The exhibit displayed in the windows of the Dreamland Theatre throughout the past week by the Home Economics Club of Hedley is of the highest quality and tastefully arranged. It has attracted wide attention and a great deal of favorable comment. There are products in this exhibit that could not be beat at any man's fair.

One window contained specimens of maize, corn, eggs, fruits and vegetables of many varieties—canned and fresh; while in the other window were varied specimens of handiwork of many descriptions.

The entire display is excellent and the ladies are to be congratulated on their good work.

WELLINGTON MAN LOSES LIFE IN GIN ACCIDENT

Lee Benson, age 30, was accidentally killed Monday morning at the Farmers Co Operative Gin at Wellington, where he was working as assistant ginner. The accident occurred when he attempted to clean some waste from the stands and was caught in the saws and cut into pieces. His body, down to the waist, was completely ground up. The saw cylinder had to be removed to get the parts of the body. The Co Operative Gin had been in operation only ten days.

Mr. Benson was a nephew of J. N. Benson, former resident of Hedley, and Judge R. H. Templeton of Wellington. His home was at Loco, Okla., where his family resides. He is survived by his wife and five children.

We have the Firestone, Oldfield and Courier casings—all guaranteed. Hedley Motor Co.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty. Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Lidly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine, and you can use these facts as a testimonial. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. DAUGHERTY, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

Turned Rain Into Ink

It rained ink in parts of Jefferson and Hardin counties, Texas. Open wells and cisterns were ruined and puddles of the inky fluid stood in the fields over a wide area. A 325,000-gallon underground oil tank in the Sour Lake field was ignited by lightning. Particles of smoke and soot were carried into the clouds and blackened the downpour of rain as far as 20 miles east of the blaze.—Indianapolis News.

There's More to This than Health!

Cleans So Thoroughly, Even Perspiration Can't Offend

All the trick laxatives in the world can't tempt people who understand the properties of castoria.

A hundred different drugs will purge the bowels, but a little natural castoria purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew!

Your grandparents took "salts," and slowly washed away the mucous membrane with the waste. Mineral oils are better, but they leave the coating that your blood must then carry off through the pores. But when you castorize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

Don't get in the habit of taking medicine for constipation—or even for auto-intoxication. If you have the habit, stop it. A candy castoret is a delightful form in which to take castoria; children love them and the taste tempts most grown-ups to take more. And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a castoret tonight! All druggists, 10c & 25c.

But when your cotton is ginned according to principles which produce a better sample and greater turnout, your ginning cost actually is less; you get the equivalent of a crop of larger yield and higher quality. UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS STADIUM

CAPTAIN MOESER, PRINCETON

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

THERE'S a touch of autumn coolness in the air and the faint purple haze that hangs over the distant hills tells that Indian summer is at hand. A mammoth structure of concrete and steel, gleaming white in the sunny October afternoon, holds a vibrant mass of humanity—40,000—50,000—60,000. Bands playing—songs—the measured cadence of r-a-h, r-a-h, r-a-h, and a sharper explosion of sound as human derbies in white break into a new set of contortions. A shifting, changing kaleidoscope of color and motion and sound which is suddenly stilled in that breathless moment before the whistle shrills. A thump and a soaring object high in the air—the pounding of cleated shoes on the turf—the impact of human bodies—two lines of husky young American manhood that bend and sway. Then with the eyes of the 60,000 riveted on that little group of 22 down there on the rectangular patch of green, one of the lines shifts and spreads. A crouching figure runs back from the mass and the ball shoots over the line into the arms of a player far off to the right. As he turns and takes the first step in his flight down the chalk-marked field, the 60,000 come to their feet in one mighty roar—"Touchdown!" And that's football!

Such was the scene that was repeated time after time last year and if the season of 1926 is any criterion it will be repeated many more times during the season of 1927. When the curtain went down last November, an eastern sports writer declared that "Superlatives only may be used in reviewing the football season of 1926. In matters of attendance, stirring competition, thrilling incident and amazing form reversals no season in the more than fifty years of gridiron play approached the ten weeks which recently passed into history."

