Three accidents keep law officers busy

This 1996 Chevrolet Cavalier suffered major damages following a one-car accident early Monday morning approximately eight miles south of Post on U.S. Hwy 84. Driver of the vehicle, Airman Omar Bowles, was headed northbound when he lost control and the car rolled 11 times. Bowles, who was not seriously injured, was transported to Garza Memorial Hospital by Post EMS and later transferred to University Medical Center in Lubbock. Investigating officer DPS trooper Kyle Edwards attributed the seat belt as having saved the driver's life. (Photo by Becky Warren)

By Becky Warren

On Friday night at 6:30 p.m. an 18-wheeler hauling gas line pipe overturned on South 84 spilling pipe and blocking traffic.

The driver, Rhodhen, apparently went to sleep. When the truck dropped off the shoulder the driver over corrected which caused the trailer to jack knife and roll. The driver received minor injuries.

According to DPS trooper Kyle Edwards traffic was blocked for about five hours. "We had to divert traffic into the southbound lane in order to allow any one to travel north," said Edwards.

A fork lift and trailer was brought to the scene by H&M in order to clear the pipe out of the highway. Two wreckers were brought out of Lubbock to turn the truck upright.

Commissioners urge extreme caution on fireworks use

by Wes Burnett

Extreme caution is being urged by the Garza County Commissioners' Court regarding the use of fireworks during the July 4th holiday. Judge Giles Dalby informed commissioners that dry conditions throughout the county present special fire hazards. The court could request authority to ban fireworks, but opted to use educational efforts during the holiday season.

"We hope parents will be especially careful with aerial fireworks," Dalby urged.

In other action commissioners approved the appointment of Dawson County Judge Charles Arthur to serve as a special judge for a case to be heard here. Dalby announced that he had recused himself from the case due to a conflict. The defendant is an employee of Dalby Cattle Co.

The indigent burial policy was reviewed by commissioners, and following a discussion, approved payment of $450 to Justice-Mason Funeral Home and $44 for transportation costs related to the recent burial of a baby. The total statement was $832. Commissioners agreed to arrange a meeting with both Justice-Mason and Hudman funeral homes to discuss the rate fees for indigent burials.

A community and county-wide meeting has been set for June 27 at 7 p.m. in the Post Community Center to explore possibilities for establishing the Windmill Museum here. "We need to find out what kind of support there is in the county for this facility," Dalby said.

The court approved the installation of privacy walls at the jail following an explanation by Sheriff Kenny Ratke about the project and its need. Texas jail standards inspector Paul Scarborough had recommended the $355 addition.

Sheriff Ratke also presented information about a computerized calling program for the elderly and shut-ins. The program includes a computer and telephone system with a pre-recorded message, which sequentially dials pre-selected phone numbers and alerts operators in case there is no answer. Ratke said he planned to seek private funding and would report later on the subject.

Commissioners appointed deputy J.W. Jolly III to serve as emergency management coordinator. Dalby explained that Jolly was already doing much of the duties. Ratke agreed with the appointment.

May 28 Meeting

In a special meeting May 28, held on Tuesday due to the Monday holiday, commissioners approved funding for Jolly to attend the tactical surveillance techniques-public agency training council. The court also approved a recommendation by county attorney Leslie Acker to fund the secretarial position for the judge and attorney at $14,974 per year. The position is half-time at each office.

A special called meeting on April 12 included an executive session to discuss terminating Mrs Irene Cisneros. Following the executive session, the court agreed unanimously to terminate Mrs Cisneros effective March 11, 1996 with no severance pay. She had been requested to bring documents to show the time spent in the hospital and documents to show the date and time of the theft of luggage at the airport. According to the court records, Mrs Cisneros failed to produce the requested documents.

Tax 'n Facts
by Terri Cash, CPA

Great G.R.A.T.

Estate planning covers more than the value of your assets now; it also should allow for their future appreciation before you die. If you're holding properties that are growing quickly, it may be smart to transfer them now. A Grantor Retained Annuity Trust (GRAT) helps you do that at little tax cost.

The owner puts property into a trust for the benefit of heirs while retaining an annuity for a number of years. (That's what reduces the taxable part of the transfer). Annuity payments need not be level and, if cash is not generated, can be paid in kind.

As a practical matter, each security should be placed in a separate trust, so that winners don't subsidize losers. The trust term should not be too long, because the property reverts to the estate if the donor dies during its term. Annuity payments must last at least two years. Watch out for generation-skipping transfer taxes if the after-annuity aggregate is large.

Consumers and credit

How many times have you received a credit card offer in the mail? Consumers are still receiving offers to start a new credit card account at a low interest rate. The offer may or may not be a real money harvester. Before taking the offer, get all the facts.

