DONLEY COUNTY FAIR OCTOBER 14 AND 15

The Donley County Fair is just around the corner--next Friday and Saturday, Oct. 14 and 15, at Clarendon.

The Fair was promoted in the belief that it would furnish the best means of creating a more lively interest in better livestock and poultry and agriculture, and thus be of benefit to the whole county. In this worthy undertaking, the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce should have our whole hearted co operation.

President Patman, Secretary Boykin, W. W. Taylor, H. B. Kerbow and other prominent citizens have visited Hedley this week, and urge our people to be on hand with their exhibits. It is believed a generous response will be made to these invitations. There's not a doubt that Hedley has a lot of prize winning material.

Get busy! Read the catalog. If you need further information ask the Informer man. If he doesn't know, he'll find out.

Mr. Shelton, of the Shelton Grocery at McKnight, was an appreciated caller at this office yesterday. He tells us cotton is opening up fine out there, and the McKnight Gin is turning it out in good shape. He also told us of the death of Mrs. Patterson, mother of J. A. O. N. and C. W. Patterson. She will be buried in Hedley cemetery today. The family has lived at McKnight about a year.

LON SIMMONS SHOT AT GILES LAST SUNDAY

Considerable excitement was occasioned here Sunday morning when it was learned that Lon Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Simmons, had been shot at Giles by A. G. Huffman, Denver station agent.

Simmons was taken to a hospital at Memphis, and it was for a while thought he was fatally wounded. However, he soon began to improve and it now seems certain that he will recover. He is only 19 years old.

Huffman was taken to Clarendon by Sheriff Pierce, and later released under $500 bond on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

MRS. L. A. STROUD

The many friends of the family in Hedley were deeply grieved Sunday morning to learn that Mrs. L. A. Stroud had passed away the night before in Amarillo. She had not enjoyed good health for a long time, and some weeks ago was taken to Amarillo, where three of her sons and a granddaughter live, but the hoped-for benefit did not materialize. The Heavenly Father has called her Home.

During her long siege of ill health, the devotion of her husband and sons has been constant and beautiful. If human love and care could have availed, she would still be with them. But, though we cannot always understand, we know that God's way is the right way, and the time will come when the darkness will all be dispelled.

We haven't the data necessary for a more extended article. We hope to have it next week.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Five More Aviators and Two Planes Thought Lost in Atlantic.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
FIVE more lives apparently have been sacrificed to the overweening ambition of aviators to make trans-oceanic flights. And there may be further additions to the list before this reaches the reader. Tuesday the great monoplane Old Glory, owned by William Randolph Hearst, took off from Old Orchard, Maine, on a projected nonstop flight to Rome. Lloyd Bertaud and James D. Hill, both experienced flyers, were the pilots, and with them as passenger was Philip A. Payne, managing editor of the New York Mirror. Near midnight the plane was sighted about 350 miles east of St. Johns, N. F., flying well, though the night was foggy and the sea rough. About four o'clock Wednesday morning steamers and shore stations received the dread S O S call from the plane. The radio men and the ships set out frantic calls for position and six minutes later came the reply: "Five hours out from Newfoundland bound west."

The steamships Carmania, Transylvania, California and American Merchant, all somewhere near the estimated position of Old Glory, carefully searched the sea for hours, but no trace of the plane had been discovered up to the time of writing. Seemingly it was lost without there being an inkling of what had happened to it, even as was lost the St. Raphael and other land planes in which trans-oceanic flights have been undertaken. Anthony H. G. Fokker, designer of the plane, said he thought only engine trouble would bring the plane down. Doctor Kimball of the weather bureau eliminated the weather as a cause, saying there were no severe storms in the plane's path, although there was fog and cloudiness.

There was some hope that the plane might still be afloat even though rescue ships were unable to find it. The huge gasoline tank had a dump valve by which it could be speedily emptied and it would then provide buoyancy for some time. A collapsible rubber raft was carried, but probably the sea was too rough for its use.

On board the Old Glory was a wreath which the pilots had prepared in tribute to the French flyers who had made the first attempt. On it was written, "Nungesser and Goll; You showed the way. We followed. Bertaud and Payne and Hill."

Undeterred by bad weather and ignorant of the supposed loss of the Old Glory, Capt. Terry Tully and Lieut. James Medearff in the plane Sir John Carling hopped off from Harbor Grace, N. F., for the last lap of their trip from London, Ont., to London, England, on Wednesday. At this writing nothing has been heard of them, and it is assumed they, too, perished in the ocean.

