DIPPING VAT QUESTION CAUSING MUCH ARGUMENT

The dipping vat question is causing much argument in the different communities over the county. County Judge Marshall is being besieged by swarms of men from various localities, asking him to explain the proposition thoroughly. It seems that there are several points on which none can agree. Some want the county to build the vats and tax the people for their payment, while the plan that the county is offering is that the county furnish the cement and the dip, while the different communities furnish the time and labor gratis. This, in the opinion of Judge Marshall, will lighten the burden tremendously for the county. Judge Marshall was frank to state Tuesday morning that for the county to be taxed for the vats would "bankrupt it." Now, in most of the localities, however, the people have agreed to the terms that the county furnish the cement and poison and the communities furnish the labor and time; but in others there is this sort of a proposition to face. The county insists that in the localities in which vats are already constructed that the owners of these vats turn over to the county gratis for the people of that neighborhood to dip their cattle in free of charge, the county proposing to furnish the dipping fluid. Naturally a storm of protest is meeting this sort of proposal, and the thing may have to be submitted to a vote yet. D. M. Kelley, who has in the Eden community a vat which he says he went to a great deal of trouble to equip according to the latest government specifications and also at a great expense, says that he thinks the county would be asking too much of him to throw open his vat to everyone to use free of charge. Mr. Kelley, says that he will permit dipping in his vat at a considerably reduced rate—enough to feel that he is not being imposed upon. No conclusions were arrived at Monday, and the problem still remains one to be debated. The arguments are growing out of a gigantic scheme the county has on foot to erect 75 or 80 dipping vats over the county in an effort to completely eradicate the tick from Nacogdoches county. Naturally the county wants to be able to do this as cheaply as possible, and as yet no satisfactory plan has been found by which this may be accomplished.

SINGING CONVENTION

The Nacogdoches County Singing Convention meets next Friday, Saturday and Sunday till noon with the New Hope singing class at New Hope church, three miles east of Nacogdoches on the Lower Melrose Road. Dinner will be served on the ground Saturday. The public is cordially invited, especially the singers. Several counties will be represented by their best singers, so come out and hear a song feast.

Business Training

"It appears to me," says the newcomer, "that those Blank boys are pretty good business men." "Yes," replied the old-timer, "their father taught them to do business through the bank, and they're always right up-to-now."

Remarks similar to the above were recently heard on the street, and serves to illustrate with what esteem the young man with the bank account is held. No better business training is obtainable than that acquired through dealing with the bank. We take special care with our young customers and give them every consideration possible.

NACOGDOCHES COUNTY EX-SOLDIER HIGHLY HONORED

It will be of interest to the many members of the American Legion of Nacogdoches county to know that they have in their midst a young man who perhaps has the highest honors in the way of decorations of any Nacogdoches county ex-soldier. The young man is ex-first-class private Rufus Warren, who hails from Douglass, having been born and reared out there. This estimable young man has a D. S. C. medal, which he prizes highest of all, being from his own country; a Croix de Guerre from the French government as a token for being "a model of endurance and energy, and although wounded insisting in following the advance of his company and not being forced down until after having receiving two additional wounds." He also has been awarded a Victoria Cross from England for desperate bravery. Ex-Private Warren joined the Baxter Duncan Post of the American Legion of Nacogdoches Monday.

Ex-Private Warren joined the army in 1918, and took training at San Antonio in the 90th division, and then went to France, landing there the 21st day of June. He first saw action the 21st day of August following. He was wounded November 1st in the Argonne Forest. "I received my first wound," said Mr. Warren, relating his experiences to the newspaper man Monday, "about 5 o'clock in the morning. Later while we were crossing a sort of a pasture, the time being about noon, I was struck by a piece of shell, in the side. Scarcely had I been struck by the fragment from the first shell, I was wounded almost identically in the same place by another shell. One of my companions insisted that I go immediately to the hospital, but I would not go until my commanding officer ordered me to go." He was also slightly gassed in the fight.

Private Warren was very highly spoken of in the Houston papers upon his return to America. He is a young man of splendid character. He is now engaged in helping build the good roads in Nacogdoches county. There is no other man, as far as we know, who has the decorations he has.

WILL IMPROVE BRIDGES

County Judge J. M. Marshall, some members of the commissioners' court and some of the bridge builders motored out on the Nacogdoches-Douglass road Tuesday morning to investigate the complaints being made to them concerning the extremely bad bridges spanning the streams between Nacogdoches and the river. It was found that the bridges are anything but satisfactory, and that new ones must be placed in their stead. For the most part, nearly all the bridges are strong enough, that is, their foundations are good, but the top of the bridges presented such an aspect that it positively terrified any woman or nervous person attempting to drive across one of them. It was decided to begin work as soon as possible on the bridges, getting them in better shape.

YOUNG MEN ARRESTED

Two of Lufkin's young men, both of prominent families, were arrested Saturday and landed in jail on a charge of having written anonymous letters to two young ladies of the city making some pretty serious remarks against them and demanding that they be given money to keep the matter from the public. The letters gave instructions, we are told, as just how the money should be sent and to whom the letters should be addressed. The letters were of course turned over to the parents of the girls, who in turn reported the matter to Officer Matthews. Prompt answers were made, one letter going to a rural route box near the city limits and the other registered in the Lufkin postoffice. It required but little watching to locate both and they were promptly arrested and are being held to await the arrival of federal officers on a charge of unlawfully using the mails.

