CANNING DEMONSTRATION

Mrs. Addie Sullivan of the extension service department of the A. & M. College was in Nacogdoches Tuesday for the purpose of conducting a beef canning demonstration, which was held in the county court room at the courthouse. A supply of 350 pounds of beef was brought into requisition and the work of using every particle of the meat was gone into. Sixty-one cans of steak were canned, and when the reporter was at the courthouse at 2 o'clock the roast process was being demonstrated. This roast is browned in skillets, placed in 3-pound cans and covered with gravy, making about as toothsome concoction as a reasonable person would want. The bones are placed in a boiler and cooked until the remaining meat is easily removed, and this is converted into chili. The bones can then be used in the making of soap, which leaves practically nothing wasted.

Many visitors from different parts of the county were interested spectators at these demonstrations, and doubtless valuable lessons were learned which will count largely in the household economy of the families represented.

Three of the leading makes of cookers were used, leaving the individual a rather wide choice.

These demonstrations are being made throughout the state under a corps of experienced and thoroughly capable teachers from the A. & M. College, and there is no doubt they will accomplish a great good. The housekeepers of the country are eager to learn, and what they do learn will be reflected in improved fare for the home table. Everyone should attend.

LIVESTOCK SHOW

The Nacogdoches County Livestock Show began here Wednesday morning on the postoffice square, and already there are many fine animals on exhibition. When the reporter dropped round at 1:30 there were 28 pens of hogs, 18 of chickens and one of 'possums, together with 23 cows, all first-class animals of purebred varieties and splendid appearance. It does one good to view these fine animals and birds, as it shows what can be done in Nacogdoches county in the way of growing purebred stock.

When the displays are complete the Sentinel will give a description of the exhibits and the names of the exhibitors.

Dr. J. L. Massey left Tuesday afternoon for Beaumont to attend the annual conference of the Methodist church. He is chairman of the committee to examine preachers coming in for traveling and full connection with the conference, and has been selected to preach the conference sermon at 7:30 Wednesday night. The business sessions will open at 9 o'clock Thursday morning and will be presided over by Bishop W. N. Ainsworth. The conference will close Monday with the announcement of appointments to the various charges.

The Rooster Crows

Yes, but who pays any attention to his crowing? We all know it is nothing but a bluff. But when the old hen cackles she is telling the world that she has accomplished something.

In other words, she is advertising. There is a difference between crowing and advertising. In the case of the fowls the difference is an egg. Our bank advertises, but we try to avoid crowing. When we speak of the real accomplishments of our bank we are not crowing, we are advertising—cackling if you please. And we have a cackle coming, don't forget that. "We deliver the goods."

ACCEPTS AMERICAN PLAN

Washington, Nov. 15.—With no reservation at all except in named specific details, Arthur James Balfour, with the explicit approval of David Lloyd George, at the second plenary session of the conference on limitation of armament yesterday accepted the program put forward by the American government on Saturday.

With the sweeping reservation "national security," Japan, through Admiral Kato, expressed acquiescence in reducing armament but gave no indication of how national security was to be interpreted.

What the other countries said was in the way of conversation—they not being actually part of the decision. But it was important after Monsieur Briand had spoken of his country's good will to the proposal, of its need of national security and of the crushing burden of land armament, Secretary Hughes nailed the subject by publicly assuring Briand that before the conference ended France would have an opportunity to bring forward her views on the limitation of land armament.

Other stars whose magnitude may surpass either of these can be measured, he said, by means of a new interferometer developed by Michelson.

THE PUREBRED STOCK SHOW

The Nacogdoches Livestock Association's exhibition Tuesday was a great success and the managers of the affair express themselves satisfied with the result. EIGHT PEOPLE DEAD IN TENEMENT HOUSE FIRE

New York, Nov. 14.—At least eight persons are believed to have been burned to death in a tenement house fire early this morning. Five unidentified bodies were found huddled together near a doorway on the fifth floor of the building, and firemen later found three more bodies. Two men and one woman were seriously injured and 30 others were treated for abrasions and shock. The building, a five-story tenement house, was occupied by 15 families.

REMARIED FORMER WIFE CHARGED WITH MURDER

MRS HOLTON DEAD

Austin, Texas, Nov. 14.—Mrs. G. N. Holtan, wife of the state treasurer, died at her home here early today. Flags on the capitol and the governor's mansion were lowered to half-mast and the treasury department is closed.

STEAMER ON FIRE

New York, Nov. 14.—The steamship San Francisco, which caught fire yesterday about 1,000 miles southeast from New York while en route from Marseilles to New York, is heading toward Bermuda today. A radio message said the fire was spreading. The steamship Ramon D'Larrinaga is standing by.

ELKS' MEETING

"FATTY'S" TRIAL

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 16.—Roscoe Arbuckle's trial entered its third day this morning with the jury nearing completion. Local interest in the case, evidenced by empty seats in the courtroom, is waning after two days of examining fifteen members of the venire, eleven of whom, including five women, were accepted tentatively.

NACOGDOCHES VS. BRYAN

All the stores of the city have agreed to close at 2:30 p. m. next Friday in order that everybody may have the opportunity to attend the football game between Bryan and Nacogdoches on the local gridiron. Business will be resumed after the game.

This contest promises to be lively from start to finish. Bryan has a good record and Nacogdoches has not met defeat this season. Interest in the game is growing among our people, and Friday's attendance probably will be a record-breaker. Let us beseech the weather man for a square deal.

Will Summers, section foreman for the T. & N. O. at this place, was arrested Monday in Dallas and Sheriff Woodlan of this county received notice to come after him. Summers is wanted here for wife desertion and also for removing an automobile which he had purchased of the local Ford agency but on which a lien operated. The car was left at Mesquite, a village a few miles east of Dallas. Sheriff Woodlan will go for his man Wednesday.

Through an oversight which we can not explain, the name of Rev. S. D. Dollahite of the Baptist church was omitted from the list of those taking part in the meeting at the Methodist church Sunday night for the purpose of expressing the good-will of our Christian people for Rev. Dr. Massey, the retiring pastor. Mr. Dollahite was the originator and prime mover in making the meeting the success which it attained, and presided as chairman Sunday night. The omission was entirely unintentional, and we hope Mr. Dollahite and others taking part will pardon the involuntary remissness.

ARMISTICE DAY

Three years ago today the world's greatest war ended, with America and her allies victorious in the field.

Naturally that day became one of the peaks of history, and instinctively, the people feel the desire to commemorate it.

And in the observance of Armistice Day this year there is reason to invest it with more solemnity and thoughtfulness than is ordinarily manifested on patriotic holidays.

For it will mark the funeral of America's unknown hero, and will recall the sacrifices that the common people of this and other nations made for the preservation of civilization.

To every soldier and sailor and to every one who supported them in their patriotic service, the day can not be other than solemn and productive of a spirit of unselfishness.

But this is not all. The nation will turn from bestowing its final tribute upon its typical hero who sacrificed his life for its cause, to the serious effort of making sure that the thing that took the life of this unknown and millions of his comrades, in the words of the president, shall "not be again."

Final preparations will be made for the convening of the disarmament conference, whose motive, the world understands, is to preserve the peace so dearly bought, and to make possible the enjoyment of its fullest fruits.

The past and present thus converge in this day. It is an anniversary that calls not only for a look back into the past at a great victory and for the expression of gratitude and pride for what has been accomplished there, but also for looking forward courageously and unselfishly into a future which seems to hold the immediate destiny of the present ruling nations of the earth in its hands.

It is a day not only for thanksgiving and praise for blessings already bestowed, but likewise supplication for divine guidance in perpetuating those blessings, and bringing the whole world's life into accord with the divine will and program.

The issues of the day are surely capable of stirring the hearts of the people to loftier sentiments than they have experienced since the sacrificial days of the war, and to steel their determination to restore and maintain permanent order in the world.

TEXAS' GREAT WOMEN

Who were the great women in the history of Texas?

The woman's National Foundation, adopting the suggestion of its executive head, Mrs. George Barnett wife of Major General Barnett, commander of the United States Marine Corp., will incorporate in its new civic home in Washington, D. C., a Hall of Remembrance to the great women of America.

To insure a complete presentation of the names from each state, the Foundation asks that the people—clubwomen, teachers, students and others who may be interested—offer the names they think should be included.

Each name sent forward should be accompanied by dates and the record of achievement. The names should be sent direct to the Foundation at Connecticut avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Names for the Texas pillar that have been submitted include Mrs. M. B. Lamar, wife of the second president of the Republic; Rebecca Fisher, who saw her parents murdered by Indians and was herself made a captive; Mrs. W. H. Wharton and Mrs. Thomas J. Rush, both prominent at the time Texas was fighting for her independence.

Among the nationally known women associated with Mrs. Barnett are Mrs. Clarence Crittenden Calhoun, Mrs. John Hays Hammond and Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins. They with others have purchased a $1,000,000 site in Washington, D. C., on which the foundation buildings are to be erected.

ARE WE LOSING THE HOME

Much has been said with tongue and pen on the subject of home life in America. There are untold volumes of printed matter setting forth the fact that today the home is not doing either for children or grownups the thing for which it was designed—the providing of wholesome family life.

But unless we address ourselves actively to the task of putting into practice our voluminous preaching on this subject we shall not advance greatly toward a solution of the problem.

It would be folly to regard this thing lightly and to hold that it will remedy itself. No permanently wholesome life either in the community or for the nation can be built on a substantial basis unless home life and home training play a great part in this process.

The obvious conclusion is that if we cherish ideals that make for desirable manhood and womanhood and for a more efficient citizenship, we can not afford to lose sight of the fact that these ideals are maintained in the home. Other institutions may help in this process; but they can only help, they can not supplant the home.