Schlee and Brock in the Pride of Detroit were making good progress in their globe circling flight for a new time record, despite the fact that they were delayed at Constantinople by red taps. The most perilous part of the trip was the jump from Calcutta to Hongkong. In Tokyo they planned to install a new motor for the flight to Hawaii via Midway Island and thence to San Francisco. Their Detroit friends were trying to persuade them not to undertake the flight across the Pacific, and Schlee's brothers chartered a boat to meet them at Tokyo and bring them to San Francisco, believing that in that way they could still lower the round-the-world record.

Frank Courtney and four companions, who started from Plymouth, England, for New York, via the Azores, in the flying boat White, ran into head winds and were forced to land at Corunna, Spain.

Numerous persons around the Macareo river in Venezuela saw a plane, supposed to have been that of Paul Beffers, on August 27. It was headed southeast toward the delta of the Orinoco, which is uninhabited except for a few Indians. There is a chance that the Georgia flyer may be found in the jungle.

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES returned last week from a two-months' trip through France, in robust health and so ebullient that the reporters who met the boat said he had never been so genial. At once he was put high in the list of possibilities for the Republican Presidential nomination, and though he declared to the interviewers that he believed Mr. Coolidge would be renominated and re-elected, he declined to say that he still stood on his "too old to run for the Presidency" statement, made last May. Politicians in Washington think that of all the potential nominees Hughes would be the one favored by Mr. Coolidge. Many persons have thought Hoover was the President's first choice, but the indications are that these two men are not in such accord as formerly.

In the Eastern states, according to wise observers, the Republican leaders think Vice President Dawes has the best chance to win the nomination, though they admit Lowden will be hard to beat and that Hoover is perhaps the ablest man in the field.

Among the Democrats not much is heard except "Smith" and "anti-Smith." The popular governor of New York was attacked by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman in an address at Buffalo for the failure of prohibition enforcement in the Empire state. Explaining why the federal government does not step in and police the state of New York, he declared that in the face of the "open opposition of the state and local officers, it would require an army of 30,000 prohibition agents to handle a proposition like that."

Congressman Boylan, Democrat, of New York, sent to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon a vigorous protest against Lowman's speech as a "gross abuse" of his federal office.

NEW ENGLAND coast guardsmen are involved in another liquor scandal. In Boston five of them and six other men were indicted by a federal grand jury for a rum-running conspiracy. Federal investigators charged that protection was obtained in landing liquor by payments of a certain fixed sum per case. It is further charged that coast guard boats were used in assisting in landings which would otherwise have been difficult. One of the accused men was executive officer of the coast guard base in East Boston.

While on the subject of booze, it may be noted that the province of New Brunswick, Canada, ended its eleven years of prohibition last week. The reintroducing liquor act went into effect and retail liquor stores under control of the government were opened. Purchase permits are not required.

PROHIBITION lost its ablest supporter when Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel and legislative superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, died at a sanitarium in Battle Creek, Mich. He had been undergoing treatment for a kidney ailment and was taken to Battle Creek for an operation, but had improved so much under treatment that it was decided not to operate. Then he took a sudden turn for the worse and died on Monday afternoon. The funeral was held in Columbus, Ohio, and Mr. Wheeler was buried beside his wife, who was burned to death a few weeks ago.

Whatever may be thought of the merits of national prohibition and of Mr. Wheeler's methods in bringing it about, there can be no question about the skill and perseverance with which he conducted the affairs of the league. He repeatedly demonstrated his power in influencing legislation and the selection of men for office, and as the general officer of the dry forces proved himself to be one of the shrewdest politicians in the country. The league could scarcely find one man to fill his place, and it is believed two will be named to take over his work. E. B. Dunford, Wheeler's confidential legal adviser, may become general counsel, and some one else the legislative superintendent. The three leading candidates for the latter position are: A. J. Davis, superintendent of the New York State Anti-Saloon league; Rev.

A. J. Barton of Nashville, Tenn., a member of the national league's executive committee, and James White, former superintendent of the Ohio State league.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S last week in the Black hills was uneventful, and he started back to Washington much benefited physically by his summer vacation and ready to tackle such big matters as taxes, ambassadorial appointments, naval building and other questions. The White House, renovated, repaired and with a fine new roof, was all ready for his return. All the inhabitants of Rapid City gathered at the station to bid Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge farewell, and the President made a little speech expressing his appreciation of their hospitality. The eastward trip was interrupted briefly Saturday at Brookings, S. D., where the President dedicated the Lincoln Sylvan theater, built for lectures and entertainments for students of agriculture.

