HORRIBLE ACCIDENT WITH AUTOMOBILE.

While making the trip from Longview, to which place they had been for a visit to relatives, to their home in Shreveport, leaving at an early hour and motoring rapidly in order to get home in time to attend Sunday school, W. F. Johnson and family suffered a very serious accident Sunday morning, at Greenwood, a place on the route. Mrs. Johnson was instantly killed; Mr. Johnson of 532 street, a traveling salesman with the Hickse Co., Ltd. was seriously injured, while the son twelve years old, saved himself by jumping when the machine swerved and darted forward. As soon as he realized what had happened, he ran to Greenwood for help.

Mrs. Johnson's head was crushed so badly as to utterly destroy the features of her face. Mr. Johnson was unconscious for some time after the accident, but recovered before reaching the north Louisiana Sanitarium. He has a severe cut on the head, his collar bone was broken and it is supposed that he was injured internally. The little girl is being taken care of in the home of Mrs. S. E. Thomas, and is only slightly injured.

The above contains a synopsis of the physical facts of the accident as reported in today's Shreveport Times. The family has many friends in both Shreveport and Longview, and Mr. Johnson is known to many business men over East Texas.

POST OFFICE BUILDING LOOMS UP AGAIN.

Bids Will Be Received Nov. 1, According to Letter to Postmaster Donegan of City

For many, many months past the people of Nacogdoches have anxiously awaited news from Washington as to when work would be begun on the new post-office building for this city, for which appropriation was made several years ago, the site provided, the plans approved, and seemingly nothing left but the beginning of the actual work on the building. At last we have some encouraging news in the following letter just received by Postmaster Donegan:

Washington, Oct. 14, 1916.
The Postmaster,
Nacogdoches, Texas.

Sir:
Referring to your inquiry of October 6th, advertisements for the construction of the new Federal building in your city will be issued about Nov. 1st. Approximately six weeks will be allowed for the preparation of the bids and if a proposal is received within the amount available, the contract should be awarded soon after the proposals are opened.

Respectfully,
JAS. A. WILMOTE,
Acting Supervising Architect.

The six weeks reserved for the preparation of bids will run the time to the middle of December. The successful bidder would have to get his workmen and material in readiness which would take several more weeks, which would give hope that actual work might be expected to be begun on the building some time during the month of January, and the building be finished by early spring.

COTTON PRICES SOARING.

Cotton prices enjoyed a rise of twenty points in the Houston market yesterday which carried the price up to 17.20, the record price for the season, as well as the highest price paid in many years. The Houston Chronicle makes the following report of yesterday's trading in Houston:

