County adds code enforcer, inspector

by Wes Burnett

Garza County commissioners approved the establishment of a contract for a code enforcer and building inspector at its regular meeting Monday morning.

Citing increased subdivision building in the Lake Alan Henry area, County Judge Giles W. Dalby explained the necessity of ensuring that housing and building meet county zoning and construction ordinances.

Commissioners Lee Norman and Mike Gonzales recommended Terry Bartlett be named for the position. Norman explained that Bartlett would perform duties on a contractual basis. Bartlett, who was at the meeting, accepted the proposal. County attorney Leslie Acker is to prepare a contract for consideration at the next court meeting.

The initial rate for Bartlett's service will be $20 per hour.

Garza County emergency management coordinator Leon Miller presented a report and recommended lowering the hourly rate for the position from $30 per hour to $10 per hour. The court accepted the recommendation.

Miller also explained that an extension for claims resulting from the ice storm two years ago had been approved. "If it looks like we're going to need more time to complete the repairs," Miller said, "we should start planning now to request additional time."

Commissioners Mason McClelland and Norman said that weather and other matters had interfered with completion of the roadway repairs.

Travis Sweet was appointed by the court to serve as voting precinct one election judge and Bebe Boren was appointed as voting precinct four judge.

Two applications for public assistance were reviewed, with the court rejecting one on the grounds the applicant had too much earnings and the other received the maximum $30 allowed for utility assistance.

The court authorized the constable's office to make proposals for purchasing a new vehicle to replace a Ford Explorer which is in need of major repairs.

Judge Dalby informed the court that a letter from Lubbock's city manager rejected Garza County's request to purchase land from Lubbock at Lake Alan Henry for a building site to house law enforcement and emergency services.

"They (Lubbock) may want to build a facility and lease us space," Dalby said.

Norman suggested that the county seek land from private developers for the project. The building is expected to house fire, constable and EMS equipment.

Post ISD uses new software for new assessment exam

The Post Independent School District will participate in an agreement with the Region 17 Service Center that will provide software to help prepare students for the state's new assessment exam.

Following action taken in the Oct. 8 board meeting, the district will take part in the Pass Plan software agreement, which is designed to generate questions similar to those students will see on the new TAKS (Texas Assessment of Knowledge and Skills) exam.

The TAKS test, which will be introduced in the spring, will take the place of the state's traditional TAAS (Texas Assessment of Academic Skills) test.

Superintendent Dr. Bobby Bain said although the TAKS exams are new and have not been reviewed by district officials, the tests are described as being "more difficult and complex, requiring higher-level thinking skills" than the TAAS.

In other business, district officials:

- Received a favorable report from auditor Ken Robinson, who indicated he'd found no discrepancies in the routine audit of the 2001-2002 school year books.
- Adjusted delinquent taxes as per the recommendation of the appraisal district.
- Tabled consideration of Update 68 and a local update of board policies.
- Hired substitute teachers.
- Approved one student transfer.

City agrees with school, sheriff on turning lane

Sheriff Kenny Ratke and Post ISD Superintendent Dr. Bobby Bain met with city officials in their regular October meeting to discuss possible school zone safety measures.

The group discussed several ideas as to how to make the school zone area on the Tahoka Highway safer, particularly for younger children who are forced to cross the highway to get to school. One suggestion involved eliminating the turning lanes, which City Manager Fred Stephens said were added with the recent paving of the roadway.

City officials agreed to explore the issue further and review traffic ordinances.

In other business, City Council members received the engineer's report on the municipal water project. In a move designed to save money, the city has given the go-ahead for the purchase of pipeline materials and has advertised for bids. Bids will be opened Oct. 24.

Stephens reported the city is "making progress" on the water supply project. City officials are hoping to bid the project within 60 days, depending on the materials bids that are received.

City Attorney Harvey Morton reported on the progress of the land acquisition for the tank to be built near Slaton. The one-acre tract will serve as the site of one of two tanks proposed as part of the water project.

In Stephens' city manager's report, it was noted that the city has spent $600,000 to lower utility lines to facilitate the state's highway project. Plans call for the state to revamp US 84 through Post. The affected roadway will stretch from the "curve" area on the north side of town where the divided highway begins, through the heart of the community and southward to the overpass, Stephens said. Once initiated, the project is expected to take 18-24 months to complete.

New animal shelter rules costly to cities

Post city officials are "wrestling" with a Texas Department of Health proposal that could prove costly to smaller cities and towns operating animal shelters.

City Manager Fred Stephens said the proposed regulations, which are designed to impact counties with populations of less than 75,000, are "not workable."

According to information from the Texas Municipal League, proposed standards include:

- Water and electricity to each facility

Golden Plains Gazette

by Christy Rutherford, A.D.

Well, September is over and October has snuck up with a boo. September was a great month here at the Golden Plains Care Center.

September brought us a lot of fun, pumping our blood with exercise always starts the day out right.

This month we enjoyed snow cones and root beer floats in the afternoon. Boy, oh, boy did that cool us off in a hurry.

We had an especially great time toward the end of the month. We went to the park for some all day festivities. Gene Hayes, Ruth Doggett, Eddie Moore, Walter Caffey and Dave Iles all enjoyed a great day of fishing. And once again Gene Hayes caught the most fish. Meanwhile while the fishing was going on, some of the rest of us were busy playing parachute ball while others just sat around and enjoyed the fresh air and sunshine. Raymie Holly and Blas Gomez cooked us some great childdogs, and we washed them down with some good ol' Coca-Cola. We finished our meal with some fly attracting, elbow-dripping watermelon and a watermelon seedspitting contest. After all that fun, we returned home with a day well done.

Birthdays for the month include Charlene Bishop, Maurice Bush, Bernice Gribble, Mike Martinez, Eddie Moore, Christine Smith, Mildred Tannehill and Dempsey Zachary.

