Geriatric prison hospital could be built in Post

County officials will meet with representatives of several other groups Thursday in a preliminary meeting that could lead to the opening of another private correcmeet with James Parkey of the Dallas Corplan architectural firm and several other individuals at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the juvenile center. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss a proposal to construct a "geriatric" correctional facility.

The state's prison system currently has no facilities dedicated specifically to serve older prisoners, many of whom suffer from medical conditions that require more attention than that given in routine prison atmospheres.

"There are no facilities for the geriatric prisoners, some of those who are serving life (sentences) without parole, and they're getting into the final stages of their life and require many services like those you'd get in a nursing facility," Dalby said. "The commissioners court was first approached with this idea and their first question was whether there is a need for this sort of facility. Evidently there is."

County officials are also looking at this project as another way to help with the overall medical needs of the community, the judge said.

"This would bring in some highly-trained people," he said.

The proposal is merely in the "exploratory" stages, Dalby said. No specifics have been finalized but preliminary plans call for the construction of a 500- to 1,000-bed facility to be constructed through the issuance of revenue bonds through funding arrangements similar to the juvenile detention center and current correctional facility projects. No county tax dollars would be obligated.

Old Mill Trade Days expecting big crowds

Old Mill Trade Days vendors are gearing up for the fall and holiday shopping season. Seasonal merchandise will be on display this weekend and there will be a pumpkin booth at the park's south gate, said Trade Days' Linda Self.

All inside booths had been rented as of Tuesday, Self said, and almost all of the exterior booths were full.

"Several booths have sold so I think people may want to come out and welcome our new vendors," she said.

New vendors will display such wares as primitive furniture, home furnishings, blanket sweaters, dried flowers, new and retired Beanie Babies, wind chimes, candles, ceramics, brightly-colored party ware, and new arts and crafts items.

"It will get you in the holiday spirit," Self said. The weekend's entertainment offerings include, at noon Saturday, a performance by the Guthrie Family and their new band members and, on Sunday at 1 p.m., country gospel music by Heaven's Country Band of Lubbock.

Sideline Trade Days activities will be a United Way booth where park visitors may purchase chances for the giveaway of two Beanie Babies — Princess Di and a retired Beanie.

Trade Days will be open Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission costs $1 per person.

Founder's Day organizers pleased with 1998 event

Attendance at last weekend's Founder's Day events were pleasing to Leslie Acker, chairman for the celebration.

"I was pleased," Acker said Tuesday morning. "About 550 tickets were sold to the gala and the (art exhibit) preview party... had about 150 (in attendance)."

No estimates as to the financial revenues of Founder's Day were available Tuesday. Acker said it will likely be two to three weeks before those figures are known.

Proceeds from this year's Founder's Day activities were earmarked for the Garza County Historical Museum.

Juvenile detention center may expand to 96 beds soon

The local juvenile detention center could soon be expanded to a 96-bed facility.

County Judge Giles Dalby said Tuesday the size of the 48-bed facility could soon be doubled if the Texas Youth Commission moves ahead with its plans to house up to 30 youths in the facility.

TYC officials were in Post this week, visiting the facility and looking into the possibility of filling more of its beds. If the state agency agrees to take up to 30 beds, the facility, which has standing commitments for bed-space for Garza and surrounding counties, would be full.

"We're looking at expansion based on that," Dalby said, "and other counties are beginning to show more interest."

The proposed expansion would be funded through the issuance of revenue bonds, as was the facility's original construction.

No firm plans on the expansion proposal have been made, Dalby said.

Judy's Jabberin'

By Judy B. Bush

Here we are for one more week. Just a little slower after spending the weekend moving. What a chore! Where did all that stuff come from anyway? Just glad that it is over and done.

A Nice Compliment

Pat Burnett and I were pleased last week when Patricia Roundtree sent in her renewal form. She had such a nice note saying how much she appreciated the pictures from the past and the "Jabberin'" also.

It's nice to hear that everyone enjoys the paper especially when it is something that you do.

So thanks Patricia for the nice compliment, we are glad that you enjoy The Dispatch and thanks for being a faithful reader.

McCrary Clan

A few of the McCrarys enjoyed lunch at Hotel Garza Saturday. They had been to Clovis Friday night to watch Lee McCrary's son (Leroy's grandson) play football. He is quarterback for Amarillo Tascosa.

Lanny McCrary, son of Leroy, has been in Post helping his dad. Lanny is from Redwood, California.

Scott McCrary was also here from Richardson. Scott is Leroy's nephew. His dad is Snooks McCrary, Leroy's brother.

Along for the ride and lunch Saturday was Elenor McCrary. I know the whole bunch had a good time and enjoyed the visit.

Home At Last

I hear that Danny Vernon is home from the hospital, and doing pretty good. I know that he has a couple of surgeries to face, but you hang in there Danny!

We are glad that you are home and feeling better.