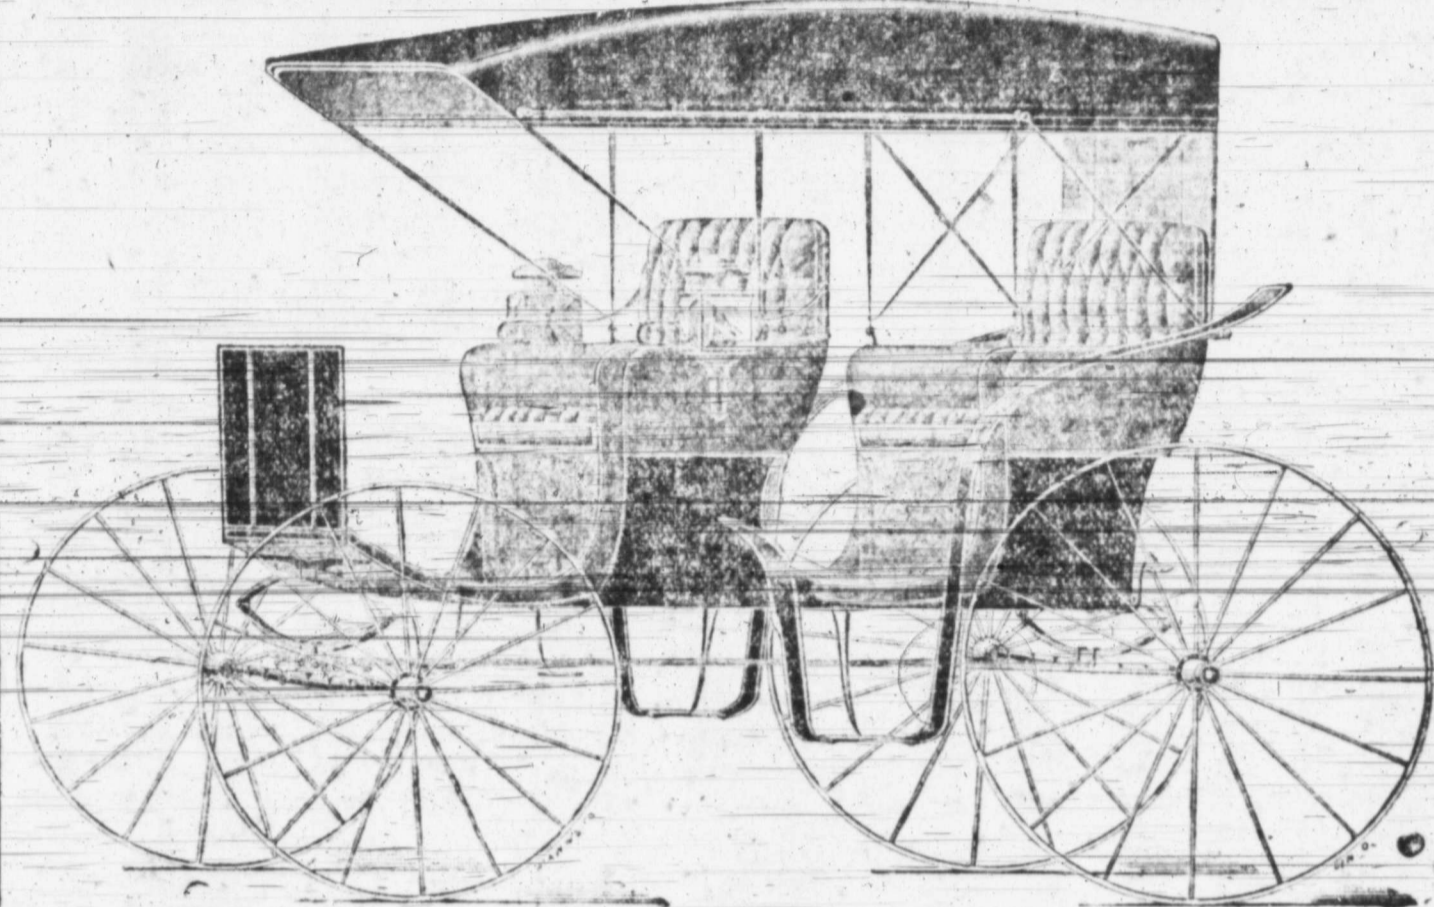

"Cotton's great strength exhibited itself again Monday when spots on the Houston market advanced 20 points, as a result of which middling is now locally quoted at 17.20.

"Cotton has been so consistently strong this season that its meteoric stunts are no longer a source of amazement on the exchange. Record-making has come to be a common occurrence. Bulls everywhere are joining the '20-cent talk,' and the seriousness with which this is regarded among the growers is evidenced in the day's sales—1541 bales. The tropical hurricane passing over Yucatan Peninsula and approaching the Gulf Coast, was also a bullish factor.

"Traders on the exchange cheered madly Monday when New York announced that May and July options had sold at 18 cents."

GILLETTE FAMILY STRIKING IT RICH

Mention has previously been made that Mr. H. F. Gillette of this city has sixteen acres of land in the Goose Creek oil field which is becoming so famous. Friends of the gentleman will be pleased to learn that his tract adjoins the land on which some of the big gushers have lately been brought in, and that a well is going down on his land in which the gentleman can reasonably hope to receive a like reward when the proper depth is reached.

There are other Gillette heirs who are likewise participating in the newly discovered treasure, one of which is interested in a gusher that is already flowing and giving her an income of five hundred dollars per day. The picture of the little lady appeared in yesterday's issue of the Houston Chronicle together with the following report of her possession:

"Margarette Gillette, 12 years old, a schoolgirl at Cedar Bayou, is the sole owner of the acre of land upon which the newest Goose Creek gusher has been drilled. And, what is more, the well seems to be gaining in strength each day.

"The little girl, who is very likely destined to become rich in her own right, is the daughter of Mrs. J. J. Gillette of Cedar Bayou and the land was left to her by the will of Miss Minnie Gaillard, who, before she died, divided her property and willed single-acre tracts to several nephews and nieces.

