AND WEEKLY CHRONICLE

VOLUME TWENTY-FIVE

NO. 81

EASTLAND, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1953

PRICE FIVE CENTS

We shall drift away from the square today in order to bring you a few pungent paragraphs gathered at random from over the nation. These paragraphs will give you some idea concerning our present day social, economic and moral attitudes, as compared with those of twenty years ago.

Most of us have been participants in another revolution during these years, and most likely without knowing a struggle was in progress.

Most of us do know, and are acutely aware of the transitions of politics and international affairs, but few of us have stopped to think of the great changes being made in our social customs, moral behavior and trivial things in our every day life.

In 1935 expert polltakers, Gallup, Roper and others began taking statistics on our changing opinions, and Pageant magazine recently took time to enumerate some of these changes. We note many changes—some good and others bad.

For instance in 1937 one in four of us objected to movie scenes of women smoking cigarettes, and no less than one third of us objected to drinking scenes, heroines or what have you.

But today, and since the change, no less than one half of all American women smoke. Our opinions have changed, as a whole, whether you are willing to admit it or not, and we have many people who disapprove such conduct. Are we getting better or worse? You answer this one.

Another controversial question back in 1939 was "should married women work?" At that time four out of five of us said that women with husbands capable of supporting them, should shun all thought of a career, yet today 25 per cent of all married women are working.

This began during World War II, and it appears that the average woman worker has no desire to go back to the task of homemaking. She doesn't wish to resign, and is perfectly willing for the stay-at-homes to raise the babies, build our homes, and mend the garments, while she serves in a public capacity.

Economic conditions, at some future date, may force her to retire, but as we see the matter now, nothing else will make her leave the public job. What do you think about this today? You answer the question.

Twenty years ago the ideal size family was two children. Today four children are wanted, it appears.

At that time few of us thought that a young man with ambition and ability to rise in the world, could be successful enough to buy a home and earn $5,000 a year. Businessmen were very unpopular. Sentiment for government ownership of railroads, banks and power companies was high and sentiment towards labor unions was strong.

Today more than 70 per cent of American people have changed their views. They feel the young man may succeed, and a majority of voters feel that businessmen are a great force for good. Government ownership is very unpopular, and the growth of labor unions is low.

As late as 1938 most of us were satisfied to "care for our own knitting." No less than 67 per cent of our people opposed the League of Nations.

Today we not only belong to the United Nations, but have sacrificed 25,000 lives in its behalf. Since 1947 we have been hostile towards, and distrustful of Russia.

Up to 1946 we tolerated the Communist Party, and felt that a man might vote a Communist ticket and still be a good American. Today we are anti-Communist.

In 1937 people making $30 a week lived well. Today it takes $70 (government statistics) and then we don't live too well.

Yes, we are changing in our views, though we are not altogether pleased. How about you?

The glamorous movie star has received two letters threatening her and her daughters with death if she did not agree to reconciliation with former husband Aly Kahn and father of Yasmin.

Fiery Speech at Abilene 'GET TOUGH WITH COMMIES' URGES REP. OMAR BURLESON

Get tough with the Commies! Powder and steel should back up the United States position at the conference table when talking to the Reds.

That's the opinion expressed by U. S. Congressman Omar Burleson of Abilene, representing Eastland and 11 other 17th District counties, at a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Abilene Tuesday night.

Burleson stated his position of strength to gain justice at the coming peace conference for Korea in a speech that dealt heavily with foreign conditions and the U. S. foreign policy. Burleson is a member of the House of Representatives foreign policy committee.

The speech, made at a special ceremony to give Abilene's former prisoner of war, Bobby Caruth, the YFV oath of obligation, referred several times to "boys like Bobby Caruth."

Burleson warned against isolationist thinking. "I would like to be an isolationist," he said, "I may be one at heart but you know it cannot be done."

THREE MEN CHARGED IN BRECK THEFT

The spectacular robbery of the gate receipts of the Breckenridge-Graham football game at Breckenridge last Friday night appeared near solution early today.

