We had a few words to say concerning baby contests the other day, and have learned, since that time, that there are several ex-judges of Baby Contests in this city. Their experiences were slightly different from ours, but we have never found a person who has judged more than one contest. That seems to be the limit. After judging one contest they quit for life. No one could judge two contests and hope to live.

Most any kind of "Judging" gets disagreeable at times. We remember seeing a District Judge who had to sentence a young man to prison. The judge shed tears as he gave his lecture, for the young man was fine looking and apparently very intelligent. It hurt the judge a lot more than it did the young man, for the young man, for he broke jail the very next night, and hasn't been seen since.

County Judges have some very unpleasant experiences. Usually, it is at times they are trying to save a home or maybe a problem child. If they meted out justice according to the law, much damage would be done, so they have to go home some other route.

Whatever they decide to do will bring criticism. Poor judge! Usually he does what he thinks is best, under the circumstances, and all he gets out of it is a cushion.

City Judges have a headache most of the time. They do not collect heavy fines, nor sentence people to the penitentiary, but it's all the same. They get "cussed" just the same.

One Federal Judge decided against Harry the other day. The judge was right, but a lot of fair dealers have consigned him to the bottomless pits since the decision was made. Why if you called the devil a crook, he would likely deny it.

Even an umpire at a ball game takes plenty abuse, and most of it is uncalled for and unnecessary. He can and does make mistakes, but he isn't wrong every time he calls one of your friends "out." He can also tell a "ball" from a "strike" whether you know it or not. A referee knows as much about football as you do, else he would not be in the game. Occasionally we find a "cheat" and when we do, he is given the "skids" for the rest of his natural life.

Just put yourself in the shoes of someone who has to make decisions—it isn't easy and it isn't funny. Most any old "coot" can criticize, but it takes real men to build and endure. Occasionally we get up on the wrong side of the bed and find ourselves criticizing everybody and everything. When we get in this condition, we gripe like a Socialist with the hook-worm. Makes people hate us, and they are not to be blamed.

Then out of a clear sky we start giving the wife a dose, and she has a cure. She looks at us like we might be a "stripped zipper" and says "kwitcherbelly-aking" and we do.

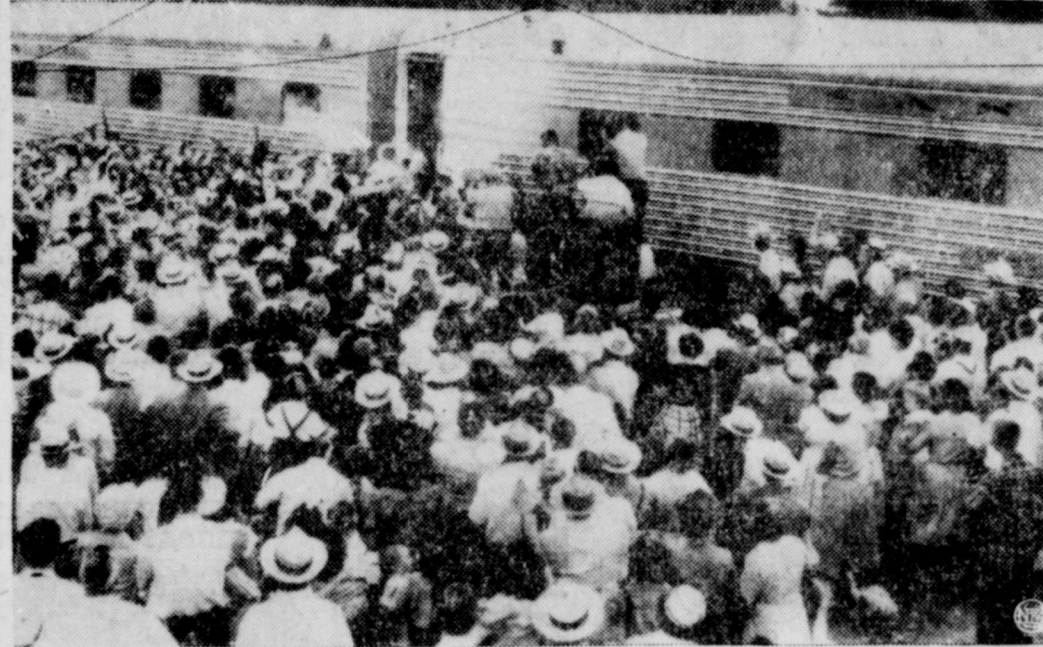

Try to find a man's good and then cultivate them. Forget about his faults, and the first thing you know you'll think he is a good fellow. He will be, too, for he will make it a point not to let you down.

