A&M SPECIALIST GIVES TIPS FOR BUYING CHILDREN'S SHOES

Are you a good shopper when it comes to buying shoes for your children? Do you know the importance of the first few years in the development of the child's feet?

Mary Routh, clothing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says during the twenty years the foot is forming, the shoes worn leave permanent marks on the walk, posture and general health of your child.

An infant does not need shoes until walking time, the specialist says. Shoes put on before then, generally for appearance, often do more harm than good. The first walking shoes should have flexible but firm soles, broad enough to make a steady platform under each foot.

For the child from two to six years and on through his school years, it is important to pay attention to details. Take the child shopping with you to be properly fitted and have the salesman measure both feet for length and width, with the child standing. Select shoes to fit the larger foot and allow a good half inch growing room beyond the length of the longest toe.

Check for a last or shape that conforms to the foot for shoes to be comfortable, safe and durable. That means they should have a broad round toe and a straight inner edge.

The shank, that part of the shoe between the heel and the toe that fits into the arch of the foot, should be firm but flexible.

The counter, a firm piece of leather shaped to fit around the heel, is important for the support it gives the back of the foot.

Your child's shoe should have a flexible boxed toe to allow for easy toe movement with a cloth lining over the toes to absorb moisture. A flexible sole is important at the ball or widest part of the foot and should be firm and thick enough to give support for body weight.

The height of the shoe for a child two to six years should be four to six eyelets. If you prefer the low counter shoe, then it should not touch the ankle bone.

To be sure the shoes fit your child, have him walk around in the shoes as a final test. Know that the sole conforms to the shape of his feet.

One last word of advice from the specialist. "Shoes should not be handed down from one child to another. Foot development is never the same for any two children."

Cancer Demands Prompt Care If Cure Expected

Careful reading of a magazine article was strongly recommended today by an American Cancer Society state official as another means of saving many lives from mouth and throat cancer.

J. Louis Neff, executive director of the ACS, Texas Division, said the article, "What You Read Here May Save Your Life," written by Phillip Wylie, is a "strikingly accurate title." The piece appears in the January 24 issue of Collier's magazine.

The article emphasizes the fact that "most cancers of the mouth and throat, if recognized early enough, can be removed surgically, or otherwise cured by radiation."

Three important symptoms that may mean cancer of these sites, and that should take anyone to a doctor for advice, are cited; a sore on the lip, in the mouth or throat that does not heal in a week; a lump in the neck; or hoarseness that persists for two weeks.

According to Mr. Neff, the approved magazine piece is largely the result of cooperation between a famous throat surgeon who remains anonymous and Mr. Wylie. The author undertook the article at the urging of a friend who has suffered cancer for ten years and has endured many operations and who says "that if he had once known what he knows now, about early cancer danger signals, he could have saved himself years of unbelievable misery."

Collier's article is accurate from a medical standpoint and contains information, that if heeded by readers, could reduce the annual cancer toll from mouth and throat malignancy.

Teachers' Salary Increases Urged By State Leaders

The 53rd Texas Legislature was urged today to improve teacher salaries in order to attract 11,000 additional teachers that will be needed in Texas Public Schools the next eight years.

Inadequate salaries are the main reason schools cannot find teachers for the classrooms being built for increasing enrollments, said Charles H. Tennyson, secretary-treasurer of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Tennyson said Texas should be shocked by the fact that the state may have fewer teachers in 1960 than in 1952 even though the scholastic population is expected to increase 225,000 over its present level by 1959-60.

More than 4,000 teachers left the profession last year, while the need for an extra 1,000 teachers. This meant a total of 5,000 new teachers was needed. Only 4,000 college graduates were certified to teach in Texas in 1952, and approximately half of those were lured away from the profession, primarily by higher salaries offered by industry, Tennyson said.

He questioned whether the average 1951-52 teacher salary of $2,860 was adequate to hold men and women in the important profession of educating Texas' boys and girls. Income tax and retirement deductions cut that average to $2,279 in take-home pay, and this had a purchasing power of $1,150 dollars in terms of the 1925-29 dollar, Tennyson observed.

"Who will teach Texas children in 1960 if the teaching profession is able to attract only 2,000 qualified college graduates each year and continues to lose 5,000 teachers annually?" Tennyson asked. This, he said, is a major question to which the legislature should give serious consideration.