OUR WAR HEROES

Sergeant Samuel Woodfill, whose home is in Bellview, Ind., has been called to public attention by General Pershing as one of three greatest individual heroes of the war. Single-handed he slew nineteen German soldiers and captured three machine gun nests. We have heard much of Sergeant York, who captured 132 Germans, and of Major Whittlesey, and his men of the "lost battalion," but the feat of Sergeant Woodfill, hitherto has had little notice except in an official way, though he was granted the Medal of Honor by congress and numerous other decorations.

It is proper that honor due should be accorded men who perform notable feats in the face of danger and it is gratifying that so many escaped the perils of the battlefield after showing the mettle they possessed. Yet, how many others there may have been who possessed equal courage and who made equally valiant attempts, yet perished in the efforts, leaving no record of their daring. Had any one of these men who stand out as conspicuous heroes been killed it is possible that all evidence of their efforts would have disappeared with them.

If that motion picture colony were to have itself filmed it is not likely that it would be passed by the censors.

There is still hope that the cost of living will not increase, so long as no investigating committee starts an inquiry.

A name is spread across the front page one day and the next it sinks into oblivion. Perhaps you faintly remember Parley Parker Christensen,

HIGHWAY QUESTION IS DISCUSSED AT MEETING

At a meeting Wednesday night at the county court room, the road-building question, as it relates to and concerns Nacogdoches county, was gone into at considerable length and plans formulated which will go far toward completing the projects that are now under way.

There were present E. J. Windrow, state highway engineer; Capt. J. D. Fauntleroy, district engineer, U. S. Bureau of Public Roads; A. C. Love, engineer, state highway department; O. B. Kercher, highway engineer, U. S. Bureau of Public Roads; County Judge J. M. Marshall, Commissioners W. B. McKnight, A. B. Stoddard and L. B. Moss, together with a number of citizens interested in road-building.

After Judge Marshall had outlined the financial situation of the highway projects of the county, Mr. Windrow announced that the three bridges on the roads otherwise completed would be given 50 percent of their cost by the state highway department, the other 50 percent to be provided by the counties on whose borders the bridges are to be constructed.

Captain Fauntleroy brought up the matter of federal aid, and explained the working of the plan embodied in the road appropriation bill passed recently by congress carrying the sum of $75,000,000.

The best of engineering skill and construction material would be provided and all highways built under direction of men widely experienced in road building. There would be no squabble over the issuance of bonds by the different counties, and the costs would come from a state fund, reinforced by national aid.

"In the first place it would show that the people of Nacogdoches are willing and ready to do their patriotic duty of contributing to the defense of the nation, so that we will not be unprepared in case another war should come," said General Hulen. "Of course, nobody wants war and we all hope there will be no more wars, but we never can tell what the future holds."

"In the second place, it is a wonderful outlet for the energies of the young men of the town, with their drilling, rifle practice on the range and their social evenings in the company armory. It makes better men physically of them and makes better citizens of them."

"In the third place, the pay of the officers and men and the cost of the upkeep of the armory is borne almost entirely by the federal government, with a small contribution from the state, and this brings in thousands of dollars annually to the town."

General Hulen, who active as president of the Trinity and Brazos Valley railroad, devotes much of his time to reorganizing the Thirty-Sixth Division of the national guard, of which he is the Commanding General.

"I am delighted to know that a company is being organized in Nacogdoches," said General Hulen, "and I trust that the good citizens of the town will put all their support back of Captain F. J. Freeman who is organizing the company."

We are unable to detect any indication of unemployment among thieves. It would be hard to convince a man in prison that one's sins will find him out. The son of a wealthy New Yorker is washing dishes in a hotel to learn the business from the ground up. That's the way to break in.

Burglars Don't Seek The Limelight

DARKNESS is their stock in trade. They work by stealth—unheard and unseen—their movements cloaked in secrecy. It's honest folks that seek the light. They are the only ones who can risk it.

It's the same way in business. The manufacturer or the merchant who is not sure of his goods does not dare to advertise. Advertising would hasten the end of his business career—put him to the test he could not meet.

The man who advertises, deliberately invites your inspection. He tells you about his product or his merchandise and then lets it stand on its own merits. You can depend on him. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays you to read the advertisements you find in the columns of this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you

Advertisements are interesting, instructive and profitable. They throw a powerful light on the very things that concern you most. Read them.

OUR NATIONAL GUARD UNIT

Houston, Texas, Nov. 11.—Organization of a national guard company in Nacogdoches would prove beneficial to that city in many ways, in the opinion of Major General John A. Hulen as expressed in an interview here today.

"In the first place it would show that the people of Nacogdoches are willing and ready to do their patriotic duty of contributing to the defense of the nation, so that we will not be unprepared in case another war should come," said General Hulen.

"In the second place, it is a wonderful outlet for the energies of the young men of the town, with their drilling, rifle practice on the range and their social evenings in the company armory. It makes better men physically of them and makes better citizens of them."

"In the third place, the pay of the officers and men and the cost of the upkeep of the armory is borne almost entirely by the federal government, with a small contribution from the state, and this brings in thousands of dollars annually to the town."

General Hulen, who active as president of the Trinity and Brazos Valley railroad, devotes much of his time to reorganizing the Thirty-Sixth Division of the national guard, of which he is the Commanding General.

"I am delighted to know that a company is being organized in Nacogdoches," said General Hulen, "and I trust that the good citizens of the town will put all their support back of Captain F. J. Freeman who is organizing the company."

OBSERVATIONS

The reformed dance is another disarmament movement.

The unemployment conference will at least furnish employment to a number of economic advisers.

No matter how the tax burden is shifted the average individual is going to feel enough of it to know that he is carrying something.

Washington dispatches state paper money is to be made smaller. In fact, the average citizens has noticed the shrinkage for some time.

Britain is not buying as much cotton as heretofore, which leads to a fear that there will be a consequent falling off in this country of imported woolsens.

Alexandria, Minn., has barred "Main street" from its library shelves, or shelf. The library board probably figures the writing fellers are getting too darned personal.

A woman fashion expert says perfection in the manufacture of stockings has brought the short skirt. Most everybody will be able to see through what she is talking about.

Impression that intoxicating beverages can be made in the home is a mistake, says a news item. Notwithstanding that, they are, which would indicate that the impossible is possible.

What goes up must come down, as is proved when the lone passenger on the rear seat hits the car's top.

New York plans to suppress prohibition jokes on the stage, but probably a few enforcement officers will keep the world well supplied.

The unemployment conference want ed lower freight rates, probably with the idea that it would keep 5,000 men busy two years making up new schedules.

Perhaps the New Yorker who, while sitting in his office, yawned so much that he dislocated a shoulder is the "tired business man" we hear about so often.

Enough was revealed in the inquiry by a congress committee into the Ku Klux to show that the organization is a good thing—financially for those running it.

There has been invented a metal that is five times lighter than aluminum, but what we seem to need is the invention of something heavy enough to keep things down.

Four more applicants for membership in the League of Nations are further reminders that the Harding association is not being awaited.

The Greek army is retreating to a safer position and the Turks are doing everything they can to help them arrive ahead of schedule time.

The world has been out of joint for some time, but the doctors do not seem to be able to reduce the dislocation.

Several hundred New England jewelers have joined in establishing a watchmaker's school at Medford, Mass.

It has been determined that an elephant lives 400 years. Aren't some people observing?

The Greeks claim to have destroyed 15 Turkish divisions in eight days. Were the Turks all asleep?

Possibly a trial divorce, the latest in separations, avoids the services of a co-rep.rdent.

THIN, FLAT HAIR GROWS LONG, THICK AND ABUNDANT

"Danderine" costs only 35 cents a bottle. One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair and in a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over your scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

AN AUSTRALIAN ON AMERICAN PROHIBITION

The result of my inquiry and observations on prohibition in America," said Mr. Herbert Hoare, "is that, on my return to Australia, I intend to refer to what I have seen as 'the miracle of prohibition.' That there are violations of the law I am prepared to admit. But the thing that amazed me was the almost entire absence of objectionable street scenes, the reduction in crime as compared with pre-prohibition days, the conversion of saloons into restaurants, banks and general stores, often with an improved rental and a bigger pay-roll. I visited police courts and penitentiaries, and all parts of such cities as San Francisco, Denver, Chicago and New York, and my testimony is that I saw prohibition in action producing happier homes, increased employment, fewer bad debts, business prosperity and greater efficiency."

BULLDOG VS. TIGER

New York, Nov. 12.—The Bulldog of Yale, unleashed, met the roving Tiger of Princeton at New Haven today in the second of football's big three clashes of the season. The Princeton eleven was rated highly because of their victory over Harvard, but Yale, undefeated this season, was ready with a most formidable array and seemed an equal choice. The few non-partisans among the visitors eager to witness the battle included Marshal Feck.

FORMER LOCAL KLANSMAN SAYS NOW UNNECESSARY

Dr. Baucom, Baptist Pastor of San Angelo, Tells of Experiences as Kluxer of Reconstruction days—He Once Was Indicted But Case Was Dismissed.

San Angelo, Texas, Oct. 15.—Residing in San Angelo and conducting religious services regularly in eight West Texas counties, comprising the Concho Valley Baptist Association, is thought to be the only surviving active minister in Texas who was ever indicted as a Knight of the Ku Klux Klan and for participating in that organization's affairs in reconstruction days.

He is the Rev. Sterling Franklin Baucom, Baptist missionary and a preacher for 40 years, during which time he has lived in Nacogdoches, Beeville, Greenville, Houston, Waco and Sulphur Springs. His acquaintance is state wide. He doesn't believe there is any justification for a Ku Klux Klan at present.