Call the 800 number on the back of the credit cards you hold which currently have a low interest charge that may be expiring soon. Ask what your new rate will be when the introductory rate expires. When they tell you the new, higher rate, politely ask what lower rate they might offer to keep you as a consumer, since you have an option to transfer your account to another credit card that has a lower rate. The rate could be as low as 1 percentage point higher than your introductory rate. Consumers will not get a reasonable rate unless they ask for it.

If a low rate is not available from current credit card companies, look closely at the new offers. Check the fine print closely. Every credit card solicitation must spell out the main cost factors, the interest rates and grace periods.

Look also for fees for balance transfers and cash advances. Avoid low-rate cards that charge a cash-advance fee, often 2 percent of the amount being transferred.

Accept cards only if they provide interest-free grace periods of 30 days on balances transferred, and a 30-day grace period for new purchases. Cards without a grace period charge interest from the date of the balance transfer or new purchase, regardless if payments are made by the due date.

Apply for only one card at a time. Trying for several at once is called the "shotgun" approach. While hoping to be approved for at least one card and then cancel others, credit card companies may see such activity in your credit reports as a signal for high probability of financial irresponsibility.

When cards are available and approved with low interest, grace periods and low, no annual or transfer fees, respond if you need the credit. When your new credit is approved, consolidate as many balances on other higher interest cards as possible to your new account.

Don't be tempted to pay the minimum payment at the new low interest. Take the total of payments you had been making on all accounts consolidated, and make the payment on your new account. That is the only way making a change to a lower interest account will truly help you harvest more money by lowering the amount you pay for credit purchases.

Before deciding to go ahead with a new credit card company, always remember to do the research and find out everything you need to know. Ask yourself, "Do I really need another credit card?" Saving money starts with a clear head!

Pesticide container collection announced

The Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is sponsoring Texas Country Clean-Ups and empty pesticide container recycling programs at five locations on the South Plains during the week of June 17-21.

Representatives will be on hand at each site to accept containers from 8 a.m. until 12 noon at the following sites: June 17 - Farmers Co-op, Lamesa June 18 - Terry County Co-op Gin, Brownfield June 19 - Five Points Gin, Seagraves June 20 - Abernathy Producers Co-op Gin, Abernathy June 21 - Max Lee Crop Spraying Service, Slaton

Keep in mind that each site provides the collection free of charge with no questions asked. Just as importantly, remember, only pesticide containers will be accepted at Lamesa and Brownfield. These containers must be triple rinsed and punctured, with no remaining residue inside, this includes the hollow handles. At Seagraves, Abernathy and Slaton, they will accept batteries, waste oil and filters in addition to the pesticide containers. Do not take any old tires or chemicals to the sites as they will be rejected.

Any containers which have not been thoroughly cleaned will be rejected and must be taken from the site by the original owner. As planting season winds closer to an end, it is likely that this service could prove useful to Garza County producers.

As you may recall, this program is strictly voluntary in nature and in no way is a pesticide applicator required to attend or submit containers. This program simply allows farmers and ranchers the opportunity to dispose of waste products that are environmentally sensitive.

If one of these sites appeals to you then, by all means attend. Keep in mind, that you are responsible for the items or containers you transport to a collection site. Make sure that you secure all items that you transport to prevent "accidental discarding" on the highway. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Garza Healthtalk

When food and medicine don't mix

(From "The People's Pharmacy" J. & T. Graedon)

by Linda Trimmier RN-BSN

Did you know that what you choose to eat and drink while taking medication can mean the difference between getting better or getting sicker?

Following are a few common food/drug interactions and the side effects they can cause.

Avoid Eating: Salt substitutes

When Taking: potassium-sparing diuretics, such as Aldactazide, Dyazide, Maxide, Modouretic. Also steer clear of salt substitutes if you are on ACE inhibitors, including Accu-peil, Altace, Capoten, Monopril, Prinivil, Zestril and Vasotec, which help bring blood pressure under control.

Side Effects: Using salt substitutes can make the potassium level in your body sky rocket prompting you to feel lethargic or to have difficulty breathing and heart-rhythm changes.

Avoid Drinking: Grapefruit juice.

When Taking: Calcium channel blockers, such as Calan, Adalat, Procardia, Verapamil and Plendil, which help keep blood pressure under control and relieve angina (or chest pain).

Also avoid grapefruit juice when taking antihistamines Seldane, which is used for hay fever and other types of allergies.

Avoid Eating: Licorice.

When Taking: Diuretics, such as Lasix, Enduron, Lozol, Diuril, Oretic, HydroDiuri and Esidrix, which help control blood pressure and relieve conditions like congestive heart failure.

Also avoid Licorice when taking Lanax (Digoxin) which is used to treat heart problems.

Side Effects: Licorice can produce dangerously low potassium levels in your body, in some cases leading to serious heart problems.