Breck Police Chief Ollie Jackson, Ranger Jim Riddle and Deputy Sheriff Al Ramsey of Stephens County, working tirelessly on the baffling case, have charged three men who live near Fort Worth with the crime and they're due to be picked up today.

Deputy Sheriff Ramsey said the men live near Fort Worth and that one of the trio is an ex-convict and officers also believe that another of the alleged bandits also has a prison record. The leader of the three-man gang, however, has no criminal record, the deputy said.

Pictures of the three men have been secured. They are at the sheriff's office in Breckenridge for people to see and determine if they could be positively identified as being at the football game with Graham Friday night.

Names of the three were not released by Ramsey pending their arrest. Supt. John Culwell said that according to his figures loss in the robbery was $2,506.28. The school carried $3,000 burglary insurance.

Culwell's figures show 4,506 students and adults attending the game, total gate receipts being $4,218.75. Graham's part of this would be $1,963.87 after a total of $291 expenses for both are deducted. Also taken was $481.25 cafeteria funds that had been placed in the vault. Graham had retained $1,055, the receipts from tickets sold there.

One bright spot in the funds picture was that the burglars overlooked nearly $1,000 in one cash box.

The representative from the 17th Congressional District pointed out that modern science "has shortened the distance around the world" and that people who have been disgusted with "our so-called allies should be more patient."

Burleson said there were some things he did not like about France and cited the French inability to draft men for foreign service in Indo-China.

He said also there are some things he did not personally like about British sections in the East. These are reasons he said, that he has been hesitant to vote immediate foreign aid in some instances. He said he believed a delay would give a clearer picture and that "we could see if the French will have a responsible leadership."

"You will never find my support lacking when it comes to buying a gun and sending it to someone who may use it to defend themselves," he said. He added that while there was some calculated risk in sending guns abroad, there is actually very little danger.

The United States must have a lead in military production because airplanes cannot be ordered today and flown tomorrow, said Burleson. He stated that planes on the drawing board at the beginning of World War II were not in combat at the end of the war.

"When you are dealing with people who have no moral foundation how can you agree with them?" he asked.

"I don't know the answer." The Russians are masters of the conference table, said Burleson, adding he was far from satisfied with the situation but that stopping the shooting war in Korea was the best thing that could be done.

"It was necessary to keep our boys from being killed, maimed and wounded," he said. "They can only believe in force," he said, "and when I say they, I mean the Communists."

"When we sit down across the table it will take the force of steel and powder..."

"People who say we can live in a peaceful world with the Russians are wrong. It cannot be done. It takes powder and steel."

Burleson said he certainly did not believe in cutting the Air Force and that there is a need for tanks and guns.

However, he said, he was for stopping any waste of powder. "I voted to cut expenses of the government every way until I got to this," he said.

There is no comfort in knowing that we are staying ahead of the Russians in the atomic arms race, he said.

Burleson said if the U. S. has 10,000 planes armed with atomic or hydrogen-type bombs and "they have 1,000, you don't get any comfort from that."

"They won't write us a letter telling us they are coming," he said. "There won't be any 30-day notice!"

The National Association of Home Builders says the 2,000,000 veterans of the Korean war represent a vast housing market. Only 20,000 Korean veterans so far have exercised their GI home loan privileges.

DOGIES LINING UP FOR 1953 SEASON; INTEREST IS SHOWN

Eastland's Junior High Dogies began football practice on Monday afternoon, and some 42 boys have been out for workouts. Although seven of the boys are returnees from last year's potential team, progress has been slow, and much time has been spent on fundamentals such as blocking, tackling and handling the first two teams look pretty good, according to Coach Brock, though a little time is being spent with the 6th grade team. Fifteen sixth graders are in the fold learning the fundamentals, and the wing and T offense that is to be employed by the Junior Club.

The first game will be played on Sept. 24, and much time will be spent on the timing of the plays and scrimmages. Coach Brock says the timing of the wing T plays are a little rusty.