LAST week was not a good one for Russian Communists. Down in Bolivia the government made public conclusive proof that the Third Internationale was plotting communist revolt there and in other countries of South America; and at the same time a number of Red leaders were arrested in La Paz and quantities of explosives were seized. French Nationalists and Conservatives united in demanding the resignation or recall of Christian Rakovsky, soviet ambassador to Paris, because he signed the Trotsky manifesto urging "all foreign soldiers to join the great Red army" and inviting the Reds of all countries "to work actively to defeat their own governments." The French foreign office sent such strongly worded dispatches to Moscow that Chicherin, soviet foreign minister, had to disavow the manifesto, and Rakovsky tried hard to persuade the French that he was not trying to stir up trouble in France. At the annual meeting of the British Trade Union congress in Edinburgh the Communists were overwhelmingly outvoted and a resolution was adopted cancelling all relations with the Russian trade unions and the Third Internationale. The Pan-German league adopted resolutions demanding the dissolution of the Communist party in Germany and the suppression of its organs. The league represents the Nationalist extremists and bases its demands on the recent world-wide demonstrations in favor of Sacco and Vanzetti.

OPENING its eighth annual assembly in Geneva, the League of Nations was a decidedly gloomy gathering. This was due to the failure of the league's disarmament conference in the spring and the collapse of the Coolidge naval parity in August, to which was added the fact that the economic conference was practically devoid of results. Among the notable absentees were Lord Robert Cecil and M. de Jouvenal, resigned, and Baron Ishii of Japan. Dr. Alberto N. Guani, Uruguayan minister to France, was elected president of the assembly. Supported by the Belgians, French, Germans and Hollanders, Beelaerts van Bloklands of Holland submitted a resolution asking for the revival of the nonaggression protocol of 1924, declaring the failure of conferences of the past year had proved that actual disarmament was impossible for the time being. Japanese and Swedish delegates criticized the league severely for its failure to bring about reduction of armaments and to curb the quarrels of some of the nations of Europe. Poland's demand for an eastern Locarno guaranteeing its security against Germany and Russia was supported by France, but Sir Austen Chamberlain and the British delegates looked on it coldly.

CHINA'S Nationalist government has disclosed the contents of an agreement with Japan whereby the Nationalists undertake to guarantee the protection of lives and properties of Japanese in Nationalist territory. It is said this agreement led to the Japanese decision to withdraw their troops from Shantung, which movement was accomplished last week. The Christian general, Feng Yu-hsiang, wired the Nationalist government that he was launching an offensive against the Northern troops in Shantung province from Honan.

NEWS FROM BRAY

Everybody picking cotton and everything down to business.

Preaching at Bray Sunday was well attended and a good sermon preached and every one present seemed to rejoice in love and gladness. The sermon was on "Prayer" and so ably delivered that it brought tears to almost all eyes. We thank the young man for coming, and hope to hear him regularly in future.

Several from other communities attended church Sunday. We gladly invite you to come again.

Mr and Mrs L. A. Dunn and boys, Xenophon and Reuben, of Hedley, were at Bray services Sunday. Come again, Bro Dunn. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Horner have returned from a visit to relatives at Hollis, Oklahoma, and Wellington.

We see Jesse Stiles sporting a new car now—the latest closed job kind. Jess looks good in an up to date transporter; of course class looks better when together.

Fain Strickland returned last Monday from Oklahoma where he has been at work for several weeks.

Mr. Spikes who walks the humble pipe line from Childress to Rockledge, says Donley has the best looking prospect now for a heavy yield, as worms have destroyed much cotton in other counties along the line.

Lloyd Shelton says he don't mind to walk or ride, but no more Ford for him, as one has to jump all the time in a Ford, and it's tiresome. He now rides in a new Chevrolet.

T. B. Strickland of Hollis and Menefee Strickland and family of Wellington visited with their brother and uncle, H. C. Strickland, recently.

Rev Griffin was in Childress a few days ago to preach at his regular appointment at the Primitive Baptist church there.

Well as this is court week at Clarendon, and no one knows what will happen, we'd better hide out and report later. But they'll hardly call on our community, for we don't know anything here but perfect obedience to law and order.

Last year Buick said: "Change your oil only four times a year." Buick tests at that time had shown that oil changes would never be necessary, with the Oil Filter to remove impurities, and the Crankcase Ventilator to prevent oil dilution.

Now, more than a year has passed, and Buick owners in every section of the world—under every climatic condition—have also proved that you never need change your oil if you own a Buick—replenishment and inspection of the Buick Oil Filter only are required.

MRS. BASSETT ALWAYS TIRED

Now in Good Health by Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lansing, Michigan.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I needed it. When I first used it I was so badly tired that I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was tired all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day."—Mrs. E. F. Bassett, 216 South Hayford Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is sold by druggists everywhere. It is a root and herb medicine and has been used by women for over fifty years.