Employee birthdays include Lorena Benham, Blas Gomez, Maria Gomez, Raymie Holly, Carmen Martinez and Carol Morley.

In sorrow we had to say goodbye to some who will be very much missed but never forgotten: W.C. Bush, Marvel Pearson and Roscoe Moulton.

We finished up September with a graduation ceremony. Diplomas were given to Mary Jo McGuire, Cleo Sappington, Joe Williams, Eddie Moore, Gene Hayes, Ella Mae Jones, Bertha Iles, Charlene Bishop, Mary Cross, Ruth Head, Anna Byrd, Thelma Epley, Mose McCook, Maurice Bush, Mildred Tannehill, Barbara Allen, Christine Smith, Dale Nichols, Mike Martinez, Walter Caffey, Elsie Sullivan, Nahum Sullivan and Ruth Doggett.

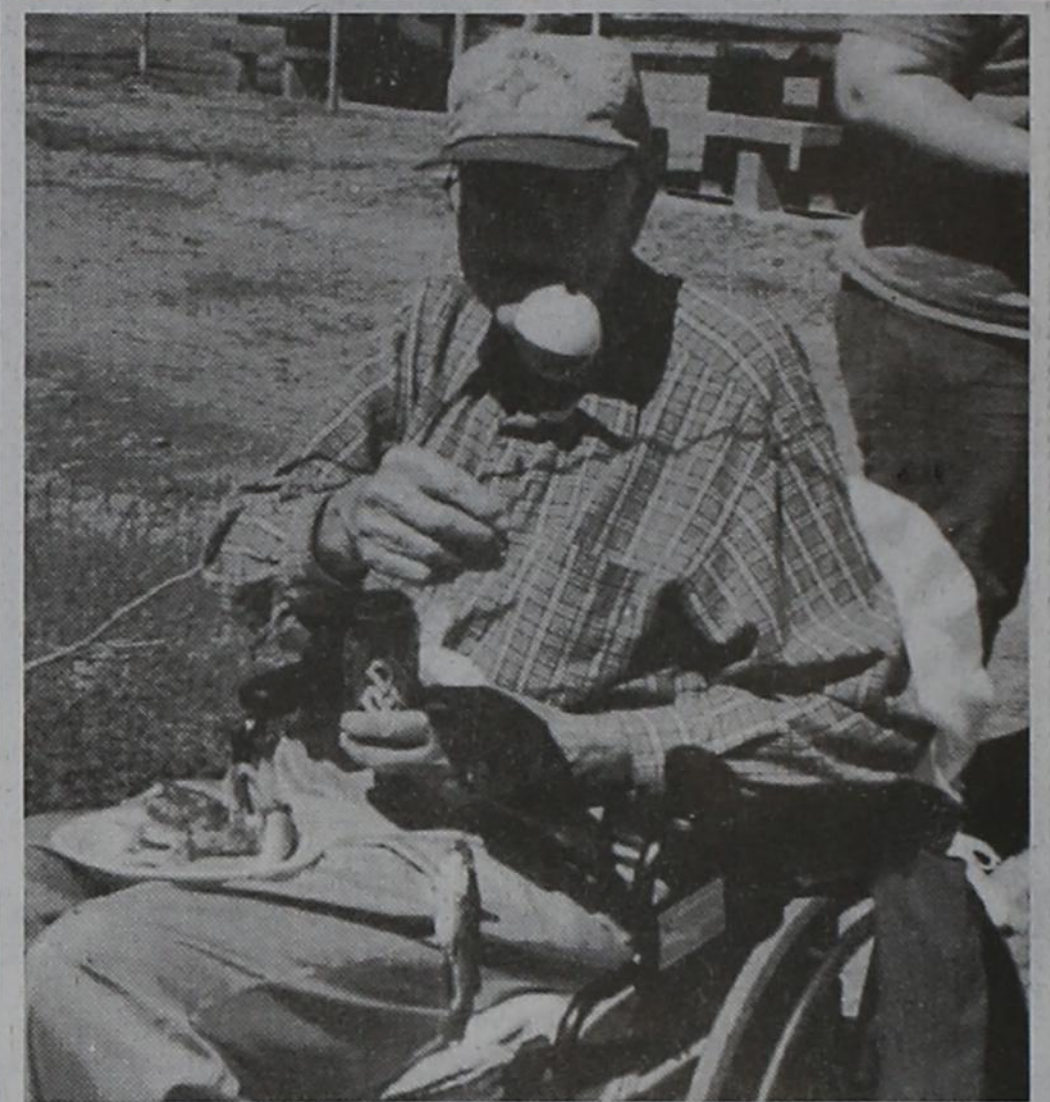

Diplomas were given by Cassie Ripley and Janell Miller. These accomplishments were celebrated with cookies and punch to honor those for their great accomplishments on O.T. and P.T. and speech therapy.

Last but certainly not least is the newest additions to our family: Cleo Sappington, Martin Nichols, Dale Nichols and Nora Jackson.

Well, that about closes the book on the month and places many great memories in our hearts, but don't fret - October promises to be even bigger and better and is now under way.

Crazy Quilts of Autumn

Many beautiful quilts and heirlooms were displayed at the Post Art Guild's Algerita Center as part of the Crazy Quilts of Autumn Show conducted earlier this month.

The People's Choice, Best of Show, went to Janis Moreman for her 24/7 Flying Geese. The quilt was made while caring for "Miss Peggy" 24 hours a day, seven days a week (hence the name; and by coincidence, the quilt has 24 geese in seven panels, all multi-colored).

For All-Around Best, Moreman swept the show, taking first with Flying Geese 24/7; second with her 100 Square Quilt (all squares have different bright and lively colors); and third, The Bow Tie (a lovely piece of whimsy with which to cover a lap or cuddle a baby).

In the embroidery and crochet division, first place went to Susan Warren with The Red, White and Blue (which featured stripes of the nation's colors in artful crochet; it was a birthday gift to her sister).