The boys who will likely bear the brunt of this year's games will be: Ends, Virle Lee, Charles May, Allen Miller, and R. L. Stuard; Tackles, Big Rex Webb, Johnny Mahan, Hampton Stamey, and Donald Carlile; Guards, John Lively, Eugene Reagan, Henry Van Geem, and Knicky Arther; Center, Kenneth Watson, Larry Hollis and Weldon Walton.

Other boys who have shown much improvement since training began are Bobby Lane, David Hunt, Arlie Casey, and Bill Lively.

The sixth grade boys have shown great spirit and in the future will make themselves known. The boys of the sixth grade will probably play two or three games this year if they can be scheduled.

Sixth grade boys are: R. D. Gilbreth, Ronald Armstrong, Bobby Phillips, Joe Martin, Truman Lane, Martin Day, Billy Don Turner, Larry Beggs, Glen Lively, Jim Webb, Otis Green, Freddie Miller, and Danny Pugh.

Coach Brock says that up until now he doesn't have a manager, as all the boys want to play. He also stated that he has a very fine group of boys to work with, and feels that he has an aggressive Ball Club.

There is a small shortage of equipment, and there are some boys waiting for other boys to quit so they may get his equipment.

Make an appointment to be on hand September 24, and see the Dogies launch their 1953 football season.

Other boys who are coming out for practice, but are not mentioned above are Dwayne Brown and Bill Lively.

An important memo from Washington of interest to Eastland Countians with fathers, husbands, sons and other loved ones and friends serving overseas with the U. S. armed forces—

The armed forces issued today a "Do Your Christmas Mailing - Early" warning on parcels for overseas military personnel.

The Pentagon announced that Christmas packages for service men overseas should be mailed between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15.

It also said that boxes addressed to Army or Fleet post offices must not weigh more than 70 pounds and exceed 100 inches in length and girth combined.

Air parcel post, the Defense Department said, must not exceed two pounds in weight or 30 inches in length and girth combined.

Parcels must be of double-faceted corrugated cardboard, metal or fiberboard and must be securely tied with strong cord.

Trail Blazers in Annual Meet At Rising Star

J. J. Gregg of Rising Star was elected Tuesday as president of the Trail Blazers, an organization of early settlers of that area.

Other officers for 1953 are John McInnes, vice president; J. H. Nunnally, secretary, and Mrs. Irene Mayfield, historian. All are of Rising Star. S. J. White is retiring president.

The association was organized in 1928 and now lists members in many sections of Texas and other states. Meetings are held annually.

Long Term

Little Items Of Local Interest
The Quarterback Club is drilling a water well at the Maverick football field. The rig was moved in Tuesday afternoon and the well is underway. H. C. Westfall, Quarterback president, was heard to say.

Pair Converted to Believing Signs
HERINGTON, KANSAS — Next time they'll believe it. Two Kansas fishermen were determined to take a closer look despite a "closed" sign at the entrance of a road hays. They noticed fresh tire tracks along the closed road at Lake Herington, and on they went.

Two miles farther they found the bridge out, turned around and returned. On the back side of the sign was printed in big black letters: "So there, smartie, it was closed wasn't it?"

Lions Club Meets At Connellee for Tuesday Session

Due to illness of Mrs. Ina Bean, who aids in the preparation of meals for the Lions Club, that body met at the Connellee Hotel for their weekly luncheon and meeting Tuesday. Late reports are that Mrs. Bean is recovering nicely.

Attendance was good, and considerably more interest than usual was shown.

Ray B. McCorkle had the program, and he selected as a subject, "Applied Lionism." He went into detail concerning projects and activities and gave reports concerning activities of other clubs; many of them in Texas.

The local Club was urged to sponsor more projects. "As Lions," he said, "we have a specific duty to perform, and to do this we must search out those things we should do." Money will be necessary, and to get this money Lions must work for it. "Make or rather earn all the money we can, honestly, and then spend it wisely," he urged.

Several minor questions came up for discussion, though final actions will be taken later.

