FRANCHISE IS ASKED FOR SEWER SYSTEM

PRIVATE CAPITAL

INVESTMENT IN PUBLIC UTILITIES CORPORATION.

IS CONSIDERING

Made by Gainsville Decision Saturday.

Mr. McKemie, of Gainsville, appeared before the City Council at a called meeting last night to ask for a franchise for a sanitary sewer system.

Mr. McKemie was accompanied by several other gentlemen presented their views to the Council in detail, and submitted a draft of franchise which was thoroughly discussed by the Council members.

Mr. McKemie wished more time to investigate some of the details more fully, the session was adjourned to convene again at past ten o'clock this morning when the matter was again discussed with the result, it is believed, that Mr. McKemie and the other gentlemen have reached an understanding as to the terms of the franchise.

Mr. McKemie and Mr. Stewart returned to Gainsville this afternoon, and will make another draft of franchise which will probably be presented to the Council on Saturday.

Mr. McKemie is granted him Mr. McKemie says that he will at once begin the work of laying the sewer system. It is understood that Mr. McKemie means himself and others who have invested capital.

Mr. McKemie and his associates are seeking a franchise for the use of private capital for the purchase and construction and maintaining of sanitary sewers for a period of fifty years. A provision of the franchise provides that the city shall own the sewer system at the expiration of five years, the value of the system to be appraised in a manner set out in the franchise.

Mr. McKemie offers to put the sewer system in repair where existing sewers are made for the sewer. The franchise provides that all parties to the sewer shall be charged with the rate and that the following shall be the maximum charges:

Private houses.—Water closets, $12; baths, $2; sinks, $2; lavatories, $2. Or all the above connections for a private house for the lump sum of $15 per annum.

When the gross receipts of the company reach $5,000 the franchise provides that there shall be a reduction in the charges of 25 per cent. Mr. McKemie proposes to pay the city $2,000 for the sewers already laid in addition to which they propose to lay 15,000 feet additional. They ask the City Council to incorporate in the franchise an ordinance which will compel the property owners to tap the sewers when the mains are laid within a specified distance from the property affected.

Water closets, $12; baths, $2; sinks, $2; lavatories, $2. Same as above, excepting attaching drains and waste water to be $12 each.

Hotels and hotels.—14 Water closets, $75; sinks, $6; lavatories, $20; baths, $10; sinks, $6; bath

TREATIES ARE COMPLETED.

Russo-Japanese Commercial Treaty is of a Political Nature.

By Associated Press. St. Petersburg, Russia, June 5.—The final drafts of the Russo-Japanese commercial treaty have been completed and sent to Tokio for approval. The treaty will remain in force five years and is more of a political than an economical character.

PETITION IS DENIED.

Trustees Cannot be Substituted for "Next Friends" in Eddy Suit.

By Associated Press. Concord, N. H., June 5.—The petition of the three trustees to whom Mary Baker Eddy transferred her property, asking that they be substituted as complainants in the place of "next friends" in the suit to secure an accounting of Mrs. Eddy's property, was denied today by Judge Chamberlain of the Superior Court.

INDICTMENTS BY WHOLESALE.

Were returned Against Pacific Coast Furniture Dealers.

Portland, Ore., June 5.—In the U. S. District Court today indictments were returned against 189 furniture dealers in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and California for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust laws. The list includes every manufacturer and jobber in the states named and a large number of retailers.

REPORT OF DAMAGE

STORM'S FURY WRECKS BUILDINGS AND INJURES CROPS.

LOSSES ARE VERY HEAVY

In Many Sections But No Fatalities Resulted.

S. M. Butcher, of Iowa Park, was in town today and said that there was nothing in the rumor that that place was visited by a storm this morning. He said the rain was not heavy there, but between here and Iowa Park there was a very heavy rain. East Pond creek being out of banks and still rising when they came across it. There was a heavy hail in that part of the country. The water near Pond creek is running over the Denver tracks and a washout is threatened.

TENT BLOWN DOWN.

Methodist Meetings Will be Held at the Church

For the third or fourth time since the series of revival meetings begun the tent under which they are being held has been blown down by the storms.

