THE ARBUCKLE CASE

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 21.—Comedian Arbuckle is scheduled to appear in a new court soon in connection with the recent tragedy. Today he will be arraigned in the superior court on an indictment charging manslaughter. The arraignment will be a mere formality, it is said. District Attorney Brady is scheduled to ask for a continuance in the trial. The arraignment action is taken on the charge of first degree murder. Crowds long to see the court opened today attended to gain a view of Arbuckle in court of Judge Louis Jack. Arbuckle in all his court appearances has shown a disinclination to face curious folks. Scores of letters and telegrams continue to arrive at the jail for Arbuckle.

EUGENE JOHNSON KILLED

The body of Eugene Johnson, son of William Johnson of the Alto neighborhood, arrived in the city this afternoon and interment took place in Oak Grove cemetery. Young Johnson was killed Sunday afternoon in a train wreck a short distance east of El Paso. Beyond the mere fact of the manner of his death, no details are available. A companion, Edgar Graves, who was with him, escaped injury, it was said. The unfortunate young man's family have the sympathy of all.

Mr. B. F. Sherman of Rusk was a business visitor in the city Monday.

The destroyer, carrying the widow and other relatives, left the navy yard here shortly afterwards. The burial took place 100 miles off the coast. The Episcopal burial service was read by the chaplain of the navy yard, a volley fired by a squad of blue jackets, taps sounded and the weighted casket lowered over the side.

ALLEGED TAMPERING

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 20.—The county grand jury early today adjourned until Monday night. The case of Mrs. Dessie Keyes, indicted with Aven, was dismissed, and she was held on two other indictments—for killing her husband and the Aven child. Her trial was not set.

The establishment of the new hardware mill and the certainty of the ultimate establishment of the normal have caused an influx of population which submerged the school facilities of the district. Practically the same conditions prevailed when the Hayward (now the Frost-Johnson) mill was established here some 18 or 20 years ago. Then the schools were unequal to the demands upon them and it required some lively hustling to get the situation in hand. It was soon accomplished, however, and Nacogdoches maintained its reputation as an educational center.

The unexpectedly large additions to the scholastic population of the district caused the present embarrassment, but strenuous efforts are being made to surmount the difficulties confronting us.

As stated in the beginning, Superintendent Davis found it necessary to dismiss the entire fourth grade until quarters could be arranged for the pupils, and there is every prospect that next Monday morning will find the necessary room provided. Mr. H. C. Hatch is now circulating among our people soliciting funds with which to construct two rooms in the old high school auditorium. These two rooms will enable the school to proceed with a place for each grade, though necessarily there must be some crowding. If the proposed school tax increase to be voted on September 30 is carried, whatever amounts an individual may subscribe to help out in this matter will be refunded him. If the election goes against the increased tax, these subscriptions will have to be regarded as a donation to a desperate cause.

It behooves every enterprising, patriotic citizen to exert himself to influence the success of the tax increase proposition, and thus aid in sustaining the good name of Nacogdoches—and getting back the money subscribed to help in this crisis.

Turn out and vote for the increase.

NO SHIRTS MADE BY PENITENTIARY INMATES

Austin, Texas, Sept. 20.—The board of prison commissioners has no authority to establish plants for the manufacture of cotton shirts as proposed in a conference between the governor and Commissioners Dean and Sayles yesterday, according to an opinion by Assistant Attorney General E. A. Smith.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

The father lived but a few minutes and the son died while being rushed to a hospital here.

CONGRESS RECONVENES

Washington, Sept. 21.—Congress reconvened today at noon after a recess which began on August 24.

Under a gentleman's agreement with the house, however, that body will begin immediately a series of three-day recesses until October 4, while the senate goes ahead at full speed on tax revision, ratification of peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary and a number of other important matters, including anti-beer, railroad debt funding, Allied debt funding and Panama tolls bills. A lively fight on the tax bill is promised. Democrats plan not only to make a minority report on the measure, but will attack it vigorously on the floor, counting on support in part of their fight, at least, from Senator LaFollette and other republican members. According to democratic leaders their guns will be trained particularly against the provisions for the repeal of the excess profits tax and the reduction of the maximum of the income surtax rate.

THE WICKED PROSPER

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 21.—W. C. Oesterich, in charge of democratic headquarters here, today conceded the election of Holm Burson, republican, as United States senator over Richard Hanna, democrat.

GONE REPUBLICAN

Mexico City, Sept. 21.—Newspaper charges that more than 200,000 pesos in silver are missing from the special fund of the chamber of deputies, out of which salaries of members and "extraordinary expenses incident to the celebration of the Mexican centennial anniversary" were to be met and has created a sensation here. It is declared the official who might be able to clear the mystery has been missing since Monday.

PERSHING REACHES FRANCE

Havre, France, Sept. 21.—General Pershing returned to France today. The liner Paris was escorted into the port of Havre this morning by two French battle cruisers, ten torpedo boats and ten destroyers.

ISSUES SHARP WARNING

London, Sept. 21.—The British government has dispatched a strongly worded note to Moscow calling the attention of the soviet government to alleged breaches of faith involved in the pursuance by Russians in Central Asia and Afghanistan of a campaign of intrigue against Great Britain. An explanation is demanded.

PROJECT LOOKING TO N. & S. E. EXTENSION

The Chamber of Commerce held an important meeting Monday afternoon the object of which was to consider the matter of extending the Nacogdoches & Southeastern Railroad to a Santa Fe connection at a point between Center and San Augustine.

Mr. F. T. Whited of the Frost-Johnson Lumber Company was present by invitation and when called on by the chairman, Mr. Guy Blount, explained the situation as it affects the milling interests of the Frost-Johnson company.

Mr. Whited stated that his company owned enough timber adjacent to the present road to keep them running the big mill here about seven years longer. After that time the mill will close down for lack of timber unless a new supply is made available. This new supply can be tapped by extending the present road from some point near Oil Springs to a point on the Santa Fe between Center and San Augustine. This extension, if built, will pass through a fine body of timber now owned by the Frost-Johnson Lumber Company, and will afford a new supply of timber to run the big mill here for twenty years. Unless the present road can be extended as indicated, the new timber purchase will be cut from a mill built somewhere on the Santa Fe.

Nacogdoches is therefore confronted with the problem of lending assistance in extending the road or of seeing the big mill closed down at the end of seven years.

Mr. Whited explained that his company was not asking for a bonus or for donations but that they feel like the business men here should evidence their interest and appreciation by taking $25,000 worth of stock in the new road, this amount of stock, if held by the citizens of Nacogdoches, would act somewhat as a guarantee to secure a reasonable share of the business coming into Nacogdoches. This new line, when built, will give us the long-sought Santa Fe connection. It will guarantee passenger service to the connecting station on the Santa Fe.

After hearing Mr. Whited's statement of the case, a number of our leading business men expressed themselves in hearty sympathy with the undertaking.

On motion a committee composed of E. H. Blount, M. V. Wynne and L. B. Mast, was named to solicit stock in the new road.

Mr. F. S. Aikman stated that he would take $1,000 worth of stock and that he felt sure the entire allotment of $25,000 could easily be placed. Tom Summers stated he would take $500 worth of stock and would guarantee to furnish ten cars of freight yearly to the road.

Previous to the meeting, an excursion of business men was made to the Frost-Johnson plant for the purpose of inspecting the hardwood mill. This big mill, with a daily capacity of 35,000 feet, cuts nothing but hardwood. The new plant proved to be a revelation to those who had not seen it in operation.

The monthly payroll of the Frost-Johnson Lumber Company is more than $20,000. Nearly every dollar of this money finds its way into the channels of Nacogdoches trade. The extension of the proposed road practically guarantees the distribution of $240,000 yearly payroll for a period of twenty years.

The "live" business man of Nacogdoches requires no urging or argument to enable him to see the tremendous value this will prove to our city.

If this stock can be placed here the road will be built immediately.

ANYTHING FOR PARTY PEACE

A story from Washington that President Harding has offered Senator Borah the administration leadership jointly with Senator Lodge and that the invitation was declined with thanks gives a penetrating insight into the temperament of the executive. His motive confessedly was party harmony, an ambition that has become almost an obsession with the president and a policy that already has revealed its weakness and will continue to do so.