The work of the young men was about as coarse as ever happened and just how they expected to get by with it is more than anyone can tell. They evidently figured that they would be able to collect some easy money right quick and leave town before they were caught.—Lufkin News.13th.

A PERFECT NACOGDOCHES COUNTY HOME AND FARM

Tuesday morning County Judge Marshall and some of the commissioners went out on the Nacogdoches-Douglass road, traveling to the river, to inspect the bad bridges, about which so much has been written recently, spanning the streams between Nacogdoches and the river. The reporter, scenting a story and some outing, went with the group, and the trip resulted in a very pleasant day.

The story of the bridges will be told elsewhere; in this space, the reporter wishes to tell about a perfect Nacogdoches county farm home and an almost perfect farm.

Arriving at Douglass, Mr. B. K. King, one of the prosperous farmers of that section, cordially invited the newspaper man to his home to "take dinner," and the invitation was promptly accepted. Mr. King is one of the oldest citizens of that vicinity, having lived there for 42 years, and he has not been idle a moment since he has been there, judging from the wonderful home he has.

Arriving at the home, the reporter was shown ever courteous, and soon dinner was served proving every way most delightful, consisting of fruit grown in his own orchard; buttermilk the milk coming from his own herd; delicious ham, raised on his farm; cakes, vegetables of all kinds and numerous other good things too numerous to mention here. Mrs. King spared no pains to make the repast as pleasant as possible.

After the splendid dinner, Mr. King took the reporter over his house, showing him the different features of it. It is built in the colonial style, has plenty of room, has a spacious hall, two nicely decorated parlors and befitting furniture. The house is equipped with gas lights, which may be "turned on" by merely pulling a cord. After showing the home, which is truly beautiful, Mr. King took the reporter out to see his farm. He first called attention to his barns. One of the barns is his "horse barn" and the other is the barn in which he keeps his cattle. In the lot in which these barns are located are several porkers walking lazily around, and Mr. King has all these swine familiarly named "Sam," "Pig," etc. They respond most affectionately to these names, seeming to appreciate their master very much. In the cow barn he has a large dipping vat protected from the weather. In this vat Mr. King dips his own cattle and hogs. Then he showed the reporter his cotton, his velvet beans, his pecan orchards, of which he has two, consisting of about 12 acres and about 150 trees; his peach orchards, his "potato patch," which he says will be producing potatoes in four weeks; his chickens, his horses and in fact everything along that line. Then attention was directed to his "park," and it is a real park too, being located east of his home, about 100 yards. In this park squirrels can any part of the day be seen playing among the trees, presenting a very beautiful sight. "When I want some squirrels for my dinner I just get my gun and go out there and get all I want," said Mr. King.

Mr. King raises his own fish, also. He has a pond which he built several years ago and which is now thoroughly stocked with good fish. This pond also furnishes his stock with water, and furnishes him watered with which to irrigate his garden, enabling him to have "vegetables all the year round." He has a portable gasoline engine, hitched to a good pump, and this gives him power and throw water to his barns and garden, a distance of 700 feet.

Mr. King took special pride in showing his cattle. He has two breeders from New York, which he ordered, and one from Wisconsin. He has 14 registered Shorthorns and three registered Herefords. Mr. King loves to show one especially fine Shorthorn bull he has which he says money could not buy. The animal is a beauty.

Then he has Poland China hogs galore. Poland China hogs everywhere grunting, contented and getting fatter and fatter.

In the farm on which his home is located there are 200 acres of land, some of which has been cultivated for 75 years, and the land has lost none of its fertility. Through his farm a creek flows, which offers advantages of all kinds, especially to his stock.

In the Angelina river bottom Mr. King has two farms, combined consisting of 650 acres. Three hundred and thirty acres of these two farms is a pasture in which a large number of cattle are kept. He raises cotton, corn, peanuts, sugar cane, potatoes—in fact, everything that can be grown on an East Texas farm, and he is daily adding to this list. "I came here 42 years ago," said Mr. King, "and I was a poor young man. I went to work, and while I feel that I have not so much, I am at least mighty proud of what I have. Belle," referring to his wife, "is one of the best little women in the world, and she has helped me to do all this." Mr. King has two cars, one a Ford and the other a Nash.

After all, it is only a lesson showing the young men of today who had better chances than possibly Mr. King what they might do in the future. It is food for thought.

FORTUNE SMILES

There is one Nacogdoches county man who is in the opinion of the writer one of the luckiest individuals that the Creator is letting live in the blessed old county at present. This man owns a large pasture, and keeps a large number of cattle in this pasture. Formerly, this man had to go to a well in the pasture and draw water for his stock. But with the coming of the road building campaign in this county, fortune changed for him. The road builders had to have gravel. This man's pasture had about as much gravel as grass—and there's where he made the killing. He made a contract with the builders of the road to furnish them gravel, charging them six cents a load. The gravel diggers went to work. Within three months, the man spoken of had a magnificent pond in his pasture, besides $1,500 or $2,000 in his credit in one of the local banks. And the man does not hesitate to admit the proposition was pretty soft. The luck some people do have!

