WHITNEY BUTLERS MOVE INTO NEW HOME

MOVING IN—Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Butler have moved into their new home at 611 S. Green street. It will be remembered that a "Fund" drive by the Daily Telegram, had much to do with making this possible. But more than anything else was the splendid reception given this drive by the good people of Eastland and their friends. Elsewhere, it's theirs now and the Butlers are no more gracious than all those individuals who made it possible. Just a love of giving aimed in the right direction. It guarantees security from now on.

"Turkey Barbecue" Great Success, To Be Annual Affair Leader Says Enjoys Program Following Banquet

More than 200 people attended the Central West Texas Turkey Growers Association "Barbecued Turkey Banquet" at Eastland City Park Friday night. About half of the group were guests, but to a man or woman they were directly or indirectly interested in the growing of turkeys.

Dr. Ben H. Bradley of Rising Star, president of the organization, served as toastmaster and did a splendid job. Miss Buena Van Winkle is secretary.

The "Turkey Feed" and short program which followed, were well received, and many people admitted that it was their first time to sample barbecued turkey, which was excellent. The "trimmins" did not include dressing, but just about everything else — including ice cream.

Officers of the association say this is to be an annual affair, and next year they hope to see about 500 faces when they gather.

The association is only 8 months old, and started with 12 members, though it has been growing by leaps and bounds, and many new members were signed up following the program last evening. At this time members of the association are finishing up approximately half a million turkeys.

Feed Mills, Packers, and others were on hand to pledge financial aid for those who need it. Sears Roebuck Co. had a representative present, who outlined a building program which may be financed by his company. Swift and Co., and Wilson Co., packers, are working with members, and W. E. Tyler, Rising Star banker, said his bank would care for people at home.

Mr. Tyler delivered the main address, and while it was in the lighter tone, it proved to be the keynote address. Ike Comer of Hamilton, made a good talk. He knows the turkey business all the way and his remarks were educational.

The association is now composed of Turkey Growers in nine Central Texas counties. They are, Eastland, Hamilton, Comanche, Erath, Brown, Stephens, Callahan, Palo Pinto and Shackelford.

A vote of thanks was voted J. M. Cooper, for his good work in bringing about the organization and "nursing it along" until the time it was self-supporting. The largest drove of turkeys within the confines of the association will be found near Desdemona, where one man is maturing almost 20,000 birds. Quite a few are running from 5,000 to 10,000 turkeys, and though feed has been high they are enthusiastic and are looking for some big checks.

In 1951 Americans consumed almost 5 1/2 pounds of turkey per person, and this year through the "eat more turkey" campaign they hope to raise this to 6 1/2 pounds.

Little Items Of Local Interest

The Turkey Growers Association will sponsor a Turkey Barbecue at the Eastland City park to night, and a large attendance is expected. Tickets have been on sale for several days.

A war veterans group are interested in Extension Courses and asked to meet Dean Colby of Hardin-Simmons University Monday night, in Cisco. The meeting will be held in the auditorium of Cisco Junior College at 7 p.m.

Beta Sigma Phi's Annual Stylorama To Have Exceptional Interest: Curtain Time 7:30 p.m. Sept. 25

The Beta Sigma Phi Sororities sponsor the annual Stylorama to be held Sept. 25, Thursday, 7:30 p.m. at the high school auditorium, with fashions exhibited from the Men's Shop, D. L. Houle and Altman's.

This will be an excellent opportunity for the public to hear an exceptional vocal artist, Mr. Breece Westmorland, who has recently returned from Hollywood and San Francisco, where he sang with the San Francisco opera. Mr. Westmorland is a student of John Charles Thomas, Metropolitan Opera and will be remembered in Eastland as a World War II soldier who sang numerous times in Eastland and married our home town girl, Connie Canaris, Mrs. Johnson, sponsor, said.

Mrs. Donald Kinnaird, artist pianist, will be heard throughout the fashion show and will be Mr. Westmorland's accompanist.