If only the matter of attendance alone were considered it would be sufficient to show what a hold football now has on the American public. Time was when Vox Populi knew but little of "rah, rah, rah." He left that to the "collegians" and regarded with a tolerant eye the autumnal madness which afflicted them early in September, reached its high fever point late in October and then cooled off with the first snow flurries in November. But in late years this virus got into the body politic and, before he realized it, Mr. Average American was troubled with the fall restlessness which had heretofore afflicted only his sons—and daughters—as they began packing their trunks "to go away to college."

Perhaps it is not saying too much to assert that there is one individual principally responsible for this change in the public attitude toward football, and that individual is the erstwhile ice-man of Wheaton, Ill., young Mr. Harold Grange. The young Mr. Grange began playing football under the tutelage of Coach Bob Zuppke at the University of Illinois in 1923 and immediately gave promise of being an unusual backfield man. Then the season of 1924 opened, Illinois was dedicating its new million-dollar stadium with Michigan as the opposing team. A crowd of 67,000 had gathered for the event. (The photograph of that crowd is shown above.) Michigan kicked off. The agile young Mr. Grange received the ball and ran through the whole Michigan team for a touchdown. Michigan kicked off again and after one play Grange took the ball and again ran the length of the field for a touchdown. In fact, four times during the first quarter the Illinois halfback danced across the Marz and Blue goal line to score and just to complete the afternoon's work he made another touchdown later in the game.

But it was not until the season of 1925 that this red-headed youngster became a national figure. Illinois was scheduled to play Pennsylvania, one of the strongest teams in the East that year and undefeated up to the time they met the western invaders on historic Franklin field. The East had heard of Grange, of course, but it was a bit skeptical of the Middle West's boast that he was a gridiron superman. Sixty-three thousand people saw that game—saw Grange, despite the handicap of a muddy field, carry the ball 32 times, average 11 yards on every play, run through the whole Penn team twice for gains of 50 yards each time and score three touchdowns.

But more important than the fact that "Red" Grange was one of the greatest football stars that ever sped across a college gridiron and that his entry into professional football gave it new life is the fact that he was the dominant figure in giving several million Americans a new major sport interest which promises to give baseball serious competition for the title of "the great national game." For after the seasons of 1924 and 1925 the American public had tasted football and found it good. So it was prepared to make the season of 1926 the greatest in every respect that the sport had known up to that time.

As early as the third week of the 1926 season, the various stadia in different parts of the country, seating from 40,000 to more than 60,000, were reporting capacity crowds. By the end of the season the larger colleges of the East reported that at least 5,000,000 had seen their games. In the Big Ten the game had drawn a total gallery of more than 1,500,000 and on the Pacific coast seven college teams had played before 1,250,000 fans. All in all, it has been estimated that the 200 or more colleges which had football teams drew into their football stands the amazing total of 15,000,000 persons. Since the tickets were priced all the way from 75 cents for the small colleges, to the top price of $15 for the Army-Navy game, it is estimated that the American public was willing to spend a minimum of $30,000,000 for its Saturday afternoon diversion and that figure may be increased by several millions when the activities of the speculators are taken into consideration.

It was a season of thrills and upsets, too. Dartmouth, the undisputed champion of the country in 1925 and without a defeat on its record for nearly three years, failed to win a single major contest all season, losing to Yale, Harvard, Brown and Cornell. Again and again the little David triumphed over the giant Goliath. Harvard lost the first game of the season to little Geneva college; early in the season little St. Mary's, out on the Pacific coast, humbled the California

COACH JONES, SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

COACH ROCKNE, NOTRE DAME

CAPTAIN WILSON, ARMY

Bears; Knute Rockne's Notre Dame team, famous for its "Four Horseman" play, seemed to be riding easily to national honors until they came a cropper at Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech won by a score of 19 to 0. But they took their turn in up setting exercises when they journeyed out to the Pacific coast to meet Coach Howard Jones' Southern California eleven. Except for a one-point defeat at the hands of Stanford, U. S. C. had been clicking off victories at a regular pace. Then Notre Dame came along and handed them a 13 to 12 defeat in the game which ran down the curtain on the 1926 season.