A delegation of Nacogdoches and Douglass citizens met before the Commissioners' Court Monday morning and discussed the bad bridges laying over the streams between Nacogdoches and the river. County Judge Marshall said that he was advised that the bridges were in good condition, but the citizens who appeared before the court were not slow in convincing him that the bridges should be fixed. It seems that the bridges are strong enough, but are in such condition that women and children could not safely drive over them, they being so narrow. Dr. T. J. Blackwell, Geo. H. Matthews and H. L. McKnight were some of the men testifying that they were not in a fit condition, and that they should be replaced by better bridges. County Judge Marshall and the Commissioners will start an investigation and try to get them fixed.

It is hard to tell which is the most alike, Harvey or Sims.

MRS NANCY RUCKER

Editor Sentinel:

I write these few poor lines as a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Nancy Rucker, the news of whose death has just this moment reached me. She was among the very first people I knew back in days long since gone, at the old home in the hills between Melrose and Martinsville. She was the daughter of Uncle Mart and Aunt Betty Walker, who died many years ago and were laid to rest in the burial ground at old Cross Roads, where so many people of the olden days now repose in dreamless dust. In her earlier girlhood days she was a teacher in the literary branches and also of penmanship, being an expert of more than usual acquirement and skill in the latter. She was a granddaughter of Jonathan Swift, who with his daughter, Betty, a small girl, made the trip all the way from old Abbeville district, South Carolina, to Melrose in a two-horse wooden wheeled cart. This trip was made when there were hardly any roads, and no railroads, telegraphs or steamboats, and hardly any places where the traveler might stop and rest. Jonathan Swift and his little girl, the wife and mother being dead, made the long trip alone and joined the son and brother, W. H. Swift, the pioneer of all the Swift family at Melrose. Young Swift, full of adventure, like thousands of others in his day and time, had left the parental home in the old Tar Heel state and come to Texas to seek his fortune. The locality around Melrose suited his fancy and there he stopped, and by and by was married, and put up a small store. The daughter, Betty, married Martin Walker, and Mrs. Rucker, with four brothers, two of whom have been dead many years, was the result of the union. The two living brothers are Willis Walker of Swift and Charles H. Walker of Melrose. When gold was discovered in California, Martin Walker bade good-bye to his family at Melrose and walked all the way to the golden shores of the Pacific, going by way of New Orleans, thence up the Mississippi river to St. Joseph, Missouri, where with thousands of others, he joined a great caravan and made his way across the trackless plains. He worked hard in California five years, digging gold in the old fashioned way and then went home—by steamer around Cape Horn to New Orleans, and thence up the Red River to Natchitoches, and then over the Old San Antonio Road to Melrose, to his family. The life of Mrs. Rucker was a humble one. In her maturer years she married Dr. R. B. Rucker, who preceded her to the Land Beyond the River several years ago.

URGENT NEED OF OPTOMETRY LEGISLATION

The optometrists of the state will doubtless ask Governor Neff to submit to the legislature the bill which they have long tried to have enacted, and the governor will not find it easy to deny their request, reluctant as he naturally is to give that body more to do than it can readily accomplish during a thirty-day session. The situation brought about by the decision of the court of criminal appeals that optometrists may not lawfully engage in the business of fitting glasses creates an emergency in the most realistic sense of the word, and hence the subject is of the highest pertinence.

That an emergency has been created will hardly be denied by anyone. Several hundred men have been made to refrain from engaging in a business which was their means of livelihood. As a result they are made to suffer a grievous hardship and one which will continue with cumulative effect until some action shall be taken by the legislature. If no action should be taken during the forthcoming special session of that body the optometrists would be driven out of the state. That consequence alone supplies a sufficient, and even an imperative reason why the situation thus created by the decision of the court of criminal appeals should be brought to the consideration of the legislature at the earliest opportunity.

There is another reason, even more mandatory, because of the fact that it pertains to the welfare, not of a small number of optometrists, but of the people of the state generally. With the optometrists eliminated the number of men in the state who are at once authorized and competent to fit glasses is not large enough to render the service needed. All doctors are authorized to fit glasses under our law. But only a small percentage of doctors practice that out, and of those who practice it, a large percent of them are but ill qualified to practice it, and some not at all. It will result in practical effect, that to be assured of competent service in this highly important matter of having glasses fitted one will have to resort to the oculists. There are probably not enough oculists in the state to do all the work that will be needed, while it is hardly necessary to add that there are hundreds of communities where there are no oculists. It is manifest that the practical effect will be, if the situation brought about by the decision of the court of criminal appeals is long endured, that very many people will be made to suffer the serious ills which come from the use of ill fitted glasses. A condition more the preferable one. In that way demands correction at the earliest moment possible.

There are two ways of correcting it. One is to amend the medical practice act so as to make it expressly disavow the implication put upon it by the court of criminal appeals. The other is to enact a measure which recognizes, as the laws of all other states in the union do, optometry as a profession separate and distinct from the profession of medicine and to require those who engage in it to demonstrate their competence. Of the two ways, the last named one is of course much more the preferable one. In the way people would be saved from the maltreatment of itinerant glass peddlers who know nothing of the science of glass-fitting, although if the bill enacted should be the one heretofore proposed by the optometrists, men licensed to practice medicine would retain the privilege they now have to fit glasses without giving proof of their qualifications to render service. But if this cannot be done, for the lack of time, at least the time can be found to restore the condition which existed before the court of criminal appeals spoke. It is imperative that at least this much be done. Failure to do that much would compound the injustice that has already been done to the optometrists and inflict a very serious injury on the people of the state—Galveston News.