The white house desires to promote party harmony and mollify the dissenters in the senate is said on good authority to be responsible for the hybrid agreement known as the separate peace with Germany. Mr. Harding's premier, Mr. Hughes, and the president himself were both convinced, it is declared, that the thing to do was to submit the Versailles treaty with reservations because that offered the one way of avoiding the legal complications which are threatened by the course subsequently adopted. But, knowing that the Versailles pact was the only safe course, the president sacrificed it in the interest of party concord. He felt that it was more important to have a united Republican party in the senate than a safe and upstanding record in this country's dealings with foreign nations.

If the president persists in this flabby course he will be inviting an administration collapse. Good fellowship is a splendid asset, but the man in such a high station who expects to conclude his career without making enemies within his party hopes in vain. Strong characters have both friends and foes; weak characters either one or the other; rarely both.

If the president's plastic policy involved only himself, the public might be little concerned, but when his vigorous efforts to keep the peace within his party reflect on the nation as a whole and is likely to happen, the situation becomes more serious.

FAIRCHILD MAY ENTER RACE FOR CONGRESS

From many portions of the second congressional district Senator I. D. Fairchild is being urged to enter the race for congress next year, but the News cannot say what effect, if any, these solicitations will have upon our senator and distinguished fellow-citizen. For the most part they are coming from men prominent in the affairs of the district, men who have watched with approval the course of our senator at Austin and recognize in him all the elements of a first-class congressman, one who may be relied upon to take a leading part in all things relating to the welfare of the people as a whole and those of the second district in particular, and should he decide to enter the contest he will do so with the most flattering prospects of success.—Lufkin News.

MR. MCNESS EXPLAINS

My article in your paper of September 14th, on the Farm Bureau, has been criticised in regard to my statements regarding Mr. H. L. McKnight's connection with it as its manager.

I want it understood that I did not intend to imply that the failure of the Farm Bureau to function in this county as it should have done was in any way due to Mr. H. L. McKnight's connection with the Chamber of Commerce.

I am a member of both organizations, and as such have attended the meetings of the organizations, and know something about what has been accomplished. Mr. McKnight, as manager of the Farm Bureau, has brought before the membership the question of improved cotton seed, the hiring of a cotton classifier, the pooling of the cotton grown by the members, and in every case he did not receive support enough from the membership to warrant him to proceed further along these lines of agricultural improvement. Mr. McKnight, I understand, has resigned because of this lack of support from the membership, and every fair-thinking man must agree that there was no other course to follow.

I trust this explanation will clear up any doubt that may have existed with those who criticised my former article.

George T. McNess.

Mrs. J. D. Cooper, a lady of high attainment in ladies' ready to wear and corseting, is now with J. Eichel & Co. This firm is to be congratulated upon securing Mrs. Cooper and we welcome such people to our city.

NACOGDOCHES' TRADITIONS

The great and awful storm on the Gulf coast and which was so destructive of life and property in the city of Galveston and elsewhere, occurred the 8th or 9th of September, 1900. Ten thousand human lives were lost and millions of dollars worth of property destroyed.

Just twenty-one years after that catastrophe, to a day, came the recent destructive inland rain storms in central and west Texas, in which San Antonio was a notable sufferer.

The Galveston storm led to the construction of the great seawall there for future protection. It has proven effective more than once since it was built.

John H. Kirk was the leader in the scheme of building it. Corpus Christi is following this example, and is not alone in such a move.

How about such needs in Nacogdoches? The valleys of the two lovely creeks flowing through the heart of the town are by no means free from such dangers as other towns have been victims of. San Antonio has long been discussing such problems, and now will probably take action.

Nacogdoches has personal and individual reasons to remember the Galveston storm. John P. Davidson and wife and Miss Martha Griffith had just left Galveston after going there to place Dr. Mayfield in a hospital for a serious surgical operation. Mrs. Lindsey and some home friends, had just left there a day or so before the storm. Forest Cruse and wife and their infant son, John, had a miraculous escape in the flood. John Schmidt rushed down to see what had become of his daughter, who was there in a convent. He was one of the first outsiders to reach the city. Among others who went seeking loved ones in the exciting time were Col. Ferris of Alto, Dr. W. S. Mayfield of Longview, Oscar Hall, C. P. Branch and June C. Harris. There were several Nacogdoches people exposed to the danger of the storm. None were known to have been lost.

The Galveston storm consisted of a high wind which never slowed up for hours, and which caused high tides to rush in over the land, with a steady downpour of rain all the time. The wind and waves and the high waters all joined forces.

In San Antonio the river runs right through the best part of town in a very tortuous course. In dry weather it appears to be harmless. Big business houses are built on the very banks, which in an average are up to fifteen feet high. The county court house is within fifty feet of the river bank, and stands the Main Plaza. There is no swamp or ordinary river bottom. The general course of the river is from north to south. It is formed by big springs about three miles north of the Main Plaza, just outside the city corporation.

Just above the head of the river there is a big gasin surrounded by high hills or irregular shape having ravines and hollows leading into this dry basin, which has a big dry gully in it called Almos Crook. Heavy rains rush great quantities of water down this big hollow into the San Antonio river, and overflow it and the adjacent valley. The river proper never overflows but the Olmos basin pours down huge floods into it at rare intervals.

As a remedy against such overflows into the city, it has been suggested that one or more strong dams be built across the Almos valley at its lower edge, with one or more small openings in each vent or waste ways to permit a limited flow of water, to be carried down on the San Antonio river in harmless quantities.

The recent overflow destroyed enough property to pay for ample dams to have saved the fifty human lives and five millions of property.

The richly stored and used basements and the first floors above in the tall buildings were converted into a sickening stench of nasty stench by muddy stuff.

NOTICE

The season is almost here when a little fire in the heater in the morning will not feel at all uncomfortable.

It is out of the question for me to examine all the flues in the city; therefore, I will ask that you examine, carefully, your flues and see that birds' nests or any other combustibles are immediately removed that the hazard may be reduced to a minimum.

Our fire department is called a number of times during the early fall for flue fires, when, if the birds' nests had been removed there would have been no occasion for the alarm. I also want to ask that you see that the leaves are removed from the gutters on your house, for they are sometimes ignited from a spark from flues.

The tall grass and weeds near buildings MUST BE CUT NOW and removed or drastic action will be taken to have this done.

I thank you for your co-operation in these matters and assure you I want to do all I can to prevent your and my property being destroyed by fire.

L. I. Muller, City Fire Marshal

LAMAR ACKER PURCHASES LEE MOTOR COMPANY

A trade which had been pending for some time was consummated Monday, when Mr. Lamar Acker became the owner and took possession of the business of the Lee Motor Company, on East Main street.

In addition to the sales and garage business here, the trade carries with it the agency of the Dodge car for five counties—Nacogdoches, San Augustine, Angelina, Houston and Crockett—in which territory Mr. Acker will handle Dodge cars and parts exclusively, devoting his entire time and energy to the distribution of this superior machine. The Sentinel is glad to note the acquisition of this business by Mr. Acker and is confident he will make a gratifying success of it, as he is known to possess business qualities of a high order and no end or energy.

Mr. Lee went to Dallas, but it was not learned whether he would locate there.

Breaking the Shackles of Time

CLOCKS are as much a matter of course as suspenders or sausages. But it took energy and initiative to get the first clock on the kitchen shelf and start it going. The Yankee pack peddler was sole distributor and transporter. His lean, lank, loose-jointed legs set the limits for most distribution problems in those days.

Modern transportation with progressive sales methods—and advertising—have broken the shackles of time. They make a quick job of what used to take years. Through advertising, many an article has been introduced simultaneously in stores all over the country.

This newspaper does you a two-fold service. It not only brings you news of the world, but also news of what to buy, where to buy and how to buy.

The advertisements are news columns of merchants and manufacturers who have important stories to tell you.

Take advantage of them. Read the latest news of good things to be had—and where to get them.

A SAD DAY

Thursday was a sad day in Nacogdoches.

When the train from Lufkin arrived at 2:05 in the afternoon the bodies of two of our young people, both victims of tragical deaths, were taken therefrom and two funeral corteges wended their way to Oak Grove cemetery.

