EASTLAND, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1953

PRICE FIVE CENTS

AROUND THE SQUARE

When it rains in West Texas, seems like everybody is happy. Even the newspapers celebrate with special editions, for an ordinary issue would be too small for the average editor. He wants to brag about the virtues of West Texas, and especially his home town.

A day or so ago we received a copy of the "Shamrock Texan" and it was a dilly. Not only did the editor "do his stuff" concerning our recent rains, but he took over Ireland as well. It's "St. Patrick's Day" all over America and a major portion of Europe, and the big celebration is on.

We have known Shamrock since they first began having "blue northerners" up there, but we figured they had a mixed population. However, from the looks of the "Texan" it appears that it is against the law to be anything other than Irish, if you want to live in that town.

The Texan was printed on green paper, all covered with clover leaves, and the whole town will turn out to honor "St. Pat." There is to be a great St. Patrick's Day celebration which will last for two days, and you will be able to see anything from a potato race to an exhibition drill by Khiva Shrine Drum and Bugle Corps.

It is really something different, and the Texan published 32 pages of puffs, program and pictures, to say nothing about a good ad from almost every store in the county.

As we do not receive the Texan on Exchange, we feel that possibly Siebert Worley is responsible for the copy we received. You know Mr. Worley owns the picture shows in that city, as well as the shows here. Anyway it was a splendid piece of advertising.

Before we finished reading the Shamrock Texan our copy of the Brownwood Bulletin arrived. That is another good paper but as a rule it publishes from eight to 16 pages. The paper under date of March 15, carried 28 pages, and was designated as their pre-Easter edition. Styles down there seem to be about the same as in Eastland, but the paper as a whole was extra good.

Brownwood appreciated our recent good rains, but Brownwood is one of the few towns that doesn't know the meaning of a water shortage. Farmers over that county may suffer from drought, but the people in Brownwood never.

Then the Midland Reporter hit the streets one day last week, with their "Oil Special." There were 14 sections in this 212 page edition and Publisher Collins certainly told the world about Midland and her great oil field. It was truly a petroleum special, even down to the society page where the "Desk and Derrick Club", a woman's organization, was featured.

As we checked the ads in the paper we came to the conclusion that everybody on earth who owns as much as a ten dollar royalty or an acre lease, carried an ad. It was a splendid edition, and the people around Midland appreciated the recent rains as much as we did here.

But we need not to feel too badly here. Within another year or so we can boast one of the best and

Gammill Rites Held In Ranger This Afternoon

Funeral services for Winford Gilmer Gammill, 64-year-old North Worthian and former Eastland County resident who died of a heart attack Monday morning, were held at the Killingsworth Funeral Home Chapel in Ranger this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Gammill, former teacher in rural schools in Eastland and Stephens Counties, had been a resident of this area from 1905 until 1942 when he moved to Fort Worth. He was a hotel clerk at the time of his death.

Rev. H. D. Blair, missionary of the Cisco Baptist Assn., officiated during the funeral rites, and interment was in the Alameda Cemetery with Killingsworth Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Palbearers were Floyd Crawley and M. A. Ables of Eastland and Howard Frasier, Bud Blackwell, Lloyd Bruce and Ernest Calvert, all of Ranger.

Mr. Gammill was a member of the Presbyterian Church. He was born at Cecil, Ark., on March 19, 1889.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Estella M. Duncan of Route 2, Eastland; two brothers, Herman Gammill of Rochester and C. A. Gammill of Lubbock, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Miss King Will Visit Campus Of Southwestern U.

Miss Sara Beth King of Ranger will be among the 200 high school seniors who will visit the campus of Southwestern University at Georgetown on March 20-22 "Weekend at College" activities.

Included in the three-day round of events will be interviews with professors, classroom demonstrations, repertoire classes in the School of Fine Arts, art exhibits, open house at dormitories and fraternity houses, and a series of programs.

Mask and Wig Players will present Stephen Vincent Benet's famous play, "The Devil and Daniel Webster;" the opera workshop will give "Down in the Valley," a folk opera; and the Southwestern University Band is planning a variety show. Another musical program will be "Requiem" by Faure, to be sung by the school's widely-traveled A Cappella Choir.

