G. O. P. SLUSH FUND IS RAPPED BY COX

Dayton, Ohio, August 24.—Governor Cox declared in a statement that he would "prove" his charges of the magnitude of the republican campaign fund. He said he would present this information in an address next Tuesday night at Pittsburg. The statement follows:

"Senator Harding denies my charge about the campaign fund the senatorial oligarchy is raising. I am prepared to believe that he knows nothing about a lot of things going on about him. This reveals the very dangerous system I have been discussing. In my Pittsburg speech I will advise the country of the matters the senator claims to be ignorant of, and will prove my charges."

The governor said that he had advised Senator Reed that he would transmit his information to the senate committee investigating campaign expenses in time for the meeting in Chicago next Monday.

AIRPLANES COMPLETE FLIGHT

Nome, Alaska, August 24.—The four army airplanes en route to this city from Mineola, N. Y., left Ruby yesterday and are expected to reach here this morning.

Reach Journey's End.

Nome, Alaska, August 24.—The four army airplanes arrived here at 5:30 yesterday afternoon. The actual flying time from Mineola, N. Y., was 55 hours, Captain St. Clair Street, head of the expedition, announced. The hop-off of the return trip will be made within a few days.

GALVESTON'S POPULATION

Washington, August 25.—Galveston's population is 44,255, an increase of 7,274, or 19.7 percent. Eastland, Texas, 9,368, an increase of 8,513, or 99.7 percent.

TENNESSEE RATIFICATION HAS BEEN CERTIFIED

Nashville, Tenn., August 24.—According to Attorney General Thompson of Tennessee, Governor Roberts certified the state's ratification of the suffrage amendment to Secretary Colby by mail at 10:22 this morning.

Will Review Proceedings.

Nashville, Tenn., August 24.—Chief Justice Lansden of the State Supreme Court has agreed to review the proceedings of the chancery court, which issued a temporary injunction preventing certification to Washington of the ratification by the legislature of the federal suffrage amendment.

A petition for a writ of certiorari and supersedeas was filed by Attorney General Thompson, who argued it before Chief Justice Lansden at his residence last night. The chief justice granted the petition, which, according to the Attorney General, vacated the injunction. The attorney general advised the governor this morning that the proceedings left the matter entirely open, and certification followed immediately. Opponents of ratification charge that the proceedings violate the rules of the supreme court because the other party was not notified that such hearing was to be held.

FUGITIVE CAPTURED

Rio de Janeiro, August 25.—Eugene LeRoy, wanted by the police of Detroit in connection with the murder of a woman supposed to be his wife, was arrested on board the British freighter Dryden, which arrived here yesterday. LeRoy was a member of the crew. He was arrested at the request of the United States authorities here and will be guarded by maritime police while the Dryden is in port. The ship will proceed to Buenos Aires and will sail from there to New York, where LeRoy will be turned over to officers from Detroit.

Sailed After Body was Found

New York, August 25.—The British freighter Dryden sailed from New York August 23, ten days after the body of the supposed wife of LeRoy was found jammed in a trunk in a local warehouse.

TWO DEAD, THREE INJURED

Waxahachie, Texas, August 25.—One person is dead, one probably fatally injured and another seriously injured as the result of an automobile accident near Kennedale early today. Tate Miller, well known Ellis county farmer, was killed when a car in which he was riding overturned. His wife who was with him at the time suffered injuries from which she is not expected to recover. Their son, Dr. A. C. Miller, who was driving the car, is in a serious condition as the result of his injuries. The accident took place at a sharp curve. All were hurried to a Fort Worth hospital following the accident, but Mr. Miller died shortly after arriving there.

Fireman is Killed

Sweetwater, Texas, August 25.—George Brown, fireman on the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad passenger train, southbound, is dead and Conductor J. E. Watts is not expected to survive injuries received when their engine ran into an open switch and was thrown into a ditch by a derail at 6:30 this evening when their train was entering Sweetwater. Both men reside at San Angelo. No passengers were injured.

GIRLS FIRE BUILDING

Houston, Texas, August 24.—Four girls confined in the Municipal Hospital set fire to the building last night and diverted attention with music and dancing until the fire had gathered headway. The building was destroyed, but all the inmates escaped. Charges of arson have been filed against the four girls.

SOVIETS LOSING EVERYWHERE

Warsaw, August 24.—Prasmyso, 60 miles north of Warsaw, and Mlaw, on the Polish frontier 75 miles northwest of the capital, have been captured by the Poles. The bulk of the fourth soviet army and the entire third cavalry corps are surrounded.

WILD MAN CAUGHT IN ANGELINA RIVER BOTTOM

Frank Davis, a Douglass man, was in the city Tuesday, and while here told an interesting story of a happening which took place near his home Sunday involving the capture of a typical wild man in the Angelina river bottom. The man was captured by three men who live in the Douglass community.

The man had been seen by parties, it seems, for several days, but he always ran with great speed upon the approach of anyone, and no one had been able to get near him. The man's strange action excited the attention of the nearby people, and arrangements were made to find out more about him. Accordingly, three men went after him Sunday, and finally succeeded in capturing him.

First glance convinced the ones who captured him that the man was demented but upon later being examined by a physician the man was pronounced normally sane. However, he was a bit "off" on a species or religion. The man was almost clothedless, had been so severely bitten by mosquitoes that his skin was dreadfully inflamed, and carried a bountiful supply of long, flowing beard. He told his captors that he had been living on corn, grapes and other similar foods that he could gather from his wild surroundings. The man said that his name was Kindler, and was from Saginaw, Mich., that he had come to Nacogdoches county to "help harvest the cotton crop."

But to make a long story short, after being given medical examination, the man was carried to Rusk and placed in the asylum. The physician had already given his opinion that the man was not insane, and while on the way to Rusk, one of the party carrying the "wild man" remarked in an undertone to one of his companions "that if he knew the man they had arrested was an escaped convict, he would stop the car and let him go." The "wild man" had been uncommunicative, but upon overhearing these words, he suddenly awoke from his sullenness, and told the crowd in charge of him that he was really an escaped prisoner, and begged pitifully for his release. It was not learned from what prison he escaped, but he was carried to Rusk and turned over to the authorities.

ANTIS FIGHTING HARD

Washington, August 25.—Application for an injunction restraining Secretary Colby of the State Department from promulgating the suffrage amendment was filed in the District Supreme Court today by counsel for the American Constitutional League. Associate Justice Siddons required that authority for such proceeding be cited, and agreed to hear counsel on the point during the day.

MAKES FISH DIZZY

Salt Lake City, Utah, August 25.—Square cans are to be used to transport young fish in Utah so they won't get dizzy, E. R. Siddoway, state fish and game commissioner, has announced.

In transporting the fish from the hatcheries to streams in round cans, Mr. Siddoway reported, the water, swirling around and around, makes the fish dizzy; sometimes with fatal results.

TO PRESERVE DAVIS HOME

Montgomery, Ala., August 25.—Negotiations are under way here for the purchase of a site to which the home of Jefferson Davis, the only president of the Confederate States of America, may be moved and preserved.

GREEN CORN DANCE

Kendrick, Okla., August 25.—Old members of the Sac and For Indian tribes are making preparations to hold their annual green corn dance. The ceremony will be held on the Greycove farm and will last three days.

Hundreds of bushels of green corn have been stored in the tribe's grainaries to be served as an offering. The dance is held to give thanks to the Great Father for a plentiful yield. Komahakamah will be master of ceremonies, and has called all of his followers to be present.

CHIRENO MAN SAYS ALL SHOULD JOIN C. of C.

The subjoined letter should be pondered by every Nacogdoches county citizen who has at heart the real interests of the people—including his own, no matter what his avocation. Only through co-operative effort may the best results be obtained. Read the letter and join the membership of the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce:

Chireno, Texas, August 20, 1920
Mr. H. L. McKnight, Secretary of Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce, Nacogdoches, Texas.

Dear Sir—I herewith enclose you my check for fifteen dollars ($15.00) in payment of twelve months membership in the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce. I am glad of having the privilege of becoming a member of your live and active organization. I do not want to live in a county where they do not have a chamber of commerce. I lived in Orange, Texas, for a long time, and the chamber of commerce there demonstrated to me that it was worth while, and the active part that you are taking, not only in the city of Nacogdoches, but in the whole county. Every man in the county should become a member of the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce and help make Nacogdoches county a better place in which to live and this can only be done by organizing and systematizing a selling plan, as you have outlined, for everything that we produce in this county. Efficiency means success. I am also glad to say that I am a member of the Nacogdoches County Farm Bureau. Now is the time for every farmer and business man, no matter how large or how small, to throw his weight in the scales, to be a self-starter, put the pep, the time and the money into these organizations and we will get the results and the people of this county can make up their minds that they will get out of an organization of this kind in proportion to what they put into it.

Holding myself subject to your commands at any time, I beg to remain,

Yours for better and bigger Nacogdoches County,

T. B. Forse.

TENANT'S ASSOCIATION

Corpus Christi, Texas, August 25.—Southwest Texas has its first tenants association. A notice published in a Corpus Christi newspaper informs "all landlords" that as a committee representing the Federated Crafts of Laboring Men residing in Kingsville, Texas, "we desire to notify you that said laboring men will not in future pay the exorbitant rents often demanded for a dwelling house. We are willing to pay promptly and cheerfully a rental which will yield a fair return upon the reasonable cash value of the property; and if an exorbitant demand is made we expect to tender you such reasonable rental in lieu thereof."

The notice further stated that tenants belonging to the Federated Crafts of Laboring Men will refuse to vacate rented premises upon the demand of the owner "unless and until we can obtain another shelter for ourselves and our families at a reasonable rent."

The signers of the notice suggested a board of arbitration to pass upon rental disputes to be composed of one member selected by the landlord, one by the tenant and the third by the two members thus selected, "the decision of such board after reasonable notice and full hearing to be final and binding."

SEIZED MUCH BOOZE

Chicago, August 24.—Twelve men were arrested and whiskey valued at $500,000 was seized by prohibition agents here. The men were preparing to unload two carloads of whiskey when the government agents surrounded them.

LEGION IS SPREADING

Indianapolis, Ind., August 25.—Announcement has been made at National Headquarters of the American Legion here of the formation of new foreign posts of the organization in Japan and Belgium. There are now thirteen posts of the Legion outside of the United States.

BAILEY-NEFF HOT AIR

Tribune is somewhat at a loss just what to term the debate here Tuesday on the part of John Henry Kirby for Bailey and Hon. S. W. Blount for Neff, since Mr. Kirby refused to agree to a joint discussion, so we'll just call it "Bailey-Neff Hot Air," and let it go at that.

Mr. Kirby spoke at some length on the American constitution, lauding that famous document of pronounced liberty in the eulogy of which practically everyone present concurred, but when he made the statement that Joe Bailey was the only living man with courage enough left to stand for the true teachings of the American constitution, cheering was very negligible.

Mr. Blount spoke after Mr. Kirby and judging by the volume of cheering at various intervals, the large majority of the crowd was in sympathy with his statements denouncing Mr. Bailey. Mr. Blount risked his reputation as an attorney, which by the way is an enviable one, since he is quite well known throughout East Texas as an eminent lawyer, that Joe Bailey is not eligible to take the seat as governor of Texas in the event that he is elected, since the constitution says he must have resided in the state for five years preceding his election, and as Bailey owns no property in Texas except a cemetery lot and only pays his poll tax during election years, and maintains a hundred thousand dollar residence in Washington City, he is clearly not a resident of Texas.—San Augustine Tribune, 19th.

