which event it yields the purchase price plus accrued interest at the rate of about 3 1-2, compounded semi-annually.

These securities are obtainable from the local office in three denominations: $1,000, $100 and $25; however, no person will be permitted to buy more than $5,000 (maturity value) in his own name."

Mrs. Edgar Coble and children, of Amarillo, are visiting this week at the Woods Coffee home.

RADIO SRVICE FREE!

Beginning soon, the Chief will add a new department which we believe will be appreciated by a large per cent of our readers.

This new feature will appear each week and will be devoted to radio instructions, the economical installation of home outfits and the latest and most valuable information relating to this wonderful new science.

There is hardly a state in the Union that has not already from 20,000 upwards of home radio installations. Farmers are using it to secure the latest daily market information and through it people in even remotest localities are listening to grand opera and other forms of entertainments...

Boys, get busy—read up on this "stuff," install a home outfit and set out on your front porch this summer (and in your living room next winter) and "take in" some of the things you cannot afford to go to the cities to hear.

Watch for the initial article, and each week cut them out and paste them in a scrap book for future reference.

PREVENTATIVE MEDICINE

The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlains Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.

NOW DO MY WORK WITH EASE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored My Health

Hornell, N. Y.—"I was in bad health but there didn't seem to be any one thing the matter with me. I was tired out all over and it was an effort for me to move. I was irritable and could not sleep nights and had trouble with my bowels and at my periods. It seemed that nearly everyone around me knew of your medicine and wanted me to try it, so at last I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and improved every day. I do all my own work now except the washing and do it with ease. I can accomplish as much in a day now as it would have taken me a week to do last winter and I try to get every one I know to take your medicine to build them up. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you like." Mrs. CHAS. BAKER, 21 Spencer Ave., Hornell, N. Y.

In almost every neighborhood there are women who know the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They know because they have taken it and have been helped. Why don't you give it a trial?

Take Yeast Vitamon Tablets To Round Out Face and Figure

With Firm Flesh

If you are hollow-cheeked, yellow-skinned, sunken-eyed and generally weak or run down and want to round out your face and figure in pleasing and normal proportions you will find this simple, safe, and effective First Yeast Nutrient and Yeast Vitamon Tablets. Next take MASTIN'S VITAMON—two tablets every morning. Then weigh and measure. You will again see how well and how quickly MASTIN'S VITAMON really works. You are satisfied with your skin, weight and energy. MASTIN'S VITAMON tablets contain the most highly concentrated yeast-vitamins as well as the two other still more important vitamins, Fat Soluble A and Water Soluble B, together with organic iron and real lime salts. They will not upset the stomach or cause gas, but on the contrary are a great aid to digestion, to overcome constipation and as a general conditioner of the whole system. Pimples, boils and skin eruptions seem to vanish like magic under its purifying influence. The complexion becomes fresh and beautiful, the cheeks rosy instead of pale, the lips red instead of colorless. The eyes bright instead of dull. So rapid and amazing are the results that thousands of people everywhere are now taking it as a quick way to put on weight and increase energy. Be sure to remember the name MASTIN'S VITAMON—the original and genuine yeast-vitamine tablet—there is nothing else like it so do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get MASTIN'S VITAMON at any drugist.

Airplane Used to Hunt Seals

Winter Aviation Proves of Great Utility Along Newfoundland Coast.

AID TO SEALING INDUSTRY

Airplanes Used to Locate the "Main Patch" as It Drifts Down With Arctic Current—Keeps Communication Open.

St. John's, N. F.—Hunting seals by airplane is the thrilling job that is being performed in Newfoundland this winter by F. Sidney Cotton, Australian aviator.

The seals come down on great pans of ice with the Arctic current to the Newfoundland coast regularly every March, and nearly a dozen specially constructed ships set out in St. John's, capital port of the island, and proceed to the great fields of ice where the seals swarm by thousands and hundreds of thousands, and the crews of the ships, called "sealers," engage for two or three weeks in a slaughter of the "whitebacks." The ships are loaded with the hides, or even the skulls, and the seals are removed from the skins and rendered out for the valuable oil. The skins are dressed for leather, often the furs are stuffed and made into imitation seals. The industry has a turnover of millions of dollars.