Every living person has some good traits, but some people keep them hidden, and they are hard to find. Just keep looking and you will find what you want, and it will be good.

Kefauver Visits President Today

WASHINGTON, June 5, UP—Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee pays a call on President Truman at the White House today. He says he asked for the appointment to "tell the president what I've found around the country, that the people think I'm the man." Informed Democratic circles believe Kefauver will ask Mr. Truman to stick by his promise to remain neutral toward candidates bidding for the presidential nomination.

Eastland, Ranger Commissions Call Water Contract Election

The City Commission of the cities of Ranger and Eastland have given notice of election asking for approval by the voters of the two cities of water contracts applied for by the Eastland County Water Supply District.

The individual elections in the two cities would give the governing bodies the authority to make the contracts and buy water from the district when the water became available.

The election has been set for June 20. Voting at Ranger will be done in the City Hall, and Eastland voters will cast their ballots at the city hall in Eastland.

Authorization granted by the voters of Eastland and Ranger would allow the two cities to enter into the contract and make the Eastland County Water Supply District bonds saleable.

If the two contracts are approved and the bonds issued, construction could start on the proposed dam and facilities as early as September.

Eastland Ball Team Play In Cisco Tonight

Eastland's baseball team, originally known as the Orphans, has been given a more dignified name. In the future they will be the Eastland Yellowjackets.

Tonight they go to Cisco where they will play the Breckenridge nine. The game will be called at 8 o'clock at the Legion ball field.

The boys have shown some strength, and are being recognized in a more or less substantial manner. Next week they will have a game with Stephenville, it is thought, and a Lubbock team is trying to arrange a game for the night of the 27th. We'll tell you more about this later.

But tonight the boys will need you. If you can lose an hour or so and have a quarter, make it a point to go to the Cisco game.

General Grow to Be Given Court Martial by Army

The Army says that Major-General Robert Grow will be tried by a court martial on charges that his diary was stolen by a Soviet agent while he was on duty in the American Embassy in Moscow.

Grow was formerly the military attaché at the embassy. No date for the court martial was given, but the Army says it will be convened in closed sessions at Fort Meade, Maryland. Grow's diary allegedly was stolen while Grow was in Frankfurt, Germany, last summer. Photographic excerpts from the diary were used in the Communist press as "proof" that the United States advocates preventive war against the Soviets.

Movie Producer Scrubbing Los Angeles Jail Floors

LOS ANGELES, June 5 (UP)—A movie producer who once barked commands and directions took orders this morning from a jailer.

Corpus Christi Mayor Indicted, Taking Payoffs

A Corpus Christi grand jury has returned wholesale indictments against the mayor and seven other men on charges of offering and accepting bribes.

A 195th District Court Grand Jury returned the sensational indictments shortly before noon Wednesday. Besides mayor Leslie Wasserman, the jury indicted Houston oil man A. W. Gregg and six prominent Corpus Christi men, Sam Sussler, B. T. Parr, Buford Nicholson, L. K. Mason and Morris Liedeker.

The mayor is accused of accepting bribes amounting to as much as $13,000. The others have been implicated on charges of offering the bribes, ranging all the way from permitting gambling in the town to obtaining oil leases.

Gregg has been indicted on two counts of bribery, the others on one.

Wasserman is in the cotton business in Corpus Christi in addition to his duties as mayor. The payoffs are alleged to have been going on for more than two years.

