PRESBYTERY OF JEFFERSON

Rev. M. C. Johnson, D. D., Mrs. Texana Whitaker, Mrs. John Tustach, and Mrs. M. C. Johnson, returned Monday afternoon from Jacksonville, where the 98th annual session of the Presbytery of Jefferson was held on April 7-10. While this is the oldest Protestant ecclesiastical organization in Texas, and is now among the smallest of the organized Presbyteries now in the Southwest, from it has grown three Synods, about 30 Presbyteries and 125,000 church members.

Among the many interesting things reported at this meeting are the following: After the readjustments of reunion ten years ago, Jefferson Presbytery has grown from about 1,000 members to the rise of 3,000; from 25 congregations to 48 churches; ten years ago there were two parsonages, now every pastorate has a good manse; every minister then had an average salary of $700, now the minimum is $1,500 per year. During the year just passed four new church buildings have been erected, debt free, one costing $50,000 and two manes.

The Presbytery has two local evangelists and five young men preparing for the Gospel ministry. The Women's Presbyterial, having oversight of the young people's organizations, had a splendid convention, at which Mrs. W. B. Preston, Synodical president, gave splendid addresses. A pleasing feature of their work was that the women had exceeded the quotas requested from them by $100, and gave $500 more than ten year ago.

Two new congregations were organized during the year, two young men consecrated themselves to the ministry, and two ordained ministers were received from other churches—Rev. T. E. Kessler, from the Cumberland, and Rev. M. A. Travis, from the Baptist.

A sad and pathetic service of the Presbytery was one of prayerful intercession for Rev. Robert Morrison, who was born in Punjab, India, who has given 48 years of his life to missions in that country, and whose ancestors with himself have served in that field for over a hundred years. Brother Morrison is now in a hospital at New Orleans. Also, as Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Barr, D. D., were about to leave for Presbytery they had the sad message that Mrs. Barr's mother was not expected to live. We are sure that their many friends in Nacogdoches will remember them also in prayer. The Presbyterial sermon was preached by M. C. Johnson, D. D., on the subject of "God's Ultimate Message."

OF INTEREST TO CANDIDATES

A Sacul lady writes to a friend in the city that there will be a graveyard working at that place on Thursday, the 13th, and suggests it would be of advantage to candidates to be there, as they would thus be enabled to meet a large number of voters and present their claims for consideration. Dinner will be spread upon the grounds and everything possible done to make the occasion worth while.

AN UNNATURAL ISSUE

It is something of a tragedy that before they can settle down to intelligent consideration of other problems the people of Texas must first dispose of Ku Kluxism.

This illusionment of law enforcement by extra-legal methods has achieved nothing so distinctly as to virtually paralyze law enforcing machinery in many places.

Constituted authority no longer challenges that complete and united confidence which is essential to its service. The alleged masked assistance, has evolved into open interference, just as thoughtful men guesseed it would at the outset.

The fact that communities have been divided, though discouraging, is of less importance than is the fact that allegiance to the state, the constitution and the organic law has been divided.

No matter what the academic purposes may have been, the practical effect of this hallucination is to set up a new form of government in the minds of its infatuated proselytes.

The idea that it might act as a moral regulator for the community, and outside of its own membership, instantly and irrevocably removed the Ku Klux Klan from the realm of the average fraternal order, and set it up as a type of vicious, arbitrary, autocratic discipline.

Such a type of discipline is, of course, fundamentally opposed to republican government, and that, too, whether it pretends conformity with written law and established agencies, or not.

This is why Ku Kluxism has become a political issue, and why it will remain a political issue until it is dead, embalmed and cremated.

There is no middle ground, no straddle, no compromise, for either candidates or voters.

All of us would like to be thinking about something else, but we can't afford to. So long as this threat of tyranny, of disguised regulation, of secret lawlessness, confronts the State of Texas, there is nothing for it, but to quit everything and work for the restoration of those principles and practices which make it worthy of the name of state.—Houston Chronicle.

ROTARIANS ELECT OFFICERS

The Nacogdoches Rotary Club met Monday and elected officers as follows:

F. R. Penman, President.
R. F. Davis, Vice President.
W. F. Gintz, Secretary-treasurer.
Robert Lindsey, Sergeant-at-arms.
Following is a list of the directors: Eugene Blount, H. W. Whited, T. Tilford, B. F. Davis, F. R. Penman, together with Dr. A. A. Nelson, past president, and W. F. Gintz, the new secretary-treasurer, who become ex-officio members of the board.

The Rotarians, whose membership comprises the best citizenship of the town, are sure to prove a power for good to Nacogdoches, whose interests are always first consideration and whose upbuilding is the aim they keep in mind.

STATE EDUCATIONAL MEET

Austin, Texas, April 12.—It is indicated by inquires and information that have been received from over the state that the Educational Conference which is to be held at the University of Texas April 21-22 will be largely attended. The fact that the railroads have granted a one and one-half fare to all who may attend the conference will, it is expected, attract a larger attendance than there would be otherwise. According to information received by E. J. Matthews, registrar of the University, who is looking after the transportation end of the proposed conference, the purchasers must pay full fare on the going trip to Austin and tickets for the return journey will be sold at one-half fare. It is necessary, however, for the purchaser of the full-fare one way ticket to Austin to obtain a certificate of receipt at the time of purchase and to have this signed and validated by Dr. W. S. Sutton at the University in order to obtain the reduced certificate of fare. Unless as many as 250 certificates are presented the reduced rate can not be applied to any certificate holder, it is explained.

LONG PRISON TERM

Tustin, Texas, April 12.—Acceptance of a sentence totalling 146 years in the penitentiary was announced in the Court of Criminal Appeals decisions today by Sylvester Johnson, convicted in two murder cases in Cherokee county.

You are expected to eat lunch Saturday at the old postoffice building. You can get a nice lunch for ten cents and for a little bit more you can have all you want. The ladies of Christ Church Guild will serve lunch, cafeteria style. 11-4

BOOSTERS VISIT FOUNDRY

The full membership of the Boosters Club made a visit Tuesday afternoon to the Nacogdoches Foundry & Machine Shop recently established near the light plant by Messrs. Simmons and Minnick, two experienced and energetic young men who realized the advantages of locating in Nacogdoches for establishing their plant.

The Boosters were courteously received and shown over the establishment, and were rather surprised to learn that the city had an industry of the character and scope demonstrated.

The proprietors expressed themselves as entirely satisfied with the extent of the patronage accorded them since they opened up for business.

The Boosters promise to take a lively interest in all institutions whose presence here means additional prosperity for the city.

WIDESPREAD DESTRUCTION

Chicago, April 11.—The spring freshets which have already flooded many lowlands were threatening more serious damage today in many Middle-Western states. Rains almost torrential sent rivers up in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

THE GENOA CONFERENCE

Genoa, April 12.—A report on financial questions prepared by the Germans, presented to Premier Facta, chairman of the conference, was transmitted today to Sir Robert Home, chancellor of the British exchequer. The report deals with a plan for stabilizing exchange through an international loan.

COTTON PRODUCERS MEET

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 12.—Representatives of nine state cotton producers' associations met here today in the first national conference of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange. The states are Arizona, Texas, Mississippi, Oklahoma, North Carolina, South Carolina, Arkansas, Alabama and Georgia.

HELP FOR STORM VICTIMS

Fort Worth, Texas, April 12.—Red Cross workers are on their way to Opalin, Callahan county, and Crossroads, Runnels county, to aid in the relief of the storm sufferers, according to word from St. Louis.

MAKING TEST WEIGHTS

Austin, Texas, April 12.—Students of the College of Engineering of the University of Texas are making two-pound weights for the state department of markets and warehouses filling a contract with this department recently. The weights are made for the purpose of sending to the counties of the state with the idea of correcting the scales of the State of Texas.

T. U. Taylor, dean of the college of engineering, has received the following letter from Charles E. Baughman, commissioner of the department of markets and warehouses, in regard to the work of the students:

"This department desires to acknowledge receipt of partial filling of an order for 110 two-pound weights placed with your Engineering Department recently.

"It is not necessary that we enter into details of this transaction; suffice it to say that we have compared the work done by your engineering department with a like kind of work turned out by the most reputable and dependable manufacturers of test weighing and measuring devices in the country and find the work done by your department to be entirely accurate, both as to finish and design; and, in addition, it measures up to a very high standard of skilled workmanship, and meets our needs just as well as the most expensive similar equipment that may be purchased anywhere.

"We desire to congratulate the University of Texas, its faculty, and its students in the Engineering Department upon this excellent showing of skill.

"This department has effected a saving of practically ninety percent of the cost heretofore expended for weights of this class.

"We, therefore, and also because of the reasons as given before, duly appreciate co-operation of this kind and hope for a continuance of co-operation to the end that reciprocity of favors may advance the function may advance the functioning portion powers of both the University of Texas and the Markets and Warehouse Department."

BOND ELECTION CARRIED

The bond election held yesterday in Lufkin Independent School District to determine whether bonds of said district shall be issued to the amount of $100,000 for the purpose of constructing and equipping a public free school building in said district, carried by an overwhelming majority, which clearly indicates the educational spirit of the people, who intend to allow nothing to stand in the way of providing those advantages here at home for educating the children that said children are justly entitled to.

The vote was 416 for issuance of the bonds and only 91 opposed. These bonds are to be issued serially, the first of five bonds of the denomination of $500 each on the first day of May next year, and like amounts on the first day of May of each succeeding year, bearing interest at the rate of 6 percent, with an annual levied tax on all taxable property in the district to pay current interest on said bonds and provide a sinking fund.—Lufkin News, 11th.

BUSINESS IS GOOD

The Farmer sells a load of wheat, And all the world grows fair and sweet; He hums a couple of cheerful tunes, And pays the Grocer for his prunes. The Grocer who has had the blues, Now buys his wife a pair of shoes, That ten the Shoeman thinks God sent, And runs and pays it on the rent.

Next day the Rest Man hands the bill To Doctor Carver for a pill, And Doctor Carver tells his Frau That business is improv'ing now. And cheers her up and says: "My dear, You've been quite feeble for a year. I'm thinking you should have a rest. You'd better take a trip out West."

And in a couple of days the Frau Is on the farm of Joshua Howe. She pays her board to Farmer Howe, Who takes the bill and says, "I swow, Here's something that just can't be beat— This bill's the one I got for wheat." He hums a couple of cheerful tunes, And goes and buys a lot more prunes. —Rochester Doings.