But the seals do not come all together. There is what is known as "the main patch," which contains the great bulk of the seals. There are minor pans which have broken off, and also carry seals. If the main patch is missed by the ships it may mean loss for the owners and the men. These men sign on only for the hunt, and are paid by a share in the total catch of the ship. Everything, then, is contingent on striking the main patch. This is sometimes missed, and sometimes located.

Where the Airplane Comes In.
It is here that the airplane comes in. Major Cotton's plan is to set out from a base at Botwood, on the mainland, by over the vast ice fields, with an experienced sealing captain as observer, and locate the main patch and wireless to the ships.

There may be many miles of thick ice between the ships and the main patch. The airplane scouts around and locates channels in the ice. In this way, according to the plan, the great sealing industry of Newfoundland will be made certain and scientific.

Cotton had many difficulties to overcome. In the first place, it meant winter flying. He was told by aviation experts in England that it could not be done. There was the matter of freezing of the radiator, for instance. How was he going to fly in very cold atmosphere without his radiator freezing solid?

Then, how was the plane to take off from the snow? How was he to conquer the gales and snow blizzards of the interior of Newfoundland, not to speak of the ice fields, where many ships had gone down in storm and many hundreds of sealers had perished.

Flying in Newfoundland in the winter means, often, flying in a temperature 20 degrees below zero F. It means being up in storms and blizzards and gales. It means taking off from and landing on deep and uneven snow, often snow banks ten feet deep.

First Achievement.
The first achievement was the discovery of a liquid that obviated freezing trouble without damaging the engine, and he can now fly in the coldest weather without fear of his radiator freezing. Then he devised a serviceable skid to replace wheels, which are useless in deep snow, and pontoons are useless except in open water. With his skids Cotton can rise from any kind of snow and alight on the roughest and most uneven snow banks. The skids can take the machine safely over ditches, or even logs. A small skid for the tail keeps the airplane completely out of the snow, as both fore and aft skids sink only a few inches into even the softest snow.

Cotton has two hangars and a couple of canvas sheds, stationed at various points. One canvas tent has been placed at St. Anthony, away down by the Straits of Belle Isle, by the Labrador coast. There is a hangar at Botwood, midway between the north and south of the country, and one at St. John's. At that, there are not half enough hangars, as all of the interior of the country is uninhabited and exposed to the rigors of winter. A crash there means to be marooned perhaps for weeks, unless it be near the transatlantic railway.

The right kind of airplane mechanics have to be brought out from England. In some instances, after paying all expenses, Cotton has found the man unskilled for work. The hardy, dare devil type of pioneer mechanic is the type needed for winter flying in Newfoundland, and he is hard to get. Neither the insurance companies nor the government will insure Cotton's machines, so that if a machine crashes the loss falls entirely on himself.

Bridging Ice Barriers.
Cotton and his companion in flying, Capt. V. S. Bennett, son of the Newfoundland statesman of that name, have been proving the practicability and usefulness of the airplane in many interesting ways. Their idea is to force the government and people to see that not only is aviation useful to Newfoundland, but that the future development of Newfoundland depends upon aviation.

Bell Island, the iron-producing rock in Conception bay, was cut off from the mainland for days by an ice block in the bay. The ice was too thick to bear man or horse, and too thick to allow a boat to get through it. For three days the thousands of miners there had been without mails or newspapers. Cotton loaded up his machine with St. John's newspapers and in a very few minutes had dropped them

Watch, Lost Ten Years in Mountains, None Worse

Vancouver, B. C.—After ten years' exposure to the weather, a gold watch recently found by a member of a mountain climbing club has been restored to its owner, who says it is keeping perfect time.

F. W. Johnson of this city found the watch. It was on a jutting rock, at a height of 7,500 feet. From an inscription on the back he found the owner, Rev. Benjamin F. Bacon, of Yale university, who identified it as his property. The watch was given to him by an Oswego (N. Y.) church congregation in 1892. He last it ten years ago while on a trip into the mountains near Glacier, B. C.

In the public square on Bell Island and then circled around and saw the men rush for them and open and read them. This greatly impressed the authorities.

Some steamers were frozen in the ice off the coast some miles from St. John's, it being an unusually hard winter in Newfoundland. They, also, had been without newspapers or mails. Cotton repeated his stunt and dropped newspapers onto the decks of the steamers, and the passengers were able to read the afternoon papers almost as quickly as citizens of St. John's did. Delivery of newspapers has been made in many places around the shore.