Sonic's Alvidrez steps up community support

Jose Alvidrez, owner/manager of the local Sonic restaurant, has taken a vested interest in his friends and neighbors in Post.

Alvidrez, who moved to Post with his wife, Elizabeth, and young daughter, Nicole, a year ago, has initiated several new programs at Sonic as a means of showing support for the community.

Currently, Sonic offers an incentive program to all honor roll students in the Post ISD, as well as to those who test drug-free. Students who earn these recognitions are provided with cards for free drinks or 10 percent discounts on their next Sonic purchases. The restaurant also recently adopted a Teacher of the Week recognition which provides the recipient with a free burger meal.

"We wanted to step up involvement with the school," Alvidrez said. "Probably half of my employees are students and I want to show support for the local students."

In addition, the business uses the billboard on its front lawn to recognize local football "Players of the Game."

To show Sonic's support within the community setting, Alvidrez has started up a Business of the Day recognition. Through this program, he selects a business and provides its employees with free soft drinks.

"I'd like for people to bring in their business cards and put the number of employees they have on the back of the card," he said. "If they'll leave the card with me or with one of the employees, we'll get them in the drawing for Business of the Day."

Sonic also provides its customers with an opportunity for a 10 percent discount on Sundays when they bring in a church bulletin.

"We're trying to get involved with everybody," he said.

Next month, Sonic will be having a weekly drawing for a Sonic/Coca-Cola jacket. Registration forms will be printed in The Post Dispatch and will also be available at Sonic. No purchase is necessary, he said, and drawings will be at 2 p.m. each Saturday in October.

Alvidrez said he would like to invite representatives of local groups and organizations to drop by and visit with him if they have any ideas for community programs they might want to work out with Sonic.

"Da House" sets new hours

New hours have been set for "Da House" teen center, according to MAD DADS' Rodney Tidwell.

The primary change is an earlier closing time on Fridays of home football games and Saturdays, Tidwell said. The new closing time is 1 a.m.

The teen center is now open Mondays from 3-6 p.m. and 7-10 p.m.; Tuesdays, 3-6 p.m. (and 7-10 p.m. at the junior high gym); Wednesdays, 3-5 p.m. and Afterglow, 8-10 p.m.; closed Thursdays; Fridays (home game days only), 3-6 p.m. and from after the game until 1 a.m.; and Saturdays, 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. The center is closed on Sundays.

Rodney Tidwell puts Post on the map with national t.v. interview

Post's MAD DADS chapter earned some national attention this week when chapter president Rodney Tidwell made an appearance on the nationally-syndicated "Roseanne" talk show.

Tidwell made the trip to Los Angeles last Thursday. The show on which he appeared, which dealt with adults "fighting back" against crime, aired Wednesday at 3 p.m. on Lubbock's CBS affiliate, channel 13.

Tidwell said his opportunity to talk about MAD DADS before a national audience came quite unexpectedly. About two weeks ago, he went home to find a message from a "Roseanne" show producer on his answering machine at home.

"I thought it was a joke," he said.

Tidwell returned the producer's telephone call and talked with the show representative a couple of times, providing information on MAD DADS and the activities of the Post chapter.

"I thought all they wanted was an interview. Then they called on Tuesday and asked about airline reservations," he said. "I asked them what for and they said they wanted me on the show. I said, 'sure, as long as you're paying for it.'"

About 48 hours later, he was on a plane headed for Los Angeles.

Tidwell spent much of the day at the show's studio, watching the taping of another "Roseanne" show that aired earlier this week, hanging out in "the green room" and getting ready for the 7:30 p.m. CST taping of his segment.

He and two other representatives of MAD DADS, John Foster of Phoenix and Ken Riley of Los Angeles, had the opportunity to talk with the show's host about their MAD DADS chapters.

"We talked about MAD DADS, what it is and what it stands for... We walked about how we fight back with love instead of with vengeance and hatred," he said. "I just give the glory to God. It's just a blur. I can't remember exactly what was said but God got the glory in it."

The show was "very serious," Tidwell said, and also featured a live interview with the organizers of a parents group in Slaton similar to MAD DADS.

The publicity for the local MAD DADS chapter and the Slaton group came about as a result of a recommendation from Foster, who shared the "Roseanne" stage with Tidwell. Foster is the founder of MAD DADS and when contacted by the show's producers, recommended Tidwell as a good source of information.

"I just hope it gets the word out to other places," Tidwell said. "I just wish we could get some money out of the deal. People still think we're funded by some big foundation or something but we're not. We're funded by $5 and $10 donations from the people here in Post and that's great but it takes a lot to keep this thing going."

Tidwell said anyone interested in seeing a videotape of his appearance on "Roseanne" should drop by the MAD DADS "Da House."

Deputies respond to 70 calls last week

Four arrests were made by local law enforcement officials during the past week, according to records at the Garza County Sheriff's Department.

