APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS APPROPRIATIONS

Austin, Texas, Aug. 1.—The joint appropriations committee passed an appropriation of $260,000 today for the reorganization of the Texas National Guard. This budget is exclusive of the adjutant general's departmental appropriation and is for each of the next two years.

In a message today the governor submitted the Kerrville Memorial Hospital, for which $1,500,000 was appropriated at the regular session. The governor pointed out that he did so at the request of the American Legion members of the legislature. The message stipulated that the matter was submitted for the purpose of amending the law of the regular session empowering the board of control to lease the hospital to the federal government so that the original purpose of the institution might be carried out. He did not mention the reduction in the appropriation. However, submission will allow a reduction if the legislature desires.

The joint committee completed today the departmental appropriation bills with the exception of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission.

Total appropriations by the board of control for the departments amount ed approximately to $2,500,000 for each of the next two years, but this was reduced by the committee by cutting out items.

DOESN'T SATISFY CHARLIE

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Charles Comisky, owner of the Chicago White Sox, declared today that the verdict freeing his former players from conspiracy did not change his stand that until they "cleared themselves" to his satisfaction he would have nothing to do with them.

WORLD'S GREATEST TENOR IS DEAD IN ITALY

Naples, Italy, Aug. 2.—Enrico Caruso, the world-famous tenor, died here today.

Death Follows Operation

London, Aug. 2.—Enrico Caruso underwent an operation Sunday, says a dispatch from Rome quoting the Naples message. Caruso was said to be extremely weak yesterday, the weakness of his heart necessitating an injection of camphor every two hours. The dispatch says the operation was for an abscess between the liver and diaphragm causing acute peritonitis. His wife and brother were at his bedside when the end came. The tenor until a week ago was recovering from a long illness, which began in New York last winter. He arrived at Naples Sunday night.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUER EJECTED FROM SENATE

Austin, Texas, Aug. 3.—Atticus Webb, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Texas, was ejected from the floor of the senate today at the instance of Senator Parr, who invoked Enforcement Rule 92 against visitors occupying the floor of the senate. The action was taken during consideration of the Burkett law enforcement bill.

STOLEN BONDS LOCATED

Chicago, Aug. 1.—The bonds of the Sinclair Oil Company which recently disappeared from New York and securities missing since the Toledo and Dearborn Station robberies were found today on the effects of the Central Securities Company, whose leaders, John Worthington and Owen Evans, were arrested yesterday by federal officers, it was announced today.

Seek Accomplices

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Federal agents today sought 20 persons charged with the John Worthington and Owen Evans for complicity in a mail robbery totaling $1,500,000.

FOR CLEAN BASEBALL

Chicago, July 3.—None of the American League players admitted last night of alleged conspiracy to throw a baseball game, no player that is a part of being named as organized will, according to a statement issued today by Judge Landis, be permitted to play in any of the venues of games here, yet that was a ball game, no player that is a part of a game, no player that sits in a conference with a bunch of crooked players and gamblers with a way of means of throwing games is allowed and does not tell his club captain "I will ever play professional ball."

NEGOTIATING RELIEF

Washington, Aug. 1.—Secretary Hoover today cabled Walter Lyman Brown, European director of the American Relief Administration, at London to proceed to Riga to negotiate with the Russian soviet authorities preparatory to food relief work in Russia.

AMERICANS RELEASED

Riga, Aug. 3.—American prisoners in Russia have already been released, according to unofficial reports at the bolshevik legation press bureau here today, but there was no word regarding the number released, or when or how or where. They are believed to be across the border.

EARTHQUAKE IN ITALY

Rome, Aug. 2.—The postoffice building at Bari, in Southeastern Italy, collapsed today as the result of an earth tremor. Eight bodies have been removed from the ruins. Others are reported killed and many wounded.

SMALL BACKS DOWN

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1.—Governor Small's supposed plan to proceed against the sheriff for false arrest upon him has been dropped, friends of the governor said today.

'PIRATE' VESSEL CAUGHT LOADED WITH LIQUORS

New York, Aug. 1.—The schooner Henry L. Marshall, with a cargo of liquor, was taken into custody last night four miles off the coast by the coastguard cutter Seneca and brought here today. The schooner was flying the British flag, but advices from the Seneca said there were no papers showing transfer to British registry. The schooner is listed as a fisherman, with 78 gross tons. Her home port is Gloucester, Mass. Recent reports from Atlantic City said she had been sighted off that coast and had been visited by numerous motor boats.

ENGLAND WILL FOLLOW ORIGINAL SUGGESTIONS

London, Aug. 2.—Great Britain has dropped her proposal to hold a preliminary conference on the Pacific questions and agreed to participate in the Washington conference as originally suggested by President Harding, it was learned here today.

The decision was reached after the exchange of conversations between London and Washington. Great Britain also agreed to the original date suggested—November 11. Doubt was expressed as to whether Premier Hughes of Australia and Premier Massey of New Zealand would be able to attend, but they will be represented by a British deputation, it was stated. The attendance of Lloyd George also depends upon circumstances, it was stated.

SHORT COTTON CROP ELEVATES PRICES

Washington, Aug. 1.—The decline in the cotton crop during July resulted in a reduction of 230,000 bales in the forecast of production issued today by the Department of Agriculture, the estimate being $200,000 bales. The condition in Texas is 52 percent of normal.

Three Dollars Advance

New Orleans, La., Aug. 1.—The lowest condition report of growing cotton ever made July 2 in 1917 percent normal and a forecast of the present crop in a quarter of a century resulted in a bulge in cotton of $3 per bale and more here today.

SEARCHING FOR LEAK

Washington, Aug. 3.—As the result of charges by Governor Allen of Kansas, a complete investigation of the affairs of the Internal Revenue Bureau was ordered by Commissioner Blair, in search of alleged tax leaks.

A marriage license was issued since last report to two of our Mexican citizens, Ignacio Reiss and Miss Cora Ramirez.

29TH ANNUAL MEETING KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

San Francisco, Aug. 1.—Special trains continue to file into this city, bearing delegates and visiting Knights of Columbus and their families from all parts of the United States and other countries of North America, to the 29th Annual Supreme Convention of the Knights of Columbus. The formal Supreme Council commences tomorrow, with a monster military parade on the principal streets of the city, including the army, navy, marine, American Legion and other units of patriotic, civic and fraternal organizations, among the participants; the citizens' committee of three hundred prominent professional and business men of San Francisco having charge of today's programme. The supreme officers and directors of the organization will be especially honored by the citizens of San Francisco, and by the officials of the army and navy, there being every preparation made to tender suitable honors to the visiting knights, due to the great war and post-war activities of the Knights of Columbus.

WILLING TO OPERATE ON AVAILABLE FUNDS

Austin, Texas, Aug. 3.—In a statement to the legislature today the Board of Regents of the State University expressed itself as willing to operate the institution upon such funds as the anticipated revenue of the state may enable the legislature to appropriate without doing injustice to the taxpayers or increasing the burden or depriving any other arm of the state's educational service of adequate means of support. The board however, declares this should be done without lessening the quality of the service the university is required to render under the constitution and statutory provisions applicable to the institution.

REASON FOR DELAY IN IRISH SETTLEMENT

Dublin, Aug. 3.—The sole reason for a delay in the E. O. Fin's reply to the government's terms of settlement proposals, it is authoritatively stated, is that an attempt is being made to secure the adhesion of Ulster to the peace plan before returning to negotiations with Lloyd George, as he could then be met by a united Ireland.

PATRICIDE ON TRIAL

W. W. Falls, Texas, Aug. 3.—Following the completion of a jury trial today the case of Henry J. Dussart, charged with the murder of his father here in February, the state today began the introduction of testimony, which included the confession of the defendant made the day following the killing.

AMERICAN LEGIONNAIRES EMBARK FOR FRANCE

New York, Aug. 3.—With the flag of the commander of the American Legion flying at the masthead, 250 Legionnaires are aboard the steamship George Washington, which sails today for Cherbourg and Bremen. The Legionnaires will disembark at the first-named port for a visit to the battlefields of France. The party includes men from every state.

HIGH INTEREST RATES CHARGED COTTON BANKS

Washington, Aug. 3.—Charges that the Federal Reserve Board made certain cotton banks pay 31 percent interest, and at times demanded even as high as 87 percent, were made today by John Skelton Williams, former comptroller of the currency before the congressional agricultural commission.

STYLES IN MOBBIING

It appears that when some folks in a town do not approve of the conduct of certain persons, they express their disapproval with tar and feathers. In Florida, in Texas, in Missouri tar parties have been held recently; the victims were of both sexes and the offenses charged were various.

This business of tarring and feathering is a variety of lynch law that should be vigorously suppressed. Nobody, and no body of private persons has the right to pass upon the conduct of other private persons and administer punishment of any sort, much less an unpleasant application of sticky tar and clanging feathers. One phase of what must be admitted is a wave of recrudescence of lawlessness in this country has taken the form of efforts of private persons to correct what they think is misconduct on the part of other private persons. It is just as unlawful to apply a coat of tar and feathers as it is to rob a store or to hold up a citizen and rob him of his wallet. Yet some persons seem to think that they are doing a community a good deed, or making things right generally, when they have a tar party.

Tar is in style at this time and when anybody needs "straightening out" it seems to be customary to do it with tar. A few of those tar entertainers ought to be given a sample of their own entertainment, legally, as an example for others who may be attracted by the new craze.

A LARGER CONGRESS

Congress has before it a compromise to meet the requirements of a change in membership of the house following the last census. Instead of providing a body of 483 members, as was suggested to avoid reducing the delegation of any state, a committee has recommended a house of 460 instead of the present 435.

This smaller number is still much larger than the 300 advocated by those who realize that the size of the present body is unwieldy and ought to be reduced in the interest of prompt handling of the public business. It is easy to sympathize with those desiring a smaller assembly. Any person familiar with the time waste in large deliberative bodies can appreciate that congress needs reorganization rather than expansion in size. So long as the units of representation are uniform, it makes little difference what the number is. All that the lower house at Washington needs to be is representative and responsive. Once that could be reduced in size with no advantage in favor of expediency, it is a matter of the public business.

THE GOVERNOR'S WISE COURSE

Whatever may be the merits of the various policies Governor Neff is urging upon the legislature, friends and foes alike must agree that the governor followed a wise and patriotic course when he requested the authors of the resolution for a vote of confidence in him to withdraw it from consideration by the legislature.

What is intended as an act of friendship, the resolution is undesirable for one reason because it is unnecessary. The governor of Texas does not stand or fall by the favor or disfavor of the legislature, as the prime minister of France or Britain is dependent on the support of their parliaments for their tenure of leadership. Governor Neff might conceivably lack the confidence of every member of the legislature and still remain as governor, and still have the confidence to the people, not the legislature.