An Object Lesson.
The Norwegian manager of a paper company at Alexander Bay wanted to get down to the plant from St. John's. The cross-country train was snowed in somewhere near the line. Cotton took Blakstad, the manager, to his place in an hour and three-quarters, at the same time dropping newspapers on the passengers in the marooned train. Among the train passengers was W. F. Coaker, minister of marine and fisheries, who had refused to be taken by plane to Port Union, headquarters of the Fishermen's Union of Newfoundland. He was on the "bogged" train for three days.

The machines being used by Major Cotton are a Martinsyde, with a 275 Faison Rolls-Royce engine, and a DH-9. The former is the same type used by the first men to come to Newfoundland in connection with the transatlantic flight. Both machines have a very quick take-off and land very slowly. Then there is a Westland limousine, with a 450 Napier engine, particularly useful in case of crash, as the aviators can live in the cabin in comparative comfort. Concentrated food for a month for two, snowshoes, blankets, etc., are always carried in each machine. Neither of these machines is suitable for the conditions of the country, however, and on his return to England Cotton will have some specially designed for the work, putting into them everything that he has learned while here.

REFUSE GERMAN STATES OATH
Several Public Officials of Federated States Scorn Allegiance to Republican Constitution.

Berlin.—Public officials in some of the federated German states have refused to take the oath of allegiance to the republican constitution on the ground they owed allegiance only to their own state.

The point of law evoked lively discussion, particularly in Bavaria, where respect for the present German regime is not deeply grounded. Legal suits were brought in two cases for reinstatement of the officials whose offices had been declared vacant on account of their nonconstitutional attitude.

One court ruled the oath was unconstitutional, but a higher court reversed the decision.

PREVENT BIG SHEEP LOSSES

Poisonous Plants Frequently Grow in Thick Patches and Cause Death of Animals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Death camas causes heavy losses of sheep in the spring and early summer. It is not unusual for several hundred to die within a day or two. The camas plants frequently grows in thick patches, and because of their grasslike leaves are overlooked. If sheep are close-hoed in such places many of them will be poisoned, and most of those poisoned are likely to die.

Especial care should be used when sheep are taken from the cars and released for grazing. If they have not been fed, as is frequently the case, and are turned out on a range where death camas is abundant, the resulting losses may be very heavy. There have been many cases of this kind. If death camas is present that part of the range should be avoided. If it is necessary to trail sheep where death camas is known, the animals should be well fed before coming to that place.

Sheep herders should learn to recognize the plants and avoid them. The United States Department of Agriculture has published Department Bulletin 125, Zygadenus, or Death Camas, which tells about the plants and their effects; it has also published Bulletin 375, Stock-Poisoning Plants of the Range, which gives illustrations, many colored, of the principal poisonous plants of the western United States.

There are several kinds of death camas and until recently it has been supposed that all were equally poisonous. As the result of recent experimental work, which is in course of publication, it has been found that the death camas which in the western mountains grows at elevations of 8,000 feet and upward is only slightly poisonous and probably never injures range sheep. All the forms growing at lower altitudes are dangerous, but this mountain death camas probably never does any harm. It has thin and rather erect leaves, grows in meadows and in damp ground, sometimes among the aspens, while the other kind, which approaches the lower limit of the mountain death camas, grows in dry places, and has thick, spreading leaves. The herder need not fear the mountain death camas, but should shun all the other forms.

GREAT FEED VALUE OF PEAS

Results of Four Years' Experimental Work at Idaho Station Show Big Gains Made.

That field peas have a high value as a feed for hogs is indicated by the results of four years' experimental work at the Idaho experiment station. An average of 347 pounds of peas was required to make 100 pounds of gain in hogging-off trials. Supplemental rations of barley and tankage increased the rate of gain. Most rapid and economical gains were produced in drylots on a mixture of 3 parts of rolled barley and 1 part of cracked peas plus 5 per cent by weight of tankage. In the hogging-off trials the best results were obtained by confining the pigs to a small area until it was pastured clean.

TREATMENT FOR YOUNG LAMB

When Chilled It May Be Revived by Immersing in Warm Water, Then Give Nourishment.