Arrested on Sept. 23 was a 34-year-old male picked up for driving while license suspended (released the same day on $1,500 bail bond). Arrested Sept. 25 was a 42-year-old male, commitment (released the next day on time served).

A 38-year-old male was arrested Sept. 27 on a trio of Tarrant County warrants — DWI, driving while license suspended and possession of marijuana. A 33-year-old male was arrested on a bench warrant (revocation of probation) Sept. 28.

About 70 calls for service were recorded over the past week, including, on Sept. 23, a report of a disturbance in the 100 block of North Avenue K; a theft of a television (no address recorded); an incident involving obscene gesturing near the football field; and a report of youths riding on the top of a moving vehicle in the 100 block of North Avenue O.

Calls received on Sept. 24 included a report of a man lying in the roadway on US 84 south near the county line (no vehicle was around; because the site was located in Scurry County, authorities there were notified); a theft of a stereo in the 500 block of South Avenue M; and a gasoline drive-off at a South Broadway location ($17.51 in gasoline reportedly taken).

A call for an ambulance in the 700 block of West 11th was received Sept. 25 (transport made to St. Mary, Lubbock).

A request for an ambulance was also made Sept. 26, this one coming from West 399 (transport made to University Medical Center, Lubbock). Also received on that date was a report of an assault in the 200 block of West Main.

A call for an ambulance was made Sept. 27 in the 300 block of Osage (transport made to Methodist Hospital, Lubbock).

An automobile accident was reported at about 8:59 a.m. Sept. 28. In this incident, an automobile struck the building at United Supermarket. No injuries were reported.

Spread The Good Word
God's Grace

Eric Earhart, Church on the Go

God has extended great grace to us. God wants us to respond to that grace. Grace is the undeserved love and favor of God. It is favor, good will, and kindness extended from God to man. It is God's willingness to sue His power on our behalf. It is by His power that He has granted to us everything pertaining to life and godliness. The Bible has a lot to say about the power of God.

We can see the extent of His power through the miracles, signs and wonders recorded in the Word of God. God gave us these records so that we can know what He is willing to do for us. It becomes nothing more than boasting and bragging on what He can do, unless He is willing to sue that power to help us. I John 4:8 says, "God is love." 1 Corinthians 13:4 says that love does not boast or brag. God was not just telling us what He could do, but what He wants to do.

How then do we access that power? How do we receive those things that have been granted to us? Romans 5:2 tells us that it is by faith that we are introduced into grace. This is not a general faith that says "I believe in God." It is faith that says "I believe God's word is true, that He meant what He said and said what He meant." Romans 10:11 says "Whoever believes in Him will not be disappointed."

KICKING BUTTS PART I
 Smoking is the most common cause of preventable death. It causes 30% of all death in the U.S., 90% of lung cancer deaths and 21% of deaths due to heart disease. If this hasn't got your attention consider this. In our society we place a value on everything and two of our prize possessions are our time and our money.
 MONEY - A pack of cigarettes cost about $2 and the price continues to rise. If one takes this money and places it in a jar, when once a month takes it to the bank and deposits it in the safest, lowest yield savings account they have to offer, at the end of 30 years, how much do you think it they would have?
 TIME - It takes about 7 minutes to smoke a cigarette. It is getting harder and harder to smoke anywhere in public, it is hard to accomplish anything while smoking as one of our hands and our mouth are involved in the act. So after 30 years of a 1 1/2 pack a day habit, how much time, not counting disease or illness that is related to smoking, do you think we have spent doing nothing but smoking?
 There are many different ways to quit. Whichever way one chooses, they should remember that smoking is a difficult habit to break, as nicotine is highly addictive, both physically and psychologically. Therefore approaching it in stages, with a plan can help in making kicking the habit a reality.
THINK ABOUT QUITTING - Make a list of the pros and cons of quitting. When the pros outnumber the cons move to the next stage by studying your smoking habits. Keep a smoking log for a few days, include a week end. Record the thoughts, events and situations that precede your lighting up. After a few days review your log. How much do I smoke? Why do I smoke? What will be my most difficult hurdle in quitting? With this information one can begin to think about what activities you can enjoy that could substitute for smoking when the triggering thoughts or circumstances arise. Make a list of these activities and keep it handy.
 Next week we will look at the final three steps of "kicking butts" and the answers to the time and money questions presented above. I think you will be shocked. Start thinking!

Politics won't produce moral heroes

by Sheldon Richman

Much of the reaction about President Clinton's difficulties can be summed up thus: Our leader let us down. The premise is that the president is not just a chief executive officer, but much more: a moral and spiritual leader of the nation. I submit this is an unfortunate attitude for free people.

Americans have long had a mixed view of politics. They venerate officeholders while making them the butt of jokes. Many citizens would go out of their way to shake hands with their mayor or congressmen, but then would count their fingers to make sure none were missing. There's a reason for this: Politics brings celebrity, which Americans can't get enough of. But politics is by nature unsavory.