PIERSON GIVES

VIEWS ON COURT

Greenville, Texas, August 13.—Concerning the second primary, Judge William Pierson, winner in the first primary for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, said today:

"The returns of the State Executive Committee show that in the first primary I am the plurality candidate for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court by more than 23,000, and the full and more complete tabulated vote as compiled and given out by the Election Bureau shows my plurality to be 24,853. These last figures are in almost exact accord with the full tabulation compiled at my home, personally received from over the state. Just here I want to compliment the Texas Election Bureau in this matter.

"These splendid figures would indicate and foretell that most likely I will be nominated in the second primary August 28.

"Many think and feel that when a candidate wins a substantial plurality in a fair and equal race over so large a state as Texas that he should have the nomination without further expense or effort. Two years ago I acted on this principle myself when I was second. In any event now that I am winner by a large plurality, lacking only 33,000 votes of a clear majority, I indulge the hope of winning the second primary by an overwhelming majority.

"My campaign has been conducted on a high plane. I have now the support of Judge Key, one of my former opponents, and his campaign manager D. K. Woodward, Jr., of Austin, and in a public statement given out by Mr. Woodward he says in reference to me: 'He has conducted his campaign in such a manner that his success leaves no trace of bitterness and it will be a pleasure as well as the discharge of a public duty to give him my support.'

I believe the people of our great state accord me as being qualified, fitted and worthy, as evidenced by the splendid vote and also by the fact that the attorneys of more than a hundred leading counties of the state have endorsed my candidacy and I believe I have the approval and confidence of the entire bar and of the people.

"I believe the judiciary should be kept out of politics. I have most consistently avoided any personal or political controversy—in fact, have lived up to my slogan: 'Judicial, not political,' and am in position to seek the good will and support of all the people of the state, whatever their creed, or personal affiliations."

THE U. S. ARMY

Sergeant Edward M. Hopkins, G. S. L. New York Recruiting District has demonstrated his honesty. Last week the sergeant enlisted his 19-year old son, Armand W. Hopkins, for three years in the U. S. Army.

Young Hopkins was graduated last June with high honors from Hughes High School, Cincinnati, Ohio, and won a scholarship in the Yale University. But the blood of his soldier father and his fighting ancestors strongly evidenced itself in true historic manner and another Hopkins is now wearing military raiment. He is assigned to the Mounted Detachment American Forces in Germany and awaits transportation to service in Europe.

Prior to his departure for Fort Slocum, Recruit Hopkins said that he had, as usual, accepted the advice of his parents and decided to forego a university course for the training in the greatest development organization for "he-men"—The United States Army.

Sergeant Hopkins in commenting upon the enlistment of his boy said: "I have encouraged my son, Armand, to enlist in the army because, I know from personal, first hand experience of more than twenty years in government service that our army develops manhood. I have observed the many benefits of the service, and I well know what the army does for a young fellow who is ambitious to become a real man.

"At the age when most young boys are graduated from High School, they are in a position where their 'man character' should be emphatically stressed and moulded. While it is not my intention to cast reflections upon the ability of female instructors, yet I am convinced that boys should be afforded an opportunity to depart from the gentler influences of feminine instructors into an environment among positive, active, healthy men. This chance is due every boy. It is to be best obtained in the U. S. Army.

"My boy will be weaned away from everything local and provincial. He will obtain the opportunity to broaden both physically and intellectually. He will make the most of these opportunities and he will evolve into a real man that I shall be proud of. His mother and I concur in this decision.

"I have advised fathers and mothers to permit their sons to enlist in the army. I was sincere in doing that. I believe in the army.

"So now I believe that in enlisting my son, Armand, I have proven to all that I honestly believe in the 'goods' I have been selling. I've bought a large order myself."

Army Recruiting Officer, Nacogdoches, Texas.

RATE INCREASE GRANTED

Austin, Texas, August 21.—The railroad commission has granted an increase in all intrastate freight rates of 33 1-3 percent. Twenty percent increase on baggage rates was granted, effective August 26. An application for a 20 percent increase in intrastate passenger rates was dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

ABANDON COTTON QUARANTINE

Austin, Texas, August 23.—All the states, except Louisiana, which declared a pink boll worm quarantine against Texas have either abandoned or modified them to correspond with the federal quarantine or promised to do so soon, according to information received at the governor's office.

NEVER PUT IN CIRCULATION

Dean Swift's Notable Victory in Campaign Against Unpopular Coin Designed for Ireland.

Wood's halfpence, which was to have been placed for use in Ireland by Great Britain about 200 years ago, was never circulated in Erin, as a result of the efforts of Jonathan Swift, at the time dean of St. Patrick's in Dublin, where he was in "exile," and who had for ten years previously been attacking the attitude of the British toward Ireland.

Swift's fight against the circulation of the coin came when Great Britain decided to farm out the contract for their manufacture to a certain William Wood, on condition that he should pay the government 1,000 pounds a year for 14 years. In his famous Drapier letters Swift gradually built up a picture of the ruin which Wood's halfpence were destined to bring upon Ireland. The government became alarmed. A report to the privy council made in July, 1724, defended the patent to Wood, but recommended that the amount to be coined should be reduced.

In the end Lord Carteret was sent to Ireland as lord lieutenant to endeavor to settle the matter on the basis of this compromise. Lord Carteret offered a reward of 300 pounds for the discovery of the author of the Drapier letters, and ordered a prosecution against the printer upon his arrival. Swift boldly reproached him with his tyranny, then looked calmly on while the grand jury threw out the bill against the printer in spite of all the efforts of the chief justice to secure its return. The next grand jury presented Wood's halfpence as a nuisance which marked the end of it all, the coin never circulating in Ireland.

PREYS ON HARMFUL RODENTS

According to This Writer, the Owl is Really a Good Friend of the Agriculturist.

Superstition still clings to the owl largely to ignorance and lack of discrimination.

When twilight falls the owl comes forth from some remote recess where it has spent the day in sleep, and uttering a peevish cry, hurries out upon its foraging expedition. As the tired farmer is lost in refreshing sleep, this bird, against which the hand of man has been raised for centuries, commences its beneficial work which only ceases when the first rays of the morning sun come slanting over the hills, blinding its eyes and sending it quickly to roost.

The great orbs of the owl are remarkably developed and are keenest in the early hours of the night and morning, when many harmful rodents are most active. Mice, indeed, is the sight that enables it to strike the tiny mouse in the darkness.

Owls are the natural check upon this multitude, and thus are of inestimable value to agriculture. From an economic standpoint, it would be hard to find a more useful bird.—Los Angeles Times.

England's Gleaning Bell.

Gleaning went out of fashion with the disappearance of the old windmills and watermills, because cottagers can no longer get their gleaned corn ground. But the "harvest bell," which notifies the villagers when they may begin gleaning and when they must cease, is still rung in some rural parishes within reach of London. At one place the "gleaning bell" rings from the tower of the parish church at 9 a. m. and 5 p. m., as soon as the harvest is sufficiently advanced. One penny is paid to the bell ringer by each family that glean, so he can hardly be called a profiteer.

Birds That Dig.

We are not accustomed to think of birds as burrowing animals, but the puffin answers to that description. It is a chunky little fowl, less than a foot high, with a large and powerful beak. For a home, it scratches a hole in the ground sometimes as much as four feet deep. To capture a puffin one must go digging. It is rather a job, and, inasmuch as the bird bites and claws fiercely, one is likely to suffer in the process. Thus the creature has maintained its numbers on many a lonely rookery, where other species of wild fowl have been killed off and exterminated.—Philadelphia Ledger.

British Broad Arrow.

The broad arrow is the mark cut or stamped on all British government stores to distinguish them as public or crown property, and to obliterate or deface which is a felony. Persons in possession of goods marked with the broad arrow forfeit the goods and are subject to a penalty. The broad arrow was the cognizance of Henry, viscount of Sydney, earl of Romney, master general of ordnance, 1693-1702, and was at first placed only on military stores. It is also the mark used in the British ordnance survey to denote points from which measurements have been made.

Tactless, indeed.

Miss Giddy—How old do you think I am?
Tactless Man—Oh, I should say thirty-five.
Miss G.—Hm! You are ten years out of the way.
T. M.—Why, my dear lady! You can't really be forty-five!—Boston Transcript.

C. of C. DIRECTORS HAVE INTERESTING MEETING

Wednesday afternoon the directors of the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce met and talked over some things of interest to the community in general.

The first thing called to the attention of the board of directors was a suggestion made by Mr. S. B. Hayter that the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce get in touch with all the other commercial bodies and organizations, or at least a goodly number of them, in other counties, and ask them to co-operate in a movement to help maintain the price of cotton. Men familiar with cotton markets this year declare that cotton of a poor grade will absolutely have no market and that good cotton will be in demand in limited quantities. The reason for this is that the European markets are not buying this year, and the American markets cannot take up all the surplus. The cotton markets of this country will buy from "a hand to mouth" basis, according to the men of this city. Therefore if the farmers dump a lot of cotton on the market when there is no demand for it, nothing can remain but that the market slump; whereas, if the cotton is held, and the bankers and business men assist in its being held, the price can be held up. Of course it will be necessary for enough of the cotton to be sold for the merchant to be able to meet some of his obligations, but this will not require all of the cotton to be sold.

The following telegram was sent to various C. of C.'s over the state Wednesday morning by the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce.

The condition of the cotton crop and the trend of the market makes general holding imperative. It is gradual marketing or bankruptcy. The grower holds the key to the situation. He alone can save the situation. Will you join in an urgent appeal that the producer hold for a price that will net a reasonable profit? If so, suggest a minimum price and wire your action to the daily press. Concerted action means everything.

Respectfully,

Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce,
H. L. McKnight, Secretary.

The message was sent to the following places: Abilene, Gainesville, Paris, Dallas, West Texas C. of C., Stanford, Waco, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Ennis, McKinney, Greenville, Stamford, Texarkana, Sherman, Marshall, Denton, Navasota, Tyler, Bryan, Hempstead, Waxahatchie, Yoakum, Cuero, Victoria, Corpus Christi, Cleburne, Corsicana, American Cotton Growers Association and the A. Wiches Company of Ennis.

Another thing called to the attention of the board of directors was the tri-county institute which is to commence here September 6th. Mr. Davis said that $500 would have to be had to help pay incidentals and the only way he saw to get the money was to have it raised by private subscription. The proposition was placed before the chamber of commerce, and a committee for the purpose of soliciting the required money was appointed. The committee consists of prominent Nacogdoches business men.

Then the census matter was brought before the chamber of commerce, and it was decided to give Mr. I. D. Parmley authority to ap-

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing two ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at a very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white or a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

point 20 people to assist him in taking the census of the city and maybe the county. It was decided to take the census again even if it did not gain the recognition of the federal authorities.

Mr. M. V. Wynne, active vice president of the Nacogdoches State Bank, one of the progressive men of another town who has come to Nacogdoches to reside, was elected one of the directors of the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce.

Some other business was to have been attended to, but the time was short, and another meeting will be called to attend to this.

PREVENTING TUBERCULOSIS

Austin, Texas, August 19.—In a pamphlet sent to all parts of Texas recently, the Texas Public Health Association advocates a thorough physical examination once a year for every person in the state, as a great aid for the prevention and cure of tuberculosis.

The pamphlet tells of the symptom that might suggest tuberculosis, as follows: Cough lasting for more than three weeks, continued tired feeling, indigestion with cough that lasts a long time, pain in chest for several weeks, afternoon fever and loss of weight.