At 3 o'clock services were held over the grave of Miss Bell Florine ("Dee") Ramsey, who was drowned while swimming at Lufkin Wednesday night. The last rites were conducted by Rev. J. L. Massey of the Methodist church, and the remains of the beloved girl were laid to rest amid the sobs and tears of those who had known her in life, in some cases the grief displayed being piteous. A huge mound of beautiful flowers covered the grave, many of the offerings being of exquisite pattern—a floral display rarely, if ever, equaled here.

Immediately after the interment of Miss Ramsey, the body of Eugene Johnson was laid to rest a short distance away, Rev. S. D. Dollahite of the Baptist church conducting the services. The young man was killed in a train wreck near El Paso Sunday and the stricken family had his body brought home for burial. Here, too, were evidences of the deep grief of relatives and friends, and the sympathy of those present went out to the sorrowing ones.

LOOKING FOR TROUBLE, SHOOTING AFFRAY FOLLOWS

Tenaha, Texas, Sept. 19.—While Jerry Fonville, aged 66, a farmer living near San Augustine, has been suspected of certain acts which the Volstead law is supposed to have eliminated, he has until Saturday never given reason for anyone to express his reputation otherwise than as a peaceable, trouble-avoiding citizen. Saturday night, however, he lost that reputation and is being treated for a bullet wound in the neck which he may never survive.

Jerry reached town about noon full of moonshine and the rights of a free-born white citizen. He met Deputy Sheriff McClanahan:

"Got your gun?"

"No," answered the deputy.

"Better get it, then, 'cause I'm ready for you."

McClanahan went to the sheriff's office and got it. Then, not looking for Fonville or expecting to meet him, he and a friend went to the White Rose cafe for their mid-day coffee. Fonville was occupying the very first pony at the counter.

Both saw each other at the same time and Fonville reached for his gun. McClanahan beat him to it and shot, the bullet striking Fonville in the neck. He remained on the pony and McClanahan shot again, missing him but striking Hubert Snelling, 24, a waiter, above the hip, the bullet emerging over the stomach. Snelling was sent to a sanitarium in Nacogdoches, whence reports come that he is not seriously injured, while Fonville is being cared for here and is in a serious condition. No arrests have been made.

NACOGDOCHES YOUNG LADY WAS DROWNED IN LUFKIN

From the Lufkin News, 15th.

What has otherwise been one of the most pleasant Teachers' Institutes ever conducted in East Texas, the present one at Lufkin, was marred last evening by one of the most regrettable tragedies in the history of the town, when it became universally known about 8 o'clock that Miss Bell Florine Ramsey, one of the teachers attending the institute from Nacogdoches, was drowned at the Jones Lake while swimming with a merry party of friends. Although there were many in bathing at the time, it seems that Miss Ramsey had been missing for a few minutes before there was any apprehension for her safety, when gentlemen exhausted themselves diving in the deep water for the body as others would take their places to effect the rescue, it being said that the young lady was not recovered for about twenty minutes, and was then found perhaps fifteen feet away from the spot where she was thought to have sunk, the discovery being made by the means of a long paddle and the body was brought to the surface by Messrs. Ed Manning and Ulen Berry. At once every effort was made for restoration and physicians were soon on the scene, but the inevitable had transpired, life was extinct and the lovely and accomplished young lady so happily departing in the waters such a short time before had entered upon her last long sleep.

It is such tragedies as this that it may be said terrorize the soul, humanity stands appalled and loved ones so overwhelmed with grief can but look beyond this low ground of sorrow and veil of tears for any comfort or consolation in such a dark hour of agony and despair. It is only through him who hung to the Cross of Calvary can balm be obtained for the heart and in a measure one's apparent inconsolable lament be assuaged to that extent that we are reminded of the admonition found in holy writ that "He Doeth All Things Well."

The body was placed in charge of the W. M. Glenn Undertaking Department, and afterwards has held in state at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Collins, on Raguet street, until the noon train today, when the remains were carried to Nacogdoches for interment this afternoon, being accompanied by Superintendent Davis of the Nacogdoches High School, Judge J. M. Marshall of that city and a number of others, young ladies who were classmates of the deceased.

Miss Bell Florine Ramsey was the accomplished, and highly refined daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ramsey, an old and respected family of Nacogdoches. She was 22 years of age, and a graduate of the Nacogdoches High School, being valedictorian of her class. For the past two or three years she had been teaching school, she having taught at Pine Hill in that county last term and had been employed for the next session. She was a consistent member of the Methodist church, and was loved and admired by all her acquaintances. As a result of the unexpected calamity the institute stands at ease today, out of respect to the departed dead.

In common with every man, woman and child in Lufkin, The News joins in extending sincere condolence to the bereaved parents, relatives and friends.

It was learned this morning that through the commendable thoughtfulness of the Lufkin Chamber of Commerce, all the expense in every detail, incident to the funeral of the young lady, Miss Bell Florine Ramsey, who was drowned last evening at Jones Lake, is to be borne by that organization. The members also repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Collins, where the body lay in state this morning, and accompanied the

NACOGDOCHES GIRL TELLS ABOUT THE BIG FLOOD

Miss Lillie Burrows was in San Antonio during the late devastating flood, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Burrows, being very anxious about her, wired to learn if she were safe. Following is her reply:

San Antonio, Texas, 9-13-21.

Dear Mother and Dad:

Received your wire this morning. Don't know why I am so careless, but I never seem to think anyone should be worried about me.

And this time they shouldn't, but it was just luck, that's all. Where we live is a great deal higher (about 70 feet) than the downtown district, and of course the water didn't touch us. However, about a mile below us, where the San Pedro Creek runs, it simply washed away houses, trees, bridges, people and everything. The next morning window curtains were hanging in trees—everything was ruined. Bodies were found washed everywhere. I saw one little baby about three years old that hadn't been identified. Whole families were wiped out. In one tree there were two women and one man. The woman's baby had been washed out of her arms, and her husband drowned, while the man's baby had been washed out of his arms and his wife drowned. I know several who worked down town all night, and they said the cries and moans were something terrible. As you know, the city was in complete darkness except for the few spotlights on automobiles. The water was over a mile wide and from ten to thirty feet high. And all the time we slept peacefully at home, never dreaming of the awful tragedy right at our door. The water came up to the mezzanine floor of the Gunter Hotel; however, the Crockett was not touched. Well, there is so much one can't tell it all and some of it will never be known; but anyway, all the business district is completely demolished. All their front windows are smashed in and their basements and first floors are still flooded this morning and the storm occurred Friday night.

Rose is leaving tonight. Was afraid to let her go Saturday as it might have been very dangerous. Part of the city is under martial law and you can't go through it.

Lots of love and kisses,
Yours,
Lillie Burrows.

BAD NEGRO JAILED

Wednesday morning Constable Walters received a hurry-up call from the Climax neighborhood, where a negro named John Menifee terrorized and dispersed the woods gang of the Tilford-Hunt Lumber Company. Two members of which he specifically named as his "meat", charging them with having tampered with his wife's affections. One of these escaped, but the other, Rob Gassoway, was caught and the irate hubby started him, at the point of a gun, to his (Menifee's) home, where, he cheerfully informed the unhappy captive that it was his intention to kill both his wife and Gassoway as soon as he could get them together so that he could make a thoroughly neat and complete job of it. Constable Walters intercepted the procession some distance from its destination, however, and rudely called off the playful murder party and landed Menifee in jail on a charge of assault. Gassoway was the happiest nigger in Texas when the constable hove into sight. It was thought Menifee would certainly have carried out his threat had his plans not been interfered with.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT LUFKIN FRIDAY NIGHT

Fire discovered in the rear of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Bumpers about 8 o'clock last evening destroyed same with all of its household furnishings, two nice other residences being consumed before the flames were under control, one occupied by Mr. Bruce Lindsey and family and owned by Mr. J. D. McCall, the other a modern 7-room bungalow just completed by I. D. Fairchild, with the exception of being papered and the hanging of the doors, and which was to have been occupied by Miss Florence Arrington.