Another Atomic Test Exploded At Las Vegas

Atomic scientists have exploded a nuclear device on the Nevada Proving Grounds near Las Vegas. The device was set off at a 300-foot steel tower and the flash was reported seen near the Canadian border.

The explosion gave off only a short flash that appeared to local observers much smaller than a test on Sunday which was seen 450 miles away. However, the glare of the exploding atom was reported seen in Kallispell, Mont., about 735 miles northeast of Las Vegas. It was not seen at a vantage point in Arizona 350 miles from the test site where all previous blasts were observed.

Atmospheric conditions may account for this. The blast was the 20th in Nevada, and observers believe it may be the last in the current series.

Truman Denies He Is Seeking Office Again

WASHINGTON, June 5 UP—President Truman has vehemently denied charges that he secretly plotting to capture the Democratic presidential nomination for himself.

Mr. Truman told his news conference that charges he wants to run again for president are the product of warped minds.

The president was asked about Eisenhower's statement yesterday that one party has been in power too long. Mr. Truman said that's up to the people to decide.

Union And Steel Men Meet At White House

Chicago to be Last Meeting for Ike And Taft; July

The next round is the final one for Taft and Eisenhower. They have faced each other in their last primary, in South Dakota. Next, it's the convention in Chicago on July 17th.

It was Taft, by a handful of votes in South Dakota. The senator nosed out Eisenhower in a photo-finish for the state's 14 delegates. However, the Eisenhower forces refuse to concede, and a recount is likely.

Counting 14 South Dakota votes for Taft, the race now stands: Taft 431 pledged national convention delegates — Eisenhower 397 pledged delegates.

It takes 604 convention votes to win the nomination.

Governor Earl Warren of California has 76 votes, and Harold Stassen has 25 votes.

Sixty-one delegates, from Southwestern states, are contested. And the G-O-P National Committee will have to decide whether they'll go to Taft or to Eisenhower.

Twenty-eight delegates are committed to other candidates including four votes for General MacArthur.

A factor giving Eisenhower possible strength, even though he's 35 votes behind Taft, is that both Warren and Stassen delegates say they'll vote for Eisenhower on later ballots at the convention.

Fifty-five convention delegates still remain to be chosen. And 133 presently are uncommitted to any candidate. It appears that these delegates may hold the balance of power in picking a G-O-P presidential candidate.

No New Offers From Either Side Evident

Steel companies and the steelworkers union have taken their troubles to the White House this morning.

The top-level meeting began this morning in the office of presidential assistant John Steelman. He'll try to get both sides in the steel strike to settle their six-month-old battle over wage and price increases.

It's reported that the government has nothing new to propose. But it's believed the offer of a four-and-one-half-dollar a ton price boost on steel is still on the table, along with the government recommendation of a 26cent hourly pay increase.

C-I-C Chief Phillip Murray has stated he will hold out for that 26-cent hourly increase.

President Truman told reporters at his news conference he isn't planning to ask congress for additional legislative authority to deal with strikes in vital industries. However, it's believed that the Senate may act late today or tomorrow on pending legislation to cope with the steel mills is affecting more and more the railroad and mining industries. One shipping in the great lakes is stopping.

Another C-I-O union, made up of 71,000 electrical workers, has called for "demonstrations" by its members at 53 General Electric plants. The union is protesting against what it calls a "chiseling" wage offer by the company.

Also elected, but for three year terms, were seven members of the State Bar board of directors, each representing the lawyers of one of the state's congressional districts. These included C. M. Kennedy, Texarkana (1st Congressional District); John P. Blair, Beaumont (2nd District); Earl Roberts, Longview (3rd District); Floyd Enlow, Angleton (9th District); Albert M. Walker, San Marcos (10th District); Virgil T. Seaberry, Eastland (17th District); and W. F. Nowlin, San Antonio (20th District).

Ike Has No Way To End Korean War He States

ABILENE, Kansas, June 5, UP—General Dwight D. Eisenhower told a press conference today he has no prescription for bringing the Korean War to a successful end. But he said that the ideological situation there makes retreat from present United Nations lines impractical.