"No medicine can cure tuberculosis," said George F. Granger, field secretary of the Texas Public Health Association. "Supervision by a good physician, rest, fresh air, proper food and cheerfulness will arrest almost any case of the disease which is not too far advanced.

"Tuberculosis may be prevented by having a medical examination once a year in order that any slight trouble may be discovered before it becomes serious; fresh air at all times; nourishing foods such as milk, eggs, cereals, bread and butter and fruit; and proper exercise with a well regulated life to strengthen the body against diseases of all kinds."

The association distributed over 1,000,000 pieces of literature last year, telling of the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. It is this year continuing the work of educating the people concerning the disease.

FRENCH TROOPS CAPTURE TOWN

Constantinople, August 21.—Advices to the French mission here report the capture of Tarsus, in Asia Minor, on August 12 by French troops. Hope is held out for the American relief workers besieged in Adana since June 20. Tarsus is half way between Mersina, held by the French and Adana.

INTERESTING MEETING AT C. of C. MONDAY MORNING

The office of the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce was the scene of an interesting meeting Monday morning when some of the most prominent business men of the city met for the purpose of discussing the cotton-holding movement which is about to be put in full swing in this county. At the beginning of the meeting Secretary McKnight called the house to order, and briefly told those present that he wanted them to know about the furtherance of an advertising scheme about to be staged throughout the county and adjoining counties, setting forth the fact that the Nacogdoches merchants would pay as much for the cotton of this year as the merchants at any other place, and that would be competitive marketing in Nacogdoches. This seemed to meet the approval of all members present, and a motion was made and seconded that the advertising be done.

Telegrams from other commercial bodies were read to the meeting by L. S. B. Hayter, the telegrams affirming the fact that the commercial bodies sending them were willing to co-operate with the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce in an effort to maintain a satisfactory cotton market. It is being planned for all the commercial bodies of the country to co-operate in an effort through the press and otherwise for a holding movement of this year's cotton. All the cotton buyers of the city said they were anxious to help the Nacogdoches county farmer to get the best possible price for his cotton, and if this were done the farmer must assist in helping keep the staple off the market. Cotton men here say that damaged cotton will have absolutely no market at all. The Nacogdoches banks stand ready, however, to assist as far as they can to help tide the farmer over the threatened bankruptcy. It seemed to be the opinion of the business men present at the meeting that if the farmer would co-operate with the merchant and not dump all his cotton on the market, nothing serious would be faced in the way of a financial situation. The holding is not confined alone to Nacogdoches county, but involves every county in the state. Other states will probably become interested also. Cotton must be sold as the demand calls for it, so the cotton men said. The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock noon with the understanding that the proposed advertising be attended to at once.

English Marquis, Three Centuries Ago, Had Ideas for Projects at That Time Undreamed of.

One of the most curious books in English literature is that which bears the title, "A Century of Inventions," and whose author is Edward, marquis of Worcester, who died April 3, 1667. The book appears to have been written 12 years before his death, and consists of hundreds of descriptions of projects, none of them, however, so explicitly treated as to enable a modern adventurer to carry them out in practice.

In this book are to be found methods for secret writing, by cipher or inks of a peculiar nature; telegraphs or semaphores, explosive projectiles that would sink any ship, ships that would resist any explosive projectiles, floating gardens, a method of fixing shifting sands, a way to make a boat work against wind and tide, and many other curious contrivances.

Nothing came amiss to the mechanical marquis; neither were his projects mere dreams, for he had worked out in his own mind a clear conception of a steam engine, and is believed to have made a working model of one. His estate was filled with all sorts of machines for raising water to the top of the great tower by hydraulic power, and during the war he frightened away a troop of Roundheads by a display of these unknown powers.

The marquis impoverished himself by his adherence to the cause of Charles I, and when Charles II came on the throne he was neither recompensed for his losses nor rewarded for his fidelity. Kings' memories are often very short.

SPARED FAIR SEX

Oldtime "Knights of the Road" Not Always Stern.

Even Notorious Freebooters Have Been Known to Succumb to Feminine Wiles—Captain Kidd Among the Number.

Highwaymen, if ancient ballads and traditions concerning famous "knights of the road" may be believed, have often been polite to ladies; but pirates, rarely. Nevertheless, the late Elizabeth Christopher Hobson, in her delightful "Recollections of a Happy Life," relates an instance of a polite pirate who not only spared one of her acquaintances from molestation but made her a valuable present. To be sure, the lady in the case, who was Mrs. John Lion Gardiner of Gardiner's Island, made the first polite advances, and the pirate, who was none other than the notorious Capt. Kidd himself, merely reciprocated in kind.

The owner of the island was absent when Kidd landed upon it, and Mrs. Gardiner, terrified by keeping her wits about her, invited the formidable freebooter to dinner in the hope of placating him. He accepted, and she so wisely and willfully fed or charmed him, or both, that he later sent her two rich gifts, both of which are still preserved by her descendants: the "Kidd pitcher," now strengthened by a silver band bearing an inscription recording its history, and the "Kidd blanket," a piece of superb embroidery two yards long, in crimson, green and gold. When the pitcher was presented, it was full of rare East Indian sweetmeats; the blanket is sometimes called the "Kidd altar cloth," since it was presumably stolen from a South American or Mexican church in some piratical raid.

Among the most famous names in the reprehensible but picturesque roll of British highwaymen is that of Claude Duval, who, along with his French politeness, possessed a dash of French politeness, at least toward the fair and easily frightened sex. He is reputed on various occasions to have spared pretty ladies their rings or lockets, if they begged him wittingly enough, or had the art, which one notable belle of his era professed such a useful one to a woman, of "being able to Weep movingly, and that without Streaking of Cheeks, or Redding of Nose, but so only that Grate Tears of Pure Crystal Slide softly from Lids to Chins, Like as Dew Drops upon a Rose." His most notable concession to feminine charm was not, however, a complete surrender: it was a bargain. The lovely lady with whom it was made was promised immunity for all her rich jewels, if she would but descend from the coach and forthwith dance a coranto on the heath, with the gallant and graceful Claude for her partner—a condition with which she readily complied.

A "knight of the road," of less note than Duval—indeed, quite a minor modest figure in the annals of crime—nevertheless figured magnanimously in an old, broad-sheet ballad, in which he assisted, instead of despoiling, a lady in distress. She was the story relates, the poor but beautiful widow of a riotous young nobleman just killed in a duel. Although of gentle blood, she was beneath him in rank, and the match had been secret. When the coach was held up she was on her way to seek out her husband's parents and ask their forgiveness and protection for herself and her baby boy. All she had to prove her case was her wedding ring and her certificate of marriage, penned and signed in miniature and carried in a locket round her neck. When these two precious trinkets were demanded at the point of a pistol, she was in despair; but the robber, hearing her story, was moved to pity.

He gave her back her small gold ring.
He put it in her finger on;
Says, "Yours and mine and yours again,
Though hardly it was won."
He gave her back her golden locket;
Says, "Now think well of me,
And gold and rubies to fill her pocket—
"O thanks, kind sir!" says she.

The grateful pocketing of such dubious gold and rubies by an innocent and lovely heroine in distress seems somewhat strange, the reader must remember that broad-sheet ballads of the road are concerned only with glorification of their highwaymen heroes; consistency, conscience and the heroines themselves are all unimportant and incidental.—Youth's Companion.

Not Dead Ones.

I was using my seven passenger touring car to help a friend who was running a bus line, but who was temporarily short of cars. We were making certain routes and had on our windshields cards giving our places of destination. I was suddenly called from my regular route to take a couple to the minister to be married. As we were going up the street, with the bride adorned with her white veil and the groom in his best suit, both sitting in back, I noticed that many we met were convulsed with laughter. I didn't realize the cause until I reached the parsonage and found that I had failed to remove from the windshield the sign: "This car to the cemetery."—Exchange.

British Columbian Exports.

Advances noted in practically all the principal items made up an increase of $15,564,470, occurring in the value of the declared exports from Victoria, British Columbia, to the United States during 1919, as compared with the preceding year, the totals being $37,291,756, and $22,858,225 in 1918 and 1919, respectively.

"CENTER" OF BRITISH EMPIRE

Unpretentious Dwelling in London Houses the Real Rulers of Great Commonwealth of Nations.

For 200 years a severely plain and unpretentious three-story brick dwelling has become widely known throughout the world as Britain's central office of the diplomatic service. "No. 10 Downing street" refers to one of London's historic houses on the so-called "street of power," which nestles close to the confines of Whitehall. There have dwelt therein celebrities, such as Walpole, Pitt, Chatham, Canning, Disraeli and Gladstone. In all, no fewer than fifty ministers have lived there.

Sir George Downing, after whom the thoroughfare is named, was the son of a London barrister, a nephew of Governor Winthrop of Massachusetts colony, and a graduate of Harvard, who obtained the house as a gift from Charles II as a reward for unusual service performed by him while he was representing his country in Holland. He had emigrated to America at the age of fourteen and when he left Harvard, in 1645, a youth of twenty-one, he became an itinerant preacher in the West Indies. Shortly afterward he returned to England and became a chaplain in Colonel Okey's regiment. As a faithful Puritan, who later in life assured Charles II that he saw the error of his ways due to the principles imbibed during his stay in New England, he shortly afterward enrolled under Cromwell as a scout master.

After Downing's death, when the lease on the building lapsed to the crown, the property was given to the Hanoverian minister, Count Bothma, by George II, and when the count died, was tendered to Walpole, who accepted it on condition that the house should forever remain the residence of Britain's ministers.

MANAGED DRAGON BY WIRE

Opera House Manager Had Unique Idea for the Direction of Important Stage "Property."

Our Chinese friends would be interested to learn of the way "foreign devils" control dragons.

In one of the operas produced at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York the inside of the dragon, which is made of canvas and papier-mache, consists of two small boys, who are supposed to guide the beast's movements in accordance with the music. They are rarely equal to doing that correctly, even after rehearsal. A recent performance is stated to have been given without a single stage rehearsal, since no time could be found for the preparation of the opera. It was, therefore, more than ever necessary to have the occupants of the dragon's inside kept up to their business. The stage manager decided to install a telephone in the beast. It connected with the opera house switchboard. On one end was the stage manager, and at the other were two receivers strapped to the heads of the two boys, who received from moment to moment directions as to what they should do. The dragon under the circumstances covered himself with glory.

Incredible Names.

Speaking of "burlesome" names, Stray Stories tells of one Arthur Pepper of Liverpool, England, who bestowed upon his infant daughter a name that comprised every letter in the alphabet, running from Anna to Yetty Zeno.

It seems surprising that the names of Dickens' characters, odd though they were, should be found in real life; for it was from life that many of them were taken. Some, as is known, were copied from the names of signs over business places; but that was not the novelist's only source of selection. John Forster, his biographer, found among his papers a carefully drawn list of names, with the sources from which he obtained them. Some of the names are too extravagant for anything but reality: Jolly Stick, Bill Marigold, George Muzzle, William Why, Robert Gospel, Robbin Scrubban, Sarah Goldsacks, Catherine Two, Sophia Doodday, Rosetta Dust and Sally Gimblett.—Youth's Companion.

Do You Educate Your Children?

Most parents provide for their children; some take personal care of their children; but few, indeed, are they who can be forced to take any part in the education of their children, education having become the business of schools, a factory process, turned over entirely to the public. Here and there is a sublime parent who plods doggedly over the alphabet and the algebra, getting an education for himself at this late day; but such are rare, the run of parents putting their babes into the kindergarten or some other educational incubator, while they themselves slip off the educational nest like cuckoos and cowbirds.—Dallas Lore Sharp, in Atlantic Monthly.