He is at the head of a separate and distinct branch of the government and what another branch thinks of him personally is not a matter of official moment. The governor is responsible to the people, not the legislature.

These considerations might be waived for the sake of courtesy in an ordinary time, but with some members of the legislature in their present attitude toward the governor, it is clearly undesirable to make the governor's personality an issue in the legislature. There is no surer way to get a legislative body to do nothing than to get it in a wrangle over the personality of the executive.

The experience of congress during the last session when President Wilson was the issue bears strong testimony to the unwisdom of such a course. The bitter opposition to the president on the one hand and the unflinching loyalty of his supporters on the other hand created a deadlock which brought grievous ills over the country, by postponing the settlement of problems demanding solution at the time.

It is bad enough to have the governor as an unofficial issue between legislators. If he should be gotten before them officially, the ensuing partisan wrangling would displace necessary work by the legislature.

The governor is right when he said the legislature was not called to "discuss me." The measures he offers ought to be considered on their merits and not according to the opinions the members may have of the governor submitting them. The governor has placed the state under obligation to him for declining to let himself be a football for the legislature, and for suggesting that the body get down to work on the serious business before it. —Houston Post.

ANOTHER FIZZLE AT WASHINGTON

Senator Penrose doubts whether national government expense or taxation can be reduced very much. "When congress met there were hopes of economy and of reducing government expenditures," he says, "but I do not now look for any radical changes in the tax system."

Once again the administration sings its swan song. Along about last fall all the people had to do was to elect Harding, peace would be proclaimed, prosperity would force itself upon the nation, taxes would come down, the cost of living with them, there would be no rain on picnic days, there would be moonlight for lovers every night in the month and the chestnut blight and boll weevil would disappear.

It is appropriate that a confession of failure should come from Penrose. It was he who in a roaring voice called upon President Wilson at Paris to convoke a special session of a republican congress to reduce the taxes. Mr. Wilson did, and made recommendations for a reduced tax system in accord with a peace basis. The president said that the tax system hurriedly constructed to meet war emergencies was unsuited for normal times.

A republican congress met and another met and now a third is in session without having taken any action whatever either of their own initiative or that of Mr. Wilson. Another confession is it that the great "constructive" republican party cannot improve another Wilson policy which he himself said ought to be adjusted to meet new conditions.

RUSSIA'S FLIGHT

Reports from Lemberg, by way of Berlin, are to the effect that the Soviet government of Russia is about to send Maxim Gorky on a mission to London and Washington to behalf of the stricken country that once was the great Muscovite empire. Gorky, within the last few days, issued an appeal addressed "to all honest men," stating that the drought and the plague are killing millions in Russia and that "Europe and America must bring us immediate aid." Now the government of Lenine and Trotzky is said to have made confidential overtures to America in order to obtain help that is urgently needed if conditions are as bad as reports describe. The unfortunate country is said to be in the throes of horrors even worse than those ascribed to the revolution itself, with transportation paralyzed and industries closed due to feebleness of workers.

Such a result of Russia's surrender to the Godless schemes of its modern oppressors might have been foreseen. Russia needs to stop its warfare, for which there is no excuse except for the desire of Lenine and Trotzky and their ilk to spread their vile power. It needs to establish freedom of thought and political liberty, demand for which was the basis of its revolution against czarism. It needs an unfettered constitutional government also. Then if its citizens really want to set up a communist state they could do so.

Communism no more than autocracy, can be tyrannical and survive; failure to recognize that fact is what is causing Russia's present trouble. Disease and famine are but the natural results of a disorder of internal organization which has rendered its people powerless to help themselves.

Humanity will require that Russia gets all the aid she needs and will permit her suffering population to receive, but the relief will come more quickly if it is preceded by a political change in that country that will permit such liberty of action as should prevail in a democracy.

A HERO STILL

Two years ago the country rang with laudation of the exploit of Sergt. Alvin C. York. He was the greatest individual hero of the war and was loaded with decorations, congress pausing to award him the rare prize of the Medal of Honor, a distinction

Do you know you can roll 50 good cigarettes for 10 cts from one bag of valued more highly than the Victoria Cross in another land.

A Tennessee mountaineer who had entered the army reluctantly because of conscientious scruples. Placed in a position almost hopeless, he shot his way to safety, at the same time rescuing his companions and capturing a lot of prisoners. Once his exploit became known he sprang into fame. With it all he was unaffected. He went to his Tennessee home, married and settled down.

However, it appears that affairs have not gone well with him. His mountain home had a mortgage on it and he was unable to keep up his payments. The other day he was evicted and he left his little cabin with his wife and babies to seek a job as a laborer. His fame as a hero, his medals and other decorations have not assisted him in the prosy yet not unheroic task of earning a living for himself and his little family. It may seem that there is something wrong with the situation, that a man who was able to meet an emergency and triumph over it should merit a better fate.

Notwithstanding his failure to meet his obligations there is something of the hero about his actions. He never tried to capitalize his exploits. He might have made money in the movies. He did not assume a pose of take the position that the government owed him a living. So far as could be observed he was the same simple-minded mountaineer after he became famous as he was when unknown outside his native hills. In the news item that tells of his misfortune, there is no appeal for sympathy or lament over his failure. It is a matter-of-fact statement that he went to hunt for a job as a day laborer.

That, too, is heroic, though of a common sort. Having failed at one thing he goes to find something else. It is a kind of heroism that is exhibited by many who never slew Germans by the score, yet it demonstrates real manhood. Republics are ungrateful, perhaps, but the real hero asks for no favor, but meets circumstances as they rise and without complaint.

As ludicrous, perhaps, as an old misconception some skeptical folks used to have about advertising.

There was a time, when some advertisements had to be taken with a grain of salt. A few misguided advertisers thought they could sell their goods better by misrepresenting them. Those advertisers have long since gone out of business or mended their ways. Hard experience taught that untruthful advertising didn't pay.

Other advertisers proved that the only way to advertise successfully, make regular customers, and build up good will was to tell the absolute truth about their advertisements.

You can depend on the merchant or manufacturer who advertises. The concern that tells you frankly what it is doing is a good concern with which to do business. The store that advertises is a progressive store that has something really worthwhile to say to you. And companies that advertise their products or their service have confidence in them. You can safely share their confidence.

Inferior merchandise cannot masquerade in the quality clothes of advertising.

CHOICE ITALIAN QUEENS IN PROSPECT

Owing to improvement in the weather conditions, the State Experimental Apiary at San Antonio has a fine prospect to rear an unexpected extra supply of probably 150 purebred untested Three Band Italian Queen bees for distribution to Texas apiaries wishing to breed up their colonies, according to Dr. M. C. Tanquary, chief of the Division of Entomology, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, A. & M. College, at College Station. To insure as fair and general distribution as possible, Dr. Tanquary states that it has been necessary to supply any one apiary not more than 3 queens on orders he receives.

LOUISIANA K. K. K. OPPOSED TO LAWLESSNESS

From the Shreveport Journal. That the Ku Klux Klan does not stand for acts of lawlessness, but is an order for the purpose of assisting legally constituted authorities in maintenance of law and order, is set forth in a statement received Wednesday by The Journal. The statement follows.

"It has come to our attention that some individuals have been operating in the name of our organization who have no connection whatever with the Ku Klux Klan. They are irresponsible and we wish to assist in their detection and prosecution. Therefore, a reward of $500 will be offered for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of any person or persons guilty of acts of violence or of sending or posting anonymous communications bearing the name or initials of the Ku Klux Klan.

"We do not approve of such acts, and will gladly pay the above-mentioned reward for the information desired.

the enforcement of all laws without fear or favor. It recognizes, however, that situations frequently arise where no existing law offers a remedy. It hopes to see such conditions remedied by the power of public opinion and the enactment and enforcement of proper laws.

"This organization further believes that the certainty of perpetuating American liberties lies in the solid support of our public school system adding thereto love of country and veneration for the Deity. With this in view it wants to see an American flag raised each day with appropriate ceremonies over every public school house in the state, and each pupil in those schools instructed in the principles of morality. We believe in enactment of a statute to that effect."

GARRISON BOYS ARRESTED

Three young men from Garrison were placed under arrest by Constable W. L. Thomason yesterday on a charge of having stolen the body of a Ford car belonging to W. T. Burton. According to information, it is alleged that the boys came to Timpson Wednesday night on a truck, and about 10 o'clock loaded the property on the truck and returned to Garrison. Nightwatchman Burkhalter noticed the boys leaving town, and their actions aroused his suspicions, and an investigation disclosed the alleged theft which led to the arrest of the young men. The boys were placed in the calaboose here yesterday and upon failure to make bond were taken to the Shelby county jail.—Timpson Times, 29th.

NORMAL BILL PASSES SENATE

Wednesday, by a vote of 21 to 7, the bill appropriating $190,000 for the Stephen F. Austin normal passed the state senate. It has yet to run the gauntlet of the lower house, but the friends of the measure are very hopeful of its success in that body. The matter will then be up to Governor Neff, and it is hoped economy campaign may not prompt him to veto the measure. The delegation at the capital from Nacogdoches are apparently cheerful over the prospect of a favorable outcome.

LIVELY LUFKIN

Passengers on the north-bound E. & W. train Saturday afternoon report that just as they pulled into Lufkin a shot was heard, followed shortly by another. Information was that a colored man had started on the warpath to wreak vengeance on a supposed enemy, but his first shot killed the wrong man. The right party soon appeared, however, and he was promptly and effectually put out of the way also. The train departed just as the officers were marching the slayer to jail, so no particulars could be obtained. Lufkin surely is one lively town!

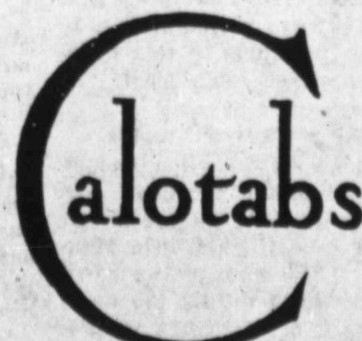

NORMAL WORKERS HAVE RETURNED FROM AUSTIN

Mr. W. S. Davis returned Friday afternoon from Austin, having been preceded Thursday by Messrs. Frank Sharpe and T. E. Baker, the three gentlemen having been at the capital in the interest of the Stephen F. Austin Normal. The normal appropriation bill passed the senate by a large majority, but we infer from what the gentlemen say that the measure will probably run into shoal water when it comes up in the house of representatives, where an economy mania seems to be running amuck. It appears to make little difference to the average representative what losses may be entailed in the future so a dollar may be saved now. The educational institutions of the state seem to be meat for these misguided and expensive economists. The salaries of educators have been cut to the danger point, building programs consigned to the scrap-heap and advancement in educational progress halted. Some way may be found to evade these onslaughts upon the state's progress, but it's going to be a hard fight.