"I do not believe our forces (in Korea) can carry through," Eisenhower said when asked how the Korean War could be ended successfully.

The question was the first tossed to the retired general at his first political news conference since shedding his Army uniform to plunge into the Republican presidential campaign.

Eisenhower said he is not familiar with the "local tactical problem in Korea," although he has discussed the situation there with Gen. Matthew Ridgway, who left the Far West to succeed him at North Atlantic Headquarters in Paris.

"I have no prescription to bring it to a decisive end," Eisenhower said.

Little Hems Of Local Interest

J. T. (Tom) Poe who ranches five miles Southeast of Carbon was in town Wednesday. Conditions in his section of the county are pretty fair, but more rain could be used, he says.

Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Brown accompanied their son, Parker and Mrs. Brown of Deger, on a vacation trip this week to Corpus Christi and other points in South Texas.

KOJE ISLAND, June 5 (UP)—American troops led by Brig. Gen. Hadyon Boatner entered a prisoner compound on Koje Island during the day and split it in two with barbed wire as 3000 Red prisoners jeered.

The new operation was the opening move in Boatner's plan to cut the Koje prisoners up into smaller groups.

Wind Damage Preventable

Ninety per cent of the damage to buildings caused by wind is preventable, reports Capper's Farmer.

Studies by insurance companies show that only a small portion of total wind damage results from storms such as tornadoes, says the nationally-circulated farm magazine.

The large part of wind damage is due to poor construction, lack of maintenance or carelessness.

Poor building construction causes the biggest single losses insurance companies sustain. One important item is the need for sufficient and well-designed interior bracing. Since a dwelling is divided into rooms it offers considerable more space for interior bracing. This explains why farm dwellings are only one third as subject to damage by wind as farm utility buildings.

The walls of a barn are called upon to keep out the weather; hold up the roof; support additional floor; resist interior and exterior pressure. A vertical wall without interior bracing will do all of these except resist pressure. But there is more than a ton of weight just from the air alone on every square foot of a barn. This weight neutralizes itself when the air is still. However, it throws all kinds of strain on the barn when the air is in motion.

Foundations should extend below the frost line and go all the way around buildings. Anchor bolts should not be more than 8 feet apart and should be well embedded in the concrete and securely fastened to the structure above. Portable buildings should be securely anchored with wire fastened to firmly embedded posts. Shingles should have a solid foundation and be fastened down so securely the wind can't get underneath to rip them off.

Altho carelessness accounts for the majority of smaller losses, caused by falling dead trees or limbs, broken storm windows and doors, poor maintenance of buildings account for most of the medium-sized losses. Without minimum care, nothing will deteriorate faster than a farm building. Usually it isn't the loss of the older building that causes the grief, it is the damage they inflict on newer buildings when they take off in the breeze.

Rudy Valentino's Horse Saved For Posterity

DAVIS, Calif. (UP)—Rudolph Valentino's gray Arabian stallion, Jadaan, is now a prized skelton.

The skelton of Jadaan, one of the most photographed Arabian stallions in history, was preserved through the efforts of C. E. Howell, professor of animal husbandry at the University of California college of agriculture here. Jadaan carried the matinee idol to fame in such motion pictures as "The Son of the Sheik," "Beau Ideal" and "Garden of Allah." When old age claimed the stallion six years ago, Prof. Howell made the necessary arrangements for the future mountings of the skelton. It now has been completed.

Jadaan, an outstanding parade horse, was ridden by the grand marshal of the 1931 Rose Tournament parade at Pasadena. He also was ridden by old-time movie cowboy Ken Maynard, impersonating Buffalo Bill, in the 1930 Rose Tournament Parade.

Aged Persons Needing Care Officer Says

In the past, medicine and public health have concerned themselves largely with the health and disease problems of youth and middle age said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. We have neglected our aged population and have waited upon the devastations of time before extending aid to the centage of older people. In 1950 in the United States, it is estimated that there are 11,000,000 persons over sixty-five years of age.

as compared to 3,000,000 in 1900. In absolute numbers, aged persons among us have almost quadrupled in the last fifty years, whereas the proportion of elderly persons to the remainder of the population has merely doubled.