Safety: Do's & Don'ts

1. Take your medicine correctly and make sure all your physicians know about every drug you are taking.

2. Make a written list of all your medicines and your allergies, including foods, in the event of an emergency. Always take all of your medicine bottles with you to the emergency room.

3. Never start or stop any medication without your doctor's knowledge.

4. Children should never take aspirin or any other adult medications.

Now you buy many drugs in the supermarket or drug store without a prescription. Check with your physician; even vitamins and mineral supplements may produce hazardous combinations.

Your pharmacist is a very important source of help. He or she specializes in drug information and interactions.

Teach a child to choose the right path, and when he is older he will remain upon it.
Living Bible Proverbs 22:6

Fathers

Fathers come in all shapes and sizes. They have different occupations, beliefs, and ages. One thing loving and caring fathers have in common, is the responsibility involved in being called "Father." It seems that once we begin raising a family, we are thrust into the role of a parent with little or no training. Usually we are able to adapt by reading, asking questions, and using common sense. When raising children, there are three stages of fatherhood. The two-year-old child says "Daddy," the ten-year-old says "Dad," and the teenager says "Father." The loving father knows that while all stages are important, the "Daddy" stage is when you must instill the moral fibers and character which will be carried through life. Although there have been countless books written on parenting, the best handbook for parents is still the Bible.

Up and Down Main Street

by Wanda Mitchell, Post Chamber of Commerce

Who would think that people would come to Post, drive 13 miles in the country (six of those on a dirt road) to see an art exhibit. They did. And they came by the hundreds.

People all over the country still talk about the OS Ranch Steer Roping and Art Exhibit. All you have to do is say you are from Post and the conversation starts. After our last show in 1984, we have stayed in touch with many of the artists that showed here through the years and they all have wanted to come back and do it again.

This year we decided it was time. It has been 25 years since the birth of the OS as it was known throughout the country and nostalgia has set in pretty good. We want to see everyone and renew old acquaintances and friendships.

Debbie Macy has graciously taken on the job of getting the show together and with the help of Marie Neff at the OS Museum has done a massive mailing to most of all the artists. Responses are already coming in and things are shaping up as planned.

The show will be in conjunction with Founders' Day and will be held September 13, 14 and 15. Debbie may be calling on some of you for your help so please let's all get involved and make this a major event for Post.

We want to welcome a new business to Post. M & E Tanning and Karlas Klippers has opened at 105 N. Ave. I. We wish them luck.

Another new business in town is The Firm located at #2 Manna Square. If you have not had time to get in there it is worth the effort. Jan has these seven miracle machines that make you feel so good. You will leave there feeling relaxed and more energetic than usual. Your first visit is complimentary so what have you got to lose. (That's a pun!) She says it is great for people with arthritis. Also very good for circulation.

Saturday is going to be a fun time in Post because Tommie Anderson and Jazz Alley will be here to entertain at the Tower Theatre. You will think you are at Preservation Hall on Bourbon Street when Tommie and his guys cut loose with their Dixieland style music. And when they are finished you will think that Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong was reincarnated right on the Tower stage.

This is going to be a great show and one that we have never done before so plan now to be there. Call the Chamber office for reservations.

New businesses, new shows at the Tower, new events for Founders' Day. No wonder we.....Take Pride and Take Part in Post!!!!!!

Davenport, Gilmore win state championship

The Texas Horseshoe Pitchers Association held their annual state doubles over the Memorial Day weekend at Littlefield this year.

Post students visit the capital

A group of 13 Post students along with Dedra Adams, tour director, returned to Post early Monday morning following a tour of Washington D.C. and the Baltimore area.

The group left Post Wednesday, May 29, to fly to Washington from Lubbock. While in the D.C. area the group stayed at the Maryland Inn Laurel in Laurel, Maryland.

Traveling with the Post group was a group of students from Merkel, Texas.

The group started touring immediately upon arriving in Washington D.C. They traveled first by charter Metro busline to Mount Vernon - home of George Washington. Washington acquired the Mount Vernon estate in 1754 which was built by his father in 1735 and later enlarged by Washington himself. Washington died at Mount Vernon at the age of 67 in 1799. Both Washington and Martha Washington are buried on the estate. After touring the land once traveled by Washington, the group had a motor tour of Alexandria, Virginia.

After leaving Alexandria the group went to the Vietnam Memorial and the Korean Memorial.

Thursday, the group was off to the National Zoo, the National Cathedral and Embassy Row. While at the zoo, some of the favorite sites were the pandas, elephants, giraffes, lions, tigers, bears, reptile house and the great ape house.

The group then traveled to the Smithsonian Complex, Museum of American History, Natural History Museum and the National Air and Space Museum.