RUSSIA-GERMANY ADMITTED

Genoa, April 11.—Admission of Russian and German representatives to the principal committee of the economic conference was strongly opposed today by both the French and Belgian representatives. The conciliatory attitude of Lloyd George and Premier Facta finally resulted in the admission of both the Russians and Germans.

INVESTIGATION RESUMED

Indianapolis, Ind., April 11.—Attorney General Daugherty was to resume today the investigation of pending cases in federal court here under indictments of over a year ago against 226 coal operators and miners.

EXPLORING THE MIND

A profound impression has been made on the British press and public by Emile Coue, French psychotherapist, who has been lecturing in England. There is nothing new in his theory that imagination is responsible for many of the physical ills of mankind and that autosuggestion, guiding the subconscious mind into healthy channels, is a powerful therapeutic agent; that it has not heretofore received the attention it deserves because it was brought into disrepute through attempts to effect cures in cases which had been improperly diagnosed.

Coue's cardinal principle is that the imagination, which has its seat in the subliminal part of the mind, is an incalculably powerful force, and plays a more important part than the conscious will in guiding a man's destiny.

The mind is a vast and almost unexplored field, in which it seems certain that discoveries of tremendous importance are still to be made. Psychology is a new science, investigators having awakened to the fact that conscious mental operations constitute only a small part of the work that the mind does only in recent years. The unconscious or subconscious operations, of which dreams and fests of the memory give some intimation, compose by far the greater part.

The mind can be compared to an iceberg, of which only from one seventh to one-twelfth is seen, the remainder being under water. The big task for psychologists is to reveal the workings of the submerged part of the mind. Even though the revelation be futile to cure disease, it undoubtedly will cure humanity in other ways.

ABUSING LATE ALLIES

Recent remarks on the importance of international good manners in the preservation of cordial relations between countries by Elihu Root should be taken to heart by some newspapers and near-statesmen which seem to imagine that abusing America's best friends is a passport to popularity. There are certain professional trouble-makers who for years have been assailing the motives of the Japanese and professing to see in the expansion of Japan's power in the Pacific, which is a natural development of her legitimate energy and enterprise, a direct menace to the United States. No matter whether a republican or democratic administration is in office, these attacks on Japan continue, showing that these firebrands are animated not by ordinary partisan feeling but by a deep-seated hatred against a particular nation.

Another gang of trouble makers has been especially busy in finding fault with France ever since the Washington conference, and then there are the professional haters of Great Britain and other friendly nations. Nobody expects this country to have any essentially friendly feeling toward Germany for some time to come, or toward the present dictatorship of Russia, but surely there is no excuse for the inflammatory criticism so frequently indulged in toward our late companions-in-arms.

Well-founded criticism of foreign governments is always in order. The objection is to this continual ascribing of improper motives to all other governments but that of the United States.

Twenty-six teachers (24 whites and two colored) were before the county superintendent for examination Friday.

BOOSTER CLUB HAS GOOD MEETING

Monday evening at 7:30 the Young Men's Booster Club held a good meeting in the Lockey Tea Rooms, with a good attendance.

It was the first real meeting of the entire club and nearly all of them were present with suggestions to make and speeches for the betterment of Nacogdoches and with the view of making Nacogdoches a better place in which to live. If all the boys stay together as is indicated now, they are going to do some great things for the city and vicinity. It is possible for them to do much more than an ordinary person would expect that a bunch of good, young men could do. They already have several good movements on foot and will probably make a favorable report at the next meeting next Monday night.

A committee of three was appointed to experiment with oiling a section of street in the city. It was suggested to plow, oil good and heavy and grade about 100 yards and test it out thoroughly. Of course, it would be a little had at first, but in a week or so it has been proven that it is equal to the best of pavement, provided it is re-oiled and graded every once in a great while. It was the opinion of the club that it was the best and cheapest thing that could be done with the streets at the present time.

Mr. J. H. Hines of Memphis, Tenn., vice president of the National Lumber & Cresote Company of St. Louis, was a very congenial visitor and gave some good points on a proposition that the club has under way. Mr. Hines' talk was well received and he was invited to visit us again.

The attention of the Boosters was called to the action of the Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce at its last meeting when appreciation for and confidence in the Boosters was expressed and the pleasing announcement made that the chamber stood ready at any and all times to cooperate with the club in any undertaking for the betterment of Nacogdoches and vicinity. The Boosters appreciate the feeling of good-will apparent in the chamber's resolution of friendliness, and it was the consensus of opinion of those present that the Boosters would heartily cooperate with the C. of C. in all undertakings of civic importance.

DISTRICT MEETING OF INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

The annual meeting of the University Interscholastic League will take place in Timpson Friday and Saturday of this week. Five counties as follows will be represented in the different events: Nacogdoches, Angelina, San Augustine, Sabine and Shelby. Besides the contestants, there will be several hundred visitors here, and Timpson is making arrangements to entertain the contestants in a way that will make them appreciate the fact that they came to Timpson.

The people of Timpson will be called upon to entertain the contestants in their homes, and already several have agreed to do this. Those in charge of the entertainment feature state that more homes are needed and when you are called upon to help entertain the contestants do your part.

It is also planned to have automobiles at the railway station to meet the visitors and to take them to the school building, where they will be assigned to homes during their stay in Timpson.

Superintendent Crim, district manager, is anxious to make this the greatest district meet ever held in Timpson, and to this end he asks for the help and co-operation of the entire town.

The program will begin Friday morning at the school building and will continue until Saturday night.

The Times trusts that every citizen of Timpson will feel that they are on the entertainment committee and leave nothing undone that will help in the entertainment of the visitors. —Timpson Times.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church met on Monday at the church for Bible study. The subject was the 4th chapter Genesis, which was led by Mrs. Barham and while the attendance was not as large as usual owing to the inclement weather, the study was a most interesting one, and was earnestly discussed by the class.

WEEKLY SENTINEL

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR.

BY GILES M. HALTOM

SO THE COUNTRY MAY KNOW

The democratic party can never be charged with letting partisanship to interfere with efforts to end war. How different is the attitude of the democratic senators from that of the republicans of the senate of two years ago!

In those days Woodrow Wilson was trying to give the world the benefit of America's participation in a world-wide effort to end all armed conflict. Did republicans lay aside partisanship and try to help the president of the United States in that great desire?

Be it said to the eternal shame of some men in public life, they did not.

But when President Harding sent seven treaties to the senate that together move in the same direction as the League of Nations treaty, but cannot do nearly so much good because of their limitations, the democrats in some instances cast not one vote against them, and in other instances cast but few.

That is a record the democratic party should be proud of. It means that democratic senators as a whole were big enough to put country above the chance of being in the opposition. Let it be hoped the American people will remember the difference in the attitude of democratic senators toward these seven treaties and that of the republicans against the Versailles treaty. It is a contrast between Americanism and party selfishness.

The Versailles treaty was not fought because of any fear lest it involve the United States in foreign entanglements. That is a forgotten argument, used for the moment for partisan purposes. This is evident from the fact that the bitterest enemy of the Versailles treaty was actually one of the four men who represented the United States in the preparation of the seven new treaties, and certainly if the Versailles treaty could be denounced as "entangling", what can be said of the new group of treaties! Republicans who shouted "Remember Washington's advice" the loudest knew at the time they shouted that conditions had so changed since Washington's time as to make it impossible for the United States to live in isolation.

They have proved since the last election and in their efforts in behalf of the new treaties that they were sincere in their attacks upon the Versailles treaty. Their objection to that treaty was based not on what it contained, but on the connection of President Wilson with it. They know that is true. And the county now knows it.

GOVERNOR NEFF AND DALLAS

Hon. Pat Neff, governor of Texas, in a letter to the mayor of Dallas, made this strong statement:

"Recently quite a number of unlawful floggings have taken place in and around Dallas, and the combined official forces of your city and county have not been able to bring to the bar of justice even one of those participating in this unlawful practice. To assist in capturing these offenders against the law, it seems to me that the entire official family of Dallas, in its inability to get results, would gladly welcome the aid of the rangers. In addition to this particular character of lawlessness, I am advised that bootleggers follow their vocation daily in your city, and that gambling houses and other illegal gathering places can be found on many of your streets."

Governor Neff is right. The failure to discover even one guilty man, or to secure even one conviction, is a reflection upon the officials of Dallas.

The law has been defied, men have been brutally beaten, and those guilty have escaped punishment.

It is time for Dallas to either act, or permit the state to furnish aid.—Houston Chronicle.

PREPARATION SUCCEEDS

It is youth which pays most dearly for procrastination. For it is when we are young that we should lay the foundations for future achievements, and by putting off the preparation which such achievements demand failure is invited when in later years the test comes.

This message is deserving of re-statement. Time out of mind it has been handed down from generation to generation. Adorned by the addition of an appropriate fable, or with illustrations taken from current daily life, or rounded off with an old proverb, this message has come down from days before books were in existence, from such early times in which man had not yet learned to use the written word.

But not even its age can rob this advice of its force. Indeed, as the prospects for the young to make good later in life grow more abundant, it is the more necessary that he who would succeed should take pains to insure success by getting the right kind of start. Youth is not so limited in its possibilities to make good as it once was. No matter in what station of life he is born today any ambitious boy may, if not achieve greatness, at least come close to it.

But it depends on the right kind of start. He can not leave school at the sixth or seventh grade and hope to succeed against those who have been better trained. He can not in early youth shirk whatever duties the day's work may bring and still hope to attain the moral calibre necessary for good work later in life. He can not always take the easier way without losing the very force by which great deeds are done.

Strength of character and ability to perform distinctive work are the result of constant effort in youth when habits are most easily formed. This is true today as it was 1,000 years ago.

WHAT WILL RADIO BRING?

When Edward Bellamy, 35 years ago, wrote his fascinating prophecy, "Looking Backward" from the year 2000, people gasped at his daring while appreciating his imagination. In one astounding chapter the "Rip Van Winkle" of the narrative is taken to the music room, where he is asked to make his own choice from a very long 24-hour music program. He indicates an organ piece, his hostess "made me sit down comfortably, and, crossing the room, so far as I could see, merely touched one or two screws, and at once the room was filled with the music of an organ anthem.

Such an incredible prophecy that the Bellamy work was classified in the libraries as "fiction"; and so speedily has scientific development occurred that in many libraries it still is "fiction." Yet this is only 1922, not 2000, and by the time the Bellamy era of prediction is reached who dares to foretell the achievements of man? The radio is now an accomplished fact. Man has discovered a great secret; now he sets to work to develop and apply it. The limitation of the human voice exists no longer, and a whisper thrown to the air becomes instantaneously a chorus in a million homes.