The sororities plan for their guests, with the help of Mrs. G. L. Wingate, the evening's refreshments, which will be served immediately following the concert. The tickets will be priced at 50c,

MYF Meeting In Rising Star Mon. Evening

Youth from the forty Methodist Churches of the Cisco District will meet Monday evening, 7:30, at the First Methodist Church of Rising Star. The forthcoming edition of the revised standard version of the Bible will be the central theme of the district MYF meeting.

A large delegation from Eastland will attend. The local youth will meet at the First Methodist Church at 6:30 prior to going to Rising Star.

IT IS REPORTED

That Carbon has a real oil well. It is on the Hall tract one and one-half miles south of town.

That "barbecued turkey" in one of the most delicious foods to be found in America, and that Eastland county turkey growers are helping supply the demand.

That the oil test in the northern end of town is looking "good" at this time.

That Rev. Alfred Nelson is one of the most accurate stencil cutters in these parts.

That Virgil Love looks ten years younger since he got out of "polites", though his efficiency is just the same.

That Siebert Worley is making a pop-corn survey, and may release some interesting figures at an early date.

That we may make a few peanuts this year, despite the growing drouth. We saw them growing in the Carbon area.

That work will begin on the big dam at an early date and that the new lake will mean more to Eastland than a dozen oil wells.

Announcements Of Nazarenes

Services at the Church of the Nazarene for the coming week are as follows:

Sunday School at 10:00 a.m., morning worship at 11.

The N.Y.P.S. will meet at 6:45 p.m. with an evangelistic service at 7:30.

The pastor's subject for the morning service will be "Sanctification" and in the evening "The Potter and the Clay."

Prayer meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

You are invited to attend these services.

Baptist Revival To Close Sunday

Increased interest and crowds continue to mark the revival spirit of the First Baptist Church. The "Three-day" services will be completed with the Saturday services, and the revival services will cease with the regular service times on Sunday.

The 7:00 a.m. service has averaged about 60 and the 10:30 service has averaged about 55. The evening crowds have continued to grow from the very beginning.

The Sunday School has averaged 180 each evening with about 165 visits reported daily. There have been ten rededications and one surrender for special service. Everyone is invited to attend the Sunday School and Training Union and the two worship services Sunday. The pastor's topic for Sunday morning will be "His Name Shall be Called Wonderful", and for Sunday evening, "The Must of Regeneration." Mr. Mulkey will sing specials in both services.

No. 1 Hall, Near Carbon, Comes In A Good Producer

Woods No. 1 Hall, located about one and one-half miles south of Carbon is a well, and the rotary equipment is being moved at this time to a new location some three miles southeast of the Hall No. 1.

The well is 3589 feet deep and was completed with rotary equipment. The well has not been given a thorough test, and there is no storage on the site. However, those in charge and oil men in the "know" admit that it is a good well and will make more than the allowable, which in this instance is about 100 barrels.

A drill stem test was made and there is plenty high grade oil and sufficient gas to make the well flow. In fact the well has something more than 1000 pounds closed pressure.

It is strictly wildcat area, and proves considerable territory.

Storage is being arranged for at this time, and the well will be given a complete test at an early date. While there is some lease activity in the area, very little trading is being noticed. Those holding royalty leases seem to be willing to hold what they have.

Right now it appears that the well will be good for from 100 to 125 barrels of oil, and possible a little more.

While no definite announcements have been made, it is likely that three or four additional wells will be sunk in the near future.

Scout Leaders Return Home

George and Dick Harris have just returned from a three month stay at the Philmont Scout Ranch located in the rough mountainous country near Cimarron, N. M. George, as a Lucien B. Maxwell Trek guide, lead six groups of boys from Ohio, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas on ten-day hikes, trapping for bobcats, coyotes, mountain lion, and golden eagles.

Dick was the camp director of the Abreu Base Camp in the southern end of the ranch. An estimated four thousand boys and men camped and fished at Abreu during the summer. This year some ten thousand scouts and scouters were scheduled to camp at the national scout ranch which is the largest boys camp in the nation and perhaps in the world.

Mavericks Lose First Game To Cisco Lobos

Class AA Cisco crossed the double stripe in every quarter last night to place a 26-6 brand on the Class A Eastland Mavericks.

In the first game of the season for both teams, the Lobos got off to a running start when they scored the first time they got the ball with Bobby Black scampering across from the 16 yard line.