Second place went to an entry from Barbra Newcomb - Daffodils by Sara Lovell (her mother did this beautiful work after suffering a stroke; it's daffodils on a field of linen in stitchery). Newcomb also took third place with her mother's Wild Rose Afghan (a comfortable lap robe for staying warm on chilly nights; it was crocheted and embroidered in colors of chocolate by Lovell following her stroke).

Moreman took first prize in the heritage quilts division with Mom & Dad's Duster Quilt (a most unique quilt designed to keep memories alive; Weaver and Pearl Moreman moved to Post in 1908, and their daughters, Janis and JoAnn Miller, cut up their mother's dusters and their father's pajamas for fabric. JoAnn pieced and Janis quilted one for each and a wall hanging for their brother Larry, plus 11 mini quilts for the grandchildren.).

The Little Red Bonnet quilt made by Snowie Malteeter and entered by Ann Bratcher took second place. (This was made by Ann's sister-in-law to be auctioned off at a family reunion, and the piece brought a pretty penny. Snowie was sister to Glen and graduated from Post High School around 1947.) Third place went to Bratcher for her Quilted Baby Ball, a whimsical ball of quilted reds and white for a child's play time.

Moreman captured first place in baby quilts with AStar is Born. (This quilt was made while awaiting the birth of her new granddaughter, Skylar Smith, born Sept. 10, 2002. She made this labor of love with blue and yellow star gingham with alternating outlines of baby doves.)

Sheri Riedel earned top honors in the most unique category with an India ink quilt. (Riedel reported that when she acquired the quilt, she had no idea what kind it was until Janis Plummer saw the piece and said it was an expensive and rare quilt. It's made of velvet squares with wavy lines sewed across.)

Taking second in the unique category was Riedel's Shaker quilt "30." (Each piece is sewn in a triangle and connected to another triangle, showing the same fabric on both sides.)

In the pottery division, Geraldine Butler's Classic White (a graceful vase of white to offset any flowers) took first place. Butler's Flower Imprints (a little round pot with flower outlines imprinted) placed second.

Sheriff reports 14 arrests

Fourteen arrests were recorded in the Garza County Jail log during the past week, according to reports provided by the Sheriff's Department.

On Oct. 8, two individuals were arrested, including a 61-year-old on a Taylor County warrant and a 20-year-old for failure to identify.

Two arrests were made Oct. 10, including that of a 27-year-old on a warrant and an 18-year-old on a warrant.

Three individuals were jailed Oct. 11, including an 18-year-old who was taken in to protective custody. Two 18-year-olds were arrested for possession of marijuana.

A 46-year-old was jailed for terroristic threat, Class B, on Oct. 12.

Five arrests were made Oct. 13, including four for possession of marijuana. Individuals arrested on marijuana-related charges were 18, 20, 30 and 34 years of age. Also, a 36-year-old was jailed for driving while license suspended and DWI.

On Oct. 14, a 27-year-old was picked up on a Lubbock warrant.

Energas takes on new, old name

Energas officially changed its name to Atmos Energy Oct. 1, and the following information, created in a question-and-answer format, was designed to provide some details concerning the change to the utility's customers:

Q: Why has Energas changed its name? A: Operating as one company and sharing one name will reinforce the community involvement of our employees as well as the sizable investments we are making to deliver excellent customer service. By building a national brand as Atmos Energy, we believe we can attract more new businesses and economic development to our service area, which brings jobs and a stronger economy. Customers, investors and others who deal with our company also will come to know us better.

Q: Has Energas merged or been bought out? A: No. Atmos Energy Corporation has been the parent company of Energas since Sept. 30, 1988. This name change does not reflect any change of control, reorganization or change in financial condition. Our new national brand reflects Atmos Energy's commitment to strengthen its customer service even further.

Q: Will I see any change in my service? A: Customers will see new uniforms on our employees, new logos on our vehicles, new signs on our buildings and an improved monthly bill beginning in October. Although our name is changing, we pledge to provide superior customer service.

Q: Where can I get additional information? A: Call Dan Alderson at 915-570-8451, ext. 205, or Roy Urrutia at 806-378-3380.

You also can find information about Atmos Energy on the Web site at www.atmosenergy.com. E-mail also can be sent from the site.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE NAME OF THE GAME WAS--HOSPITALITY!

IN THE ANCIENT BIBLE WORLD HOSPITALITY WAS REGARDED AS ONE OF MAN'S BEST VIRTUES. EVEN THEIR MANY LAWS REFLECT THIS CONCERN FOR THEIR FELLOW MAN. THE LAW RESPECTING THE STRANGERS IN THEIR MIDST (LEV. 19:33-34) MAKES THIS CLEAR, AND THE LAW CONCERNING THE POOR (LEV. 25:14) GIVES THE PATTERN OF CONDUCT THEY WERE TO FOLLOW. MANY PASSAGES FROM THE NEW TESTAMENT ARE IN LINE WITH THE TRADITION OF THE OLD TESTAMENT IN THAT WE ARE URGED TO "FOLLOW AFTER HOSPITALITY" (ROM. 12:13) AND TO ALWAYS REMEMBER ABRAHAM'S EXAMPLE (HEB. 13:2) AND USE HOSPITALITY ONE TO ANOTHER WITHOUT GRUDGING! (1 PETER 4:9) SOMETIMES THE DEGREE OF HOSPITALITY WAS OVERPOWERING AS IN THE CASE OF ELIEZER WHO WAS COMMISSIONED BY ABRAHAM TO FIND A BRIDE FOR HIS SON ISAAC. ELIEZER FOUND A BRIDE, REBEKAH, AND WAS ANXIOUS TO RETURN HOME--BUT NO WAY! THE EXTENT OF THE GENEROSITY OF REBEKAH'S FAMILY KEPT HIM VISITING WEEK AFTER WEEK UNTIL THE POOR FELLOW WORRIED THAT HE WOULD NEVER SEE ABRAHAM AGAIN.