As stated, all three homes were modern buildings, among the nicest in that neighborhood known as the "Hill," upon which the home of W. A. Collmorgen and many others are located. It is not known how the fire originated as Mr. Bumpers, alone at the time, was on the front porch when his attention was called to the blaze in the rear of the house which spread rapidly, preventing the salvage of any of the effects; however, most of the furnishings of the Lindsey family were saved, although more or less damaged in hasty removal, while, as stated, the Fairchild house was unoccupied.

This residential part of the city, although thickly dotted with nice homes, is practically without fire protection, not being supplied with the proper mains, and laboring under such handicap, the fire department did heroic work, one line of hose something like 500 feet long carrying water from the nearest plug on Shepherd avenue. Other buildings in the vicinity narrowly escaped the flames by the alertness of the "bucket brigade."

The amount of insurance on the properties destroyed was not accurately learned, it being said that the Bumpers place was very well protected, and the McCall place carried only $1,000, or less than one-third of its value, while the Fairchild property was covered by builders' insurance.—Lufkin News, 17th.

SALVATION ARMY PROMULGATES APPEAL

An urgent appeal for Nacogdoches county citizens to respond to the Salvation Army Home Service Program for 1921 was issued September 9, 1921, by W. U. Perkins, chairman of the finance committee, who is conducting the financial effort for the Army here.

Through its Rescue and Maternity Home at San Antonio, its Children's home in El Paso and its various industrial homes for men, Chairman Perkins said, the Army is extending to all those in trouble the shelter of its protecting arms and assisting them in regaining footing in the battle for existence in respected society. To do this, he added, the support of all those interested in the cause of humanity is necessary, as the Salvation Army is merely acting in the capacity of agent for those in more fortunate circumstances in the work of relief.

Nacogdoches' quota of $1,000 is to be subscribed and every effort is being made by Chairman Perkins to raise the entire amount as soon as possible. The maternity work alone, he observed, entitles the Army to the full support of the citizens of this committee, as last year 200 girls were given a place of refuge in time of trouble while more than 60 babies were born in the home. In addition to this, he continued, the Army is maintaining boarding homes for girls in the larger cities to keep them from falling by the wayside and in addition is conducting children's homes in El Paso and various industrial homes for men scattered throughout the Southwestern division, which comprises the states of Texas and Louisiana.

Mrs. Dee Brown and son, Elmo, left Thursday for Dallas, where the family will make their future home. Mr. Brown, who has arranged to go into business at Oak Cliff, will join them about October 1st, having resigned his position with S. Mintz & Son, where he has been a popular salesman for years. We regret to lose these good people, but hope the change will redound to their benefit and that they may prosper in their new environment.

TO CONFEDERATE VETERANS

I am instructed from headquarters at Chattanooga to call a special meeting of Camp Henry Raguet, No. 620, U. C. V., at once. The object is to ascertain as definitely as possible the number of veterans that will attend the reunion, and also the number of ladies (matrons and maids of honor, etc.) that will attend. They want this information as soon as possible so as to make necessary arrangements for their entertainment while in Chattanooga.

I, therefore, call such meeting for Saturday, September 24, at 1 p. m., and earnestly urge every member of the camp to be present.

E. B. Lewis, Adjt.

DEAR OLD LUFKIN

(Published By Request.)

We take our hats off to you because you have touched our heartstrings and proved beyond a doubt that love rules your town. Our hearts were breaking with the sad news that death had overtaken one of our sweetest and noblest of girls, in your midst. Then came the echo of your voices mingling in our grief. It soothed and calmed our hearts to know that our sister city understood, and lent such a glorious hand.

May God look down and know how true you are and bless you as years roll on.

You have taught us, your older sister, how to love, how to show our good-will to those who are among us for only a short stay, should sad calamity reach out and snatch them into her strong grip.

The little girl that went to God from a watery grave in your town was worthy of all the great and good deeds you have done.

STIRRED, BUT FOR HOW LONG?

An aftermath of the Arbutle-Rappe scandal in San Francisco is the airing of a lot of stories about doings in the film colony near Los Angeles which seems to have been common property there for long. Booze was in unfailing supply at all times. Yet, nobody, either private citizens or officers of the law, felt called upon to take any action against those who all at once are denounced as violators of the statutes. Sometimes it takes a blaze of lightning to bring into full relief the significance of conditions which had been observed many times. This appears to be one of them. At all events there is manifested a purpose to go to the bottom of the booze parties and enforce the prohibition law as it has not been enforced before.

In San Francisco an attempt has been made to extract from the central figure of the Arbutle party a statement as to whence came the liquor that led to the tragedy. Nothing came of it. A curious public spread all over the country will watch eagerly for the next move. The illegal liquor traffic is business of such a character that there can be very little secrecy about it. It would not be profitable were not a great many people cognizant of all its details. A determined public officer should have no difficulty in getting all the information requisite to bringing the principal offenders to the bar of justice. Certainly where there are so many fully informed about the illicit trade as in San Francisco or Los Angeles the gathering of evidence should be simple.

It is not to be expected that the sending of a dozen or a hundred of violators of the prohibition law to prison will put a stop to illegal practices. But it unquestionably would make the business so risky that the numbers engaged in it would be appreciably reduced and the traffic would be minimized. Making liquor harder to get would not, of course, improve the morals of any people, but it will prove a check on vicious practices of which the Arbutle party at San Francisco was a glaring example. We might say that if the prohibition officers would work hard for a little while in performance of their duty their tasks in future would be easier. On reflection, however, we conclude that their jobs could not be easier than they have been, judging from the lack of results obtained.

THE ARBUCKLE ORGIES

What the demand for censorship never could accomplish, because censorship is un-American and contrary to American institutions, promises to be accomplished and most thoroughly accomplished through the revelations of the Arbutle case. The wide world was so shocked when the spotlight was turned upon the orgies of some of the elect in Nevada that the moral reaction is bound to be sweeping.

Here we have at last a view of the atmosphere in which some of the most notorious are produced. They have the fundamental reason for the demand for censorship. Here we have a fair perspective of the difficulties confronting the exhibitor, at whom the demand for censorship has been aimed so generally. And, turning from the cesspool in which at least a certain proportion of the pictures are created, one wonders less at the embarrassments of those who seek thru this medium to give the people clean and wholesome entertainment.

The reaction from the Arbutle revelations already has begun. That it will reach through the whole field none can doubt. And that out of it will come a reform procurable possibly in no other way appears certain.

THE TAX DODGERS

While there must be constant vigilance against the extravagance in the use of public money that adds to the tax burden, it should be kept in mind that one of the reasons for increase is that some evade payment of their share. The tax dodger has not received the attention he should.

The statement from Washington that the dodgers are getting away with more than a billion dollars every year that ought to go into the United States Treasury should set the country to thinking on this phase. In addition there is the tax dodging in states and communities. What is not collected from one person naturally has to be made up by collection from others.

It is time that governments devised some other system for dealing with the tax dodgers than that of laying their burden upon the good citizens; of passing up the unwilling and arguing still more from the willing.

SPEED KINGS WITH WORLD'S FASTEST CARS COMING TO STATE FAIR OF TEXAS THIS YEAR

Scene at big grandstand of State Fair of Texas during auto races, showing tremendous crowds that follow the most modern of all sports.

Returning from a trip through the Middle West and the North, where he visited several of the largest fairs, and saw some of the fastest automobile racing of the year, Secretary W. H. Stratton of the State Fair of Texas, has announced an entry list of drivers for the State Fair 1921 season—Dallas, October 8 to 23—that includes the best dirt track racers in the world, and men who drive the fastest makes of cars produced.

The entry list of the State Fair races will bring some bitter rivals of the turf into competition. Men like Haugdahl, Hovey, Claypool, Duray, Henderson, Kelley, and others in the list seldom meet in any one battle of speed. However, this season the State Fair of Texas hung up the purses that brought them. Here's the list of entries:

Jess Calohan, car, Richards Special; Ted Hill, car, Tempair Special; Fred Lockler, car, Ohio Special; Fred Lenz, car, Essex; Leon Duray, car, Oldfield Sub; Ray Claypool, car, Miller Special; Ray Lampkin, car, Duesenberg; Lee King, car, Duesenberg Eight; Sig Haugdahl, car, S. D. Special; Ted Rick, car, Essex; O. T. Barr, car, Frontenac; Les Allen, car, Frontenac; King Kelley, car, Stutz; Speedy Walters, car, Duesenberg; Jack Henderson, car, Ford; Eddie King, car, Essex; Billy Jackson, car, Stephens; Bill Ross, car, Ballot; Fred Hovey, car, F. D. Special.