Episode is Related

The episode between the Klan and the federal government that almost resulted seriously for Dr. Baucom and 90 other citizens of Nacogdoches county happened in 1869 and 1870, four years and more after Lee's army surrendered to Grant at Appomattox.

Carpet-baggers and other irresponsible parties, who sought to profit by the South's prostrate condition, were in charge of the local and state governments, says Dr. Baucom. They preached racial equality to the liberated negroes, inflamed them to acts of violence and deputized many.

E. J. Davis then was governor of Texas and the first open breach with the white citizens of Nacogdoches county took place when his officers broke up a session of justice court, officials of which had been duly elected. Later, John Birdwell, a constable, was called to his front door and killed, and an assistant, named Harwell, was shot down in the streets, dying from his wounds. Both were white men.

Assassins in Flight

The assassins, five of them white men and one negro, fled on horseback and were trailed all the way to Austin, 170 miles away, where the citizens surrounded the capitol, called on the governor and secured the delivery of the five white men. A pledge was made to the chief executive that a fair and impartial trial would be accorded the men. This was done, the five men were convicted and were sentenced to the penitentiary.

Shortly after this incident, which was known as the Linn Flat raid, 91 citizens of Nacogdoches county were arrested and arraigned at Tyler before the federal court upon charges of being Ku Klux. They faced a penalty, upon conviction, of serving six years in prison, fines of $6,000 each, or both. The Rev. Baucom, then a lad 17 years of age, was one of the 91.

Cases are Dismissed

The charges in brief were that the defendants had deprived certain citizens of the United States of their rights, but the cases were thrown out of court on a technicality to the effect that the indictments did not relate in what manner citizens had been deprived of their rights.

"So far as I know there never was a single conviction of a Ku Klux in federal court in those days," said Dr. Baucom, as he talked of events of more than half a century ago. "The Klan was too well organized and embodied nearly all the white residents. Constituted law and order, as administered by the carpet-baggers and their negro henchmen, was a myth for the protection of the home and of rights as citizens."

"It sprang into existence almost simultaneously all over the South without the campaign and propaganda that has featured the so-called successor to the organization of reconstruction days. There was an imperial wizard over in South Carolina or somewhere, but most of the Klans operated independent of the other, though co-operating with units in neighboring counties."

Blacks Dealt With

The Ku Klux dealt principally with overbearing, impudent blacks whose presence was a menace, though occasionally a white man had to be attended to. Executions were very few, the guilty persons in most instances being merely flogged. Where the Klan attended to one man in a community, that settled matters. The rest behaved themselves afterward.

Generally when a visit had to be paid to a malefactor, the Klan in some neighboring county did it. Every citizen was at home on the night the white-robed horsemen appeared and could prove by witnesses that he was not a participant. That's why the Klansmen never caught.

"The superstitious negroes thought the Klansmen were spirits from the evil world and soon desisted in their evil ways. Without their support the carpet-baggers soon failed to run the country and the native-born white citizens assumed charge.

"Then the Ku Klux Klan disbanded forever, its work of maintaining white supremacy and of protecting the home having been accomplished. Outrages were committed in those days that are unbelievable now and it is not pleasant to think what would have happened had the Invisible Empire not existed."

Sees no Need for Klan

There is no need at all for the Ku Klux Klan in 1921 in comparison with over 50 years ago, in Dr. Baucom's opinion. Where officers discharge their duties, the law is sufficient, he thinks. The only excuse for the Klan, if any, is where moral laws are flagrantly violated and the statutes cannot touch the offenders who flaunt their wickedness. There may be extreme cases, says the veterans minister, were disciplinary measures by the Klan are productive of good.

"But as a democratic people, we must stand by the constituted law and government," says the Rev. Baucom, emphatically. "Ku Kluxism, as it exists today, eventually will lead to anarchy and bolshevism. It is mob rule by a few, who hide their identity, and denies the citizen his right for a trial by jury. It also permits irresponsible persons to settle grudges and old scores."

"If people who are identified with the new Klan would put as much vigor into assisting duly elected officers and do it in the open, far better results would be obtained. Then, if the officers fail to do their duty, the voters should remove them."

Baucom is a Minister

Dr. Baucom was ordained as a minister near Nacogdoches 40 years ago. He served as pastor in that county for a score of years, then resigned to take up state missionary work under the Baptist General Convention of Texas, and in this capacity was stationed for periods of various length at Beeville, Greenville, Houston and Waco in the order given.

The failing health of one of his sons, who was a senior in Baylor University, from which another son had graduated, caused him to give up his work as a state evangelist over two years ago. Dr. Baucom was assigned to Sulphur Springs, but came here in June, 1920. Under his guidance during the first fifteen months of his endeavor in eight West Texas counties, comprising the Concho Valley Baptist Association, 700 additions have been made to the church and 400 persons have been baptized.

Dr. Baucom is in his 69th year, but is vigorous and in splendid health, and spends most of his time in his automobile, visiting the numerous churches in the district. Higher officials state that the work in the district was never in better condition.

Takes California Trip

Dr. Baucom was granted a month's vacation this summer, and with his wife and children, motored to California. After residing in nearly every portion of Texas during the two-score years he has been a minister, he says he likes West Texas best.

"A man's spiritual and mental vision, like his physical vision, seems broader out here where you can see for miles and miles," comments the veteran preacher. "His thoughts are bigger whether he ever becomes great or not and it makes for friendliness and good fellowship. I like the country and the people and expect to complete my life's work here."

MEMORABLE MEETING AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

There was a memorable meeting of our people at the Methodist church Sunday night, all the other churches abandoning services that their members might give to a tribute to Rev. Dr. J. L. Massey, the pastor who for four years has served that congregation so faithfully and effectively. The house was simply packed with friends of the departing minister, all being eager to express by their presence their appreciation of the good work done by him during his pastorate here. Dr. Massey has served the four-year limit allotted by the laws of his church for the incumbency of one pulpit, and left Tuesday for Beaumont to attend the annual conference, which will transfer him to another charge.

The meeting was opened with the singing of that great hymn, "Coronation," by the congregation, which was followed by a prayer by Rev. W. G. Higgins of the Christian church.

Rev. George C. Moore of the First Presbyterian church read a Scripture lesson, which was followed by a duet by Mrs. Greer Orton and Mrs. W. E. Feazell. Then Rev. M. C. Johnson of the Main Street Presbyterian church delivered an address and the choir sang a beautiful anthem. This was followed by an address by Rev. C. D. Atwell of the Episcopal church, to which Dr. Massey responded in feeling terms. A prayer by Rev. Bennis Carnes of the Congregational Methodist church closed the services.

All the speakers paid glowing tributes to the good man who is to leave us, and the congregation heartily endorsed every word of commendation uttered in his behalf.

OUR HEROES

There was no public demonstration in Nacogdoches in commemoration of Armistice Day, but the boys who made the supreme sacrifice for their country in the late war were not entirely forgotten.

At the northeast corner of postoffice plaza, the most conspicuous location in the city, there was placed a wreath of yellow chrysanthemums, to which were attached streamers of white satin bearing the names of our dead:

Many passers-by stopped to inspect the list of our soldier dead, and some saluted reverently. To the thoughtful it came that but for these boys there would be no Armistice Day—that without the sacrifices of such as they there, would have been no victory, and we would have now been under the heel of a tyrannical foe.

All honor to our heroic dead!

Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Cason, who were married at Whitney, Texas, on Thursday, after a brief stay in Waco and Houston and a visit to Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Cason, Jr., of Orange, are expected to reach home by the T. & N. O. Monday afternoon. They will make their home for the present with Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Cason.

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS

Every dog has his day. The old Confederate veterans had their day. Their recent reunion at Chattanooga was a big day. Their next reunion is set for Richmond. Many of them will have passed over the river to rest in the shade of the trees. There will soon be none to answer such roll calls. The Great Commander will call the roll up yonder, and they will answer.

All honor to the generosity and noble sentiment manifested by the people of the glorious, old mother county of Nacogdoches in donating expense money. In this honor the Ku Klux Klan deserves a share.

As to the right and wrong of the gray old veterans and of the Ku Klux Klan "There is so much good in the worst of us, and so much bad in the best of us." o

We can not boast of the first of us, Nor yet condemn the rest of us.

Memory again reverts to the distressful period of the civil war. There were man slackers, then called dodgers and hushwhackers, and they were joined by evil-doers, who had no regard for right or wrong, or for humanity or country.

Some of the slackers left the country. Some went west across the Rio-grand. Some went back to Illy-noise and Indy-anny. Some hid out in the woods and cane-brakes. Jim Curl could tell of the swamps down below Chireno. August Teutsch knows about Melrose. Whig Rogers knows things down below Douglass. Squire Murph knows about the Lin Flaters, and Marion Rainbolt could tell about the ex-sheriff captain of Co. H in Tom Green's Cowboy Cavalry, who quit the southland suddenly and went north for safety. But it is all over now, and the hatchet is buried.

Away out west on the frazzled edge of Texas bandits and outlaws got busy. They robbed and stole and murdered at will. Several Nacogdoches men were murdered. One was Jim Linn, a leading and respected business man, murdered in Robertson county. Another was Fred Moore, a brother of the first Mrs. John B. Nelson. This was down in the Necees county. Another was Billy Tindall. He was up in the Parker county country the last two years after the war.

A plan to stop it was worked out. Two detectives joined the bandits, got their names and routes and sixty-four outlaws were transferred into their long hereafter land, most of them wearing neckties and faces upturned. There was no need of lynch law or Ku Klux after this.