Kit Carson Speaks for Himself

CARSON'S HOME IN TAOS, N.M.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON NEXT to his grandfather, Daniel Boone, Kit Carson is perhaps the most widely known and best beloved of American pioneers. There has probably never been written a book of sketches of frontiersmen, pioneers or scouts which does not include Carson in the roll of these early American heroes, and many more volumes have been written about Carson alone. As has been the case with so many other figures prominent in taming the American wilderness, a great mass of legend has been added to the known facts about his life and the dime novelists have contributed their share to make the truth about Kit Carson obscure. Too often this quiet, modest little man has been included in the general category of Indian-killing, buckskin-clad swashbucklers and the sensational aspects of his career have been so played up as to cause most Americans to lose sight of his historic importance.

Fortunately for the memory of Carson, the latest addition to the biographical material about him has been the plain unvarnished story of his life as given by Carson himself to one of his closest friends some seventy years ago. This is "Kit Carson's Own Story of His Life" as it is entitled to Col. and Mrs. D. C. Peters about 1857-67 and never before published until it was brought to light by Miss Blanche C. Grant of Taos, N. M., who recently edited it and published it at her own expense.

The story of the manuscript, as given in the book which Miss Grant has published, is an interesting one in itself. The story is as follows: Col. DeWitt C. Peters, surgeon, U. S. A., was a close friend and admirer of Kit Carson, the great Taos scout. He finally induced him to dictate his life story. This was written down, according to a Mrs. Clinton Peters, during Carson's frequent visits to the Peters family, who were stationed at "some fort near Taos," probably Fort Union, and in the town of Taos as well. In all probability most of it was written down in the old adobe house in Taos, now owned by the Masons and called the "Kit Carson house," on the street leading eastward from the Plaza toward the mountains. The original manuscript is for the most part in the handwriting of Mrs. Peters, though at times the colonel helped with the writing, probably in the year 1857. Colonel Peters then wrote his long "Life and Adventures of Kit Carson," which was published in 1858. Carson never read the book as a whole, but read enough so he is said to have remarked that Peters "laid it on a teetle too thick." This early manuscript was evidently prized by the poet's son, Theodore Peters, who took it to Paris, France. Here, after his death, about 1967, his brother Clinton found the papers among his brother's effects, while rummaging around in a cellar on Avenue St. Owen, Montmartre. Clinton Peters brought the manuscript back to New York and had two copies made. The original he sold to Edward E. Ayer for his famous Newberry library in Chicago, Ill. The copies came into the hands of Charles E. Camp of Berkeley,

Kit Carson I was nine when my father died. Killed by a falling limb. Daniel Boone was my father's friend—Maybe you've heard of him. He and his kind were my teachers then—Trapper, hunter and guide; They taught me to shoot and to speak the truth; I taught myself to ride. Woodman I was till I saw the plains And I saddled and rode away To the little old Indian town of Taos And the city of Santa Fe. Platsman I was till I saw the hills And the trails that westward ran To the farther hills and the farther hills— And I am a mountain man. Mine were the days of the mountain The days that are now a dream; As once we followed the buffalo track We followed the beaver stream. Trapping the beaver on lake and creek In my grand adobe house. We ranged from the Platte to the San Joaquin. From the Salt to the Yellowstone. Old Jim Britter, Robidoux, Mack, Young from the Rio Grande, Cut-face Sublette, Pizleg Smith And Fitz of the Broken Hand— None knew the roads through the desert. The trails of cliffs and gins, None knew the paths to the Western Sea. But we that were mountain men! Young Fremont came over the pass With a hard and weathered face; When we fought our fight, both Red and White. Under the starry flag; And that's why I'm General Carson, now In my grand adobe house. With injuries there at the open door, In the little old town of Taos. The six-foot brave came striding in With scaling knife and gun; To tell their troubles to Father Kit— And I got five foot one! They call me friend, and their friend I am. Though I fought them hard and long For the Indian's right in the Indian's way. And the white is mostly wrong. But the Indian's got to learn our way So I'll help him while I can. For the Indian's way is near its end, Like the way of the mountain man. Williams, Beckworth, the tall Crow Chief; Gosh with the Eastern hand, Cut-face Sublette, Pizleg Smith And Fitz of the Broken Hand. Whether you're up and away once more On the last uncharted trail, Whether you're waiting here like me With the rifle on the nail. Light on the face to the mountain men And the joy of our reckless years, When we probed the heart of the wilderness Ahead of the pioneers. Reaching the heights with the Cimarron, On the last uncharted trail, Trapping the beaver for means to live, Living as free as air. Doing the work we were meant to do, Though little we dreamed it then— Finding the rifts in the mountain wall For the march of a million men! —ARTHUR GUTTMAN

Calif., as well as the permission from Clinton Peters himself to publish the story. This in turn passed to the writer. And it is just for the reason that the book "reflects the real Carson" that it is both historically important and humanly interesting. No matter would make no progress.—Capper's Weekly. "Grew" This Armchair John Krusback of Embarras, Wis., has "grown" an armchair. By grafting and bending the limbs of 32 box elder saplings, Krusback trained the trees to grow in the form of an armchair. It took 11 years of patient effort, but the chair was sold for $4,000.—Indianapolis News. Prosperity engenders sloth.—Livy.