The days of racing selected so far bring into play also the motorcycle lads. The State Fair will sponsor on October 11 a program of motorcycle racing, entries open to any driver in the world. Texas riders are expected to enter in this program in great number.

The auto racing will be held on October 12, 15 and 16. One big feature during these three days will be a three-day race open to Texas drivers and Texas cars only. The eliminations will be run the first two days, and the finals the third day.

PATRONS OF 1886 DAY IS ARRANGED FOR STATE FAIR

Great Exposition Arranges for Honorable Recognition of Veteran Attendants of First Fair

Did you attend the first exposition of the State Fair of Texas in the fall of 1886? If so, you are certain to be expected to attend the State Fair of Texas for 1921 on "Patrons of 1886 Day," when the veteran Fair patrons will gather for a special occasion of their own. This day is Tuesday, October 18, and will be especially marked for the patrons of '86 by a band concert by the Estacdo Mayor Band, staged in the Coliseum at 11 o'clock.

The State Fair of Texas opened its gates for the first time in 1886, when there was no such thing as a purebred cattle, diversified agriculture, or extensive commercial exhibits. The loyalty of its patrons, however, has permitted it to build into the largest State Fair in the United States, and it is in recognition of this spirit that led the State Fair to extend to its first patrons the signal honor of a day of their own.

"We certainly hope that the thousands of Texans who first attended the Fair will be able to enjoy "Patrons of 1886 Day" this year," says E. J. Kest, president of the Fair. "We are sure they will find the meeting with their neighbors of that first day a pleasure, and the State Fair will do all in its power to make the occasion an interesting one."

CHILDREN'S DAY GREAT EVENT ON FAIR PROGRAM

A wonderful sight is promised everybody who can wedge their way into the State Fair of Texas grounds at Dallas on Friday, October 14—for this is Children's Day of the 1921 season, when the youngsters will be guests of the Fair.

There isn't a doubt but that this day will see the greatest crowd of youngsters ever gathered at one spot in Texas. Last season, when the idea was first tried out, there were about 150,000 children in attendance. This year the Fair expects, and will provide for, at least 250,000 children.

This week sees the issuing of invitations to every child in the State through the schools. There are more than one million children in Texas and the invitation for Friday, October 14 is extended to every one of them. All they need do, if they haven't a ticket of invitation for the day, is to present themselves at the front gate and they will be cared for. On that day the children see what the State Fair itself has to offer without cost. In addition to this, the street railways of Dallas will furnish free transportation for the youngsters from any point in the city and return. All the young visitors need do is to reach the city and their day of enjoyment is assured.

CATTLE ENTRIES FOR STATE FAIR BREAK RECORDS

Other Divisions of Livestock Department Showing Marked Activity As Closing Dates Near

Advises from the executive offices of the State Fair of Texas—Dallas, October 8, to 23—state that the entries in the cattle division of the livestock department had broken all records of the past, both for number of animals entered and for diversity of the entrants over America. The entries for the cattle division closed on September 15, and a liberal flood of entries came in on the last mails.

This is interesting information to the cattle raisers and farmers of this section, for it assures them new material to survey when they visit the livestock departments. The cattle division executives state that never before in the history of the Fair have there been so many entrants from outside the State bringing new breeds for competition at the State Fair pavilion.

"We are delighted with the showing made," says Col. Frank P. Holland, veteran farm paper publisher, who is director in charge of cattle at the State Fair. "Naturally we had to assume that it would be harder to maintain standards this season, but the contrary is proved by the entries so far. Competition will be keener, if anything, than ever before."

The swine, sheep and goat, and the horse, mule and jack divisions of the livestock department, all having closing dates on September 26, report unusual activity. This is particularly true of the sheep and goat division. It is being freely predicted that the sheep and goat show at the State Fair of Texas this season will eclipse anything of its nature ever held in the South.

INDUSTRY AND COMMERCE WELL REPRESENTED

One of the strongest showings ever made by the industrial and commercial side of the State Fair of Texas will be made during the 1921 season—Dallas, October 8 to 23—according to the present figures of the exhibit and concession department of the big exposition.

At the present time the exhibit and concession business of the Fair is far beyond 1920, which had set a new high tide for the department. It was not believed last year that 1920 could ever be eclipsed but the first succeeding year bids to beat it easily, both in variety of commercial exhibits, and in the number of exhibits on the grounds.

The implement and machinery exhibits are going to prove unusually interesting, on account of the many new inventions that will be shown, and the developments of standard types.

Veteran of Civil War Still Hale and Hearty

GEORGE D. SHAW, Springfield, Mass.

"To say that I feel twenty-five years younger, twenty-five years healthier and twenty-five years stronger express what Tanlac has done for me better than any other way I can put it," said George D. Shaw, veteran of the Civil War, who now lives at 321 Walnut street, Springfield, Mass.

"I am now seventy eight years old and I don't hesitate to say that I have never known a medicine to equal Tanlac. For fifteen years I was subject to attacks of indigestion that were so bad at times I would have to lay up for a week or two. For a long time I lived on crackers and milk alone as nothing else agreed with me."

"When I started on Tanlac I took only one handful and was astonished to find that my days were thought of as numbered. I've been so wonderfully built up, I now weigh one hundred and forty-three pounds and my stomach is as sound as a dollar. In fact, I believe I could eat the old army rations again without it hurting me the least bit."

"I never miss a chance for saying a good word for Tanlac, and I would like to urge the boys of the 'Sixties' who are not feeling right to give it a trial, for I am sure it would put them in line just as it has done me. For a man of my age to have no physical ailment, to be well and strong and to enjoy life as he did twenty-five years ago, is certainly something to be thankful for and there is nothing too good I can say for Tanlac."

"Tanlac is sold in Nacogdoches by Stripling, Hasebrood & Co., and in Garrison by the Dale Drug Co."

ASSISTANCE OFFERED TO ACALA COTTON GROWERS

I am interested in seeing the farmers grow a better staple of cotton, and am ready to assist them in any practical way to secure a premium for the better staple.

For this reason I shall be glad to have you bring me samples of your Acala and, if you request it, will hold the samples until we can offer it in lots of 25 to 50 bales. I will pay you one cent per pound premium for all Acala that shows a good grade and staple.

If you prefer to hold until we can offer the cotton in lots, I shall be glad to sell it for the growers, and to give them the advantage of such premiums as we are able to get.

Where this cotton is properly gathered and ginned, it ought to show a high staple, and should bring a nice premium over the ordinary varieties on this market. Say to your ginners that you have a bale of Acala cotton which has a longer staple, and request him to lighten the roll and reduce the speed, to avoid damage to staple.

In my judgment it will be a mistake for each grower to singly sell or in lots of one or two bales. If sold this way, it will not command the premium it is justly entitled to.

Consider Acala superior to any cotton ever offered on the Nacogdoches market.

Call at my office and let's talk the matter over.

Signed: S. B. Hayter.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

Truston Anders, white, for 18 months an employee of the Frost-Johnson mill, was arrested Friday on the east-bound train at Garrison by Sheriff Woodlin on a warrant charging him with criminal assault upon the person of the 11-year-old daughter of J. H. Williams, also an employee of the mill. The alleged assault was committed Thursday. Anders' wife had driven him to a point near Maytown, to which place he walked and boarded the train to make his get-away. Sheriff Woodlin was on the alert, however, and headed him off at Garrison, making the arrest and committing him to jail.

WHO KNOWS THEM?

The Sentinel a few days ago received the following letter from its old friend, Henry Fuller. Diligent inquiry has failed to yield any information concerning the parties named. Perhaps some of our readers may throw some light upon the subject of their identity. The description does not fit our old friend, S. L. Brown of the Swift community, who is considerably older than the 36 years given as the age of the man named in the letter; besides he is and has been at home during the period stated.

Brownwood, Texas, Sept. 15, 1921.
Mr. Giles M. Helton,
Nacogdoches, Texas.