HAVE PASSION FOR JEWELRY

Strange White Tribe in Northern Africa Literally Weigh Themselves Down With Silver.

A strange white people, with a craze for jewelry that surpasses that of even the orientals, has been discovered in the depths of Algeria, deep in the heart of the mountains in northern Africa. These people are called "White Arabs," and are known as "Shawal Berbers" by neighboring tribes. European scientists believe they are descendants of an ancient white people who fled to these hills during times of trouble long ago.

During certain ceremony which marks the end of the winter season all the young women and girls borrow from old relatives every bit of jewelry they can obtain, and appear literally weighted down with silver. The native jewelers cast silver as well as beat out bars, and make some charming pieces. Their silver chains are the envy of the Arabs. Suspicious customers often bring their own silver to the jeweler and watch him make pieces they order.

One of the most astonishing bits of jewelry they wear is a set of earrings so heavy that they cannot be held by the ears alone. Silver chains are attached to them and fastened to the headgear to help carry the weight. Another favorite bit of jewelry is a silver case in which is carried a written charm to keep away sickness and sorrow.

Water—When and How Much

Not because they didn't know the neglect was shortening battery life and costing them money.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN A BODY DIES

Recent study has led physiologists to the conclusion that the brain may live for twenty minutes to half an hour after a person has apparently "given up the ghost."

The heart taken out of the body, will continue to beat for twenty-four hours if a stream of oxygenated blood is kept flowing through it.

Death from loss of blood is attended by no pain. The ancients, appreciating this fact, commonly had resort to "opening the veins" when they sought to commit suicide.

Drowning is an easy death, described by persons who have survived the process as "like falling to sleep." It is said to be more painful to be resuscitated than to drown.

In the "dying hour" the sense of smell fails first; then taste, sight, touch and finally hearing.

The "death struggle," or "death agony," is an imaginary phenomenon. Convulsive moments usually occur toward the last, but they are mere nervous reactions of which the dying person is unconscious. A last illness may be painful, but death is painless.

One person in every 1,000 dies a "natural" death—that is to say, of old age. The remaining 999 die of disease.

It often happens in extreme old age that a marked weakening of the mental faculties is observable. Persons thus afflicted are said to be in their "dotage." They have to be cared for like small children. It is a trouble due to structural disintegration of the brain, which, like any other organ, is liable to wear out. As a matter of fact, the brains in these persons wore out before their bodies.—Ex.

It is announced that Ku Klux members are forbidden to wear their regalia outside "lodge rooms." Possibly this is a misprint for "bed rooms."

WHAT A LOT OUR FATHERS MISSED!

It is a source of constant wonderment to the present favored generation how our forefathers managed to get along without the thoughtful, all-embracing solicitude of a parental government. They seem to indulge a false pride in what they were pleased to look upon as self-reliance. Their outlook on social welfare did not extend much beyond their own line fence although it is true that if a neighbor's horse fell into a pit they helped him to recover it. If a neighbor fell ill, they "sat up" with him. If hard times threatened, our forefathers tackled them within their own households and applied the remedy of work and self-sacrifice. Most of them were great Bible readers, and instead of appealing to human "authorities" to help them in time of need, they appealed to The Book. One text that seemed to impress them ran whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might. They were an independent sort of people, as proved by a certain famous Declaration. But they missed the beneficence of bureaucracy, to which they could turn in time of need.

How different it is with their children of today, who can always find a government department, a bureau, a board, a commission, a council, a committee, or whatnot, to which they can consign all their troubles for a solution. We are freshly reminded of present day progress in this respect by a dispatch published yesterday from Hartford, Conn. In it we find that beginning next Monday the Nutmeg state will take official cognizance of the act of holding women's hair. The attorney general has given the Connecticut Barber's Commission an oral opinion that that operation may hereafter be done only by licensed barbers! In times of financial stress and social distress we are prone to revert to "the good old days," but how much our forefathers and mothers missed by not living in this year of our Lord!

GREAT OCCASION WORTHILY ANSWERED

There will be none to withhold from the President the acknowledgment of having spoken worthily at the grave of the unknown soldier who was entombed in Arlington cemetery Friday, and than that there could not well be a higher tribute. For the occasion was a great one, an inspiring event; and the President responded nobly to its appeal. It brought forth from him an oration that is assured a place in the most critical anthology of deliverances that have been conceived in the lofty solitude of the White House, and one which can not fail to awaken in those who read its text a more spiritual sense of the great tragedy it commemorated.

The country witnessed a steady expansion and ascension of the President's ideas. The responsibility of his great office have given him the vision to see much that was hidden from the eyes of the Senator and the candidate. This noble address bears additional and impressive evidence of his moral and intellectual growth. Who can doubt that "America First" now sounds to his more finely attuned soul like a petty and mean expression of the country's duty to itself and to civilization. His abhorrence of war has become more poignant, his sense of the need to prevent its recurrence more imperative. And, accordingly, he shows a readiness to exercise old prejudices and compromise traditions which he invoked as a forbiddance against undertaking designed to save humanity against such another holocaust. That the President now seeks to undo much that he and his party have done, can hardly be doubted by anyone who ponders this great deliverance. His aspiration, even his purpose, it is evident, now soar into that lofty region where the mind of his predecessor dwelled, and one must be moved to wonder if there would be any limitation to the conversion he would profess if his convictions and impulses were freed of their accounting to other minds whose acquiescence he needs to make his own hopes practicable. To the patriotism of the unknown soldier the President rendered the supreme tribute of recognizing that he died to spare posterity the sacrifice it extracted of him. In that fact there is a promise far greater than any that he has formulated in words.—Dallas News.

GREAT GAME IS ADVERTISING

Has Developed Until Today It Calls for the Services of Trained Experts.

Advertising is a game. Business is its stake. No other game has greater zest or importance. Too many business men play it carelessly.

Competition is the great instructor. Run your eyes over the advertisements of today and you will find them showing a skill and ingenuity well deserving the name of art. The titles read like news heads and have the appeal of news. The copy is terse and readable. It tells people unmistakably how they can economize; where they can buy the best goods for the least money and with the least inconvenience to themselves. Everyone wants to economize now. The advertisement which does not promise economy might as well not be written.

We see a judicious use of space and appropriateness of display that makes each modern good advertisement a classic. If one should compare them with those that were set a few years ago he would be surprised at the improvement.

And yet there are slovenly advertisements still, advertisements which merely take room and exhibit the backwardness of those who pay for them.

The best skill in any game is only attained by trained experts. Others may have good ideas and flashes of luck. But only the expert knows how to use good ideas for the maximum of result without relying on luck.—New York Mail.

TOOK THE KISS SERIOUSLY

According to French Scientist, the Romans Had Three Distinct Ways of Specifying It.

Dr. Emile Malespine, a scientist of Lyons, France, and a contributor on physiological subjects to leading French periodicals, has written an article for the Forum in which he traces the development of the kiss as a social custom from earliest history.

"The first manifestations of the kiss encountered in literature," says Doctor Malespine, "are those which are furthest removed from the kiss of homage, appear rather as ceremonies, than as natural and spontaneous expressions of sentiment. The Bible shows us pagans kissing their idols. The Greeks and Romans had a special veneration for statues; there was at Agrigento, according to Cicero, a marvelous statue of Hercules, of which the lips and the chin were completely worn away by the devoutness of the faithful."

"The Romans, as well as the Greeks, knew the kiss in all its permutations. Their physiological wealth in this regard, is an added proof. Without counting the diminutives, they had three words specifying the kiss: The osculum corresponds to what we should call the kiss of friendship; the basium, more tender, was the kiss of relatives, and of husband and wife; finally, the sylvium applied to the kisses of lovers."

Turk as a "Goat Herder."

The famous goat herder of primitive countries who sells his milk by the jar or cup from the goat skin bag on his back has his modern prototype in the person of a chap who appeared on the Bowery said the New York Sun.

Slung over his shoulder was a large white metal container similar in shape to the goat skin bag and from one end of which protruded a spigot. The top of the container was gaily festooned with flowers and flags and for three cents the peddler would take a small paper cup from his pocket and draw a glass of milk for the thirsty youngster, or passerby. The carrier of the metal container wore a bright red turban on his head. His trousers were broad-beamed of the same color and his moustache of the kiplid figured in lithographs of the ferocious Turk.

PUNISHED FOR KINDLY DEED

English Magistrates Seem to Have Dealt Harshly With Man Who "Broke" the Sabbath.

John Bull is an English publication. The letter we are reproducing from its columns was written to the magistrates of the English town of Reading. One wonders if they ever heard of the distinction between the letter and the spirit of the law, remarks Our Dumb Animals.

"Your Worship: I gather you don't go to church on Sundays as a regular thing. Let me tell you why I gather. On a Sunday during the strike a policeman dug up the Sunday observance act in order to convict a poor devil of a drover—Charles Palmer, to wit—of driving cattle through the streets. The man had fetched the beasts from the railway station, where they had arrived from Dublin. They were then in a bad state. If they had not been removed to be fed and watered they would have been the victims of callous cruelty; and though on this particular Sunday that which is written, 'Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fall into a pit and will not straightway pull him out on the Sabbath day' was part of the gospel, you made the drover pay the costs of his prosecution. To all intent and purpose, therefore, gentlemen, you might as well have convicted and fined him. What a pity it is that the act of 1677 doesn't prohibit Reading magistrates from walking or driving through the streets on Sunday in order to catch their dinner."

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSES CARE FOR 200,000 IN THE SOUTHWEST

Workers in Red Cross Chapters in Seven States Have Big Job.