PERSONAL COST OF GOVERNMENT

The total cost of conducting the government is so huge that it can not be grasped and so is likely to be thought as a vague, impersonal thing, having little connection with the individual citizen. That cost becomes more realizable when it is reduced to a personal thing. Chairman Good, of the house appropriations committee, finds that the average cost of government to every person in the United States last year was $61.88. This is about $300 per family.

Some families pay more, in the form of income tax or otherwise, some pay less. The chances are that the head of the family who reads this comment is paying rather more than less because he is likely to be above the national average in income and consuming power. Nobody wholly escapes. The tax must be paid, and such part of it as is not handed over to Uncle Sam directly, is paid, in measure heaped up and running over, in the form of higher prices for commodities and services which themselves are subject to direct federal taxes.

How does this compare with past governmental expenses? Chairman Good reports that when Thomas Jefferson was president the cost was $1.52 per capita. By 1880 it had risen to $2.58 and the people had begun to complain of heavy taxation. In 1882 it was $5.50, and in 1916 it had grown to $10.11. As for war years, the average cost per capita during the Civil War was $25, and during the World War $115.07.

All sorts of instructive comparisons can be made, and conclusions drawn, from these figures. For instance, if this last war cost us nearly five times as much apiece per year as the great Civil War did, it is not impossible that the next war—if there is one, which we pray there will never be—will cost us proportionately as much more—say $500 apiece per year, or $2,500 per family. Or, seeing that we have come out of this war with a steady governmental cost of six times as much as we had when we went in, the new level of governmental expense at the close of the next war, should one occur, may be something like $360 a year per capita, or $1,855 a year per family.—Shreveport Journal.

ATTORNEY HALL'S STRIKING REVELATIONS

Fitzgerald Hall, counsel for the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, gave figures before the railroad labor board Tuesday, showing how railway compensation on his line was out of all proportion to compensation of men in other vocations.

Mr. Hall's manner of driving home his point was very effective, much more so than the testimony on the question of wages heretofore submitted. His predecessors have mentioned scales, percentages, overtimes, penalties, etc., but Mr. Hall took up specific cases, showing what each man draws in a year, and comparing his compensation with the pay of others.

Here was an engineer of a small branch line who draws $4,371.92 a year, and Mr. Hall added: "$371.92 more than the governor of Tennessee receives." That must have impressed former Governor Hooper, public member of the board, who had served four years in the Tennessee governorship.

High school teachers at points along the line were paid from $125 to $148 per month, said Mr. Hall, whereas blacksmiths and switchmen received $185.51 and $188.56 respectively.

Vanderbilt professors get $3,571, University of Tennessee $2,684, Georgia Tech $3,600. As against these the conductor on the Rome branch of 18 miles length, gets $5,735.88 a year, and the baggagemen more than the assistant professors.

Compared with compensation that is drawn by men engaged in occupations requiring longer hours, a much greater educational equipment, and as much or more expenditure of physical strength, the compensation cited by Mr. Hall appears out of reason, and is.

And the fact that such compensation is paid as a result of added burdens upon the public makes the case one of public importance.

No doubt the organizations which wrested these concessions under the unusual conditions of the war period thought they were drawing from the treasuries of the stockholders, but they are drawing from the pockets of the people, now all too heavily burdened by the swelling charges which the war has laid upon them.

Even other union labor leaders and even other union laborers, receiving but a small porportion of such compensation, must pay additionally out of their diminishing resources to keep these swollen wages effective.

Just to what extent the figures submitted by Mr. Hall are indicative of the general condition, the Post cannot say, but it is not unreasonable to suppose that they are not different from the wage scales prevalent in other systems.

Considering the ability, education, physical expenditure, experience or other incidents of eligibility for such service as Mr. Hall cited, the compensation paid—in view of business conditions, living standards, purchasing power of money and the general run of wage levels in other occupations—is unquestionably exorbitant, and just as unquestionably an unwarranted burden inflicted upon the country, its business and its individual citizens.

The only way such standards of pay could be maintained in the transportation industry without wrecking the roads would be by levying such charges as would still depress the earning power of all other workers, and materially lowering the standards of living.

It seems to the Post that all the railroad systems should adopt the method of Mr. Hall, at least to the extent of stating in specific terms what engineers, firemen, brakemen, switchmen, porters, conductors and others actually draw, so that the people can understand just what railway labor is paid, and just what overtime, penalties and fictitious and arbitrary charges add to the cost of operation. The pay of railway labor is neither independent or unrelated to all other compensations. It bears a certain relation to what men in other vocations are paid, and the readjustment now under way should not disregard this palpable truth.—Houston Post.

LET OLD BOSSY DO IT

Milk, besides being an ideal food, from the standpoint of nourishment, digestibility and cheapness has another quality that is overlooked by many. It is this: You don't have to broil it, boil it, fry it, bake it, steam it, smother it, or fricassee it. It requires no lemons, eggs, mayonnaise, or other trimmings to make it go. Just pour it from the clean bottle it comes in to the crystal goblet and it is ready. Nobody has to prepare it but old Bossy, and she uses a recipe that Mother Nature herself approves and superintends.

It is a food that requires no fire in the kitchen stove, no beating or mixing or stirring—old Bossy does it all.—Exchange.