BURIAL OF OVERSEAS BOY PRESENTS IMPRESSIVE SCENE

Friday afternoon the remains of Private Joe A. Greene, a Nacogdoches county boy who died in 1918 while in service in France, arrived in the city accompanied by a United States army officer, Sergeant Connelly of Watertown, Mass. The remains were brought here for reinterment in Oak Grove cemetery, where the American Legion has a place for the reburial of any overseas boys whose remains may be shipped here.

The body was shipped here from New York, and came by the way of Shreveport, arriving in Nacogdoches on the noon train. Cason, Monk & Company, undertakers, took immediate charge of the body, and preparations for a funeral were made.

The American Legion of this city took charge of the services, and nothing was left undone to give the dead hero's remains the last fitting respect that every hero such as he should have.

The funeral was held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. It was a military one, and was conducted in a most touching and befitting manner. The procession started at about 2:15 Saturday afternoon from the establishment of Cason, Monk & Company. The hearse carrying the remains was accompanied by approximately a score of men and boys in uniform, a squad in front and one behind, including many hundreds of people who trudged slowly along with the procession, winding their way to the place to be made more sacred with the remains of the dead soldier. Everything moved in a quiet and hushed manner. At the grave a pin could have almost been heard if one had been dropped. The choir sang "Nearer, My God to Thee," and the manner in which they sang it caused many a heart to grow tender, especially among some of the ex-soldier boys, who despite the heroic efforts made to restrain them, shed tears.

After the singing, the American Legion, under the supervision of Holloway Muller, took entire charge of the ceremonies. On either side of the grave was a squad of uniformed men, standing erect and at attention, in true soldierly fashion. They were equipped with army rifles, ready at the given time to fire the last farewell salute. Previous to the firing of the farewell salute, Rev. S. D. Dollahite made an impressive talk on the deceased. He was deeply in earnest in what he said. He told about the irreproachable character of Private Joe Greene during his life and said that from what he was able to learn, Private Greene "was truly a good man." He said that if it could be said of a man that he was a good man, the highest tribute had been paid him. Mr. Dollahite said that Private Greene was 26 years of age when he died of pneumonia in France. He died September 24th, 1918, that memorable year when all the world stood aghast and bewildered with horror at the unparalleled suffering being endured by the world at that time, caused by the mightiest war in the history of the world. Rev. Dollahite said that Private Greene was a Christian, having joined the Baptist church at Douglas in the year 1908. He had lived the most of his life in Nacogdoches county, having taught school in it some, but his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Green, later moved to Mt. Enterprise where they are now living. He commented upon the fact that Private Greene was a volunteer, giving his services as a soldier to his country in the year 1917, one year prior to his death. He concluded his talk with some remarks of a tender nature about the life of the dead Spartan who remains lay unlistening to the honors being bestowed upon them. Concluding the talk, prayer was offered, and Sergeant Muller prepared his men for the farewell salute, "Taps" was sounded by Sergeant Green, one of the recruiting officers here. It may be mentioned with interest here, that Sergeant Green, while no relation of the deceased being buried at Oak Grove, less than two years ago attended the funeral of his own brother, whose name was Joe Green.

The pallbearers were J. E. Reece, J. C. Parnlew, Dallas Feazell, Roe Cox, Guy Stripling, M. P. Mitchell, The Escort were J. M. Sloan, Claude Barham, Chester Alders, Clarence Thompson, R. L. Franklin, Clifford Mast, John Rand and Herbert Shindler. The bugler was recruiting officer Sergeant Green. The honorary pallbearers were Private Walters, Pitts, Prince and Boshon. Many hundreds of people were present at the funeral to pay their last tribute of respect to the remains and memory of the dead hero whose spirit now rests in peace.

Miss Louise Dow of Decatur, Texas, is in the city spending a few days.

MATING ARRANGED BY ELDERS

Young People of Java Have Little to Say in Selection of Husband or Wife.

Marriages in Java are typical of people in all tropical climates, in that the couples wed when they are very young. When a girl reaches her eleventh or twelfth year, her parents begin to look out for a suitable husband, and after the selection has been made they start long preliminary discussions with the parents of the boy. The father of the girl then consults the "wise man" of the village, usually the only literate person in the community, further action being taken solely on his advice.

The wise man takes the first letters of the names of the prospective bride and groom and draws them together in various shapes, then meditating over the combination which is to decide whether the boy and girl are going to be happy in their marriage. If the drawing suggests in the imagination of the wise man a tree with many branches, he warmly recommends the alliance between the boy and girl as their prosperity and, above all, a large family.

When the selection is made to the satisfaction of all concerned, the parents begin to discuss the dowry which, in the case of the Javanese, is supplied by the groom, consisting of dresses, food, household goods and other similar articles.—Detroit News.

A Manor House Find.

The story of the find of 1,000 spade guineas in the press of an old Hertfordshire (Eng.) manor house is told in The Bookman's Journal. The house changed owners, and the new proprietor, a few weeks after taking possession, examined the attic systematically. In one of the presses there he found a number of tattered and stained books, among them Doctor Croly's "Salathiel," which he opened in casual curiosity. On a page he came across a penciled note, indicating where valuables had been hidden in the house during the crisis of the '45 rebellion. Forthwith he had the flooring of a cupboard taken up, and there in a cavity lay some thousand spade guineas, a quantity of rare china and silver, and first editions of Congreve, Wycherley, Dryden and certain of the late Elizabethans—all carefully wrapped in silken dresses of that decade.

Metals That Call for Use.

Of the metals now known, more than 50 in number, Dr. E. E. Slooson notes that not one-half have come into common use. The so-called rare elements are really abundant enough, considering the earth's crust as a whole, though they are so thinly scattered that they are usually overlooked and hard to extract. But whenever one of them proves valuable it is soon found available. A systematic search generally reveals it somewhere in sufficient quantity to be worked. Who, then, it is asked, will be the first to discover a use for indium, germanium, terbium, thulium, lanthanum, neodymium, scandium, samarium and others as much unknown to us of today as tungsten was to our fathers.

Unperturbed.

"Ha," exclaimed the client. "You predicted the world was coming to an end a week ago."

"Did I?" replied the soothsayer, dreamily.

"You certainly did. But we are still here. Nothing has happened. What have you got to say for yourself?"
"Just this," said the soothsayer. "I'm as glad it didn't happen as you are, Mustapha," he continued, motioning languidly to his dark-skinned assistant, "show the gentleman out and admit the next seeker after truth."

Cured of Stomach Trouble and Constipation.

Rachel Cribley of Beaver Dam, Ohio, was sick for two years with stomach trouble and constipation, taking one medicine after another with only temporary relief. "My neighbor spoke so enthusiastically of Chamberlain's Tablets" she says, "that I procured a bottle of them at a drug store to try. A few days treatment convinced me that they were just what I needed. I continued their use for several weeks and they cured me."

Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This is unquestionably one of the most successful medicines in use for bowel complaints. A few doses of it will cure an ordinary case of diarrhoea. It has been used in nine epidemics of dysentery with perfect success. It can always be depended upon to give relief in cases of colic and cholera morbus. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. Every family should keep this on hand. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

KEEP THEM OUT

Voters belonging to other political parties are not going to participate in the democratic primaries in Nacogdoches county Saturday in violation of law, is the opinion of County Chairman Walthall. He says the chairman of each precinct is a true, loyal democrat who is thoroughly familiar with the law and that the character of each man is above suspicion. Only genuine democrats will be allowed to vote.

Has Never Seen Their Equal.

"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets for stomach trouble, biliousness and constipation off and on for the past ten years and I have never seen their equal. They strengthened my digestion, relieved me of headaches and had a mild pleasant action on my bowels. I take pleasure in recommending them" writes H. D. F. Parmenter, Cidersville, Ohio. AMERICAN LEGION MEET

Houston, Texas, August 23.—More than 800 World War veterans, delegates from posts throughout Texas, are attending the opening of the second annual state convention of the American Legion here. Dallas and San Antonio are expected to wage a hot fight for the election of the state adjutant and the selection of permanent state headquarters.

Child Cured of Bowel Trouble

A child of Floyd Osborn, Notary Public of Dungannon, Va., was taken with bowel trouble. Mr. Osborn gave it Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy and it quickly recovered. In speaking of this remedy he says "It is the best I ever used."

WEEKLY SENTINEL

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS

A reader asked what became of General Rusk's daughter. That question has been heretofore answered in the paper, but in a brief way. So also has the story of the Rusk family. Limited space forbids lengthy recitals, but a desirable repetition may be excused, if not too long.

The story of Helena Rusk is a sad romance. It was said that she died of a broken heart from disappointment in love. When her mother died in 1856, Helena, the youngest child and only daughter, was left alone about fifteen years old, practically an orphan. Her father was in the U. S. Senate. Her brothers were all grown and did not stay at home regularly. Ben, the oldest, had a family of his own, and had settled down on the Spanish Bluff road nine miles southwest of town to live a farmers' life, raise livestock, hunt game, and fish. John was soon also married and gone to himself. Later he succeeded Ben in his country home, which was near the point now called Harmony. In those days and for many years it was always designated as the old Ben Rusk place. After the death of Ben's wife, in early life, he vacated it and was homeless. Cicero and Tom were single, but were away at school. So General Rusk's family fireside was deserted, and Helena was placed with a relative, Mrs. W. W. Barrett, for home and school. The Barrett home was then located on a place on North street that afterwards became the home of Mrs. Ben Thompson. Governor Tom Barrett of Shreveport, La., was a child of the family. Captain L. T. Barrett, of Melrose, was a brother of W. W. Barrett, and a partner in business of Major Blackstone Harde man, a prominent business man of Melrose. The friendly association of the Barretts and the Hardemans brought their families together, and so Bunch Hardeman, the eldest son of Major B. Hardeman, became an intimate companion of Helena Rusk, and at maturity these two became sweethearts. There was no more lovely lady in the land than Helena Rusk, none prettier or more charming in person and deportment. She was given an honor of distinction by being chosen to deliver a farewell address and present a battle flag to one of the biggest military companies that went into the Confederate army from Nacogdoches. When she finished her address there were few dry eyes present. There are few persons now living who were present. Mrs. George Partin is one, and probably Mrs. Peavy and Mrs. Julia Clark. This impressive scene occurred in front of the Simpson Hotel on the corner just north of the present court house. It was Clark's Company. Miss Helena was so modest and retiring in her usual conduct that she was not extensively discussed in social circles. Early in the war period she became sick, and died. The town was already in gloom over the war. People were reduced in numbers. All gaiety was abandoned. Grim death and sorrowing hearts prevailed. Bunch Hardeman's visits to Helena Rusk had already ceased, but this did not attract great attention because the awful war was raging. It was said that their engagement had been broken off by meddling friends and relatives, and that the two were in gloom and sadness. Moreover, it was thought that she died from grief and disappointment in love.

Bunch Hardeman remained single for years. He was notably fine looking, handsome in face and form and exemplary in his deportment. It seemed like a real pity that these two young people should not be mated since they were so well suited for each other.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Editor Sentinel:

From inquiries that I am getting over the telephone, I am sure our people do not understand the big teachers' institute that is to be held here meets September 13. We thought in the beginning that it would meet September 6, but when we came to engage talent for the institute we found that that it would have to be postponed for one week, and so this institute will be held during the week beginning September 13.