If the 194 public health nurses now working under the emblem of the Red Cross in the Southwestern Division of the American Red Cross were withdrawn tomorrow, more than 200,000 sick and infirm men, women and children would be left without nursing care and advice, according to Miss Olive Chapman, Director of Nursing of the Southwestern Division of the American Red Cross.

The Public Health Nurse is one of the most important officers in the American Red Cross today. Her job is to help the people to get well and to keep well. She teaches mothers how to look after their babies and school children how to avoid illness and disease. She is found in schools, homes, playgrounds, industrial plants, department stores, hospitals, and health centers. Her work is in the small towns and in the big cities, in the rural communities and in the lonely mountain regions of the West. She is wherever there is need for her service, regardless of race, religion or social conditions.

Any form of community work in which the health of the public is concerned is hers. She visits the rich and the poor alike and teaches both the common sense rules of good health. She locates tuberculous patients and cares for them, and at the same time teaches the families how to prevent the disease from spreading to other members. She assists in school medical inspection of children and follows defective children into their homes to advise the parents and induce them to act on the advice of the school doctor. She watches over families in which there are contagious diseases, such as diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough and influenza, and teaches the families how to isolate the patient so as to prevent infection.

She takes care of the mother before the baby arrives and builds for the future by showing the mother how to care for her baby. She gives instruction in sanitary living conditions, and even at times in questions of diet.

She is the closest point of contact between the great American Red Cross and the public.

There is a known shortage in the United States today of several thousand public health nurses and there is a greater shortage of hospital and private nurses. Many chapters in the Southwestern Division of the American Red Cross maintain public health nurses and conduct work of a greater or less scope through the agency of such a nurse. These chapters are depending upon the membership fees coming in from the annual Red Cross Roll Call to finance their public health nursing program for the coming year. The Roll Call will take place November 11th to 24th, according to announcement given out at the local Red Cross headquarters.

MALNUTRITION IN AMERICA AMONG RICH AND POOR ALIKE

Only four per cent of the children in the plains section in the United States are normal, according to a survey recently made by the American Red Cross and the United States Public Health Service jointly. A large percentage of subnormal children are so because of malnutrition. Malnutrition is answerable for more ill in the child life of America than any other one cause, it has been ascertained, and this condition is found as frequently among the children of the rich as in the families of the poor.

The Red Cross, through its nutrition classes and diet educational work, is endeavoring to correct the widespread condition of under-nourishment and to lay the foundation for a healthier next generation by building up the strength of the children. In the United States there are over 1,000 nutrition classes in which more than 22,000 children are enrolled. In addition to this there are 163 classes in Food Selection with over 1,500 students, all of whom either are in advanced school grades or are adults.

With a work of this magnitude, with an effort constantly to increase its scope, the Red Cross hopes in the next few years to teach American children what to eat, when to eat it, and how much of it to eat, so that under-nourishment will no longer be a menace to the health of the nation.

SOUTHWESTERN GIRLS SERVING AS RED CROSS NURSES IN RUSSIA

The American Red Cross Commission to western Russia and the Baltic States, which is under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel Edward W. Ryan, issues a monthly bulletin printed in English, and giving news of the work of the commission. The last number to reach this country is the September issue. In it there is mention of three Southwestern Division workers who had arrived during August. They are Miss Nell W. Crouch, of Lawrence, Kan.; Miss Hazel M. Drake and Miss Gladys S. Miss Nicholson and Miss Crouch have been assigned to the Libeav District and Miss Drake goes to Kovno.

JUST BURROWS OF ANIMALS

Mystery of What Was Known as the "Devil's Corkscrew" Has Been Considered Solved.

Of the many fossils which have come out of the mountains and plains of the West, few have excited wider interest than the "devil's corkscrew," found in rocks of the Miocene period, in northwestern Nebraska. They are usually white, and stand out clearly against the bluff background of the rock which incloses them, often attaining a length of 15 feet, with many twists and turns, ending at times in a large bulb, with occasional side passages. When first discovered it was thought that these gigantic "corkscrews" were huge petrified vines or roots of some strange plant. Study of the "corkscrews," however, failed to reveal any traces of plant structure. Later the skeleton of an animal like the badger was found in a large bulb near the end of the "corkscrew," and bones of a small camel and small deer were found in others. After that it was discovered that many of them contained bones of a small burrowing animal about the size of the western prairie dog. Excavation of actual recent prairie dog burrows, after filling them with thin plaster of paris, showed an interesting fact; the burrows of the prairie dog and the prehistoric "corkscrews" were closely similar. The mystery is considered solved.

Genius and Success.

Genius is only the power of making continuous efforts. The line between failure and success is so fine that we scarcely know when we pass it; so fine that we are often on the line and do not know it. How many a man has thrown up his hands at a time when a little more effort, a little more patience, would have achieved success! As the tide goes clear out, so it comes clear in. In business sometimes prospects may seem darkest when really they are on the turn. A little more persistence, a little more effort, and what seemed hopeless failure may turn to glorious success. There is no failure except in no longer trying. There is no defeat except from within; no really insurmountable barrier save our own inherent weakness of purpose.—Elbert Hubbard.

Ugud Noah's Ark Plans.

No secret seems to have been made of the method of construction adopted by Noah in building his ark. On the contrary, the specifications are given in detail in the Bible. Imitations of it have been attempted now and then in recent times. Thus, in the year 1606, a Dutch merchant named Peter Pansen built at Horn a ship on the same model, though not of corresponding size. It was 120 feet long, 20 feet broad and 12 feet deep. The vessel was found to be remarkably well adapted for freightage, and it is said would hold one-third more lading than other ships of like size without requiring more hands to work it. Much more recently several so-called "Munchen" or "floats," were built after the model of the ark in Denmark.

FACTS ABOUT TUBERCULOSIS

Austin, Texas, Nov. 16.—The Texas Public Health Association states that in the 36 years since Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau started his sanatorium in the Adirondacks for the treatment of tuberculosis, the idea has spread until today there are 689 sanatoria throughout the United States.

The important fact has been established that sanatorium treatment for tuberculosis is effective in any climate and in almost any altitude, exploding the old idea that a patient had to go to certain sections of the country. The Texas Public Health Association with its affiliated organizations is constantly working to present the idea to the public that the average person who has tuberculosis can best be treated in a sanatorium near his home.

Education as to the prevention of tuberculosis and the best means of treating it is disseminated by the Texas Public Health Association and its affiliated organizations with the result that the number of sanatoria is increasing yearly. Funds for carrying on this work are obtained from the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals, and the 14th annual Christmas Seal Sale will start Thanksgiving Day.

NACOGDOCHES OIL
FIRST IN TEXAS
Well Making 300 Barrels of Lubricant a Day Completed in 1889

By Dabney White
Written for The Dallas News
Nacogdoches, Texas, Nov. 14.—The fact that the error is made almost daily in saying that the first oil discovery in Texas was made in Corsicana or elsewhere, causes me to relate the fact that the first oil discovery made in Texas was in the Nacogdoches shallow field.

In 1857, Daniel Tripp, a noted geologist, made a survey of the Nacogdoches oil field. He reported indications. In 1868 John F. Carl, an oil man of Pennsylvania, assisted by Nacogdoches capitalists, undertook to drill a well on the field located by Tripp, Carl and associated hauled their boiler and engine from Alexandria, La., to the Nacogdoches field, a distance of 160 miles, with ox teams.

Well Completed in 1889
They abandoned their effort after beginning, Pennsylvania oil at that particular period declining in value to where it could not be handled profitably, had any quantity been obtained. In 1889 the Petroleum Prospecting Company of New Orleans was organized, the company's president being Edgar H. Farrar, a noted lawyer of New Orleans. Judge Farrar later became president of the American Bar Association.

During 1889 this company drilled the first successful oil well ever drilled in Texas. This well was located 16 miles east of Nacogdoches at a depth of 290 feet, on the site selected by Carl previously described by Tripp. They found a "pocket" of heavy lubricating oil, without gas, which flowed about 300 barrels daily without pumping. For months this well maintained an average flow, the oil being sold in barrels at $5 and $6 per barrel and hauled in wagons to Nacogdoches. This oil was such a splendid lubricant that it was used without refining, local railroads and sawmills, etc., buying it in barrels and using the entire capacity of the well.

The promoters finding it too expensive to haul the oil in barrels sixteen miles to market, installed a four-inch pipe line extending from Oil

Springs, the name of the first oil town in Texas, to Nacogdoches, to where a 10,000 barrel tank was erected. They then began pumping, but after getting three or four thousand barrels, the well went dry.

Well Went Dry.
Later, the pipe line was torn up and used in the water mains of the city. From time to time others have been drilled in this field, and nearly every effort producing some oil, but no other "pocket" has yet produced as much as the original effort. Carl, who was the state geologist of Pennsylvania, then in his original report, predicted the finding of oil in "pockets" in this territory, but expressed the fear that oil would never be found in large quantities in this particular field.

The original Corsicana oil discovery was made five of six years after the Nacogdoches discovery was made.

ALFALFA AS A REFRIGERATOR
Planted Around Farm Houses It Has Been Found to Reduce the Temperature Materially.

Refrigerators indoors are common enough, but it took the farmers in the Southwest to devise one for outdoor use.

A farmer who happened to plant a large field of alfalfa south of the farmhouse noticed during the hot summers that followed that his family did not suffer from the heat as did the neighbors. The thermometer showed a temperature five to ten degrees in his favor.

Someone suggested that it might be due to the alfalfa, tried the temperature just north of other alfalfa fields and found the same marked difference. Now the farmers of that region are planting alfalfa around their dwellings and enjoy summer temperatures that make a trip to the seashore needless, according to the Golden Age.