Partly Cloudy, Cooler Today And Thursday

Partly cloudy and cooler weather with little or no possibility of rain was forecast for the Eastland County area for today and Thursday.

The U. S. Weather Bureau's early morning report called for thundershowers in the North Central, East and South Central regions of the state but little likelihood for rain was predicted in the forecast for the Eastland County and West Texas forecast.

Weather men said today's highest temperature would be slightly above the 70-degree mark, and that it'll be a bit cooler Thursday, with the mercury hovering in the upper 60s.

FOOD PRICES MOVE DOWN IN FEBRUARY

Despite scrapping of controls on most items, retail food prices dropped about 1 per cent during the month of February, according to a government report issued in Washington today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said falling beef prices led the decline in market basket costs.

Meats, poultry and fish dropped an average of 2.1 per cent. Eggs also were down, but prices for fresh fruits and vegetables were up slightly.

Food prices declined about 2 per cent during January.

Because of the sag in food prices, the government's next report on overall living costs is expected to show a decline. Foods amount to nearly a third of living costs. The mid-February living cost figure will be reported about April 1.

Higher Prices On The Way?

New Order Ends All Controls on Prices

Eastland Countians, Texans and all Americans for the first time in two years, were back on a virtually free economy today.

All remaining price controls were scrapped by the government in Washington Tuesday.

Along with the final order came the prediction that higher prices are on the way.

Price Stabilizer Joseph Freehill, preparing to shut up shop, said raw material prices have risen an

Western Stage Musical Show At Olden, March 19

The Fox Four-Sevens, versatile hillbilly band appearing on the Big State Jamboree in Abilene each Saturday night, will perform in a full-length stage show at the high school gymnasium at Olden on Thursday night, March 19th. The show starts at 8 o'clock.

Master of ceremonies will be Bill Fox, who was reared at Olden and whose parents live on Route 2, Eastland. Mr. Fox has been in radio and entertainment work for several years, recently having joined the staff of Station KRBC in Abilene. There he helps to produce the Big State Jamboree, known as the biggest western stage show in Texas.

Also in the group is Melvin Holt, another Olden product whose parents still reside there. In the past he has authored numerous western stories for publication, and has more recently given his attention to writing country and folk music, some of which is soon to be published and recorded by other musical artists.

In addition to their regular Jamboree appearance, the Fox Four-Sevens broadcast daily from KSTA in Coleman and have made a guest appearance on the Louisiana Hayride, second largest country-music show in the United States.

Admission will be 50 and 25 cents for the Olden show, which is sponsored by the High School Athletic Club.

Lions Club Has Splendid Music At Tuesday Meet

A nominating committee for the Lions Club was named by President Bruce Pipkin at their regular meeting Tuesday, and the committee will report back within two weeks. Officers and directors for the coming year will be elected in June (possibly earlier) and will take over their duties the first Tuesday in July. The committee is composed of Wendell Siebert, chairman, Freyschlag and Poe.

Herb Weaver headed the program, though according to custom, he brought his musicians along. Miss Sally Cooper rendered a piano solo and Miss Jana Weaver sang three numbers, with Mrs. Donald Kinneir at the piano. Miss Helen Taylor also rendered a piano solo. All were good and the Lions gave them a hearty hand.

Eastland Police Nab Two Men In Crackdown on Vice Ring Selling Obscene Literature

Death Penalty Is Assessed For GI's Murder

A Palo Pinto County jury which deliberated only 10 minutes Tuesday found Air Force Sgt. Marvin Rayson, 27, Negro, guilty of the murder of Corp. Benjamin Layton, 26, and assessed his punishment at death.

The case went to the jury at 2:30 p.m. Rayson took the witness stand Tuesday morning and reversed his earlier plea of guilty, asserting that another white man, in the car with Layton, and not he slew the corporal.

Rayson testified that he had a pistol belonging to his brother, when Layton gave him a lift. He said the other man was in the car, noted his pistol and offered to buy it. He said the man, whose identity he did not know, took the pistol, shot Layton with it, dumped the body, accompanied Rayson in Layton's car to Temple and disappeared.