Dr. Cox stated that preventive medicine, private medical care, and social service have assisted in extending the life span. As encouraging as this fact may be, there is an accompanying tribulation: the aged are subject to the chronic diseases which, because of destroyed tissue structure, are especially weakened. Heart disease, cancer, diabetes, and other long-term illnesses resist the physician's most skillful attack and are notably disabling and lethal.

To insure health and peace of mind to our old people, preventive and curative medicine and social service can contribute techniques of prevention and care. These techniques should properly include the early discovery of beginning disease processes through periodic examinations that begin in early life and continue for one's remaining years. By such means many cases of chronic disease, with all their agony and sure fatality, might either be prevented or, through the substitution of different living regimens, be rendered tolerable.

He defied Hitler between wars, and was thrown into prison. But from his prison cell, he wrote Hitler, offering to command a U-boat for him. When American troops rescued him in 1945, he shocked those who had regarded him as a symbol of resistance by saying he'd never opposed Hitler on political grounds but only because of his treatment of the church. In recent days, little has been heard of Pastor Niemoller.

Niemoller now is serving as president of the Hessian Protestant Church in Germany. He recently came out against the western Germany.

Americans Still Like Rural Life Statisticians Say

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Americans are still predominately a small town and rural people despite the rapid growth in city population, statisticians have pointed out from a study of population trends as shown by the 1950 Census.

Three fifths of the American people live in places with fewer than 25,000 residents, the statisticians said. Less than one quarter of the people live in cities with populations as large as 250,000. In fact, 25 states have no cities as large as 250,000, and 13 have no cities above 100,000.

In general, the South has the largest population of people living in small towns and rural areas, while the Northeast has the lowest percent in such places.

In only two states—Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, and California—do the majority of people live in cities larger than 20,000. On the other hand, in states such as Mississippi, South Carolina, and North Dakota, the percentage of rural population runs as high as 70 percent. New York is the most urbanized state, with 59 percent of its residents in cities of 250,000 or over.

The movement of the population into cities has been steadily growing over the last 50 years, the statisticians pointed out. In 1900, three fourths of the population lived in places under 25,000, and well over half the population lived in rural areas. At that time, 37 states did not have a single city with as many as 250,000 residents, and 11 states had no cities larger than 25,000.

"The preference of many families for life in small towns and the countryside is also evidenced by the rapid expansion of suburban areas," the statisticians added.

"In the past decade, the communities clustering around the rested, but the accomplice escaped. The suspect was identified as Wilber Moore, a laundry worker. The agents said they met Moore on a downtown street corner. They tried to buy "tea" or dope. Moore and his accomplice tried to find some marijuana they had buried in a vacant lot. Failing that, they told the two officers to drive to another part of town to pick up some of the narcotic.

The suspects became suspicious in the car, pulled knives and tried to slash the officers. Then they dropped their knives and ran. Moore was later arrested at his home.

When you pick a Tractor... be sure you can always get parts

Any tractor is a big investment. You have every right to expect years of profitable performance from such an investment. In this connection one of the first things to think about is—"Will I always be able to get parts?"

The Ford Motor Company manufactures the Ford Tractor. What greater assurance could you have of being able to get parts—anytime, anywhere.

Not only is this important to you as long as you have the tractor, but it is also something the buyer thinks about seriously when you go to sell or trade in your used Ford Tractor. This is only one of the many reasons why a used Ford Tractor commands a high resale price.

GM Builds New 'Two-Way' Plant in Texas

Construction work has begun on the new General Motors "dual purpose" plant (above) at Arlington, Texas, where GM's Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac Assembly Division will build a Grumman-designed airplane for the United States Navy and assemble passenger cars simultaneously. The flexible layout of the plant will permit combined aircraft-automotive operations or it can be converted in a matter of days to either total aircraft or total automotive production, depending upon military requirements. The "dual purpose" plant idea was first proposed a year ago by C. E. Wilson, GM president, as a means of maintaining strong military and civilian production levels without disruption of plant facilities or working forces. Most of the Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac cars produced in the Arlington plant will be for distribution in Texas.