The cause of the coolness of winds passing over alfalfa fields is that the plant absorbs much moisture, the evaporation of which reduces the temperature of the air and lessens the summer heat in the adjoining land over which it blows.

The suggestion now is for farmers that wish to profit from the presence and the board money of summer vacationists to combine the profit and utility of alfalfa with higher rates from hot-weather boarders attracted by the coolness of the ten-acre refrigerator around the house.

Little by little men are beginning to learn how to utilize the means provided by a good Creator for their comfort and well-being.

"Knights of the Hammer."

Some folks always see things through indigo glasses. Neither reason nor evidences of success can change the hue. Everything is on the road to ruin and the talk is the kind that drops the bottom out of a fellow's ambitions. The only way to get peace when they are around is to keep them so busy that they do not have time to use the hammer. If you can keep their minds off themselves there is a chance to have some good work from them. They are often skillful enough if you can only get them busy. And as long as you can keep them busy they have no time to think about themselves. And you may be one of these folks. If you are, get busy and stay busy. It's the only way to be happy and fair with your fellowmen.—Grit.

BEATS MARY'S FAMOUS LAMB

Louis Goecke, better known as "Pat" in amateur circles, was mowing the grass on the lawn of his home in Cincinnati recently. In the course of the work he was cutting alongside a hedge with a pair of clippers.

"Ba-a-a," came from the other side of the hedge.

Goecke looked up. A neighbor was sitting on the porch reading.

Goecke resumed his clipping. "Ba-a-a!" sounded again. Goecke straightened up and shot fierce glances at his neighbor. But the latter's face was concealed back of the newspaper.

The clipping proceeded, and then again came "Ba-a-a!"

Finally Goecke threw down his clippers, stepped to the neighbor's porch, and said:

"Are you guying me?" The other looked up with surprise. "Guying you? Why, no! What makes you think so?"

"Well, stop that 'baa-ing!'" Goecke said.

"Oh, that's it. I'll show you what that is," and the neighbor went back among the bushes and pulled out a lamb. "I bought it yesterday," he explained.

Immediately Goecke was seized with an idea. "Lend it to me, will you?" he asked. The neighbor was obliging. The lamb finished the grass cutting job, and Goecke enjoyed the cool and quiet of a shady nook on his porch.

GREATEST IN PLAINS STATES

Matter of Farm Risks Established by Records Kept by the Department of Agriculture.

Risks in the production of three great staple crops—corn, wheat and oats—are greatest in the plains states, extending from Texas to North Dakota. This general fact is established by the average deviation of the yield per acre from the average yield, computed by the bureau of crop estimates, Department of Agriculture, for these three crops for each state from the records of 50 years.

On the other hand, the North Atlantic and the western states are regions of comparatively low risk, or deviation of yield per acre from the average, for wheat and oats, and the entire Atlantic coast and the west for corn.

The great corn belt, with its enormous production and surplus above local consumption, is, after all, prominently subject to risks of weather, insects and disease in the production of crops, and, while it would be going too far to say of this region as a whole that the results of its agriculture are either "a feast or a famine," yet there is a tendency in this direction as the area covered by the average becomes more restricted to county, township and individual farm.

Defense, Then Prosecution Rests. Mr. Shanigan inserted his key quietly; walked softly, undressed silently and crept into bed.

All his precautions were in vain. Mrs. Shanigan had been awake listening and waiting for him. She told him she supposed he had been working at the office again; that she did not believe that story or any other he had ever told her; that she did not have to put up with him; that she could have a career; that even now the committee was waiting to see if she would accept the nomination for mayor; that she had been warned against him; that she was not now the foolish sentimental girl she was when she married him, and then a deep snore showed that—

The defense rested. Now everyone knows the prosecution should rest first; so Mrs. Shanigan jabbed Mr. Shanigan with her elbow; shook him; fussed, fumed, scolded and wept; but it was no use. He slept on, soundly.

The prosecution also rested.—Katherine Negley, in Judge.

Primitive People.

The natives of St. Hilda, in the Hebrides, have decided to abandon a quaint custom which they have followed for more than a century, of electing their own queen. Hereafter they will take the natural descendant. They have deposed Queen Margot and will recognize Mary as their sovereign. This news comes as the first communication from the island since last September and was brought to London by a vessel which delivered census papers at the island. The natives there speak only Gaelic, but the census papers were printed in English. Otherwise the chief happenings on the island include an influenza epidemic, which caused many deaths. Persons aboard the ship who could converse with the natives said the chief question on the island was whether the war had broken out again.

Ferryboat Pavilion.

As a fitting complement to a swimming pool built on a Connecticut estate recently, a ferryboat pavilion has been erected, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. This boat has all the fittings of a regular craft of its type, being equipped above with a lifeboat, life preservers, funnel and pilot house. The cabin is a spacious dance floor, where diversion from the swimming sport may be indulged in. The swimming pool forms a forward deck for the ferry, and is surrounded by a sidewalk set with benches and chairs.

BAD TRAIN WRECKS

Marshall, Texas, Nov. 10.—Charles A. Smith, Jr., fireman on Texas & Pacific special meat train No. 54 was killed and C. L. Garrett, engineer on west-bound passenger train No. 3 from St. Louis to Fort Worth, was injured when the trains met head-on at a curve near Willow Springs, just west of Longview, early today. None of the passengers was injured. Reports at the dispatchers' office here said the wreckage took fire through the explosion of a car of gasoline and eight cars burned. Smith's body was found under the wreckage. He was fireman for his father, who escaped injury. Smith and his father were both in the cab of the freight engine. Both live at Longview. A relief train and wrecker with fire fighting apparatus was dispatched from Longview. The passenger train was derailed and the baggage car badly smashed. The front end of the freight train was derailed.

An Oklahoma Wreck

Hulhall, Okla., Nov. 10.—Six persons were seriously injured and a number bruised and cut when A. T. & S. F. passenger train No. 11, southbound from Kansas City to the Gulf, threw three Pullmans and two day coaches over an embankment a mile south of here early today, according to Dr. A. B. Childress of Hulhall, one of the first physicians to reach the scene.

One in Louisiana

Marshall, Texas, Nov. 10.—Two men were killed and several injured in two wrecks in which Texas & Pacific trains Nos. 23 and 3 were involved, division headquarters of the railroad reported here today. The wrecks were at St. Delphine, just east of Addis, La., and near Longview, Texas. The dead are Walter Weideman, the passenger train engineer, and Smith, a passenger. Train No. 23, leaving New Orleans yesterday, collided with a tram engine last night at St. Delphine, a sugar camp. Both engines were wrecked.

THE CONFERENCE TABLE

Washington, Nov. 10.—The "green table" at which the representatives of the nations participating in the forthcoming conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern and Pacific questions will sit during their deliberations, was especially made and furnished by the Navy Department.

The table which is destined to become historic is not of mahogany, but of a light wood finished in mahogany. It is constructed in sections and is portable, making possible its transfer in case some of the full sessions of the conference are held in other than Continental Hall.

When assembled it forms a hollow rectangle with the fourth side open and measures on the two long sides forty feet, and across the third twenty-eight feet, giving a total perimeter of 108 feet—ample room for seating at least thirty-six persons.

ENDLESS PROCESSION PASSES SOLDIER'S BIER

Washington, Nov. 10.—Great and small folk moved in an endless procession today through the rotunda of the capitol to pay tribute to the unknown soldier lying in such state there as only martyred presidents have known. The day was set aside for it. All who could speak for groups in this land or for the powers of the world were free to place floral offerings on the bier.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—Arthur J. Simultaneously the delegates from New Zealand and Australia reached the city, completing, with the exception of Lloyd George, who promised to come later, the British representation at the conference. A distinguished group of American and British officials received the former prime minister and party at the station.

MOMENTOUS CONFERENCE IS NOW IN SESSION

Washington, Nov. 12.—America's concrete proposal for the limitation of naval armaments—the crux of the arms conference—was presented today by Secretary Hughes at the opening of the first session and are briefly as follows:

Mr. Hughes laid down four general principles:

First. That all capital ships on a building program, either actual or projected, be abandoned.

Second. That further reduction be made through scrapping the older ships.

Third. That in general a regard be had to existing naval strength of the powers concerned.

Fourth. That capital ship tonnage be used as measurements of strength for navies and a proportionate allowance of auxiliary combatant craft prescribed.

For the United States the program would be to scrap all capital ships under construction above fifteen and fifteen older battleships.

Great Britain would stop construction on her four new ships of the Hood type and scrap all second and first line battleships up to the King George V class.

Japan would abandon plans for two battle cruisers not yet laid down, and in addition, scrap the pre-dreadnaught battleships of the second line.

As a replacement program, the American government proposed that no more ships be laid for the next ten years and that the maximum replacement tonnage figure be figured providing for 500,000 tons for the United States and Great Britain each. A proviso would be included permitting the replacement of capital ships when 20 years old and prohibiting the construction of any ship built for replacement with a tonnage of more than 35,000 tons. The maximum limit for Japan would be 300,000 tons.

The conference adjourned at 11:45 until Tuesday, November 15, at 11 o'clock.

THE EXAMPLE OF AMERICA

At the American Legion convention in Kansas City the duty of citizenship with special reference to the opportunity before the organized ex-service men was the keynote of a number of speakers. All this acquired a deeper significance than usual from the fact that we are on the eve of a most momentous conference of the nations. Our own military leaders and the greatest soldiers of foreign lands emphasized the importance of America's services in winning the war but above all the verbal glorification, not in the least to be despised, stood out the truth that the greatest possible service to mankind is to be performed through the maintenance of peace.