Superintendent R. F. Davis, who has been in Austin working for the normal since the assembling of the appropriations committees prior to the meeting of the special session, remained on the job and will stick to his guns to the last. He is said to be doing splendid work for the proposed normal. His wide acquaintance with the members of the legislature enables him to get down to bedrock, and if anybody could help us in the fight, he would be able to do it. More power to him.

LOCAL BALL PLAYER SUSTAINS BROKEN LEG

The Nacogdoches baseball team received a serious setback Thursday afternoon when F. A. Robertson, one of its best all-around men, broke the small bone in his right leg near the ankle while sliding to second.

The unfortunate man was removed to his home at Maytown after the fracture had been reduced, and reports state he was resting well Friday morning.

His team-mates and the public generally sympathize with Mr. Robertson in his misfortune, which puts him out of the game for the remainder of the season.

DR. ZILAR ACQUITTED

The case of the State of Texas vs. Dr. R. W. Zilar has attracted a great deal of attention in the county court this week. This case is one of several cases filed against Dr. Zilar by the county attorney. Defendant was represented by ex-Governor Thomas Morris of Wisconsin, who is employed by the National Chiropractic Association, assisted by V. E. Middlebrook and C. C. Watson. The state was represented by County Attorney Audley Harris, assisted by S. M. Adams. All of Tuesday and a part of Wednesday was consumed in legal arguments on technical questions raised by defendant's counsel. Every conceivable question was raised on the complaints and questions of evidence and the arguments and presentation of cases were listened to by a packed house. The debate over law questions resulted in a victory for the state but the jury said not guilty by their verdict.

The laws of Texas provide that it shall be unlawful for any person to practice medicine upon a human being without first having filed with the district clerk a diploma from a duly accredited medical college, or a certificate from a duly authorized board of medical examiners, and further provides that the treatment of a human being for any disease, mental or physical, by any character or method, is practicing medicine. Chiropractors are being prosecuted all over Texas for plying their vocation. Continuances were taken to the November term of district court in 51 cases against Dr. Zilar.

INJUNCTION DISSOLVED

The temporary injunction secured by the jitney car drivers of the city, in the name of Snip Monzingo, to prevent the enforcement of the city ordinance fixing bond and tax for such enterprises, was dissolved Saturday morning by Judge L. D. Guinn at a special term held in this city to pass upon the case.

When court opened Attorney S. M. Adams for the plaintiff, reported now ready for trial and moved for a continuance till next Saturday. Judge Guinn overruled this motion and ordered the case to trial.

Judge S. W. Blount, for the city, announced ready, and the case was argued pro and con. After the lawyers had presented their arguments the court dissolved the injunction, whereupon plaintiffs gave notice of an appeal to the court of civil appeals, and Judge Guinn fixed the appeal bond at $1,000.

BURGLARY AT GARRISON

A burglary was reported Wednesday from Garrison, the crime occurring Tuesday night. Full particulars are not available at this time, but it is said that quite a haul was made. Our information is that the Davis Mercantile Company suffered a loss of $1,000 in cash. No clue to the perpetrators of the robbery has been found at latest accounts.

The Garrison News of this week publishes the following account of the robbery:

"Some time Monday night yeggmen broke into the store of J. P. Davis, broke the combination of his iron safe with an axe and other implements picked up, and cleared the receptacle of its contents, getting away with a sum of money variously estimated about one thousand dollars, together with some notes, papers, etc.

"Some of the papers, together with boxes in which they and some of the money were kept, were picked up down the street leading south, but at the time this report was prepared no clue had been found which would lead to the identity of the yeggmen.

"Sheriff Woodlan and one of his deputies came up from Nacogdoches to assist local officers in the investigation."

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Blount left Friday for Dallas, where they will board a special train of bankers bound for Yellowstone National Park. They will make an inspection of all cattle, farms and irrigation projects they pass between Dallas and the Yellowstone National Park.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT

Large crowds from Nacogdoches and the surrounding towns thronged North Church Thursday evening to do their share in remodeling the old church.

About $114 were taken in in all. Sandwiches, ice cream and cold drinks were sold and sold until there were no more to sell.

The most interesting event of the evening was the selling of the quilt. Mr. Robert Lindsey auctioned it off to the highest bidder. It went to Mr. W. Y. Barry for $25. Mr. Barry then said since it was for a good cause and a cause in which he was very interested he was going to give it back to the church to be sold again. The quilt was then sold to Mr. Muckleroy for $18. The ladies who made the quilt have been spending their spare time lately putting names on it at ten cents a name, which brought in over $20.

Everyone who attended says they had a splendid time. The ladies of the North Church community wish to thank the people of Nacogdoches for their kind attendance and donations.

CLOSE CALL FROM LIGHTNING

Mr. Jim Allen, who resides on one of Mr. W. P. Wood's farms a few miles west of the city, was a near victim of lightning Thursday evening of last week during the thunder storm. Mr. Allen was milking his cow and had just completed the task and arose and started to the house, when a bright flash of lightning came that staggered him considerably somewhat dazing him. When he recovered fully, he discovered that the pail of milk he was carrying had dropped to the ground, and while there was no hole in the bucket, neither did the same overturn, yet not a drop of milk was to be found, and no signs of any upon the ground—it just simply vanished. Mr. Allen was considerably scorched on the right side and the heel of his right shoe was torn off. The probably reason that Mr. Allen was not killed outright was due to the fact that he was wearing a rubber coat at the time, which acted as an insulator.—San Augustine Tribune.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Easty Bernice Rusk (nee White) was born July 11th, 1898, near Shady Grove, Nacogdoches county, Texas. Bernice was happily converted and baptized into the Fellowship of Shady Grove Baptist Church, together with 13 other happy converts, by Rev. McCall in 1914.

Bernice was happily married to Mr. T. L. Rusk (a descendant of the noted pioneer Rusk family of Nacogdoches) August 8th, 1920, and died at her home in Beaumont, June 25th, 1921, and was brought back to the old home at Shady Grove for burial. The services were conducted by the Pastor, Rev. Mr. Eaves, assisted by W. L. Heflin. She leaves a heart-broken husband and a precious babe, Audrey Ellen, also a grief stricken father and mother 4 brothers and 2 sisters to mourn their loss, but our loss is Heaven's gain, for she spent her life after her conversion in the Master's cause, being active in all church work. She was dearly loved and appreciated by the church and community at large. Her last thought were in regard to the salvation of her husband, that one to whom she had trusted as her protector, having become one flesh in bonds of matrimony, and she was made happy to hear him say, "I am giving my heart and life to the Lord because I love him and you so dearly."

Her last words to her mother and others standing around her bed while Jesus was gently leading the departing spirit to its final home were "All is well with me, my future is bright, take care of my dear little babe."

Yes, sweet Bernice is gone and our hearts are sad, but we bow with humble submission to God's will, knowing He doeth all things well. We are looking forward with joyful anticipation when we shall look upon the form we loved here in the flesh which will then appear in the beautiful resurrected body made like unto the glorious body of Christ, our Lord, to participate in the blessings of our endless life. Yes, Bernice awaits loved ones to follow on.

Written by a loving friend and brother of Christ.

Deceased was a daughter of A. J. and Emeline Gardner and she was born in Stewart county, Tennessee, December 8, 1843. She was united in marriage to R. T. Buchanan on January 7, 1864; moved to Alabama in 1880 and to Marion county, Texas, in 1883, coming to Nacogdoches in 1914. Six sons were born to this union, four of whom survive. They are J. H., A. J., Ed and Lucien, all of whom reside in Nacogdoches. There are 15 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

She united with the Christian church about 45 years ago, and was a steadfast follower of the Lord to the day of her death.

The reward of the faithful will be hers.

Mrs. J. H. Greene of Dallas is in the city for a visit with her sister, Mrs. George Collier.

THE CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

To those whose primary and grammar school days fell in the early '90s or still farther back it often seems as if the school of today did its work less effectively than did its forerunner. By introducing what seems to older people a lot of non-essential subjects to study the school seems to find itself unable to put emphasis on the essentials. School teachers may argue and show with elaborate logic and facts that there is proof of this assertion; that it arises out of a tendency on the part of older people to see the past in more roseate colors than those in which the present appears to them, and that a more intimate acquaintance in schools of today would soon dispel this illusion. But it is to little avail. The belief will not down that the little red school house was more efficient than its larger and more elaborately equipped successor of today.

To those for whom a fact is a fact, no matter in which way it points, some information recently brought out will be illuminating. In the matter of that much-gnawed bone of contention, the three R's, we have come upon some facts which furnish opportunity for comparison. An examination given to the school children of Boston in 1845 was recently put to the school children in various communities in the United States. The results show the marked superiority of the pupils of the present day in their power to deal intelligently with situations calling for thought and judgment.

It must not be forgotten either that in the home the parent who means to do his duty by his children, is finding that task more complicated than did an older generation. At the very time when they thought they were doing their level best by their offspring, what parents have not heard from someone who has no children the admonishing remark, "When I was a child, my parents didn't allow me to run wild like that."

The widening of the school curriculum has its origin in the growing complexity of modern life. It does not mean a lack of emphasis on essentials; it means only that in his preparation for life the pupil must be taught a greater variety of subjects than was the case formerly.

PREPAREDNESS CAMPAIGN 1921-1924

The Democratic National Committee has inaugurated what is known as the Preparedness Campaign 1921-24 and invites the co-operation of Democrats throughout the nation. The measure of success of the campaign will depend upon the response it receives in the way of financial contributions from the rank and file in the party.

The Democratic National Committee wishes every democrat in the country, men and women, to have and to feel an interest in the campaign to restore our party to power, because the committee is working in the interests of the party as a whole and for the general good of the country.

To carry on its Preparedness Campaign effectively the National Committee must have adequate funds. It cannot appeal to the interests enjoying special privileges, as the Republicans do; it cannot ask a few Democrats of large means to bear more than their fair proportion of expense; it must therefore make its appeal to the great body of Democrats who make up our party, who give it its victories and control its destiny. You are one of that great body of Democrats. It is your party as much as the party of any other Democrat, rich or poor, of whatever station in life.

It is not necessary to remind Democrats of their duty to their party or their country. It is only necessary on occasions to point out to them the ways and means by which they can perform that duty.

Whatever contributions you are willing to make to the Democratic Preparedness Campaign 1921-24 will be of double value if made now because the great opportunity of the party is in the present when the Republican party is making a record of failure all along the line.