Edd Hooker, football coach, gave a report on football activities, and stated that he feels the Mavericks are going places this year. The Mavericks are to meet Coleman Bears at Eastland Friday night of this week.

With all things considered the Lions enjoyed a good meeting.

Three County Backs On Area TD Scoring List

Three Eastland County schoolboy gridlers appeared today on a list of 25 top area scorers tabulated following the opening of the 1953 high school pepskin season last weekend.

The list is led by Billy Denny, dandy Prock back, who scored four touchdowns and booted three extra points to pile up an enviable total of 27 points.

Bill Braxa, fullback on Coach O. C. Warden's Ranger High Bulldogs, is credited with 12 points. He scored both TDs in the Marion & White's opener against double A Colorado City in Ranger last Friday night.

Harold Hendricks, standout back of the Carbon Wolverines of District 13-B, and Freddie Welch, Gorman Tigers secondary ace, also are credited with two TDs each.

Postal Rates To Overseas Due Increase

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced that he is raising the rates on foreign surface mail, except to Mexico and Canada, effective Nov. 1. Air mail rates will remain unchanged.

The increases for surface mail are as follows: Letters—From 5c for the first ounce and 3c for each additional ounce to 8c for the first ounce and 5c for each additional ounce.

Postcards—From 3c to 4c. Samples, small packets and commercial papers—From 2c for the first two ounces and 2c for each additional two ounces to 3c for the first two ounces and 2c for each additional two ounces.

Printed Matter—From 1 1/2c for the first two ounces and 1 1/2c for each additional two ounces to 2c for the first two ounces and 1 1/2c for each additional two ounces.

Mexico and Canada, which make direct pickups at the border of United States mail destined for points in those countries, will continue to have the benefit of American domestic rates.

Summerfield said there have been no major changes in the rates for foreign surface mail since 1952, and asserted the revisions will offset to some degree a continuing deficit in the international service, now amounting to about $14,000,000 a year for the classes of mail involved.

Mr. Johnson comes from Trinity Baptist Church in Ft. Worth, and is highly qualified to fill the post here, it is said.

JUST as he pulled himself up to the rock-ledge, he heard a sudden rattle, and felt a prick of fangs. Automatically he jerked back his right hand; turning his head, he saw the snake, coiled and menacing.

"Don't waste time by killing the snake," he remembered. He slid down from the ledge, sucking the bite. At the bottom he saw the hammer lying where he had left it. For a moment he thought he would go on and leave it there. That seemed like panic; so he stopped and picked it up with his left hand, and went on down the rough trail.

With the aid of a twig he twisted his handkerchief into a crude tourniquet. Walking on, he felt himself recovering from his panic. As he considered the situation, he was not greatly afraid. He was a young man, vigorous and healthy. Such a bite would hardly be fatal, even though he was by himself and without good means of treatment.

Now he saw the cabin ahead of him. His hand felt stiff. Just before he got to the cabin, he stopped and loosened the tourniquet, as he had read should be done, and let the blood circulate in the hand. Then he tightened it again. He pushed open the door, dropping the hammer on the floor as he did so.

He looked into the drawer of the table, and found his snake-bite outfit, which he should have been carrying with him on this day of all days. Quickly he followed the directions, slicing with the razor blade a neat little cross across the mark of the fangs, applying the rubber suction-pump. Then he lay on his bunk watching the rubber bulb slowly expand, as it sucked the blood out.

Although nobody lived within five miles of his cabin, during the summer hardly a day passed without some fisherman coming by, driving his car up the rocky road or merely following the stream. Yet, come to think of it, when had he last seen a fisherman? Not in the past week certainly. He could not actually remember whether he had seen one in the two weeks that he had been living by himself in the cabin.

The afternoon wore on. He did not feel like eating anything when it came toward supper, but he made himself a pot of coffee on the gasoline stove, and drank several cups. He was in much pain, but in spite of the pain and in spite of the coffee he became sleepy. . . .