When the tent was blown down this morning the canvas was badly torn and Rev. Stuckey authorized the Times to announce that the meetings will be held in the church until further announcement is made.

NONE HURT AT RINGGOLD.

Three Churches Were Lifted From Foundations and Methodist Church is a Wreck.

Upon receipt of information concerning the storm at Ringgold the Times telegraphed to Claude Forshee at that place to learn the truth of the reports. Mr. Forshee sent the following telegram in answer to the inquiry:

Special to the Times.

Ringgold, Texas, June 5.

A severe wind storm accompanied by rain struck Ringgold this morning at about 8:30. Several houses were blown from their foundations as were also the three churches. The Methodist church is almost a complete wreck. The Ringgold State Bank, the City Drug store, and the Davis and Cromwell grocery were damaged by falling bricks.

A number of barns were unroofed and fences were blown down everywhere. The cotton gin which was under course of construction is a complete wreck. Local telephone wires are a tangled mass. No one was hurt.

Hail Causes Loss.

Reports from the farmers near Wichita Falls, and from other nearby towns indicate that the heavy hail accompanying this morning's rain at many places, did great damage, particularly to the corn crop which was just in the stage of growth that it could easily be damaged by hail. No loss of live stock or serious damage to property has been reported.

Damage at Stoneburg.

Passengers from Bellevue on the north bound Denver train report that a storm at Stoneburg nine miles northwest of Bowie blew the Christian church off its foundation; damaging it to a considerable extent, and unroofing several houses, blew down small outhouses and barns. No loss of life was reported.

Damage at Byers.

The wind accompanying the rain and hail at Byers this morning damaged property to the amount of $300. The names of parties sustaining loss could not be ascertained.

WILL HOLD CLIP.

Montana Wool Growers Will Not Take Less Than Last Years Price. Cheyenne, Wyo., June 5.—One clip of 225,000 pounds of wool has been sold here for 22½ cents per pound. The offer of buyers here-to-fore has been from 19 to 21 cents, but the Wyoming Wool Growers' association has advised all wool growers to refuse less than last year's prices for the 1907 clip.

MANY WERE INJURED.

In the Wreck of the Southern Train Near Lebanon, Tenn. Nashville, Tenn., June 5.—The Southern train leaving here this morning was wrecked three miles beyond Lebanon, Tenn. As far as known no one was killed. But it is reported that of sixty persons on the train all but three were injured.

The executive committee of the Northwest Texas Press association will meet at Plainview on June 26, and 26.

HE TELLS THE STORY

OF THE BLOWING UP OF THE CONCENTRATOR.

CRIME STAINED CAREER

Laid Bare in the Witness's Story of the Western Mine.

Boise, Idaho, June 5.—The Haywood trial was resumed at 9 a. m. J. M. Brunzell, hotel keeper of Nampa, testified concerning the presence of Orchard and Simkins in Nampa in November 1905. The presence of Simkins at Nampa November 7, and at Silver City November 8, 1905, was established by A. Pinkney and J. A. Connors, hotel keepers in their respective cities.

During the giving of this testimony Haywood's mother, a gray haired, kindly faced woman, entered the courtroom and took a seat beside the prisoner's wife.

C. H. Wentz, a bookkeeper for the mining company at Wardner identified the photograph of Simkins and his hand writing on the hotel register. The photograph and the hotel registers were admitted in evidence over the objections of the defense.

Guy Feight of Nampa testified that he met Orchard and Simkins at Caldwell in the fall of 1905. Harry Orchard was called at 9:42. Orchard entered by the back stairs in the company of a number of guards. He looked cool and collected.

J. H. Hawley began the direct examination of Orchard. Orchard said he was born in Ontario. His real name was Alfred Hansley. He had been known as Orchard eleven years. He became a member of the Western Federation of Miners in 1889 while at work as mucker at a mine in Burke.