"It was a lucky 'Friday the thirteenth' that brought to the little girl the knowledge that a 5000-barrel gusher had been drilled on her acre. The land is under lease to C. T. Rucker of Houston, who personally owns a three-fourth interest in the well, it is understood.

"The little girl gets the customary one-eighth royalty. At a rough guess, her income ought to be not less than $500 a day, which is pretty good for a little country lassie who has been wearing a sunbonnet to school."

COMMISSIONERS' COURT FAILS OF MEETING

A quorum of commissioners failed to show up today, in response to the call for the purpose of reconsidering the matter of supporting the work of Miss Mason, and there was therefore no meeting.

Commissioner Byrd was present on schedule time, Commissioner Williamson came in at noon, but the other two failed to show up, one being detained with illness and the other with some other trouble.

The Sentinel is not advised as to whether or not an effort will be made to have a meeting at some other time, or drop the matter.

Ben Grimes of Douglas is in town today.

HURLEDSON'S NAME GOES ON TICKET

Austin, Oct. 15.—Basing his action upon the decision of the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth in the Gilmer injunction suit against the state Democratic executive committee, Secretary of State John G. McKey immediately began the task of certifying to the county chairmen of every county in Texas the name of Chas. Hurdledson as the Democratic nominee for railroad commissioner to succeed the late Judge W. D. Williams.

This task has now been finished and by Monday afternoon practically every county chairman will have been advised of the certification and will accordingly place the name of Mr. Hurdledson on the official ballot in the respective counties.

Bro. C. L. O'Bryan stars off in his new field of labor at Chandler as editor of the Chandler Times, with a most creditable special edition, which reflects credit to both the town and the publisher.

You may sweat like a horse, but never like a seahorse. It's never too warm for comfort in undertowless, and bathing is extremely popular—among folks from a distance. Home folks, as a general thing, prefer the quietude of the tub.—Corpus Christi Caller.

Who knows when we had the last good rain here in town? Good rains have fallen around and near town several times when none came here. Was it away back in the "good old summer time"? Any how, no one will deny that this is truly a dry town, and the indications are that it will remain dry for a long spell, probably until the next wet spell.

The best authorities on agriculture and marketing foresee the day in the very near future when the peanut crop will be the leader in East Texas, and that with it will come a new era of prosperity. The food value of the peanut and the many uses to which it can be put has already been determined, the market demand is growing daily, and we are now getting right up to a study and campaign for a greater acreage of the crop.

Well, what do you know about this, a little personal item taken from Saturday's issue of the Lufkin Daily News: "Mr. W. H. Draper, the efficient linotype operator of The News, has been off duty for a couple of days, confined to his room with chills and fever. During the time the keyboard situation is being nicely handled by Mr. Tom Collins, foreman of the mechanical department." May the young gentleman enjoy a speedy recovery from both the illness and the "blot" upon his character, is the sincere wish of the editor of The Sentinel.

Elsewhere in today's paper will be found a most sensible and practical communication from the pen of Hon. E. C. Branch which should engage the very serious attention of the business men and those looking for some good investment. Recognizing the fact that the peanut is the coming crop of this section, Mr. Branch would like to see manufacturing enterprises established here which would work up the raw product, and is eminently correct in the statement that it would work a revolution in the industrial life of the town and county.

Last spring The Sentinel very earnestly urged the establishment of a large sweet potato curing plant and warehouse as a new industrial enterprise for Nacogdoches. The present high price of sweet potatoes, with a large increase for cured potatoes, verifies the wisdom of the idea. There is yet time to erect such a building if some progressive man, or business firm, or group of men, would take hold of it in earnest, and there is a good business enterprise in the proposition. The proposition should be financed sufficiently to buy and sell the crop on its own resources, and through this means any bad policies or leaks may be avoided.

In refusing to make appropriation for the continuation of the splendid work inaugurated and being vigorously and intelligently prosecuted by Miss Mason, it is the candid opinion of The Sentinel that the commissioners' court took a backward step in the development of Nacogdoches county, and has thereby denied the people of the rural districts the greatest service the body could render to them.