PURSUING KIDNAPERS

Mexico City, August 24.—Government troops are closely pursuing the bandit chief, Zamora, carrying off American and British captives from the raid on Cuale, in the state of Jalisco, on August 20.

TO GET MEXICAN LABOR

Laredo, Texas, August 25.—Roy Miller, secretary, and Guy Mitchell, attorney, of the Rural Land Owner's Association, whose membership covers 20 counties of the Gulf Coast district of Texas, will meet Mexican officials at Laredo soon to complete an arrangement partly made at a recent meeting in San Antonio, Texas, for an international labor bureau to facilitate movement of Mexican labor into the United States.

The plan would become effective immediately and contemplates establishment of a Mexican government bureau in Nuevo Laredo, opposite here, which would serve as a gateway for the entrance of Mexican laborers to the United States. Land owners desiring farm or ranch labor would be required to apply at this bureau, presenting proper credentials. Upon complying with the requirements of the United States immigration service, the land owners would be furnished by the Mexican bureau with the desired number of laborers.

The first meeting was attended by Roberto V. Pesquera, financial agent of the provisional Mexican government in the United States, and Arturo de Saracho, consul general for Mexico at Laredo.

Mr. Saracho would have charge of the working details of the bureau.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the American Legion of Nacogdoches and to all others who assisted in the burial of our beloved son and brother, Joe Z. Green, Saturday, August 21st. Altho' the place he filled in our home and hearts during his life can never be filled, yet the many expressions of sympathy are as a balm to our sorrow and are gratefully appreciated. May God bless and comfort each of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Green and Family.

IN MEMORIAM

God's Acre of the old home received today the mortal remains of a beloved woman—Mrs. Beulah Belle Weema. The perfect day of her life came to a close; and in the twilight hours of rest the sparkling stars of Hope and Faith illuminated the shadowed sky. The magic power of words seem poor indeed to picture this mother, wife and friend as she lived among us in all the kindly walks of friendship and the roseate paths of love. Devotion to duty was the motto of her daily life, a golden devotion born of a noble heart that was brave to do all things well, and her work to take golden pleasure in that it was dedicated to the happiness of others. The faithful home-maker, mother and wife whose unselfish life wrought silver linings for every cloud whose gentle hands smoothed away the troubles and turned the shadows into sunshine—gentle hands that awoke from the harp of life but tender melodies. Today sweet memory garlands her name with the gold and purple panicles of thoughts, each blossom too faint a tribute to her grand womanhood that blesses these poor pathways no more forever. So grief is crowned with consolation: "Death cannot sever the ties that bind our souls through mortal years." The irrevocable hand that opens the years' fair gate and shuts the portals on this earthly land, but to open the portals to Paradise is the kindly hand that holds the golden keys to the Kingdom of Peace where all tears and sorrows cease.

But nature with her mystic shrine Awakes in us this indolent care When calls a loved one to a house divine

And robs us of that love we'd share, Thus it is with me this sad night When on childhood scenes I reflect That she and I spent with delight But later in life we did neglect Not a neglect without its care But estranged by nature's course For I did claim my full share Of her love that forged its force But to me that hope has fled And now my heart must meet the strain

For when next we met she is cold and dead And sorrow and grief does rack my brain They buried her beneath the sod And on her grave spread some flowers That was to a living God Typical to her virtuous powers, All alone I am left to weep The loss of my dear sister Until by the mystic eternal sleep I shall be called to my fate But to me a hope is given That beyond the grave we'll meet In a sweet celestial Heaven And there my soul she'll greet.

Her Devoted Sister,
Carrie Morris Holmes.

Mr. Lee Anderson of Houston is in the city this week.

TWENTY NINE LIVES LOST

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., August 21.—The lives of 29 persons, one of them a woman, are believed to have been lost shortly after 9 o'clock last night when the steamer Superior City, a freighter, sand four and a half miles southeast of Whitefish Point, on Lake Superior, after colliding with the steamer Willis King. Four members of the crew, including the captain, were saved. The names of the missing could not be learned, as all the records of the Superior City were lost. The missing woman was the wife of the second engineer.

No Word Received.

Cleveland, Ohio, August 21.—Officials of the Pittsburg Steamship Company, owners of the steamer Superior City, had received no word at 11 o'clock of the safety of 28 members of the crew, and expressed grave fears that all were drowned.

SEARCH FOR MISSING GIRL

Kansas City, Mo., August 20.—A nationwide search was begun for Harriet Howard Kimball, 19 years old, who left home Monday night. In a note found after her disappearance she asked her father not to seek her. The communique claims the Poles have been driven back seven miles from Ciechanow, 45 miles northwest of Moscow.

CAUTIONING THE BISHOP

London, August 20.—The consistory at Rome has directed a strong exhortation to Archbishop Mannix urging moderation in his treatment of British official questions, according to a British official message from Rome.

GREENVILLE'S POPULATION

Washington, August 21.—The population of Greenville, Texas is 12,384, an increase of 3,534, or 29.9 percent.

C. A. Alford has just received settlement in full from the Great Southern Life Insurance Company on the $1,000 policy held by Oscar Collins, of Attoyac, whose death was caused by an accident in a handle factory at the Hall bridge. Would your family have money to pay expense of your death and provide ready cash for their support should you be called today. Better see Mr. Alford and have him get you a policy in the Great Southern Life Insurance Company. 24-1dw

It is reported that the Fort Worth Oil Company is about to bring in today (Tuesday) a real oil well one of the largest ever brought in in the Oil Springs vicinity. The well has been damaged on account of some bad casing getting into it; but since this is about to be overcome, the company is jubilant over the prospects.

Messrs. Henry Schmidt and C. B. Brewer returned Tuesday night from New York, where they have been buying goods for the firm of Mayer & Schmidt. Mr. Schmidt reports that everything in New York is about normal, business good, although a tendency in gradual deflation of prices. "I think this condition will prevail until after the elections," Mr. Schmidt said.

Sixteen white and fifteen colored applicants for teachers' certificates were recorded in the teachers' examination Monday and Tuesday at the high school. Miss Willie Greene Layton and Mr. H. E. Shultz, the latter of Chireno, presided over the examination.

E. P. Herbert, a Texas University boy representing one of the big insurance companies of the state, is in the city this week attending to business of the company. Mr. Herbert is one of the real live young men of the university who is paying his own way by means of the work he does during the vacation period.

CAPTURE MANY PRISONERS

Warsaw, August 21.—The Poles had captured 15,000 soviet prisoners up to Thursday, it was announced here.

HARPER APPOINTED MARSHAL
Washington, August 19.—Wilkins Berryman Harper of Texarkana was nominated by President Wilson to be United States Marshal for the Eastern District of Texas.

BOLSHEVIKI TROOPS

Paris, August 21.—Six bolshevik divisions, consisting of 30,000 to 40,000 men, are surrounded by the Poles between Siedle and Brest-Litovsk, according to press dispatches received here.

BEES HOUSED IN "COTTAGES"

Lithuanian Raisers of Honey Furnish Really Attractive Homes for the Insects.

Beehives in Lithuania are not the comfortable round igloo-like huts that are commonly used in America. They are built very much like the Lithuanian home, with slanting gable and quaint doorway.

The cottages which they build are considerably larger than the round American hives. Double walls are built so that a protective warmth may be kept in the hives and prevent the bees from freezing during the extreme cold of the long winters. Pine wood is always used because it is supposed to be a greater protection against cold and because it is the most common tree in the forest lands of the country.

It is in the coloring of the hives that the Lithuanian asserts his individuality. The life of the Lithuanian has been starved of liberty and self-assertion during centuries. He has been oppressed by Germans and he has been oppressed by Russians—not only his art and his literature but even his language has been suppressed.

During the years of oppression one of the chief amusements and art mediums was the painting of hives. The highest degree of artistic beauty was often realized. Color combinations of originality and richness were striven for. And it is notable that a bee farmer tried as many different schemes as possible, so as to differentiate the hives from one another.

EGGS WITH QUEER MARKINGS

Many Interesting Designs Noticed in These Laid by Wild and Domestic Birds.

Woodpecker's eggs are of the purest white and so highly polished as to resemble finest porcelain.

The egg of the California partridge is covered with a delicate pinkish bloom which the slightest moisture will destroy. The mere touch of a finger will mar it.

Eggs of certain flycatchers have their surface marked with fine lines running lengthwise from end to end and looking exactly as if made with pen and ink.

A South American cuckoo lays an egg that has a chalky coat spread over it in such wise as to form a uniform network, the blue color of the shell showing in the spaces between the lines. Thus it looks as if covered with a fine white net.

Hens often lay malformed eggs, some of which are shaped like crook-necked squashes, while others resemble jugs with handles. Now and then an egg of farmyard origin contains a smaller egg, the latter complete, shell and all.

Insult to Royalty.

The ideas of the world change; what is unwelcome today becomes welcome tomorrow. There is an interesting bit of evidence of that in an amusing incident, long forgotten and now brought to light.

When postage stamps first came into use in England, some persons declared that the effigy of majesty was too sacred to serve as a label for letters.

"Have you seen the stamps yet?" wrote one ardent loyalist in 1840. "This is the greatest insult the present ministry could have offered the queen."

King Ferdinand of Sicily took the matter so seriously that he had a special postmark made in the shape of a frame, so that the officials could cancel the stamps without striking his portrait.

Discards the Modern Age.

Although the British have occupied that part of Burma from which some of the best teak is extracted for nearly a century, Burma tree-fellers still prefer their own axes to any of the various kinds which have been imported from time to time from Europe or America. This implement, called a pokin in Burmese, is about an inch broad, and ten or twelve inches in length. Fitted with a wooden handle cut from the neighboring jungle, the Burman erects a scaffold of bamboo around the trunk of the tree to be felled, which may be 12 or 15 feet in circumference, about five feet from the ground, manage to bring it down by his vigorous and repeated strokes within a few hours.

Wonderful Passion Flower.

There is one flower that contains within itself so complete a compendium of the story of the cross that it is fittingly called by the name of passion flower. It blossomed about Holy Rood day. The thread-like colored stamens, which surround the flower-like rays, and some other portions of its delicately constructed blossom, attracted the notice of the Spaniards in their conquest of America. The different parts of the blossoms figured to their enthusiastic imaginations the numbers of the apostles, the rays of glory, the nails, the hammer, the sponge, the cup, and all the sad signs of the Savior's passion, hence they called it the passion flower.

Quite Natural.

"This clock you sold me last week is extremely variable and erratic," complained the customer with the package under his arm. "It looks pretty, but it cuts up scandalously, and—"

"Ah, but, sir," suavely interrupted the jeweler, "you forget that it is a French clock."—Kansas City Star.

Neff For Governor

ELEVENTH-HOUR SLANDER

M. J. W. Bailey, in his desperation charged that Mr. Neff was in the draft age during the recent war and that he did not register, claiming that a book published some years ago gave 1872 as the year of Mr. Neff's birth. Here is the truth:

Pat Neff Not Within Draft Age THE STATE OF TEXAS

County of McLennan.
I, Mrs. I. E. Neff, being duly sworn on oath, do state that Pat M. Neff, who is a candidate for governor of Texas, is my son, and Pat M. Neff was born November 26th, 1871, near Moody, Texas.

Witness my hand this, the 21st day of August, 1920.

Mrs. I. E. Neff.

Sworn and subscribed to before me by Mrs. I. E. Neff, this the 21st day of August, 1920.

[Notary Seal] Espa Stanford,
Notary Public in and for McLennan County, Texas.