Hawley took Orchard through a close examination leading up to the Couer Delene troubles in 1889. The defense objected to the introduction of evidence bearing on the Couer Delene trouble as having no bearing on the case against Haywood. Judge Wood admitted the testimony saying "The Court could easily see that it might be important." This appears to settle the question as to the extent to which Orchard's testimony will be admitted. Orchard proceeded in narrative form to tell the story of the blowing up of the concentrator at Wardner in April 1899. Two men were killed. Defense continually objected. Haywood kept his eye steadily fixed on Orchard who gazed steadily to the front. Except for occasional glances Orchard did not look at Haywood.

Orchard testified he lighted one of the fuses that blew up the Concentrator Mill at Wardner.

Orchard said he went to California when the Federal troops came in. From there he went to Arizona and Utah and arrived in Colorado in 1902. He worked for a time on the Vindicator. Left there on the strike in August 1903. Remained in the vicinity for nearly the whole year during

STRUCK BY CYCLONE

SEVERAL BUILDINGS WRECKED
 AT RINGGOLD.

NO ONE WAS INJURED

But the Damage to Property Will Amount to Several Thousand Dollars.

A small cyclone at Ringgold, a town about thirty miles east of this city near the boundary between Clay and Montague counties on the Katy road this morning wrecked a number of buildings and did great damage generally. The storm struck Ringgold at about 7:30 o'clock, unroofing buildings and lifting houses from their foundations. Among others, the bank building and two churches, the new cotton gin and two other brick buildings are reported to have been completely wrecked. All telegraph and telephone communication was broken during the storm and it was several hours before the actual extent of the damage could be learned. On this account rumors were afloat that the whole town had been destroyed and that a number of persons had been killed.

So far as can be learned no fatalities resulted from the storm and no one was seriously injured.

Jim Holly was showing an insect on our streets yesterday evening that very few of our citizens would try to name. It had a butterfly's wings, a worm's body and a head reminding one of a "devil's horse." It was about three inches in length. Mexicans in the town say that it is a Binagria and that there is no cure for its bite.

RAIN AND WIND STORM

Swept Over Wichita This Morning,
 But No Damage Resulted.

The storm which swept over this city at an early hour this morning did no great damage in this vicinity, so far as has been learned.

The threatening clouds which overcast the sky had all the characteristics of a cyclone cloud and caused scores of people to seek the shelter of storm cellars.

During the storm daylight turned into darkness for several minutes. Rain fell in torrents and for half an hour the streets resembled canals.

Some hail fell in Wichita Falls, but not enough to cause any damage.

The wind blew things about a bit, but the blow had no serious consequences.

If you are not getting just what you want in corn, tomatoes, peas, and canned fruits, try our Richelleu. There is none better.

Only Under Certain Conditions, Says
 William J. Bryan.

Richmond, Va., June 4.—In an interview last night William J. Bryan declared that the matter of section should no longer be a bar to a man's nomination for the presidency by the Democratic party.

He explained why he could not regard President Roosevelt as a Democrat and said that under certain conditions he (Bryan) would be a candidate for the nomination; that is, if his party demanded it, and if he considered it for the good of the party.

OLD SETTLER.

"The rapid march of events and the wonderful developments in art, science and mechanical inventions sometimes staggers belief. The only reason the average citizen does not shy off into the woods and take time to reflect is that his competitor will outdistance him in the race for commercial supremacy.

"Yes, this is the fast age of the world and we run onto many surprises. It makes me laugh, when I think of the cowboys' first experience with a telephone. He had been working the range for six months before returning to the home ranch, enclosed by a wire fence. In the meantime the ranch boss had made connection with a local exchange in a nearby town, by hitching the current to his fence.

When the kid from the range arrived the home boys put up a job on him, by posting a friend in town to accuse him of stealing cattle, when he rang up central.

"When the kid came into the boss' workshop, the other boys were lounging around waiting until he discovered the phone box. After throwing his hat in the corner and saying howdy all around the kid dropped into a chair and, like the cat when it came back, began to take observations. Spying the phone box, he exclaimed: "What in the blue blazes is that?" "A talking machine," mildly responded one of the boys.

"What yer givin' me—think I'm a greaser?"

"Supre thing, kid," remarked the other boy.

"Oh, go way back and sit down; I ain't green."

"Go over there and turn that crank on the side, take down that thing with a string to it off the peg and put it over your ear and holler hello into that horn sticking out of the box."