A young lamb that has become chilled and is presumably ready to die may be revived by immersing it in warm water—as warm as is comfortable to the hand—and gradually increasing the heat a little at a time, by adding more warm water.

When it revives sufficiently, dry it well, wrap in a woolen cloth and lay in a warm place. It will probably rouse in a short time and can then be taken to ewe. Hold her, and see that the lamb gets nourishment.

PREVENT HOGS FROM ROOTING

Much Harm Can Be Avoided by Feeding Regularly With Some Kind of Mineral.

Pigs are more apt to be "rooters" in spring, when ground is soft, than they are at any other time of the year. Much of this can be prevented by feeding regularly with coal, charcoal, ashes or other mineral matter. Ringing the hogs should be resorted to in extreme cases.

$525 IN PRIZES FOR THE BEST RHYMES

A new contest is just being started which will interest every woman and girl who reads this paper. Any woman or girl can enter this Contest—anyone can win! All one has to do is to write a 4-line rhyme on Dr. Price's Phosphate Baking Powder, using only the words which appear either on the label of the Dr. Price can (front and back) or on the printed slip which is found in each Dr. Price can.

Isn't that easy? Everyone likes to make rhymes and here is a chance to spend a fascinating hour or two writing rhymes on this popular Baking Powder and perhaps winning a substantial prize for your efforts.

For the rhyme selected as best a prize of $100 will be given; for the second, third and fourth best rhymes prizes of $75, $50 and $25, respectively will be given. And besides these prizes there will be 55 prizes of $5 each for the next 55 best rhymes. With such a long list of prizes as these, it would be a pity not to try your hand at it!

Here is a 4-line rhyme as an example:

Two teaspoons of this powder make Biscuits, muffins, pie or cake, The Price's Co., guarantee No alum in the cans to be.

As Dr. Price's Phosphate Baking Powder sells for only 25 cents a 12 oz. can at grocery stores, some rhymes could play up the remarkable economy of this pure and wholesome baking powder which contains no alum. All rhymes must be received by May 1, 1922. Only words appearing either on the label of the Dr. Price can (front and back) or on the printed slip contained inside the can may be used. These words may be used as often as desired, but no other words will be allowed. If you have a can of Dr. Price's, a copy of the label and the printed slip will be sent to you free upon request.

Any woman or girl may enter the Contest, but only one rhyme from each person will be considered. In case of ties, the full amount of the prize will be given to each tying contestant. Write plainly on only one side of a sheet of paper and be sure to give your name and address. Send your rhyme before May 1st to Price Baking Powder Factory, 190 Independence Blvd., Chicago, Ill.—Advertisement.

The AMERICAN LEGION

GUIDES BIG HOSPITAL PLAN

William Pierce, Minnesota Legion Commander, Keeps Vow Made While Caring for Wounded.

A silent vow made four years ago by a soldier at a French debarkation point will soon be realized by the erection, at Rochester, Minn., of a great memorial hospital.

William J. Pierce, now commander of the American Legion in Minnesota's first district, did not have the opportunity of risking his life in his country's defense. He was stationed at a French port, and it was his duty to meet and receive the Red Cross trains from the front, bearing the maimed bodies of American soldiers. The sufferings of those bleeding, crippled men left an indelible mark on his mind. He vowed that he would never forget them and that he would never cease to labor for their welfare.

An American Legion memorial hospital, whose doors will be perpetually open to any ex-service man from any part of the nation, is now under way, with William J. Pierce guiding the project. The $500,000 needed to erect two 100-bed wards and to establish a Mayo clinic will be raised largely by the showing of patriotic motion pictures throughout Minnesota, under the auspices of Legion posts.

IS STRONG FOR LEGION MEN

Mayor of Youngstown, O., May Call on the Ex-Soldiers to Clean Up Town.

George L. Oles, the eccentric mayor of Youngstown, O., who was elected last fall on probably the most unique platform ever presented by a successful candidate, is meeting with more success in governing his city than some predicted. Beneath his odd ideas and his sensational manner of presenting them to the public, Mayor Oles seems to possess the fundamental American ideals that make for good government.

He is making a rather thorough job of the business of cleaning up Youngstown. "If I have to I'm going to call on the American Legion to turn out and back up the police force," he said. "We'll get this cleansing job done, and done right."