Bob Lloyd running from a half-back position scored in the second quarter when he powered through the green Maverick line for the second tally from the one yard line.

An Eastland fumble late in the 3rd quarter went astray and Lobo Bill Smith gathered it in for the third Cisco touchdown.

Bobby Black iced it away for Cisco in the fourth canto when he scampered across for the fourth touchdown for the Lobos.

The Class A Mavericks accounted for their lone touchdown midway in the fourth quarter when Jamie Jessop steamed across from the six yard line. Eastland's attempt to convert was blocked.

Next week the Mavericks meet Coleman in Coleman.

Mulkeys Given 'Pounding' By Baptist Group

The First Baptist Church members surprised the Hoyt Mulkeys with an "oil-time pounding" following the revival services Friday evening.

The members had brought food, clothing and money and after the service Mr. and Mrs. Mulkey were directed to the Fellowship room for a short "fellowship period." Approximately 150 people stayed for the period of fun and fellowship.

Mr. Mulkey is the music and youth director of the First Baptist Church, elected while here in the Youth Revival and will direct the Youth work of the church, and has formulated plans for the organization of choirs composed of all ages. The Junior choir and youth choir will be started soon. The others will be started as soon as they can be placed on the schedule.

Mrs. Mulkey and the two children, Delaney and Dannie, spent the summer in Phoenix, Ariz., with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Mulkey are attending the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, and will spend each week-end here.

WATER DISTRICT TAX ROLLS SET UP; HEARING DATES SET

As you know the Eastland County Water Supply District has set up tax rolls through appointment of a tax assessor-collector and an assistant and the appointment of a board of equalization to validate property in the district.

K. B. Tanner of Eastland and H. C. Wilkerson of Ranger are the assessor and assistant, respectively. Garvin Chastain and Joe Harness of Ranger, and H. L. King of Eastland are the members of the board of equalization that have set up the Water District tax rolls.

Notices of valuation placed on property and the amount of the taxes have been mailed to taxpayers in Eastland. A hearing will be held by the equalization board at the County Courthouse on Sept. 23.

There has been some discussion of the tax roll set up by the district. Main point of interest was whether the $10,000,000 valuation placed on property in Eastland and Ranger would effect taxes levied by the county, city or school.

There is no reason that it should. The district is an independent political sub-division not connected with any of the three heretofore mentioned bodies.

Outstanding bonds against the property in the two cities made a $10 million tax roll mandatory before more bonds could be sold. The bond buyers demand a ratio of 2.5 to 1. It became necessary therefore that the tax roll of the district must be at least this large with the tax only high enough to tide the district over until water can be sold. The tax rate will be twenty-five cents per hundred, or $2.50 per thousand.

A like hearing will be held in Ranger on Sept. 30, after notices are mailed out to Ranger taxpayers, where the owners wish to discuss the rendition with the board of equalization of the district may do so.

Here is a letter that accompanies each notice to a taxpayer: To the Property Owners of the Eastland County Water Supply District

The Board of Directors of your District wish to express appreciation for your patience and cooperation in our efforts to being an adequate supply of water to the cities of Eastland and Ranger. At the same time we wish to report that the Engineers for the District are now completing the detailed plans for the construction of the dam and filtration plant. We are all anxious to see the work progress as rapidly as possible.

The $1,500,000.00 Water District Bonds which you voted have been sold and the financing of the work is assured, based on certain definite requirements. The principal requirement is that we have a certified assessed valuation of property in the District well within the actual market value but not less than $10,000,000 and a tax rate for 1952 of 25

Lawmakers Have Idea Neglect Is Party At Blame

By Herbert Foster

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (UP)—Senate investigators Saturday looked into the possibility that Air Force negligence led to the jamming of a critical part of the nation's B-36 bomber fleet by a Texas tornado last week.

An official of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee said the group is looking into the disaster to determine "whether proper precautions were taken and whether the losses were unavoidable."

The Air Force reported Friday night that the sudden tornado damaged 106 B-36 bombers and destroyed one other at a loss of more than $48 million.