Both Rayson and Layton, whose home was in St. Mary's, Mo., were stationed at Walters Air Force Base, Mineral Wells.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Hubert Gray of Murray; two brothers, Dan of Breckenridge and W. A. Gray of Rising Star; two sisters, Mrs. J. C. White of Abilene and Mrs. W. A. Millican of Eastland.

Take It Easy And Recover--

DR. COX GIVES NEW HOPE TO TEXANS WITH WEAK HEARTS

Worried about your heart? If so, it doesn't help to hear that deaths from diseases of the heart and the blood vessels are the leading cause of death in Texas.

Yet, if you have heart trouble today, you are better off than you would have been at any previous time in the history of the world, says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Cases, which in former years were considered hopeless, are now being treated successfully and most heart patients who follow their physician's directions can lead relatively normal lives, carrying on most of the activities they did before they became ill with heart disease.

Over-fatigue, over-exertion, worry, and prolonged emotional disturbances also make additional work for the heart. The heart slows up somewhat when you lie down and a little more when you fall asleep, but the person who is constantly on the go, and gets too little sleep, does not give his heart much of a chance to rest. Whenever you become worried or excited, your heart is the first part of the body to react. It immediately starts to beat faster. If you really become frightened or over-exercised, it may start pounding.

Many people, when they realize they have heart trouble, fortunately learn a new way of living. They acquire a more wholesome and happier way of life. Their work is planned so that they do not get overtired, and are not pushed to get the job done; when they get tired, they stop and rest. Few heart patients have to give up all of their usual activities. They learn a different and better way of doing them that does not put such a strain on the heart, for they have found that it is the way they do things, rather than what they do that is so very important.

Early treatment for heart disease will help to relieve your worries and will set you on the right road to good health, with a chance for a normal span of life, if you obey your doctor's orders.

Ike Is Pleased Over Rains In West Texas Area

Texans aren't the only citizens vitally interested in the moisture situation here in the far flung Lone Star State.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower said a group of congressmen in Washington Monday he was "highly gratified" to hear of last week's rains in Texas.

Rep. Wingate Lucas said the president recalled that a friend recently asked him what wish he would like to have fulfilled more than any other.

The president said he replied that he knew nothing he would rather see than a good rain in West Texas," Lucas said. "He was pleased to hear that the situation was improved."

Lucas, one of a group of Democratic and Republican congressmen invited to luncheon at the White House, sat on the president's right.

Eisenhower also inquired about various friends in Texas, including Oil Man Sid Richardson of Fort Worth, Lucas reported.

Those attending said the president was in a relaxed and friendly mood.

"He is a darned nice fellow," said Rep. Ken Regan of Midland, who also attended the luncheon. Some of the guests addressed him as general, and others called him Mr. President. But before it was over, we were about ready to call him plain old Ike.

3 NEW TESTS ARE STAKED IN STEPHENS

Although there was no new oil activity in the Eastland County area today, three new locations were announced for adjoining Stephens County.

A wildcat location was staked in southwestern Stephens County as Fort Worth Exploration Co. No. 1 W. J. Booth.

Location is three miles southeast of Eolian on a 102.8 acre lease. Site is 1,145 feet from the south and 2,648 feet from the east lines of Section 1, Block 7, T&F Survey, A-347. No. 1 Booth is contracted for 3,300 feet with rotary.

Chicago Oil Co., Dallas, No. 1 Black was spotted in the regular field, 12 miles northeast of Breckenridge.

Site four No. 1 Black is 1,060 feet south and 660 feet east of the northeast corner of Section 1143, TE&L Survey, but in H&GN Survey 1 (TE&L), A-1011. The 3,300-foot rotary project is on a 156 acre lease.

In the northeastern part of the county, near the Stephens-Young County line, C. C. Grantham, et al. of Graham No. 4 R. B. Whittenburg is to be drilled.

Location is in the Whittenburg lower Strawn Field, five miles south of Bunker. It spots 2,038 ft. from the north and 330 feet from the west lines of James Finley Survey, A-2088. The lease is composed of 960 acres.

THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT U. S. DRAFT LAW

How does a local draft board consider a draft registrant's case when it comes before the board in the manner governed by law and regulations?

The members of a board sit around a table—and the file containing the man's papers are placed before it by the clerk.

The board then considers the man from the following standpoints, based on information in the file:

1. Is he on active duty in the military service? (1-C.)
2. Is he a conscientious objector who has been ordered to a civilian job? (1-W.)
3. Is he too old for service under the law? (5-A.)
4. Can it be determined at the board level whether he is physically, mentally, or morally unfit for service? (4-F.)
5. Is he a minister of religion or divinity student? (4-D.)
6. Is he subject to exemption as an alien? (4-C.)
7. Is he a public official deferred by the law? (4-B.)

8. Is he a World War II veteran as defined by the law? (4-A.)

9. Is he subject to deferment because of his dependents? (3-A.)

10. Is he eligible for deferment as a member of the armed forces reserve or a student taking military training? (1-D.)

11. Is he a student in a college or university deferrable under local board authority? (2-S.)

12. Does he meet the requirements for farm or other civilian job deferment? (2-C and 2-A, respectively.)

13. Is he a college or high school student subject to deferment by law for a short period? (1-S.)

14. Is he one of the two types of conscientious objectors? (1-O and 1-A-O.)

If the evidence in the file indicates to the satisfaction of the local board that he is eligible for none of these, then the registrant is considered available for military service. (1-A.)

Salesman And Distributor Are Fined, Jailed

Area operations of what may be a big state-wide vice ring engaged in the distribution and sale of obscene literature were halted in Eastland late Tuesday afternoon with the arrest of Robert Robertson, about 50, of Decatur, District Attorney Joe Nusselle and his assistant, W. D. R. Owen, revealed at noon today.

The Eastland County prosecutors disclosed that two men—one a new resident of Eastland, about 35 years of age—and the Decatur man, distributor of the literature—were arrested by alert Eastland police who laid a well-planned trap for their capture.

The Eastland dealer, one of several outlets for dispensing the obscene booklets, pamphlets and other material to the public including many teen-age high school students, operated a service station in Eastland. He is John Perkins, about 35, and Saturday he pleaded guilty to a charge of violating Texas penal code statute No. 527 and was assessed a fine of $300 and 60 days in jail by County Judge John Hart.

Perkins' arrest came as a result of "tips" to Eastland city police from several named Eastland High School students.

Following the local dealer's arrest Saturday, police awaited the arrival of the distributor of the literature who had been transporting quantities of obscene literature into Eastland County every two weeks for distribution to dealers.

Late Tuesday afternoon—about 5:30 p.m.—the distributor, Robertson, arrived in Eastland with his car loaded with between $400 and $500 worth of the obscene material. Some of the books in his possession, officers said, sold for $25 per copy.

Robertson was arrested by Eastland city police, pleaded guilty to the charge of possession and sale in violation of state statute No. 527 and in a whirlwind hearing, County Judge Hart assessed his punishment at six months in the county jail and a stiff cash fine of $750.

Maximum punishment for the offense, a misdemeanor, District Attorney Nusselle said, is a $1,000 fine and a six months jail term.

The literature of the distributor was confiscated by Sheriff Frank Tucker and members of the Eastland County Sheriff's department.

Yarbrough Gets Coaching Post At Ranger High

BOONE YARBROUGH
He'll Serve as Assistant Coach at Ranger High Next Fall

T. R. (Boone) Yarbrough, veteran West Texas grid mentor and head coach at Ranger Junior College since 1947, has accepted a position on the coaching staff of Ranger High School effective next Sept. 1, O. C. (Stubby) Warden, RHS mentor, announced late Friday.

Yarbrough's appointment to the post was okayed during a special called session of the board of the Ranger Independent School District in Ranger Thursday night.

The latest development completed changes in three of the city's four key coaching spots.

Dick Henderson, assistant to Yarbrough at RJC, moved into the top spot of the college staff.

Sam Aills, assistant to Warden at Ranger High, resigned and moved to Ranger Junior College as Henderson's assistant.