BANK ROBBERS CAUGHT

Friday afternoon, June 3, the sheriff's department here was notified of the robbery of the Guaranty State Bank at Colmesneil. Help was wanted in this direction. Urged by prominent citizens of this place to go over there, R. D. Holliday, accompanied by L. C. Manning, Hardy Pervis and driven by John Armine, were soon on their way, going in by Chester.

They arrived at Colmesneil about daylight Saturday morning. Almost immediately taking up the train, Holliday trailed the robbers about two miles out of town. While doing this a man by the name of B. Abbot was arrested, who was suspected of being implicated. Manning and Pervis tracked the bandits about eight miles out of town on the Silsbee road to a large Bay-gaul where the trail was entirely lost. They were undecided as to whether the bandits had taken a car from there. Bloodhounds were coming from Trinity, so they agreed to wait for the dogs.

Holliday was all this time quizzing Abbot, but at first could draw nothing from him. After the occurrence of a minor accident that thoroughly frightened Abbot he agreed to lead Holliday to where he had last seen the robbers, which he did.

Holliday found the men lying down and they were caught with the words to "put 'em up!" except one who jumped behind a tree but upon being fired at, he, too, "put 'em up."

Manning, hearing the shots, rushed to Holliday's aid and reached him first; the crowd followed him. The robbers, M. Mitchell, J. C. McDow, J. R. Vance, of Beaumont; and B. Abbot of Colmesneil, were the men arrested.

The three men from Beaumont were brought to Livingston for safe keeping, as a mob had threatened them. All three men stated that they were urged and directed to do the deed by Abbot. They further stated that Holliday alone captured them.

Lee M. Feagan, cashier of the Colmesneil bank, was badly bruised while desperately defending the money of the bank, although not seriously. Only $1,900 was taken and practically all of that was returned.—Livingston Enterprise.

ACCIDENT STATISTICS

An American physician who has collected a mass of statistics regarding serious accidents on railways, in mines and factories, has put it on record that the dangerous period of the month is from the twentieth to the twenty-sixth. He declares that nearly half the bad accidents of the whole month occur during those seven days.

Mr. O. E. Strahan left Thursday for his home at McKinney, accompanied by Mrs. Strahan and the children. Mrs. Strahan, who had been quite ill for some time, was here as the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. C. Dickerson, and it is pleasing to note that she had almost entirely recovered.

THE W. O. W. CASE

Attorney S. M. Adams of this city received Thursday afternoon a telegram from General J. F. Wolters of Houston stating that the Woodman case wherein A. A. Seale, also of this city, was enjoined by Judge Ash from asserting any rights over the state as head consul had been reversed and remanded. This means, according to Mr. Adams, that the big dispute arising out of the convention at Houston about six months ago will have to be settled in the Sovereign Camp to be held at New York in July. Mr. Adams and Mr. Wolters are attorneys for Mr. Seale. It is understood the "insurgents" are putting up a big fight against the "royalists."

PUEBLO'S DEATH LIST STANDS AT FORTY-NINE

Pueblo, Colo., June 11.—The mortality list stood at 49 known dead today. Secretary Fall telegraphed that two engineers would be sent immediately to make a survey.

TO PREVENT TUBERCULOSIS

Austin, Texas, June 13.—In the body tissues of most men and women there lie imbedded little seedlike structures called tubercles which contain the germs of tuberculosis. These tubercles are surrounded by a wall composed of tissue somewhat like an ordinary scar.

So long as this wall holds the germs of disease are harmless. No one need be alarmed merely because he carries the germs or infection of tuberculosis in his system.

To prevent this wall from breaking and the deadly germs from setting up a disease process when the wall does break, good health and strong resistance, are so far as we know, the only safeguards.

The Texas Public Health Association gives the following suggestions which will be helpful to anyone for the sake of building up resistance to prevent tuberculosis.

1. Keep the body healthy and strong by living, working, sleeping and playing in the open air as much as possible.
2. Eat and drink only that kind of food that will build and make the body strong.
3. Work hard, but do not overwork.
4. Have yourself examined by a good doctor from top to toe at least once a year, whether you feel sick or not. The safest health insurance is a periodical physical examination.
5. Protect your health and the health of your fellows and community by avoiding careless spitting, sneezing and coughing. These things spread more disease than anything else.

TYPHUS AT TEMPLE

Austin, Texas, June 11.—A case of typhus at Temple was officially reported to the Health Department today.

Captain I. L. Sturdevant, president of the Stone Fort National Bank of this city, says that conditions are, to him, looking better than they were some time ago.

Capt. Sturdevant says that the recent rains have changed the aspect of the short cotton prospect, and that he thinks more cotton will be produced in Nacogdoches this year than was anticipated a short time ago. "We have better financial prospects in the future," Capt. Sturdevant said. "When asked when things would return to "normal," he stated that he did not feel like saying, inasmuch as he thought that the time was a long ways off. "I think that things will return to normal in a due course of time, but it will be a slow procedure." He was not very communicative on the oil situation, declaring substantially that he had adopted a "watchful waiting" attitude. He said he had no statements to make with reference to the roads of Nacogdoches county, as he was not in complete harmony with some of the plans to be used by the road managers.

Mr. J. F. Tartar, formerly connected with the deep test which is being put down at Attoyac, was in the city Monday, reporting things with the Attoyac well encouraging, but stating that he had sold out his interest in the well to Mr. Loverin, who is putting down a deep well at Cora. Mr. Tartar has been actively engaged in the oil business of Nacogdoches for a number of months.