TYING THE KNOT

Another Nobel Laureate...

by Walter E. Williams

Here's what I said in last year's November column: "George Mason University economists are leaders in economic thinking. They include scholars such as Nobel Laureate James Buchanan, who along with his colleague Gordon Tullock, pioneered the field in economics known as public choice."

Toward the end of my tenure as department chairman, we acquired all seven members of the University of Arizona's distinguished Economic Science Laboratory. Professor Vernon Smith, its director, is widely mentioned as a likely prospect for the Nobel Prize in economics for his path-breaking work in the field of experimental economics.

Along with Professor Gordon Tullock, also mentioned as a likely prospect for the Nobel Prize in Economics, it is not inconceivable that George Mason University's Economics Department will not only rank No. 1 in the South but will be home to every single Nobel Laureate in the South."

Last week, the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences awarded Vernon Smith, jointly with Princeton Professor Daniel Kahneman, the 2002 Nobel Prize in Economic Sciences. Smith won the Nobel Prize "for having established laboratory experiments as a tool in empirical economic analysis, especially in the study of alternative market mechanisms."

Professor Paul Samuelson, the 1970 winner of the Nobel Prize in Economics, said, "Economics cannot perform the controlled experiments of chemists or biologists because (it) cannot easily control other important factors. Like astronomers or meteorologists, (economists) generally must be content largely to observe." Samuelson was wrong about that, just as he was wrong when he said, "The Soviet economy is proof that ... a socialist command economy can function and even thrive."

Smith persevered and pioneered in the use of laboratory experiments in evaluating the performance and function of markets. The results of his experiments have given economists a deeper understanding of the actual workings of real-world markets and have helped guide public policy in the design and testing of pollution permit trading systems, and deregulation of electric power and water markets.

His experiments have also pointed out how vitally important the "rules of the game" — laws, regulations, customs, truth and honesty — are in affecting both individual behavior and market outcomes. Since Smith is a professor of economics and law, both economics and law school students have access to his knowledge and skills.

George Mason University School of Law Dean Mark Grady said: "We are honored to be the only law school in America with an active Nobel Prize winner on its faculty. Dr. Smith teaches a course to our law students on exchange institutions, such as stock markets, and the law."

Among other George Mason University Law School kudos: Having been established in 1979, it is the youngest law school in the First Tier of the U.S. News & World Report ranking of law schools. Four of its professors are ranked among the most cited in the United States.

It's probably just an oversight on Grady's part not to mention that another reason why the law school excels is because Professor Williams has periodically taught its "Economic Foundations of Legal Studies" course to its first-year students.

You might say, "Williams, George Mason University's economics department and law school sound like excellent places to send my kid or to enroll myself." You'd be right.

We both accept the evidence that peaceable, voluntary exchange is not only morally superior to other forms of social organization — such as those involving force, intimidation and threats — it also provides for the highest standard of living for the ordinary man.

What makes our law school so unique is that our professors respect and revere the U.S. Constitution. You say, "Williams, you're immodestly bragging again!" I'll tell you what I told you last year; what my beloved grandmother used to say: "It's a poor dog that won't wag his own tail."

Who's Detering Whom?

by Sheldon Richman

The key word in analyzing the confrontation between the U.S. government and Saddam Hussein is "deterrence." When we think of that word, we typically attach it to U.S. policies versus other governments. But I do not mean deterrence by the United States of Iraq.

That would be nothing new. The U.S. government has the military might to blow Iraq to smithereens any time it chooses to do it. So has Israel. This is what makes the bogus alarm about Hussein's actual or potential use of weapons so ridiculous.

What's he going to do with them? If we know anything about Hussein, it's that he likes his job and doesn't wish to lose it. The quickest way for him to lose it — not to mention his life — would be to use a nuclear, chemical, or biological weapon against a U.S. interest or Israel.

I'm talking about another kind of deterrence: deterrence of the U.S. government by Iraq. Ridiculous? You be the judge. The U.S. government has sought for many years to have the power to act without impediment in the Middle East (not to mention other regions).

This has to do with oil and Israel primarily. American administrations have wished for this discretion since the end of World War II, when the United States succeeded Great Britain as the prime superpower. But it has been limited by "the oil weapon," as we saw briefly in the energy events of the 1970s.

It explains why the armchair militarists at National Review and The Weekly Standard have long wanted the U.S. government to seize the oil fields and now hope a war against Iraq will become a full-scale takeover of Arab and Iranian territory. From this perspective, the U.S. government's worst fear is an unfriendly regime with a serious weapon it could threaten to use if attacked by the United States or Israel.

Obviously, Iraq is the prime candidate to fill that role. Note that all of Hussein's threats have been conditional: If you attack us, we will do such and such. He has never threatened to initiate force against the United States. Thus the Bush administration cannot let Hussein acquire serious weapons because they would thwart its (and all postwar presidents') ambitions in the region.

There just would be no way for Bush to carry out his father's declaration of 1990, after Hussein invaded Kuwait: "What we say goes." Motives are a secondary consideration. One may believe that American policymakers' ends are virtuous (I don't share that view) but still believe that improper, imperial methods are being used to achieve them.

Ends and means must be assessed independently, or else we wind up declaring that the end justifies the means. After all, the U.S. government has nuclear weapons. Indeed, it is the one and only possessor of such weapons to have used them. Israel has a significant nuclear arsenal and has threatened to use it on at least one occasion, the October 1973 war.

But most Americans would not think that justifies forcible regime changes in the United States and Israel. Why not? Because their ends are thought to be benign. Similarly, Iraq's possession of serious weapons pose no threat to us if Hussein's motives are defensive, which we have every reason to believe.

If Stalin and Mao dared not risk annihilation, it is unlikely that Hussein will. There is an inescapable implication here. The very willingness of the Bush administration to threatened to bomb Hussein out of power is proof that he does not possess ready-to-launch nuclear, biological, or chemical weapons. For if he did have them and were really the dangerous madman Mr. Bush says he is, the president would not risk Hussein's launching something nasty at Israel.