And Yarbrough, who has expressed himself recently as interested in returning to high school coaching, has switched to the Ranger prep school staff under Warden.

All appointments in the new set up are scheduled to go into effect Sept. 1, 1953—a few days before the Ranger High Bulldogs and the Ranger Junior College Rangers blast open their coming fall grid campaigns.

GAIN SEMIFINALS

East Texas State center Jim Miller (29) takes a rebound under the Tennessee A&I basket during their NAI basketball tournament game in Kansas City Thursday night. East Texas won a spot in the semifinals by clipping A&I 72-67.

However, in a "swap-out" deal between the high school and college, Aills will aid RJC Coach Dick Henderson with the Rangers' spring training drills which open Monday, and Yarbrough will assist RHS Coach Warden with the Bulldog squad spring practice beginning a week from Monday.

Yarbrough was quoted in the Abilene Reporter-News Friday as stating that "he eventually hoped to get into high school administrative work." It was also reported that the RJC mentor is planning to work on his master's degree at East Texas State College at Commerce this summer. Acceptance of the Ranger High post, observers say, is a step forward in Yarbrough's future plans.

The 44-year-old athletic coach, a native of Weatherford, played football at Weatherford High and then entered Weatherford Junior College where he continued his grid career until 1930. He then transferred to East Texas where he received his bachelor's degree in 1932. During his high school and collegiate grid career, Yarbrough played all positions—every line slot and all four of the backfield assignments.

He began his career as a mentor at Throckmorton High School, moved to Albany and two district titles, then to Harrold and two undefeated high school aggregations, from there to Mineral Wells, then to Graham.

Yarbrough resides in Ranger on Sinclair Avenue. His wife is the former Gussie Carroll of Weatherford, and they have a son, Boone Carroll, 13. They attend the First Methodist Church in Ranger.

Twenty-three countries of the British Commonwealth will be represented at the British Industries Fair in London and Birmingham in the spring of 1953. Two thousand manufacturers from over 80 industries will have goods on display.

A&M College May Open Doors To Texas Girls

Eventual success for his campaign to open the doors of Texas A&M to girl students was predicted here today by Sen. William T. Moore of Bryan.

Senator Moore, an Aggie ex-student himself, reported that he had received tremendous support from all over the state, from Aggies and non-Aggies alike, for his proposal that the tax-supported college become co-educational. His resolution instructing the A&M Board of Directors to admit female students was defeated in the Senate, the Senator Moore said today that "the matter of admitting girls to A&M is not a closed issue by any means."

In support of his position, Senator Moore pointed out that "A&M is supported by taxpayers of both sexes and by the parents of children of both sexes."

"I think that, legally, a qualified female student would have to be admitted to the college, if one should apply," he explained. "And I have no doubt but that the day will come when that issue will be made."

The Senator, in whose district A&M is located, pointed out that the college offers some courses which cannot be obtained at any other school in the state.

A&M's enrollment is declining and will continue to decline, the Senator declared, unless it becomes a co-educational institution.

"In my opinion, all the noise against the proposal is being made by people who think more of their memories than they do of our school's future and the future of our children," Senator Moore continued. "The professional Aggies, re-living their days of personal glory on the campus, want to sacrifice the future of this great school for the sake of their own reminiscences."

Actually, admission of girls to A&M "would not harm a single tradition," the Senator contended. The only result would be that the college would once again attract male students and regain its standing in the higher education system of Texas.

Weather Helped Foil Landy's Attempt at a Record Mile

BY JOHN McCALLUM
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Perhaps it was prophetic vision that inspired John Landy, the fastest miler in the world if you give it with a cockney h'accent, to comment before his recent attack on the four-minute mile.

"I'll run a fastest mile, but whether it will be under four minutes depends on the weather."

The swift 22-year-old Australian was correct on both counts. It was a fast, or fastest, performance (4:04.1) and the weather was the deciding factor. Even the witnesses blimiey near died in the sun.

What really happened in Landy's much-publicized attempt to whomp the whey out of the four-minute barrier is revealed in a letter to this bureau from J. H. Galli, Australia's foremost track and field writer.