Thrills and upsets, upsets and thrills! At Ithaca, Cornell, trailing Dartmouth 7 to 23 in the last period, unleashed a sensational attack which carried Doble's men to a 24 to 23 victory over the Green. At Annapolis with Colgate leading Navy 7 to 6 in the last minute of play, on the Middle's 3 yard line and headed for a touchdown, a Colgate fumbled and Lloyd, a Navy end, picked up the ball and ran 97 yards to a Navy 13 to 7 victory. At Minneapolis, Michigan, outrushed 20 yards to 1 by Minnesota and trailing 0 to 6, scored a sensational victory in the last period when Benny Friedman kicked the goal to make a final score of Michigan 7, Minnesota 6.

But the climax of the season in interest and in attendance came on November 27 when the Army and the Navy met in the Soldier field stadium at Chicago. It was the first time the annual service game had ever been played west of the Alleghenies. It was the first time, too, that a crowd of 110,000 had ever gathered to see a football game. Early in the game the Navy ran roughshod over the Cadets for a lead of 14 to 0. Then the Army rallied, tied the count at 14 to 14 and scored a touchdown to give them a 21 to 14 lead. Then the Navy came back with a volley of passes and Halfback Shapley skirted the end for a touchdown. The score was then 21 to 20. It remained for Halfback Hamilton of the Navy to decide the issue. He kicked the goal. Score: Army 21, Navy 21.

Such was the season of 1926, the "season of superlatives." What will 1927 be? It also may be a season of superlatives in attendance or in thrills when Harvard meets Yale, when California meets Stanford, when Pennsylvania plays Chicago or when Notre Dame and Southern California meet on Soldier field on November 26. For this week and next week and for the next five or six weeks 15,000,000 Americans or more will be crowding into college stadia all over the United States to await the one big thrill in the game, to come to their feet in the mighty roar of "Touchdown!" For that's football!

The Kitchen Cabinet

(c. 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)
Oh! to be big enough to follow Archbishop Benson's principles: "Not to call attention to crowded work or petty fatigues, or trivial experiences. To seek no favor, no compassion; to deserve, not to ask, for tenderness. To heal wounds which in times past my cruel and careless hands have made. Not to feel any uneasiness when my advice or opinion is not asked, or is set aside."

DESSERTS AND DRINKS

There are so many delightful dishes which may be made and frozen unaltered or molded, that there is an infinite variety from which to choose.

Cherry Mousse.—To a pint of double cream add three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, a cupful of cherry juice and a drop or two of almond extract. Chill and whip the cream until stiff, then add the other ingredients. Turn into a mold, cover closely and pack in ice and salt for four hours.

Nougat Ice Cream.—Cook together a cupful of sour cream and a cupful of sugar until it reaches the soft ball stage when tried in cold water, flavor and add a cupful of hickory nut meats or pecans, add one quart of rich milk to which has been added a cupful of sugar and when cool freeze as usual.

Fruit Crown.—Peel, core and quarter three sweet apples and three quinces, cover with sweet cider and cook until tender; remove the apples unbroken. Measure the cider and add enough to make a pint, over half a box of gelatin pour half a cupful of cold cider, stir into cold water and stir until it begins to thicken, then turn into a border mold, tipping the mold so that the jelly will line the mold. Now fill with chopped and cooked quinces and the apples. Cover with jelly and set away to chill. Invert on a cold dish and fill the center with sweetened cream or pour it around the mold. Garnish with browned almonds.

Grape Nectar.—To a quart of grape juice add a pint of sirup and the juice of four oranges. Chill and when serving add a bottle of charged water.