HE woke suddenly in half-light, and realized that someone had pushed open the cabin door. He felt a sudden relief to know that he had help. Two men in city clothes were standing there, very decent-looking men, although staring around strangely, as if in fright. "I'm sick!" he said from his bunk, and suddenly he saw the fright on their faces change to sheer panic. They turned suddenly without even shutting the door, and ran. A moment later came the sound of a starting motor. It faded out as the car went up the road.

Soon, however, he felt much worse, and realized that he must be suffering some kind of relapse.

At the side of the path, in full view, lay the body of a fully clothed man.

By the middle of the afternoon he was really frightened. Lying in his bunk, he composed a note, thinking that he should leave a record of what had happened. It would not be very long of course, but someone would find him; his parents would certainly telephone Johnson in a few days to tell him what had happened. He changed to get the words onto paper. He was miserably ill. It was too much work to write out his full name, Linwood Williams, and everybody knew him by his nickname.

When he awoke in the middle of the next morning, he felt a sick, aching pain. He was not choking any more, and also his hand felt cooler. The swelling had gone down. On the preceding day he had felt so bad, from whatever other trouble had struck him, that he had had no time to think about the hand. Now both the hand and the illness seemed better, as if the one had stopped the other and they had both receded.

He did not bother to pack up everything. He took his precious notebooks and his camera. At the last moment also, as if by some kind of compulsion, he picked up the hammer, carried it to the car, and threw it in on the floor by his feet. He drove off slowly, using his right hand as little as possible.

At Johnson's everything was quiet. He let the car roll to a stop at the gasoline pump. Nobody came out to fill his tank, but that was not peculiar, because the Johnson pump, like so many in the mountains, was tended on a haphazard basis. He blew the horn, and waited again. After another minute he got out, and went up the rickety steps. He went in, but there was nobody there.

The pump was unlocked, and so he helped himself to gas and with difficulty scrawled a check which he left on the counter along with a note: "Found you all away. Took 10 gal. ish."

AS he drove down the road, he had suddenly a slight sense of uneasiness—the Johnsons gone on a weekday, the door unlocked, no fishermen, and (most of all) those men who had run away when they had seen another man lying sick in his bunk in a lonely mountain cabin. By the time he came to Black Creek Powerhouse, he felt normal in his mind again also.

At the powerhouse everything looked as usual. He heard the whir of the big generators, and saw the streams of foaming water still bursting out from beneath. A light was burning on the bridge. He thought, however, "I suppose nobody bothers ever to turn that out. They have so much electricity that they don't need to economize."

He considered going across the bridge to the powerhouse, just to see somebody and allay the strange fears which he had begun to feel. But the sight and sound of everything running normally were reassuring, signs that after all the powerhouse was working as usual, even though he saw no people. The process was so nearly automatic that only a few men were employed there.

HE came over the rise, and saw Hutsonville a mile away. Just as he started to slide down the grade, out of the corner of his eye, he caught sight of something which turned him inwardly cold. Automatically he tramped hard on the brake. He walked back, scarcely believing that he had really seen it. Just there at the side of the road, in full view, lay the body of a fully clothed man. The body must have lain there a day or two at least. He did not look closely or long, obviously the thing to do was to get into Hutsonville, and tell the coroner as soon as possible. He hurried back to the car.

Yet as he started again, he had a deep feeling inside him somewhere, strangely, that this was not a case for the coroner, and that possibly there would even be no coroner. He had seen no one at the Johnson's or at the powerhouse, and he had not met a single car on the road. The only things that seemed real from all the old life had been the light burning at the powerhouse and the quiet hum of the great generators at their work.

Then, as he came to the first houses, he suddenly breathed more easily, for there on a vacant lot a half-dozen chicks beside her, and a little farther on, a black-and-white cat wandered across the sidewalk as unconcerned as if it would have done upon any other June day.

The heat of the afternoon lay heavy on the street, and he saw no one. He came to the business center, stopped the car by the curb, and got out. There was nobody.