"The kid got up, walked gingerly over to the box, looked it all over carefully and finally followed instructions and yelled 'hello.'"

"A soft voice came back—'Hello, is that you, Kid Boggs?'"

"'Sure thing,' answered the Kid.

"'Well, I'm onto you good and fast, Kid; you stole that red yearling branded bar X.'"

"'What! What's that you say? Darn your measly hide—' and before anyone could interfere, the Kid stepped back, pulled his sixshooter and began firing into that box."

Denies Texas Fee Share for Gruet.

J. P. Gruet of Webster Groves, who informed against the Waters Pierce Oil Company, will not receive one cent of the fines levied in Texas against the oil company, according to J. D. Johnson, general counsel of the Waters Pierce company. Mr. Gruet is former secretary of the company.

The Waters Pierce Oil Company was ousted from Texas last week and fined $1,623,900. Under the Texas laws a percentage, totaling $391,145 goes to the County Attorney. According to agreement, revealed at the Bailey investigation, Gruet was to receive one-third of the attorney's fees, or $130,381.66.

Mr. Johnson now calls attention to the fact that Gruet's depositions were not used in the prosecution and that Gruet was not called to testify. He therefore concludes that the agreement was repudiated and that Gruet will get nothing.

"We can surmise," said he, why the attorneys for the State did not call Gruet as a witness or use his depositions. Their course at the trial indicates that Gruet could be of no material assistance and that the contract had been repudiated."—St. Louis Republic.

Wichita Daily Times

—By—
The Times Publishing Co.
(Incorporated.)
Printers and Publishers.

Application made for entrance at the postoffice at Wichita Falls, Texas, as mail of the second class.

Wichita Falls, Texas, June 5th, 1907.

Wichita Falls has too many or not enough of the negro race. There are a few negroes who reside here whose services can be depended upon, but a great majority of them are idlers and worthless to any city or community. There should be a cleaning out of the worthless sort—both male and female, and the time for the work to begin is now at hand. If something is not done in an official way to compel these idle negroes to work, violence of some sort may be expected. Just how these idlers, who have better clothes than the negroes who work manage to get hold of them, is a question that no one seems able to answer satisfactorily. It is not the desire or the purpose of the Times to work up public sentiment against any industrious negroes. The few we have should be protected and will be. The balance of them should be forced to either go to work or hike.

Don't worry. Wichita Falls is all right. So are all of her neighbors. They are prosperous and growing, and Wichita Falls does not envy any of them their prosperity. Envy never built a city yet. It takes push and pull to do this. We have both and they are at work and are too busy to pay any attention to the petty jealousies of some narrow minded people who happen to be citizens of some of our neighboring towns. Their tactics will not work.

The Daily Times is growing. So is the Weekly Times. Advertising space in either is worth all or more than is asked for it. We have no circulation bar on our force, but our subscription list is growing daily and our books are open to the inspection of advertisers. For the present the price for advertising space will remain as now, and due notice will be given when an advance will take place.

So long as we have no sewerage system beyond a few blocks in the main business portion of the city, a good trash mover and gully washer run like that of this morning are welcome visitors to most citizens. The fellow who happens to have his horse stabled on a low lot, however, is forced to take care of all the tin cans and rubbish in his immediate neighborhood, or else have it carted off at his own expense.

Waco is warning the idle colored bucks that they must go to work or hike. Abilene is hitting them for about fifteen dollars a term of thirty days exercises on the county roads, which is, itself, a fair warning.—Abilene Reporter.

Dallas, Fort Worth and other towns are busy now making their population claims. Wichita Falls has a population—well, let us see—about ten thousand, anyway—but they're not all here yet.