Uncle Sam Has No Set Birthday; Origin Of U. S. Symbol A Mystery

WASHINGTON (UP)—Uncle Sam is a man without a birthday. He has been around for nearly 140 years but historians admit the exact date of his initial appearance is still a mystery. Just about everything else of the tall, bewhiskered gentleman's history is now on display at the Library of Congress. Included in the exhibit are five prize-winning from Wilson to the government when the workers, noting the letters U. S. marked on the supplies began referring to the goods as "Uncle Sam's beef" and "Uncle Sam's flour." They had Wilson in mind and not the government for which the letters stood. Use of the term spread until it came to personify not only the government but the people and nation as well.

Sam was not always bedecked in his now familiar attire of stars and stripes, nor has he always sported whiskers. In most of the early representations he was pictured as clean-shaven and wearing a top hat and tails (colonial style). Sometimes he appeared in the guise of a well-to-do southern planter.

The red-striped pants and the star-spangled vest became the indispensable part of his wardrobe during Andrew Jackson's administration. He and Abraham Lincoln grew beards about the same time.

Actually, a character known as Brother Jonathan preceded Uncle Sam as symbol of America. The name, probably signifying him as the younger brother of John Bull, was more appropriate in colonial times.

Another emblem of the United States, the eagle, had a more specific beginning, though a less auspicious one.

That bird's first official appearance was on the seal of the United States, right where the founding fathers placed it. It got there only after some vehement opposition by Benjamin Franklin.

He did not go for the story which said the eagle was a symbol of strength. Instead Franklin called it a bird of "bad moral character" that does not "get its living honestly" and is "a rank coward."

Alias Basil Willing

THE STORY: Dr. Basil Willing, a psychiatrist, has trailed an impostor who has been using his name to the home of another psychiatrist, Dr. Zimmer. Basil arrives first and apparently is expected, although Basil does not know the host. He chats with a blind woman, Miss Katherine Shaw, who adds mystery by urging him to leave her. Only one guest, Mrs. Rosamund York, knows Basil and they are talking when the impostor appears. Rosamund seems to enjoy the situation and is present when Basil asks the impostor to explain. The man asks Basil for a chance to explain privately before being branded publicly as a faker.

Willing is leaving with me." "So?" Zimmer looked at the little man obliquely. But the little man held his ground. "I'm sorry. Something of crucial importance has come up. I have to go with—this old friend of mine." Zimmer controlled his irritation. "In that case there is nothing more to be said. Then I wish you both a very good evening." Basil and the little man went into the hall. Otto followed to help them into their coats. He didn't speak but his eyes were watchful.

took a hasty gulp and leaned across the table. "Do you know the first thing that upset me?" "Tell me." Basil was used to dealing with untidy minds. "No birds." The little man spoke slowly now. "That was the thing that—frightened me. And I was frightened. I might as well admit it. I don't scare easily, but—Dr. Willing, you never heard a bird sing there, day or night." His eyelids drooped. "Some black coffee?" suggested Basil.

DR. ZIMMER was coming toward Basil. "May I have a word with you?" said he quietly. "Please excuse us, Rosamund."

"I suppose I must." Rosamund looked at Basil. "I hope I shall see you again. I'm generally at home the last Tuesday of each month around 4 o'clock, and do bring your wife." The wonderful black velvet glistened with golden sparks as she moved away.

Zimmer looked gravely at Basil. "I've been waiting for a chance to speak to you without making a scene. Since you are not Dr. Willing, who are you? And why are you in my house?"

The little man's eyes were fixed on Basil, pleading desperately. "It would take rather too long to go into all the details," said Basil.

"What is your name and why are you here? I must know at once!" Zimmer's peremptory tone tilted the scales in the little man's favor.

Basil turned to the little man. "He is someone who will tell you that I am not a crook—your friend, Dr. Willing. All I wish is to apologize and get out."