Dear Giles—Some three weeks ago, or perhaps longer, two men, a woman and child, came to this place and camped on the outskirts of town. They were traveling in an auto and said they were from Nacogdoches. The men gave their names as S. L. Brown and J. H. Cobb. The woman was the wife of Brown. I did not see any of the parties, and learned this from the secretary of the Retail Merchants Association. They were traced to San Antonio, and among the list of the lost in the recent flood at San Antonio, I notice the name of S. L. Brown, wife and child. I write this thinking you might get a good story out of it by finding out who these people were, and if they were in fact from Nacogdoches. If I remember correctly there was a S. L. Brown living near Swift, or Cross Roads, and he had a son or two. This man Brown who came here was apparently about 36.

Very truly,
Henry C. Fuller,

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS

Traditions of old Brileytown as heretofore written, did not tell it all. There were not many roads in the lands then and nobody thought of good roads as now understood. Road working was a pretense.

Marking from the county was at first over the old San Antonio road to Natchitoches, La., on the Red River 100 miles east of Nacogdoches. Later the river turned away from there and ran by Grande Ecore, 100 miles further east. Still later Shreveport became head of navigation, and so did Jefferson. Freight was hauled to and from these points in old-fashioned wagons using wooden axles and each carrying a tarbucket, to grease them. The wagons were drawn by oxen, horses or mules, four yoke of oxen as a rule, four or six mules. The round trip took over a week. The road to Shreveport passed DeLoney's near where Garrison is now located, and this use made it prominent.

The towns of Timpson and Tenaha had not been dreamed of nor the rabbit railroad. Logansport was only a crossing place on the Sabine river where a settler named Logan operated an old-time ferry, as did above on the Red River at his port.

What a change to behold. The business interests are figuring on a paved road to Mt. Enterprise, and everywhere else, Brileytown included.

The Rusk county line is not far north of Brileytown. It has an interesting history. About the year 1837 the Texas legislature directed that this line should be established thus—Run a line due north from the center of the square in the town of Nacogdoches sixteen miles. Where is that spot? Probably is on top of the hill north of Beech Creek. Somebody ought to mark it. Then run directly east to the Attoyac river. Thence run back due west to the Angelina river.

And the good roads work will make us closer neighbors with Rusk county, and reduce the hardship of traveling.

The Mt. Enterprise road about the Nacogdoches county line must be a hard road to make good, because of the big hills along there.

But the five miles from Douglass westward to the Linwood crossing on the Angelina river is rough and tough. Four miles of hills and hollows and soil that washes away easily, reaches the river bottoms, where the case grows worse to the limit. It is a low swampy bottom with sloughs and mud holes all along. It is the heaven of mosquitoes, frogs and snakes. The river has always overflowed the entire bottom for a space of a long mile, on various occasions. It leaves the road in the very worst condition as to mud and pees and the bridges across the side streams and low places are destroyed.

About the year 1852, Solomon Wolf, the man who had so many slaves that he did not know where all had to come a mile or more west of this crossing on the river. His interests over east of the river caused him to build a toll bridge, and a turnpike, extending from the river to the highlands eastward. This long bridge and turnpike were designed to make the route practicable. Alas, the overflow destroyed the turnpike and damaged the bridge. But the bridge was repaired and used many years. At times it was rebuilt. This gave the name of Wolf's bridge to a successor of Linwood. The name Linwood was given by C. and H. W. Raguet, who built a small store house on the west side of the river a few yards below the bridge at the foot of the hill near a spring. It was soon abandoned and the house gradually went into ruin.

Wolf was a convivial man and when he went on a whizz he was a noisy man. His friend, Dock Luckett, of Douglass, joined him in a spree in the Stone Fort in Nacogdoches. Luckett told Wolf not to be so noisy. In a fury Wolf attacked Luckett. A scrap was Luckett's delight. When it was over he laughingly said, "I mopped up the dirt floor in the Stone Fort with a Wolf skin—and made the wolf howl like a puppy when you step on his tail." But the boys in the army in Virginia said that Dock Luckett's bravery in cattle was not in accord with his fighting at home.

A negro man in Nacogdoches named Wat Starks, had a wife in the Wolf negro quarter and was allowed to visit her once a month. On the occasion of Wolf's tilt with Luckett, Wat got an extra visit to his wife by driving Wolf home in a buggy.

A few nights ago the family of Dicio Ramos were awakened by the fierce barking of the dogs, and upon going into the yard to investigate they found a huge rattlesnake "treed". CASON-MILLS

Coronial interest centers in the marriage Wednesday, September 21, of Miss Maurine Mills, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. Walter Mills, and Mr. Dick Kendall Cason, formerly of Nacogdoches, now residing in Orange, where he is connected with the Humble Oil Company interests in the new field.

The wedding will be a simple, home affair, with only relatives and intimate friends present. Pre-nuptial entertainments will be a one o'clock luncheon today for the bride and groom and out-of-town guests; given by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Sheeks and Mrs. R. A. Morris, at the home of the latter, 3525 Candler Ave and a tea at 5 o'clock this afternoon, given by Mrs. G. C. Kennedy, 1169 Candler Avenue—Beaumont Enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Cason, Jr., arrived in the city from Beaumont on this afternoon's train, and after a visit of two or three days here they will go to their home at Orange, where an apartment is being fitted up for them.

During their stay in the city the couple will be the recipients of a number of ante-nuptial entertainments and all our people join in the very best wishes for their future happiness and prosperity. The groom, is a Nacogdoches boy, reared here, and is highly esteemed by everyone.

Several entertainments have already been given in honor of Mr. Cason, among them being a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Monk on Friday night, a dinner by Miss Eula Mae Monk on Sunday, and by Mr. and Mrs. Ford Simpson Tuesday night all of an informal but very enjoyable nature.

The Sentinel adds its felicitations.

THE "OLD RELIABLE" THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

White Haired Alabama Lady Says She Has Seen Medicines Come and Go But The "Old Reliable" Theford's Black-Draught Came and Stayed.

Dutton, Ala.—In recommending Theford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said: "I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work."

"Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right, and I know for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals. Sour stomach and sick headache can be relieved by taking Black-Draught. It aids digestion, also assists the liver in throwing off impurities. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors."

Theford's Black-Draught is a standard household remedy with a record of over seventy years of successful use. Every one occasionally needs something to help cleanse the system of impurities. Try Black-Draught. Insist upon Theford's, the genuine.

SEES CLOTHING AS BLESSING

Writer of Opinion That Some of World's "Big" Men Do Well in Covering Themselves.

Wherever one goes in Polynesia one is reminded, by contrast, of the cost physically to men of our own race of our sheltered way of living, writes James Norman Hall, in Harper's Magazine.

There on every hand are men well past middle life, with compact, symmetrical bodies and the natural grace of healthy children. One sees them carrying immense burdens without exertion, swimming in the open sea for an hour or two at a time while spearing fish, loading ashore with no greater apparent effort for yet longer periods.

Sometimes, when they have it, they eat enormous quantities of food at one sitting, and at others, under necessity, as sparingly as so many dyspeptics. It would be impossible to formulate from their example any rules for rational living in more civilized communities. The daily quest for food under primitive conditions keeps them alert and sound of body, so that, whether they work or loaf, feast or fast, they seem always to acquire health by it.

I thought of the strange appearance certain of the chief men in America or France or England would make under similar circumstances, deprived of the kindly concealment of clothing. What a revelation it would be of skininess or pudginess! What an exhibition of scrawny necks, fat stomachs, flat chests, flabby arms!

To be strictly accurate, I had seen some fat stomachs among elderly Paumotuans, but they were exceptions, and always remarkable for that reason. And those who carried them had sturdy legs. They did not give one the uneasy feeling, common at home, at the sight of the great paunches of sedentary men toppling unsteadily along a strip of crimson carpet, from curb to club doorway.

HOARDER CHASTISED IN 1777

"Coffee Party," Composed of Boston Women, Confiscated His Goods, According to Old Letter.

"Females" of ye olde Boston, staging a "coffee party" in 1777 which rivaled in a small way the famous "Tea Party" in 1773, personally chastised a profiteer hoarder of foodstuffs and confiscated some of his stock, according to a letter from Abigail Adams to her distinguished husband, later second President of the United States.