A subway ride was in store for the group as they rode to Pentagon City. The night tour followed with the Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson memorial, Iwo Jima Memorial and the Kennedy Center.

The group met Janice Peters, Lakeland Tours representative at the American History Museum. Janice worked with the Post group all year coordinating the tour.

Friday saw the group touring the Washington Monument, White House for a picture stop, Fords Theatre and Petersen House. President Lincoln was shot at Ford's Theatre and later died at Petersen House.

That afternoon the group went to Capitol Hill. There they visited the Nations Capitol, Supreme Court, Library of Congress and the Postal Museum. After leaving Capitol Hill the group went to The Naval Museum and the National Archives. The original Declaration of Independence and Constitution are on view at the Archives.

Saturday, the group went to Arlington Cemetery. The students saw the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Kelli Collier and Chris Metzgar represented Post and presented a wreath at the Tomb. The Kennedy gravesites were also viewed.

The group also went to the National Geographic and US Navy Memorial and the Holocaust Museum. The highlight of the tour was the exhibit at the National Geographic.

Peru's Ice Maiden was on display. After 500 years in a frozen tomb an Inca mummy was discovered. She was barely in her teens when she was sacrificed to the gods on a Peruvian peak. Recent eruptions of a nearby volcano had deposited ash on Mount Ampato, which absorbed the sun and helped melt the ice on the summit. The mummy was unveiled on May 21 and is on display only until June 19. Post students were very lucky to be able to observe this.

Sunday the Post group traveled to Baltimore and the Harbor area. The group visited the National Aquarium. The aquarium is on four levels and some of the exhibits are the Rays, Seals, Atlantic Coral Reef, Puffins, Sharks and the Rain Forest. The group also saw the dolphin show at the Amphitheater.

Fr. McHenry was next on the agenda. The battle of Baltimore was highlighted by the fact that Frances Scott Key dramatized the bombardment of the flag and much of the feeling of the day in verse. He wrote what is known as the The Star Spangled Banner.

The group rode the Metrorail (subway) to the airport and began their journey back to Post.

Accidents fill agenda for Sheriff

Sunday was a busy day for the Garza County sheriff's office and DPS troopers.

At 7:18 p.m. the sheriff's office received a call that a motor vehicle accident had occurred at the corner of North Broadway and 12th Street.

The accident, involving two cars, was blocking traffic on the inside southbound lane of Hwy 84.

According to the accident report 20 year old Kimberly Ann Kennedy of Round Rock failed to yield right of way to oncoming traffic.

The impact of the accident to the front of Kennedy's car was enough to activate the air bag. Kennedy, who suffered minor injuries from the air bag, was transported to GMH by DPS trooper Chris Wischkaemper. The occupants of the other vehicle, Kenneth and Geneva Cook of Winters were uninjured.

Both vehicles had to be towed from the accident by Quintanas Wrecker Service.

Kennedy was issued a citation for failure to yield right of way at a stop sign.

A second accident that was reported at approximately 12:45 a.m. Monday morning sent sheriff's deputies, DPS trooper Kyle Edwards and Post City-County EMS into action.

According to the accident report a 1996 Chevrolet was traveling northbound on South 84. The driver, Airman Omar Bowles of Richmond, Va., apparently went to sleep. The car went across the center median and across both southbound lanes hitting the guard rail and sending the car airborne. The car landed approximately 45-50 yards down the shoulder. Trooper Edwards said that the car rolled approximately 11 times. The driver, who was traveling to Cannon Air Force Base in Clovis, was taken to Garza Memorial Hospital by Post EMS. He was later transferred to University Medical Center for further treatment and evaluation.

The vehicle was towed to Post by Mason Wrecker Service.

In the story last week on Pat Walker the penal code listed was wrong. The penal code in Walker's case is under the 1994 law. It should read that the charge is a felony of the third degree if the value of the property is $200 or more but less than $10,000.

The sheriff's office had received 67 calls for the past week.

On Tuesday, June 4, a 48 year old male was arrested on a Taylor County warrant for possession of a controlled substance. He was released on a $1000 cash bond for Taylor County and a $2500 bond for county court.

On Friday, June 7, a 32 year old male was arrested for disorderly conduct (fighting). He was released after paying $230 in fines and court costs. A 25 year old male was also arrested for disorderly conduct (fighting). He was also released after paying $230 in fine and court costs. An 18 year old male was arrested on a warrant for assault. He was released after posting a $5000 bond. A 24 year old male was arrested for application to revoke probation on a DWI charge and for bond surrender. He was released after posting a $3000 bond. Also a 48 year old male was arrested for disorderly conduct. He plead guilty and was fined $230. He was released.

On Saturday, June 8, a 56 year old male was arrested for driving while intoxicated. He is still being held at press time. Also a 41 year old male was arrested for driving while intoxicated. He was released after posting a $2500 bond.