Seventy-two of the bombers, including the one destroyed, were parked at the Carswell Air Force Base near Fort Worth when the tornado struck Sept. 1. The other 35 damaged B-36s were at the nearby Consolidated Aircraft plant, which produces the giant atom-bombers.

The Air Force said 37 of the damaged bombers at Carswell already have been returned to flying status by an emergency repair program and that "most" of the others will be back in service by Oct. 1.

The Preparedness subcommittee was known to be seriously concerned that such a large number of B-36s—which at this point constitute the Air Force's sole intercontinental striking power—should be concentrated in one area, vulnerable to widespread destruction by a sudden storm or possibly an enemy attack.

The subcommittee, it was learned, intends to make a thorough investigation of Air Force precautions at the base to determine whether the Air Force took reasonable steps to protect the planes.

In particular, the subcommittee was interested in finding out whether the Air Force had an adequate weather warning system and emergency plans for dispersing the planes in case of an emergency.

U. S. PLANES TAKE WAR TO RED CHINA'S, SOVIET'S DOORSTEP

By Robert Udick

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 13 (UP)—Waves of U.S. planes defiantly carried the Korean war to the doorsteps of both the Soviet Union and Red China Saturday.

Thirty-five B-29 Superfortresses struck first with 300 tons of demolition bombs at northwest Korea's vital Suhoi power plant, directly across the Yalu river from Manchuria. They reported "good to excellent" results.

Then light Navy attack bombers from the U.S. carriers Princeton and Bon Homme Richard in the Japan Sea smashed at the northeast Korean supply center of Hoeryong, within sight of the Manchurian border and only 40 miles west of the Soviet Siberian frontier.

Navy pilots said they destroyed eight of the 30 barracks in the center of Hoeryong and damaged all the rest. The United Nations command described Hoeryong, in the northernmost corner of Korea, as the "Manchurian border gateway from Russia."

Navy planes also bomber Musan about 38 miles southeast of Hoeryong. Musan was one of two Navy targets in another giant Navy strike Sept. 1.

On the ground, South Korean infantrymen battled their way to the top of Finger Ridge on the central front but were thrown off the crest when the Communists called in overwhelming numbers of reinforcements. Veterans Chinese Reds, fighting from deep holes dug in the bomb-scarred ridge, had to call for help after the ROKs swept up the hill and engaged them in hand-to-hand combat.

POTPOURRI AND WORSE

(By Major Hoople McCorkle) Telegram Philosopher

What little water Eastland has seems to be of the wrong calibre—too deep to seine and too shallow to drink. What we need is some of the stuff that Brady and San Saba have too much of. Why the Gulf of Mexico will think the Pacific Ocean is running over its spillway, and flowing down the Colorado River right into its face.

We would be willing to be marooned on a small lake or even up in a big tree, if we could get a little of that water here. Just being marooned in a tree isn't so bad, unless one of those side-winders happened to be marooned with you. In case he decided to crawl over and sleep with you, it might be bad. In our case we would set a new diving and swimming record. We would dive out of that tree and would not come up for air for the first hundred miles and when we did we would be swimming so rapidly it would be impossible for us to stop when we reached the coast—would just make an effort to stop before we hit the British Isles.

Rattlesnakes, whether they be side-winders or stem-winders, all look alike to us. We want to be where they are not. Yet in this flooded area they are said to be thick. If it takes a deluge of rattlers to get water, we'll just eat mud and continue the drought.

During the Jack Pershing-Panche Villa war down on the Mexican border, we were located on our uncle's ranch in the Toyah Valley. While we were there for more than a year, we never had time for work—too busy killing rattlesnakes. Out there they have all nine varieties of rattlers, and each of the special types is trying to out-do the others in setting new birth records.

In some places you might find 15 on one acre of land, and all of them would be trying to get to you first. Actually it was dangerous to be safe. They were thicker than hops, and all time multiplying. We have killed them of various sizes—from 7 inches out in the yard, barn and chickenhouse, we decided we would save the "rattles." We got a 5-gallon can, but that thing was full in no time, and before the end of the year we had filled two 50-gallon oil drums.

The first one we killed tried to take a quail away from us, and the last one we killed was on the depot platform where we were to board a train back to civilization. He was a tough baby and we came near wearing the train conductor's lamp out on him, before he finally gave in.