We are taught, of course, that politics is the conduct of the people's business. But I think people know that is not the full story. They have a nagging sense that it is really the hijacking of the people's business. Politics routinely takes matters better left to private, voluntary resolution and turns them into grist for career busybodies.

The political world is populated by figures who want to regulate us for our own benefit and take our money so they can spend it for our own good. Who exemplifies this better than President Clinton? He feels our pain. He is, as the first lady tells us over and over, "committed." What's more, though he can't say this, he's indispensable to our well-being. Clinton would not want to be a mere chief executive. Most politicians fit this same mold; they will help us even if it kills us. Each election day, solemn editorial writers describe in almost sacred terms the collective process by which officeholders are chosen. Echoing Rousseau, they speak of elections as a mystical procedure in which we put aside our narrow "selfish" concerns, enter the polling place, and let the "general will," the real public interest, emerge. Thus, the winner of an election is in some sense anointed. Officeholders and democracy receive an aura they do not deserve, because strictly speaking, there is no collective will or choice.

Democratic decisionmaking is unlike any other decisionmaking. When a person goes to a supermarket and "votes for" Cheerios, he gets Cheerios. His choice is decisive. And he personally incurs a known cost to get it; the cost is whatever he might forgo to get it, Wheaties perhaps.

This is nothing like choosing between candidates in an election. When a citizen votes for Smith over Jones, his choice is not decisive. His voting for Smith doesn't make Smith the winner — the chance of his vote's being decisive is almost zero. Moreover, there is no real cost to voting for Smith rather than Jones; the voter forgoes nothing.

Since an individual voter will pay only a small part of whatever a winning candidate will spend in office, the real price of campaign promises has little influence on the results. These facts shape the electoral process. The costs and benefits of individual electoral decisions are almost all sentimental.

Candidates get elected by making voters feel good about themselves and bad about their opponents. The democratic arena is one of emotion. Remember "The Man from Hope"? Is it any wonder that elections tend not to reward competence or good sense?

The system is designed to reward good impressions, dramatic skills, and — yes — deceit. That we get men like Bill Clinton in high office is predictable. The way to avoid such men in the future is to shrink the presidency and the entire federal government down to constitutional proportions.

When government's only role is maintaining the rule of law and when our liberty to go about our peaceful business is fully respected, no one will see the presidency as a path to glory. On that day, it won't matter much who holds the office. We can find our heroes somewhere else.

Liberals and the constitution

by Walter E. Williams

Clinton's scandal and his possible impeachment have produced somewhat of a metamorphosis among liberals in and out of Congress. They've become strict constructionists of at least a sentence or two in the Constitution.

In trying to save Clinton's presidential hide, they're saying that the "treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors" language in Article II, Section 4 of the Constitution has a very narrow and precise meaning. They warn us that the Framers of the Constitution would be appalled if today's Americans deviated from the meaning they had in mind and impeached a president over something as trivial as sex and lies.

I'm not sure liberals have any idea of what the Framers had in mind, much less any respect for what they had in mind. One thing for sure is their sudden conversion to strict construction of the "high crimes and misdemeanors" language of the Constitution is nothing less than disingenuous manipulation.

The fact of business is that liberals have open contempt for the Constitution and rule of law, except when it suits their purposes. Reps. Zoe Lofgren, D-Calif., and Barney Frank, D-Mass., are leading proponents of the Framers-intent, strict constructionist interpretation of the Constitution's impeachment language. But ask either one of them, or their colleagues, whether they also espouse the Framers-intent strict construction of, say, the Tenth Amendment, which reads, "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people," and they'll hem and haw a bit, feigning constitutional respect, but their answer will boil down to a big fat "No."

Lofgren, Frank and their liberal colleagues have contempt for Framers intent in most of our Constitution. I say most, but not entirely. Liberals do call for a narrow, literal interpretation of the First Amendment, which mandates that "Congress shall make no law ...

abridging freedom of speech, or of the press or of the right of the people to peaceably assemble. ..."

Liberals support freedom of speech, the press and assembly because it's vital to their agenda of persuasion and organization to restrict other liberties. They'll argue that our Second Amendment rights to keep and bear arms or our Fifth Amendment rights against the taking of property should be restricted and modified in order to promote the public good in a society far more complex than that during the times of our Founders. But they wouldn't apply that same reasoning to free speech, press and assembly protections.

Try it for yourself. Ask a congressional or a news media liberal how the government should regulate and control speech and the press in the public interest in today's complex society. They'll concede to no government regulation and control whatsoever.

Liberal support for freedom of speech and the press is simply a temporary expedient. Once they gain full control, freedom of speech and the press will be restricted, as have our other freedoms. There's both worldwide and domestic evidence of this process. The most leftist institutions in our country today are colleges and universities. The 1960s hippies are now college presidents, deans and professors. These ex-hippies are the very people who've promoted and sanctioned campus speech codes that violate free speech. They are also the people who turn a blind eye to campus thugs who shout down speakers with whom they disagree and burn entire campus newspaper runs when they publish views they deem offensive.