CARSON'S GRAVE IN TAOS

how thrilling the affair nor how hair-breadth the escape, which Carson describes, the simple, straightforward manner in which it is told shows plainly why Carson was beloved for his modesty, which was equaled only by his courage and his daring. One instance will suffice. Almost without exception those who have written of Carson have made much of his famous duel with the French bully, Captain Shunan (or Shunar) and the dime novel type of writer especially has told it with much sensational detail. Here is the way Carson tells of the affair: There was in the party of Captain Drips a large Frenchman, one of those overbearing kind and very strong. He made a practice of whipping every man that he was displeased with—and that was nearly all. One day, after he had beaten two or three men, he said, that for the Frenchmen he had no trouble to fog and, as for the Americans, he would take a switch and switch them. I did not like such talk from any man so I told him I was the worst American in camp. He said nothing but started for his rifle, mounted his horse, and made his appearance in front of the camp. As soon as I saw him I mounted my horse and took the first arm I could get hold of, which was a pistol, galloped up to him and demanded of him if I was the one he intended to shoot. Our horses (were) touching. He said no, but at the same time drawing his gun so he could have a fair shot at me. I was prepared and allowed him to draw his gun. We both fired at the same time, all present saying but one report was heard. I shot him through the arm and his ball passed my head, cutting my hair and the powder burning my eye the muzzle of his gun being near my head when he fired. During our stay in camp we had no more bother with this bully (of a) Frenchman.

Thus does Carson dismiss this incident, which many writers expand into pages of thrilling detail, nor does he say anything about the fact recorded by reliable historians that Shunar begged for his life after his first shot failed and that Carson stayed his hand when he had his enemy at his mercy. Not the least of the interest of this book, as the one authoritative life of Kit Carson, lies not only in the careful editing by Miss Grant and the numerous footnotes which supplement the text, but also the reproductions of old photographs never before published and the contemporary account of his death on May 23, 1868, at Fort Lyon, Colo.

In Praise of Youth Orville Wright, praising Charles A. Lindbergh at a dinner in Dayton, said: "Only a young man could have achieved this feat. For youth is braver than age. It is more generous, too, more honorable. Yes, it's better all around." The great airman smiled rather sadly. "The good don't really die young," he said. "They outgrow it."

EASY LESSONS IN AUCTION BRIDGE

By PAUL H. SEYMOUR Author of "Highlights on Auction Bridge" (Copyright, by Hopkins, Jr.) Article Two.

How the Game is Played THE game of Auction Bridge is played by four persons using a deck of 52 playing cards. There are 13 cards of each of four suits, spades, hearts, diamonds and clubs. The Ace is the highest, the King next, then Queen, Jack, 10, 9, etc., the 2 or deuce being the lowest. The persons sitting opposite each other at the table are partners, so that the game is a contest between two sides, two persons on a side. Partners are commonly chosen by drawing or cutting, as it is called. Each person picks up a card from the pack which has been spread face down, and the two drawing the highest cards play together as partners while the two drawing lowest cards play against them. If cards of equal value of different suits are drawn, the one of the higher suit (as given later) is considered the higher. The one drawing the highest card is the dealer. The cards are shuffled and then the person at the right of the dealer cuts them. The dealer then deals out all of the cards one at a time, beginning with the person at his left. After dealing, the bidding or auction for the privilege of naming the trump begins. The dealer has the first bid and then each in turn towards the left. The game is played with any suit as trump or without any trump, called no trump.

As each player holds 13 cards there are 13 tricks. The first six taken by the side winning the bid constitute a book, and each trick after the book counts a certain amount towards game, which requires 30 trick points. Each such trick after the book counts 10 in no trumps; 9 if spades are trump; 8 for hearts; 7 for diamonds and 6 for clubs. Spades and hearts are called major suits, while diamonds and clubs are the minor.

The manner of the auction is to declare how many tricks beyond the book, called "odd" tricks, the bidder will contract to take. Thus the first one to bid may say one heart, which means that his side must take seven tricks (one odd) with hearts as trump. The second bid must be greater than the one already made; thus if one heart has been bid the next one must say one spade or one no trump or two of either diamonds or clubs. If any player does not have a hand which he considers worth a bid he may pass, and the person at his left then bids or passes.

The auction continues until three players have passed after any bid and then the last bid stands and the last bidder or his partner plays the hand as declarer at his chosen trump. If both partners bid in the same suit, the one naming that suit first plays the hand. If all four players pass with out any bid having been made, the hand is thrown down and the next person deals.