Its possibilities are so limitless that the day is not far distant when every home, every building, public or private, will be equipped to receive the signals from the air. The radio receiving set will be as much a part of the building as the furnace and the kitchen stove. It will be possible, as it is now, for every man, woman or child to hear, at the instant of transmission, whatever is given to the air.

What then? When every home when every building in the country, in the civilized world, has its receiving set to let in the voice of the world, just as today every home has its windows to let in the sunlight and fresh air, how best will this wonderful discovery be used for the convenience of mankind? There is a field for a Jules Verne to explore—he could fling a man around the world in 80 days, today a message is flung around the world in as many seconds.

But all speculation dies away before the inevitability of further and even greater advances in the use of the new medium. Millions whose imagination has been captured by the geni of the air are giving their minds and their enthusiasm to this task. Daily experiments are recorded. A United States general has just announced one great step. Inventions are emulative. Given a key to the beginning and development follows more rapidly almost than the layman can follow or the manufacturer produce the appliances.

It is not too much to anticipate, the radiophone as the supreme medium of human fellowship, whereby all peoples may grow closer together in thought and purpose, with the inevitable dissipation of differences which come with understanding.

This great triumph of peace has brought to the present day a stimulus and interest so much greater than anything recorded in history that it seems as though it can not do less than reconstruct the very basis of humanity's daily intercourse and relations.

The Blazed Trail

WORKERS in the woods frequently find the trail blazed by the axes of those who have gone before. Guided by these marks, they easily find their way.

Advertisements perform a similar duty for you in the important business of spending your money. They point the way to values of which you would never know if they were not there to guide you.

Do you read them? Wise shoppers do. They are the economical buyers—the ones who keep themselves strictly up-to-date on the best opportunities for saving money, or spending it judiciously, which is one and the same thing.

Read the advertisements in this paper. Read them to know what's what in the shopping district. Read them because they place before your eyes a moving panorama of business progress. Read them to save money—to save steps—to save disappointments. Read them because they blaze your trail to satisfaction in your everyday buying.

Read them regularly. Follow their guidance. It pays.

TO THE PEOPLE OF NACOGDOCHES COUNTY

I have served you as your county attorney for the past fifteen months and have asked you to elect me for another term.

As an officer I have tried faithfully and earnestly to discharge my duty fairly and impartially.

I have never been officious nor offensive, but have treated everybody with courtesy and consideration.

In my personal conduct I have always tried to live an honest and upright life, and have made it the rule of my life to attend to my own business and let other people's business alone.

It seems, however, that in spite of my efforts I have made some enemies who are now seeking to defeat me, and seem to have singled me out as a special object of attack.

I have just been informed by some of my friends that these men are circulating throughout the county various charges against me by which they seek to injure me.

First: They are charging that I am a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Second: They are charging that I have willfully and wrongfully sued some eight or nine hundred people who were unable to pay their taxes.

I concede that the voters have a perfect right to know all about the official conduct of a man who seeks their support for an office and I am willing to concede in my case more than this. cheerfully invite honest, sincere investigation into my official life and also into my private life, and I will gladly answer any question propounded to me by a voter, man or woman, in honest sincerity, but I resent with my whole being the offensive, impertinent meddling of an arrogant bigot whose inquiry is prompted only by a malicious, premeditated intent to do me harm, and I shall never under any circumstances give such an individual the right to put me on the witness stand and propound questions to me concerning my private affairs.

To such I have no explanations or apologies to make for anything I say or do.

I now make this statement for the information of those who honestly desire and have the right to know about my official acts and personal alliances:

I am not a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and this charge had its origin in the mind of one man in Nacogdo-ches, who, for some cause unknown to me, has tried ever since I have been a man to obstruct my progress in life and hinder every ambition and undertaking I have had.

This report was put in circulation by this man in a deliberate, malicious and willful effort to turn against me some of the closest and dearest friends I have ever known, Catholics, Jews and others who are not only tied to me by the bonds of friendship, but by ties of blood, and this mischief maker and disturber of peace and harmony and ties of friendship knew that such a report circulated against me would rob me of more friends than anything else he could say.

To turn a man's friends against him by the circulation of false and malicious reports is a meaner trick than any which has ever been charged to the Ku Klux Klan. It is politics of the dirty, filthy sort, the sort that honest men hate.

I believe in the right of trial by jury and I hold that the most sacred writing on earth, excepting only the Holy Writ, is the Bill of Rights which guarantees to every citizen security in his person and property, but I have been charged, presented, tried, convicted and condemned without a hearing, and upon the malicious utterance of an enemy.

Touching the matter of the tax suits filed, I say that I am neither officially nor personally responsible for the filing of these suits; it is simply an unfortunate condition which could not be prevented, and any honest inquirer will receive a truthful and satisfactory explanation by talking to me or to Judge Marshall, or any member of the commissioners' court.

Touching my personal affiliations, I say for the benefit of those who desire to know that I am a Mason, a member of the Woodmen of the World, of the Baptist church, a democrat, and a Knight of Pythias.

Now as to whether I ever kissed a girl, wet a hook, shot a gun, or stole a watermelon, I am willing to tell my friends all about it if they want to know.

Respectfully,
Audley Harris.

P-L-A-A-Y B-A-W-L-L-I

Christmas and the Fourth of July have not tighter grip upon the affections of the male portion of the population of the United States than the joy which opens up the annual baseball season. In 1922 this happens today.

Business will be carried on as usual probably, in many places, but there will be occasional, perhaps frequent, mental lapses from the strictest attention to sordid details connected with the mere accumulation of money.

Between April and October—when the race is closely contested—the American man and boy and an occasional girl and woman lays one more stick upon the existing load to be carried through the hot term. But it is one of those added burdens which give pleasure even in the frequent pains of defeat.

Between April and October there is a patriotic obligation to make diligent inquiry that is not to be denied concerning each day's scores. The duty of keeping in mind without error the standing of the teams is one that may not be neglected. Some details of work or business may be temporarily sidetracked, but never that of memorizing the standing of the clubs.

And who is there to say that American's zealous devotion to this one great national sport does not make them the better for it? It provides relaxation and diversion that makes existence less hum-drum for countless thousands.

A FLOURISHING CLASS

The one hundred mark was passed Sunday in the Young Men's Sunday-school Class at the Queen Theater. One hundred and fifteen were present with $13.92 collection. The meeting was fine and everyone enjoyed the services.

The song services were great, too. Everybody sings and Sunday morning the old time songs were sung and it was something grand. This is a great part of the services.

A number of the boys sang a special song, which was enjoyed by all. The teacher, R. C. Monk, had asked Brother Dinwiddie to talk to the class. His subject was "The Secret of Success." It was good and everyone was glad that he spoke.

If you want to see men enter into something grand and enjoy it, come out next Sunday and be one of the class.

Julian Brandon and "Hinkey" Greenon, two youths of the Maytown community, were lodged in jail Friday afternoon by Sheriff Woodman on a charge of stealing and disposing of eight gallons of syrup owned by their uncle, Will Brandon.

DOCHES LOSFS OPENING GAME TO JACKSONVILLE

The local talent had only one bad inning. Enclosing the second frame Greens' entry would have copped the game with a score of 1 to 0. Four of the six errors chalked up against the home club came in the fatal second stanza. Parish was working on the mound in mid-season form, allowing the invaders only six hits, while his team mates gathered a like number off of Whatley delivery. The three runs that crossed the platter in this frame proved to be a lead that the home boys could not overcome, although the locals threatened in the fourth and seventh innings. Score by innings:

Jacksonville—Eiland threw Acker out at first. Toler went out pitcher to first and Parish struck out Sory working high balls on the latter.

Doches—Eiland, Bates and Hargis went out Whatley to Weatherby route.

Jacksonville—This inning is what cost Doches the game. Whatley hit an easy fly back of short but Eiland and Thrash pulled an Alphonso and Gaston stunt and let the ball hit the ground for a single. Beard hit an easy roller to Parrish, who was over anxious for a double and threw second, both runners safe. On the second ball pitched to Vance, Muckleroy let the ball get through him but recovered in time to head Whatley who had made a dash for the hot corner. Parrish then struck Vance out, Beard going to third. Gillispie hit to third and Hargis fielded the ball but made a poor throw to first. Beard scoring, Gillispie stole second and Weatherby hit a slow ball down first base like Parrish went over to field the ball but could not get his hands on it. Kennedy hit on the ground to Bates who kicked it and Gillispie spiked the rubber ahead of Weatherby, Acker drew a free pass off of Parrish for the first station and Toler hit to short who forced Acker at second.

Doches—Langford led off for the locals and struck out. Thrash singled to left, the first hit for the home boys Parrish hit to Whatley who forced Thrash at second, Parish safe at first. Eiland hit to third who fumbled, Parrish, taking second and Eiland first. Bates went out Vance to Weatherby.

Doches—Bates came through with a single to center. Hargis hit in the same garden for two bases and Bates should have scored but was caught at the plate, Sory to Vance to Gillispie. Hargis taking third on the throw with what later proved to be the local's only tally. Power sacrificed Shofner to second going out pitcher to first. Muckleroy ended the frame by popping out to first.

Jacksonville—Acker went out Hargis to Power. Parrish could not find the plate and walked Toler. Sory singled to left at but fast fielding by Thrash held Toler at second. Whatley flew out Langford and Parrish threw out Beard.

Doches—Langford lined out to third. Thrash came through with his second hit of the day, a single to right. Parrish hit to Whatley who threw to catch Thrash at second, his throw was late and if Thrash had not been over-all second he would have been safe. Parrish safe at first. Kennedy booted Eiland's grounder and Parrish took second while Eiland occupied first. Vance threw Bates out at first.

Jacksonville—Vance went out via the air to Thrash. Gillispie singled to left and stole second. Weatherby flew out to Thrash. Kennedy singled thru second. Gillispie taking third. Acker popped out to first.

Doches—Hargis fouled out to Gillispie. Shofner popped out to first, and Power lined out the Whatley.

Jacksonville—Bates kicked Toler's grounder, and Parrish had some more difficulty in locating the platter and walked Sory, Toler taking second. With two men on and no men down things looked bad for the home club. Whatley flew out to Thrash, and Bates threw Beard out, then Parrish just to prove that he wasn't uneasy whiffed Vance.