None Better

MORRIS & FARRIS

There is talk of having a mass meeting called for tomorrow night at the City Hall for the purpose of getting an expression from the tax paying citizens of Wichita Falls in regard to issuing bonds for the purpose of extending our sewerage system. It is thought by those who have given the matter considerable thought that it would not require more than $10,000 to extend the service to the main resident portion of the city and that rentals from those connecting their premises with the sewerage system will more than pay for the interest on the bonds. The Times has not investigated the matter and it is therefore not in a position to take a stand on the question. It does, however, believe in municipal ownership, and trusts our City Council will see its way clear to take this matter up and investigate it thoroughly. The City needs sewerage and experience has taught the people of Wichita Falls that it is far better for the city to own and operate its own public utilities rather than have them owned and operated by private corporations.

which the strike lasted. He gave the details of how he blew up the Vindicator with a man named Ackerman. Said W. F. Davis and Sherman Parker who had charge of the strike promised him $500 for the job. After the explosion he asked for the money and was told they would have to get it from headquarters in Denver. Later he went to a meeting in Victor with Davis and Parker and they promised him the money the next day. The next day both Davis and Parker were arrested. Orchard went to Denver where Haywood told him that the blowing up of the Vindicator was a fine piece of business. Haywood gave him $20 and Haywood later in Moyer's office paid him $300 for blowing up the mine. He said that Haywood and Moyer told him to blow up anything he could think of and to get some soldiers if possible.

Orchard said that Parker and Davis told him that they were going to wreck the Florence and Cripple Creek train and asked him to assist saying there would be money in it. Orchard told them, he testified, that he wanted money for the things he had already done and the next day he told D. C. Scott of the railroad company of the plan to blow up the railroad. He did this because he wanted money. Orchard said he later went to Telluride with Moyer in connection with the injunction proceedings which the union took against the citizens to prevent their molesting the miners from returning after the deportation. At this point recess was ordered until afternoon.

tion for you and me, don't you think?
I did not argue with him, for, after that Saturday's outburst, I had made up my mind to avoid stirring Bob up unnecessarily. Also, I had to admit to myself that the things he had then said had raised some uncomfortable thoughts in me, thoughts that made me glance less confidently now and then at the old sign of Randolph & Randolph and at the big ledger which showed that I, an ordinary citizen of a free country, was the absolute possessor of more money than a hundred thousand of my fellow beings together could accumulate in a lifetime, although each had worked harder, longer, more conscientiously, and with perhaps more ability than I.

As to how Beulah Sands' code had affected my friend, I was ignorant. For the first time in our association I was completely in the dark as to what he was doing stockwise. Up to that Saturday I was the first to whom he would rush for congratulations when he struck it rich over others on the exchange, and he invariably sought me for consolation when the boys "uppercut him hard," as he would put it. Now he never said a word about his trading. I saw that his account with the house was inactive, that his balance was about the same as before Miss Sands' advent, and I came to the conclusion that he was resting on his oars and giving his undivided attention to her account and the execution of his commissions. His handling of the business of the house showed no change. He still was the best broker on the floor. However, knowing Bob as I did, I could not get it out of my mind that his brain was running like a mill-race in search of some successful solution of the tremendous problem that must be solved in the next three months.

Shortly after the October 1 statements had been sent out, Bob dropped in on Kate and me one night. After she had retired and we had lit our cigars in the library he said:

"Jim, I want some of that old-fashioned advice of yours. Sugar is selling at 110, and it is worth it; in fact it is cheap. The stock is well distributed among investors, not much of it floating round 'the street.' A good big buying movement, well handled, would jump it to 175 and keep it there. Am I sound?"

I agreed with him.
"All right. Now what reason is there for a good, big, stiff uplift? That tariff bill is up at Washington. If it goes through, sugar will be cheaper at 175 than at 110."

"Again I agreed.
"Standard Oil" and the sugar people know whether it is going through, for they control the senate and the house and can induce the president to be good. What do you say to that?"

"O. K.," I answered.
"No question about it, is there?"
"Not the slightest."
"Right again. When 26 Broadway" gives the secret order to the Washington boys and he passes it out to the grafters, there will be a quiet accumulation of the stock, won't there?"

"26 Broadway" is the Wall street figure of speech for "Standard Oil," which has its home there.)

"You've got that right, Bob."
"And the man who first knows when Washington begins to take on sugar is the man who should load up quick and rush it up to a high level. If he does it quickly, the stockholders, who now have it, will get a juicy slice of the ripening melon, a slice that otherwise would go to those greedy hypocrites at Washington, who are always publicly proclaiming that they are there to serve their fellow countrymen, but who never tire of expressing themselves to their brokers as not being in politics for their health."