After the auction is finished and the trump and declarer determined, the play begins. The player at the left of the declarer leads one card for the first trick. Immediately after this lead the partner of the declarer spreads his cards on the table face up, with the cards sorted into suits and the trump suit preferably at the right. The declarer plays both hands while his partner (called dummy) takes no part in the play. Each player now plays to the first trick in turn towards the left. Each one must play a card of the suit led if he holds one, but in case he holds none of that suit he may play any card from his hand. The one playing the highest card on a trick wins it, unless it is a suit declaration, and one player having none of the suit led has trumped the trick, in which case the one who has trumped wins. The one winning the trick gathers the four cards and places them face down in front of him and leads to the next trick. This is continued until the 13 tricks have been gathered and turned. Then the counting is done.

Countess of Avignon Described as Paragon Adelsai, if her biographers are to be believed, was that paragon that so many imaginative men demand, the perfection both of physical and mental charm. The other half of the Twelfth and the Thirteenth centuries marked the golden age of the Provençal poets of France, and at the famous courts of love, where poets were princes and poetry was queen, Adelsai was the chief ornament of her day. In this countess of Avignon were united, according to other writers of that time, all those qualities of intellectual charm and radiant physical beauty the troubadours most delighted to sing. So, in the delicate questions of love and gallantry, in the amorous disputes between knights and dames that came before the courts over which she presided, the discretion and wisdom of Adelsai were never appealed to in vain. She probably was the one critic whose judgments never were criticized, even though as the arbiter of good taste and poetic fame she banished all license from her court. The reproduction of Adelsai's muse, copied and presented to friends and foreign princes, were cherished as the highest earthly gift.—Kansas City Star.

Feel Stiff and Achy?

To feel constantly lame and achy is too often a sign of sluggish kidneys. Sluggish action permits waste poisons to remain in the blood and is apt to make one languid, tired and achy, with dull headaches, dizziness and often a nagging backache. A common warning that the kidneys are not acting right is scanty or burning secretions. Assist the kidneys at such times with Doan's Pills. Nonshrinkable Wool Supplied by Ovibos

The musk-ox—scientifically, the ovibos—is one of the interesting animals of the Arctic region. It is something like a cow and something like a sheep, but is not a cross, though the name, ovibos, means a sheep-cow. It seems to be a relic of an animal that lived in the Stone Age, when the hairy rhinoceros and the mammoth were common, writes the travel editor of the Pathfinder Magazine. It feeds on grass, herbs, moss and the shoots of trees. Not only is its meat very good to eat and the hide good for leather, but the wool from its coat is softer than cashmere and it has the advantage over all other wool that it will not shrink. One can smell the ovibos when it is still a quarter of a mile away, and this gives it its popular name of musk-ox. But the musk-ox smell does not taint the meat if the butchering is carefully done.

Stopped Traffic for Duck

Traffic on a busy main road near Bourne, England, was held up for ten minutes while a duck laid an egg. A policeman had halted automobiles when the duck started to waddle across the road. Halfway over she sat down. After she had laid the egg, she continued her journey. The egg was salvaged and the procession of halted cars proceeded.

Milk Without Cream

A cow that possessed "a perfectly adjusted separator" has been reported by a correspondent to the Sydney Bulletin. "She gave a lot of milk and her calves were the fattest and biggest in the herd, but for household use her milk was useless," according to the correspondent. "The milk could be run through a separator without a drop of cream appearing either in the dish or in the interior of the machine. By no method of milking could she be enticed to give any cream."

CHILDREN'S LUNCHESES

With vacation days over the lunch problem again confronts the mother who has children who go some distance to school. The importance of a good nourishing lunch is being better understood and appreciated. Many a dull pupil is often undernourished and not getting the right kind of food.

Good health is the first thing to look after in all children and proper food is one of the most important factors in health. Plenty of fresh air and exercise are hard to get.

The child should be started out in the morning with a nourishing, easily digested breakfast. A dish of good cooked cereal with top milk or thin cream, a piece of toast or a muffin with an egg will stay by him until noon. Hot milk in cold weather, cocoa occasionally, but coffee or tea never.

For luncheon when possible a hot drink or hot soup with sandwiches and a bit of fruit.

Lack of appetite in the morning is often the result of sleeping in poorly ventilated rooms or keeping too late hours. A child from five to twelve should sleep at least nine or ten hours.

The food for growing children should be easy of digestion. The habit of many mothers is to warm the milk with a little coffee. Those who have studied the subject tell us that such a drink causes fermentation in the stomach and of course the coffee itself is a stimulant and highly injurious to a child.

Highly seasoned foods and condiments should never be given to the growing child. They unduly excite the digestive juices and upset the stomach.

Variety in the lunch basket is a helpful thing. Children tire of the same things. Tuck in a little surprise as often as possible; all these things aid the appetite.