Doches—Muckleroy hit to left and could have made second but turned his ankle while rounding first. Wheeler hitting for Langford dumped one in front of the plate and Gillispie threw to second to head Muckleroy. Thrash hit to shortstop who forced Wheeler at second. Thrash safe at first. Parrish ended things by popping up to third.

Jacksonville—Parrish threw Gillispie out at first. Weatherby hit to Hargis who fielded the ball off threw poor to first base, Weatherby taking second on the overthrow. Parrish had two strikes on Kennedy when Weatherby made a wild dash for third but Muckleroy's throw caught him, then Parrish returned to the box and served up the last strike to Kennedy.

Doches—Eiland fouled out to Gillispie.

pie. Bates took three swings and went to the water barrel. Hargis lofted to right.

Jacksonville—Acker lined out to Power, Toler took three swings and put his sweater on. Sory refused to strike at the high one and walked. Parrish made Whatley hit to him and that ended the game for the visitors.

Doches—The home talent could not stage a ninth inning rally, and Whatley turned the boys back to the bench in one, two and three order. Shofner flew out to Vance. Whatley threw Power out at first. Muckleroy struck out.

MANY CATTLE DROWN DURING RECENT FLOODS

The flood waters last week are referred to by many as the worst since the "June" flood. This dates back some ten or more years ago. Reports from over the county indicate that the livestock industry has been hard hit on account of cattle perishing in the bottoms. Just at this time of the year cattle will drift to the lowlands, for it is there that the grass is better, and the rain storm was so severe that the streams rose rapidly and many of the weaker ones were unable to get out.

In addition to the loss of the cattle it is said that the land in some sections, especially in the Sand Hill section, suffered badly from being washed. Terraces were broken in many places and caused additional damage. So far we have not heard of any loss of life on account of high water. Those from the river section Monday reported that the river was up, but no unusual high water mark had at that time been reached.—Center Champion.

GARRISON'S NEW COUNCIL

In the municipal election held Tuesday the following gentlemen were elected to serve the town of Garrison for the next 12 months:

J. S. Watson, Mayor.
Ellis Mills and A. C. Irwin, Aldermen.

Mr. Watson has served the town before in this capacity, and made us a good mayor. Mr. Mills is also experienced in the service, having been on the board for many years. These gentlemen are wide-awake, progressive citizens, thus the affairs of the town will continue to be in good hands with the new board.—Garrison News.

JACKSONVILLE AGAIN WINS

Jacksonville made it two straights by taking Friday's game. Up to the sixth inning Doches had the visitors beat 2 to 0, then came the balloon ascension. The home boys drew first blood. Eiland struck out, Bates worked for a pass, stole second and went to third when Garner threw Hargis grounder wild. Shofner hit to second and Bates came home, Hargis taking second while Vance threw Shofner out at first. Power hoisted to center for the last out. The home talent repeated the dose in the third. Wheeler connected with one of Garner's fast ones for two bases, Eiland sacrificed him to third. Bates fouled out to Whatley, and Wheeler came home when Vance led off with a grounder. Shofner flew out to right. In the sixth Vance led off with a single to left and scored when Beard hit for three bases to center. Weatherby worked the squeeze play and Beard scored. Wheeler over-threw Power and Weatherby, and went to second on the over throw. Garner went out Wheeler to Power. Acker singled to center and Weatherby came home. Acker stole second and Wheeler whiffed Toler and Sory.

The fans are well pleased with the showing the home boys made in these two games and after they are a little more polished on base running, they should not have any difficulty in defeating any team in their class. Green has a good pitching staff in Parrish and Wheeler, that is evident by the strike outs. Parrish in the first game hung seven of the visitors' scalps on his belt while Wheeler turned 12 back to the bench. Muckleroy caught under difficulty Friday getting his knee hurt in Thursday's game. The score would indicate a one-sided affair but it was exciting enough. In the fourth inning Langford hit one that was labeled for three bases in right center but Beard after a long run caught the ball just as he ran into Toler who was also after the ball. Power bumped the fence with one in the sixth but fast fielding on the part of Sory held the first baseman to a single. Shofner starred in the seventh when he leaped into the air to spear Whatley's line drive that would have been a triple. If Langford had put a little more distance and less height on the one in the seventh it would have gone over the left field enclosure. Eiland had a good day at short stop and did Hargis and Power at third and first. Wheeler pitched stellar ball and the out field as a whole worked in good form.

WILL REST IN ARLINGTON

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 10.—The body of Lieutenant Colonel Paul Ward Beck, the renowned aviator, who was slain here on the morning of April 4th by Jean P. Day, wealthy oilman and lawyer, was started late yesterday on its journey to Washington, where it will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

Day was exonerated Saturday by a coroner's jury, which found him justified in slaying the officer.

AMARILLO'S WEATHER

Amarillo, Texas, April 10.—A light snow began falling here this morning. The temperature was 36 at 7 o'clock.

Marriage licenses were issued Saturday by County Clerk Perritte to Mr. Ollie Hutchinson and Miss Jessie Barrett of the Sand Flat neighborhood, Mr. S. M. Mackey and Miss Beattie Avery, the former of Attoyac and the latter of Shady Grove; and Mr. Eters Adams and Miss Bertha Stover of Sacul. The last named couple were married in the clerk's office by Judge Frank Huston. On Monday a license was issued to Mr. Sam Williams and Miss Inez Cannon of the Melrose community.

C. OF C. DIRECTORS

The meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce was held at 10 o'clock Friday, with the following members present: President Oscar Matthews, Vice President Carl Monk, T. E. Baker, Guy Stripling, W. C. Fouts, J. H. Muller, W. D. Burk, H. P. Schmidt, J. N. Thomas, Orland Patton, A. H. Smith, A. T. Mast, Link Summers, J. B. Atkins, and W. D. Ambrose.

Mrs. J. O. Ray, president of the Cemetery Association, together with Mrs. George Meisenheimer and Mrs. C. C. Pierce of the same organization, came before the directors to ask for assistance in buying the Luther Swift tract of land lying north of and adjoining Oak Grove Cemetery. Mr. Ray stated that there remained only four vacant lots in Oak Grove, and that it was imperative that the association secure additional ground.

After a lengthy discussion of the matter it was agreed that the Cemetery Association would have the Swift property mapped to ascertain the number of lots it would support, and also an estimate of the grading necessary to put the lots in shape for offering to the public, and that with this information the committee would come before the Chamber of Commerce at an early date, and ask for help in buying the property.

J. B. Atkins made a progress report on the trades day event.

Mr. John R. Owens of Houston presented a plan he has under way for advertising East Texas through a monthly publication to be known as "The Home Finders Guide." On motion his proposition was referred to the finance committee.

Mr. T. E. Baker called favorable attention to the recently organized Young Men's Booster Club, and offered a motion that the Chamber of Commerce express its appreciation for and confidence in the Boosters' Club, and that the Chamber of Commerce stand ready at any and all times to co-operate with the Club in any undertaking for the betterment of Nacogdoches and vicinity. The formal motion carried unanimously with a vigorous "Aye."

A glance at the attendance record chart in the secretary's office shows that the following directors have up to date a 100 percent attendance record: President Oscar Matthews, J. H. Muller, W. D. Burk, H. P. Schmidt, A. H. Smith, Link Summers, J. B. Atkins.

A small frame store building near the refinery, owned by T. W. Weems and occupied by S. N. Mills as a meat market and grocery, was destroyed by fire at 12 o'clock Friday night, together with all its contents. The origin of the fire is unknown. The Sublett Insurance agency carried a policy of $700 on the building and $1,500 on stock. A building within four or five feet of the burned building was saved, a feat for which our fire boys deserve the highest praise. The boys usually "get there" if there's anything left for them to save upon their arrival.

GENOA CONFERENCE MEETS

Genoa, April 10.—Nations of the four continents today began their efforts to restore to the world normal conditions. Plans have been completed for the economic conferences.

Indications at Washington are that the spoils system was the fire to get back to normalcy.

Campaigning by radio will appeal to the politicians, who then will get have all the fires for pulling.

LUCKY ARTIST WPN FORTUNE

Comfortable Sum Bequeathed Painter Who Had Reproduced Features of Beloved Daughter.

A fortune of $46,000, ($230,000), which was bequeathed by the late Robert B. Hawley, president of the Cuban-American Sugar company, to Mr. Learned and his family was the romantic sequel to Mr. Learned having painted a portrait of the sugar magnate's dead daughter. Mr. Hawley made a fortune in the export business, and in 1896 he was elected to congress. Just after he left congress his daughter Sue died, and he was heart-broken. The only likeness that he possessed of his loved one was a small photograph, and this lacked much of the fine animation that had characterized her face.

Taking the photo Mr. Hawley went to Arthur G. Learned, a rising young artist, and asked him to make a portrait that would recall something of the inspiration the girl had been in her father's life. The picture was made and it exceeded the hopes of the grief-stricken father. The latter was so grateful that he became on the closest terms of friendship with the painter and his family. Mr. Hawley died in November and left to Mr. Learned and his wife $20,000, ($100,000), and to their little son $2,000, ($10,000), and a trust fund of $24,000, ($120,000).—Manchester Guardian Weekly.

OPEN FIREPLACE A NUISANCE

Women of Past Generations Considered the Huge Affairs of Those Days as Unnecessary.

Nowadays one of the most convincing proofs that you can give to the fact that your city apartment is of the highest class and unlike the ordinary is to say that it has "open fireplace." Even a single "open fireplace" in an apartment is enough to raise it from the shoddy majority. And, of course, when we dream of owning a house in the country most of us, fine out of ten of us, think of an open fireplace as a sine qua non of such an abode.

But our grandmothers had no such opinions of open fireplaces.

Open fireplaces were a real humiliation to the woman who had them in her house 50 years or more ago. At least that feeling prevailed in this country. A small grate fire, that held a few shovels of coal, was another matter, but the sort of fireplace whose logs burned across firelogs was—well, it was one of the crudities that most persons did not like to possess. Yes, there was a time when a Franklin burner or a drum stove was considered more of an ornament to the well-furnished drawing room than the sort of wide-hearted fireplace that we covet nowadays.

Section Men Watch Step.

Section men are known for their deliberate movements. They never get in a hurry unless there is some urgent work to be done. As long as they are on the go they are supposed to be working fast enough.