No set amount is asked from any one person, but only such an amount as is within their present means and inclination, large or small. Contributions will be promptly acknowledged. The time to lay the foundation for success in the next congressional and the next National Campaign is NOW. Checks and money orders should be made payable to Wilbur W. Marsh, Treasurer, Democratic National Committee, 441 Woodward Building, Washington, D. C.

PREPAREDNESS IS ONE-HALF THE BATTLE.

HAYS' THEORY IN PRACTICE

Postmaster General Hays took office chanting that the postoffice department was dedicated to service, not politics. He demonstrated the latter by rigging the civil service rules of President Wilson so that not the high man in an examination but any of the three leaders might get the postmasterships, thus making reasonably certain that a Republican could land at least third from the top and still land the postoffice.

Having extirpated politics, he now introduces service by increasing the special delivery fee from 10 cents to 25 cents. Undoubtedly his theory is that service comes high (to the public) but Mr. Hays must have it. Mr. Hays announced his decision "on the supposition that the general public will prefer to pay the higher charge for better service". The general public's preferences are not likely to head in the direction of higher postal fees for a service that is now taxed quite enough.

Not a great deal of complaint is heard of special delivery letters subject to delay. Criticism is directed to special delivery parcels which might be expedited if proper study were given to the task. Boosting the fee means more revenue for somebody. Is it to go back into the general treasury or are the poor railroads to be given more money for transporting the mails?

A DYING CITY

Under the rule of the czar the city of St. Petersburg, as it was then known, was one of the grandest and most prosperous of European capitals. Nor was prosperity the exclusive possession of the nobles and aristocrats who crowded about the court. The presence of the royal family gave the appearance of brilliancy and no doubt helped certain kinds of trade, but the city's commerce was founded on a firmer basis. There was a great, substantial, well-to-do middle class of shopkeepers and professional men. St. Petersburg had a population of over 2,000,000. Today it has less than 700,000. There are only one-sixth as many factories in operation as was the case before the war. People who are able to do so are fleeing the place as if from the plague. Petrograd is a dying city. What has brought about the terrible change?

As all the world knows, Petrograd is like a patient that has fallen into the hands of quack doctors. They sought to revive it with remedies under such fancy names as "sovietism" and "communism" that proved far worse than the disease. Now, according to a dispatch from Reval, the Russian soviet council of labor and defense has decided to take "urgent steps" to revive the dying patient. Petrograd is to be given "preferential privileges" in regard to fuel and transport and a special district is to be established from which food supplies shall be drawn for its exclusive use.

All Russia has been ordered to go to the relief of Petrograd in the matter of food and fuel supplies. Then, it is hoped, it will be easier to induce people to live there. Settlers in Petrograd will require something more than assurance of "food and raiment". Unless there is an entirely new political policy, substituting the democratic doctrine of equal rights and privileges for all in place of the present system, which means virtual slavery for the workingman, Petrograd need not hope to attract new residents.

THE JEWISH WAR RECORD

A review of the war records of New York City is said to show that more Cohens than men of any other name were enrolled in the army and navy from that city.

The record reveals primarily the tremendous Jewish population of New York. But what is of more importance to both the Jewish people themselves and to the country, is the evidence of the Americanization of the Jews in New York. Manifestly, the Jew is not a hyphenate. Although clinging tenaciously to his religious tenets, he does not retain allegiance to a foreign country when he comes to America. It is no idle distinction for the Jews that they furnished the largest number of men of a good old Jewish name to America's military forces from the largest city in America. It is a matter of which they may be pardonably proud.

A perusal of the war records of the Jewish people of America might be illuminative to some of those interests which are conducting anti-Jew propaganda at this time, and a more general understanding of the loyal way in which Americans of Jewish persuasion supported the war and all the interests connected with it will counteract anti-Jewish feeling.

The Jewish people have their peculiarities, perhaps, just as all other groups and races have their shortcomings, but it cannot be truthfully charged against the American Jew that he is un-American.—Shreveport Journal.

THIS BIRD REAL POLLYANNA

No Imaginable Adverse Circumstance Can Keep "Cucubero" From His Fit of Laughter.

The real Pollyanna of the feathered tribes has just arrived at the bird house in Central park, for if any one can bear up under the name of Cucubero and still keep cheerful, it shows one of those persistently gay natures that nothing can mitigate. Of course, Cucubero has won a better deal from the public at large than he did from the ornithologists who saddled him with his gloomy scientific appellation, for the people of Australia, where he comes from, recognize his propensity to "Keep Smiling" by calling him the "Laughing Jackass."

And, equally, of course, he has earned this sobriquet, for he is reported to thrive on vast quantities of water—no matter what other beverages are available—and to have a habit of laughing before he gets up, an hour or so before sunrise. Now, any one who can laugh an hour before dawn on just plain water—even Pollyanna and her followers never did anything so blatantly cheerful as that.

This kingfisher bird, for that is his family, is sometimes hailed as the settlers' clock because of his regularity in bursting out into a spasm of wild, ribald laughter, that surpasses any alarm clock in rousing the inhabitants of the Australian bush, while it is more than probable that a release into this fiendish merriment that takes him about sunset serves for the dwellers in the hinterland as a dinner bell, cathedral chimes, and factory whistle, all in one. They show their gratitude by making a pet of him and protecting him in his merry chorus.—New York Post.

SPAIN GAVE WALES DAFFODIL

First Flowers Said to Have Been Received in Exchange for a Consignment of Coal.

According to an old legend, the first batch of daffodils ever seen in Wales reached there in return for a consignment of coal. The daffodil is indigenous to the Bilbao district, some of whose seafaring inhabitants were about two thousand years ago conveyed by the flow of the Gulf stream to Pembrokehire. There they saw the inhabitants digging what is now known as anthracite, and making fires with it. They also noted that the Welsh were sun worshippers. Taking some of the anthracite back with them, the Spaniards realized its immense superiority over charcoal for the purpose of smelting iron ore, for which the country round Bilbao was celebrated even in those days, so an expedition was organized to procure further supplies from Wales.

As barter for the "black stones" the Spaniards took a consignment of daffodil bulbs, because they thought that people who worshipped the sun would be impressed by the beauty of this flower as it unfolded itself and displayed its form and color, and that in its corona and radiating petals they would see reflected the glory of the sun. Thus used as barter and carefully cultivated by the ancient inhabitants of Wales, the daffodil eventually became the floral emblem of the country.

Pity the Telephone Girl.
One hundred telephone calls a minute, as is usual after any sporting event, were coming in over the wires at the News office after the Kentucky Derby. The majority of the calls were inquiries as to the results of the race, which was won by Behave Yourself in 2:04 1-5.

One enthusiastic baseball fan asked the telephone operator who won the game between the Indians and the Colonels.

"Behave Yourself," was the answer, and a cracked receiver at the other end of the line was the reply.

A little later some one asked how the race was at the quarter.

Another became indignant when the girl replied: "Behave Yourself," thinking she was "kidding" him.—Indianapolis News.

Colonial Styles Endure.

In many parts of this country there has been a decided tendency among manufacturers of furniture to comb European mansions, palaces and museums for possible inspiration in the domestic arts, apparently oblivious to the fact that we have in America what generally is considered one of the most graceful, simple and beautiful types of decorative art—that of the colonial period. That this style is authentic and of intrinsic value, artistic and useful, has been abundantly proved.

That manufacturers have been wise in modifying extreme period designs to meet modern conditions in this country seems pretty well established.

Woman Juror Caused Trouble.
The question as to whether women will make successful "jurymen" has been raised in England by the recent collapse of a woman juror in a Manchester court. The woman became ill and almost swooned during the hearing of a charge of malicious wounding. She finally collapsed, had to leave the court and a substitute had to be found. Of course, the trial had to begin all over again.

COLORS DISLIKED IN CHINA

Green Considered Unlucky, and White and Blue, as Mourning Symbols, Are to Be Avoided.

Green, which is thought to be unlucky, is much disliked in China and a recent English consular report warns merchants against packing goods in green paper. White and blue wrappings are equally to be avoided, for in China they are the mourning colors. The report points out that English pins packed in blue paper proved to be unsaleable, while much inferior German pins put up in red paper were snapped up at once. Red is the color of good fortune among the Chinese. Brown is liked, if it possesses a reddish shade; so are the brighter tints of pink. Carpets and curtains should possess a yellow ground, which is an extremely popular color in both China and Korea as well as Japan. Purple, too, is liked, and gold is the imperial color. While yellow is so popular in China, it is by no means wise to use it in Japan. There yellow, or rather saffron, is the color of the robes of the Sadhu caste of Hindus, who are notorious seditious mongers. Dressed in flowing saffron robes, a number of mendicants of the Sadhu caste have been recently moving all over India, preaching sedition. At Dinapur two of these men were caught in a barrack room, preaching mutiny to the native troops, and were promptly arrested. Upon them were found seditious letters written upon silk of the same color as their garments. The Sadhu yellow is supposed to represent the combined color of sun and sky, and in India is as much the color of rebellion as the red flag in Europe.

BUDAPEST GRAND OLD CITY
Hungarian Capital Has Many Beautiful Buildings and Its Surroundings Are Charming to the Eye.
Although the Hungarian capital is best known as Budapest, the Pesth quarter of the city is by far the most important and old Buda is only a small section across the Danube, on the right bank. The castle is also situated on the same side of the river and from the palace grounds one has a fine birdseye view of the handsome city, with the fine Gothic Parliament building to the left and St. Stephen's church, whose dome matches in height the dome of the Parliament building, the most prominent feature in the close-packed city beyond the busy Danube.

The people of Budapest love pleasure and for miles along the river there are bathing places where young and old mass on the sands or paddle about in graceful canoes. Across from Pesth rise rounded hills dotted with small villages and summer villas from which one has lovely views of the teeming city, the wide plain, and the winding river.

Reactionary as much of the sentiment of Budapest is, it has an unusual number of monuments to Hungary's revolutionary and liberal leaders and many of the streets have been named after those whose fame came through fighting oppression.—National Geographic Magazine.

Women Disregard Suffrage.
Suffrage still seems a long way off for women of the South American countries, but the subject is at least regarded with indulgence in Argentina. An informal election for city officials was conducted by the women of Buenos Aires with the permission of the government. Following the history of the movement in all countries the interest of the women themselves is hard to arouse in the Argentine, but four thousand voted at this election, although the city has at least three hundred thousand women.

The pioneer woman suffragist of the Argentine, Senora Lopez-Nelson, and the group of women of which she is the head, have succeeded in securing widespread discussion of the subject and now are concentrating their efforts toward arousing the interest of women in a bill to amend the constitution providing for universal suffrage, which will be presented at the next national congress.