COURT HOUSE MEETING GREAT SUCCESS THURSDAY NIGHT

Thursday night, as had been previously arranged, a large number of Nacogdoches citizens met at the court house for the purpose of hearing Mr. A. W. Birdwell, president of the Stephen F. Austin board of regents, deliver an address on some things vitally associated with the normal.

The first speaker of the occasion was superintendent of the Nacogdoches High School R. F. Davis, who called the house to order, told the purpose of the meeting, and then turned the meeting over to Mayor Middlebrook, who introduced the speaker. Mayor Middlebrook talked for about 10 minutes, expressing his delight that Nacogdoches had with it that night Mr. Birdwell. Mr. Middlebrook referred to Nacogdoches in some glowing terms, and predicted a great future for her.

The next speaker was Mr. Birdwell, who said that he was very glad to be in Nacogdoches on the occasion of the normal, and he said some very interesting things complimentary of Nacogdoches. He dealt with the normal situation, telling the people just what the normal meant, saying that it means a great deal to us. He called attention to the fact that the normal would build up Nacogdoches, would promote a better spirit here, would make Nacogdoches a better town, would add better citizens to her population, increase the intellectuality and promote better progress. He also discussed the need of such a normal in East Texas, saying that we very much needed one. He pointed out a number of other interesting features connected with the situation. Mr. Birdwell spoke for about 35 minutes and his talk was very interesting throughout.

At the close of Mr. Birdwell's talk, secretary of the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce, H. L. McKnight arose to the occasion, and told of the need of a committee of 15 men to help do some work, the nature of which he did not state, within the next few weeks. The required 15 men volunteered their services, and will consult Mr. McKnight later. Their names were not furnished the newspaper, but will be published later.

The meeting was interesting throughout, and was very instructive to many people not thoroughly versed in the normal situation.

TO PARDON THREE NEGROES

Austin, Texas, June 8.—Governor Neff announced late Tuesday that he will grant on June 19 pardons to three negro convicts as a result of his visit to the state farms. One of these convicts has been in prison 17 years. The governor said he personally investigated these cases.

During his administration, the governor said he has granted three furloughs and canceled seven. One of these was furloughed for 10 days and is now back in prison, another is now serving as a servant at the governor's mansion, and the third is temporarily with former Prison Commissioner Sam D. W. Low.

There are now 140 convicts out on parole, many of them being lifetime terms, the governor stated, and he proposes within a few days to cancel more than one-half of these. The governor added that he will now devote his attention to white convicts and grant pardons to those he finds worthy of executive clemency.

Cost of Barn Paint
A new way to figure it

Take a pencil and paper in one hand, and put down the cost per gallon. Take a brush and a half pint can of your paint. Now paint the side of your barn as far as the paint will go. Then measure the space, and mark it down.

Now take a half pint can of Lowe Brothers Barn Paint, and do the same thing. In doing it, compare the ease with which Lowe's spreads on, and how thoroughly it covers. Take particular notice of how you can brush it out so much farther than the other paint.

Now measure the space Lowe's covered. Compare it with the other.

After which, if you don't paint all your barns with Lowe Brothers Barn Paint, it will be because of some reason all your own.

Come in and get a color card. It's free.

No intimation of the impending marriage was given anyone previous to the occurrence, this making of course the news all the more interesting.

Mr. Perkins is a young man of sterling worth, having been a resident of Nacogdoches all his life. He is manager of the Nacogdoches Potato Curing Plant, which is making a success. He has always carried a most admirable record as a progressive young man, and has many friends who are not slow in predicting a very happy future for him.

LEGION'S COMMANDER KILLED IN SMASHUP

Indianapolis, Ind., June 9.—F. W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, was instantly killed and two other men were injured when an automobile in which they were riding went over a 20-foot embankment here early this morning.

Henry Ryan of Indianapolis, national director of Americanism of the American Legion, and Milton Foreman of Chicago, national committeeman of the legion from Illinois, were the other occupants of the car. They were not seriously hurt.

Details of the Tragedy.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 9.—The three men were returning to the city from the Country Club in the car of Henry J. Ryan of Indianapolis, national director of the legion's Americanism commission. The car failed to make a slight turn in the road and ran over the curbing across a sidewalk and turned over several times, landing at the foot of a 20-foot embankment. All three men were thrown clear of the car as it went down. Mr. Galbraith suffered a fractured skull and died en route to a hospital. The coroner who investigated said the wrecked machine showed a broken connection of the steering wheel. Galbraith was about 50 years old. He was elected national commander of the American Legion on September 29, last.

Foreman is the national committeeman of the legion for Illinois. Colonel Galbraith served as commander of the First Ohio National Guard at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, and subsequently was transferred to the 147th Infantry and embarked overseas in June, 1918. By leading his regiment through the German lines under fire he won the title of "The Fighting Colonel of the Fighting First."

Kaber, a wealthy Lakewood, Ohio, publisher, met death after attacking two foreigners engaged by Mrs. Kaber to pose as spirits to frighten him into a better attitude toward her, according to a statement the New York Evening World says Mrs. Kaber gave Chief of Police Christensen.