Track workers on the subway lines are even more deliberate in their movements than men employed on regular railroads. Where the old-time section workers had to look out for fliers and occasional freight trains, the subway track men have to be on the watch for express and local trains passing every few minutes. In addition, they've got to have a care for the third rail. In crossing the tracks every movement is taken with the death-dealing current always in mind. A hurried, reckless step might end fatally. Probably in no other line of work is efficiency so measured by slow work.

Royal Parish Church.

Although St. Martins-in-the-Fields (London, England) once the Royal Parish church—has just celebrated its 200th anniversary under the Royal seal, the church stands on a site consecrated centuries before. The first organ used in the present building was purchased by George I, who had the royal arms worked in relief on the portico. Soon after its erection the church was thus referred to in a periodical of the time:

"The inhabitants are now supplied with a decent tabernacle, which can produce as handsome a show of white hands, diamond rings, pretty snuff boxes, and gilt prayer books as any cathedral, says the Daily Chronicle, in its ghostly form he could return some wet and wintry midnight and see the outcast refugees in those once jeweled pews.

Wormwood.

The Kaiser's pet racing yacht was the Germania. He kept it at the Kiel Yacht club and dreamed of world power as it carried him on cruises.

The war changed a lot of things. It changed the name Germania to Half Moon. It also changed the yacht's ownership. Gordon Woodbury of New York owns it now. He starts on the Half Moon for a cruise in the South seas.

When Bill Hohenzollern heard about this at his famous woodpile in Holland, it's a safe bet he broke his jaw.

United States Leads World.

There are in the United States today more than thirteen and three-quarter millions of telephones. This is an average of 12.7 telephones for every 100 persons or, put another way, better than one telephone for every eight people. From a telephone standpoint this country is by far the best developed in the world. In fact, no other country is even a close second.

We Know Batteries!

Repairing batteries may look easy—but it isn't!

To be successful, a repair man has to know just how to handle the plates that hold the active material that keeps life in the battery. He has to know how to take care of the insulators that keep the plates apart. He has to know when it is cheaper for you to buy a new battery than to have the old one repaired.

Bring your battery in to Headquarters—no matter whether it's a Willard or not. We'll tell you what it needs, if anything, how much the cost will be—and whether repairs will pay or not.

MOTOR MANSLAUGHTER

More and more widely the taking of human life by careless driving is recognized as a serious crime heavily punishable. That the crime is committed involuntarily makes little difference.

The Rocky Mountain News points out that convictions for involuntary manslaughter resulting from reckless or careless operation of automobiles have been sustained already by the supreme courts of Arkansas, Connecticut, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Nebraska, Ohio, New York and Tennessee.

"Involuntary manslaughter" has been a part of the common law for centuries, and so may be invoked in any state, regardless of the absence of statutory recognition. The Colorado supreme court has held that this offense may consist in the taking of human life, without any intent to do so, "in the commission of a lawful act without due caution and circumspection." The application of this definition to careless automobile driving is obvious enough.

A Colorado statute, moreover, which has its counterpart in most other states, provides that "where such involuntary killing shall happen in the commission of an unlawful act which in its consequences naturally tends to destroy the life of a human being, the offense shall be deemed and adjudged to be murder." A strict construction of such a statute would mean evidently that if a motorist kills a person while he is breaking the speed limit, he is properly chargeable with murder.

Here is a matter for serious reflection on the part of any motorist who is disposed to take traffic regulations lightly.—Beaumont Enterprise.

On East Main street Saturday afternoon a truck driven by Grady Haltom and a car driven by David James collided and were considerably damaged. As Mr. Haltom was going along at a reasonable rate of speed a little girl ran in front of his truck, and the only possible way to avoid running the child down and perhaps killing her was to steer the machine into the car driven by Mr. James, and his quick action in thus preventing a tragedy is to be highly commended. The damage to the machines was as nothing, of course, as compared to what might otherwise have happened to the child.

Mrs. A. H. Smith, Mrs. L. I. Muller and little daughter Frances, Mrs. G. M. Haltom and Mrs. A. E. Elliott and little daughter, Margaret, left Monday for Beaumont to attend the Eastern Texas Presbyterial, the meeting of the federated auxiliaries of the Presbyterial church, South. Mrs. Smith went as president of the Presbyterials, Mrs. Muller as representative of the work here and Mrs. Haltom and Frances Muller and Mrs. Elliott and Margaret as visitors. The party will return by way of Houston, where they will attend a meeting of the Brazos Presbyterial and also visit friends.

Mr. W. B. Pearson of Waco, grand secretary of the grand lodge of Masons of Texas, arrived in the city Sunday for a week's visit with his daughter, Mrs. G. Wustenbecker, on Houston street. Mr. Pearson was a former resident of Nacogdoches and is being cordially greeted by old-time friends and acquaintances.

AND THE GOVERNMENT PAYS

The excitement in congress occasioned by Senator New's daring experiment in addressing his Indiana constituents over the government radio needs no explanation.

It is clear at once even to the most obtuse of legislators that Senator New has hit on something of infinite possibilities. The great difficulty of a congressman faces is the necessity of explaining to interested voters things he does not want to explain.

At this point in comes the radio, Senator New points the way to a campaign millenium, where the candidate does all the talking. He says, by implication, "Here's a good one! Let radio do it. No hall, no rent, no cigars, no hecklers—you don't have to explain anything, and the government pays for it."

PILING UP RAILROAD COSTS

It must be embarrassing now for the railroads, after all the attacks they made on "extravagance" of government control, to be revealed in the position of piling up costs during the period the government guaranteed a fixed return.

From the interstate commerce commission comes public condemnation of the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads for having had repaired at outside shops at excessive costs locomotives that could have been put into shape at less cost and in the same period at the company's own shops.

The commission charges that the Pennsylvania paid $3,000,000 more than necessary in the summer of 1920 for contract repairs on 200 locomotives. If the company had ordered the work done in its own shops the cost would have been $3,000,000 less than it was.

The public has heard much from the railroads about "excessive" wages paid its shopmen. In gradual and imperative deflation process this testimony was heard with some favor by the public. But what do the railroads expect the public to think now that it is shown the roads were doing the very thing for which they criticised their own employees?

BATHING GIRL REVUE

Scores of bathing beauties in fetching aquatic attire and the latest in beach millinery, will disport themselves along Galveston's famous seawall the afternoon of May 14, when the annual "Bathing Girl Revue" will be staged.

Entries are coming in fast and it is expected every large city in the southwest, as well as many smaller ones, will be represented in the big parade of feminine pulchritude.

$500 cash will be awarded and the title of "Bathing Queen of the Southwest" bestowed upon the winner. Galveston entries are not eligible for this prize. In addition nearly $3,000 in prizes, ranging in value from $650, for the grand prize, to $25.00, will be awarded sixteen successful candidates. All entries are eligible for the latter prizes. Judging will be done by fifteen representatives of major city newspapers in the territory.

The contestants will ride in automobiles along the full five miles of the boulevard, thus enabling all visitors to obtain a vantage point.

A battery of camera men representing every news agency and motion picture news weekly of note in America, will be on hand to record the event.

Entries can be made by communicating with W. L. Roe, general manager of the Beach Association of Galveston, who are sponsors of the spectacle.

MACHINES NOW DIGGING COAL

Inventions Have Wrought Great Changes in the Methods of Bringing "Black Diamonds" to Surface.

With the rapid development of labor-saving methods, the coal miner, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine, is being transformed into a keen-eyed operator of a powerful machine which not only mines and loads the coal, but does it in a safer and more economical manner; safer, because the coal is broken down without the use of explosives which tend to shatter the roof and make it dangerous; and more economical, because it produces more lump coal and fewer fines, and does it more rapidly.

One machine developed for this work consists of an undercutting frame with cutter chain and a shearing frame on each side of the machine. In the undercutting frame is a conveyor. There is provided a powerful ram which breaks down the coal onto the conveyor. This ram can be directed at any height of the coal face.

The machine is mounted in a pan and fed forward by means of a steel rope. When the cut has been made, the machine is pulled back in the pan by means of a rope; then this rope is hooked over a sheave on the forward side of the machine and the eye fastened to a jack at the face of the opposite rib. By this means the machine is pulled sideways, the width of the cut. This requires about three minutes. The machine is then ready to take another cut.

The machine can be used in combination with a movable storage hopper provided with a loading conveyor. By this system the machine operates continuously during the time the loaded mine car is being removed and replaced by an empty one.

NEW YORKERS' LATEST SLANG

Word "Quaint" Has Found Much Favor Among Those Who Affect The Artistic Life.

"Quaint" is the latest word of the world that must have a new and uncommon adjective. It has quite outmoded "amusing" in the slang of the studios and among those who affect the artistic life. The dictionary meaning of the word—"combining an antique appearance with a pleasing oddity, fancifulness, or whimsicalness"—has been quite submerged in the passing craze for its use. When the governor's daughter in "The Tavern" said to the vagabond, "You are the quaintest man I ever knew" she did not really mean what the dictionary says the word means. She was admiring his powers of deduction. But the "latest" word had been worked into the speech and that was the desired thing. The tone always used in connection with "quaint" is patronizing, whether it is applied to a human being, a picture, or what not. The user invariably tries to give the impression that the object thus passed upon could have been done ever so much better if he, or she, had had a hand in making it. To be "quaint" nowadays is to be ever so slightly damned.—New York Herald.

Human Factor Counts.

Lord Teignmouth, in a letter to the London Times, writes: "In the controversy between the advocates of battle or surface ships and admirers of the submarine, one factor, and that a very important one, has been altogether ignored—namely, the human factor."

Ships are built to carry human beings; and, as far as present statistics enable one to judge, no submersible vessel has yet been constructed in which men can live for more than a few weeks, continuously, without deteriorating, mentally and physically, owing to the abnormal conditions prevailing on board. Man is an adaptable creature, and possibly, in the course of a century or so, a race of human beings may be evolved which can exist, comfortably, without fresh air, exercise or change of scene. In the meantime, surface ships will be voted the most habitable. Doctor Johnson must surely have had a U-boat in mind when he declared that "being in a ship is being in jail, with the chance of being drowned."

Fur Industry.

Up to within a century of the present time, raw furs were one of the most important products of this country, commercially speaking. Immense quantities of them were exported to Europe, where they were dressed, dyed and manufactured into garments.

This natural resource has been largely destroyed by the killing off of our fur-bearing animals. At the present time we are largely dependent upon foreign countries for supplies of skins.

Within recent years a great fur-dyeing and manufacturing industry has been built up in the United States, employing 18,000 operatives. We now import annually raw skins valued at $69,000,000, and of dressed skins only $4,000,000 worth.