On Sunday, June 9, a 31 year old male was arrested on a warrant to revoke his probation. He is still being held at press time. Also a 37 year old male was arrested for bond surrender. He is also still being held at press time.

Congress OKs new middle-class pay cut; Democrats cheer

Vin Suprynovicz

Do you make $12 per hour? $18? The House of Representatives just cut your pay. As of May 22, with the minimum wage set at $4.25, the $12 worker was earning and receiving 2.8 times what a trainee ketchup-squirter earns at the local burger joint; the $18-an-hour worker was making 4.2 times that standard.

But - without requiring the ketchup-squirters to be any more productive, to learn any more skills or produce any more product or value for their employers - 93 "conservative" Republicans including such "radical" freshmen as Congressman John Ensign of Nevada abandoned sound economic principle and went belly-up to union bullying rather than be labeled "haters of the poor," voting with cheering Democrats May 23 to require all employers, under penalty of law, to pay even the most retarded menial leaf-raker or bun-butterer at least $4.75 per hour as of July 1, and at least $5.15 per hour starting a year later. At that point, the $12 per hour American worker will no longer be earning 2.8 "ketchup squirter equivalents," but only 2.3 "ketchup squirter equivalents." The $18-an-hour worker's earnings will also drop, in comparison to that measurable national standard, from 4.2 to 3.5.

Is this nothing but idle number-shuffling? Far from it. True, not all poor high school kids and day care center blanket-tuckers will see their promised raises from $4.25 to $5.15. Some will just be quietly laid off as even more replacement robot machinery and "out-sourcing" of routine tasks are thus made cost-effective.

And we will never know the additional number of young minority men, staring that thousand-yard stare as they stand around the ghetto penny-pitch, vowing in desperation to "do some crimes" if some honest work doesn't turn up soon, who might have been able to reach the first rung of the employment ladder at $4.25, but for whom $5.15 will remain permanently out of reach.

But most employers will find a way to pay $5.15 ... and pass it on to their customers.

The effects will be incremental, and hard to attribute to the government wage intervention alone. But trust me, the price of that hamburger, that gallon of gas at the self-serve island, the price of having your lawn mowed or your hair cut or your child diapered will now creep up that much faster.

If the $12 and the $18 workers are smart, they won't wait, but will start militating now for their own 21 percent raises, based on the anticipated (and now inevitable) hike in the cost of living over the next several years.

That's what the labor unions - who pushed this move, though few to none of their members settle for $4.25, or $5.15, or even $6.05 an hour - have been counting on: the ripple effect.

And once that begins, of course, the magic "I" word - inflation - will again ripple through the councils of the stock and bond traders, leading to retrenchments which could also limit the return on the invested retirement funds of all those $12 and $18-an-hour workers. (You were thinking of retiring to San Diego? Biloxi is also nice.)

None of this is news. Nor is it rocket science. When Congress declares that a thing of fixed value, once worth $4.25, shall now be worth $5.15, they have not increased the value of the thing (no one can do that with the stroke of a pen) - they have merely devalued the dollar ... the dollar in which all the rest of us are paid.

Majority Leader Dick Arme of Texas, a former economics professor, said before the vote he believed with "every fiber of my being" that raising the wage floor would boomerang against the disadvantaged young workers who need jobs the most. That effect is such a basic principle of economics, he said, that Joseph E. Stiglitz, a top economics adviser to the president, included it in his textbook.

"If a college freshman doesn't grasp this, he's not likely to pass the course," said Mr. Arme.

But why should the Congress worry about such well-known and inevitable effects?

It's an election year, and all that's required now is to demonstrate good intentions.

Will social security's failure fatten big government?

by Stephen Chapman

Social Security is a prime example of the excesses of the modern welfare state - a program that has promised so much to so many that it can't possibly deliver. Now the day of reckoning is at hand. But hard-core defenders are practicing a clever form of jujitsu, hoping to turn this failure into a grand victory for Big Government.

A generation ago, economist Milton Friedman and a few other mavericks suggested that Americans be allowed to invest their Social Security "contributions" in private annuities instead of throwing them into a mythical government trust fund. They were generally dismissed as the crackpot offspring of Herbert Hoover. But today, even liberals can't deny that Social Security is shaping up to be the biggest rip-off of the 21st century.

The growth of mutual funds and the ever-rising stock market have educated millions of people that there is a lot of money to be made investing in private equities. Over the last 30 years, stocks and bonds have provided an annual real return of more than 9 percent, and there is every reason to think they will continue to produce substantial gains over and above inflation. Americans used to think it was risky to buy stocks. Many of them have come to see that the bigger risk is not buying stocks.