He tried the door of a little restaurant. It was open. He went in. "Hi!" he yelled. "Nobody came. Not even an echo spoke back to reassure him." (To Be Continued)

Now Heading Happily Home— EX-BRECKENRIDGE GRIDDER ENDS FIVE YEARS AS POW

Over five years in prison camps in World War II and in Korea recently ended for Major Newton W. Lantron, 39, former Breckenridge resident and Buckaroo football player. He was freed from a Communist POW camp last week and is believed now enroute to the United States.

Maj. Lantron, who has probably spent as much time as any American soldier as a POW, was in a German prison camp for 23 months in WW II and 37 months and 12 days in the Red prison.

Breckenridge Mayor P. M. Faulkner said a reception is awaiting the major should he return. His home is now in Arizona, but he still has many friends in Breckenridge.

He is a 1934 graduate of Breckenridge High School and was a tackle on the Buckaroo football team under Coach P. E. Shotwell, now co-ordinator of physical education for Abilene Schools.

Maj. Lantron worked for the Texas Electric Service Co. for about five years after graduating from school. He joined Company L of the Breckenridge National Guard in about 1935 or 1936 and was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1940. He went into service with the National Guard in WW II.

In Korea, Maj. Lantron was reported missing July 23, 1950—one day following capture of the famed Gen. Dean. Mrs. Lantron the former Virginia Garrard, is living in Mesa, Ariz., with the couple's two children, a son, Newton Jr., 14, and a daughter, about 12.

Word was received of the former Breckenridge man's release by R. E. Lee of Breckenridge, a friend. Lee was notified by John Garrard of Berger, father of Mrs. Lantron. While a prisoner in WW II, Maj. Lantron corresponded with Lee, who wrote as "an uncle" so that his letters would go through and enable Lantron to write more often from Germany. This way friends were able to keep track of him but no word was received from Maj. Lantron while he was a prisoner of the Reds. Maj. Lantron is the son of W. C. Lantron, former employe of the Lone Star Gas Co. who has been gone from Breckenridge for many years.

Word was received of the former Breckenridge man's release by R. E. Lee of Breckenridge, a friend. Lee was notified by John Garrard of Berger, father of Mrs. Lantron. While a prisoner in WW II, Maj. Lantron corresponded with Lee, who wrote as "an uncle" so that his letters would go through

Shooting Hours To Be Defined

Texas hunters from border to border are going to have sunup and sundown hours pinpointed for them.

The Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission said Hoye S. Dunham, chief United States meteorologist in Austin, will prepare a time table for sunrise and sunset covering representative parts of the state.

Dunham is arranging with stations at El Paso, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Texarkana, Beaumont, Brownsville, and Austin to obtain the data. When it is compiled, it will be distributed to all Texas public information media.

The Executive Secretary said the exact sunrise and sunset time is vital since beginning and ending of daily shooting periods for most major species hinges on the official time. This arrangement is designed to inform every Texas hunter so that he may hunt within the legal time.

CHILDREN'S TRAFFIC HABITS SHOULD BE WATCHED; TEACH CHILD TO BE ON THE ALERT

"Children's traffic habits, more often than not, are the result of the example their parents have set."

Col. E. B. Tilley of Houston, President of the Texas Safety Association, and Services Advisor for the Gulf Oil Corporation, made that statement today in appealing to motorists to cooperate with the Texas Safety Association in their September traffic program for child safety. "Good traffic habits and attitudes of parents will do a lot to keep children safe in traffic," he said. "Also important is the extent to which parents try to teach children safe traffic practices."

Parents can best cooperate with the program of the Texas Safety Association and the National Safety Council by following five simple rules, according to Col. Tilley.