As domestic science teacher, Miss Mason had inaugurated classes in the various school districts of the county, through which the girls were being taught to sew, cook, can vegetables and fruits, the importance of balanced rations, sanitary regulations, etc., and this information was in turn being taken into the homes of the rural districts where the people were learning the art of better living, better economy, and how to conserve much that had been going to waste. She thoroughly understands all branches of the work, and is an indefatigable worker who will make any sacrifice to insure success, and is never so happy as when busy.

The county was not asked to defray the whole bill. The department of agriculture offered to appropriate $250 to the work, and citizens of Nacogdoches would have gladly contributed another $250, leaving the commissioners only half the bill.

True, the county is considerably in debt, and cannot pay its bills in cash, but to cut off so important a service which contributes directly to the improvement of the county, in turn bringing new prosperity and more taxes, is an unwise economy. It were better that expenditures in some other items be trimmed down a little and those things which benefit the people directly be preserved. Failing to find anything that can be trimmed, it would be better to make a slight raise in the tax rate. The people of the towns would not object to it, and certainly the people of the country could not for the reason that they get the benefit.

We are glad to learn that the commissioner of Nacogdoches supported the appropriation, and in so doing he reflected the sentiment of the representative people of the city and surrounding community. In making this observation, however, we would not be understood to convey a personal reflection upon any of the other commissioners, for they are all gentlemen of sterling integrity and moral worth, who were actuated by what they honestly conceived to be their duty. But we call into question the wisdom of the official act, believing it a measure of "penny wise and pound foolish" legislation. Counties and municipalities must be governed after the rules that are employed in all good business enterprises if their administration is made a success. It is a well known and established fact in business economy that when any business enterprise ceases to employ a progressive policy, growing with its opportunities and environments, decay sets in. The rule applies with equal force to this proposition—a good work which was bringing forth magnificent results in a material way, as well as proving a valuable advertisement for the county, must now die and decay for lack of support. We wish that the honorable members of the court might yet see the value of this service as an investment to the county and come around with a more progressive policy.

Mr. E. J. Morris, of Cushing, underwent an operation at the Tucker Sanitarium yesterday. He is reported as doing splendidly this morning.

A number of gentlemen were discussing the rising generation a few nights ago, and what one of them had to say was worthy of consideration. In substance, he said: "Boys begin to go wrong when they begin to stay out at night. Of course, at first they do not think so. But after awhile when they begin to get into trouble—when they begin to take the first drink, later to play a game, then on from bad to worse—nine out of ten will tell that their first wrong was staying out at nights and prowling around. Then again it is such an easy matter to find bad company on these midnight larks. The boy who haunts the streets after nightfall without business or permission, is cultivating a very dangerous habit. Any place where a boy has no business is a very dangerous place for him, whether it is on the street, in the store or elsewhere. A boy that is all right, likes his home, friends, books or newspapers, in preference to the class to be found on the streets without business. Business men of all kinds look upon the boy loafer as the dead-beat of the future."—Big Springs Herald.

ALL THAT GLITTERS

All that glitters is not gold, because most of it is beads, gables, sequins or fish scales.

It is the same old glitter that attracted Pocahontas. For beads the Spaniards bought gold mines of the Aztecs centuries ago, the Puritans traded them for broad acres of rich farm lands and today American sailors swap them with the Eskimos for rare Arctic furs.

The delight in glitter is a primitive and childish instinct. It is shine which first catches the infant's eye.

Civilization has not resisted its tawdry claim any better than it has resisted the war instinct. In a decade of emotional strain it is inevitable that beads and bullets should both hold man's attention.

Today women will pay $100 for a spangled gown which they will be able to buy for $10 next year.

But save your beads, ladies for they come into fashion as often as war. You'll need 'em as long as the optic nerve responds pleasantly to the vibration of light, as long as the auditory nerve joys in the beating of drums and the swish of shrapnel.—Shreveport Times.

In 1850 a nine-year-old boy, who is now writing this paragraph, was in a village store in Tennessee and overheard a conversation which he distinctly remembers. The interlocutors were the merchant who owned the store and a carpenter's wife. He was showing her some goods, and urging her to buy. She looked at the things offered and admitted that the prices were reasonable but said she couldn't afford to buy them. He insisted and said he would charge them to her husband's account which would not be paid until the end of the year. Evidently she was sorely tempted but all at once she backed away from the counter, assumed a positive attitude and spoke in a ringing voice: "Mr. Wpod, last year our account was a hundred dollars! Just think of that! A hundred dollars for a family of six! We must not be so extravagant." She walked out of the store and so the incident ended. Every reader can deduce a moral from this true story according to the taste and fancy of each.—East Texas Register.