We cannot doubt that the grizzled warriors who honored the Legion convention by their presence and who were in turn honored by their American comrades in arms have gained a better understanding than they had before of the importance of abolishing war and that their influence toward accomplishing that will be exerted the more insistently in consequence of the opportunity they have had to see our country moving forward under the inspiration of peacetime conditions.

TODD BELIEVED SANE

Weatherford, Texas, Nov. 11.—Thirteen witnesses testified yesterday that they believed Willis Wayne Todd to be of sound mind. This testimony was the state's reply to the defense plea that Todd was not mentally responsible when he was alleged to have asked James McNeal, the Fort Worth taxicab driver, for a ride and at a given signal the chauffeur was to be beaten to death by Todd's alleged companions. The testimony was closed with rebuttal for the prosecution at 10 o'clock and arguments started at 11. Each side was given three hours.

APPOINTED CHAIRMAN OF THE WILSON FOUNDATION

New York, Nov. 14.—Appointment of Thomas S. Taliaferro, a prominent attorney of Houston, Texas, to serve as chairman in that state for the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, was announced today by Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt is national chairman of the committee in charge of raising a popular fund endowing an annual award in ex-President Wilson's name. Forty-eight state organizations are to present an appeal to the public beginning January 16.

Mr. Roosevelt also announced that the specific purpose of the Foundation and the award had been defined by the executive committee in the following terms:

"Created by public subscription in recognition of the national and international services of Woodrow Wilson, twice president of the United States, who furthered the cause of human freedom and was instrumental in pointing out effective methods for the co-operation of the liberal forces of mankind throughout the world.

"The award of awards from the income of the Foundation will be made from time to time by a nationally constituted committee to the individual or group that has rendered within a specified period, meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice."

Hamilton Holt, who is acting as executive director of the Foundation, is carrying on the work of organization along non-partisan lines, aiming merely to provide an opportunity for a public tribute to the cause of liberalism. National headquarters have been established at 150 Naussau street, New York.

DENIES AGE IS DESIRABLE

Here is One Person, at Least, Who Enjoys Youth and is Loth to Part With It.

Seekers for the elixir of life have commonly been subjected to public ridicule. This, however, merely proves that the majority of people dislike having their attention directed to their infirmities. Since Cicero wrote "De Senectute" we have repeated down the ages the pious untruth that old age is a proud and desirable state and that regrets for a lost youth are misplaced. It is not so, and in our hearts we know it. Youth is as much to be preferred to age as life to death, and if we possessed any means of preserving our youth we should use those means. Nor is there any absolute reason why a human life should not be continued at its full power indefinitely.

We age, apparently, in the same manner as we pass from childhood to adult strength; the process of development is reversed. A great number of recent experiments suggest that the reversal may, in suitable instances, be delayed. It is true these are mostly experiments on animals and, for the most part, lack confirmation. Yet few who have had opportunities of following the trend of events doubt that a measure of success has been achieved. Nor should the fact that a particular old man or woman who has undergone some operation or treatment and afterward died, be allowed to weigh either for or against any scientific hypothesis. Those who are engaged on the most adventurous research which man has ever conceived deserve, if we will be honest with ourselves, our support and encouragement rather than our ridicule.—London Times.

NEW FUNCTION FOR RAILROAD

Photographs of Scenic Views Are Now Employed to Please the Prospective Traveler.

Nowadays the railway man does something more than oil and repair locomotives, run trains, keep roadbeds in repair, and prepare time-tables. He also takes photographs.

This is because the modern railway man has come to broad understanding of his function. He is not merely a transformed bus driver. He is a merchant. He sells transportation, as a piano dealer sells pianos, and he desires to make his product attractive. The beautiful casing of a piano does not add to its musical qualities, but it makes the prospective purchaser pleased with it in advance and contented with it after he purchases it. A photograph does not transport a passenger or make his journey safe, but it pleases the prospective traveler and adds an element to his journey which makes it more valuable to him both in anticipation and in memory.

But the railway man is even more than a merchant. He is as truly as an officer of the government a social servant. Civilization is a product of travel. Whoever not only promotes travel but helps to give it significance is a leader in civilization. And this is what the railway man does.

It is in this capacity, not merely as a merchandiser of motion, but as an enlarger of the environment of men and teacher of what travel has to offer to men's minds and souls, that the railway man employs the camera.—From the Outlook.

NACOGDOCHES WINS AT TEXARKANA FRIDAY

The members of Nacogdoches High School's victorious football team reached home Saturday at noon too tired to do anything but be happy over the outcome of the game played at Texarkana Friday, in which they defeated their opponents by a score of 13 to 6.

The boys upon their arrival at the border city were met by a large party of citizens and were the recipients of every courtesy that hospitality could suggest, and all are loud in their expressions of appreciation of the generous reception extended them.

There were 4,500 paid admissions to the game, which indicates the interest with which it was regarded by the Texarkanians, who constituted a large majority of the spectators, though of course there were many from other points.

Summers of the Nacogdoches team scored a touchdown within three minutes after the game started and kicked goal.

The first quarter ended with the ball on Nacogdoches' 4-yard line.

In the second quarter Texarkana scored a touchdown, but missed goal.

In the third, Shofner completed a forward pass with a touchdown, but Nacogdoches missed goal.

In the fourth quarter Nacogdoches outplayed Texarkana, but was unable to make a touchdown.

It was a lively game throughout, and was an enjoyable one, as not a single incident occurred to mar the pleasant feeling between the rival teams.

Eiland was the only one of the home team failing to return with the "bunch," he remaining at Texarkana for a visit with a brother who resides in that city. He will arrive Sunday and receive his share of the plaudits.

Come on in Thanksgiving Day, Lufkin; the water's fine!

HAVE OLD CAVE MAN INSTINCT

Lovers, in the Orient, Primitive in Their Methods of Demonstrating Affection.

There are all sorts of ways of expressing affection. The Mainichi, a Japanese journal, reports the case of a policeman at Hiroshima, who fell in love with a restaurant maid, and when she seemed cold endeavored to convince her of his passion, and mayhap light an answering flame by thrusting her in the calf of her leg with his official sword. He might go further and issue a manual on how to make love, suggests our contemporary. The case of the policeman in question is doubtless a survival of atavism, being a relic of the good old days in the paleolithic age, when the cave man was wont to demonstrate his affection for his damsel by occasional raps on the damsel's head with a bludgeon, says the Shanghai Times.

The submagistrate of Chowhat in India has just disposed of an unusually interesting case in which two Nair women of Guruvayur, mother and daughter, charged three Nair youths with having removed a portion of the roof of the complainants' house and dropped a carcass of a crocodile through the aperture into the room in which the younger woman slept. The motive alleged was revenge, because overtures of the accused had been rejected. An accidental would have taken laudanum or a Japanese swain would have committed harakiri. The Indian, however, showed an originality of conception worthy of a better object. Just imagine your feelings were you to see the dainty form of a hippopotamus issuing from your ceiling!

AND SHE DIDN'T SAY GOODBY

Naturally Aviator Was a Little Astonished at Way His Passenger Had Left Him.

An airman had been taking up passengers for short trips, and by the time his last trip came was absolutely fed up by being asked silly questions.

He told his passengers, two ladies, that on no account were they to speak to him; that he could not talk and give his attention to his machine and that they must keep silent.

Up they went, and the airman quite enjoyed himself. He looped the loop and practiced all sort of stunts to his own satisfaction with no interruption from his passengers until he felt a touch on his arm.

"What is it?" he said impatiently.

"I'm so sorry to trouble you," said a voice behind, "and I know I oughtn't to speak. I do apologize sincerely, but I can't help it. I thought perhaps you ought to know Annie's gone."

ATTITUDE OF POWERS ON DISARMAMENT PLANS

Washington, Nov. 14.—Great Britain's acceptance "in principle" of the American proposals for the limitation of Naval armaments was definitely forecast today in a statement on behalf of the British delegation. Japan's acceptance, "in principle" at least, has been forecast by Baron Admiral Kato and others of the Japanese delegation. Great Britain's principal consideration is understood to be in framing the reply which Balfour will make tomorrow has been the question of what will be done to bring France and Italy within the scope of the plan for limitations.

Democrat Endorses Plan

Washington, Nov. 14.—Senator Pomerene, democrat, Ohio, brought up the subject of the American proposals for naval disarmament in the senate today. He declared he endorsed the plan wholeheartedly.

Experts at Work on Plan

Washington, Nov. 14.—While the naval experts of foreign powers today continued to examine the American proposals for the limitation of naval armament, the heads of the American, British, Japanese, French and Italian delegations conferred to map out a plan of procedure to expedite consideration of the whole armaments question. It is assumed that several days will be required for the naval advisory powers chiefly concerned to prepare any estimate of acceptability for the sweeping American proposals.

THOUSANDS WILL VISIT A. & M. THANKSGIVING

College, Station, Texas, Nov. 14.—Special arrangements are being made by committee for accommodating and entertaining the thousands of visitors from all parts of Texas who will come to College Station on Thanksgiving Day to see the annual football game between the A. & M. College and the University of Texas.

Tables will be provided in the mess hall where the visitors will be fed and one dormitory will be vacated by the cadets and turned over to the visitors on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

An orchestra has already been employed for the Thanksgiving "hop" the annual dance given by the cadets to the football team on the night following the big game and for the regular dance Friday night. The biggest crowd ever in attendance at this famous dance in all the many years that it has been celebrated at the college is expected on the approaching event.

Plans are also being made to conduct inspection parties through the college plant to the farms, livestock herds, etc., in order to give the visitors a full acquaintance with the work being done by the institution.

Not a seat remains to be sold on the sides of the field where the game will be played, but plenty of seats will be provided on the ends for those who have not yet procured tickets.