Oles places a great deal of confidence in the ex-soldiers. He employs them in the departments of the city government and says that their work is satisfactory. "The boys seem to have lost that restless feeling and are, if anything, more anxious to perform their full duty than men who never served," he asserts.

PICTURES OF THE WORLD WAR

Fifty Photographers on Job, but Views of Hardest Fighting Do Not Tell the Story.

During the Civil war photography was a new art. Only one man was on the job—Brady. If Brady happened to be around when a battle was fought the battle would be photographed—otherwise not. But photography during the recent war was no such hit-and-miss proposition. How the World War was fought on negatives is told in an article in a recent number of the American Legion Weekly.

The very first ship that went over carrying General Pershing also carried a movie man. And from that time not a single important engagement went "unsnapped." When our army was at the height of its operation it had 50 photographers. And for every photographer in the field we had three men in the laboratory ready to push our negatives through.

Although the photographs extant afford a remarkable history, one of the disappointments has been that even the best of the battle pictures do not show the real danger because most of the hard fighting was done at dawn before the light was good enough. During the whole war there was never a motion picture made of hand-to-hand fighting by the American troops. The Italian army posed some pictures, but this was never allowed by American generals.

Feed the Needy Day and Night.
On day and night shifts, Legionnaires hand out one thousand "coffee and doughnuts" to jobless ex-soldiers, from St. Marks-in-the-Bowery, New York city. Cold, hungry, and forlorn, the men line up to wait their turn for the hot drink and the good old "fried-cake." Women of the Legion Auxiliary have charge of the relief work during the day.

LEADS LEGION IN MICHIGAN

Paul Martin, Newspaper Man, State Commander, Son of Former Governor of Kansas.

Another newspaper man has risen high in American Legion affairs—Paul A. Martin, commander of the Legion in Michigan and editor of a paper in Battle Creek. Newspaper men now rank next to lawyers and doctors in the ranks of those who hold posts of responsibility in the Legion.

Martin comes of fighting stock. His father, the late ex-governor John A. Martin of Kansas, commanded the Eighth Kansas regiment as colonel. In the eventful service seen by that outfit as part of the army of the Cumberland, Martin also comes naturally by his journalistic ability, the colonel having been a militant free-speech editor in the days of the slavery controversy.

Thus equipped by heredity, Martin is carrying on in his territory. He has been in the thick of battle from the start, having organized the Legion post at Battle Creek at the close of the war. In addition to being a fighter and an editor, Martin is an engineer. He served with the Three Hundred and Fourteenth engineers through the St. Mihiel and the Argonne regions, the Armistice finding him on the banks of the Meuse at Stenay, the crossing of which had been forced that night.

BONDY, GOOD LEGION 'KICKER'

New York Grievance Officer Has Settled Many Claims With Veterans' Bureau.

The divine right to kick is a prerogative of the American citizen. The U. S. soldier used to kick when he didn't like something—a trait which distinguished him from the stolid, satisfied Prussian, and which made him a good fighter.

Joseph Bondy, as grievance officer of the American Legion and war risk officer for Onondaga county, N. Y., hears thousands of kicks every year and passes them on with added zest to the proper authorities. He has settled "thousands and thousands" of claims with the veterans' bureau and proved a great friend to every doughboy with an ax to have ground.

Besides being a high kicker, Bondy is a skillful recruiter. New York has the largest Legion membership of any state in the Union—due in a measure to Bondy's intensive efforts. He has assisted in the formation of 57 posts, and has spoken upwards of 200 times in 142 different cities and towns in the state.

LEGION SEEKING LOST BOY

Widowed Mother Calls on the Organization to Aid in Finding Her Young Son.

The "lost and found" department of the American Legion usually has to work overtime. Every year the Legion has hundreds of calls to find some long-lost person, or to identify some wandering unfortunate who, through mental war disability, has forgotten who and what he is.

A new kind of appeal, from a widowed mother, has resulted in a call to every Legion state adjutant throughout the country to aid in the search for Walter H. Weyrauch, fourteen years old, who disappeared from his home in New York city last September.

The boy weighs about 125 pounds, is 5 feet 4 inches tall, and has sandy hair and blue eyes. Information as to his whereabouts should be communicated to the headquarters of the Legion at Indianapolis.