Wouldn't one assume that a desperate well-armed lunatic would feel he has nothing to lose by taking lots of people with him? Indeed, if Hussein does have such weapons at the ready, Mr. Bush's policy is the height of recklessness, since it would imperil thousands of innocent people.

A society is justified in going to war only when its survival is threatened. That is clearly not the case here. Mr. Bush's coming war is therefore unjustified.

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK

"Can any thing be more ridiculous than that a man has a right to kill me because he dwells on the other side of the water, and because his prince has a quarrel with mine, although I have none with him?" —Blaise Pascal, Pensees, IV [1670] "The whole history of the progress of human liberty shows that all concessions yet made to her august claims have been born of earnest struggle.... If there is no struggle, there is no progress. Those who profess to favor freedom, and yet deprecate agitation, are men who want crops without plowing up the ground, they want rain without thunder and lightning. They want the ocean without the awful roar of its many waters."

Just say no to ballistic fingerprinting

by Bart Frazier

Over the past nine days, a methodical killer has shot 10 people in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area, killing 8 of them. There is scant evidence and police are having a hard time finding the killer, as is often the case when crimes appear to be completely random and without motive.

One piece of evidence, however, has been recovered that is causing some debate — a casing from a fired bullet. From the bullet casing, police now know that the shooter is using a rifle that fires .223 caliber bullets. This is not much help because .223 is a common size, used both in military and hunting rifles.

But there are those now arguing that the sniper killings are evidence of the need for a federal ballistic-fingerprint database. When a gun fires a bullet, it leaves distinctive markings on the metal casing of the bullet, a ballistic "fingerprint" of the gun. Gun-control advocates argue that in cases of random violence where there are few leads, a database of such fingerprints could lead immediately to the killer.

But is this so? One problem with such an argument is that there are already 200 million guns in the United States that have not been fingerprinted. A crime committed with any of these weapons could not be traced. But the ultimate failure of ballistic fingerprinting is due to the same problem that dooms gun-registration programs — what fool of a killer would use a gun that could be traced back to him?

If ballistic fingerprinting was currently mandated, it is doubtful the sniper would buy his gun from a retailer, but rather from someone who specializes in untraceable guns. Tragic as the sniper shootings are, it is not the gun, but the sniper doing the killing.

So should we be monitoring people instead? More people die every year from hand-to-hand attacks than from gunshots. Weapons used include baseball bats, knives, fists, and just about any other hard object imaginable. Wouldn't it be much easier to catch these people if the government mandated fingerprinting for every baby born?

After all, it would make it easier to catch killers if we could have a database of every American's fingerprints, linked to a Social Security number, bank records, health records, tax records, and every other nook of private life the state has invaded. Such a tyrannical program is what ballistic fingerprinting implies.

A ballistic fingerprinting program is just another creeping step towards federal monitoring of all gun owners. And just like Great Britain's, this database would be the first place the government would go when it decides it doesn't want the people to be armed any longer. Citizens should not allow a program to be implemented that would fail to achieve its aims and would succeed in choking off liberty.

'Falun' resolution opposed...

Editor's Note: At Monday's Garza County Commissioners' Court meeting, a resolution was presented for consideration, calling for the support of the "Falun Dafa." In response to the resolution, Kenda Bartlett provided background information. The court took no action on the resolution following Bartlett's presentation.

by Kenda Bartlett

Concerning a resolution presented to the Garza County Commissioners to declare October 2002 to be "Falun Dafa Awareness Month" in the State of Texas:

In addressing the Commissioners' Court, I expressed concerns that we really do not know what Falun Dafa is. My research shows that it is what the resolution states, but I also found that it is much more than what the resolution states.

The practitioners of Falun Dafa have been the object of persecution by the Communist, atheistic government of China. In their letter to the commission they asked that the commission make the proclamation to support Texas Falun Gong practitioners, and to call upon the Chinese dictator to cease its persecution of Falun Gong practitioners, end its interference in the lives of American citizens, and to release all Falun Gong practitioners from detention immediately."

But their proclamation says nothing about persecution. It asks that the County Commissioners Court declare "October 2002 to be 'Falun Dafa Awareness Month' in Texas and extend to its practitioners sincere best wishes for the future."

While it is true that the Falun Dafa has been persecuted in China, the 2000 report from the United States State Department stated that in the past year China has intensified its repression against the Falun Gong, Tibetan Buddhist, Muslim Uighurs and underground Protestants and Catholics.

October is the month in which many organizations draw attention to religious persecution around the world. The last Sunday in October has been set aside for churches to pray for the persecuted church around the world. I stated that I felt that if the commission was going to recognize anyone for being persecuted that they should pass a resolution condemning the persecution of all peoples of all faiths around the world.

Lucas family reunion Oct. 25

The children of the late Allen and Alma Matsler Lucas are planning their 25th reunion, which will be held in Post.

Through the years, the group has met in New Mexico, Illinois, Missouri, Colorado, Oklahoma, Ohio, Oregon and Arizona, as well as in various locations throughout Texas.

Hosts for the event will include Harold and Dorothy, Marguerite and Alvin Claborn, Wilburn (Bill) and Lucille, Ruth and Marshall Reno, James (Jim) and Margie and Jo and Jack Morrison.

The group is extending an invitation to their cousins to join them at the Saturday, Oct. 26, reception. Cousins include Walton McQuilen, John and Kay Marlar Shenk, Jean and Hal Jones, Thesajo Gilmore Welsh, John's widow Helen, Louella Gilmore Bilberry, Billy and Carolyn Matsler Caudle and Johnny's widow Naomi.

Former classmates and friends from Verbena, Grassburn, Cross Roads and the Post area are also invited to join in the celebration.

The event will take place from 2-4 p.m. at the Trinity Baptist Church Fellowship Hall, 915 N. Ave. O (east of the Best Western).