The negro had been discharged from the Glazen sawmill. Later Glazen was stabbed to death. Glazen was an overseas veteran and the son of T. H. Glazen, a well-known Gilmer business man. God's Best Gift is a Healthful Baby

(Thursday Health Talk, No. 30)
(By R. W. Zilar, D. C.)

UNCLE BEN SAYS—
"A rich and healthy widow, Nevvy, is the most desirable second-hand article on the market."

A divorce court judge is credited with saying that where the patter of baby feet is heard in the home there is an interest which builds homes and character and citizenship and happiness.

A baby comes into the world quite often under circumstances that cause disturbance to spinal alignment. It is not necessary to describe these circumstances. It may result in continued drooping as was the case of a baby one side of whose mouth was paralyzed so that it could not close its lips. It may result in almost any form of chronic weakness. As soon as such weakness becomes apparent, the chiropractor should be called that the spine may be restored to proper alignment and the baby's life develop normally.

BABY COULDN'T TALK AT THREE

"Nettie Wolter is my infant daughter. At the age of three years and eight months she was unable to talk, and from her condition we thought she would never be able to talk. November 26, 1919, I consulted a Chiropractor. He discovered the child suffered from a serious misalignment of the uppermost vertebra of the neck. After two weeks the child began to repeat words. June 10, 1920, her ability to talk was as fluent as that of other children her age and she was discharged. She has been normal since."—Mrs. August Wolter, Chiropractic Research Statement No. 1284.

CAPTURED A STILL

Charles Cody of the Etoile neighborhood is in jail charged with the illegal manufacture of intoxicating liquor, having been "caught with the goods." Sheriff Woodlan located the still early in the week, and on Wednesday sent Deputies Booth and Chandlee to arrest its operators. Arriving at the scene the officers found the still in full blast. On their appearance three men broke away and sprinted at top speed from the vicinity, their pace probably being accelerated by a few shots fired in their direction by Deputy Chandler. Later Cody was arrested, but the other two have not yet been apprehended. The officers brought the outfit, consisting of a copper pipe and an oil drum used as a boiler, to town, together with a small quantity of the finished output. Five barrels of mash they destroyed. The officers are to be commended for their vigilance in breaking up the activities of these lawbreakers.

Collis Parrish, aged 23, of the Oak Ridge community, died Wednesday of pneumonia and interment was made Thursday in Fairview cemetery. His parents and several brothers and sisters survive him, and these have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

DIED OF GRIEF

A peculiarly distressful death occurred Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Arp. Mrs. J. E. Hughes of Waco was summoned to the old home by the death of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Frederick, who passed away Wednesday of last week. On entering the house she stood for a few moments beside the bier of her parent, then turned to seek a room for a rest after her journey. She reached the fourth step of the stairway when she turned and complained of a deathly illness, falling and dying almost instantly. She and her mother were buried at the same time.

Mrs. Hughes is survived by her husband and four children. She was about 30 years of age.

Friends of the family were greatly distressed by the shocking tragedy, and expressions of sympathy for the bereft family are universal.

"His Excellency, the President of the United States, having declared by proclamation that the Annual Membership Roll Call of the American Red Cross shall begin on Armistice Day and continue until November 24th, I deem it a duty to exhort all our citizens to enroll themselves in this admirable organization, which, for many years past, and especially during the World War, has rendered to mankind such noble services and benefactions.

"In times of peace, it has come to the rescue of the victims of pestilence, famine, fire, floods, and other great calamities; and it strives to devise and carry on measures for preventing the causes of suffering.

"In war, it has been a medium of communication between the American people and their Army and Navy; and it has cared for the sick and wounded throughout the world, irrespective of race and creed.

"I bespeak for it a wide membership.

D. CARD, DOUGHERTY, Archbishop of Philadelphia.

"The American Red Cross is an organization of which our country is justly proud. It is dedicated to a noble purpose, the alleviation of suffering mankind, and the story of its achievements speaks for itself.

"In order that this organization may continue faithful service and bring assistance to suffering humanity in the various crises which arise from time to time, it needs constant encouragement and support.

"It has ever been the just and proud boast of America that she has never been wanting in generosity in any need, and I am confident that American citizens will not fail to respond as they have in the past to help the Red Cross to continue its ministrations to the unfortunate and suffering.

KANSAS JUNIORS DOING BIG COMMUNITY WORK

The Junior Red Cross of Republic County, Kansas, has been especially active during the last year in organizing classes conducted under the Junior plan, such as health work in the schools, patriotic program, community play, making of toys and hospital supplies, civic training, making of Easter cards and equipment, and preparing hot lunches for school children.

FLOUR SACK CAUSES FIRST-AID CALL

An odd case of first-aid was required of a newly installed Red Cross nurse at Benda, Kan., recently, according to advices from that town.

A deaf man, who was endeavoring to help the woman clerk in a grocery store carry a sack of flour from the store room to his waiting automobile, inadvertently caught the drag-hook in her finger and dragged her instead of the sack of flour across the floor. His back was turned, and being too deaf to hear her cries, he did not know of the accident until he turned to lift the flour into his machine. The hook was so deeply imbedded in the woman's hand that surgery was necessary to remove it, but the Red Cross nurse was able to relieve her pain with first-aid at once while a surgeon was being summoned.

Red Cross nurses in the chapters where public health work is conducted are constantly having just such calls as this, and frequently find themselves the only available help in serious emergencies. In many of the Red Cross Chapters employing public health nurses, the work is financed by the receipts from the annual Roll Call. The Roll Call this year will take place November 11 to 24 and will be simultaneous throughout the United States.

CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose of this Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble

You know what calomel is. It's mercury, quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated, and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

DON'T SHIRK YOUR DUTY

You would be a very unnatural parent if you did not wish to give your boy or girl the best educational advantages that are in your power—a very thoughtless parent if you sent him to the first school that mailed you a catalogue, and an unpardonable parent if you entered him in a school without first investigating its location, equipment, character of student body, faculty, system of discipline, and above all the moral surroundings. Yours is the duty of investigation, comparison and ultimate decision.

Your boy or girl is the hope of your life. In him or her is centered your most cherished ambitions. His or her worth to you can not be measured by dollars and cents, but his or her value must be measured by the training which he receives in home and at school.

To prevent a Cold take 666.

Misses Thelma Watson and Charlie Blake, who were pleasant guests of Miss Willie Crumpler, returned to their home in Nacogdoches yesterday afternoon. While here they witnessed the Lufkin High administer defeat to the Crockett eleven, and naturally thought of the coming Thanksgiving game of the Lufkin boys and the boys of their old home town. The young ladies were also guests at the club meeting at the home of Mrs. Bettie Peavy.—Lufkin News., 15th.

Z. T. MAST

Zachary Taylor Mast was born at Booneville, N. C., June 4, 1847. Died at Nacogdoches, Texas, November 13, 1921, aged 74 years, 5 months and 9 days.

He moved to Nacogdoches county in his boyhood days, settling at Melrose, where in later years he was engaged in business. In December, 1874, he was married to Miss Mattie E. Teutsch of that community, and to this union six sons were born, five of whom, with their mother, survive him. They are Eugene Mast of Parsons, Kas.; Hollis Mast, who died three years ago; L. B. (Blum) Mast, Henry and Adlai Mast of this city and Leland Mast of Lubbock, Texas.

Eighteen years ago the family moved to Nacogdoches, and here most of the sons have grown to manhood, prospering in business and earning the confidence and esteem of all our people and often proving their value as citizens.

To permit the arrival of the sons residing at a distance, the last rites were postponed until Tuesday, when at 10 o'clock in the morning the funeral services were held at the home at North Fredonia and Houston streets, followed by interment in Oak Grove cemetery, Rev. J. L. Massey of the Methodist church conducting with the beautiful ritual of that church for the dead.

Mr. Mast's passing away was totally unexpected. On Saturday afternoon he was downtown in apparently his usual health, was cheerful and genial and seemingly in the best condition physically. Late in the night he complained of feeling ill and was given a dose of medicine. A fire was lit and he arose from his bed and remained up a short time, then returning to his couch died almost immediately, passing away at 5:30. While he had not been robust for some time, there was not the slightest reason for suspecting the end was so near.

With the news of his death, a feeling of profound sorrow and keen regret spread throughout the city, and the sad event was the chief topic of conversation during the day.

A good man, a Christian gentleman, has gone from us.

FUNERAL OF Z. T. MAST

The funeral of Mr. Z. T. Mast was held at the home at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Rev. J. L. Massey of the Methodist church conducting the service, immediately after which the large assemblage proceeded to Oak Grove cemetery, where interment was made in the presence of one of the largest crowds that ever gathered in Nacogdoches county for a similar occasion. All the business houses of the city had closed for the funeral hour in testimony of their esteem for the dead and for his surviving relatives.

The pallbearers were Messrs. G. A. Hodges, I. L. Sturdevant, M. G. Hazle, B. H. Wilson, H. T. Wilson, S. M. Adams, Tom Summers and R. M. Blackburn.

After a brief burial service and songs by a selected choir, the body of our old friend was consigned to the last resting place, and the grieving ones returned to their homes to face the future which will seem unreal without him.

The funeral of Mr. William Skillern (affectionately known as "Uncle Bill") was held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon and interment was made in Christian cemetery, near Decoy, in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing friends. The religious service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Hargraves of Fairview, and the Masons officiated with the solemn rites of the order.

Deceased was 87 years old and leaves several children, besides other relatives, to mourn their loss. He represented Nacogdoches county in the legislature about 20 years ago, and was otherwise prominent in county affairs. A number of Nacogdoches friends attended the funeral.