SHARK FISHING BECOMING IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

Victoria, B. C., June 9.—With the supply of raw material unlimited, an industry new to the country is flourishing at Parker Island, between Galina and Mayne Islands on the Gulf of Georgia. It is the business of catching sharks, and a week's catch at the beginning of May ran to eighty, with an average weight of over a ton each. Mr. Nelson MacDonald of this city, who operated the first shark catching machinery on the island, declares there will never be a shortage as there are millions in the waters surrounding the island. "In fact the further north you go the more sharks you will find and from here to Alaska are the feeding grounds," Mr. MacDonald said. "Taking them from the bottom of the sea is automatic. Norway has a hundred or such industries. The only real hook for catching them comes from there and the so-called cod-liver oil which invades the markets of the world, is really shark liver oil, manufactured in Norway."

Nothing is wasted in a shark plant. There is no finer fish-meat than that made from the bodies of the sharks. As a fertilizer it is superior to dog-fish. The head of the shark is full of glue or a highly valuable quality and glue of a highly valuable quality and delicacy, Orientals here paying as much as $3 a pound for it. The liver content runs from 60 to 70 percent of the finest oil of which about 10 percent is glycerine. Shark's teeth are in demand in many parts of the world and fetch a high price for the manufacture of ornaments. What bones there are, and they are few, go into the fertilizer part of the industry.

The greatest interest in this new industry is being manifested in the manufacture of hides. Several American companies have been formed and much research work is being done at present. The shark hides run from an inch in thickness to the consistency of paper in the baby shark. In Seattle they are manufacturing hip boots from shark hides and they are declared to be completely waterproof.

AMERICAN CANNED GOODS BOON TO FRENCH WOMEN

Paris, June 9.—The vast stock of canned foods left in France by the American army and now being sold to the public is proving a boon to the French housewife.

She is now able to go to her usual grocery store and buy canned goods—really canned in America, and containing labels in real English—at the price which is sometimes 300 percent cheaper than the same variety of food canned by the French.

String beans, salmon, tuna fish, corned beef, potted ham, combinations of vegetables and meat of various kinds and many others are now obtainable from the stock of things the American army left behind and sold to the French government.

Many of these things, pork and beans, for instance, were virtually unknown to the French until the American army came to France. All are products of the best known American packers and it is striking that the average French housewife says American canning methods are better than the French.

Brighton, England, June 9.—The question why the mackerel in the aquarium always swim from left to right round the rock in their tank and never vary the direction of their endless journey has puzzled many and even when the question was recently asked at a meeting of the Sussex Sea Fisheries Committee no one was able to supply the information. At a meeting of the committee the clerk offered a solution to the question.

He said he had received a letter from Mrs. Gilbert, of Greencastle, Pa., who said she had read an article in an American paper about this mystery. She was of the opinion that the reason for the one-way swimming of the mackerel was that they swim in harmony with nature, or, in other words, with the motion of the earth.

The letter has been sent to the British Board of Agriculture.

ATTACKS CONSTITUTIONALITY OF COMMERCE COMMISSION

Austin, Texas, June 11.—The attorney general's department received notice today from the United States Supreme Court that the court had granted the request of the department to file a suit attacking the constitutionality of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Railroad Labor Board of the federal government. The Supreme Court also said subpoenas had been issued to the two organizations requiring them to appear in court and defend the position which the suit attacks. The suit was filed June 6.

The State of Texas is plaintiff in the suit and is seeking to show that the two bodies are unconstitutional, and prays that both be adjudged illegal. It prays for the restraint of the enforcement of laws that interfere with the enforcement of the constitution of Texas and its laws regulating contracts and the constitutional rights of its citizens.

RANGERS AT PORT ARTHUR

Port Arthur, Texas, June 10.—Following repeated outbreaks of lawlessness, largely due to the presence in the city of large numbers of idle sailors, Mayor Logan has asked the governor to send Rangers to the city for the purpose of helping maintain order. Some have arrived and others will arrive in the near future to the number of possibly 20. They will act in harmony and under the direction of the local police.

DAMAGE TO BRIDGES AND HIGHWAYS $20,000,000

Denver, Colo., June 10.—That at least $20,000,000 will be required to repair the highways and bridges of the state as a result of the recent flood was estimated Thursday in a statement issued here by Major L. D. Blauvelt, state highway engineer, upon his return from an inspection tour of the Colorado Springs-Pueblo road districts. His estimate, he said, was also based upon reports of damage received at his office.

Loss to the Western Union Telegraph Company in the Pueblo flood area Thursday night was officially placed at $150,000, it being added that that figure might be increased by later reports of damage. The company, it was said, has 20 miles of line down between Pueblo and Canon City.

ANTS DESTROY BUILDING

Wichita, Kan., June 8.—Hordes of ants, driving upward from the earth through mud, tubes, are threatening destruction to the $100,000 exchange building at the stockyards here. Oak-ten lumber stored under the building had been practically consumed and the ants have driven their way up along pipe lines to the woodwork of the west end of the structure, which they have tunneled as far as the second floor.

Washington entomologists have identified the ravaging visitors as an Australian or South American ant which drives in armies, overwhelming in time any wood structure in its path. The cattle at the stock yards seem to be free of attacks.

An attempt to stop activities of the pests by placing fly paper in their path was frustrated when the ants built a dirt bridge across the obstruction and continued their operations. By insulating and shutting off the ants' return to the ground, it is hoped that the army can be exterminated.

RECOMMENDS CANAL PURCHASE

Washington, June 11.—Secretary Weeks has recommended the purchase by the government of the Cape Cod canal for $11,500,000.