THE STATE OF TEXAS

County of McLennan.

Before me, the undersigned authority, on this day personally appeared the parties whose names are signed to this instrument, each of whom being duly sworn by me on oath, doth state:

That we have personally examined the old family Bible of Noah Neff and his wife, Isabella E. Neff, the father and mother of Pat M. Neff, who is now a candidate for governor, and we find the Bible is an old faded book with broken back and under the column in the family record marked births among others is the following:

"Pat Morris Neff was born November 26th, 1871." We find that the hand writing in which this and other entries on this page are written is old style, faded but clear.

We further state that Neff, having been born in November, 1871, was not within the draft age and was not required to register.

Witness our hands, this, the 21st day of August, 1920.

Frank B. Tiley, County Attorney, McLennan County.

Ben C. Richards, Mayor, City of Waco.

Lee Jenkins, Chief of Police, Waco.

James P. Alexander, County Judge.

EAST TEXAS FAIR

Tyler, Texas, August 24.—The East Texas Fair will open its eleventh annual exhibition on September 28th and continue through October 2nd. The program announced in the annual catalog includes many splendid attractions for the amusement of visitors. Special effort is being made this year to make the Fair truly representative of all East Texas. President Ramey has been advised that a large number of East Texas counties will have exhibits here to contest for the big prizes offered by the Association.

Special prizes have been offered for community exhibits of agriculture. Also prizes from $200 down to $50 have been offered for county exhibits. In this class Smith county will not compete. Many East Texas counties will make use of this opportunity to call attention to their resources.

The East Texas Fair Association has permanent grounds and buildings. The grounds comprises a 75-acre tract adjoining the city of Tyler. Two new buildings were erected during the present year, making a total of twelve large and substantial buildings for the accommodation of crop, livestock, swine and poultry exhibits.

Special interest is centered about the corn and cotton exhibits, inasmuch as these crops are especially fine in East Texas this year.

Arthur Wilkinson, a former Nacogdoches High School boy opened up in Rusk Tuesday a tailor shop which he will run in connection with his school work. Arthur will attend the Rusk Academy until he works off the courses of two years, and then he plans to go to the University of Texas.

this, the 21st day of August, 1920.
[Notary Seal] Melissa Scott,
Notary Public in and for McLennan County.

Pat Neff's Age

As the question of the exact age of the Hon. Pat M. Neff has arisen I will thank you to print the following:

Since right after the Civil War up to a few years ago I lived but a few miles from the house in which Pat M. Neff was born and which was occupied by his mother until recent years. I lived in Coryell county and the Neffs lived just across the line in McLennan county. It was at the home of Mrs. I. E. Neff, Pat's mother, frequently.

Distinctly do I remember that I was at Mrs. Neff's home in the spring of 1872. Little Pat, as his mother affectionately called him, was then about six months old and was just beginning to catch hold of things to crawl. I remember it so distinctly because Pat Neff is just a few months older than my oldest son, J. W. Jacobs, of Dallas, who was born in May, 1872.

So I am very positive that Pat Neff was born in the latter part of the year of 1871. My son, whom I have mentioned, though younger than Mr. Neff, was not in the second draft either.

Respectfully,

Mrs. Mary L. Jacobs,
5604 Lewis Street, Dallas, Texas.

Mr. Neff's friends are requested to be on the look-out for other such eleventh hour "stuff."

As the day of Mr. Bailey's overwhelming defeat draws nearer he is getting desperate.

Mr. Shirley's Affidavit.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
County of Nacogdoches.

Before me, the undersigned authority, personally appeared B. S. Shirley, whose name is signed to this instrument and being duly sworn by me says:

I was in the city of Waco about June 20th, 1920, and met Hon. Pat M. Neff, and in conversation with him, among other questions I asked him his age and in his reply it developed that he was about six months older than myself.

I was born May 24th, 1872, which would have without doubt made 1871 the year of Mr. Neff's birth.

This would make me six months younger than Mr. Neff and I did not register in the last registration.

B. S. Shirley,

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 23rd day of August, 1920.

[Seal] R. B. Walthall,
Clerk of the District Court in and for Nacogdoches County, Texas.

Secretary H. L. McKnight made a trip Tuesday afternoon to Douglass in company with several other men, where they organized a division of the Nacogdoches County Farm Bureau, getting 27 names of Douglass farmers on his list. He reported the roads very bad from Nacogdoches to Douglass, saying that they started from Douglass Tuesday night at 11 o'clock and arrived in Nacogdoches at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning.

C. B. Watkins of Douglass was in the city Monday.

MALARIA AND AGUE BROKEN UP IN THREE DAYS

Swamp Chill and Fever Tonic Brings Relief to Thousands

Helps Sick Women

Cardui, the woman's tonic, helped Mrs. William Eversole, of Hazel Patch, Ky. Read what she writes: "I had a general breaking-down of my health. I was in bed for weeks, unable to get up. I had such a weakness and dizziness, . . . and the pains were very severe. A friend told me I had tried everything else, why not Cardui? . . . I did, and soon saw it was helping me. . . . After 12 bottles, I am strong and well."

TAKE

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Do you feel weak, dizzy, worn-out? Is your lack of good health caused from any of the complaints so common to women? Then why not give Cardui a trial? It should surely do for you what it has done for so many thousands of other women who suffered—it should help you back to health.

Ask some lady friend who has taken Cardui. She will tell you how it helped her. Try Cardui.

FIERCER FIGHTING IN POLAND

London, August 19.—Fierce fighting continues in the region around Warsaw, according to an official statement of the soviet government at Moscow. In the Crimean sector engagements are going on with indecisive results.

Russians in Panic

Warsaw, August 19.—The Russian forces are fleeing in a disorderly panic along the front between the Vistula and Bug rivers. The Poles are advancing with success, said an official statement received here last night. In their counter-attack the Poles are using tanks, airplanes, armored trains and artillery in great numbers.

Soviets Evacuating Town

Warsaw, August 19.—The soviet forces are evacuating Brest-Litovsk, a strongly fortified town on the Bug river 120 miles east of Warsaw, according to advices received here.

No Room For Prisoners.

Warsaw, August 19.—Soviet prisoners are pouring into Warsaw in such numbers that it is becoming a problem how to care for them.

Elaborating Plans.

Paris, August 20.—The military success of the Poles continued yesterday. The military mission to Warsaw reports the French general, Weygand, and a staff of more than 600 French officers are elaborating the plans of operation.

Peace Terms Communicated.

London, August 20.—At the second sitting of the peace conference at Minsk on Thursday a summary of the Russian peace terms was communicated to the Poles. They are substantially the same as published in London, says a Moscow official statement.

CHEAPER SUGAR PROMISED

Chicago, August 21.—Sugar will be 10 or 11 cents a pound by January, Russell Poole, secretary of the city council's high cost of living committee stated in submitting the result of an investigation. The country's beet crop will be from 30 to 40 percent larger than ever before, he predicted. The new Cuban crop will be three times the 1914 crop.

UNIQUE FEATURE OF WEDDING

Javanese Couple, at End of Ceremony, Kiss the Feet of All Their Relatives.

A festival procession through the village, headed by two monstrous figures with arms and legs agitated by men hiding inside, forms part of the marriage ceremony in the Island of Java. The music in the procession is supplied by the gamelan, the national orchestra, consisting of drums, bells and other noisy instruments, while an additional noise is made by a group of men on horseback striking with all their might in the native "angkoeng," which is something like a tambourine, made of bamboo.

The women, their hands filled with paper birds, flowers and feather fans made of peacock plumes, follow on foot, and are in turn followed by the priests, solemnly singing their prayers. The bride is carried by four men as she sits on a wooden platform surrounded by a few girl friends. After the procession goes around the village twice, it finally stops before the house of the groom, and the bride is carried into the house in the arms of her father-in-law.

The whole family then assembles in a circle and the young couple, bending on their knees, kiss the feet of all the relatives. The kissing of the feet marks the end of the ceremony. The feast lasts late into the night but women and men celebrate separately, only the young couple being allowed to eat together.—Detroit News.

HISTORY TOLD IN MOSAICS

Beautiful Examples of Early Art to Be Found in the Ruined Temples of Egypt.

One of the earliest attempts at artistic expression was through the medium of the mosaic. Ruins of that illustrious city of the East, Nineveh, contain examples of the art. Mosaics are found frequently in the ruined temples of Egypt.

It was in Greece that the art was first used to any great extent. All through the rocky little peninsula may be found the beauty of the Hellenic temperament expressed in mosaic. The erectheum, in Athens, constructed about the fifth century B. C., contains many exquisite specimens worked in both glass and marble.

Mosaic did not reach its highest development, however, until the power of Rome had bloomed to the full. The Romans not only utilized this form of art themselves to a great extent, but spread it all through their conquered territories. One of the ways of tracking the footsteps of the Roman conqueror is by means of the mosaics he built. The art was continued down through the medieval and renaissance periods, flourishing especially in Italy.—Exchange.

New Use for Asbestos.

A new and important use for asbestos has been found. Its wide adoption depends on the finding of new sources of the material. One of the latest suggestions, which has been carried out on an appreciable scale in the United States, is the construction and permanent casting molds for the production of the lighter kinds of metal castings. In making these molds, the ground asbestos is mixed with a suitable binder and pressed into a form or flask over a master pattern, and is then stoved slowly up to a temperature of 800 degrees F. This preliminary drying removes the bulk of the moisture, and establishes the binder. The pattern is then removed and the forms heated up again to a temperature several hundred degrees in excess of the temperature to which the form will be usually exposed. After this treatment the forms or molds are ready for use, and, it is said, may be employed indefinitely, at any rate, as many as 1,700 castings have been made from one of these permanent molds.

Worse Than Tigers.

Once, Confucius was passing by the slope of Tai Shan. He encountered a woman who was crying mournfully by a grave. The master leaned upon the rail of a cart in a position of respect, and listened.

Then he sent Tse Lu to question her, saying: "Ah, thy crying seems of great sorrow and grief."

"Yes, alas!" answered the woman. "Not long ago my father-in-law died in the mouth of a tiger; my husband too, was slain by it; and now, alas my son is killed by it also!"

"Then why dost thou not get thee hence?"

"Because there are no cruel laws here."

"Acknowledge this, my children," said the master to his disciples, "cruel laws are master tigers!"—From a Chinese classic, "Ancient Compositions." Translated by Moon Kwan.

Ten Different Winds.

When the wind is blowing at an indicated velocity of 35 miles an hour the force in pounds per square foot would be 4,900. This would be known as a high wind and would travel over a distance of 3,090 feet every minute.

A perceptible wind travels one mile an hour; just perceptible, two or three miles an hour; gentle breeze, four or five miles an hour; pleasant breeze, ten to 15 miles an hour, brisk wind, 20 to 25 miles an hour; high wind, 30 to 35 miles an hour; very high wind, 40 to 45 miles an hour; storm at 50 miles an hour; a great storm, 60 to 70 miles an hour, and a hurricane attains a velocity of 80 to 100 miles an hour.

A CENTURY OF ANTHRACITE

First Ton of Hard Coal Reached the City of Philadelphia Just One Hundred Years Ago.

An even hundred years have elapsed since one William Wurts, a Philadelphia merchant, drove his team of mules with the first ton of anthracite through the spring freshets and bog land to the banks of the Delaware river and floated the new fuel down the river to Philadelphia on a pine log raft.