Carrying On With the American Legion

Applications for the Ohio state bonus were handled through posts of the American Legion. The posts aided needy soldiers in getting prompt payments.

Five thousand acres of land in Herkimer county, N. Y., will be reforested by the American Legion, as a living memorial to men who served in the war.

One ex-colonel is now a buck. Edmund S. Sayer, formerly lieutenant colonel with the One Hundred and Tenth field artillery, has enlisted as a private in the marine corps.

To help jobless ex-soldiers, a Legion post commander at Charleston, W. Va., took over the construction of eight apartments, the work to be done from start to finish by former service men.

MOTHER! OPEN
CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Your little one will love the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" even if constipated, bilious, irritable, feverish, or full of cold. A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sour bile, and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

COMPANION TO THE GOODYEAR ALL-WEATHER TREAD

In a factory devoted exclusively to manufacturing Goodyear Tires for small cars, the two tires illustrated above are made.

One is the famous 30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear All-Weather Tread Clincher.

By long wear, superior traction, freedom from skidding, and ultimate economy, the Goodyear All-Weather Tread has won unquestioned leadership.

As a companion to this tire there is the Goodyear 30 x 3 1/2 Cross Rib.

Built of the same high grade Egyptian fabric and with a long wearing but differently designed tread, this tire offers unusual value.

Over 5,000,000 of these tires have been sold in the last five years.

Their quality and serviceability have proved to thousands of motorists the folly of buying unknown and unguaranteed tires of lower price.

Ask your Goodyear Service Station Dealer to explain their advantages.

THE INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET

The Miami delegates, excepting those who remained for the play, left for Canyon on the 7:13 train, Thursday the 20th. We found the delegates from Higgins and Lipscomb on the train, and there was much fun in getting acquainted. There were no more to get on until we came to Panhandle and when Elvira saw a certain girl come in her spirits fell, for she was one of the Panhandle girls who had debated the year before, and had gone to Austin. We found before long, however, that she was not debating this year.

When we reached Amarillo we had to change trains for Canyon. It was somewhere around ten o'clock when the porter called "Canyon! Canyon." We were divided at the station and driven to the various sections of the town where we were to stay.

Friday morning we went to the Normal where we registered and watched the Tennis players practice. After this grew tiresome we rode over Canyon and found it to be probably two miles in length and about half a mile in width. Friday afternoon at two o'clock the preliminaries for girls debate, Junior Boys and girls' Declaration, and girls singles' in Tennis were held.

The Miami girl debaters drew Panhandle girls and were rejected in the first Preliminaries. Neither our Junior Girls nor Junior Boys reached finals in Declaration, but Flora, our Tennis player, met Balviva in first Tennis preliminaries and won. Friday night the final in Junior Declaration and Girls Debate were held. Amarillo winning in the Debate and Canyon in Declaration.

Saturday morning at eight the preliminaries for Boys Debate and Senior Declarations were held. The Miami Debaters met Perryton in the first preliminary and won. They debated against Tulla in the second and won, but in the third when they met Canyon, they lost, but not through lack of fine speeches and good delivery. Our Senior declaimers both lost. At ten o'clock the last Tennis preliminaries were held and Flora won over two more towns. In Tennis final that afternoon, she played the McLean girl and won. Our boys, who played Tennis doubles met the hardest team first and were defeated. Raymond who played singles went through all the preliminaries and into finals against Amarillo, but owing to an accident he lost to them.

Saturday night the finals in Senior Declaration and Boys' Debate were held. Clarendon won in Debate, Amarillo in Senior Girls Declaration and McLean in Senior Boys' Declaration. The cups were presented Saturday night. Miami received two. These were won by Flora Philpott, Girls singles in Tennis, and Edna Jones, best Essayist in Class B, schools.

Those who went in cars returned to Miami Saturday night, and those who went on the train arrived home Sunday afternoon.

Both schools exhibited excellent work and each have determined to work a little harder next year for a better contest. The contest next year is to be held in Miami and both Canadian and Pampa are going to compete with us.

San Jacinto Day was celebrated by the sixth graders and Miss Taylor, whether they knew why or not. The class is a small one, but that doesn't tell it all by any means. They went out to Mr. Christopher's pasture where an afternoon of fun was enjoyed. Various games were played, the kodak was cracked several times, but, there were no serious accidents of any sort. When the boxes, paper sacks, etc. were opened, and the birds began to sing, the "cats" were entirely dainty enough to set before—a hungry bunch of girls and boys. Among other things there were deviled eggs, in the hiding of which Wilbur far surpassed all the others. The only regret was that a few members of the class were somewhere else.