Home Game

WEST CHESTER, Pa. — Henry L. Wabbs didn't see a deer during a week of hunting in northwestern Pennsylvania. He was about a mile from home on the long return trip to this highly urbanized area near Philadelphia when he spotted a 150-pound, three-point buck. He bagged it.

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF COUNTY AGENT SYSTEM IS PLANNED

Fifty years ago the economy of the South—and especially Texas—was threatened by an insect invader from Mexico. The great money crop of the region—cotton—was facing a crucial test. Could a single insect, the boll weevil, greatly curtail or wipe out the great cotton industry? This was a question that needed an answer especially in Texas because of the nearness of the state to the source of infestation.

Insecticides for combating the pest had not yet been developed; therefore, the agricultural leaders of that day knew at least a partial answer to the problem must come from better farming methods. In early 1903, Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, special agent for the Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture, was invited to visit in Texas for the purpose of explaining an idea which he believed would help solve the problem.

The result of his visit was the establishment of the first individually owned and operated crop demonstration, under government supervision, in the nation. This demonstration was established on the Walter C. Porter Farm in Kaufman County and was supported, financially and otherwise, by leading citizens of the area. The date was February 26, 1903.

This method of teaching was new. Getting the cooperation of just one farmer was not easy. Farmers of that day were not ready to accept the advice of "book farmers"—a term applied to early day county agents. It was the purpose of the demonstration to teach by example with the farmer himself carrying out the supervised program on his own farm.

This was significant for it very shortly became the beginning of the most unique educational program for rural people yet devised—the Farmers Cooperative Demonstration Work. Still later the third great part of the Land-Grant College System—the Agricultural Extension Service—grew out of this first demonstration farm.

According to Director G. G. Gibson of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, plans are now being perfected both from a state and national basis to observe the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the first farm demonstration. The "kick-off" for the observance will be held on the Porter Farm which is now operated by Harry and Bill Porter, sons of the original demonstrator, and they, like their father, believe in putting science to work on the farm.

The residents of Terrell and Kaufman County will play a major role in the observance planned for the farm and visitors are expected from each of the Southern States as well as from the USDA in Washington, says Gibson. Highlight of the program will come with the unveiling of a historic marker on the site of the first demonstration at the Porter Farm.

Gibson is a member of the national committee representing the USDA and Land-Grant Colleges and he in turn has committees working in Texas planning for the February 26 meeting as well as for other activities being planned for the year. Special programs will be held in the counties in which 4-H club members as well as adults will participate. Plans and plans for the case 50 years ago the demonstration marking, says Gibson.

Complete Records Needed When Tax Time Rolls Around; Many Benefits Derived By Keeper of Rec

When income tax time rolls around, there appear to be two types of farmers—those happy ones who have kept complete records, and those unhappy one who didn't. But the ease of computing income taxes isn't the only benefit from accurate farm records, much as it may seem right now that it's the biggest one. Complete records of your farm transactions can form the basis of money-saving practices and more comfortable living.

For example, an Iowa farm couple figure the time they spend keeping records pays at the rate of $30 an hour! And they gave the facts and figures to an editor of Carper's Farmer who wrote a detailed account in the February issue of the national farm magazine.

That couple is Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Klotz of Chickasaw county, Iowa. Here's the way they prevent income tax worries:

Everytime anything is sold off their farm, the money is deposited in the bank. The item is recorded in a bankbook, and at the end of the year the income column is figured easily from the book.

As to tax deductible expenditures, they pay all such items by check. At the end of the year their deductible items are computed from the check stubs.

Simple and effective for tax computation and proof, and it's only one of the benefits of accurate records.

In the last few years the Klotz family has made major business decisions based on knowledge gained from their records—and the decisions proved correct.

They sold their profitable dairy herd, which to some might have seemed foolish. But the records showed they could stop dairying,