But he experienced no little difficulty in that first anthracite year of 1820 in overcoming the popular objection that the coal was "extremely slow of lighting." Fine log rafts floated only 303 tons of anthracite that year. But it fetched a price of $12 a ton and could be delivered freight-on-raft Philadelphia at $3—a fact that was freely advertised to attract additional capital, for, of course, there was no profiteering in those days.

Spring freshets and bog land and slow inflammability no longer worry operators. Silk shirts for miners are a bigger nuisance. But production in a hundred years has jumped to 86,200,000 tons, and could this year surpass the 100 million-ton mark, which was almost reached in 1917.

Reading, Wilkesbarre, Lehigh, Mauch Chunk—these names are spoken one thousand times hourly in the industrial world today, simply because there lay up in the hills of Pennsylvania a hard, black substance, one ton of which sly old William Wurts steered on a raft down the Delaware to Philadelphia, just one hundred years ago.—Wall Street Journal.

ASTRONOMY STILL AT FAULT

Men of Science Forced to Admit Exact Results From Their Calculations Are Not Possible.

The celebrated observatory at Greenwich, the place from which we reckon longitude, was founded by Charles II in 1675, mainly for the purpose of investigating the movements of the moon in the interests of navigation. Although in the intervening two and a half centuries astronomers have worked at the problem, the moon has not yet become entirely amenable to their mathematics. In a recent report of the observatory at Greenwich attention is invited to the increasing deviation between the calculated position of the moon in the sky and its real position shown by the Greenwich observations. The deviation has lately been growing in a serious manner. The error last year was more than twelve times as large as the error twenty years ago, and the average annual increase during the two decades has amounted to half a second of arc in longitude. The reason that astronomers have failed in getting exact results from calculations based on the dynamical laws of gravitation is possibly the existence of some attractive force that they have not yet discovered, although the result may also be affected by the true shape of the earth, which still awaits accurate determination.

Deadly Weapon of Warfare.

An invention by a French wireless engineer, M. Dumoyer, will completely change the character of naval warfare, if his claims are fulfilled, says the London Mail. It consists of what he calls an "electric safety lock." The mechanism to direct the course of a torpedo and secure its explosion against an enemy warship can be worked not only by wireless waves of the right length, but also by a proper sequence of Morse signals. Any error in the right sequence of dots and dashes would run the mechanism down to zero again and render the torpedo harmless. Each torpedo launched would have its own key sequence of dots and dashes, and so the enemy would be unable to tamper with it.

Books From Washington's Library.

The sale of the library of the late Samuel Riker of this city was concluded at the Anderson Galleries recently. Dr. A. S. Rosenbach paid $4,000 for George Washington's copy of "A Collection of All the Treaties of Peace, Alliance, and Commerce Between Great Britain and Other Powers From the Treaty Signed at Munster, in 1684, to Treaties Signed at Paris, in 1783," three volumes, London, 1785. The work contains Washington's autograph on each title page and his book plate on the inside of each front cover. The work was auctioned off at the sale of the library of Lawrence Washington, the great grandson of George Washington, in Philadelphia, in 1876.—New York Times.

Concerning Aerial Flights.

Air Commodore Edward Maitland of R-34 fame, speaking at the Royal Society of Arts, said that while flying the Atlantic he retired about 9 a. m., and he was ashamed to say he slept until nine the next day. He found that the air not only induced sleep, but sharpened the appetite. Ladies had often asked him, the commodore said, "In what should we dress when about to take an aerial flight?" He felt tempted to suggest crinolines, which would become very useful as parachutes should the necessity arise.—London Chronicle.

A Big Contract.

"I see where the people at Atlantic City are asking the authorities to make the high winds stop blowing the sand about at Chelsea."

"Next thing the public will be demanding that somebody stop the hot air blowing in congress."

EXPLOSIONS CAUSED BY DUST

Investigation Has Proved That Grain Is by No Means the Only Destructive Agent.

When the bureau of chemistry of the United States department of agriculture started investigations with the object of reducing fires and explosions caused by dust in the grain elevators and mills it was not long before the experts realized these fires and explosions were by no means confined to the grain business. These dust-explosion investigations are having a wide influence, which has extended to many industries. Aluminum dust, starch and even fish meal, a by-product of fish canneries, have all been found susceptible to the conditions which produce disastrous explosions.

The latest development goes to prove that the mysterious "blow sacks" so well known to firemen are in some cases caused by dust. With the knowledge of this fact as a guide many fatal accidents may be avoided. The firemen of America find the matter of sufficient importance to warrant their co-operation with the department of agriculture in a study of preventive methods.

The subject was taken up by the National Firemen's association at their twenty-second annual convention at Peoria, Ill. Engineers engaged in the dust-explosion investigations represented the department of agriculture at the meeting.

EYE HAS GREAT SENSITIVITY

Wonderful Human Organ Capable of Adapting Itself to Any Possible Circumstances.

On entering a dark room after a stay in the outside daylight the eye at once begins to increase in sensitivity. At first this increase appears to be slow, but after five minutes the increase is quite rapid, the eye acquiring a sensitivity several hundred times its initial value. After 30 minutes' sojourn in the dark the sensitivity still increases, but more slowly than before, and after 45 minutes or an hour the maximum sensitivity is reached. The final sensitivity varies slightly with different people, but in fully adapted condition the eye is easily 5,000 or 10,000 times more sensitive than it was at the beginning.

These facts are obtained from a study of the sensitiveness of the eye in the dark made by Selig Hecht of Creighton university, Omaha, and published in the Journal of General Physiology. Mr. Hecht's study goes to show that the increased sensitiveness is due to a reversible photochemical reaction within the retina, involving a photosensitive substance and its two products of decomposition.

No Time for Interruption.

"However deplorable the fact may be, playing two-handed pinocle at 25 cents a hand is one of the favorite diversions of commuters between this city, New York, Atlantic City, Cape May and other commercial outposts of Philadelphia. One man, who carries his pleasures as well as his worries home from work, was playing pinocle in his library the other evening with a cronie, when the butler entered and handed him a telegram. He returned it unopened. "I'll look at it later."

"But the messenger is waiting, sir," the butler respectfully remonstrated. The financier read the telegram. It said: "Struck $,000-barrel gusher today. Everything fine."

"Confound you, Thomas, why did you spoil my game?" he cried.

He didn't care nearly so much about the fortune he had made, as about the 25 cents he was in danger of losing.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Found "News" Exaggerated.

Believing that the United States was in the throes of a railroad strike and not a wheel was turning, Frederick R. Bartlett, wealthy sugar dealer and engineer, of Easton, Md., arrived at New York on the steamship Maracalibo from Venezuela with a powerboat and enough gasoline to run it to his home town. Reports received in the South American republic, he said, had indicated that he would have to make his way home without the aid of railroads or even automobiles, because of the gasoline shortage.

When Mr. Bartlett found railroads were operating he decided nevertheless to make a water trip to Easton. So the boat was slung overboard and with his wife and daughter he chugged away for home.

Historic House a Factory.

Apparatus for the manufacture of insecticide soon will be installed in the old Billop house at Totterville, headquarters of General Howe during the British occupation of Staten Island in 1776 and since then a place of historic interest. Announcement of the sale of the property was made yesterday, and with it came the news that the old house will be converted into a factory.

All efforts to have the state purchase the house and preserve it and its dungeon and secret underground passageway as relics of the War for Independence were unsuccessful.—New York Times.

Marry in Haste.

At a tea a number of ladies were discussing the best age at which to marry. Some championed thirty years, some twenty-eight, some twenty-seven. Then Miss Elsie De Wolfe, who has so brilliantly succeeded in so many fields, laughed and said:

"The best age to marry is while you're still too young to know better."

Through the tangle of traffic you glide, and then over smooth boulevards to the outskirts of town. Soon the last suburbs are left behind and you've reached the open country.

Smoothly, silently you slip along, over frequent hills and into pleasant valleys. You pass through tiny villages and bustling towns, and back again to the open road.

What delight in motor touring! Thrilling bursts of speed with the wind whipping by and the landscape like a motion picture. Or lazy ambling progress. Green hills, blue sky, warm sunshine. And what delight in touring in a motor car that meets every test of the road without faltering, that is equipped with every comfort and convenience that one could desire—THE BOUR-DAVIS.

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Nacogdoches County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon George D. Hartgraves by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear in the next regular term of District Court of Nacogdoches county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof, in Nacogdoches, on the 1st Monday in September, A. D. 1920, the same being the 6th day of September, A. D. 1920, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 13th day of February, A. D. 1920, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 671, wherein Ella Layton Hartgraves is plaintiff and George D. Hartgraves is defendant, and said petition alleging that the plaintiff and defendant were legally married about September 1st, 1917, and continued to live together as husband and wife until about January 1st, 1919, at which time plaintiff was forced and compelled to abandon defendant on account of his harsh and cruel conduct towards this plaintiff, without any provocation on the part of the plaintiff, since which time they have not lived together as husband and wife; that the conduct of the defendant was of such a nature as to render their ever living together as husband and wife insupportable.

Wherefore, the plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer herein, and upon the final hearing hereof, that judgment be granted dissolving said marriage relations, cost of suit and general relief.

Herein, fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, at office in Nacogdoches, Texas, this, the 6th day of August, A. D. 1920.

NEW REAL ESTATE COMPANY OPENS OFFICE HERE

Thursday morning the I. D. Parmley Company opened its office on Main street in front of the Queen Theater in the new Hayter building. The company, according to Mr. Parmley, is one of the largest in East Texas. Land holdings are had in many other counties. There are others, it is understood, who are interested in the company, but if such is the case, their names are not made public. The company plans to do some extensive advertising in the future. It is presided over by Mr. I. D. Parmley, the present county clerk. Speaking with reference to his clerical duties, Mr. Parmley said that only three months remained in which for him to occupy the county clerk's office; and that his going into the real estate business did not signify his giving up the proper attention to his clerical duties. He says that he will keep everything in the county clerk's office up to the minute and at the same time build himself up a satisfactory real estate business by the time his term in the clerk's office expires.

REUNION 90th DIVISION

The second annual reunion of the veterans of the 90th Division will be held in Oklahoma City September 25, 26 and 27. The 90th Division was originally made up of men from Texas and Oklahoma and trained at Camp Travis, Texas. However, many replacements were received from every state in the union. The division took part in the St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne offensives and was one of the divisions honored by a place in the army of occupation in Germany. Every man who trained or served at any time with this division is cordially invited to attend the reunion. The 90th Division has permanent headquarters in Dallas, Texas, in charge of Arthur J. Reinhart, secretary.

STRIPLING FAMILY REUNION

A pleasant family reunion was held Sunday at the home of Bob Stripling at Melrose, at which there were present all his brothers and his children. There were John Stripling of Austin, Sam Stripling of Nacogdoches, Jake Stripling of Edmund, Okla., and Raiford Stripling of San Augustine; also Grady Stripling of Center and Guy and Dick Stripling of Nacogdoches.

Mr. Holand Burk showed the reporter Thursday some curious rocks which he had found in the country. The rocks themselves present the appearance of ordinary yellow rocks, but on them were beautiful yellow flowers which had long ago become petrified. Mr. Burk had quite a number of these, all of which carried the emblems of petrified flowers, apparently of what is known as the "nigger head" variety. Mr. Burk is keeping the rocks as curios.