Social Security was a great deal for retirees in the days when the number of people paying in was large and the number taking out was small. But those days are gone. Future retirees can expect only a 1 percent or 2 percent return on the money they contribute in payroll taxes, if that. Many young people think they would do just as well shipping their money to the municipal landfill, since they expect Social Security to collapse long before they reach the golden years.

Even former Social Security commissioner Robert Ball no longer claims that workers will be fairly rewarded when they retire or defend the status quo. "Why should the trust fund earn just one-third as much as common stocks?" he asks.

But Ball, who is on an advisory council set up to evaluate the options for Social Security, doesn't want to let workers invest their money in equities. He wants the government to do it for them. The trust fund, which now buys Treasury bills with its surplus revenues, would buy stocks instead.

Huh? The rest of the world has abandoned socialism, and now the United States is supposed to embrace it? The trust fund is expected to grow to nearly $2.7 trillion by 2020. "With that, the government could buy every Fortune 500 company in America," says Michael Tanner, director of the Social Security Privatization Project at the Cato Institute in Washington.

With ownership, of course, comes control. If the trust fund is allowed to acquire a substantial share of the stock of corporations, politicians will suddenly find all sorts of reasons to interfere in how they're run.

Unlike most shareholders, who want only to maximize their return, elected officials and bureaucrats are likely to care far more about a political agenda punishing tobacco or firearms companies, spurning investment in politically incorrect countries, demanding that workers be paid higher wages, preventing plant closings or subcontracting needed to enhance the company's profits, and so on.

The federal government would soon have a major say in corporate decisions that ought to be dictated entirely by market forces — by the free interplay of producers and consumers responding to supply and demand. Producers, consumers, other shareholders and the economy in general would suffer. So, incidentally, would Social Security recipients. Government ownership of companies has been a disaster everywhere it's been tried. We don't need to run the experiment again.

Luckily, we don't have to resort to the back-door nationalization of every major company in America just to improve the retirement picture for millions of working Americans. There is a far superior option — letting individuals put a portion of their payroll taxes into private accounts and invest the money themselves. Contributions would accumulate and earn high returns. Investment decisions would be made by individual choice, not political dictates.

If they want to avoid, say, tobacco stocks or companies that shift jobs overseas, they would be free to do that, if they're prepared to sacrifice some returns. But people who feel differently wouldn't have to go along.

More important, the private sector wouldn't have to jump to do the bidding of politicians who know little and care less about satisfying consumers. Social Security reform should be about enriching and empowering individuals, not expanding the government.

Another government sponsored lie

by Walter E. Williams

Last November, the Congressional Research Service, a non-partisan, independent research arm of Congress, released its findings in a report called "Environmental Tobacco Smoke and Lung Cancer Risk." In evaluating the Environmental Protection Agency's claim that environmental tobacco smoke was a class-A carcinogen, causing 3,000 deaths per year, the Congressional Research Service concluded, "It is possible that very few or even no deaths can be attributed to environmental tobacco smoke.... The statistical evidence does not appear to support a conclusion that there are substantial health effects of passive smoking."

Now comes the revelation of more government deceit and manipulation of the American people by way of the Centers for Disease Control. In a story titled "AIDS Fight Is Skewed by Federal Campaign Exaggerating Risks" in The Wall Street Journal (May 1, 1996), Amanda Bennett and Anita Sharpe report a woeful tale of government deceit.

The CDC's propaganda message is: Anyone could get AIDS! The fact of business is that for most heterosexuals, the risk of getting AIDS from a single act of sex is smaller than the risk of ever being struck by lightning. A recent major study concludes that the average risk from a one-time heterosexual encounter, with someone not in a high-risk group, is 1 in 5 million without a condom and 1 in 50 million for condom users. However, a single act of anal sex with an infected partner or a single injection with an AIDS-tainted needle carried a 1-in 50 chance of infection. Indeed, of all reported AIDS cases, 83 percent are homosexuals and intravenous drug users.

Why the lie? Here's what was said by Dr. Walter Dowdle, a virologist who helped create the CDC's anti-AIDS office in the early 1980s: "as long as this was seen as a gay disease or, even worse, a disease of drug abusers, that pushed the disease way down the ladder (of people's priorities)." Dr. Dowdle and others thought there wouldn't be political support for AIDS prevention and research if the majority of heterosexuals believed they and their families were only minimally at risk. Thus, the CDC's public relations ploy was to deliberately create ads where the subjects wouldn't be identified as homosexual or intravenous drug users. CDC official John Ward said, "I don't see much downside in slightly exaggerating (AIDS risk)."

The CDC strategy paid off. Taxpayer funding for CDC's AIDS-related medical research soared from $341 million in 1987 to $1.65 billion today. CDC's AIDS prevention dollars went from $136 million in 1987 to $584 million this year.