Fruit From South Africa.
Fruits from South Africa are the latest novelty in the New York city food markets. Not only do the African fruits appeal to the palate of those who long for peaches, plums and melons of summer time, but they are a delight to the eye. Strange crosses of peaches and plums and apples have resulted in colors of deep red splashed with yellow in odd shapes that are unfamiliar to most of us. The fruits are all carefully selected and packed in excelsior. They come under refrigeration, mostly by way of England, the trip taking a minimum of four weeks.—Scientific American.

The Perils of Westchester.

Wealth From Alaska.
The mining industry in Alaska, which began in 1880, when the gold placers at Juneau were first exploited, has produced more than $418,000,000 worth of gold, silver, copper, tungsten, antimony, coal, petroleum, marble, gypsum, chromites, platinum and palladium.

PLAN TO INTRODUCE BETTER DAIRY STOCK

Through the generous co-operation and active assistance of the banks and business firms of Nacogdoches, we are undertaking to further the livestock industry in Nacogdoches county. We are very anxious to increase the member of high-class dairy cattle in this section. With this end in view, we are now investigating a choice lot of registered Jersey heifers ranging in age from 8 to 16 months, and priced at $125 per head, plus freight charges. If investigation shows this herd to be worth this price and to be in every way desirable the banks of Nacogdoches have agreed to finance the deal and to give the purchasers one year in which to pay for these heifers.

If you are interested in getting a good foundation, for a select herd of high-class dairy cows, I shall be glad to discuss the matter with you. Come to my office, or write me if you are interested.

Quick action is necessary if we get these cows.

VOLUME TWENTY-THREE

Monday The Sentinel entered upon its 23d year.

Through the loyalty of its friends and a liberal patronage by the public the paper has won success, and in return for the favor shown it has endeavored to give value received for the business entrusted to it. Of course there have been dark days—days when it seemed scarcely worth while; but the publisher has always felt an abiding faith in the final outcome of his efforts to give the people a clean paper, devoted to the interests of the community and its material upbuilding. We have endeavored to keep its moral tone on a level where it would be a visitor welcome in any refined home, and in this we think we have succeeded. We have made mistakes, of course, but they have been errors of judgment and not intent.

To those who have stood by us and lent their encouragement in times of stress we shall ever be grateful. We shall continue to strive to merit their patronage and good-will. We hope to have their forbearance when mistakes are made, and we wish all to know that we appreciate the many favors shown us.

Mr. M. M. Holland, in behalf of a number of families residing across the creek, appeared before the city council Tuesday night and obtained permission to construct a substantial footbridge across the Banita creek at the crossing of Power street. The work will be done entirely at the expense of these residents, and the bridge will prove a great convenience to all, especially the school children, as it will reduce the distance now traveled to the school house by at least one-half. A concrete pier will be built in the middle of the stream and two spans of about 35 feet each will give a high and dry passage way.

Told Her Father
"If you kiss me again," declared Miss Lovely firmly, "I shall tell my father."

"That's an old tale," replied the bold, bad young man. "Anyway, it's worth it," and he kissed her.

Miss Lovely sprang to her feet. "I shall tell my father," she said and left the room.

"Father," she said softly to her parent when she got outside, "Mr. Bolder wants to see your new gun."

"All right, I'll take it in to him," said her father and two minutes later appeared in the doorway with his gun in his hand.

There was a crash of breaking glass as Mr. Bolder dived through the window and departed in all haste for the railroad station.—Judge.

PREPARE TO HELP HANDLE MILLIONS OF BALES OF COTTON THIS YEAR

This year's cotton crop will be at least seven million bales. Prepare to help handle this enormous crop. It requires only four to six weeks in our institution to become thoroughly familiar with the classing and handling of this most important product of the South. If you act quickly you can be ready.

We have the largest and best equipped sample room in the state, with a solid glass wall on the north to afford proper light. This room was constructed especially for teaching cotton work.

With the ever increasing demand for help along this line, young men and women should prepare themselves immediately. A number of them are taking our cotton classing course, because they realize what an opportunity is open to the expert on cotton. Regardless of the price of cotton, the buyer makes his profit. The farmer would make much more than he does if he could grade and staple his product, because he is completely at the mercy of the buyer when he does not know one grade from another.

A special summer course is given for $53.00, including tuition, samples and material for cotton classing.

In order to complete your course in time to prepare for the coming cotton season, write, wire or phone for information and our free catalogue. TYLER COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, Tyler, Texas

I TOLD YOU

Last week that I had gotten in a nice line of goods and would tell you more about them later. Well, this is later.

I make a desperate effort to tell things just right, when I advertise, so that my customers may not be disappointed when they come in to investigate.

I have often heard people say they read someone's ad in the paper and when they examined the other fellow's outfit, that he had talked big where he advertised, but could not see much in it when they came to buy.

Now, I am not going to make you special prices on certain articles, but what I am told by people who are buying goods from me I am cheap all along. It doesn't pay to buy some little article for less than it costs, then pay two prices for something else.

I have an article in stock that I sold a lady one a few days ago for one dollar and she remarked that that she usually made the garment herself, but she could not buy the material in this one for a dollar. I was showing it to two other ladies and one of them said that she could not buy it for two dollars anywhere else and wanted to know if that price was just for today. I told her that that price was for any time that I was making a profit on it and she could get them any day at that price as long as the lot lasted.

If you want a Sunday or everyday pair of gloves at price that will satisfy you, or if you want a pair of pants, to suit any occasion, come right along.

I haven't time to tell you more this time. Have lots to tell you. If you are in a hurry come and see. C. W. Butt.

Conservation in men's clothes is to be abandoned, says the president of the National Clothiers' Association. But he need not think he is setting gay garments. There was Joseph, a new style if he calls on us to wear thousands of years ago, with his much admired coat of many colors.

A Chicago judge who has presided at 2,000 divorce trials now is giving information as to how to keep a wife. Now, if he will only tell how to get the wherewithal to keep one all will be well.

"Home, husband and babies should come first," said Mary Pickford in giving her views on a career for women. While she continues her own career she thinks of the future and considers the basic factor upon which civilization rests.

Germany owes us something like $241,000,000 for maintenance of the army of occupation. Any nation that doesn't owe us money nowadays must owe us a grudge.

Lord Northcliffe is sore at Lord Curzon because an invitation he had to dinner in the British embassy has been recalled. Failure to get a good meal for nothing these days is enough to vex anybody.

PROPERLY RANKED AS HERO

Deserved Tribute to Collie Who Gave Master the "Last Full Measure of Devotion."

Clyde Scott, four years old, lies dying on his father's farm near Beckley, W. Va. His pet collie is dead. A vicious sow, bearing the scars of battle to the finish, is so badly mangled that she must be killed, too.

It is one of those simple stories of a dog to which all human sympathy responds, remarks the Baltimore Sun. The boy, playing in the yard, was attacked by the sow, which had escaped its pen. Hearing the child's screams the collie rushed to the rescue and engaged the sow in fight. It needs no assurance of the telegraphed item to tell him who knows his dog the details.

The child's mother came into the picture, bearing her torn baby to safety. But the dog remained. His was a supreme duty, that knew no compromise. The infuriated sow was a menace to those he loved. It was his business to remove that menace, and into the job he put his concern. It was his concern only to remove the menace, and at any cost. His own life mattered not at all, and in the end he lost it, in as noble a struggle for what he believed to be right as any that ever brightened the annals of man or nation.

We do not know the little collie's name. If we did we should like to print it in honorable memory of his gallant conduct. He was a soldier and a gentleman; he was a devoted comrade and playmate; he was all that a dog is, and that a man should be. We hope he had a Christian burial, for he was a Christian, if to be Christian implies sacrifice of self and love for others. He was all of that and he was a hero—a hero on four legs.

PLAGUE THAT FOLLOWS WAR

In All Ages Rinderpest Has Marked the Path Taken by Armies on Their March.

The newspapers told recently of the trouble that arose when the authorities of Montevideo refused to admit to that port a little dog owned by a woman who had taken it there on a passenger steamer, the refusal being based upon the epidemic of rinderpest prevailing among the cattle of Uruguay. Rinderpest is the most terrible of the diseases that affect cattle, and is often called simply "cattle plague."

It affects, so far as is known, only the ruminant, cloven-footed animals—oxen, sheep, goats, camels, etc.—but is so infectious that it may be carried from one herd to another by attendants, dogs, cats and birds or by fodder. Therefore, the dog was excluded from fear not that it would contract the disease but that it might contribute to spreading it.

The cause of rinderpest is not yet definitely known, but it is an ancient disease which always breaks out after great wars. The ravages of the Goths and Huns in the early Middle Ages were followed by frightful epidemics. Its commonest symptoms are fever, cough, dysentery and exhaustion. Its mortality is high, but the disease is not necessarily fatal.

Grossmith Defines Humor.

Lawrence Grossmith, the English comedian, is quoted as saying: "There is no more difference between English and American humor than there is between English and American tragedy. All humor, whether it be English or American, depends upon the seriousness with which the person trying to be humorous acts the fool. This may sound like a paradox, but it is one of the most extraordinary paradoxes which are vitally true. If an actor does not enter into his humor with the full possession of his senses and all his faculties he misses the most of it."

"To be humorous it is necessary to lose oneself in one's part, retaining just sufficient introspective faculties to feel the sincerity of one's acting. Sincerity here, as in all other branches of acting is the mainstay. And 'sincerity' gets across the footlights whether it is in Germany, France, England or America, whether in tragedy, comedy, musical or dramatic plays."

Kaiser's Coach Brought Trade.

The ex-kaiser's gala carriage is for sale in Berlin. "One of the best strokes of business I ever made was to buy it," said Herr Zielka, owner of a Friedrichstrasse establishment containing a restaurant, billiard room and a theater of varieties, according to the Continental edition of the London Mail.

"I bought it from the court-marshal and used it as an advertisement for the theater. Every night the carriage drove up to my theater and out stepped a grand gentleman or lady with the air of a royal personage. Naturally, crowds followed into the theater. Unhappily the royalists made such a fuss that the police forbade me to continue using it."

Road Building in India.

There is considerable activity in road making in various cities in India, depending upon the local authorities. In some places stone rollers, pulled by gangs of men, are used, and in other places steam rollers are to be found. A very useful machine is used in Lucknow, that has two rollers, the front one a steering roller. The rear chine is driven by a gasoline engine. It has a large gasoline tank and is well adapted for light work.

PRESERVE GLORIES OF ROME

Concrete Structures Are Monuments to the Greatness of Old Rulers of the World.