4-H Celebrates Its Centennial

In 2002, the 4-H youth development movement celebrates its Centennial as America's premier youth development organization. After a century of inclusion and collaboration, 4-H spans the nation from family farms to urban environments. 4-H brings together youth and adults to build a nation of stronger communities.

4-H in Texas is based at our land-grant university, Texas A&M. This long-standing relationship brings academic excellence to youth development as strategies and curriculum are created for the coming century. The unique capacity of 4-H to embrace both youth development experts and thousands of youth in our state makes possible the promise of youth who are confident, capable, and caring citizens. 4-H provides a positive environment, a relationship with caring adults, and exciting educational experiences for today's youth.

For a century, 4-H has been reinvesting in our youth and has a strong commitment to community roots and to strengthening young people's skills and experiences in teamwork, leadership, and citizenship. 4-H members and about 60 million 4-H Alumni are celebrating the Centennial of the 4-H youth development movement.

4-H programs began in response to young people and their need for a better agricultural education. In 1902, a large percent of Americans lived on farms. The community club model engaged youth through "learning by doing." Organized outside of school, parents served as volunteer leaders partnering with educators to provide appropriate curriculum and materials. No one individual is credited with originating the 4-H program, rather it was founded through collective efforts over the course of a few years. However, it was in 1902, that A.B. Graham, Superintendent of Schools in Clark County, Ohio, organized a boys' and girls' agriculture club.

By 1912, 96,000 youth were enrolled in 4-H club work and in 1914, the passage of the Smith-Lever Act established the Cooperative Extension Service of which 4-H is a part.

Today 6.8 million youth, ages 5 to 19, are involved in 4-H. 4-H programs exist in all 3,150 counties, U.S. territories, and the District of Columbia. Nearly 35% of 4-H participants live in urban communities and about 30% represent minority, racial, cultural, and ethnic populations. As in 1902, 4-H'ers today are involved in experiential learning in projects that are important and of interest to them. Today's project areas range from aerospace to zoology.

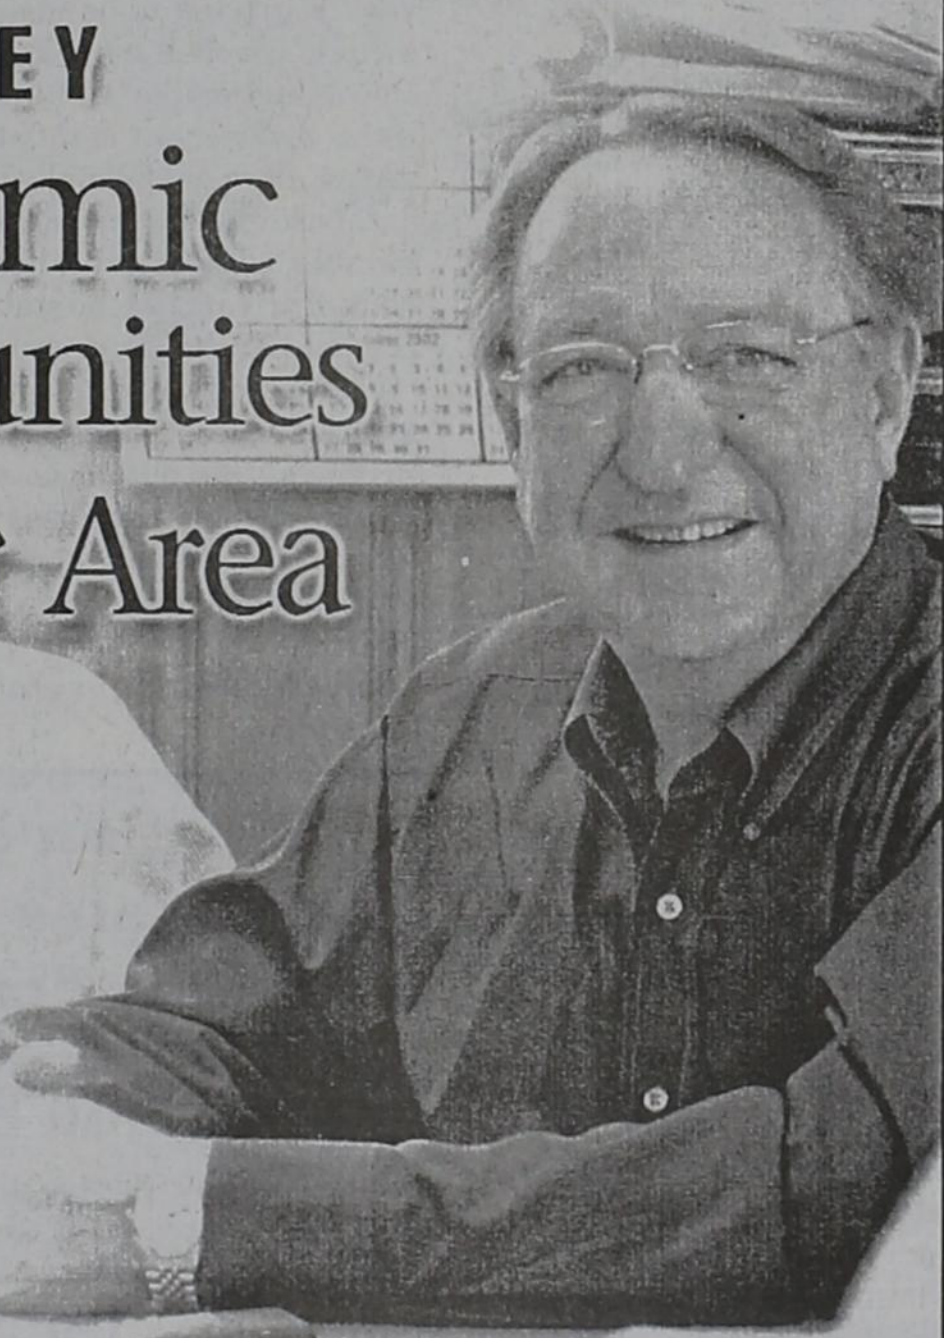

There are 159 youth involved in 4-H in Garza County with projects ranging from livestock, rifle, shotgun, food and nutrition, clothing, archery, photography and many others. The 4-H program is for everyone.