Pineapple Drink.—Add a pint of prepared sirup (water and sugar cooked together) to a pint of grated pineapple. Set on ice for three hours, add a bit of lemon juice, strain and serve.

Ever Ready Lemonade.—Boil together one cupful each of sugar and water, add one-half cupful of lemon juice, cook a few minutes and bottle. Keep in the ice chest until it is ready for the addition of water and ice and the drink is ready. A tablespoonful of this sirup to a glass of water makes a fine drink.

Grape juice prepared as a drink is delightful with addition of a bottle of ginger ale.

Autumn and Fruit Time.

We are so busy with putting up fruits for winter that we miss much of the joy of the riotous colors of the riotous colors of fruit as it hangs from the trees. Following the luscious berries of summer come the delicious autumn fruits, the late peaches, pears, melons, plums and grapes, and the melting sweetness of the cantaloupe, making a group of color unvaried and flavor unequalled.

As a salad there is nothing more attractive in color or better in flavor than good ripe pears, peeled and cut into sections and arranged on lettuce with the same sized sections of ripe peeled tomato. Serve with any well-liked salad dressing.

Pears Gateau.—Wash six ripe pears, remove the blossom and scoop out the core. Make a rich sirup to which add the juice and some of the grated rind of a lemon. Cook the pears without destroying the shape, lift out and cool and fill the cavities with chopped figs, walnut meats and a pinch of salt to each. Set on ice and when serving time comes cut out squares or rounds of sponge cake, scoop out the centers and set a pear on each piece. Pour the sirup over them and serve.

Grape Dessert.—Soften two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in cold water. Add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar to one pint of grape juice (fresh), add the juice of two lemons, strain and add the gelatin. Set the basin containing the mixture into a dish of crushed ice, stir until it thickens, then add the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Fill chilled glasses two-thirds full and pile sweetened whipped cream on top.

Peach Bouchees.—Take a rich biscuit dough over timbal molds and when cold fill with sweetened sliced peaches over which has been poured a little orange juice; serve topped with whipped cream.

Pears With Chocolate Cream.—Pare and core firm ripe pears cut into halves. Hollow out the pear, leaving a rim a half-inch thick and deep. Have ready some chocolate ice cream scooped in a small cone. Fill the hollowed pears and serve at once.

Mashed chestnuts makes a most dainty and appetizing dish to serve with meats as one does potato. Cook and season them as for mashed potato.

POULTRY

SMALL PROFIT IN GROWING CAPONS

The margin of profit in growing capons as compared to selling the male birds as broilers is usually small, according to experiments conducted at the poultry department of the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

Feed appears to be the item of greatest cost in raising capons, and this increases rapidly after the birds reach the broiler stage. It requires about eight to ten pounds of grain and mash for one pound of gain in live weight, and capons of American varieties gain six to eight pounds in about as many months after they are caponized.

Feeding, housing, marketing and labor costs are often so large that they more than offset the increase in price received for them. Low feed costs and high meat prices may make the business profitable for some sections. However, in the Middle West, where feed is usually cheaper than in New York state, experiments and figures indicate that capons are not nearly as profitable as laying pullets.

The poultrymen at the college say that it usually is more profitable to market surplus males as broilers than as capons. But, if males must be held several months for special trade, caponizing may be advisable and often is desirable because it is easier and more convenient to keep them and the meat will bring a higher price.

Fattening Turkeys for Thanksgiving Market

Not many weeks remain till the holiday season when fat turkeys will be in demand. Those who are to supply the trade with Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys should begin to fatten the birds.

The time will come when city consumers will be more rigid about the birds they buy for the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons. They will want to know how the birds were kept, where they were raised and the feeds they had access to. And this is just, for much depends upon the food the birds have eaten.

The young turkeys should have the range as long as it is safe. It is true there is always more or less danger of losing birds from the various causes, but the birds need exercise, insects they may be able to find, and this will mean economy in raising them.