Community Cars in Japan.

The community motorcar, owned jointly by 200 would-be motorists, is the latest thing in Japan. Fifty-five American cars have been sold by a recently organized Japanese company to 11,000 owners, each of whom paid $10 for his share in one of the cars. In return for his $10 the owner received a year's interest in the car. The year is divided into days and hours, and the specific time is allotted for each stockholder to ride. The hours have been so arranged that four people go riding with the driver during each period.

English Professor Declares They Are, In Fact, Extremely Slow to Grasp a Point.

Defining "smartness" as the capacity to adjust oneself rapidly to the immediate circumstances, Prof. T. H. Pear, University of Manchester, said at the Educational Association's annual conference at University college, that "a genius usually anything but smart, and he distinguishes himself from the merely smart man, who lives up to the external demands, by refusing to accept the surroundings, by setting about them instead of allowing them to set about him."

"I believe that some geniuses might not achieve the topmost ranks in a good many mental tests, especially in those requiring rapid solution of problems. A genius never sees any complex problem in the same light as an ordinary person and in a mental test may appear to be stupid."

"Some brilliant scientists would make woefully bad hospital orderlies, district visitors or managers of a household. The reason is not that they cannot attune themselves to the situation."

Professor Pear divided people into two classes, the extroverts and the introverts. The extrovert won the V. C. The first class airplane fighter is a specimen of the healthy extrovert, but the mathematician who calculates the plane's stability is an equally healthy introvert.—London Daily Mail.

WILL FIGHT FOR BARGAINS

British Journal's Lament Shows That Women Are Women Though the Ocean May Divide.

A joke that blooms each January and July in the funny papers is the changed disposition of women in sale times. A good deal of it, of course, is just joke, and nothing else, but there is a certain layer of truth at the roots of it. One never does actually see shoppers hitting each other with umbrellas or stamping on the assistants, though on the opening day of the sales recently there were women with firm fingers jerking blouses away from linp, tentative fingers and elbowing through crowds in a manner that even a conductor would regret to see in a street car. Rich silk petticoats spilled off the counters on the dusty floor, and women tramped over them just as though they were clumps of buttercups. Little frail bits of lingerie were juggled at the seams in a way that was simply asking for trouble; filmy blouses were tossed into crumpled heaps. It seemed scarcely possible that any of the goods displayed could survive the tumult and battle of this, the first day.—Manchester Guardian Weekly.

Sarcastic.

The first step in learning whether your child is properly nourished, we read, is to "Weigh the child in kilograms." The kilograms are very light, we understand, but if absolute accuracy is required, you may weigh the child in them first, and then later take 'em off and weigh 'em separately. On second thought, we advise the separate weight in all cases, especially where the kilograms are winter weight.

Reading further, you multiply the result by ten, and then "divide the result by the child's sitting height in centimeters"—just everyday centimeters will do,—and take the cube root of the result, and you will have a figure that will tell you whether your child is properly nourished. Most any architect or engineer in the telephone book will be glad to call and find the cube root for you.—Kansas City Star.

Telephones Aid Forest Rangers.

The rangers who police our national forests now are using portable telephones as a result of special perfection and adaptations of this method of communication to timber country requirements.

Each ranger carries a portable telephone as part of his equipment. Wire service is maintained between the headquarters camp, field points and lookout stations.

Instead of the overhead telephone lines, the forest telephone wires hang loosely from trees 10 to 12 feet above the ground so that in case a tree falls on the line it merely will take up some of the slack and not break the wire.—Atlantic City (N. J.) Gazette.

Shoot Cable Over River.

Telephone and press communication with Portland and points as far north as Montana, cut off recently by the overflowing of the Santiam river, in central Oregon, was restored by shooting across the river a weight to which was attached a light wire.

A projectile gun was used, according to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company. After ten attempts the wire was landed across a 400-foot gap and an emergency cable pulled across.

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS

I want to obtain a good picture of the noted old Stone Fort of Nacogdoches and I earnestly request everybody to help me get one or more pictures of it, old or new, or both old and new. I specially ask Captain I. L. Sturdevant to act as my agent and assistant. He once had in the Stone Fort National Bank a hand-made picture of it by Miss Jennie Harris. It had a trivial defect, I forgot what it was, but the general features were good. I would like to have it.

I want to hang the picture in the old Alamo, or chapel, where there are other historical souvenirs and notable pictures, such as Sam Houston, David Crockett and others, but there is no picture of General Rusk there. I am sorry to say it. I wish I could hand one there, among the other worthy and notable pictures.

The old Nacogdoches Cigar Company made a brand of cigars called Stone Fort. On the inside of the box lid was an excellent picture of the Old Stone Fort. It showed that it was located on a business street. Will Haltom was shown standing near it. Look over your old cigar boxes and get one for me. A well-taken picture of the reconstructed Stone Fort where it now stands would be well enough. Your photographer might get a snap on it for a postcard. It was erected about the year 1798, by Captain Gil Y'Barba, who had previously lived at San Augustine with his Spanish colony. But the true date of its erection is in doubt.

I have heretofore referred, in these writings, to the fact that so many of the old time Texans know so little about Nacogdoches. I knew instances of this in the case of a Confederate veteran named Edwards, claiming to belong to the historic Haden Edwards family. He asked me if Nacogdoches is in Texas. I gave him my usual spiel, that it is in the very center of East Texas, and is the section that first got the name Texas. The place where adventurers like Austin, Milam, Travis, Bowie, Crockett, Houston, Rusk and all such game youngsters came to first as Texas, and from there went out west to sow wild oats, or seek a fortune.

There are old people, living here all their lives, who were never inside the Alamo, and pay no attention to its history. It takes all kinds of people to make the world, or to make San Antonio.

The difference between East Texas as of which Nacogdoches is the center and West Texas of which San Antonio is the center, is not only remarkable but almost in amazing contrast. This difference is in climate, in timbers, soil and vegetation, in topography, in birds, reptiles, bugs, water sources and courses, and in people as to races, languages, religion and politics. East Texas has tall timbers, in variety and abundance. The woods in East Texas abound in wild fruits, flowers and birds. All are different in the west, and the country is a brushy prairie, with dwarf scrubby thorny trees. It doesn't rain so much here, nor thunder, nor have destructive winds, tornadoes, cyclones and floods. Nor does it have an excess of dust. In short the two sections are not alike. As to politics here it is fifty-fifty. As to churches they are also queer in membership. Catholics are all alike, but there are others.

There have been numbers of stories written or told about the Alamo, that are purely fictitious, or incorrect. One of these appears in a nice little pamphlet claimed to be gotten out under authority of the Daughters of the Republic. It mentions the escape of the Travis man who declined to stand with Travis and his men to the bloody end and fate. And it relates that this man left alone and was never heard of again.

Pennybacker's school history of Texas gives a very different story seemingly authentic. It states that this man's name was Moses Rose and he was a Frenchman, who served in Napoleon's army on his famous invasion of Russia and his retreat from Moscow. He had recently settled at Nacogdoches and was he fled from the Alamo, under permission of Travis, he made his way back to Nacogdoches with great difficulty and lived till his death many years after. That he was employed by the noted merchant, Frost Thorn, as superintendent of transportation between Nacogdoches and Natchitoches, La. This was a large and responsible duty, and he proved wholly reliable and competent. He was not inclined to tell about his Alamo adventure, because he was condemned for his act and his story was discredited and doubted. Uncle Sam Reid probably knew Rose. Fritz Hoya may have heard the story related and discussed. And after all, Rose may be entitled to the credit of using sense and discretion without much blame, ridicule and shame. The Irishman said "Better be a coward for a day than a dead man for the balance of his life."

NEXT DOSE CALOMEL
MAY SALIVATE

It is Mercury, Quicksilver, Shocks the Liver and Attacks Your Bones. Calomel salivation is horrible. It swells the tongue, loosens the teeth and starts rheumatism. There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel. It is a pleasant vegetable liquid that will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Calomel is a dangerous drug, besides it may make you feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than treacherous calomel your money is waiting for you.

Only a very limited number of Canadians have received the distinction of knighthood. Among them Gilbert Parker stands out most prominently, for he has the unique record of acquiring the honor solely as a recognition of his literary gifts.

Since making him a knight in 1902, the British Empire has conferred additional honors upon him. He was created a baronet of the first class in 1915, a privy councillor in 1916 and later made honorary colonel of the ancient and aristocratic Kent Royal Garrison artillery. He also has a collection of regular and special college degrees.

To most of us he is more impressive as plain Gilbert Parker, one of the foremost novelists of the day, who was once a poor boy and who rose to his present prominence through the sheer force of ability.

He has written about thirty novels, a book of poems, several successful plays and some books on travel. "The Right of Way," which established him firmly. This paper has secured one of his very successful stories, "No Defense," for serial printing. It will start soon. Do not miss it.

JEWEL BOX BURGLAR PROOF

Valuables May Be Accounted Safe When Placed Within This Up-to-Date Receptacle.

Among the newest things that inventors have given us in the last few months is a box that comes as near to being burglar proof as it is possible to imagine. It looks like an ordinary steel box with a keyhole in its side. But just lift it or move it and a loud alarm bell begins to ring inside it. This bell keeps on ringing for five hours and it cannot be stopped without unlocking the box.

A burglar might carry off the box, but its alarm would keep on ringing and would give him away before he could get it to a place of safety. If he touches it, even stumbles against it, the alarm will arouse the household, for the slightest movement suffices to set it ringing. This is also true of the dishonest servant.

The owner can, however, open and close the box at will, as he has the key. And the only way in which he can be robbed is by some thief stealing the key before tampering with the box.

This safe is arranged inside with trays for small articles, money and jewelry and with space under them for securities, such as bonds and mortgages. The whole is made of seamless steel, nickel-plated, with a piano hinge and strong double lock. There are no duplicate keys, nor is there a master key that will open it.

IMPORTING HOUSES—NEW FAD

English Residences Centuries Old Are Actually Lived in by Wealthy New York Residents.

Several houses complete in every detail, dating from the sixteenth century, have recently been imported from England. Lovers of the antique may enjoy the unique experience of living in the actual rooms which were built and decorated three centuries or more ago, and be within convenient commuting distance of New York. Such homes are naturally expensive, for the original cost is not only considerable, but the cost of transportation, the tariff and the expense of rebuilding are naturally great.