If congress approves the purchase of the canal, the only appropriation required would be $5,500,000, less the cash now in the treasury accrued from the operation of the canal by the War Department since February, 1920.

HEALTH FOR HEART DISEASE

(Thursday Health Talk No. 8.)
(By R. W. Zilar, D. C.)

There is no more terrifying disease than heart trouble. The victim lives in constant fear of over-exertion. The emotion exhilaration of exercise is denied them. A child so afflicted is particularly unfortunate.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments restoring a normal flow of nerve impulses into the heart and adjacent muscles is a directly effective and scientific method of getting at troubles of this character.

CAN EXERCISE NOW

"About four months ago I was suffering with a very bad case of heart trouble. I could not play or exercise because of the effect it had on my heart.

"The principle of Chiropractic was explained to me and I tried it. I continued for sixty adjustments. Now I am taking plenty of exercise. The pounding that used to bother me has entirely disappeared.

"I consider Chiropractic a wonderful science."—R. E. Strocker, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1262S

House Owner: I had this paint put on last year and look at it now

Painter: It doesn't take long for the weather to show up poor paint.

House Owner: But how was I to know it was poor paint? I'm no paint expert.

Painter: It doesn't take a paint expert to get reliable paint these days—just ordinary intelligence. For instance, you ought to know that there is a Company of paint experts that have been making house paint for nearly fifty years; making it from accurate formulas, mixing and grinding it with powerful machinery; manufacturing every important ingredient; putting in just what all these years of experience have taught them is the best. That Company is the Sherwin-Williams Company and the paint is known to us painters as SWP. Wouldn't you be safe in trusting such a paint?

The painter is right, as we can prove by scores of house owners in this town. If you want your house to stay painted get SWP from us.

FELT LIKE AN IRON BAND AROUND HEAD

Mrs. Osborne Says She Shudders When She Thinks How She Suffered

"For years," said Mrs. V. B. Osborne, of 118 Lancaster Ave., Lexington, Ky., "I have been in a run down condition, nervous, weak and dizzy. I was actually so nervous that any sudden noise or excitement would produce a palpitation of my heart that frightened me. I absolutely could not climb stairs, for such an attempt would thoroughly exhaust me.

"I had nervous headaches and when they came on it seemed that an iron band was drawn tight around my head. I now shudder when I think of those headaches. My stomach was weak and I could not digest the lightest liquid food. Any food of a solid nature caused nausea and the sickening sensation remained for hours.

"My misery was almost unbearable. My sleep was never sound and I was worn out all the time. My condition indeed was a deplorable one. I finally sought treatment in Cincinnati, but nothing helped me one particle. I was on the verge of giving up in despair when a neighbor pleaded with me to try Tanlac. I obtained a bottle of the medicine and began to use it.

"I began improving at once and soon felt my nervousness and dizziness disappearing. Then my headaches left me and I realized my strength was returning. My appetite and digestion improved and I am now so much better in every way. This Tanlac is a wonderful medicine and the only one that has really ever helped me. I hope every poor woman who is suffering as I did will try it."

Tanlac is sold in Nacogdoches by Stripling, Haselwood & Company and Swift Bros. & Smith and in Garrison by the Dale Drug Company and all leading druggists.

Tyler, Texas, June 6, 1921

Nacogdoches Sentinel,
Nacogdoches, Texas,
Attention Mr. Giles Halton.

Dear Sir:

I am submitting the following to you for publication in your paper, if you will be so kind. I believe it will be of interest to my friends and acquaintances as well as to your many readers who are interested in education in general and business education in particular.

I am now attending the Tyler Commercial College at Tyler, Texas, and to my mind it is one of the most progressive business schools in the country. To a person attending a business school, or one contemplating doing so, the Tyler Commercial College should stand as a landmark of commercial education. For the past twenty years it has turned out graduates that can and do hold the responsible positions that are open to the properly trained young man or woman of the country.

In this school, the students become familiar with all the modern office machines that are taught in any school, and many that are a distinctive feature of the T. C. C. alone. Some of the office equipment that the student is taught to use are Mimeograph, Multigraph, Addressograph, Burrows Adding and Ledger-posting machines, filing equipment, etc.

One of the strongest courses offered by the school is the business administration and finance course. This gives training from an expert who has specialized in that line of work, and covers the fundamental subjects of real business education, such as Money and Banking, Credit and Collections, Real Estate, Salesmanship, Advertising and Economics, etc.

The Byrne Simplified Shorthand, entirely aside from the fact that it fully equips one to do stenographic work, is a great mind developer, giving a training to the mental faculties that no other kind of work could replace.

The bookkeeping is also thorough as it can be made, and is taught in such a practical way that the principles of the course are impressed on the student's mind so that they will stay with him. The other courses, Telegraphy, Cotton Classing, Penmanship, etc., all deserve special mention but I haven't the space here to describe them. But I should mention the social life of the school, the free entertainments for the students and the fine spirit of good-fellowship that exists in this great body of hundreds of ambitious young men and women from all over the country; it is an education simply to meet these fine young people.

I would like to meet some of my Nacogdoches friends here before I leave, and can honestly say that any who come will consider the time and money they spent on a course as the best investment they ever made.

Trusting that this letter will be of interest, and with best wishes to the Sentinel and its many readers, I am,
Very Respectfully,
Wilton A. Price.