The child's luncheon should be planned for and put up as carefully as a grown person's lunch. Have it as dainty and attractive as possible. The packing of a daily lunch is not a small task. Use plenty of cheap paper napkins and waxed paper to separate the foods and keep them dainty.

Small cups and plates of paper can be bought very cheaply, so that it aids in making the lunch easier to serve and also lighter to carry.

A dessert of tapioca with any good fruit is always a good one for the children and one which they will enjoy.

Ways With Peas.

Peas are among our most nutritious vegetables. Belonging to the proteins they take the place of meat in the diet.

Green Pea Soup.—Take one pint of green peas, a quart of stock (chicken is best), a small bunch of parsley—mint if liked, two tablespoonfuls of butter and a teaspoonful of salt. Cook all together and put through a sieve, then reheat. Season with butter, salt and pepper and serve hot.

Pea Souffle.—Cook a pint of peas until soft, put them through a sieve, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, a pint of milk, the yolks of three eggs. Season with salt and pepper and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake twenty minutes.

Salmon and Pea Salad.—Flake a can of salmon, removing the skin and bones. Take an equal amount of cooked peas and mix well with the salmon. Serve on lettuce with a hotted dressing to which a sour pickle has been added, chopped into bits.

Combination Salad.—Take one cupful of peanuts cut into bits, two cupfuls of peas, one-half cupful of olives, a bit of chopped onion and mayonnaise dressing with seasoning of salt and pepper.

Peas and Peppers.—Take the tops from six even-sized green peppers, remove the seeds and soak in strong brine overnight. Moisten with the liquor from a can of peas, fill the shells with one-half cupful of minced meat, one cupful of peas, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, a little onion juice, salt and pepper to taste. Bake until the peppers are tender.

When green peas are not obtainable, the split dried pea makes a most satisfactory soup. Soak the peas overnight and cook them in the same water with a good-sized piece of salt pork. Cook for three or four hours, then put through a sieve or serve unstrained. An onion and a stalk of celery add to the flavor of the soup.

Creamed peas served round a steamed salmon loaf makes a fine dish. Cook the salmon loaf in a small bread pan, turn out on a hot platter and pour the peas around the loaf.

Peas with peanuts and chopped sour pickles, adding a good dressing, makes a piquant salad, well liked.

COLOR CONTRASTS FOR AUTUMN; SIMPLICITY IN FALL FOOTWEAR

FABRIC combination and color-compare continue to be vital themes of the autumn mode. The skirt-and-bouse costume which is two-piece in effect but one-piece in construction presents infinite possibilities for an alliance of different materials which at the same time exploit color contrast.

The new supple velvets and satins are being played up handily for the skirt portion of these stylish satin blouse as a part of the black velvet ensemble is outstanding this season. To informal suits this white blouse adds its satiny sheen in a tailored way, but with dressy costumes the white satin blouse has become a clarified theme of handsome fabric enriched with gold and silver embroidery and other skillful handcraft.

Fashion also emphasizes black and white by furring black coats, be they of cloth, velvet, or themselves of fur.

Color Contrast Effectively Employed.

frocks, after the manner of the model in the picture. In this instance, the skirt portion of lustrous black satin is bloused with white satin. The circular hemline and the fullness brought-to-the-front effect assert the extreme modishness of this costume.

An outstanding style point is the fact of the blouse being stitched in silver. Metal stitching abounds this season.

It would seem as if black with white persists in staying in the foreground. The vogue for the white with white fox and white ermine Seal coats with white fur shawl collars are promised for winter.

Again the black and white note asserts itself in the new printed velvets, a most popular type being black velvet with white dots. Very stylish indeed are daytime frocks made of this dotted velvet.

Millinery tunes in perfectly with the black and white scheme, either in the way of black velvet hats with pearl or rhinestone ornaments, or the chic combination of white felt with black velvet.

LEADING authorities on bootery tell us that definite reaction is setting in this fall against fancy footwear, that dignity of line and simplicity of trimming are taking the place of garish display for street shoes.

In style the pump or oxford types will take precedence for street wear, while sandals and opera pumps will continue good for afternoon and evening.

Suede, patent leather and kidskin declare smartness for fall. The vogue for reptile skins also continues. Black and tan lizard, snake, alligator, boa snake, and snakeskin all appear in the new street styles.

Some fashion experts predict that it will be a fifty-fifty proposition between black and brown tones for street wear.

The walking shoe that will prevail with the tailored and semi-sports costume will have a Cuban heel. Medium French heels appear, too, for daytime wear. Heels on dress shoes will continue high.

The shoe in the sketch at the top to the left is an exponent of the very newest in fall footwear. It is of black kid in pump effect with ornamental kid tongue and metal buckle in black edged with silver. A very popular shoe in the new shades of brown is pictured to the right. It is designed Elegantly Simple Footwear.