D. 1920, the same being the 6th day of September, A. D. 1920, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the third day of August, A. D. 1920, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 688, wherein Nancy Jane Cox is plaintiff, and C. R. Cox is defendant, and said petition alleging that the plaintiff and defendant were legally married about October 1, 1900 and continued to live together as husband and wife until about March 3, 1902. That about March, 1902 defendant was convicted of a felony and incarcerated in the penitentiary for a period of three years, and that after he was released from the state penitentiary, without cause or provocation upon the part of the plaintiff, abandoned her, since which time plaintiff and defendant have not lived together as husband and wife.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays that defendant be cited by publication to appear and answer this petition and that upon a final hearing that she shall have judgment dissolving the marital relations now existing between them, for cost of suit and general relief.

Herein, fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

FOURTEEN REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD ATTEND THE TYLER COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, TYLER, TEXAS

There are many reasons why you should enter the Tyler Commercial College. First, we meet the demand of the business office and the State and National Government, or we would not be enrolling more than 4,000 yearly from over half the states in the Union. Second through our free employment department, we see that our graduates secure good positions. Third, we have our own specially prepared and copy-righted text books and the most modern methods of teaching. This enables us to give a better training in less time and at less expense. Fourth, our work is practically all taught on the individual plan of instruction, thereby enabling each student to advance as rapidly as his own ability will allow. The dull student is not overcrowded by the fast one, or the fast student held back on account of the dull one and both discouraged. Fifth, each works to his full capacity and is delighted with his work. This method also enables a student to enter any time in the year and take up his work to the very best advantage. Sixth, you will associate with and form a valuable life-long acquaintance with hundreds of splendid, ambitious, industrious young men and women. Seventh, our free service department is of exceptional advantage to the graduates in after life. It is free to all and is very thorough. Eighth, we have the largest and most competent corps of teachers to be found anywhere. They know how to make a student's stay pleasant as well as profitable. Ninth, we give thorough courses in Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Telegraphy, Cotton Classing and Business Administration and Finance. Tenth, this gives you a wide range of subjects from which to select something to fit the line of work you most prefer. Eleventh, we have shown the superiority of our training by placing our students in the very best positions to be had in commercial state and national affairs. Twelfth, by repeatedly winning first honors on our exhibit of students' work at three different state fairs. Thirteenth, our large building was especially constructed for school work. Tyler is a beautiful, moral and healthful city of fifteen thousand high class citizens. Fourteenth, the metropolis, and educational center of East Texas.

From present indications our fall attendance will be the heaviest in the history of the institution. We are getting almost one hundred requests each day for catalogues from those interested. Fill in coupon and receive our catalogue, making your arrangements to enter America's largest, most thorough and competent business training school at once. More than thirty thousand have benefitted by this advice.

By your vote in the first primary I was one of the successful ones for the run-off on Saturday, the 28th, for the office of County Treasurer, and which vote was very gratifying to me as so one can realize the circumstances under which a man who has lost his sight, yabors in trying to place himself before the people of a county for an office. It has been my earnest desire to meet all the people in the county in the interest of my candidacy which has been entirely impossible as I am entirely dependent upon my friends in getting over the county.

I come to you with this last word before the primary on Saturday, next, when Mr. J. F. Floyd and myself contest for the office of county treasurer. I am sorry indeed that I had the misfortune to lose my eyesight. I am a man full of energy and wants to do something for myself and my people, as well. I know the duties of the County Treasurer's office, which are few, this office would be discontinued by the different Commissioners Courts were it not a constitutional office. It is a pension job for some one. I can fill it to your entire satisfaction, giving a gilt edge bond, and in every way meeting every requirement.

By your vote and influence if I am elected I shall have a place to make a livelihood and you will always be proud that you voted for me. Vote for me and although I cannot meet you and know you on the streets on account of my misfortune, I shall make you an officer to be proud of, and you will always say by his works "Blind Hooks appreciated the vote I gave him."

Sincerely yours,
W. C. Hooks.

WAS IN BED FOR SIX LONG MONTHS

Was Able to be Up in Three Weeks After Taking Tanlac—Gains Twenty Pounds

"I was in bed for six long months with stomach trouble and rheumatism and Tanlac alone deserves credit for my recovery," said George Gregoire, popular longshoreman, of 2718 3rd Avenue, Seattle, Wash. "I have gained twenty pounds and feel like I was never sick a day in my life," he continued.

"My trouble started a year ago. My appetite left me and what I forced myself to eat would cause a severe pain in my stomach and shortness of breath. Meats were almost like poison to my system; I got as weak as a kitten and the rheumatism laid hold of me so bad I could hardly drag myself about. My kidneys seemed to give way, too, and my back hurt so bad that I couldn't stoop over. My head ached like it would split and I would get so dizzy I had to hold to something to keep from falling. I lost sleep and weight and was completely down and out.

"Tanlac helped me so much that I was out of bed in three weeks' and now am a different man. All my troubles are entirely gone, I am back at work every day and do my work so easily I surprise the men who work with me. TO THE VOTERS OF NACOGDOCHES COUNTY

By your vote in the first primary I was one of the successful ones for the run-off on Saturday, the 28th, for the office of County Treasurer, and which vote was very gratifying to me as so one can realize the circumstances under which a man who has lost his sight, yabors in trying to place himself before the people of a county for an office. It has been my earnest desire to meet all the people in the county in the interest of my candidacy which has been entirely impossible as I am entirely dependent upon my friends in getting over the county.

I come to you with this last word before the primary on Saturday, next, when Mr. J. F. Floyd and myself contest for the office of county treasurer. I am sorry indeed that I had the misfortune to lose my eyesight. I am a man full of energy and wants to do something for myself and my people, as well. I know the duties of the County Treasurer's office, which are few, this office would be discontinued by the different Commissioners Courts were it not a constitutional office. It is a pension job for some one. I can fill it to your entire satisfaction, giving a gilt edge bond, and in every way meeting every requirement.

By your vote and influence if I am elected I shall have a place to make a livelihood and you will always be proud that you voted for me. Vote for me and although I cannot meet you and know you on the streets on account of my misfortune, I shall make you an officer to be proud of, and you will always say by his works "Blind Hooks appreciated the vote I gave him."

Sincerely yours,
W. C. Hooks.

WILLIAM PIERSON

Remember Judge William Pierson of Hunt County for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. He won the first primary by the large plurality of 24,853. Assist him August 28th. -- 26-1-w

WAS IN BED FOR SIX LONG MONTHS

Was Able to be Up in Three Weeks After Taking Tanlac—Gains Twenty Pounds

"I was in bed for six long months with stomach trouble and rheumatism and Tanlac alone deserves credit for my recovery," said George Gregoire, popular longshoreman, of 2718 3rd Avenue, Seattle, Wash. "I have gained twenty pounds and feel like I was never sick a day in my life," he continued.

"My trouble started a year ago. My appetite left me and what I forced myself to eat would cause a severe pain in my stomach and shortness of breath. Meats were almost like poison to my system; I got as weak as a kitten and the rheumatism laid hold of me so bad I could hardly drag myself about. My kidneys seemed to give way, too, and my back hurt so bad that I couldn't stoop over. My head ached like it would split and I would get so dizzy I had to hold to something to keep from falling. I lost sleep and weight and was completely down and out.

"Tanlac helped me so much that I was out of bed in three weeks' and now am a different man. All my troubles are entirely gone, I am back at work every day and do my work so easily I surprise the men who work with me. I never felt better in my life and I give Tanlac all the credit for my splendid health."

TO THE VOTERS OF NACOGDOCHES COUNTY

As the election is drawing nearer, and having no way to go over the county as I would like to—I am having this letter published.

I have done the best I could in the way of seeing everybody. I wish again to thank all the people for their vote in the first primary and I am asking your support in the second. I also ask the support of the candidates who will not be in the second primary and their friends.

I am badly crippled and cannot help it. Would to God that I was able-bodied so that I could do any kind of work; but I am not, and I have to live just the same as if I was able-bodied. Most everyone knows my condition. I have no way of living only as I can find something to do, such as office work. Some would say put the old man out and put the young man in. The young man's life is in the future and holds a good position. If you give the old man the office two more years; it gives me a living two more years and does not hurt the young man in the least, for he still holds his good position.

Mr. Buchanan would have you believe it was my fault in the delay in getting my bond made. It was not my fault. I did what the law required of me in getting the right amount subscribed on my bond when it was sent to Austin for approval, and it was sent back for a little change in the form, which caused a delay of several days. So I could not take my office until this was done. It was not my fault in the least.

Mr. Buchanan says in his letter to you that if he can get the office that he will make enough out of it to go into business and live in ease the rest of his life. I will say that it is more than I can get out of it, and I have lived very economical. You remember when I went into office it was war times; the high cost of living and increase in wages makes it very hard for me to save very much.

I bought myself a little home and am trying to pay for it. If the good people will give me the office for two more years it will enable me to pay for it and have my little home—a place to stay when I go out of office and my good wife and I, who are old, will remember that it was you who gave it to us.

I am asking the good people to give me the office one more term and I will retire to private life with a heart full of gratitude that I owe the good people of my own good old county.

Now, in this letter which I hope will reach all the people, both men and women, I ask all to help me on August 28th, for in doing so, you will help one that needs your help.

Again thanking you for all the past favors, I kindly and earnestly ask your help in the next primary.

And to the good ladies, I ask you to give me your help in the next primary on August 28th.

I am as ever,
Your friend,
J. C. Melton,
Candidate for Tax Collector.

DODSON WOULD STOP SALE OF CALOMEL

Says Calomel is Mercury and Acts Like Dynamite on Your Liver

Dodson is making a hard fight against calomel in the South. Every druggist has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason, Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist, Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist. A large bottle costs but a few cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel nauseated, sick and weak. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.

CLOSING OUT SALE

Elsewhere in this paper will be found the large advertisement of Ben T. Wilson's Ford Dealership of Nacogdoches, Texas, who is offering his entire stock of tires, tubes and various other accessories at surprisingly low prices. Mr. Wilson, who is the Authorized Ford Dealer for Nacogdoches county, Texas, who has been doing a wholesale business in automobile tires and accessories, but his Ford business has grown to such proportions that he has decided to discontinue everything, except the straight Ford business and is offering his entire stock to car owners at dealers prices, which range anywhere from 25 to 50 percent discount. Those desiring to purchase automobile tires, tube patching, spark plugs and various other accessories, can do so during this sale at sacrifice prices.

According to this advertisement, mail orders will be accepted.

NOTICE

Tucker-Smith Hospital takes this method of announcing to its friends and patrons that since its beginning, now more than two years ago, it has endeavored to give to its inmates and patrons a service of the best, and second to none, even in the larger and more elaborately equipped institutions. Besides, its buildings and equipment have been much improved at considerable cost, involving the institution in an indebtedness of more than $1,000. In order that we may ever be able to pay this note we must have the help of those whom we were kind enough to admit and leave the hospital without paying the fee or making any arrangements therefor. No other institution of this kind would do this for you; and after trying the plan many months, and involving us as above stated, the management takes this method of announcing to the public, and all concerned, that from this date, a deposit of at least one half the approximate fee, and the remainder on leaving the hospital, will be expected in all cases. It will expect all doctors who may bring or send patients, even in emergencies, to become responsible for the hospital fee, and when it is not paid on entrance, or definite arrangements therefor. The management must ask those who may have had the benefits of the hospital heretofore, and not paid the fee, particularly all emergency cases, such as railway injuries, machinery, etc., to settle same now, as the hospital is not able nor under any obligation to wait for these fees till suits in the courts are decided; which may be years, and never be.

So, don't be unthoughtful enough of us and our kindness to you and yours to make us wait longer for what you are due the hospital. And let all remember in the future to pay the hospital fee upon entering, or have it done.

Respectfully,
Tucker-Smith Hospital.