"And if I call the police?" "That's up to you. But you can hardly do so without making a scene," went on Basil blandly, "Dr.

ACROSS the avenue, the lights of a French restaurant shimmered through the mist like the portholes of a ship in fog. "There's a quiet place where we can talk," said Basil.

"Suits me!" The little man seemed in high spirits now. There was no one in the alcove facing the bary tables there and the little man asked for a martini.

"My third," he added ruefully. "I had two at Zimmer's."

When the waiter had gone, Basil lit a cigaret. "Isn't it time you started explaining?"

"The little man giggled foolishly. "There was nothing I did when I called myself Basil Willing that you need be ashamed of."

"That's comforting!" Basil laughed. "But why call yourself Basil Willing at all?"

"I hardly know where to begin." The little man frowned. "I couldn't use my own name. That was impossible. It wasn't what she said that worried me."

"She?" probed Basil. "It's hard to say how I felt when she first talked to me. The little man's speech had thickened. Were two martinis really his limit? "I wasn't so very worried. That came afterward." He broke off as the waiter brought cocktails. He was both events in the South Texas AUU meet. He will have plenty of opposition in both events, however, in the big national meet.

Burl McCoy of Merkel will present ACC in the 400-meter hurdles, as well as running No. 2 lap on the mile relay team. Buddy Garner will also be entered in the 400-meter dash along with Adrian. Buddy is lead-off man on the Wildcat's mile relay team. Les Vanover of Beaumont, high jumper who ranges from 6-3 to 6-6, will be entered against East Texas State's Chuck Holding, who is the heavy favorite in the high jump.

ACC Coach Jackson is directing the first annual track meet sponsored by the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball.

ACC Enters Six Men in College National Meet

ABILENE, June 5, (Sp.)—Abilene Christian has entered a six-man track and field team in the National Intercollegiate meet here Friday and Saturday—a team which will vie seriously for the championship team trophy.

George Adrian, who won the 400-meter event in 48 flat in San Antonio Saturday night in the Sixth Texas AAU event, looms as ACC's most likely winner. The Hollywood, Calif., freshman will also anchor the Wildcat's mile relay team, winner of 10 of 11 races this season.

Co-capt. Sam Volpe of Akron, Ohio, ranks as a threat in the 800-meter run. Volpe also won in San Antonio with a fine 1:53.8. He runs the No. 3 lap on the mile relay team.

Paul Faulkner of Fort Worth gives the Wildcats strength in the pole vault and javelin throw. He

Patentable Ideas Protected By Simple Precautions

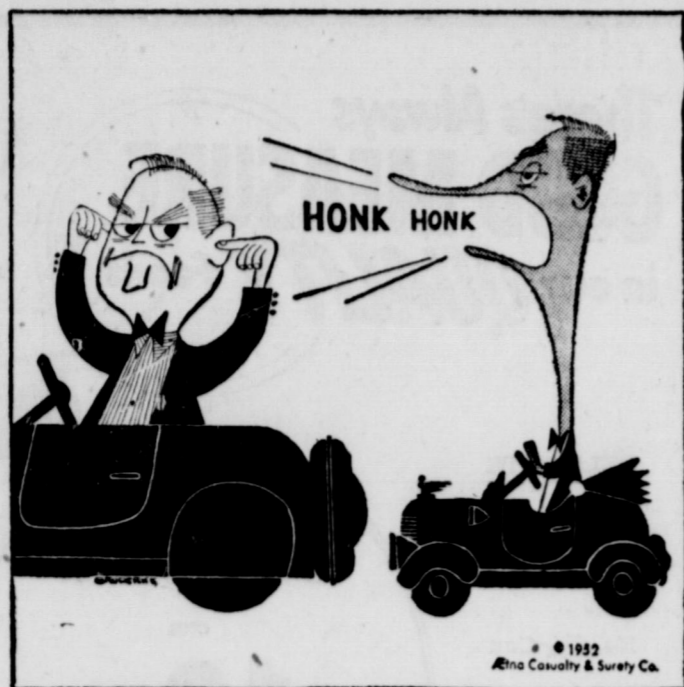

Many people have good ideas about new or improved machines or gadgets, but never do anything about them because they don't know how to protect their rights.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headache, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up higher or frequent passages.