"It was the weather," testifies correspondent Galli, "with high humidity adding to John's worry of trying to live up to the lavish advance praise. Also against him was the fact that track officials didn't arrange to call his lap times."

"LANDY looked a little too finely conditioned for a four-minute mile," continues Galli. "He is losing a little weight and may have to ease up on his shocking daily training program for a while. Nonetheless he swept straight to the front at the gun. Opening up a wide gap on the rest of the field, he breezed through 440 yards in 58.5 seconds. At the halfway mark he was showing two minutes."

"At this stage, Landy had a good chance at the record, but he lost it in the third lap, which was covered in 63 seconds. Looking around to get some idea of how he was going, John speeded up a bit over the final quarter, clipping off 61.1."

"My opinion is that had Landy known what his 880-yard time was, he'd have splattered the stopwatch to a bloody pulp and come close to 4:02 again."

Landy's next major attempt at the four-minute mile will be the Australian Universities' Championships at Sydney in May. "If I can't do it before the European season," he declares, "then some other runner will beat me to it. There are plenty of good milers around today."

Maybe so, but not many of them are bobbing up with 4:02.1 performances.

XXXI
MARNEY CRAVATH had to be stopped or he'd tear everything down. I grabbed his arm. "That's the last thing to do," I said. "You could choke him all night and you wouldn't get a thing out of him. He knows that as things stand now, nobody can get an iota of proof he committed the murder. And we'd make a mistake to even give him a glimmer that we suspect him."

He hesitated—impressed, I think, in spite of himself. "But, a murderer! Under my roof!"

"All right," I said. "But put him on his guard and he'll be scot-free under other roofs for the rest of his natural life. And none of them will be the roof of a jailhouse, either."

He saw the reason in this. He went back to his chair, sat heavily. "Well, what do we do? Let him go on murdering people at his own convenience?" All at once he started up again. "Then it was Dave Sladen who—who tried to kill me?"

It didn't seem necessary to answer that. "But why?" Cravath's face was a puzzled mask and his voice slightly plaintive. "I gave him the best job he's ever had."

I nodded. "Yes. But there's something else that he never could get from you, Sally."

"You mean he wants to marry her?"

"I was in it now, to the point of no return. 'Sladen is wild about Sally. But he's sure you wouldn't give your consent in a million years.'"

"You're right there. I wouldn't." I spread my hands. "I'd gotten this distasteful job over. But I didn't like myself any better for having done so. 'Well, there it is. Oh, sure, Sally's free, white and 21. Theoretically, she can do as she pleases. But even I, practically a stranger here, know that Sally would never marry without your approval. And if I know it, Sladen knows it. You're the stumbling-block that's keeping him from completing his plans. So he's tried, twice, to . . ." I let my voice trail.

CRAVATH drew a soft angering breath. "I—see. To remove me, eh?" His fists, raised, were like great poised hammers—"Sally means everything to me. And she'd marry that fellow only over my dead body. Because he isn't good enough for her."

"That," I muttered, "is what we're going to prove."

One of the poised fists came down on his knee. "Dave Sladen's been a smart, efficient secretary. He does his work well, earns his salary, and that's why I keep him. But I don't like him as a man. He's warped and biased and—ah, twisted. I don't know what the matter with him. But if I had my way we'd have Sally in here right now and Sladen too and get to the bottom of this business."

"Do that," I said, "and Dave Sladen gets away with one of the nastiest murders on record. Only it isn't actually on the record as a murder. He won't get Sally, but he'll have $50,000 and his freedom to go after some other rich girl."

He leaned back in his chair. "All right, all right," he said wearily. "What do you want me to do?"

"This was it, the vital moment. 'I want you,' I said, 'to do just as I say. And it may mean risking your life.'"

There was a momentary silence. Then: "Very well, Orth." Marston Cravath shot me a queer look from under thick bushy brows. "I've never ducked anything yet. And I don't propose to begin at you age. Now what the devil have you got in mind?"

The next day rolled in on a tide of sunshine. A day upon which such a thing as tension should have been a million miles away. It wasn't. At least three people at Windover walked in separate auras of fear and anxiety. I was one of the three and therefore I wasn't sorry I had to go into Fort Lister that morning.