Nothing will take the place of grain in fattening. The birds will need corn, wheat, oats, kafir, milo or some grain for finishing them off the range. Where there are grain fields for the birds they may stay in the fields till marketing time. But if this is not feasible they had best be penned and fed for a while before they are offered for sale.

Ducks Oil Feathers to Aid in Shedding Water

Ducks and other waterfowl are able to shed water because their feathers are kept in an oiled condition, says The Pathfinder. Oil and water will not mix. If you will observe ducks in a rain storm or as they paddle about in a pond you will notice that they frequently bend their heads back and rub oil from the oil gland at the base of the tail onto their heads. Then from their heads they oil their entire body. In addition to being supplied with this oil, the feathers on a duck are exceedingly close together, a condition which aids considerably in keeping out the water.

Poultry Notes

High-producing flocks have slightly lower mortality than low-producing flocks.

The meat income constitutes 16.1 per cent of the total cash income in the light breeds and 29.5 per cent in the heavy breeds.

A shed closed on three sides makes a good summer house for pullets. The fourth side should be provided with fine mesh wire to keep out rodents of all kinds.

Mortality seems to parallel egg production, being lower in the fall and winter months and higher in the spring.

The greater the egg production per hen the greater the total expense, feed cost, and investment, but the lower the feed cost per dozen eggs.

A dust wallow is used by hens in summer for two reasons; one is to keep external parasites in check, and the other to keep cool. They enjoy a wallow of moist earth.

A heavy layer is like a heavy producing cow. The hen needs a definite amount of feed to maintain her body.

Late moulting hens should be saved for breeders. These are usually the late-laying birds. Mark the late laying hens with colored celluloid leg bands.

When pullets do not begin laying before February, it may be the fault of being late hatched, or it may be due to insufficient feeding of the proper bone and muscle for

Champion Tunney Defeats Dempsey in Lively Ten-Round Battle.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

EVERYTHING else in the world moved back and gave the center of the stage, last week, to the "fight of the century," the battle in Chicago for the heavyweight championship between Gene Tunney, title holder, and Jack Dempsey, former champion. As nearly everyone in the country knew within a few moments after the finish, Tunney retained the title by out-punching Dempsey in most of the ten rounds, despite the fact that he was knocked to a sitting position in the seventh, taking the count of nine. In the words of one expert observer, it was simply a case of a boxer who was much faster winning a ten-round decision over a fighter who always commands respect because of his punching power.

Aside from being a good battle, the fight was the most remarkable in the history of the ring in the matters of attendance and receipts. In round figures, there were 145,000 men and women gathered in the Chicago stadium to witness it, and they paid $2,800,000. Tunney's purse was $900,000 and Dempsey received $450,000. The net profit for Tex Rickard's Madison Square Garden corporation was about $718,000.

The contest attracted an extraordinary number of notable persons of both sexes, among them many senators, governors and lesser officials, members of the British nobility, and at least one person of royal blood—the Princess Xenia of Greece, wife of William B. Leeds, Jr. Mr. Leeds and his party of five traveled from New York to Chicago by airplane, as did a good many others. Special trains from every direction carried at least ten thousand to the battle.

Unbiased spectators of the fight, including at least one of the two judges, said the referee, David Harry, was fair throughout, though he might have penalized Dempsey for the use of the rabbit punch on the back of Tunney's head. The Dempsey camp complained that the count was five seconds slow, when Tunney was floored in the seventh round, but this was admittedly due to Jack's slowness in getting to a neutral corner after the knockdown. The extra seconds were of great value to Tunney. Whether he could have recovered without them is a matter of opinion.