We lived several miles from town, but that didn't keep us out of town on Sunday. A certain young lady was responsible for this and we might have married her only for the fact that her dad objected. He said he wouldn't have a son-in-law that couldn't pop the head off of a rattlesnake, and brother we just couldn't do that—we never tried.

We went into town one Sunday, even though there were a few clouds in the sky. We just took it for granted that it couldn't rain there and didn't care. So happened that we were riding a 4-year-old bronc that was meaner than forked lightning, and while we were over at the girl's house trying to get her dad to listen to reason, a flash of lightning passed through the sky followed by a clap of thunder. This proved too much for the pony who had never seen rain or heard thunder, so he broke the bridle reins and headed for the cactus.

We missed him about dusk, and there we were, six miles from home and without a horse, and it was raining, for the first time since the Davis Mountains were built. We told the girl goodbye and took out after that pony. He was scared of the lightning, and we were scared of the rattlesnakes. We left the road and cut across a pasture inhabited by rattlesnakes and cat-claw brush. Occasionally one of the cat-claws would grab us and slow down some of our speed. Each time this occurred we felt for sure a "big one" had us and rather than swallow us alive would just squeeze us to death first. It was hot and we were tired, but we never thought of taking off our coat which trailed us in rigid form. At any time during the race you could have used our coat tail to shoot craps on.

Just about the time we decided we had missed the ranch and were entering Alabama, we spotted the pony. He had reached the ranch and was standing with his head hanging over the gate. We wanted to kill him, and probably would have only for the fact we had him trained to fight and kill rattlesnakes.

We went in the house, and after seeing that there were no rattlers in corners, in the chairs or under the bed, sat down and tried to figure how many rattlers we had killed during the race. We wondered how many times we had been bitten, but scars on our legs which has been punctured by the cactus and cat-claws so nearly resembled fang punctures we didn't get a very accurate count. Just went to bed and figured that if we ever woke up again we hadn't been bitten too many times. But to this day we have no use for snakes.

A water moccasin tried to chew off one of our fingers one time, and although we didn't die, we understand the snake did. Didn't wait to see.

If it hadn't been for old Mother Eve's weakness, we wouldn't be bothered with snakes.

Over-Glorified And Over-Glamorized FBI Still Great Power For Good

Over-glorified and over-glamorized, the Federal Bureau of Investigation is the victim of its own publicity. Such is the statement made in the current issue of People Today which contains a revealing, behind-the-scenes article called, "The Sear Against The FBI."

Until a year ago, the FBI was almost sacrosanct. When Director J. Edgar Hoover made his annual visit to Capitol Hill to ask for money, Congressmen treated him with awe verging on veneration. He never had to face the angry charges that Congress habitually snarl at other Government officials nor suffer the anguish of watching his budget requests being cut. On the contrary, Congress usually voted him more than he wanted.

To the average American, the FBI agent was perfection personified. He was handsome, manly, alert at all times, clean, courageous, and the possessor of uncanny mental and physical powers. He oozed integrity. He never told a lie and he was infallible. He always got his man. Anyone who dared to suggest that he might have a few of the human frailties was considered a public enemy of some kind.

That's no longer true. The FBI still is a highly respected organization, but it's been coming in for increasing criticism. Only this spring, radio and TV columnist John Crosby blurted out during a TV show that any office boy could become a G-man and that during the war, quite a few did to dodge the draft. The outcry that followed caused Crosby to make a public apology.

Similarly during Judy Coplon's trial for espionage, U. S. District Judge Sylvester Ryan in open court accused the FBI of breaking the law and lying on the stand.

The resolution authorizing the bonds will provide that when net income from the sale of water is sufficient to meet the bond payments and reserve requirements, it will not be necessary to levy a tax. Based on the Engineer's estimate of water sales, your directors are hopeful that when plenty of water is available, the tax can be completely eliminated. Until such time we ask your continued cooperation in order that we can complete this very necessary and worthwhile program.

This verse from Psalms will be among the selection read from the Holy Bible: "Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations" (145:13).

The following citation will be among those read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay. Truth, Life, and Love are substance, as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrews: 'The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen'" (page 468).