In light tones or in tan with mahogany brown saddle and heel. Typical of the new reptile skin modes is the shoe shown below to the right.

In the midst of this simplicity movement for footwear, the usual "exception to the rule" happens to be resplendent buckles. Sparkling cut steel buckles, either square or oval are featured in pumps of suede, kid, patent leather, satin and that which is very new and chic, velvet. With her striking costume of metal cloth and satin, Billie Dove of film fortune and fame is pictured herewith wearing satin pumps with glittering buckles.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

J. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Castaway in Mid-Ocean

About 800 miles off Boston in the North Atlantic the lookout on the steamer President Garfield saw a piece of wreckage. It was a hatch cover with a live object on it. The steamer stopped and rowing out to the wreckage sailors found a Siamese kitten, wet to the skin and half starved but still alive. Where it came from will remain a mystery of the sea. It is now a mascot of the Garfield's crew.—Capper's Weekly.

Occasion Found Sister

Equipped With Thrust

"A lot of modern writers—Samuel Butler, Bernard Shaw, Wells and so on—preach that family life is a farce, that relatives are more apt to hate than love each other, and therefore down with marriage."

The speaker was Lester Scott, executive secretary of the Camp Fire Girls. He continued:

"These writers are all wrong, of course. I told one of them so the other day, and the best he could do was to come back at me with an anecdote. But anecdotes, as I told him, prove nothing."

"It was an anecdote about two sisters. They sat on a moonlit pier, and a wealthy bachelor sat between them. The older sister looked up into the bachelor's eyes and said in a far-away voice:

"I have always had a presentiment that I would die young."

"She drew a deep breath and nestled closer to the bachelor, and then the other sister said dryly in the silence:

"But you didn't, did you?"

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas
To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Donley County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon T. E. Alexander, by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the Justice Court of Precinct Two, Donley County, Texas, to be held at my office in the town of Clarendon on the last Monday in October, A. D. 1927, the same being the 31st day of October, A. D. 1927, then and there to answer the suit of said
W. T. Hayter, filed in said Court on the 4th day of August, A. D.
1926, said suit being numbered on the docket of said Court No.
1421, wherein W. T. Hayter is plaintiff and T. E. Alexander is defendant. The plaintiff in said suit alleges that the defendant owes him the sum of Twenty nine Dollars and forty cents ($29.40) upon an itemized and verified statement for goods sold and delivered to said defendant on March 22nd and April 10th and April 19th, 1926, respectively, and for goods sold to defendant
by J. H. Rutherford on March 22nd, 1926, which account was, by the said J. H. Rutherford, assigned and transferred to W. T.
Hayter on the 1st day of June,
A. D. 1926.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court on the first day of the next term thereof, this with your return thereon, showing how you have executed
the same.

Given under my hand officially this 5th day of October, in the town of Clarendon. Issued this 5th day of October, A. D. 1927.

CHEVROLET TRUCK CARAVAN TO VISIT CLARENDON OCT. 12

One of the greatest spectacles ever witnessed outside the realm of the circus parades will be seen in Clarendon when the great Chevrolet Truck Caravan rolls into that city.

The Sims Bennett Chevrolet
Co. has arranged for this Truck
Caravan to visit Clarendon Sept.
12 from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m., for the purpose of personally demonstrating the adaptability of their trucks for present day demands and to establish a closer relationship between the Chevrolet factory and truck users.

The caravan will consist of some 15 trucks, all equipped with the various types of bodies so readily adapted to Chevrolet Ton and Half Ton Trucks.

In the caravan there is also represented the leading wholesale and manufacturing companies of products closely allied with the automobile and truck industry.

Mr Sims of the Sims Bennett Co. is going to make Sept 12 a real Chevrolet Day. The Chevrolet truck caravan, accompanied by many local Chevrolet owners and boosters, will parade thru the main sections of that city, after which a demonstration and program will be held in front of the Sims Bennett Chevrolet Co.

A program of entertainment has been provided that will include many novel things. Hedley people are invited to join the crowd that will be there.

MARRIED

An interesting event of the week was the marriage of Miss Lois Masterson, daughter of Mr and Mrs. J. B. Masterson and Mr. D. J. Lindsey of Amarillo, Texas, which was solemnized Monday morning in a simple wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. Joseph E.
Eldridge, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated. Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey left for Dallas, in which city they will spend a few days before returning to their home in Amarillo.

The bride has lived in Hedley most all her life and has a large circle of friends in the city. She attended school at C. I. A. and Clarendon College.

Mr. Lindsey is a former resident of Denton where he attended school. He is a Graduate Pharmacist and is an employe of the Nelson Drug Company in Amarillo.