Builders of ancient Rome knew a lot about concrete, and used it extensively in civic and private undertakings. It was well that they knew so much about this building material and were so generous in the use of it. Had they used less durable substance in the building or the monumental structures that were features of Rome the remains of these great projects would not be dotting all southern Europe, serving to emphasize the advancement of the people who lived for centuries in these parts before the coming of Christ.

The discovery of cement by these early people was fortunate, for otherwise nothing much would have been known about this wonderful race. They would have been obliterated and nothing of their history, intelligence, character or enterprise would have come down through the years to posterity. They told their story on slabs of cement and built their homes, their government buildings, waterworks and the like of concrete, which has resisted the wear of thousands of years.

Slabs almost as perfect as when made have been discovered by archeologists who have deciphered the chiseled characters which tell many wonderful stories about this race. The ruins of the buildings they erected are among the great sights of the world and are continually furnishing investigators, students of the Roman period, with new sources of research into this really wonderful era in the progress of the world.

MAY BE HANDICAP OR ASSET

According to New Yorker, Mustache Has Much to Do With One's Chance for Position.

"Hello, Bob, I hardly knew you. Why did you remove your mustache? For a reason, I suppose."

"Yes, indeed, a very good reason, for that was a mustache with a history. You see, mustaches have their advantages and hindrances," he said philosophically. "Wherein I'll tell you of their uses to me. When I was a young man I made application for a certain position. All seemed serene, for I passed with a high percentage and subsequently was called to fill a vacancy in a big business house, but my youthful appearance was a handicap, for it was a place for a much older person than they actually thought me to be."

"I grew a mustache, made out another application, was called again, and got the job. Recently I have been on the leisure roll through no fault of my own—old age. I have excellent credentials and gilt-edge recommendations, but of no avail. I made application for another place, passed and could have had a good position, but I looked too old for the situation; therefore I removed the appendage and landed a tip-top job where I had previously been refused."—New York Sun.

Seer's Game Old.

Modern faddists who claim to have invented the new wrinkles in mysticism might bear in mind that in the second and third centuries there were many would-be sensationalists who maintained regular schools in which they taught tricks of the trade.

History recalls the names of Clemens, Pantaenus and Origen as the leading mystic schoolmasters of those days. Alexandria was their headquarters, and we are told that the more matter-of-fact philosopher, who also ran private colleges and classrooms, occasionally branded the three gentlemen referred to as quacks.

In the Middle Ages Germany came to the fore as a hotbed of mystic teaching. Eckhart, 1261 to 1329, and John Tauler of Straasburg, 1290-1361, were the foremost exponents of mystic thought.

Henry Susse of London and Birmingham, 1800 to 1868, absorbed enough of these German teachings to spread them in revised form throughout England.

Frog Eye Smallest Camera.

The smallest camera in the world which has actually "taken" pictures is doubtless the eye of the frog. It has been found that if a frog is kept in the dark for some time the retina of the eye on being dissected is found to have a purple reddish color which fades away or becomes bleached on exposure to daylight.

If the eye be placed in front of a window and left there or "exposed" for some time, and then fixed in a 4 per cent solution of alum, the optogram is partially fixed and retains an inverted picture of the window with its cross bars as pictured on the retina. —Illustrated World.

White Feathers.

No white pigments have been found in feathers, and the whiteness of white feathers is ascribed to total reflection of light from their exposed surfaces. Some have supposed the reflection to be from air spaces, or bubbles, in the feather structure, but one authority contends that the white effect is mainly dependent, as in the case of snow or powdered glass, upon the small size of the structural elements. These have a large number of surfaces so placed for any position of the eye that there is a maximum reflection to the eye, and almost no absorption by the unpigmented feather substance.

HIS DUTY TO AID TRAVELERS

Postmaster of Three Hundred Years Ago Supplied Horses to Those Who Needed Them.

A postmaster of 300 years ago was a very different person to what he is today. Do you want to know how? Well, the postmaster today has to do almost entirely with letters and parcels and, in England, of course, with telegrams, too. But 300 years ago he had to do almost entirely with horses. Thus I wonder, says a writer in the New York Evening Post, if you know that William Brewster, the leader of the Mayflower Pilgrims, was for many years postmaster at Scrooby, a little village in England on the great North road, halfway between London and Berwick?

William Brewster, however, did not live in a little house in the village street, using the front room as a post office, as do many village postmasters today. He lived in a grand old house called Scrooby manor and his duty was to supply horses to all travelers who desired to hire them, for in those days, of course, all traveling that was not done on foot was done on horseback. He was appointed by the government and he had what 300 years ago was a very handsome salary, namely, 2s a day, besides what travelers used to pay him if they stayed for a night or so at Scrooby manor on their journey. It was in the great hall at Scrooby manor that the Pilgrims used to meet before they left England for Holland, whence, some ten years or so later, they sailed for America.

UNDOUBTEDLY HIS BY RIGHT

Boorish Stranger Surely Proved His Claim to Possession of That Matchbox Without Argument.

The car on an English railway was not overcrowded. There was a goodly number of persons sitting in it, but evidently there was not room for the fussy man who entered last.

He stood on every one's toes. He pushed his luggage in every one's eyes and placed his heaviest bag on some one's hat.

He elbowed himself plenty of room on the side of the compartment.

"Infernal railway!" he muttered to the man next to him.

"Thank goodness," replied the stranger, "that you spoke first!"

"What do you mean?" asked the rude man.

"Well," said the stranger, handing him a gold matchbox, "I must give you this, sir."

"But," exclaimed the other, "we are complete strangers!"

"Yes, sir, I know that, but I am a member of a society, and we have subscribed for that matchbox, which we were going to give to a member whom we considered the rudest man on earth—but I think you deserve it far more than he does!"

Why Buried With Head to the West.

The usual posture of the dead is with the feet eastward and the head toward the west—the fitting attitude of those who look for their Lord, "Whose name is the East," and who will come to judgment in the regions of the dawn suddenly. But it was the ancient usage of the church that the martyr, the bishop, the saint, and even the priest, should occupy in their sepulchre a position the reverse of the secular dead, and lie down with their feet westward and their heads to the rising sun. The position of the crozier and the cross on ancient sepulchers of the clergy record and reveal this fact.

The doctrine suggested by such a burial was that these mighty men would be honored with a first resurrection, and as their Master came on from the East they were to arise and follow the Lamb as he went; inasmuch as they, with him, would advance to the judgment of the general multitude, the ancients and the saints which were worthy to judge and reign. —From "Notes and Queries."

Famous French Song.

"Ca Ira" was the first popular song to spring out of the French Revolution. It was probably first sung in 1789 by the insurgents as they marched to Versailles. The music was that of a contra dance which was extremely popular under the name of "Carillon National." It was composed by a drummer in the orchestra of the opera house whose name was Becourt. The air was a great favorite with Queen Marie Antoinette. The words were suggested by Lafayette to LaFare, a street singer; he remembered them from hearing Benjamin Franklin say at various stages of the American Revolution when asked for news: "Ca, Ira, ca ira" ("it will go, it will go"). There are five stanzas with different refrains, becoming more ferocious as the revolution progressed.

Pens in History.

When quill pens were in use by all persons who knew how to write there was a good deal of discussion as to what kind of quills made the best pen. Goose quills were by long odds the most numerous, but some persons, especially those of the fashionable and more secluded sets, preferred swan quills. It is said that the only thing which distinguished them above goose quills was that they cost more. Kings and queens, when they knew how to write at all, usually preferred to sign their names with eagle quills. Queen Elizabeth always wrote with an eagle quill pen, so the story goes as told by those persons who have written of this lady.

CLOSE TO HORRIBLE DEATH

Youth Will Long Remember How Near He Was to Being Trampled Under Hoofs of Cattle.

A yarn which may be branded as "pretty fair" comes out of the West, remarks the Philadelphia Ledger.

A young man named Barker had taken his bicycle to make a journey of several hundred miles to inspect some land. In the course of his trip he crossed a large prairie field, broken near the middle by a high transverse ridge.

When he had climbed the ridge and mounted his wheel to proceed he noticed what the rise of ground had obscured—that the field was filled with Texas cattle grazing in little bunches of ten to fifty. Just as he started one of the "long horns" caught sight of him and the bunch followed its leader to investigate. The young man naturally quickened his pace and the cattle took after him.

The trail was straight and level, leading to a big gate. The boy bent over his wheel and pedaled for his life. He could hear the bellowing of the cattle and the pounding of their hoofs behind him, but he looked neither to right nor left. What should he do when he reached the gate?

No matter. All his mind was fixed upon the necessity of keeping ahead. He neared the gate and it was open. He dashed through like a flash of lightning, lost his pedals, struck a rock and was pitched off and lay senseless on the ground. It had happened that the man who owned the range was visiting it at that moment. He had seen the boy race for life and had opened the gate to let him pass through. Then, with two or three attendants, he rode in and headed off the herd.

FOND OF THEIR "WEE NIPPIE"

Many of the Lower Animals Have a Pronounced Fondness for Intoxicating Liquor.

Although camels will go for many days without water, they are always ready to drink whisky, and have been known to prefer it to their usual beverage. The effect of strong drink upon lions is to render them quite tame. In 1899 there was a well-known racehorse which was regularly doped with whisky before the race, owing to its fainthearted nature. This practice led to many successes; but finally the day came when the jockey was utterly unable to make it go faster than an ordinary walk. After proceeding a few yards in this fashion, it leant against the railings, and subsided upon the course. "If I did my duty," said a nearby policeman, "I should run that horse in for being drunk and incapable!" Dogs are perhaps the most abstemious of animals, but even they have been known to like the bottle.

A doctor reports the case of a Skye terrier which suffered from distemper, and became so ill that port wine was administered three or four times every hour in order to save its life. After the dog recovered, his master found he had become a perfect dipsomaniac. Whenever there was port wine on the table, he would climb upon a chair in an endeavor to satisfy his craving. If you put whisky in pussy's milk, you would find her raise no violent objection. Cats, like other animals, behave in an extraordinary fashion when inebriated.

To Save Mexican Forests.

Newspapers of Mexico City have taken up an active campaign to save the vast forests in the states of Puebla and Oaxaca, which, according to reports, are said to be suffering at the hands of the natives, who chop down and burn trees indiscriminately. Travelers from these regions tell of finding natives using ebony and mahogany and other precious woods for fuel.

OLD INSURANCE FIRM UNDER NEW NAME

Mr. T. J. Gunn, late of Houston, but formerly of Mississippi, has arrived to take charge of the Orton-Gunn Insurance Agency. This is the old Ingraham Insurance Agency, and will be continued by Mr. Gunn under the new firm name.

Mr. Gunn comes to Nacogdoches with the highest possible recommendations, both as a gentleman and a business man. He has a wife and 9-year-old son. The family will occupy the Tom Goolsby place on Hospital street.