An English firm makes a specialty of selling these houses and keeps a number of them on hand in their show place near London for inspection. When an old house is to be torn down to make room for some improvement, the building is bought in, usually for a nominal sum. After being carefully taken apart it is rebuilt in the show place near London, ready for the inspection of purchasers. If it is bought by an American, for instance, the house is once more taken down and packed with care for shipment. This work is done by experts, so that the parts, especially the woodwork, will not be injured. The English builders usually come to America to set up the house exactly as it originally stood in England. In some instances these old houses have been surrounded with English gardens, reproducing the original setting in England of centuries past.

Camps for Motorists.

Here is the latest idea in camps for motorists, says the Popular Mechanics Magazine: An Oakland (Cal.) concern is spending no less than $80,000 in erecting "bungalows" on an eight-acre tract to be let to motoring tourists by the night or for any longer period "up to fifteen years" (as the management jokingly announces), which is the length of the lease on the land. These simple residences are designed to take the place of tents, and while their furnishings are meager compared with regular houses, they offer considerably more in the way of conveniences that is commonly offered by an ordinary tent. These bungalows are of two types, some with one room and some with two rooms. They are built entirely of wood, and are equipped with sinks, running water, electric lights, two-burner gas plates, etc.

Spring Beauties.

One of the commonest varieties of flowers found after the snow has melted away is the Spring Beauty. The little blossoms are a very delicate pink. Each petal is lined with hair lines of deep pink. Some naturalists claim that these hair lines of deep pink are honey guides for insects, lines that point the way to the tiny sac of honey to be found in the center of the flower.

Although the stalk of the Spring Beauty is very slender, it is quite sturdy enough to support the two slim green leaves, in the base of which is held the flower, and a cluster of diminutive buds, each on a stem no larger than a fine thread.

An Unwelcome Dance.

Lady Constance Stewart Richardson, whose bizarre dancing made her known in America, was married recently in oriental dress. There is a story about her and the duchess of Marlborough.

Once, at a charity concert at one of the great houses of London her host whispered to the duchess:

"We're to have an extra number. Dear Lady Constance has consented to do her barefoot Persian dance."

"Oh, dear," the duchess cried. "I knew when I spilled the salt at dinner that something dreadful would happen before the night was over."

Jud Tunkins.

Jud Tunkins says there is always a little something to be thankful for. Since fruit has gotten to be so expensive, there aren't nearly so many orange peels thrown on the sidewalk.

VICTIMS OF MORBID CRAVINGS

"Sensation Mongers" Must Have Excitement, No Matter What the Price They Have to Pay.

The case of anonymous letter writing reported from the French town of Tulle affords a typical illustration of the methods of the "sensation monger." Missives making accusations of infidelity have caused the deaths of two persons in an asylum and brought misery into several homes.

This is precisely the result desired by the writer of the slanders. Making a sensation is the very height of enjoyment among a large number of morbid persons. The human craving for excitement is entirely normal, but in its pathological and criminal manifestations it often leads to tragedy.

The majority of young children delight in sensational mongering. A life of imagination is the commonest form of juvenile unveracity.

A little girl who "sees" bears and wolves in a coppice near her home invents stories of hair-raising sensationalism concerning the ferocity of the animals. Another girl declares she sees big eyes in the stem of an oak tree. A boy, twelve years old, arriving at a boarding school, told his companions of the dormitory that he had flown the first airplane from Buckingham palace and had been personally complimented by the king.—From the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

UNABLE TO CREATE DISEASE

Science Has Demonstrated the Impossibility of the Human Mind Having That Power.

"In one sense it may be said that the human race gets the disease it deserves; but the sins are those of ignorance and neglect of physical laws rather than against spiritual ordinances," said Sir Richard Gregory in the course of his address at the recent Edinburgh meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Plague is not now explained by supposed iniquities of the Jews or conjunctions of particular planets, but by the presence of an organism conveyed by fleas from rats; malaria and yellow fever are conquered by destroying the breeding places of mosquitoes; typhus fever by getting rid of lice; typhoid by cleanliness; tuberculosis by improved housing, and most like diseases by following the teachings of science concerning them.

Though the mind does undoubtedly influence the resistance of the body to invasion by microbes, it cannot create the scientific organism of any disease, and the responsibility of showing how to keep such germs under control and prevent, therefore, the poverty and distress due to them is a scientific rather than a spiritual duty.

American-Grown Bulbs.

In the future it is not likely that the United States will continue to depend upon Holland for our spring flowering bulbs. This country uses annually about $2,000,000 worth of Dutch bulbs, and produces scarcely $25,000 worth in any one year, this despite the fact that few plants are more widely adapted and few crops more easily grown than bulbs. The Federal Department of Agriculture has prepared a very interesting bulletin on bulb culture in the United States which points to rich possibilities in the years to come.

Bulbs can be grown in this country on both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard and in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys. Some of the hardier and more robust of the narcissus varieties thrive even in the gulf states. Contrary to what would be generally supposed, it is not too cold for tulips and narcissi to succeed as far north as Alaska. They thrive along the entire border of the United States, wherever the moisture conditions are suitable.

Learned to Love Japanese.

Major General William Verbeck, former adjutant general, who is president of St. John's school at Manila, N. Y., lays claim to being the first white boy of American parentage to be born in Japan. His father was a missionary who was attached to the Tokugawa government as an educator, and later helped to establish the Japanese Imperial university. Young Verbeck's playmate and friend was a Japanese boy whom his father helped to bring back from California when he was detained and stranded while in quest of an American education. The boy's name was Korekiyo Takahashi. He is now premier of Japan. "Through this Japanese boy," said General Verbeck, "and my association with his people, I learned to love them and to have the highest respect for their integrity."—New York Evening Post.

Superstition Common.

Book learning and intelligence seem to have nothing to do with belief in charms. In Roman days Sulla would not move a step unless he carried with him his small gold figure of Apollo, which was his amulet. In the present day in New York city a construction engineer of more than local reputation, and the most matter-of-fact type of person possible in most ways, carefully changes from one suit to the other a tiny gold hand that was given to him by an old woman near the front lines in France.

Immense Cold Storage Plant.

Chicago has one cold storage plant which will accommodate 21,000 tons of meat.

BULL MOOSE MOVES QUIETLY

Nature Aids Forest Monarch to Evade Enemies—Hunters Sometimes Take Unfair Advantage.

Although taller than an ordinary horse, weighing more than half a ton, and adorned with widespread antlers, the bull moose stalks with ghostly silence through the thickest forests, where man can scarcely move without being betrayed by the loud crackling of dry twigs.

In summer the moose loves low-lying, swampy forests, interspersed with shallow lakes and sluggish streams. In such places it often wades up to its neck in a lake to feed on succulent water plants, and when reaching to the bottom becomes entirely submerged. These visits to the water are sometimes by day, but usually by night, especially during the season when the calves are young and the horns of the bulls are but partly grown.

Late in the autumn, with full-grown antlers, the bulls wander through the forests looking for their mates, at times uttering far-reaching cries and calls of defiance to their rivals, and occasionally clashing their horns against the saplings in the exuberance of masterful vigor. Other bulls at times accept the challenge, and hasten to meet the rival for a battle royal. At this season the call of the cow moose also brings the nearest bulls quickly to her side. Hunters take advantage of this, and by imitating the call through a birchbark trumpet bring the most aggressive bulls down.

OBSERVE EQUALITY IN RINGS

Up-to-Date Custom Is for Bride to Equip Man of Her Choice With Wedding Symbol.

Custom has decreed that when a man receives from the woman he loves a promise that she will be his wife, he should forthwith buy her a ring. It is an excellent custom, according to the jeweler.

Most ancient and modern lovers have observed it, but modern lovers are going one better. Instead of one ring, two are bought, and they are not both for the lady. Jack and Jill together wear the sign of their engagement.

Equality of sex in voting and in the eyes of the law is responsible for this new idea, according to the Louisville Courier-Journal. For, mark you, two pockets bear the strain. No modern, self-respecting Jill would allow her Jack to cater for his own finger.

And when the plain gold circlet follows, again ring equality is carried out.

It is no new custom for men to wear wedding rings. They have done so for ages. But it is a new idea that they should not have to pay for them. The up-to-date bride insists on doing her share, and buys the ring for her groom, while he purchases the sign of her new estate.

Irish Landlords Get Out.

Lord Gough, like many another Irish landowner, is leaving his home in the old country. Lough Curra castle in County Galway has lately been dismantled and its fine old contents disposed of.

The castle, which stands overlooking the Lough, is wonderfully picturesque. It was built for Lord Gough by Nash himself at a cost of $40,000 and was purchased by the Goughs after the Irish famine of 1847, when the viscount of his day ruined himself in the endeavor to feed his starving tenantry. The present home of the Gorts in the Isle of Wight, East Cowes castle, was built by Nash, who designed it for his own occupation.

Another valuable property to go is Sir Hew Hamilton Dalrymple's romantic home, Luchie, on the ruins of Tantallon castle, which figures in "Marion." The property, with a fine acreage, includes the greater part of North Berwick. Sir Hew, it is good to hear, is at least not selling The Bass Rock in the Firth of Forth, which is his—London Mail.

Products of India.

The principal agricultural products of India include wheat, rice, oil seeds, cotton, jute, sugar, tobacco and tea. In British India (in 1919-1920), 255,000,000 acres had crops growing on them, about 31 per cent being rice crops; 9 per cent wheat; 38 per cent other pulse and food grains; 7 per cent cotton, jute and other fibers, and 5 per cent oil seeds. Jute cultivation has been very profitable. The mineral products, besides mica, rubies and jade, include salt, the production of which is about 1,801,000 tons. In 1919 the output of coal in India was 22,623,000 tons, nine-tenths of it coming from Bengal, Orissa and Bihar; crude petroleum (chiefly from Burma), 806,000,000 gallons; manganese ore, about 538,000 tons; salt peter, 18,000 tons; wolfram, 3,577 tons; monasite, 2,024 tons, and gold, which is nearly all from Mysore, about 507,000 ounces.

King's Car Now a Hack.

The king of the Belgians' automobile, in which King Albert toured the battlefield during the war, is now doing duty as a motor hack at the railway station in Baltimore, says the Washington Star. It has a costly H-mousine body on a long wheelbase, and the interior, from the velvet covering on the floor to the dome in the roof, is finished in mahogany and oak inlaid. The seats are fashioned more like costly furniture than like the usual automobile seat, and are covered with heavy gray whipcord material. The royal colors that once decorated these coverings have been removed.