The present cotton crop has been decreased by more than a million and a half bales by the depredations of the boll weevil. In the present case this has resulted in higher prices for the cotton produced and the South has lost little by the operations of the pest. But several sections have been hit hard and some individual farmers are staring bankruptcy in the fact as a result of the total loss of their crop from this cause. Therefore the interest aroused by the statement that the department of agriculture believes there has been discovered a method which will absolutely destroy the boll weevil. So far officials are maintaining the utmost secrecy in regard to method from which so important results are expected. But it has been tried out with the utmost success for the past two years and it is now regarded as almost certain it will be given to the public at no distant day.—Houston Post.

COW HAULED ON TRAILER.

You never can tell about stories coming from Denver. There is something in the Colorado air that stimulates the imagination. However, according to a Denver dispatch, a Jersey cow is now touring the country in an automobile. It happens this way:

A New York woman was visiting Colorado when she gave birth to twins. Her husband, after an automobile trip through the Rockies, was preparing to take her and the twins home in his car when he found himself face to face with the milk problem. The mother was afraid to take the chance of changing the babies' milk continually on the way back to New York. So the father calmly went and bought the cow that was providing the milk, got an automobile trailer such as is sometimes used by motorists to carry a camping outfit, only larger, hooked up the trailer to the car and loaded Bossy into it, and gathered up his wife and twins and set out. At last reports the family and dairy were moving across Kansas at a lively rate.—Ex.

In the recorder's court yesterday afternoon some pleas of guilty were entered, some of them for speeding, and other cases were continued until today and still others will come up for trial. It is the purpose of the court and the peace officers of the city limits if it can be done according to law—and they think it can. If other towns and cities can regulate street traffic, surely Lufkin is no exception to the rule.

The German submarine, Bremen, is manifesting almost as many lives and places of sojourn as the famous Mexican bandit, Villa.

Almost every paper contains a report of some one being arrested or tried for embezzlement. It is said that "every man has his price," and with so much money in the country just now we presume there is more temptation and hence an increase of crime in this line.

The editor of the Lufkin News announces that he is now hiding from two "submarines" instead of one for the offense of reporting defamatory matter about people's character. Let us hope that he will learn a lesson from this experience that will be valuable to him in the future.

Advertising is the education of the public as to who you are, where you are, and what you have to offer in the way of skill, talent or commodity. The only man who should not advertise is the man who has nothing to offer the world in the way of commodity or service.—Elbert Hubbard.

With cotton selling 'way above seventeen cents, cotton seed at forty-eight dollars per ton, and peanuts at $1.35 per bushel on the Nacogdoches markets yesterday, there was no evidence of a shortage of crop or that it was all in. Peanuts have not been selling quite so high today, but cotton products are holding their own.

With the present high prices of everything that is grown on the farm, and the prospect that a similar condition will obtain several years, it is time to revive the old philosophy of "forty acres and a mule," as the most attractive legacy for the son reaching his majority. And many men with families could not do better than "get back to the soil."

Mr. O. M. Gibbs, the Sentinel's editor, is sick again, and since he made such "blood-curdling" threats on Lively of the Lufkin News, we don't dare tell what ails him; but he is ailing just the same. It is up to Lively to take the hint and show his metal.—Nacogdoches Sentinel.

THE GNAT ON THE OX HORN

A United Press wire from Asbury Park, President Wilson's summer home, says: "The president's mail is full of Bryan these days. Senators, congressmen and party leaders are sending in reports of why they term the 'inestimable results' of the Nebraska's tour through the West. Great crowds have greeted the commoner they say. When Bryan disagreed with Wilson on militarism, and for months afterward, his enemies vociferously and vehemently declared him a traitor to the President and positively asserted that he would oppose Wilson for re-election. Now that the test has come, he is doing more for Wilson than all his detractors put together.—East Texas Register.

The gentlemen who abuse Mr. Bryan because he left the cabinet are closely related to the gnat in some ways, made famous by Aesop's fable. Those kind of gnats were in evidence during the days of Webster. Clay, and in fact they have been more or less pestiferous from the time Croesus hired Aesops to write fables up to the present time.—Col Milner in Rusk County News.