The 4-H program is administered by the Texas Cooperative Extension in cooperation with the County Commissioners' Courts. For more information about the 4-H program call 495-4400 or come by 215 West Main in Post.

PETE LANEY Economic Opportunities for Our Area

As a fourth-generation Hale County farmer, Pete Laney understands the economic challenges that West Texas face. As a State Representative, he has worked to provide economic opportunities for the people of our area.

Pete Laney was instrumental in the creation of the Office of Rural Community Affairs to advocate for the needs and concerns of rural Texas, helping small communities get the infrastructure they need for economic development to attract people and businesses to our area.

Pete Laney also supported the Better Jobs Act to provide educational and job training opportunities so Texans are well prepared to enter the workforce.

Pete Laney is leading the way for economic development in West Texas. He's a leader we can be proud of.

On November 5th, let's vote to keep Pete Laney as State Representative.

Early Voting is Oct. 21-Nov. 1; Election Day is Tuesday, Nov. 5.

'Lopes crush New Deal, get ready for Shallowater

by Wes Burnett

"As I explained to the players Monday morning," Post Antelope head coach Richard Gorman emphasized, "this game is our biggest of the year, and it is going to be tough, every player is going to have to step up and play at his very best."

Gorman also said that the Shallowater Mustangs, with only one loss this year, and that to a very solid Class AAA Greenwood, "is overall as talented as any team we've played."

The Antelopes, coming off a 46-20 opening district game at New Deal, have no time to bask in the last week's glory. "Every district game is going to be tough," Gorman added, "this district is one of the strongest in the state."

Shallowater comes into Friday's game with a tight 14-7 win over Roosevelt last week. "They have players that break open the game at any time, our defense is going to have to contain that explosiveness," Gorman observed.

In last week's contest at New Deal, the Antelopes turned in one of the best over performances this season, with 410 total yards offense and a stout defensive effort.

Mitchell Mills led the 284 yard ground game with 138 yards on 15 carries, followed by Jett Lott with 113 yards on 21 attempts. Quarterback Brody Robertson got 24 yards on three carries and Kris Hernandez was credited with nine yards on four tries.

Mills scored three touchdowns, one a 56 yard scamper; Hernandez crossed the goal line twice and Lott caught a pass for a touchdown.

Robertson's passing game was clicking, with eight receptions on 13 attempts for 126 yards. Vickers caught four for 47 yards, Lott grabbed two for 55 yards, Mark Norman was credited with two catches and 17 yards and Luis Zubia picked up seven yards on one catch.

Bryan Looney continued his outstanding punting career with two punts for 90 yards, averaging 45 per try. Looney also was credited with three points on extra point attempts.

On defense, Ben Ayala led the team with two interceptions, both stopping New Deal drives. Leading the tackling on defense were Luis Zubia (3), Jonathan Eilenberger (2), Mills (2), Ayala (2), David Rivera (2), and one each by Kyle Gunn and Cody Fox.

Tackling assists credit went to Randon Blacklock (5), Pablo Perez (5), Eilenberger (4), R.C. Curtis (4), Zubia (3), Mills (3), Ayala (3), Hernandez (3), Alex Moreno (3), Kenny Ratke (2), Zane, Marts (2), Seth Redman (2), Steve Rivera (2), Brice Easterling (2) and one each by Mark McCallister, Omar Medina, and David Rivera.

"These young men are playing as a team, and it shows," Gorman added. "We're really proud of them."

Game time is at 7:30 p.m. Those who can't make it to Shallowater can catch all the live action on KPOS Radio, Classic Cable Channel 12, www.postcityradio.net and 97.7 FM (community radio). The game will be video taped and aired on Classic Cable Channel 12 at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

New Deal edges Post J.V. 21-20

The Post High School junior varsity 'Lopes lost a close game while visiting the New Deal Lions last week. Final score in the ballgame was 21-20.

"The JV played one of their best ballgames, but came up just short in the fourth quarter," the coach said. "The 'Lopes offense moved the ball well all night, and the defense made some key stops. A special teams breakdown was the turning point for the Lions."

New Deal ran a kickoff back for a touchdown following an Antelope score that made the game 12-14 New Deal. The kickoff return put the score at 21-12.

The Antelope offense responded by marching the ball down the field 75 yards for their final touchdown with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

Cited as offensive standouts were Theo Paiz, Brady Wuenche, Will Todd and Brice Feagin. Defensive standouts were Martin Garcia, Chris Reed, Trent McDonald and Ryan Babb.

The JV will play at home this week against Shallowater.

Card of Thanks

To all of our family and friends, Robby and I would like to take this opportunity to tell everyone how truly grateful we are for all the phone calls, cards, and flowers while he was in the hospital with his leg and also for all the phone calls and food after he came home, but what we are most thankful for are all the prayers that were prayed for Robby during this time. We truly believe these prayers are what brought Robby through his accident. We would also like to tell our church family, at the Church of the Nazarene, how much we love all of you for everything you all have done for us, including the food, the money tree and most of all for the times you lifted us up in prayer. We are so blessed to have all of you in our lives and last but not least, to Mom and Dad and all who helped with the girls, we couldn't have gotten through this without you. We love you all and know that God will richly bless you. Sincerely, Robby & Kerri Kaylyn, Kylee & Kenley Dean

A big Thank you from Sheri and Jerry to the pro's in Post, on the EMT's who helped me last Saturday when I had a heart attack, "These people are Great". God Bless Jerry and Sheri Reidel BAYCOL® Baycol® has been pulled from the market and is linked to at least 100 deaths. FDA physicians linked the drug to a side effect which destroys muscle tissue. Most patients suffer severe muscle pain concentrated in the lower back and calf muscles. In the most severe cases, it leads to kidney failure and death. If you or a loved one are taking or have taken Baycol® and have suffered muscle pain, kidney problems or death, contact Singleton Law Firm.