He listed the five rules as follows:

1. As pedestrians, always set a good example to children. This includes crossing streets only at intersections, waiting for the signal, and looking both ways before crossing.
2. Learn what the school are teaching and, in cooperation with schools and traffic officials, help children develop safe traffic habits and attitudes.
3. See that children play only in approved play areas — never in the street or near moving traffic.
4. Teach children safe use of outdoor toys such as roller skates, tricycles, bicycles, scooters and wagons.
5. Instill in children the attitude that safety rules must be given the same respect and obedience as

Plymouth Hy-Drive

Newest, smoothest, least expensive no-shift driving in low-price field

Thousands of motorists today are enjoying the spectacular performance of Plymouth Hy-Drive

- It's Smooth —one flowing motion! No noises, jerks or lurches in going from one speed to another. Your car can't up-shift or down-shift on you unexpectedly.
- It's Powerful —for a fast, positive getaway. There's no racing of the engine to get started, no "winding up."
- It's Versatile —holds your car without using the brakes while halting on a hill. You get good engine braking going downhill. You can use the clutch for more exact control in "rocking" out of mud or snow.
- It's Economical —both in original cost and in upkeep. There's no complicated mechanism to get out of order or to adjust and maintain.

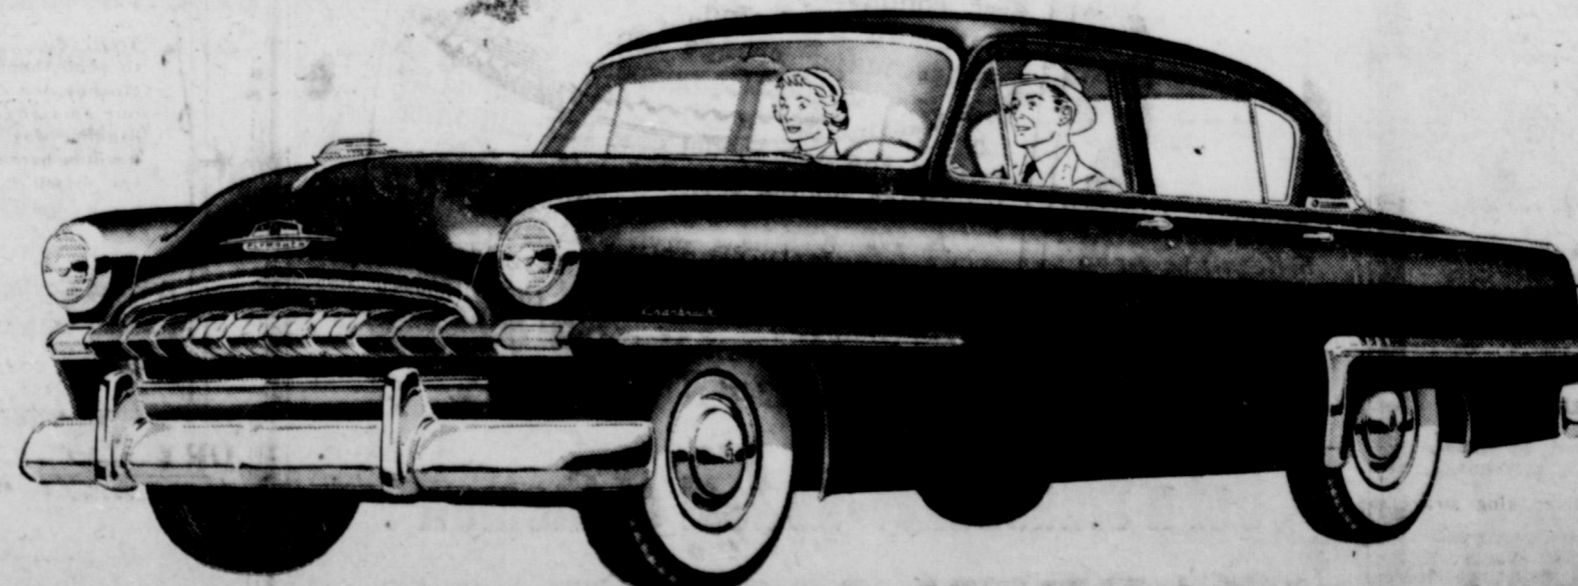

"It saves me around 2 gallons of gas each day," says this rural mail carrier

"Vic" Hammer is a rural mail carrier out of Appleton, Wisconsin. He drives the same route every day. He has 400 boxes, which means lots of starting and stopping. He used to use between 5 and 6 gallons each day.