VERNA FANTON shrugged and turned toward the piles of hay. "That's enough hay, I think," George Kendall told her. "You can stop loading it on the truck now."
"Well, that's a relief anyhow," George looked up at the night sky. "How do you like the moon?"
"Lousy," said Verna.
"You lack romance," George laughed. "Now climb into the truck with Tom and I'll get things moving."
Verna hesitated. "You're sure this girl is worth all this trouble?"
"Of course. She's lovely, unpredictable."
"Oh, stop it!" Verna turned and scrambled into the cab of the truck. The truck driver grinned and followed her. Tom Faber didn't know the whole plot. For all he knew some young folks were going for a ride in the moonlight. He was glad to get rental for the truck and wasn't inquisitive.
In the moonlight, George paused and looked over the ground. Everything was clear for the action that was to follow. So he started back toward the carnival midway. Reaching it, he saw a familiar figure, Albert P. Sutworth, apparently in search of someone—either his daughter or George Kendall. In either case, George did not want to meet his former client, so he ducked out of sight, hoping he hadn't been seen.
George waited till he felt the coast was clear. Then he took a deep breath and headed toward Max Arno's concession stand. George was a determined young man, once he set his course, he was no quitter. Besides, Marilyn was the girl for him.
First he skirted the side-show tent, leaping over pegs and ropes, never stopping until at last he reached the rear of Chief Big Bear's concession stand. Here he paused for a moment, catching his breath. He wondered if the whole thing weren't fantastic, crazy and "Put me down! Put me down this instant!" Marilyn was screaming at the top of her lungs, claying at him with her free hand and trying to kick him with her feet. She was even trying to bite him, but she couldn't reach his shoulder.

George had gone this far and he couldn't turn back now, even if he wanted to.
"Kidnap!"
Shouts drowned out the barkers and the noise of the midway. In the background came the merry-go-round music. "The Stars and Stripes Forever."
George didn't look back. The girl continued to claw, scratch and kick, but she wasn't making much progress. George ran, half stumbling toward the truck. The path which had seemed clear only a moment before seemed to be strewn with chuck holes and bits of wire and sticks for him to fall over, but he avoided falling.
He heard more shouts and knew that the first of the pursuers had started after him. How far behind, George did not know, because he couldn't turn his head to see, but the cries served to give him new strength.
At last he reached the truck. With a lusty heave, George sent the girl sprawling into the hay and straw heaped on the bed of the truck. Marilyn tried to lift herself, but George pulled himself over the tailboard and fell exhausted on the straw beside her.
"Okay, George?" It was Verna calling from the cab.
"All set," George replied, making sure that Marilyn was there beside him. She had fallen on the straw and apparently was too exhausted at the moment to do anything. But that moment ended quickly.
Marilyn swung her fist at George. The blow caught his shoulder, and he grabbed her wrist, blocking a second punch. She tried to break the hold and scramble away, but George pulled her back. As Marilyn tried to get to her feet, the truck suddenly lurched forward and she fell backward on top of George.

WSCS Continues Mission Study Under Mrs. Crowell's Leadership

Members of the Women's Society of Christian Service continue their study, "Toward Understanding the Bible" in their meeting Tuesday afternoon in the parlors of the First Methodist Church.

Miss Frank Crowell, leader, presented Mrs. J. M. Bailey and Mrs. A. E. Cushman in program.

Mrs. Bailey told "How the New Testament Came to be Written" and Mrs. Cushman gave the high lights of the life of Paul. Each of the members gave their favorite a chapter of the New Testament.

Mrs. W. P. Leslie, president, presided over a short business session. She opened the service with a prayer and hymn, "Trust and Obey" led by Mrs. H. E. VanGeem and accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Charlie Harris.

Mrs. Crowell gave the closing prayer.

Those present were Mrs. Leslie, J. Bailey, Milton Galtner, Frank Castleberry, Guy Quinn, Roy Stokes, J. A. Catton, Charles B. Harris, VanGeem, O. M. White, Cushman, Ora B. Jones, T. M. Johnson, Cecil Collins, George Lane and Crowell.

PERSONALS

Ted and Jannie Howard spent last week end here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Veon Howard. Ted is a student at A&M College and Jannie attends North Texas State College at Denton.

Mrs. Waverly Massengale spent several days here before returning to Fort Worth, where she is staying with her husband, who is temporarily located there.

Mr. and Mrs. Veon Howard were business visitors in Dallas today.

May Plowman To Head Women Golfers For '53

Mrs. May Plowman was elected president of the Ladies Golf Auxiliary Tuesday evening at their meeting at Lakeside Country Club.

Other officers elected were Thelma Taylor, vice president; Johnny Treasurer; Ruth Shepard, treasurer; and Jerry Howard, reporter.

The new officers will be installed January 28th at the regular Wednesday noon luncheon, at which husbands of members will be guests.