NOTICE

The Junior Class will give another cooked food sale, Saturday, April 29, at Jones Drug Store. Proceeds for the Annual.

Ada Coffee leaves Wednesday morning to attend the State Clothing Contest at Houston.

The Juniors are rather "stuck up" this week, because the two loving cups won for M. H. S. at Canyon were taken by members of the Junior Class. Three cheers for Flora!!!! She has a blistered hand as well as a loving cup as a result of her hard work in Girls Tennis Singles.

And Hurray! for Edna Jones who not only has a cup for Miami High School in Essay Writing, but has mastered the principles of rhetoric.

Miss Keevil says that all old maids are not so because they have to be.

A very interesting as well as a helpful program was rendered Tuesday afternoon at the Auditorium.

The Senior expression class want to thank you for the good crowd who attended their play Thursday evening.

We are very proud of Edna and Flora because they won the cups for old M. H. S. at the meet at Canyon.

Ask Fern about his Canyon girls.

What did Gladys see when she looked at Huntleigh Hall?

The Senior play books have come and they expect to do some hard practicing during the few weeks that are left.

A PARTY

Some girls went to the home of Thelma Gill, Friday night, to a slumber party. About seven o'clock we retired, but not to sleep. Two girls who slept in the "bed of six" got candy, weinies, fruit, "neevthing, and hid it for we were planning on having a feast later in the night. About ten o'clock some of the "kids" took all that was left of the lunch downstairs, and while on the way, Bessie and Gertrude saw a ghost and came back and stuck their heads under the covers. At twelve we had a feast, and then talked and had a fine time.

When all good children were asleep, C. S., L. and M. told stories. Just as C. S. had started on a ghost one, Kitty began to tell a story in her sleep. It ran like this: "Do to me to. Do to me to," and of course Dona had to say, "you ole crazy; you know I don't like you." About 3:45 Mae jumped up and said, "I see a light. I see a light. I see coming right towards me. You can't fool me. I know a light when I see a light."

Then Inez and Winifred had to start walking in their sleep. Winifred sat down on Caroline and began moaning. I Don't know where Inez was, but she was saying, "Pass the biscuits." At frequent intervals the slats would fall out of the "bed of six" and early in the morning, it fell down. Eight girls did not go to sleep all night and they were some sleepy. After thanking Mrs. Gill and Thelma, most of us went on a picnic breakfast, and of course Ina had to fall down. Then we adjourned and went home to really and truly sleep. One of 'em.

The Senior play books have come and they expect to do some hard practicing during the few weeks that are left.

A PARTY

Some girls went to the home of Thelma Gill, Friday night, to a slumber party. (?) About seven o'clock we retired, but not to sleep. Two girls who slept in the "bed of six" got candy, weinies, fruit, "nevening," and hid it for we were planning on having a feast later in the night.

About ten o'clock some of the "kids" took all that was left of the lunch downstairs, and while on the way, Bessie and Gertrude saw a ghost and came back and stuck their heads under the covers. At twelve we had a feast, and then talked and had a fine time.

When all good children were asleep, C. S., L. and M. told stories. Just as C. S. had started on a ghost one, Kitty began to tell a story in her sleep. It ran like this: "Do to me to. Do to me to," and of course Dona had to say, "you ole crazy; you know I don't like you." About 3:45 Mae jumped up and said, "L see a light. I see a light. I see coming right towards me. You can't feel me. I know a light when I see a light."

Then Inez and Winifred had to start walking in their sleep. Winifred sat down on Caroline and began moaning. I don't know where Inez was, but she was saying, "Pass the biscuits." At frequent intervals the slats would fall out of the "bed of six" and early in the morning, it fell down. Eight girls did not go to sleep all night and they were some sleepy.

After thanking Mrs. Gill and Thelma, most of us went on a picnic breakfast, and of course Ina had to fall down. Then we adjourned and went home to really and truly sleep. One of 'em.

If you are feeling all worn out, if you can't eat, sleep or work with any satisfaction, you need Tanlac. Central Drug Store.