Writing at Boston, under date of July 31, 1777, Abigail wrote to John, then attending the Continental congress at Philadelphia:

"There is a great scarcity of sugar and coffee, articles which the female part of the state is very loath to give up, especially whilst they consider the great scarcity occasioned by the merchants having secreted a large quantity. It is rumored that an eminent stingy merchant, who is a bachelor, had a hoghead of coffee in his store, which he refused to sell under six shillings per pound.

"A number of females, some say a hundred, some say more, assembled with a cart and trunk, marched down to the warehouse and demanded the keys.

"Upon his finding no quarter, he delivered the keys, and they then opened the warehouse, hoisted out the coffee themselves, put it into a trunk and drove off. A large concourse of men stood amazed, silent spectators of the whole transaction."

Those Who Dare Not Smile.

The ludicrous has its place in the universe. It is not a human invention, but one of the divine ideas illustrated in the practical jokes of kittens and monkeys. Curious it is that we always consider solemnity and encounter of wits as essential to the idea of the future life of those whom we thus deprive of half their faculties, and then call them blessed.

There are not a few, who, even in this life, seem to be preparing themselves for that smileless eternity to which they look forward, by banishing all gaiety from their hearts and all joyousness from their countenances. I met one such in the streets not infrequently, a person of intelligence and education, but who gives me (and all that he passes) such a rayless, chilling look of recognition—something as if he were one of heaven's assessors, come down to doom. I don't doubt he would cut his kitten's tail off if he caught her playing with it.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Extraordinary Time Keeping.

Methods of reckoning time have always been a source of trouble to scientists. The first standard was the lunar month—that is, the period of about 29½ days between one new moon and the next. Twelve of these months seemed to correspond to the four seasons, and so the year was fixed at 354 days. They soon found that they were getting badly mixed, that the seasons did not correspond to the months; in the course of 10 years they were more than three months wrong. The Jews and Greeks stuck in another month now and then. They added seven months in 19 years and managed to keep a clumsy track of time.

GAIETY STILL REMAINS UNDIMINISHED AT LUFKIN

Lufkin, Texas, Sept. 19.—The fourth tar and feather episode to occur in Lufkin within the last three months developed Saturday night at 9 o'clock when four masked men carried "Bud" Tullus, white, 30, single, a mile and a half out of Lufkin, and applied a coat of tar and feathers, after which they brought him back to town and dumped him out of the automobile near the location where they picked him up.

Tullus, a former fireman on the E. & W. railroad, has not worked for several weeks, nor has he shown any anxiety over a job. He was at the Pierce Transfer Company offices in Lufkin avenue, where he has been spending much of his time, when four men appeared, threw a sack over his head, tossed him into an automobile and drove off. A half hour later he was back in town.

St. Vitus Dance Sufferers Find Hope

(Thursday Health Talk No. 22)
(By R. W. Zilar, D. C.)

Health turns the Clock Backward

UNCLE BEN SAYS—
'For misery, Nevvy, looking on the wine when it's red isn't in it with lookin' on apples when they're green.'

This trouble is most commonly found in girls during childhood or about the age of puberty. But it may be found at any age in either sex. The trouble usually develops first as an involuntary twitching of muscles of the face or neck and if the trouble is progressive, the area of twitching spreads. Concentration of mind is poor, the temper is irritable, and the muscles are weak. The victim is easily exhausted. There is loss of appetite and usually considerable loss of flesh. The cause lies in the spine, the pressure on spinal nerves which causes the trouble being in the joints at the base of the brain. Usually the victim of this malady has the habit of carrying his head on one side. Chiropractic spinal adjustments will remove the cause.

BOY IS WELL NOW

"My son, twelve, became sick with St. Vitus dance. He could not eat or dress himself. He was under the care of physicians for six weeks without improvement. I was advised to try Chiropractic. In four weeks the boy was able to play again. Now he is back in school and doing well."—Anna Doudela, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1279.

DEALS BLOW TO OLD THEORY

Writer Points Out Fallacy of Supposition That Prehistoric Men Were All Savages.

The notion that all prehistoric men were brutes and savages dies hard, a notion which has been spread by poets, painters and sculptors as well as by many thoughtless prehistorians. A theoretic rebuttal is afforded in the simple consideration that any tribe in which brutal and savage elements predominated would have undergone a retrogressive social and racial development and would never have attained the superb qualities which we discover in many of the Eurasian races immediately on their emergence from the so-called savage state. Man is not a savage because he dresses in skins and uses stone and wooden weapons; he may be savage while riding in an automobile and using a rifle. "The New Stone Age in Northern Europe," by John M. Tyler, is refreshing for those who desire to bury the primitive savage theory once for all and to give our prehistoric ancestors credit for our fundamental virtues, both mental and spiritual, as well as to excuse them for certain customs which have only recently disappeared from our own civilization. Altogether, the new Stone Age covered not only a very long period of time, but one of great cultural progress, partly autochthonous, but more largely introduced from the East. The varied industries of the era, the valuable implements, the trade in salt, gold, copper and amber, the mining for flint, indicate people equal, if not superior, to the average inhabitants of the same regions of Europe at the present time.—Henry Fairfield Osborn in the Literary Review.

HISTORY REVEALED BY DEBRIS

Interesting to Speculate What Future Explorers Will Think of That of the Present Day.

When the archeologist wishes to know which of two civilizations is the older he seeks a place where the debris of one is piled upon that of the other—superposition, he calls it, Clark Wissler writes in Harper's. Again, if he wishes to determine the periods in the development of a single city he seeks out the places where the daily refuse was dumped. Naturally, the bottom of the dump is the older, the top the most recent. Experience has shown that pottery decorations and styles are subject to frequent changes and that where pottery is made numerous fragments find their way to the dump, where they form successive layers in order of their dates.

The first effective use of this method was in the valley of the Nile, where lies the refuse of the ages. In the strata of which was found the key to the history of early Egypt. The same method has been applied to the valley of the San Juan in New Mexico, in which lies the Animas river and this ruin, and to the neighboring valleys where similar ruins are found. The extensive researches of Kidder, Morris and Nelson have established a relative chronology for the pottery types in this valley.

"Good Queen Bess" of England. Elizabeth, the "Good Queen Bess" of England, whose reign from 1558 to 1603 was one of the most glorious periods in the history of her country, was the daughter of Henry VIII and his second wife, the famous Anne Boleyn. When Anne fell from favor and was beheaded, the young princess was declared illegitimate and for a time had an unhappy life. Finally, however, she was given her place in the succession, after Edward and Mary, and during Edward's reign she lived a peaceful life. While Mary was on the throne Elizabeth was more or less an object of suspicion, for it was well known that she had been brought up a Protestant, but at Mary's death in 1558 her right to the throne was unquestioned. The great issue confronting her was that of religion. She restored Protestantism, reinstated the English Book of Common Prayer and asserted the royal supremacy over the church, but she avoided fanaticism and showed herself willing to call to her aid Catholic as well as Protestant ministers.—Kansas City Star.

Arabian Horse Has Less Backbone. The tradition ascribing to the Arab horse extraordinary endurance is sustained by abundant evidence. H. K. Bush-Brown, who presents the case for the Arab in the Journal of Heredity, offers an explanation of the extraordinary endurance of animals of this breed based in part on the fact that the Arab has only five lumbar vertebrae (between the ribs and the pelvis) while all other families of horses have six. This difference in structure is believed to explain why the Arab, though small, can carry great weight. The anomaly illustrates the relation between structure and function.

Like the Poor and Taxes. The pile of rocks to be broken was a very large one, thought the stone-breaker as he gazed at it disconsolately between his bites at a large sandwich of bread and cheese, recounts the London Morning Post. A minister came along and gave him a cheery "Good morning," remarking afterwards that he had a deal of work to get through yet. "Aye," said the eater, "them stones are like the Ten Commandments." "Why so?" inquired the genial person. "You can go on breaking 'em," came the reply, "but you can't never get rid of 'em."