If there's a silver lining to Clinton's sex and lies scandal, it's the exposure of liberal contempt for constitutional principles and rule of law.

Clinton defies U.S. constitution with executive order #13083

The Clinton crowd has postponed implementation of Executive Order #13083, entitled "Federalism."

On May 14, 1998, while visiting Birmingham, England, President Clinton signed the new order which officially revoked President Ronald Reagan's executive order (EO) #12612. Reagan's "Federalism" order reaffirmed federal government's few, limited and enumerated constitutional powers. Clinton's order not only fails to affirm the limited powers of the executive branch, it effectively revokes the 10th Amendment and arrogates to the President broad new powers tantamount to those of a totalitarian dictatorship. The 10th Amendment reserves to the states and to the people all powers not specifically granted by the constitution to the federal government.

A month passed before Clinton's unprecedented power grab began to register in the public mind. The news media ignored the story and no reaction was heard from Congress, the governors or state legislators. But praying Christians and conservative activists, alerted by the alternative media (Internet, talk radio, e-mail and prayer alerts), raised a hue and cry and apparently prompted some action.

Finally, on July 14, the Washington representatives of seven major organizations representing state and local governments, held a stormy meeting with the chief of White House intergovernmental relations, and drafted a letter demanding that the president withdraw the order. The Washington Post covered the story on July 16, the same day the White House announced it would wait 90 days to implement the order.

The order, which eliminates the principles of federalism (shared power) that have guided the U.S. for more than 200 years, came on the heels of the president's announcement that he will not spend the next two years as a "lame duck" nor be beholden to a "do-nothing Congress." Rather, he pledged to issue a flurry of executive orders to further implement his agenda.

Another recently issued Clinton EO directed the rewriting of all federal regulations pertaining to race and gender discrimination to include "sexual orientation" as a covered group. Thus, Clinton has illegally usurped Congress and taken upon himself authority to dictate the law.

EO #13083 justifies federal action (the same as intervention) under the following circumstances:

- (1) When the matter to be addressed by federal action occurs interstate as opposed to being contained within one state's boundaries;
- (2) When the source of the matter to be addressed occurs in a state different from the state (or states) where a significant amount of the harm occurs;
- (3) When there is a need for uniform national standards;
- (4) When decentralization increases the costs of government, thus imposing additional burdens on the taxpayer;
- (5) When states have not adequately protected individual rights and liberties;
- (6) When states would be reluctant to impose necessary regulations because of fears that regulated business activity will relocate to other states;
- (7) When placing regulatory authority at the state or local level would undermine regulatory goals because high costs or demands for specialized expertise will effectively place the regulatory matter beyond the resources of state authorities;
- (8) When the matter relates to federally owned or managed property or natural resources, trust obligations, or international obligations and
- (9) When the matter to be regulated significantly or uniquely affects Indian tribal governments.

Rep. Bob Barr (R-Ga.) has introduced The State Sovereignty Act of 1998, in an effort "to restore the division of governmental responsibilities between the national government and the states that was intended by the framers of the constitution, by requiring all federal departments and agencies to comply with former Executive Order #12612 (Reagan's Federalism EO).

If Congress, governors, state legislators, local civic leaders and the American people fail to permanently reverse Bill Clinton's wicked EO #13083, a key provision of the U.S. constitution will be undermined and there will be no checks and balance on the president.

Editor's Note: This information from "The Capitol Hill Prayer Alert" was provided to us by Post city councilman Harold Craig. It should be obvious that if congress takes up impeachment proceedings, this executive order would certainly be an example of abuse of power and treason against the U.S. constitution by the president. If we could only get elected officials to adhere the constitution, our lives would be much improved.

'Lopes edge 'Horns in double overtime

by Wes Burnett

The Post Antelopes and the Lockney Longhorns have to be the two most evenly matched teams on a football field that one could imagine. And when regular time expired in the fourth quarter last Friday night with a 20-20 score, it was apparent that either team could just as easily be the winner.

It took two overtimes to settle the issue... and the decision came on a first down play by the Longhorns at the 25 yard line when Roy Soto crashed into the backfield, creating a fumble on an exchange between the Lockney quarterback and tailback. An alert Clay Ashley pounced on the ball for the 'Lopes, and four plays later Braden Conner booted a field goal through the uprights for a 23-20 Antelope victory.

The 'Lopes opened up the game with a seven play scoring drive following the kickoff. Fullback Billy Crawford rammed into the end zone for go ahead score with 8:38 on the clock and Conner's extra point put the 'Lopes out front 7-0.

The remainder of the first quarter saw both defensive teams doing what needed to force fourth down punts. Late in the second quarter, Lockney ripped off a 75 yard touchdown pass and run combination, surprising the 'Lopes and their fans. The point after was no good, the 'Lopes held on to a one point lead at 7-6 with 3:56 left in the first half.