With all the lying about AIDS, we might ask questions about how the CDC is spending our money. The CDC's largest prevention program is AIDS testing. In 1994, it gave 2.4 million costly AIDS tests. Only 13 percent of those tests were given to the high-risk population: homosexual or bisexual men and intravenous drug users. But Washington doesn't have a monopoly of doing things completely backward. A California study found that 85 percent of AIDS cases were among men who had sex with men but prevention programs targeting this group received only 9 percent of state AIDS prevention dollars.

There are those in the medical profession who've tried to be honest. In the 1980s, Stephen C. Joseph, former New York City commissioner of public health, blasted the notion that AIDS was making inroads into the general population. Today, Dr. Joseph, assistant secretary of defense for health affairs at the Pentagon, says, "Political correctness has prevented us from looking at the issue (AIDS) squarely in the eye and dealing with it. It is the responsibility of the public-health department to tell the truth."

Wisdom

"Before a standing army can rule, the people must be disarmed; as they are in almost every kingdom in Europe. The supreme power in America cannot enforce unjust laws by the sword; because the whole of the people are armed, and constitute a force superior to any bands of regular troops that can be, on any pretense, raised in the United States."

Noah Webster in "An Examination into the leading Principles of the Federal Constitution," New York, 1888

The Constitution for the United States Preamble

We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article 4

Section 1. Full Faith and Credit shall be given in each State to the public Acts, Records, and judicial Proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the Manner in which such Acts, Records and Proceedings shall be proved, and the Effect thereof.

U.S. Supreme Court destroys 4th amendment protections in decision

by Wes Burnett

The United States Supreme Court ruled this week that it is constitutional for law enforcement to detain motorists merely on suspicion, and that includes the power to arrest, jail and search vehicles without a warrant.

Americans are now totally at the mercy of sheriffs, police departments and state police. There is no security or privacy while inside a vehicle, and no protection under the 4th Amendment, in the eyes of the supreme justices.

I guess the days of running off to Lubbock might be a bit more risky with the knowledge that highway pirates may pounce anytime.

Property and Plunder

by Frederick Bastiat (1801-1850)

excerpt from "The Law"

published by The Foundation for Economic Education Inc., Irvington-On-Hudson, New York, N.Y.

Thus it is easy to understand how law, instead of checking injustice, becomes the invincible weapon of injustice. It is easy to understand why the law is used by the legislator to destroy in varying degrees among the rest of the people, their personal independence by slavery, their liberty by oppression, and their property by plunder. This is done for the benefit of the person who makes the law, and in proportion to the power that he holds.

Are these examples of legal plunder?

Every month the two Garza County JP courts and the City of Post municipal court, present summaries of collections and disbursements to the commissioners court and city council. Most of the revenue reported by these courts reflect money taken from violators of state regulatory rules and regulations through statutory legislative action. Whether it be so-called traffic violations or public intoxication, these statutory "laws" are in fact revenue "enhancers," and except in those cases where there is an injured party or a victim, these so-called violations are clearly just another way for the state to steal money from its citizens and visiting travelers.

In the month of May 1996, the city of Post netted $1,664 from these legislative theft programs, with $851 going directly to Austin from the municipal court.

Garza County raked in $8,506 out of a total of $15,099, transferring $6,593 from JP 1 to the state. The county picked up $5,307 from JP 2, with $4,576 shipped off to Austin.

Of course, the entire system of traffic fines is one gigantic money making machine for local and state governments. Speeding, no seat belts, failure to show proof of insurance, safety inspection stickers and registration decals... all designed to fleece money from people in the name of safety or some other nonsense.

And then there's the scam operated by the "license and weights" division of the DPS... a basic extortion program set up to harass the trucking industry, as well as local companies which operate trucks in the county. The stated purpose is to protect travelers, but ask any of your friends driving trucks here and they'll tell you some prime examples of pure and simple "enforcement" that goes beyond common sense. Safety is not the real issue, the dirty secret is that the DPS couldn't fund its operations without these fines.

In the name of prevention, we have lopped off a basic and fundamental principle of law... if there is no victim, there is no violation of law.

FSA accepting emergency loan applications

Garza County was declared eligible for Farm Service Agency (FSA) disaster emergency loans on May 13, 1996. Generally, that means that farmers who have lost at least 30 percent of their production due to drought, hail, and high winds, from January 1, 1995, through February 13, 1996, and continuing are eligible for FSA loans. Proceeds from crop insurance are taken into account when determining eligibility.

FSA Ag Credit Manager, Craig Simpson is urging farmers who are interested in receiving an emergency loan to get their applications into FSA as soon as possible. Simpson said, "We hope farmers will get their applications in early rather than waiting until near the deadline which is January 13, 1997. The longer they wait, the more chance there is for long delays in getting their checks. If the applications come in early, we can avoid backlogs and speed up the process."