"So far, good reasoning," I commented.

"Jim, the man who first knows when the senators and congressmen and members of the cabinet begin to buy sugar, is the man who can kill four birds with one stone: Win back a part of Judge Sands' stolen fortune; increase his own little pile against the first of January, when, if the little Virginian lady is short a few hundred thousand of the necessary amount, he could, if he found a way to induce her to accept it, supply the deficiency; fatten up a good friend's bank account a million or so, and do a right good turn for the stockholders who are about to be, for the hundredth time, bled out of profit rightfully theirs."

Bob was afe with enthusiasm, the first I had seen him show for three months. Seeing that I had followed him without objection so far, he continued.

"Well, Jim, I know the Washington buying his begun. All I know I have dug out for myself and am free to use it any way I choose. I have gone over the deal with Beulah Sands, and we have decided to plunge. She has a balance of about $400,000, and I am going to spread it thin. I am going to buy her 20,000 shares and take on 10,000 for myself. If you want in for 20,000 more, it would give me a wide sea to sail in. I know you never speculate, Jim; for the house, but I thought you might in this case go in personally."

"Don't say anything more, Bob," I replied. "This time the rule goes by the board. But I will do better; I'll put up a million and you can go as high as 70,000 for me. That will give you a buying power of 100,000, and I want you to use my last 50,000 shares as a lifter."

I had never speculated in a share of stock since I entered the firm of Randolph & Randolph, and on general, special, and every other principle was opposed to stock gambling, but I saw how Bob had worked it out, and that to make the deal sure it was necessary for him to have a good reserve buying power to fall back on it, after he got started, the "System" masters, whose game he was butting in to and whose plans he might upset should try to shake down the price to drive him out of their preserves. Bob knew how I looked at his proposed deal and ordinarily would not have allowed me to have the short end of it, but so changed had he become in his anxiety to make that money for the Virginians that he grabbed at my acceptance.

"Thank you, Jim," he said, fervently, and he continued: "Of course, I see what's going through your head, but I'll accept the favor, for the deal is bound to be successful. I know your reason for coming in is just to help out, and that you won't feel badly because your last 50,000 shares will be used more as a guarantee for the deal's success than for profit. And Miss Sands could not object to the part you play, as she did at the underwriting, for you will get a big profit anyway."

Next day sugar was lively on the exchange. Bob bought all in sight and handled the buying in a masterly way. When the closing gong struck, Beulah Sands had 20,000 shares, which averaged her 115; Bob and I had 30,000 at an average of 125, and the stock had closed 132 bid and in big demand. Miss Sands' 20,000 showed $240,000 profit, while our 30,000 showed $210,000 at the closing price. All the houses with Washington wires were wildly scrambling for sugar as soon as it began to jump. And it certainly looked as though the shares were good for the figures set for them by Bob, $175, at which price, the Sands' profits would be $1,200,000. Bob was beside himself with joy. He dined with Kate and me, and as I watched him my heart almost stopped beating at the thought—"If anything should happen to upset his plans!" His happiness was pathetic to witness. He was like a child. He threw away all the reserve of the past three months and laughed and was grave by turns. After dinner, as we sat in the library over our coffee, he leaned over to my wife and said:

"Katherine Randolph, you and Jim don't know what misery I have been in for three months, and now—will tomorrow never come, so I may get into the whirl and clean up this deal and send that girl back to her father with the money! I wanted her to telegraph the judge that things looked like she would win out and bring back the relief, but she would not hear of it. She is a marvelous woman. She has not turned a hair to-day. I don't think her pulse is up an eighth tonight. She has not sent home a word of encouragement since she has been here, more than to tell her father she is doing well with her stories. It seems they both agreed the only way to work the thing out was 'whole hog or none,' and that she was to say nothing until she could herself bring the word 'saved' or 'lost.' I don't know but she is right. She says if she should raise her father's hopes, and then be compelled to dash them, the effect would be fatal."