An eight play drive fizzled for the 'Lopes as the clock ran down. The Antelope offense had been plagued with a series of penalties, setting the team back.

Second Half Action

Lockney took the second half kickoff, and picked up a first down before the 'Lope defense shut down the 'Horns, forcing a punt from their own 41 yard line. The 'Lopes then mounted a 10 play drive from their own 26, scoring with 4:52 left in the third quarter. The point after failed, and Post led 13-6.

Quarterback Jay Gorman led the team, mixing up running by Crawford, Jeremy Baker and Raymond Jefferson with key passes to Clell Knight. Jefferson broke out of the pack from the Lockney 32, and on first down from the 11 Gorman lofted a pass in the end zone to Conner for the touchdown.

One play later the 'Horns ripped through 'Lope defenses with a 66 yard scamper to the end zone. The two point conversion pass attempt failed, and the 'Lopes held on to a slim one point lead at 13-12 with 4:20 remaining in the third quarter.

The Post offense wasn't to be denied, and countered with a 10 play drive, capped by a fourth down blast by Baker from the 12 yard line for the score. The touchdown drive featured running by

R. Jefferson, Crawford and Gorman. Baker's dive to the end zone came after two pass attempts by Gorman went incomplete. The 'Horns were looking for a pass on the fourth down play. With 1:22 left in the third quarter, Conner's extra point kick put the 'Lopes out front 20-12.

Neither team could mount sustaining drives into the fourth quarter, and with time running out, Knight punted to the Longhorns, with the ball rolling out at the home team's 23 yard line.

One more time the big play bit the Antelope defense, when on second down the Longhorn tailback broke through two tacklers and raced to the end zone. The two point conversion pass was complete, and score was knotted at 20-20 with 2:15 left in the fourth quarter.

The 'Lope offense held onto the ball, but in seven plays ran out of gas at the 'Horn 47 and Knight punted to the Lockney 23 with 11 seconds left in regular play. Two plays later the clock ran out and the teams took a brief rest before starting overtime.

Overtime Action

Lockney won the toss and elected to take the defense. The Antelopes chose to defend the west end, starting their first offensive effort at the Longhorn 25 yard line (east side of the stadium), with the wind behind their backs.

The eight play drive was snuffed out at the 25 as the 'Lopes suffered a key penalty on third down, followed by a quarterback sack. On fourth down from the 25, Gorman's pass to Fluitt was deflected in the end zone.

The Longhorns, looking as though they had the momentum, got as close as the four yard line before the 'Lope defense forced a punt on fourth down. Key defenders in the series were Jay Gorman, Conner and Ashley. On fourth down the 'Horns lined up for a field goal attempt, but were penalized for illegal procedure, setting the ball at the 11. Under heavy pressure from the Antelope defense, the kick was wobbly and fell into the end zone short of the goal posts.

The teams then moved back to the west end of the stadium, and Lockney got its second chance on offense. That's when the tide turned for the 'Lopes, taking over control of the ball for their second offensive effort, which resulted in the field goal by Conner and a 23-20 win.

Pied Pipers known for passing

Looking ahead to Friday's contest at Hamlin, coach Gorman reports that the Pied Pipers will display an offense that Post has yet to experience. "They throw the football a lot, and from several different sets, using as many as five receivers at a time." The Pied Pipers are 2-2 for the season, defeating Merkel and Clyde, and losing to Rotan and last week to Coahoma.

"I don't think we'll see this type of offense until we get into the playoffs," the coach added. "We've told the players that this game Friday is a good experience to get ready for the playoffs."

The team leaves Post at 2:45 p.m. for the 96 mile trip through Clairmont and Rotan to Hamlin.

Two players have been moved up from the junior varsity: Michael Huff at tailback and linebacker and Jonathan Smith as an offensive guard and linebacker.

Lockney edges J.V. 15-3

The junior varsity 'Lopes dropped a close one last week, losing to Lockney 15-8 in a game played at home.

Following a score by Lockney, the Antelopes cashed in on a Lockney fumble. Roland Castaneda scored from four yards out, then added the two-point conversion to give Post an 8-7 lead at the half.

The 'Lopes stopped Lockney on the first possession of the second half but fumbled on their first offensive play, giving the ball to the Longhorns at the 25-yard line. Lockney scored and led 15-8.

"The Antelopes did a great job of moving the football in the fourth quarter and moved to Lockney's one-yard line," the coach said. "Unfortunately, Lockney stopped Post on fourth down from the one with 40 seconds on the clock.

"We had two drives during the first half that we got inside their 20-yard line and did not score. We have got to convert those types of opportunities. They guys did a good job fighting back and almost pulled off a victory."

The junior varsity's next game will be played at home today following the seventh and eighth grade games. The game schedule is as follows: 7th grade, 4:30 p.m.; 8th grade, 5:30 p.m.; junior varsity, 7 p.m.