Mr. Gunn was for years the adjuster and special agent for 16 big fire insurance companies. We are glad to welcome such people to our town.

NOT NEEDED HERE

Upon receipt of a letter from a beauty parlor man asking advice about setting up a beauty parlor in Nacogdoches, Mr. H. L. McKnight, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, made the following reply:

"Replying to your letter of July 13th, in which you ask if there is a beauty parlor at Nacogdoches, permit me to say that we have no such institution here for the good and simple reason that we have no use for it. Our women are by nature so beautiful, in fact, that it would be a crime for a mere physical artist to lay his hands on them. A beauty doctor in Nacogdoches? What a spectacle! Don't come here on this mission unless you are ready to starve slap to death.

"Yours truly,
"H. L. McKnight."

At the city council meeting Tuesday night very little outside or routine business was done. The city attorney was instructed to proceed against certain parties for maintaining nuisances, an ordinance extending the stock law to the full city limits was read for the first time, and Messrs. W. F. Gintz, Carl Monk and J. R. McKinney were designated as an "evaluation board" for the city. The usual bills were allowed and ordered paid.

A Washington dispatch says that President Harding may have to curb the tendency of congress to spend for new purposes money saved by the burning of the budget. Did you ever see the beat of a congress?

THE "OLD RELIABLE" THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

White Haired Alabama Lady Says She Has Seen Medicines Come and Go But The "Old Reliable" Theford's Black-Draught Came and Stayed.

Dutton, Ala.—In recommending Theford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said: "I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work. "Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right, and I know for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals. Sour stomach and sick headache can be relieved by taking Black-Draught. It aids digestion, also assists the liver in throwing off impurities. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors."

Theford's Black-Draught is a standard household remedy with a record of over seventy years of successful use. Every one occasionally needs something to help cleanse the system of impurities. Try Black-Draught. Insist upon Theford's, the genuine.

COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING THE CHARGES OF GRAFT

Austin, Texas, July 29.—Appearing before the joint graft and extravagance investigating committee today, the governor, after reiterating the charges of graft at the state capitol, said "he had told the committee nothing new with the exception of the name of R. V. Nichols." Nichols is a special investigator and attorney for the attorney general's department and investigated bogus checking in a subdivision of the health department.

The governor was requested to tell the committee of the charges he had made. He started with the penitentiary system, charging "mismanagement, crookedness and graft." He told the committee of the padding of the scholastic census of Corpus Christi and said there were other counties guilty of this, but there was no money available for investigation. Padding of the expense accounts of the six fire insurance commission inspectors at Wichita Falls came next in the charges. He then referred to the treasury department and the charge for which Lon Morgan was indicted. He said his information was that the state had not been repaid by the bondsmen of Morgan, and it is loser by $15,000. In speaking of the health department bogus checking, the governor suggested that the committee have Nichols tell them of the matter, as he had more detailed information. The governor said he had not investigated the other departments, due to lack of time.

After thanking the governor for his information, the committee moved to request the heads of the departments mentioned to appear before them Wednesday.

NEWSPAPERS PLEASED WITH JAP DECISION

London, July 29.—Several of the London newspapers today expressed hearty approval of the Japanese government's decision to participate in the disarmament conference.

NO SEPARATE PARLEYS

Washington, July 29.—It was indicated today that the United States would reject any suggestion for separate parleys with any of the powers invited to participate in the disarmament conference. There was an intimation that at least one of the nations had suggested the advisability of such a partial conference.

APPROPRIATION BILLS

Austin, Texas, July 28.—The senate passed finally today the senate educational bill carrying $4,649,951 for the first and $4,185,149 for the second fiscal year.

The house judiciary appropriation measure, carrying $1,480,815 for the first and $1,472,970 for the second fiscal year, also passed.

AMENDMENT ELECTION

Returns from Saturday's amendment election are slow coming in, even the South and West boxes in Nacogdoches not reporting up to noon Thursday. Few votes were polled, it is understood, and probably all five of the amendments were defeated in this county. The suffrage measure is leading the others, but it is not thought it will have a favorable majority.

After attaining a depth of 3,272 feet, drillers abandoned work on the Caro deep test and the rig was shipped Thursday to Shreveport. The casing was left in the well.

UNEMPLOYMENT CAUSES BILLION DOLLAR LOSS

New York, July 29.—Idle men and machinery are causing a loss of nearly a billion dollars a year to the metal trades industry, says a report today by the committee on the eliminating waste to the Industrial American Engineering Council. The report declares the instability of labor employment to be the chief cause of the loss.

NO EXAGGERATION IN REPORTS OF PELLAGRA

Washington, July 29.—Replying to the charges that the administration had exaggerated pellagra and famine conditions in the South, President Harding declared in a letter to Representative Byrnes of South Carolina today that official reports indicated the contrary and the government investigation would continue.

NO STUNT FLYING OVER POPULOUS CENTERS

Washington, July 29.—Army aviators are forbidden to make spectacular flights or do "acrobatic flying" over cities or other populous districts, in general orders announced today.

POLICEMAN KILLS LAWYER

Chicago, July 29.—Angered because he had been dispossessed of some property and sentenced to jail for contempt of court, Henry Kellogg, a Chicago police sergeant, today shot and killed Lemuel Ackley, an attorney, in a crowded court room and then seriously wounded himself. Ackley died an hour after the shooting. Surgeons said Kellogg would recover.

LOST RACE WITH DEATH

Lima, Ohio, July 29.—Michael Splacacy of Tulsa, Okla., lost his transcontinental race against death today when his airplane arrived too late for to see his brother from Los Angeles, who died in a hospital here.

GRAFT COMMITTEE

Austin, Texas, July 28.—The joint legislative committee authorized yesterday by concurrent resolution to investigate graft and extravagance at the capitol as charged by the governor started its work today. The consensus of opinion among the members is to co-operate with the governor and request him to appear before the committee and relate the specific instances referred to. Representative Cox of Taylor was elected chairman, Senator Page of Bastrop vice chairman and Quaid of El Paso secretary. The committee will meet again at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when evidence submitted by the governor will be considered in order that the members may get acquainted with the charges. It is planned to have the governor appear before the committee later.

JUDGE IS ACQUITTED OF BRIBERY CHARGES

Sapula, Okla., July 29.—Charges that Judge Lucien B. Wright of the district court of Creek county had accepted a bribe of $10,000 in connection with his decision in the Tommy Atkins case were dismissed twenty minutes after court convened today for the third day of the hearing.

Miss Jessie Fenn, clerk at the Redland Hotel, was at Timpon Thursday to attend the funeral of Clyde Morrison, one of the soldier boys sent back from France to be buried at home.

FAMOUS HOLDUP BEAR OF YELLOWSTONE PARK

Yellowstone Park, Wyo., July 30.—"Jesse James," Yellowstone's famous "holdup" bear is back on the job.

For a time park officials thought he had retired to an honest living, because weeks came and went with no sign of the clever highwayman.

But M. P. Skinner, park naturalist, officially reports that Jesse once more daily blocks the highway near the "Thumb" on Lake Yellowstone.

The bear's method of operation is unique. He squats in the middle of the road and waits for automobilists to appear. He stubbornly refuses to leave until fed by the autoist. Then he ambles on and lets the car pass. Thus far more than 100 tourists report being "held up."

LAW TO FIT PRYOR

Austin, Texas, July 30.—That a law providing for the removal of prison commissioners by trial be enacted and then such proceedings be instituted to oust W. G. Pryor from office because of his "indifference and willful failure to discharge his duties" was recommended in a report by the joint legislative investigating committee submitted at the special session today. The law was recommended "in order that the cumbersome and enormously expensive methods of impeachment need not be resorted to," the report states. The committee recommends that the use of chains as a means of punishment be abolished, and that the segregation and classification of prisoners be carried out by law. They charge that the latter has been grossly neglected. Other recommendations follow:

A board of supervision of three members, one a woman, to serve without pay. This board shall visit the prisons and farms and report to the governor quarterly.

A law requiring proper sanitary conditions.

Sufficient money to support a discharged convict 30 days after his discharge.

Reward for meritorious conduct.

Centralization of the entire system, with absolute sale of all lands.

Relocating the system within 50 miles of Austin.

That factories be constructed, with sufficient land adjoining for the employment of prisoners fitted to farm work. Only enough farm work be done to make the system self-sustaining.

Separation of prisoners according to age, sex, criminal inclination and prison record.

That a rock-crushing plant be operated in conjunction with the state highway department.

The committee found that nearly every law and regulation of the system had been violated. They found that Commissioners Pryor and Sam Low, the latter now a member of the house, had purchased 260 mules and horses for $39,000, and that the animals were actually worth $15,500. The committee recommends that the attorney general's department investigate the deal and bring suit against Bassett Blakeley, the seller of the animals, for damages. The committee recommends that Gus Harris, warden of the main penitentiary, be discharged permanently, finding that he had been re-employed after being discharged.

LEGISLATOR ARRESTED

Austin, Texas, July 30.—Wallace Malone, member of the lower house from Fort Worth, was arrested last night by federal officers charged with having in his possession intoxicants in violation of the Volstead act. Malone was released on giving a $500 bond.

RUSSIANS WILL RELEASE AMERICAN PRISONERS

Riga, July 30.—The offer of Herbert Hoover to aid Russia in relieving the suffering due to famine on conditions that all Americans held prisoners in Russia be released has been accepted by the Russian authorities, who suggest immediate negotiations in order to realize speedy assistance, according to a dispatch from Moscow today. Mrs. Marguerite Harrison of Baltimore, a newspaper correspondent, who was among the Americans held in Russian prisons, was released by the soviet authorities and arrived here today.

MAIL CAR LOOTED

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30.—Four bandits boarded the Manhattan Limited, west-bound, on the Pennsylvania railroad, at Cassandra this morning and, after wounding the mail clerk, rifled the mail car and escaped.

John D. Still, wife and baby came up from Nacogdoches Sunday. Mr. Still spending the week end at the J. W. Still home.—Mt. Enterprise Progress.

THE OLD storekeeper.
WHO WAS playing checkers.
IN THE back of the store.
AMONG THE coal oil.
AND THE prunes.
WHEN THE sheriff.
WHO HAD just jumped his king.
SAID "Si there's a customer.
WAITIN' OUT front."
AND SI said "Sh-h-h!

NOW HERE'S the big idea.
WHEN A good thing.