Jacksonville, Texas, Oct. 17.—Cherokee County voted Saturday on the issuance of $300,000 in road bonds and the proposition was overwhelmingly defeated. KILLS PAIN

A TROPICAL STORM APPROACHING GULF

New Orleans, Oct. 17.—That the center of the tropical hurricane reported crossing the gulf of Mexico early today apparently was nearing the central gulf tonight, was indicated by weather bureau reports received up to 8 p. m. The barometer at Burwood, the southernmost point of the Louisiana coast, at 7 p. m. registered 29.72, or two-tenths of an inch higher than at 3 p. m., while the wind's velocity was unchanged at 24 miles an hour from the northeast. A torrential rain was reported at Burwood. 8.94 have fallen there in the last 12 hours.

In New Orleans the barometer at 7 p. m., registered 29.78, the same as at 3 p. m., while the wind velocity had increased from 14 to 40 miles an hour from the north-east. At 8 o'clock, however, the wind decreased to about 12 miles.

Pensacola, reported the wind had shifted to the southeast, with increasing velocity, since 4 p. m. and at 7 p. m. was blowing 28 miles an hour, with a falling barometer and rising tide.

Advisory storm warnings were sent out by the weather bureau at 6 p. m., reporting slowly falling pressure on the gulf coast, with moderate north and east winds. No hurricane warnings had been ordered in this vicinity by the weather officials up to 8 p. m.

FAVORS INCREASE OF THE RANGER FORCE

Austin, Texas, Oct. 17.—State Senator Claude Hudspeth of El Paso, member of the upper branch of the next legislature, spent the day here on business with the governor and other departments. Senator Hudspeth says he will introduce a bill in the senate providing for an increase in the state ranger force to 80 members, which is the full amount allowed by law. He believes the ranger force an important branch of the state constabulary of Texas. He is anxious to have this measure become a law, and in fact the chances are very good that it will, as it is one of the platform demands, in order to put an end to cattle theft in the western portion of the state.

Another measure which the senator will introduce in a bill making an appropriation of $100,000 a year to pay bounties on other predatory animals, including jack rabbits. Senator Hudspeth has succeeded for several legislatures past in having such a measure enacted, and as a result he says, there has been a material decrease in these predatory animals.

REFUSE WATSON CHANGE OF VENUE

Waco, Texas, Oct. 16.—T. R. Watson will be tried for murder in connection with the killing of State Banking Commissioner John Patterson, in McLennan county, Judge Monroe overruled the defendant's motion for a change of venue at the session today which lasted until 7 o'clock. The hearing lasted seven days and 100 witnesses took the stand 75 per cent of whom said they believed could get a fair trial here.

Messrs. Sam Hayter and T. M. Hooks were in the city yesterday afternoon from Nacogdoches. While here Mr. Hayter made an inspection of the new Masonic Temple which has been completed and formally accepted. The lower floor of this building is perhaps the largest single store room in the city. Mr. Hayter is engaged in an extensive mercantile business in his home town and is a live wire.—Lufkin Daily News, Saturday.

MR. WILL PARKER IS IN GOOD HEALTH

A few days ago a letter came to the postoffice at this place addressed to "Mr. Dobgan." Postmaster Donegan put the letter away, not being satisfied that it was for him, but when Tom Buchanan came home and insisted that it must be for him, it was finally broken open and found to contain tidings of Will Parker, a former citizen of this county who is now in Roumania, where he is said to be prospering.

The letter, with copy of telegram, read as follows:
"Chicago, U. S. A., Sept. 30.
Mrs. H. C. Hense, 113 Madison street, Charleston, Ill. Dear Madam: Through the State Department we have received a telegram which reads in full as follows: 'American Minister Bucharest requests you to notify Mrs.
Hense that her husband and son are well and safe and asks her to inform Dobgan, Nacogdoches, Texas, that Parker, American citizen, is in good health.' We are enclosing the original telegram herewith and are pleased to be able to pass this information along to you. Yours truly, International Harvester Corporation."

Mr. Parker left Nacogdoches about six years ago. He spent most of his life here, and has many friends in the community who will be pleased to learn that he has prospered and is doing well.

of large capacity, and may add many others.

His age and its infirmities render him very feeble. His hear-