Area golfers can compete in a fun tournament and benefit 4-H at the same time by participating in the 1st. Annual EXCELL Charity Golf Tournament on October 8 at Meadow Brook Golf Course. Meadow Brook is located in Mackenzie Park, just off of Interstate 27 in Lubbock.

EXCELL Charity Golf

Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place. Other contest will include closest to the pin, longest drive, longest putt, and closest to the cup.

Tee times for the tournament are 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.. Four-person scramble teams can enter for $100 per team. Individual golfers without a team also can enter for $25 each. They will be "teamed" in groups of four. Tournament entries are due October 2.

You don't necessarily have to be a golfer to participate in the 4-H charity tournament, however. Individuals can become a green sponsor for $100, or a tee sponsor for $50. Other private donations are always welcome too. All of the money generated by the tournament will go to support Texas 4-H and Youth Development Education Program activities here on the South Plains.

4-H is designed to foster and support capable, competent and caring Texas citizens through a variety of activities. EXCELL stands for experience, citizenship and examples for lifetime leadership and this program seeks to further the education and cultural development of deserving youths in the upper 41 counties of West Texas.

More than 23,000 West Texas youngsters are enrolled in 4-H programs on the South Plains; more than 28,500 will participate in 1997-98 South Plains 4-H projects, with leadership from 940 youth volunteers and more than 4,300 adult volunteers.

Extension 4-H programs are quite diverse. 4-H isn't just for rural youngsters. Our membership is just as diverse as our programs. The top ten 4-H project areas in West Texas this year include healthy lifestyles, values clarification, agriculture in the classroom, animals and livestock, food and nutrition, personal development and leadership, safety, citizenship, science and technology, and parenting and family life.

4-Hers learn by doing. By participating in formal and informal community-focused activities, they develop skills that stay with them throughout their lives. They also learn the importance of leadership and volunteerism, as youth and adults. And over time they become stronger members of strong families and communities. 4-H has something to offer for everyone.

The 1st. Annual EXCELL Charity Golf Tournament is just one of many activities slated statewide and nationwide during National 4-H Week, October 4-10.

If you want more information on the golf tournament, 4-H activities or 4-H membership, call (806) 495-4400.

Programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

8th graders whip 'Horns

The eighth grade 'Lopes of Post Middle School added another notch to their win column last week, posting a 36-6 victory in Lockney.

It only took four plays for the Antelopes to strike. In the first quarter, the team marched 79 yards in four plays in a drive capped off by a 45-yard touchdown run by Daryl Dissinger. Brandon Bell ran in the two-point conversion.

The 'Lopes scored again in the first quarter on another four-play drive, this one eating up 58 yards. Lance Curtis scored on a 16-yard touchdown run. The extra point attempt was not good, making it a 14-0 game at the end of the quarter.

In the second quarter, the team put together another four-play scoring drive, this one good for 73 total yards. Curtis scored on a 54-yard run and Dissinger ran in the two-point conversion.

It only took three plays for the Antelopes' next offensive payoff. Brody Robertson had a nine-yard touchdown run but the extra point attempt failed, making it a 28-0 game at the half.

Curtis grabbed another scoring opportunity for the 'Lopes in the third quarter when he intercepted a pass and ran it back 36 yards for another touchdown. Will Read ran in the two-point conversion, putting the score at 36-0.

Lockney scored late in the game. "This game was over after the first quarter," said Coach Darrell Radle. "Our kids out hit them on every phase of the game.

"Our backup linemen and backs did a great job. There were two big plays on defense — Curtis intercepted for a touchdown and Byron Nelson fought off a block for a solo body slam on a running back who was easily twice his size."

Post had 338 yards in total offense. Lockney had 176 yards. The team will host Hamlin in a game to be played here tonight.

7th graders win again

The Post Middle School seventh grade squad continued its winning ways last week with a 22-12 road win over Lockney.

Mitchell Mills scored on a run of 26 yards in the first quarter and added the two-point conversion.

In the second quarter, Mills added a touchdown run of 36 yards. The conversion pass from Brodie Conner to Kris Hernandez failed, giving the 'Lopes a 14-12 lead with 1:36 left in the half. On the ensuing kickoff, Chris Hastings recovered the ball on the Antelope 45-yard line. After a 32-yard pass from FB Mills to Hastings, Mario Gomez scooted the rest of the way into the end zone thanks to a key block downfield by Zane Marts. Conner added the two-point conversion run.

Defensively, tackles Owen Gilbert, Tony Ortiz and Chris Cruse played well, the coach said. Mitch Holly and Josh Payne filled in well at the defensive end spots as well as Rich Reyna and Mark Norman at the outside linebacker spots.

Post racked up 206 yards in offense while limiting Lockney to 149. Rushing stats included 106 yards by Mills, 32 by Daniel Simental, 24 by Mark McAllister and seven, Conner. Hastings was 1-32 in receiving while Mills was 1-17. In passing, Conner was 1-2, no interceptions, no touchdowns, 17 yards while Mills was 1-2, no interceptions, no touchdowns, 32 yards.