Recently, Mr. Hammer purchased a new 1953 Plymouth equipped with Hy-Drive. He is now using between 3 1/2 and 4 gallons of gas a day on his route.

"I think this is an amazing performance," Mr. Hammer says. "I'm saving around 2 gallons of gas for the route each day. And it's 100 per cent easier serving the route now that I no longer have to shift gears."

Anti-Racket Brave

Hunting with bow and arrow pretty much went out with the birch bark canoe, but this brave has found a modern counterpart of the latter in a revolutionary "truly quiet" outboard motor.
 Just introduced after years of research, the 5 1/2 horsepower unit seems destined to replace its predecessor, the Sea-Horse "5" as the world's most popular outboard.
 Intake mufflers and underwater exhaust systems had already reduced power unit racket, but motor vibration when amplified by the hull of the boat acting as a sounding board provided a major headache to users and non-users alike.
 Now Johnson engineers have developed a suspension system that "floats" the motor independent of the boat, and the culprit vibrations are dissipated into thin (and quiet) air.
 At a recent New York press demonstration, it was agreed that conversation in normal tones and completely satisfactory portable radio reception were possible over the purr of the "5 1/2" at full throttle.
 The new motor contains many other features previously found only on larger units.

Teacher Shortage Increases In U. S.

Already acute problems of providing school facilities and teachers for our fast-growing school-age population will be intensified in the years ahead, according to forecasts by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

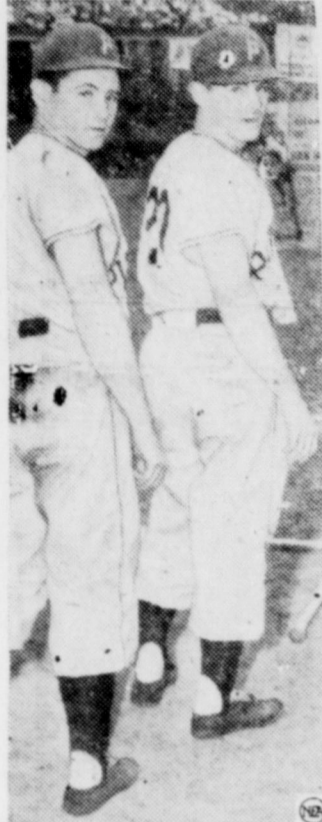

Estimates prepared by the statisticians from basic data published by the Bureau of Census and the National Office of Vital Statistics show that school authorities in the 16 Southern states (and District of Columbia) must be prepared to take care of 505,000 additional children this year, and 1,104,000 more in the next seven years.

In the South—the states below Pennsylvania and the Ohio River, plus Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas—the number of children at the elementary school ages of 5 to 13 is expected to increase from 9,099,000 this year to 10,406,000 in 1960. At the high school ages, 14 to 17, the increase during this period is expected to be from 3,293,000 to 4,020,000.

All regions of the country will share in the rise of the school population to new peaks, the statisticians point out. As of mid-year 1953, there were 31,775,000 children at ages 5 to 17 in the United States; by 1960 the total is expected to reach 42,244,000.

Throughout the nation as a whole, the elementary school population is expected to increase by 19 percent from 1953 to 1960, with the greatest increase—25 percent—in the West, and the lowest—15 percent—in the South. If the westward movement of population continues, the rise on the Pacific Coast will be greater than the current forecast.

The geographic pattern for the increases in high school age population conforms closely to that for elementary school children. Even without taking into consideration any migration toward the West, by 1960 that region may expect an increase of about 20 percent.

in the number of children at ages 14 to 17. Increases in other regions are expected to be 54 percent in the Northeast, 29 percent in the North Central states, and 22 percent in the south. "The problems of providing adequate school facilities and teaching staffs to meet the needs of the rapid growth of our school-age population are already with us," the statisticians concluded.