NACOGDOCHES GIRL IS DROWNED AT LUFKIN

The people of Nacogdoches were inexpressibly shocked and dismayed early Thursday morning when it was learned that Miss Dee Ramsey, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ramsey, was drowned at Lufkin about 8 o'clock Wednesday night. She was at Lufkin to attend the teachers' institute now in session there.

It was learned that Miss Ramsey was one of a swimming party that went to a nearby pool to enjoy a swim. She and Miss Irene Moore, her close friend, became separated from their companions, and when they started to rejoin them Miss Moore noticed that Miss Ramsey was not keeping pace with her and turned to ascertain the reason. Miss Ramsey was not in sight and Miss Moore turned and swam back to the point from which they had started. Finding no trace of her friend, Miss Moore became alarmed and screamed for help. When the other members of the party reached the scene a search for the missing girl was made and after some time her body was recovered from the depths to which it had sunk. Life was extinct, and vigorous and prolonged efforts at resuscitation were unavailing.

The body was prepared for burial and reached Nacogdoches on the afternoon train Thursday, interment being in Oak Grove cemetery.

In the face of an appalling tragedy like this it is impossible to speak calmly. The shock is too great, the distress too acute to contemplate it rationally. Intellectually brilliant and personally winsome, Miss Ramsey was one of the most popular young teachers of the county. Graduating with the highest honors of her class three years ago, she had since devoted her time and talents to the school room, where she was rapidly forging to the front as a successful instructor. Her friends were limited only by the circle of her acquaintance. She was loved by all. She won and retained the affection and hearty goodwill of pupil and patron. Her death is deplored by everyone. All that loving sympathy can do is being done to lighten the burden of grief which has been visited upon the unhappy family.

FIGURED IN NAPOLEON'S LIFE

Woman Set Down in History as One of the Most Beautiful of His Many Conquests.

Napoleon's life was one of fair women, but among them all few were more beautiful and more heartless than Marguerite Bellisle Foures. Napoleon saw her in Cairo where she was honeymooning with Lieut. Foures, having accompanied him in disguise on the transport. Napoleon promptly sent Foures to Paris with alleged important dispatches and began to make love to the bride. He was successful, and she moved to a cottage near the palace. The English captured her husband and, knowing of Napoleon's acts in Cairo, they promptly sent Foures back there, knowing he would seek revenge.

But he was a drop of water against the power of Napoleon. His wife was given a divorce, and he was sent to an obscure town in rural France. She then began to parade her capture, dressed in costly costumes, wore Napoleon's picture on a chain about her neck, and was with him constantly. The soldiers dubbed her "Cleopatra." When Josephine made up with Napoleon, and he was elevated to head of France, he left the fair Marguerite, although he gave her a small fortune. He also arranged a marriage for her with Henri de Ranchoup. Her husband was out of town much of the time, and she entertained with more brilliancy than discretion. She ended up by running away to Brazil with a young officer, where she lived happy and content until she was ninety-two years old.—Detroit News.

ENGLISH FIRST TO CHEW GUM

In the Year 1635 a Recipe for Its Manufacture Was Published in That Country.

Chewing gum isn't new, and it isn't American in origin, despite the fact that our English cousins keep telling us that gum-chewing is an American habit. In fact, they originated it themselves. John Bate, an English writer, gave a recipe for chewing in 1635. He called it "mouth giew." Here's the recipe:

"Take Isinglasse and steep it in water until such time as you may easily pull it to pieces put it into a glass or pot well loaded and set it in balneo; that is, in a pot of water on the fire. There let it remain until all, or most part of it, is dissolved; then strain it thorow a wide haire sieve; while it is hot, upon another course and close haire sieve, and when it is cold it will be like a thick jelly. If you would have it of a dainty smell and aromatick taste, put into it a little cinnamon bruised, and a little marjorom, and rosemary flowers, while it is dissolving, and if you please a small quantity of brown sugar candy to give it a sweetish smatch."

This recipe is taken from a book called "Mysteries of Nature and Art."

French Papermaking History.

It was from the early Saracens that the art of papermaking was acquired by the French, and passed on to the other nations of Europe. The earliest papermakers of France were the vassals of the French nobility who pursued their occupation on the estates of their overlords, fabricating the precious material required for use by their masters, say the historians. Their production, together with that of the monks of the various monasteries, represented the only paper production activity of France, as it emerged from the gloom of the medieval ages.

The first specimen of paper to be found in France bearing an authentic date is a document purporting to be one of the bonds given to the Jews by a Lieutenant of Richard I of England for the purpose of financing his crusade in the Holy land. It is dated 1190 A. D.

Ceylonese Plumbago

Plumbago, Ceylon's most important mineral product, is known all over the world for its luster, lubricating, polishing and binding qualities. In appearance it is a strong black crystalline. There are now about 1,000 plumbago mines in Ceylon, including all the shallow pits, open works and deep mines. The depth varies from a few yards to as much as 700 feet. Most of the mines are worked by natives, the only important one controlled by Europeans being the Medapola. In the majority of the mines the only machinery used is the "dabare." This consists of a long wooden barrel with handles at each end. A rope is wound around this with a bucket fastened to each end. It is worked by seven or eight men turning the handle.

Time Has Brought Changes.

When I was a young lady I was extremely thin and tall, and very sensitive in regard to my figure. Our club was about to give a masquerade which I was anxious to attend, but realizing how hard it would be for me to disguise myself, and yet wishing to represent something original, I remarked this to a young man at the club. He looked at me with a smile, and in the presence of all the other members said, in a most sarcastic voice, "Well, why don't you wear a rubber on your head and go as a lead pencil?" Oh, if he could only see me now, I know he would say, "put a couple of hoops around your waist and go as a barrel."—Exchange.

A Grateful Letter

It is in trying conditions like that related below by Mrs. Geo. L. North of Naples, N. Y., that proves the worth of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. "Two years ago last summer" she says, "our little boy had dysentery. At that time we were living in the country eight miles from a doctor. Our son was taken ill suddenly and was about the sickest child I ever saw. He was in terrible pain all the time and passed from one convulsion into another. I sent my husband for the doctor and after he was gone thought of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the cupboard. I gave him some of it and he began to improve at once. By the time the doctor arrived he was out of danger." Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

Arlington Caldwell was brought before Judge Guinn Tuesday under a writ of habeas corpus and bail allowed in the sum of $2,500 in each of two cases. He had failed to make bond Wednesday forenoon.

Business was looking up at the county clerk's office Saturday. Seven marriage licenses were issued on that day, which is rather unusual.

Keep Well and Be Happy

If you would be happy you must keep your bowels regular. One or two of Chamberlain's Tablets taken immediately after supper will cause a gentle movement of the bowels on the following morning. Try it. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

The coming conference at Washington on limitation of armaments is truly too big a matter to be treated in any narrow spirit of political partisanship. What a pity, however, that republican critics of Wilson did not take this view when men like Senator Lodge made a partisan question out of world peace!

If the administration at Washington went in more for deeds it would not have to exhaust itself so much in the use of words.

Let Us Forget

Let us remind you that Chamberlain's Tablets not only cause a gentle movement of the bowels, but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

Our manner of living makes us very susceptible to colds and a succession of colds causes chronic catarrh, a loathsome disease with which it is estimated that ninety-five percent of our adult population are afflicted. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a highly recommended cure for colds and can be depended upon. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

SHINDLER-RATCLIFF

A telegram was received in the city Thursday forenoon announcing the marriage at Rusk at 9 o'clock Thursday morning of Mr. Herbert Shindler and Mrs. Maud Ratcliff. This was not a surprise, as the friends of the contracting parties were aware that it was in early prospect.

The bridal couple went from Rusk to Dallas, and will soon return to their home here.

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY

The following relative to the death of Miss Dee Ramsey was among the resolutions passed by the teachers' institute at Lufkin and published in the News of the 16th:

"Be it resolved further, that we extend our sympathy to the relatives and friends of the promising young teacher, Miss Ramsey, of Nacogdoches, who met an untimely death Wednesday evening in the lake. Professionally we feel the loss of so splendid a young lady and teacher from our ranks. While we sorrow, we accept the great loss we thus sustain and pray that our Father in heaven may comfort and sustain the bereaved ones and may all of us confidently look to Him to fill the vacancy made by her untimely death."