The team will host Hamlin tonight at a game scheduled for 5 p.m.

Fat modified foods!

Americans are nearly obsessed with finding ways to achieve a healthy lifestyle, and more than ever, consumers are becoming aware of the relationship between what they eat and their physical health. Dietary fat continues to be one of the major nutritional consumer concerns.

However, according to statistics collected by the Food Marketing Institute, 1997 saw a slight reduction in that specific concern and a dramatic increase in concern about overall nutrition. It has been speculated that perhaps awareness of the importance of a balanced diet is growing. Unfortunately, awareness does not translate into behavior changes.

Americans still are not limiting fat intake to less than 30% of calories as recommended. In fact, they are eating more fat than in the past. Much of the problem may be attributed to the guideline itself and by the tendency of the public media to blur the distinction between percent of calories from fat and actual grams of fat. The guideline must be expressed as a p

However, it must be understood that a reduction in the percentage of calories from fat conveys neither a reduction in calories or a reduction in the number of grams of fat. It may seem from all the advertising that fat-modified foods are quite successful in the marketplace and that consequently everyone is using them. Neither is true. As of 1995, 8500 fat-modified products have been introduced to the public, but many were unsuccessful because they did not measure up to the taste or price expectations. Of the 30,000 products available in grocery stores, only a very small proportion is fat-modified.

For example, fat-modified cookies represent by far the largest proportion of fat-modified products, but they represent only 15% of the total market share for that category.

Although many people claim to be concerned about dietary fat and to follow low-fat diets, recent CFSII data reveals that on any given day only 5% actually use fat-modified food other than reduced-fat milk.

Finally, a major misconception is that overindulgence in fat-modified foods leads to obesity. The most logical argument against this notion is the information presented above. If fat-modified foods are not being utilized to a significant extent, then their use cannot possibly explain the fact that in 1990, 33% of Americans were overweight, and current statistics indicate that number has increased to over 50%. A more likely explanation of these statistics is the fact that Americans are generally less physically active than in earlier years due largely to exertion eliminated from the workplace and the rise in popularity of sedentary forms of entertainment. The underlying fact is that inactivity translates to less energy requirements. A reduction in dietary fat is needed merely to prevent weight gain. Studies have demonstrated that removing some of the fat in the diet or substituting for it does not significantly decrease the satiating effect of food, but fewer calories are eaten.

Extension programs serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, sex, color, religion, disability or national origin.

Steven Tidwell on deployment

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Steven C. Tidwell, son of Wesley G. and Anita J. Morris of Post, is currently halfway through a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Indian Oceans and Arabic Gulf with Fighter Squadron 31, embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS Abraham Lincoln.

Tidwell's squadron departed its home base of Lemoore, California, in June to join the USS Abraham Lincoln Battle Group. The group is comprised of 10 tactical air squadrons, five surface combatants and two submarines. During the deployment, Tidwell and crew members have had the opportunity to visit Hong Kong, Singapore and the United Arab Emirates.

While in Hong Kong, sailors and Marines from Tidwell's squadron participated in Project Handclasp, providing humanitarian aid to adults and children residing in a disaster relief organization.

Tidwell's squadron provides fleet air defense by engaging in all-weather offensive and defensive air-to-air operations to establish and maintain local air superiority. Fighter Squadron 31 flies the F-14 Tomcat.

The 1989 graduate of Post High School joined the Navy in June 1989.

On behalf of the everyone at the Caprock Cultural Association, and the Garza County Museum, "Thank You, Thank You" for the creation of the beautiful "Oil Room", the "Oil Pumpjack" (complimenting the museum grounds), the collection of Oil History, other histories that it will ultimately attract, the carpet, and other improvements at the Garza County Historical Museum.

These developments at the GCHM will always be a living tribute to this fantastic community wide effort. Take time to go to the Museum and just see what your effort accomplished.

Again, Stand up and take a bow, we love you all.

Scott McLaughlin and Governor George W. Bush will work to protect conservative West Texas values.

Scott McLAUGHLIN
 STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Dear Fellow West Texan:

As I have walked the neighborhoods of West Texas and District 70, I'm more confident than ever that we can solve most of our problems if we rely on the resourcefulness of our communities rather than on government bureaucracies in Austin or Washington D.C. As Governor Bush has shown, that means less interference from government, allowing working people to keep more of their hard earned dollars, and returning power and resources to local communities.

I believe that families are still the basic building of society and that we can do much more to restore the fundamental values of our nation by electing principled leaders to office - leaders who represent communities, not special interests.

More than anything else, we need elected officials who will truly take the time to listen and respond to your concerns. More than likely, I've been to your home and listened if you had an issue to discuss. If I missed you, I hope we'll meet in the near future. I look forward to hearing from you and working with you to build a better Texas.

Sincerely,
Scott