When I returned Sally was putting around amongst autumnal flowers. "Come here a minute, Jim," she called.

"Nothing loath," I ambled over. The sun was painting her hair in gilt wash and her cheeks were a lovely blend of coral and sun-tan.

"You," I said, surveying her, "make a cover girl look like a bundle of old clothes."

She passed that understatement to ask abruptly, "Where have you been?"

"Oh, round and about."

Her eyes narrowed, gave me a searching look. "H'm. You seem to have been round and about a lot lately. Is there anything going on, Jim?"

"No, that I know of," I said casually.

"Well," impatience edged her tone, "what are you doing, anyway?"

"You mean right now? Letting you enchant me?"

That annoyed her. She stamped a slim foot. "Oh, you make me so darn mad I could sock you. And don't think for a minute that I don't know what the score is. You're stymied in this business, Jim Orth. Licked. You're not getting anywhere. Sometimes I think you aren't even trying to. But you're sort of dog-in-the-manger about it. You won't call in help yourself and whenever I want to do it, you stall me. Well, I'm sick of it. You've put me off and put me off, but this is the end. So I'm giving you the rest of the day, to get something accomplished. If you can't, I'm going to the police. The very first thing tomorrow."

"Hoity-toity," I said weakly. But I drew a surreptitious breath of relief. Tomorrow was okay. I'd been fearful at the start of the tirade, that she might kick over the traces today.

BEST KNOWN ADDRESS—Number 8 Kuno-Fischer St. in the British sector of West Berlin is the best known address in all Germany. The registration and processing center for East German refugees is located there. As officials process some newly arrived refugees, others stand quietly awaiting their turn. Some 41,000 East Germans sought asylum in West Berlin in February and about 3,000 more escapees turn up daily.

Brother! Trouble At John Carroll

Officials at John Carroll University have run into a tough identification problem this year. There are 97 brothers enrolled, including 14 sets of twins.

The fact that almost all students wear Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) uniforms daily doesn't make matters easier.

Oddly enough, many of the just-plain-brothers are more difficult to unscramble than the twins. For example, there are four Sullivan boys, two of whom are brothers from Toledo and the others twins from Columbus. Anthony, Paul and William Burns of Alliance could pass for triplets, but are merely brothers.

The only ones among the 97 whom professors are certain of are the Platts. They are twins, and no one knows one from the other, "but at least we know they're Platts," said Eugene Mittinger, registrar.

DOUBLE STEAL—Al Dark, New York Giants shortstop, slides home safely on the front end of a double steal in the second inning against the Chicago White Sox in their exhibition game at Phoenix, Ariz., Wednesday. Chisox catcher Sherm Lollar dives in to make the tag just too late. The Giants won, 7-3.

hesitated for fear of wrecking the United Nations to "about face" and come back to the main track. Unless this is done, I fear the United Nations may go the way of the League of Nations, and other efforts at world cooperation. If anything is any more serious, it is to allow ourselves to become a party to certain Socialistic schemes for which we pay in both money and sacrifice of individual Constitutional rights.

The bill introduced is known as the Bricker Amendment. Hearings on this measure are now in progress in the Senate Judiciary Committee. I expect to support it in some form or other. I am opposed to the movement of World Federation and Atlantic Union. The actions of some of these branches of the United Nations result in some of the same general principles advocated by these two organizations.

Short-cuts can get us in serious trouble. We need to read the signs placed before us a long time ago by our founding fathers. These signs will not prevent progress or world cooperation but they will prevent someone or some group from giving away our heritage which we hold so dear.

Loan Sharks Are Gupping Texans

Many of the millions of dollars of which Texans are being gouged annually by loan shark companies go to the enrichment of out-of-state owners, declare members of the State Junior Bar anti-usury committee which is supporting an anti-loan shark amendment to the State Constitution.

A situation in which borrowers have to pay 200 per cent and more is indefensible even if the extortionate profits remained in Texas but is even more vicious when Texas citizens are mulcted for the benefit of a few residents of Georgia, Tennessee, Delaware, and other states who own loan company "chains."