ONLY two hour of deliberation were needed by the jury to find John L. Duvall, mayor of Indianapolis, guilty of political corruption. His punishment was fixed at thirty days' imprisonment in the county jail and a fine of $1,000. In addition the jury declared him ineligible to hold any public office or employment for a period of four years from November 2, 1925, the date of the offense. Duvall's attorneys announced they would appeal for a new trial and then take the case to the Supreme court. The verdict does not become effective until the appeals have been decided, and meanwhile Duvall may legally continue in office. The specific charge against Duvall was that he accepted a bribe of $14,500 and political support from William H. Armitage, long the boss of Indianapolis politics, and that in return Duvall pledged that Armitage might name the members and govern the policies of the city board of public works, from which are given many thousands of dollars of public improvement work.

NOTHING quite like the invasion of France by the American Legion—the "second A. E. F."—ever took place before. Despite predictions of disorders and other unpleasantnesses, the second visit of the doughboys to the land where they fought was an unqualified success, their reception by the people of Paris was warm and enthusiastic, and the holding of the convention in the French capital really seemed to strengthen the bonds of amity between France Chamberlain, British foreign secreand the United States. Furthermore, the Legionnaires in general managed to enjoy themselves without in any way disgracing themselves, which was to be expected since they are not irresponsible boys.

The spectacular feature of the week was the parade of the Legion immediately after the opening session of the convention. For the second time in history the chains of the Arc de Triomphe were let down, and more than 20,000 members of the Legion passed under that beautiful monument, each pausing to lay a tiny bouquet of pink roses upon the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. That shrine of France was covered with a floral mound twenty feet square and six feet deep before the last man had dropped his tribute. In the ranks of the marchers were the American women's war organizations and many women members of the families of the Legionnaires. Gathered thick along the line of the parade were about all the people of Paris, and in the front ranks of the crowds were the disabled veterans of the French army, overcome with emotion as their old fellow fighters passed by dipping their flags low before the crippled and blinded heroes, General Pershing, Commander Savage, Marshal Foch and other notables led the parade in motor cars, and when it reached the Place de la Concorde they dropped out and occupied places in the reviewing stand.

That evening the largest dinner ever given in Paris was served at the Invalides. Four thousand Legionnaires, including all the official delegates, were the guests, and the food, prepared by 500 chefs, was the best the city could provide. Next day the Legion gave a big banquet in honor of President Doumergue at which General Pershing and Marshal Foch were the chief speakers and Franco-American solidarity was the main subject of the toasts. Wednesday many of the visitors, led by General Pershing, went to Donaumont and the desolated slopes around Verdun and there "Black Jack" paid a tribute to Marshal Petain and French soldiers who under him held that position throughout the war and gave their lives by the hundred thousand. The marshal, white haired and with haunted eyes, was a pathetic figure in the ceremonies at the Donaumont ossuary, where all the bones gathered in the Verdun sector are placed.

In the Legion convention sessions the liveliest debate was over Gen. William Mitchell's attempt to win endorsement for his plan to have installed immediately a separate air department in the cabinet. A majority of the delegates favored a motion asking for the "organization of national aeronautics into a separate department of national defense, headed by a cabinet secretary," but they added "as soon as warranted."

Edward E. Spafford of New York was unanimously elected national commander of the Legion. Mr. Spafford, a Vermont by birth, was graduated from the Navy academy in 1901 and served in the navy until 1914, when he resigned to enter business. In 1917, with our entrance into the war, he returned to active duty in the navy. He is forty-seven years of age.

TWENTY-FIVE planes started from New York for Spokane in the national air derby, which was divided into three classes. In classes A and B, for which stops were provided, the respective winners were C. W. Holman of St. Paul and C. W. Meyers of Detroit. In class C, for a nonstop flight, there were but two starters—Eddie Stinson and Duke Schiller. Both were forced to land in Montana.

The first plane off in class A, with R. E. Hudson as pilot and Jay Radtke as mechanic, both of Michigan, crashed at Long Valley, N. J., and both men were killed.

DANIEL R. CRISSINGER, governor of the federal reserve board, having resigned from that body, the President appointed Roy A. Young, for eight years governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis, to succeed him. It is understood that after the appointment is confirmed by the senate, Mr. Young will be chosen governor. Meanwhile the duties of that office are being performed by Edmund Platt, vice governor. The selection of Mr. Young is regarded as a victory for the element which opposed the arbitrary action of the board in reducing the rediscount rate of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent.