Bob rushed the talk along, flitting from one point to another, but invariably returning to Beulah Sands and tomorrow and its saving profits. Finally, he got to a pitch where it seemed as though he must take off the lid, and before Kate or I realized what was

Friday the 13th

By THOMAS W. LAWSON
Author of "Frenzied Finance"

coming he placed himself in front of us and said:

"Jim, Kate, I cannot go into to-morrow without telling you something that neither of you suspect. I must tell some one, now that everything is coming out right and that Beulah is to be saved; and whom can I tell but you, who have been everything to me? —I love Beulah Sands, surely, deeply, with every bit of me. I worship her, I tell you, and to-morrow, to-morrow if this deal comes out as it must come, and I can put $1,500,000 into her hands and send her home to her father, then, then, I will tell her I love her, and Jim, Kate, if she'll marry me, good-by, good-by to this hell of dollar-hunting, good-by to such misery as I have been in for three months, and home, a Virginia home, for Beulah and me." He sank into a chair and tears rolled down his cheeks. Poor, poor Bob, strong as a lion in adversity, hysterical as a woman with victory in sight.

The next day sugar opened with a wild rush: "25,000 shares from 140 to 152." That is the way it came on the tape, which meant that the crowd around the sugar-pole was a mob and that the transactions were so heavy, quick and tangled that no one could tell to a certainty just what the first or opening price was; but after the first lull, after the gong, there were officially reported transactions aggregating 25,000 shares and at prices varying from 140 to 152. I was over on the floor to see the scramble, for it was noised about long before ten o'clock that sugar would open wild, and then, too, I wanted to be handy if Bob should need any quick advice.

ute. For instance, the man who that morning was able to snatch the first 5,000 shares sold at 140 could have resold them a few minutes afterward at 152 and secured $50,000 profit. And the man who was sent into the crowd by his client to sell 5,000 shares at the "opening" and who got but 140, when the price would be 152 by the time he reported to his customer, was a man to be pitied. Again, the trader who the night before had decided that sugar had gone up too fast, and who had "shorted" (that is, sold what he did not have, with the intention of repurchasing at a lower price than he sold it for) 5,000 shares at 140 and, who, finding himself in that surging mob with sugar selling at 152, could only get out by taking a loss of $50,000, or by taking another chance of later paying 162—such a trader was also to be pitied.

No one who scanned the crowd that morning would have believed that the calm, set face on that erect Indian figure, occupying the very center of that horde of gamblers who were only awaiting the ringing clang of the gong to hurl themselves like madmen at each other, was the hysterical man who the night before was wildly praying for this moment. Nearly every man in that crowd was calm, but Bob Brownley was the calmest of them all. It's the exchange code that at any cost of heart or nerve-tear a man must retain good form until the gong strikes. Then, that he must be as near the uncaged tiger as human mind and body can be made. Only I realized what volcanic rage inside my chum's bosom. If any other man of the crowd had known, Bob's chances of success would

"I Have Gone Over the Deal with Beulah Sands, and We Are Going to Plunge."

A minute before the gong struck, there were 300 men jammed around the sugar-pole; men with set, determined faces; men with their coats buttoned tight and shoulders thrown back for the rush to which, by comparison, that of a football team is child's play. Every man in that crowd was a picked man, picked for what was coming. Each felt that upon his individual powers to keep a clear head, to shout loudest, to forget nothing, to keep his feet, and to stay as near the center of the crowd as possible, depended his "floor honor," perhaps his fortune, or, what was more to him, his client's fortune. Nearly every man of them was a college graduate who had won his spurs at athletics or a seasoned floor man whose training had been even more severe than that of the college campus. When it was known before the opening of the exchange that there are to be "things doing" in a certain stock, it is the rule to send only the picked-floor men into the crowd. There may be a fortune to make or to lose in a minute or a silver of a minute. Suddenly, as I watched the scene, there rang through the great hall the first sharp stroke of the gong. There were no echoes heard that morning. The metallic voice was yet shaping its command to "at 'em, you fends" when from 300 throats burst the wild sound of the stock exchange yell. No other sound in any of the open or hidden places of all nature duplicates the

THE SHRINE OF SILENCE.