The FSA office is at 2524 82nd Street, Lubbock. The telephone number is 743-7636.

Reiter qualifies for national competition

Sul Ross State University horse show team member Kim Reiter, a sophomore from Post, has qualified for national competition in Hollywood, Calif. The competition was held May 3-5.

This is the second year she has made it to nationals. Last year she competed in the intermediate rider division in Fort Collins, Colo.

This year, Reiter and team member Kevin Wink of Marathon qualified for the advanced division competition at Texas A&M University in College Station earlier in the season. They then competed in Colorado with Reiter placing third and qualifying for nationals, and Wink placing fourth.

The competition is really interesting, Reiter said. "You draw a horse's name out of a hat. Then you get on him at the gate and perform rail work in a pattern."

There are two styles of horse show competition: stock seat which is Western and hunt seat which is English. Reiter rides stock seat. At the national competition, an all-star team for this region will be selected from the competitors. If Reiter makes the team, there will be further competitions.

The horse show team was one of the main reasons Reiter chose Sul Ross. "I learned about the team when I came to visit."

As a member of the horse show team, Reiter and other team members practice Monday through Friday at 6 a.m. at the arena. The time slot was chosen to avoid conflicts with the rodeo team, classes and jobs.

I give you my peace

by Jose Payano, United Church of God of
Prophecy

In today's society it is so easy to get caught up in everything but God. Our environment tells us that we have to take care of ourselves and that we have to look out for ourselves, that nobody can take better care of us than ourselves. And when things don't go as we think they should, we become desperate. Nevertheless, Jesus said in John 14:27 "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world gives... Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

The world's definition of peace is financial security, a home, a job, good friends and a happy family. But Jesus offers His peace. As it says in Philippians 4:7, He gives us "the peace that passes all understanding".

Satan will bring us to a trail, and he will tell us there is no hope, that there is no way out. But Jesus, the Son of the Living God said "I am the way, the truth and the life" (John 14:6). When the trouble seems to become too much, when you feel like all hope is gone, and when the storm is raging, remember Jesus. Jesus is our life line. He is our life saver! When you can't take another step, He is right there to carry you the rest of the way.

When the trial comes, Satan will try to overwhelm us. He will say to us: "What's the use. It's not worth it. What are you trying to prove?" Satan will say anything in order to make us doubt and feel defeated. But Satan is also a liar. He uses our fears, he manipulates us. And if we listen to him, we will truly be defeated. But there is a God in heaven who loves us, who cares for us. Let us grab a hold on Him.

The man or woman who trusts in God can be at peace even when Satan and his demons are raging around them. In the midst of our trials, we must remember God's faithfulness and His promises (Ps 91:1, 46:1, 40:2, 34:18 and 7, 27:3).

Psalms 27:14 says: "Wait upon the Lord: be of good courage, and He shall strengthen thine heart; wait, I say on the Lord". That is the peace that God gives us. If we are faithful and trust in the Lord, everything will be all right.

I give you my peace
by Jose Payano, United Church of God of
Prophecy

In today's society it is so easy to get caught up in everything but God. Our environment tells us that we have to take care of ourselves and that we have to look out for ourselves, that nobody can take better care of us than ourselves. And when things don't go as we think they should, we become desperate. Nevertheless, Jesus said in John 14:27 "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world gives... Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

The world's definition of peace is financial security, a home, a job, good friends and a happy family. But Jesus offers His peace. As it says in Philippians 4:7, He gives us "the peace that passes all understanding".

Satan will bring us to a trail, and he will tell us there is no hope, that there is no way out. But Jesus, the Son of the Living God said "I am the way, the truth and the life" (John 14:6). When the trouble seems to become too much, when you feel like all hope is gone, and when the storm is raging, remember Jesus. Jesus is our life line. He is our life saver! When you can't take another step, He is right there to carry you the rest of the way.

When the trial comes, Satan will try to overwhelm us. He will say to us: "What's the use. It's not worth it. What are you trying to prove?" Satan will say anything in order to make us doubt and feel defeated. But Satan is also a liar. He uses our fears, he manipulates us. And if we listen to him, we will truly be defeated. But there is a God in heaven who loves us, who cares for us. Let us grab a hold on Him.

The man or woman who trusts in God can be at peace even when Satan and his demons are raging around them. In the midst of our trials, we must remember God's faithfulness and His promises (Ps 91:1, 46:1, 40:2, 34:18 and 7, 27:3).

Psalms 27:14 says: "Wait upon the Lord: be of good courage, and He shall strengthen thine heart; wait, I say on the Lord". That is the peace that God gives us. If we are faithful and trust in the Lord, everything will be all right.