Mrs. Ina Ruth Taylor, president, presided during the election and heard reports on work completed during the year, consisting of the completion of the project of laying hardwood floors in the pro-shop and locker-rooms and the purchasing of new furniture for the club.

The group voted to buy rubber mat runners for the club, and to present each month a gold golf pin to the members having a perfect attendance record on each golf day, which is Wednesday of each week.

Fourteen members were present.

Mrs. I. C. Inzer Is Speaker At West Ward P-TA

Mrs. I. C. Inzer was speaker Tuesday afternoon at the regular meeting of the West Ward P-TA at the West Ward School.

Mrs. Inzer's subject was "The Blessings in Every Home." Mrs. Tom Amis gave the prayer.

Mrs. E. E. Garner, president, presided and gave a report on the convention held recently in Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Frances Cooper's fourth grade was awarded the attendance prize. Mothers of the fourth grade also served as hostesses and served refreshments following the program.

Announcement was made of the study club meeting which will be at 9 a.m. Feb. 3, in the home of Mrs. J. M. Copeland. Mrs. Ruth Poe Herring will conduct the lesson entitled, "Teacher-Parent Conferences Pay."

Thirty-five members attended.

Mrs. J. M. Freese hosts TV Party
Mrs. J. M. Freese was hostess Tuesday morning to the fourth and fifth grades of South Ward School and their teachers, Mrs. D. E. Frazer and Mrs. Harold Durham for TV showing of the President's Inauguration.

Others present were Mrs. L. E. Huckabee and daughter and Miss Patsy Pogue.

The hostess served Bubble gum to each child at the close of the program.

Mrs. Jones, President TFMC Is Guest Speaker At Music Club

Mrs. Ina Wooten Jones told members of the Music Study Club that Federation was a service club, and that just as civic clubs are organized for service so is the federation. Small clubs have a part in great things just by helping and paying in their small part so that as a whole big things may be accomplished, she said.

Mrs. Jones, state president of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs with Mrs. H. Leo Tucker, district president, were guests of the Music Club Wednesday afternoon at the Women's Club. Mrs. Tucker gave district greetings to the club. Both were introduced by Mrs. Perkins, program leader, who also presented Mrs. Frank Sparks, Mrs. Donald Kinnaird, Mrs. George Bledsoe, Mrs. Cyrus Frost, Jr., and Miss Florence Ashcraft of Ranger in a musical program.

Mrs. Sparks sang "One Fine Day" from Madame Butterfly, by Puccini, and Pearl Curry's "Life", accompanied by Mrs. Kinnaird.

Miss Ashcraft was the accompanist for Mrs. Frost and Bledsoe who presented a violin concerto in D minor by Vivaldi for two violins and piano.

A tea followed the program. Mrs. T. E. Richardson and Mrs. A. F. Taylor presided over the table arranged with a chattrouse and gray linen cloth, appointed with silver. Decorations were an arrangement of yellow carnations and white candlestick, flanked by white tapers in silver candlesticks.

Other hostesses were Mrs. D. L. Houle, Kinnaird, H. M. Hart, H. C. Westfall and R. L. Carpenter.

Those present not already mentioned were Mrs. Guy Patterson, Grady Pipkin, Jack Muirhead, E. M. Grimes, H. H. Durham, Frank Lovett, B. W. Patterson, A. H. Johnson, Donna Greeley, K. B. Tanner, Alice G. Taylor, James Horton, Earl Conner, Milburn S. Long, Frank Castleberry, W. F. Davenport, W. C. Vickers, H. Leo Tucker, Bill Frost, R. G. Perkins, Allen D. Dabney, and Don Parker.

AROUD— (Continued from Page 1) stick around over our garden (if any) in order to scare the birds away.

And back to the garden. Even if we do change our mind and go in for another garden, we are going to change seeds. Last year we tried to raise 3-foot beans, and 5-foot cucumbers. When the drouth hit we didn't raise anything but a few grass-burrs. This year we will go in for normal sized products, if any at all.

The cheapest beans we ever produced came from a grocery store. Our cucumbers are something like our fish. We have found perfectly good fish at the fish market, and at a cost an unlucky fisherman can afford to pay. Those we bring in from the creek usually cost about $4 a pound, and at times we don't have any fish. But we are coming back to earth, going to lower our sights, and maybe we'll have better luck. By going to the corner grocery we always get fish and vegetables, and moderately priced. When you try to catch your fish and grow your vegetables, you are sunk before you start.