WRITTEN FOR THE TIMES.

"Be still, and know that I am God."

Go, thou, into the silence,
There thou shalt find thy God,
Who knoweth every pitfall
Along life's thorny sod.

Go, then, where 'tis quiet;
There thou shalt surely glean
Golden truths from the Master
To make thy mind serene.

When weak in mind and body,
There thou shalt find relief;
There thou shalt hold communion
With one who taught belief.

Seeking for the unseen censors,
Swinging from faith's stout rod,
There thou shalt leave thy sorrow,
There be one with thy God.

Dig in the mine of mystery;
Have faith and thou shalt know
That deep down in cool, still dells
The fairest flowers grow.

Leave behind the rushing throng
And go where all is still;
There thou shalt be lifted up,
And understand God's will.

Discoveries sweet and strange,
Shall make thee stand in awe
With throbbing heart, with bounding pulse,
Before revealed law.

Oh, go into the silence,
The surest place on earth;
To find the fount of wisdom;
To know thy greatest worth.

—Alice Brown.

The Status of the Street Railway.

It is believed that Wichita's prospects for securing a street railway at least in the immediate future have gone glimmering.

At a meeting about two weeks ago the city council referred the franchise back to the promoters, after making some changes from the original draft.

Here so far as the general public was concerned all track of the franchise and the proposed railway was lost.

The sewer franchise renewed interest in the street railway proposition and this morning the Times learned that the street railway prospects had been given a quiet burial.

From the information given the Times, it appears that the city council learned that the railway promoters did not intend at this time to build more tracks within the city than would give them a line to and from the irrigation lake, where it was proposed to establish a pleasure resort.

The majority of the council, it is said, were adverse to giving the promoters a blanket franchise, giving the rights to the use of any and all streets in the city under these conditions, and on the other hand the promoters would not accept a franchise under any other conditions.

This is the situation in which the proposed street railway rests and it now seems improbable that any attempt will be made to re-secure the franchise from its position of "innocuous desuetude."

J. H. Hatcher, who has been engaged in the mercantile business at Hydro, Oklahoma, has disposed of his interests there and has moved with his family to this city, where he will engage with his father in the real estate business. Mr. Hatcher and family are located at the Norton place, at the corner of Eighth street and Lamar avenue.

The telegraph wires of the Wichita Valley are down between this place and Holliday and communication to and beyond that place is difficult.

The Tent Meeting.

Despite the fact that Mollie Bailey's show was only a block away, there was a good attendance at the services at the big tent last night. Rev. Barton's request for the Christians to stand up showed that not all were Christians.

The text last night was, "Likewise, I say unto you there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth." The three parables preceding this text were discussed, the speaker bringing out the point that the "lost sheep" showed what God had done for us through His son; the "lost coin" the diligence the church should have regarding the salvation of sinners; and the "prodigal son" how a sinner is to come to God, which is by quitting his sins and present associations and returning to God, confessing his sins.

He made an earnest appeal to the sinners of the congregation, but they were not responsive and made no move. At the request of Rev. Barton about half the congregation remained for the after service in which Bro. Ramsay sang a beautiful solo entitled "Jesus Will Help You if You Try." With an earnest request that the Christians be more interested in the meeting and take greater stock in the services, being much in prayer, the service was closed.

While driving to town this morning from their home eight miles west of the city, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Allen encountered a terrific hail storm. The hail fell so heavily as to cause the horse to lose its way on the road and to prevent an accident on this account Mr. Allen crawled out of the buggy and groped along the shaft until he reached the bridle bits, to which he held and kept the horse from straying until the storm had abated. Mr. Allen was beaten severely in the face by the hail stones, but his injuries are not serious. After the storm Mr. and Mrs. Allen drove on to this city, where Mr. Allen is one of the members of the grand jury.

Comfort, Oh Comfort always

In the hot weather—Easy clothes, free in shoulder and chest, yet fitting so well, even when only a little lined.

Ours, Stein-Bloch made

If there's a breeze these clothes find it out and ask it in. Look them over.

A pleasure to show you.