Doan's relieve your kidneys if these conditions bar you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 10 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

WHO'S ZOO—ON THE HIGHWAY

DON'T BE A GOOSE. Honking won't make a stalled car start any faster. Use your horn only in emergencies.

while perfecting such items and going through the necessary patenting procedure. Here's what you can do to protect your invention before you have it patented.

Under the patent laws of the United States the person who first conceives of a new and novel patentable idea is entitled to it. Therefore, if conflicting claims arrive as to who is entitled to a patent, it is necessary to establish who first had the idea, not who filed the first application for patent.

Of course, it is always advisable to make application for patent as soon as possible in such cases. But don't forget to protect yourself while you are completing your final drawings and ultimate plans and making such tests as may be needed to perfect your patent. To do this, you should, as soon as you conceive the idea, make a written record of the facts, dating the same, including a general statement of the nature of your invention, and a rough drawing if possible. This should be witnessed by two persons who could be called on later on to certify that they witnessed the same on the dates set out in the instrument you have drawn.

Some inventors place such witnessed statements and drawings in an envelope. This they seal and mail to themselves by Registered Mail. Their post office stamps each seam of the envelope in such a way that any opening of same can be detected. Upon receiving the registered envelope and its contents, the inventor merely files it away in a safe place unopened. Then, if a contest should later develop, postal records will lend additional support to the testimony of his witnesses.

By taking the above precautions you will establish a preliminary date showing the time when your original idea was conceived. After that you can continue with your work, perfect your idea, and after the same is perfected, make application for a patent, if you feel that you have a patentable idea.

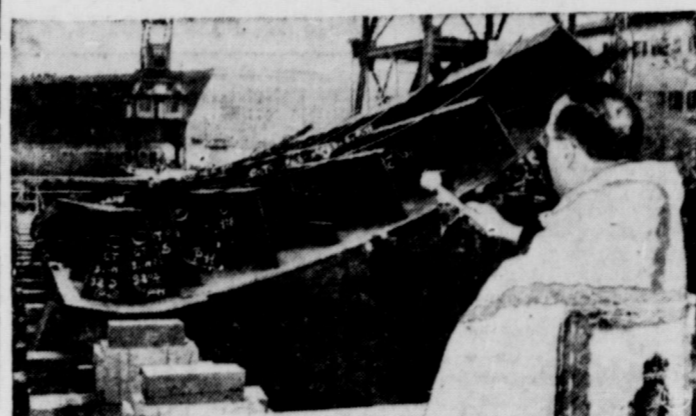

One should not just make a preliminary sketch and put it away and think that is sufficient to protect his rights. That is just one additional bit of evidence to help him establish his right to the patent. The patent should be sought as soon as one possibly can after conceiving his patentable idea and working out details of the same.

Pioneer Banker, Civic Leader Builds Home for Orphan Girls

"Uncle Harry" as Mr. Meredith is affectionately known to his boys and girls in Waco, is a pioneer in Texas banking history, having opened his Mineola State Bank in 1906. In 1935 he retired from active banking business and became Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank which position he continues to hold. Besides their active interest in civic and church affairs, the Merediths are enthusiastic and active members of the well known Little Sandy Fishing and Hunting Club. Three years ago they donated $95,000 for construction of the Meredith Home for Boys on the Methodist Home Campus in Waco, and commissioned Dmitri Vail to paint the portrait of Mr. Meredith which now hangs in the living room. Cost of the newly completed "Daisy Meredith" cottage is running close to $120,000. Mr. Meredith wanted a Texas artist to paint the two portraits and selected the nationally known portrait painter Dmitri Vail, of Dallas, Texas. He says he had the portraits painted to hang in the cottage so that in twenty-five or fifty years from now the children might say: Those are the folks who gave us our home.