MERIDIA® According to FDA studies, Meridia® (also known as sibutramine) is linked to increased heart rates and high blood pressure. A recent report revealed the following facts about Meridia®:
• 29 user deaths reported
• 400 reports of serious adverse reactions
• 152 reported hospitalizations
• 143 diagnoses of heart irregularities
If you or a loved one are taking or have taken Meridia®, contact Singleton Law Firm.

Animal shelter rules...

- Refrigerators
 - Sanitary sewer service
 - Washrooms with sinks for use by employees
 - Management of the facility by a licensed veterinarian or individual who has completed TDH training
 - Heating, and in some facilities, air conditioning
 - Adequate lighting
 - Roomy, moisture-free cages
 - Wholesome, palatable dog and cat food
 - Around-the-clock access to ferret food
 - A minimum of daily cage cleaning
 - Regular pest extermination
- These standards are currently in place and impact shelters operated by cities in counties with populations in excess of 75,000, according to the TML information. Shelters in smaller communities in less-populated areas are exempt from the TDH mandates. "Post has a good shelter," Stephens said, noting that the city received recognition for its shelter operation in recent years. "These rules could pose a serious threat to city budgets," reads the TML bulletin. "Cities are not required to operate impoundment facilities and programs in the first place. To the extent they do so for the public health, smaller cities have been and should remain free from mandatory standards that will prove cost-prohibitive.

"For example, it may be reasonable and perfectly humane for an impoundment program in a small city to consist of nothing more than a brief stay in the police chief's backyard. State-mandated washrooms, air conditioning and other luxuries, however, could force some cities to get out of the business of animal impoundment altogether."

On Sept. 9, TML filed written objections to the proposal and asked the TDH to conduct a public hearing on the matter.

Fear of the unknown

I don't suppose I have a fear, but the unknown is certainly there. Do we not all wonder what is gonna happen next and where. If we just stop a minute and think for only just a little bit.... The whole world may have one of God's eyebrows cocked up somewhat higher than the other.

Take for instance, the sniper in the Northeast, shooting people as if on a deer hunt. Another series of events that I cannot seem to put together in my mind. I can't even imagine how someone could do such a cruel thing. I wonder what God must be thinking.

Terrorist acts all over the world is getting worse, the economy is getting bent very much out of shape, could another "Dirty 30's economic Depression" lurk out there somewhere? Kick ol Saddams butt... is that gonna be all there is to it? What if it turns into a world war? Could be that it won't be as simple as the big politicians make the "Iraq Thing" sound.

I have no doubt that Uncle Sam will prevail, but what will that idiot Saddam do to the world while we are bringing his regime down?

I'm a Democrat, I voted for Bush, I'm glad Gore ain't in the Whitehouse, and I sure as hell hope Bush knows what he is doing. I'm afraid of George W. may have to many irons in the fire. I'm glad I ain't in his shoes.... What a mess the whole world is in.

I suppose I'm convinced that it (world situation) will get a whole lot worse, before it starts getting better. War is just around the corner, a lot of people will be hurt this time.... We will lose a lot of military people this go around.

In my lifetime I don't recall the intire world being run astray as it is now. But maybe God is shuffling the deck and giving mankind a chance to regroup and come out runnin. Fear of the unknown, maybe, maybe not, but I certainly feel a sense of uneasiness.

What next? What will it be? where will it be? When will it be... God only knows, but I believe we know now... we can't take the world for granted anymore, we know now we can't go to bed at night and everything will be OK, we can go to bed at night now and know somewhere in the world, everthing won't be OK.

As I see it & my opinion only,
O.L. (Ferg) Ferguson

A big thanks to Eaton and Parrish

If you have been to a Post Antelope football game recently, then I know you have seen the new Bold Gold tunnel that the Booster Club recently purchased. It provides an outstanding entrance for an outstanding football team!

However, this tunnel does not magically go up by itself. The two young men responsible for this are Russell Eaton and Ronnie Parrish. Every game these two hard working young men unpack the tunnel, fan, smoke machine, generator and necessary cords to inflate the Bold Gold tunnel. If the wind is high then they stand by to personally secure the tunnel so their Bold Gold football team has the entrance that these two feel like they deserve.

On top of these duties, they also unload and set up speakers and sound equipment to help get the team's Antelope Thunder started. This is also all repeated again at halftime and then when the game is over they are the ones that pack everything back up.

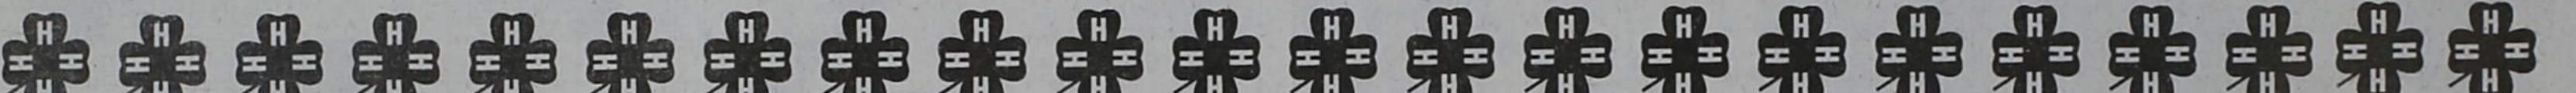

These two also help Mr. Henry transport and position the victory bell at every game. All of this hard work is done voluntarily because these two want to do all they can for those Bold Gold Antelopes! I know they expect no recognition, but next time your walking by on the way to your seats you might want to tell them "Good job."

Thanks guys!