President Tom Reavley of the State Junior Bar declares, "When the roll is called, I am confident that legislatures will line up for the welfare of our state and for the protection of its citizens."

Rep. Wm. Kugle of Galveston has introduced a constitutional amendment which would retain the 10 per cent maximum interest rate but would authorize the legislature to place a ceiling on all charges a borrower has to pay. This would permit legislation which has been found so effective in other states that it has driven the loan shark out of those states and into Texas.

Did you ever take the wrong road out of an unfamiliar town and have to turn back to get on the right highway? If you have had this experience, were you a little bit stubborn about admitting to yourself and to others who might be riding with you that you were wrong and maybe even too stubborn to stop at a filling station to ask proper directions? If this has happened to you as it has to me, of course you lost time and effort. My wife, Ruth, tells me that I depend too much on "dead reckoning" and not enough on highway signs. I usually figure that the man who made the map didn't know as much about the directions as I knew, and that probably the highway signs were incorrect anyway. It has always been a temptation to me to keep driving in the hope that a highway sign will appear showing that I am correct or that I will intersect the proper highway, and as a result, I would have cut through and saved time. My success at this has not been frequent.

What this leads up to is the Constitutional Amendment relative to the making of Treaties and Executive Agreements. There should be no "short-cuts" in arriving at Treaties and Agreements made by the president of the United States which have the effect of becoming the Supreme law of the land.

Legislation has been introduced in the Congress to amend the Constitution to prevent such action by the president which could deprive citizens of this country of their Constitutional rights. Treaties are more supreme than ordinary laws passed by the Congress, since the laws we pass here in Washington are invalid if they do not conform to the Constitution. Treaties can take powers away from the Congress and give them to the president. Likewise, Treaties can take powers away from the states and give them to the federal government. In the case of certain actions in branches of the United Nations, Treaties or Agreements could take power away from this government and give them to some international body.

It is conceivable that such Treaties and Agreements made with foreign powers could completely nullify the provisions of state constitutions, state laws, state supreme court decisions, and federal laws, covering the same subjects as the Treaties cover.

The Supreme Court has held that Treaties and Agreements made with foreign powers by the president, even though not approved by Congress, could supersede the constitution and become the supreme law of the land.

It has been proven over and over again that we cannot live in this world alone. We could not exist and maintain our present standards regardless of war without other nations of the world, but we should be very careful that no Treaties or Agreements made with foreign countries should ever deprive us of the precious rights guaranteed us under our constitution.

Therefore, it seems highly important that we take some action to amend our constitution to provide that in our dealings with other nations, we will not contract away our individual rights. A constitutional amendment is now proposed and, if passed by Congress, would be submitted to the state legislatures. It would be necessary for two-thirds of the states to ratify it to make it effective.

In my opinion, we have allowed some of these people running parts of the United Nations to get us on the wrong road. We have been desperate to achieve peace and prevent war, and I suppose have

H.D. Women Plan Tri-County Camp

Camping will be fun for the Home Demonstration Club members of Eastland, Brown, and Comanche Counties this summer. Tentative plans for the camp are already made, and the whole family should start making plans now for "mom" to attend the camp," said Mildred Daniel, Eastland County Home Demonstration Agent.

With Brown County E. D. Clubs as host, the camp will be held July 8-9 at Lake Brownwood. A group of women from the three counties met March 16, at the North Star H. D. Club house, just north of Rising Star, to set up tentative plans for the program, crafts and food. Camp will last from 10 a.m., July 8, until about 1:00 p.m., July 9. Crafts will include basket weaving, shell craft, and copper tooling. There will be swimming and other forms of recreation as well as a book review. Menus will consist of well prepared foods cooked and served by hired cooks—no worry or bother for club members while they relax and enjoy a well-earned vacation.

More information will be made available to H. D. Club members as soon as further plans are developed, Miss Daniel stated. Present for the planning meeting were Mmes. J. B. Caudle, E. L. Stodghill, Homer R. Smith and the H.D. Agent, Miss Dorothy Carlson from

This is a noble effort on the part of the younger people and they will appreciate your co-operation. They would appreciate having the clothing early Friday morning and expressed need for more childrens and mens clothing.