It is understood that President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon in choosing Mr. Young as a member of the board hope that the threatened attack upon the federal reserve board in congress during the coming winter will be averted.

WILLIAM G. MCADOO removed himself from the possibilities for the Democratic Presidential nomination, and now the dry element in the party is casting about for a leader to succeed him. Edwin T. Meredith of Iowa, former secretary of agriculture, himself thought to have a fair chance for the nomination, has said the "dry progressive" Democrats must make haste in this or the nomination would go to Gov. Al Smith by default. He said he believed the principal issues in 1928 should be farm relief and prohibition, with a plank calling for strict enforcement of the Volstead act and an attack on the Coolidge administration for failure to enforce it. Deprecating talk of his own possible candidacy, Mr. Meredith named Newton D. Baker of Ohio, former secretary of war; Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee and Daniel C. Roper of Texas as among those whom his wing of the party would support. He declared his group would not support Governor Smith, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri or Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland for the nomination.

OUR new ambassador to Mexico is to be Dwight Morrow of New Jersey, a member for twelve years of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. He was a classmate of the President in Amherst and Mr. Coolidge offered him the diplomatic post last summer. He recently accepted and told the President he would at once resign from the Morgan firm.

While administration officials stated that the appointment of Mr. Morrow will not mark any change of policy toward that country in the present oil and land disputes, it is believed that the banker's acceptance means that the chances of clearing up the difficulties between the two countries are brighter than before. It is felt that Mr. Morrow would not have consented to represent this government at Mexico City unless he believed that conditions were such that he had a reasonable chance of settling the present troubles, precipitated by American property confiscations in Mexico.

REPLYING to the French government's note in the tariff controversy, the American government has made an emphatic protest against discriminations against American commerce, such as the recent increases in French tariff duties. While the note did not threaten retaliatory action, it did point out the existence of section 317 of the tariff act, under which it would be possible for the President to assess additional duties or impose embargoes on goods coming from nations which discriminate against the commerce of the United States.

FRENCH resentment against the action of Christian Rakovsky, Russian ambassador, in signing a Communist manifesto calling on workers of other countries to rise against their governments, has culminated in an official statement to Moscow that further negotiations with the Russians regarding a pact of nonaggression cannot be conducted until Rakovsky has been recalled.

IT WAS announced in Louisville that members of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Tennessee, Missouri, Virginia, and North Carolina, will, within the next few weeks, receive a total of between $16,000,000 and $18,000,000, the sum representing payments on the 1923, 1924 and 1925 crops, according to information given out.

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE and his election won the Irish Free State election but by only a margin of six votes in the Dail Eireann. It is expected there will be no change in the government for a year, despite this slender majority. A new loan is to be floated in December.

MOTHER
A Cross, Sick Child is Constipated!
Look at Tongue

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.
The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.
Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers. Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies. It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles. We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

"How best can I trade in my present car
for a new car?"

WHEN you are ready to trade in your present car for a new car, you naturally want full value for your present car. But most of all you want full new car value.

It will therefore pay you to consider varying trade-in allowance offers in the light of these basic facts:

- 1 Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: i.e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 2 Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 3 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you.
Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
- 4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges.
Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.
- 6 Remember that you are making a purchase—not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply using your present car as a credit against the new car's purchase price.

WE publish this message, believing

Denton, Texas, Oct. 19—Miss Irene Beaty, a senior at the College of Industrial Arts, was recently elected secretary of the Departmental Club of the speech department.

This club is a combination of the Dramatic, Debate and Story Telling Clubs and is under the direction of Grover C. Shaw, head of the department. The club plans to put on a series of one act plays during the year, and will aid in sponsoring any dramatics on the campus.

Let the Hedley Motor Co. weld