ANOTHER MAYFLOWER COMES TO PLYMOUTH

Plymouth, Mass., Aug. 1.—Another Mayflower came to Plymouth today, this one the presidential yacht bringing President Harding and an official party to join in the formal observance of the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims. The Mayflower's passengers of 300 years ago landed on a wild coast marked only by Indian trails. Those today landed to an official welcome in scenes that offered a striking contrast to those that faced their fathers. Through the streets of the town streamed thousands of persons—100,000 by one estimate—governors, lesser officials, men of high social degree and laborers. Many of them formed in a colorful parade in which there were direct descendants of both the first settlers and the friendly Indians with whom they lived in peace.

The Two Mayflowers

Plymouth, Mass., Aug. 1.—The Mayflower yacht anchored today at the port where the Mayflower bark furlied her sails three centuries ago.

Hopes for New Era

Plymouth, Mass., Aug. 1.—Hope that the disarmament conference called by the United States may bring the world a new era of peace and freedom was expressed by President Harding today in an address at the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims. Characterizing the international situation "as more than promising" the president asserted the seed of a common tolerance and understanding planted by the fathers here was beginning to bear fruit a thousandfold in the relations between nations. In the course of his speech the president praised particularly the part that religious and other New England traditions played in the development of the nation. He also took occasion to deplore the tendency to concentrate government authority at Washington and reaffirmed his faith in religion as an essential element of good government.

LIBERIAN LOAN

Washington, Aug. 1.—Legislation authorizing payments to Liberia, under the $5,000,000 loan to that country previously arranged, was asked today by President Harding in a letter to the senate. An accompanying letter from Secretary Hughes to the president said "a moral obligation" rested upon the United States to make the loan.

APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED

Austin, Texas, Aug. 1.—In executive session today the senate confirmed all the recess appointments by the governor with the exception of W. H. Rand, for member of the prison board.

HOME OF JEFFERSON IS AGAIN ON THE MARKET

New York, July 29.—Reports that Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, near Charlottesville, Va., is on the market, were confirmed by Jefferson M. Levy, former congressman and present owner of the historical estate.

Mr. Levy said upkeep costs had become too burdensome and that he would sell Monticello, provided he could find a purchaser "deemed able and worthy to become the owner of such a shrine."

He said he had made efforts to have the government buy the estate as a summer home for the presidents, and that he would be willing to sell Monticello to the government for $500,000. He values the estate at $1,000,000.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

Austin, Texas, July 30.—The next election of a Rhodes Scholar to represent the State of Texas at Oxford University, England, will be held at Austin on December 3, according to a statement of Prof. H. Tanham of Baylor University, secretary of the state committee of selection. The appointment will be made simply on the basis of school and college records and without formal examination. Two years of work in a college of good standing will be required as a minimum. A candidate may apply either in the state in which he maintains residence or in the state in which he may have received the requisite two years of collegiate training. No applications will be accepted by the committee later than October 29, it is stated. This scholarship is tenable for three years and bears a stipend of approximately $1,500 a year. The successful candidate will be expected to enter upon his studies at Oxford in October, 1922.

SUPPRESS WHITECAPPING

Austin, Texas, Aug. 1.—Governor Neff, in a message to the legislature, submitted for their consideration "the operation of secret organizations organized for the purpose of masking and disguising themselves and violating the laws of the state by inflicting punishment upon persons against whom no legal complaint had been filed." He said he did so at the request of 49 members of the house, who petitioned him to do so last week.

KENTUCKY KILLINGS

Welch, Ky., Aug. 1.—Sid Hatfield, former chief of police at Matewan, and Ed Chambers, a policeman of Matewan, were killed in a gunfight in the courthouse yard here today. T. C. Lively, a private detective, and four other persons were arrested in connection with the shooting.

CONFESSED MURDERER RETURNED TO TEXAS

Los Angeles, July 28.—Theodore West, who confessed to the slaying of Lem Smith, Texas and Oklahoma oil man, near Kingman, Ariz., Sunday left Los Angeles Wednesday for Arizona in custody of Sheriff Mahoney of Kingman, according to plans announced by the sheriff. He will face a charge of murder, the sheriff said. West told officers here that he shot Smith, with whom he had traveled 1,800 miles by automobile from Brownwood, Texas, through "fright."

DISARMAMENT ENDORSED

Austin, Texas, July 30.—President Harding's plan for a disarmament conference, endorsed in a house concurrent resolution, was adopted by the senate today.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK

Washington, July 30.—The president is en route to Plymouth Rock, Mass., today aboard the Mayflower. He will attend and speak Monday at the exercises commemorating the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims.

POSTMISTRESS SHORT

McAlester, Okla., July 28.—Postal authorities announced here today that a search had started for Miss Beulah White, 20, postmistress at Adamson, Okla., who has not been seen since she left her home June 16 presumably to attend the State Postmasters' Convention at Oklahoma City. Post-office inspectors announced a shortage of $1,300 in her accounts.

Mr. Ellis Gaston has sold his interest in the grocery business here and, with his family, has moved to Kansas City, Mo., where he has secured a lucrative position.

Why Gall Stones Cause Suffering

(Thursday Health Talk No. 15.)
(By R. W. Zilar, D. C.)

If ever as a child you hurriedly tried to swallow a bite too big for easy passage into the stomach, you have some idea of the way suffering is caused by gall stones. The gall bladder tries to pass the stones out through an opening too small.

UNCLE BEN SAYS—
"Nevvy, when I had a carbuncle on the back of my neck doc said it was nothing to worry about but keep my eye on it."

Gall stones are caused by disturbance of the heating function of the gall bladder, which causes the contents to crystallize. Spinal nerves have a calorific or heating function, and gall stones are caused by disturbance of the calorific or heat function of the nerves. Pressure at the spine causes this disturbance, and Chiropractic spinal adjustments removing the pressure, restores health.

GALL STONES, SUFFERING ENDS

"It gives me pleasure to advise that after twenty Chiropractic adjustments over two years ago, there has been no return of gall stones. Previously I frequently passed these stones, and at such times I had no relief except from the hypodermic injections. My present condition is proof of the great value of Chiropractic.—W. H. MacKinnon." Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement, No. 1271-H.

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Nacogdoches County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon J. L. Kimbrell by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Nacogdoches county, to be holden at the court house thereof, in Nacogdoches, on the 1st Monday in September, A. D. 1921, the same being the 5th day of September, A. D. 1921, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 8th day of July, A. D. 1921, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 776, wherein Lorene Kimbrell is defendant, and said petition alleging that the residence of defendant is to plaintiff unknown. And that she is an actual bona fide resident and inhabitant of the State of Texas, and has resided in said state for more than twelve months and said county for more than six months preceding the filing of this petition.

Plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married to each other on or about the 19th day of January, A. D. 1915, and thereafter lived and cohabited together as husband and wife until on or about the 14th day of September, A. D. 1918, when the plaintiff was forced to and did leave the defendant because of the heinous after described acts; that at all times while married to the defendant plaintiff has conducted herself with propriety, doing her duty as a helpmate; that defendant disregarded the solemnity of his marriage vow, and about two years after their said marriage commenced a course of unkind, harsh and tyrannical conduct which continued with slight intermissions until she finally separated from him.

During the marriage of said plaintiff and defendant there was born to them a boy whose name is Travis Kimbrell, who is about four years of age, and who is now living with plaintiff; that she is able to care for and educate said child and is willing to do so.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer this petition, and that upon final hearing hereof plaintiff have judgment dissolving said bonds of matrimony now existing between them, for the care and custody of said minor child, for cost of suit and such other and further relief that she may show herself entitled to both in law and equity, as she will ever pray.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Nacogdoches on this the 11th day of July, A. D. 1921.

(Seal) I. R. Prince,
Clerk, District Court, Nacogdoches County, Texas.

It is a powerful and scientific combination of sulphur and other healing agents for the relief and cure of diseases of the skin. It is especially effective in the ITCHING VARIETIES; giving instant relief from the itching and smarting sensations and by its germ-destroying properties it exterminates the microbes which is the cause of the eruption, thus curing the disease completely. Littell's Liquid Sulphur Compound is used in all cases of Eczema, Tetter, Barber's Itch, Psoriasis, Herpes, Rash, Oak and Ivy Poisoning, also for relieving the annoyance caused by chiggers and mosquito bites. In the treatment of ECZEMA—the most painful and obstinate of all skin diseases—it is one of the most successful remedies known.

PROF. C. J. BUDLONG
Manchester, N. H.

"I am in good health for the first time in thirty years and I give Tanlac the entire credit," said Professor C. J. Budlong, well-known and highly respected citizen of Manchester, N. H., living at 42, School Street.

"From the time I was a boy I couldn't sit down and eat a meal without being in misery afterwards from indigestion. During all these years I was afflicted with rheumatism, too. It was all over my body, but especially bad in my feet and legs and at times I couldn't get from my bed to my chair without help. I was almost a nervous wreck from all these years of suffering and could not half do my work. I hoped for nothing more than temporary benefit from Tanlac, as I believed it impossible for any medicine to give me entire relief, but this is exactly what Tanlac has done.

"For the first time since I can remember I eat anything I want and digest it without trouble. I haven't an ache or pain and have put on eighteen pounds in weight. I just feel good all over and enjoy life as I never did before. Having put Tanlac to the test I do not hesitate to say that it is the greatest medicine of the age for stomach trouble and rheumatism."

Tanlac is sold in Nacogdoches by Stripling, Haselwood & Co., and in Garrison by the Dale Drug Co.

SQUABBLE OVER ROAD

A right interesting question, as well as an uncomfortable condition for those who travel the Martinsville road to and beyond Martinsville, has arisen. Some time ago an agreement was made between the commissioners court and Mr. J. L. Kingham, who resides about one mile west of Martinsville, by the terms of which for a certain consideration in cash and the further consideration that the old road would pass through Mr. Kingham's field, surrounding a very steep hill over which the old road had passed. The old road has become impassable and a creek over which the new road passes has not been bridged, therefore the new road cannot be traveled by the public. From long neglect, aided by the heavy rains which have fallen recently, the old road has become converted into gulleys, and its ascent is practically impossible. Wednesday the overseer gathered a body of able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 with shovels and scrapers and plows, and proceeded to put the old road in a condition so that a Ford car might be able to climb the hill. But according to reports which have reached the court house, Mr. Kingham met the public benefactors and informed them that the land over which the old road passed belonged to him by good and perfect title, and that they had no right to disturb the soil by taking from it and adding to it. So far Mr. Kingham is in charge of the situation. The final outcome remains to be seen.

Has Never Seen Their Equal

"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets for stomach trouble, biliousness, and constipation off and on for the past ten years. I have never seen their equal yet. They strengthened my digestion, relieved me of headaches and had a mild pleasant action on my bowels. I take pleasure in recommending them" writes H. D. F. Parmenter, Cidersville, Ohio.