Lenine evidently isn't going to die just yet, which means that Russia's illness is still incurable.

Skill required in eliminating material evidently is a big item in the present cost of women's clothes.

A "relief bureau" that would find male favor would be one that a man's collar button couldn't roll under.

After Clemenceau has the scenario written Paul Deschanel probably will be called on for stunts in realism.

The former Austrian crown prince, proclaimed king of Hungary, probably will find the job harder to acquire than the title.

Was Very Weak

"After the birth of my baby I had a back-set," writes Mrs. Mattie Crosswhite, of Glade Spring, Va. "I was very ill; thought I was going to die. I was so weak I couldn't raise my head to get a drink of water. I took . . . medicine, yet I didn't get any better. I was constipated and very weak, getting worse and worse. I used for Cardui."

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"I found after one bottle of Cardui I was improving," adds Mrs. Crosswhite. "Six bottles of Cardui and . . . I was cured, yes, I can say they were a God-send to me. I believe I would have died, had it not been for Cardui." Cardui has been found beneficial in many thousands of other cases of womanly troubles. If you feel the need of a good, strengthening tonic, why not try Cardui? It may be just what you need.

MAYOR OF DALLAS ASKS K. K. K. TO DISBAND

Dallas, Texas, April 7.—The Ku Klux Klan in Dallas was asked to disband yesterday by Mayor Aldredge in a statement. He also requested all municipal employees who are members of the klan to resign from that organization at once. The mayor urged that harmony be restored between the klan and anti-klan factions in the city.

PROBING COAL STRIKE

Washington, April 7.—The house labor committee prepared to continue today its investigations of the coal strike, having summoned several union witnesses from Pennsylvania after hearing the defense of the bituminous operators' position in refusing negotiations for a central agreement with the miners' union.

GIRL DEFENDS MOTHER

St. Louis, Mo., April 7.—Miss Maud A. Ritchie, 18, a telephone operator, today shot her father, George A. Ritchie, 53 a butcher, whom she asserted was abusing her mother.

FATAL AIR COLLISION

Paris, April 7.—Two Paris-London aerial expresses collided in midair today over Phieloh, 70 miles north of Paris. The pilots, three passengers and a mechanic were killed.

TORNADO STRIKES DAIRY, KILLS COWS, HURTS MAN

Blackwell, Okla., April 7.—A tornado which struck a dairy a mile and a half southeast of here early today demolished two milk houses and a feeding barn and killed and injured many cows. One man was hurt.

MURDERED BOYS' FATHER FOUND DEAD IN HOME

Concordia, Kas., April 7.—L. H. Tremblay, living near St. Joseph, this county, five of whose sons were hacked with an axe early Tuesday resulting in the death of one and probably fatal injury of three others, was found dead at his home by neighbors early today.

Officers expressed the opinion that Tremblay committed suicide and advanced the theory that he took the drug some time last night.

GARNER'S BITTER ATTACK ON CONGRESSMAN BLANTON

Washington, April 7.—Representative Garner, democrat of Texas, declared in the house yesterday that if permitted by the rules to speak what there was in the minds of 434 of the 435 house members he would say that Representative Blanton, of that state "is a disgrace to this house and ought to be kicked out."

Mr. Garner's statement, coming after Blanton had defended himself against a newspaper article, threw the house into great disorder, and brought from the speaker a sharp, quick demand to the sergeant at arms to prevent a personal clash after Blanton had shouted he would hold Garner responsible if called a liar by him.

At the outset of a brief speech, Mr. Garner said that in this world there "are all kinds of liars, the artistic liar, the inartistic liar and the common liar."

"But I have in mind an individual—not a man—a creature who is the commonest, biggest liar that ever spoke a word of English in this country. I have in mind a man who would put in to the congressional record if he had the opportunity, anything that would be calculated to make the people of Texas believe you get your food free in Washington."

"I have in mind a creature who would go to that same stationery room and make inquiry about a whiskey flask and then ask the superintendent to get him one from Philadelphia that he might parade it in Texas as an evidence of what congressmen get."

"This same creature," Mr. Garner went on, "will charge you with nepotism that he might parade his own virtues in Texas and then at the same time have two of his children on the government payroll."

"It is a hard thing to say what is in one's mind about an individual. I say that I have the firm conviction that I believe this individual creature would debauch the virtue of his own family to accumulate wealth or to put himself forward from a political standpoint."

"I speak what is in the mind of all of us from Texas when I say that the members of the Texas delegation hang our heads in shame when Thomas Blanton is referred to as our colleague. And I speak what is in the minds of the entire democratic party. I believe it is the sentiment of every man here that we look upon him as a liability."

DESTRUCTIVE STORMS

Fort Worth, Texas, April 8.—A storm struck Cisco early today, wrecked the depot and tore down a number of residences. No one was reported injured, but the property damage will be heavy.

One Killed Near Electra

Wichita Falls, Texas, April 8.—One person was killed and several injured southeast of Electra, according to early reports of a wind storm in that locality.

Oklahoma Fatalities

Lawton, Okla., April 8.—One person, Mrs. Sands, was killed and her baby probably fatally injured in a severe windstorm which swept Mountain Hill, an addition to Lawton, at 8 o'clock this morning. A number were reported injured and much property destroyed.

WANTS MISSING EX-OFFICIAL

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 7.—The statement by Governor Robertson of Oklahoma in an address yesterday that he believed Fred G. Dennis, former state banking commissioner, to be an honest man resulted today in Campbell Russell, chairman of the state corporation commission, announcing that he has deposited in a national bank here $100 to be paid to any person who within the next 90 days would deliver Dennis to Sheriff Sowers of Okmulgee county. Dennis and the governor were jointly indicted by the grand jury which investigated the failure of a bank in Okmulgee county for transacting business after the institution was found to be insolvent.

Travis' Last Address
The hour has come, the welcome hour,
When we must give up life
And show the world how Texans die
In Freedom's hallowed strife.

No tyrant shall pollute these walls
As long as we can wield
A rifle an da sabre keen,
Withing this gory field.

Like, Hale, one sad thought heaves
My breast
And grieves this heart of mine,
That I have but one life to place
On Freedom's holy shrine.

Oh, never shall the smiling sun
E'er usher in the day
When Texans will, for fear of death,
Shrink back from the righteous fray

At Freedom's call, they leave their work,
They come from shop and field,
Like adamant in fight they stand
And ne'er to dangers yield.

No tyrant shall defile this soil
And devastate the land
As long our waving flag is borne
By one heroic hand.

But lo! the rosy tints of morn
Announce the blazing sun,
Whose setting we shall never see,
Our work will then be done

Hark! The deguella's throatful notes
Now strike my list'ning ear;
Their message brings to valiant hearts
No thrilling sense of fear.

A last good-bye! A last farewell!
We'll to the ramparts hie,
Defending Freedom's holy cause;
No Texan fears to die!

—F. H. Lohmann.

PRIZE HAS BEEN AWARDED TO NACOGDOCHES GIRL

The People's Home Journal in co-operating with Dr. William T. Hornaday, trustee of the Permanent Wild Life Protection Fund and director of the New York Zoological Park, has awarded Fay Hamilton of Nacogdoches, a prize of a set of books for her work in obtaining 30 bird sanctuaries covering an area of 2,245 acres for the Green Meadow Club in the fifth annual campaign conducted by the Journal.

This year the Permanent Wild Life Protection Fund has created the new award of the Gold Honor Badge for services in behalf of wild life. In the 1921 campaign there were awarded three gold medals and nine gold honor badges of the Permanent Wild Life Protection Fund, cash prizes of fifteen, twenty, thirty and thirty-five dollars and twenty-two four-volume sets of "The American Natural History," by Dr. William T. Hornaday.

The work done all over the country by those who took part in this campaign necessitated many hours of tramping over hot roads and across rough country to reach landowners and renters to induce them to sign pledges in which they agree to prohibit hunting on their property. These friends of the birds then tacked up signs to inform passersby that the land had become a sanctuary for birds.

Although the birds themselves could not read the signs, they soon learned that there was to be found quiet and peace for them, and often food during severe weather. The landowners also learned very soon that the birds were friends with music and watchfulness over insect hordes which ravaged their crops.

An Ohio newspaper man who has been in the harness for 70 years got his name in the paper. He is probably ready to quit now.

Poets are born, says a literary critic, who neglects to add that this is the unfortunate part of it.

LONE STAR FLAG OF TEXAS

Oh, Lone Star Flag of Texas,
Thou emblem of the free,
What banner of the nation,
Hath story like to thee?
Within a lonely cabin,
From home and friends afar,
A woman's fearless fingers
First wrought the single star.

Chorus:
Unfur! Unfur!
Unfur our flag on high,
With its red and white,
Like our prairies bright
And the blue of the Texas sky.

What magic in thy colors!
What home for the oppressed,
With liberty a vision,
And history unguessed,
When on that April morning,
Through wilderness and glen
Thy radiance lit the pathway
Of Houston and his men.

And when the struggle ended,
And victory was ours,
And the foeman's blood like water
Had drenched the early flowers,
The hour of thy baptism
Beheld the tyrant field,
And glory was thy sponsor
On San Jacinto field.

Long as our hearts remember
The deed of soldier sires,
The blood of Texas martyrs,
And freedom's altar fires,
Upon the day we honor,
In time of peace and war,
Shall float from every flag-staff,
Our own, our single star!

SINNERS PICTURED AS HIDING SOULS

"Many sinners, like Saul, who knew that he had been chosen of God for king, hide themselves among the baggage of this world, foolishly keeping away from the blessings that God has provided," said Rev. S. D. Dollahite, evangelist, at Rosen Heights Baptist Church, Wednesday night. "Saul only hid from the wearing of an earthly crown, while men today hide that they may not be crowned with life eternal."

"People are being absorbed with vanity, with formality, and with the frivolous affairs of this world, seeking to avoid the light of God's face. True, some are ignorant of the 'stuff' in which they hide, not recognizing that they hide in the baggage that they are not on God's express, but the ignorant are not so numerous as they who seek some other way than God's, desiring to hide from Him."

"Sinners will not be called to God by spectacular stunts, only the soul stirring story of Christ will win them. That, then, is the preacher's duty, to give a true message from God with an unflinching confidence in its power to save men."

"Some may think that they sinned too far and that God will reject them, but such is not so, for He holds out a message of love for you. Beyond the hills of your iniquity stand the mountains of God's love. Accept what God offers you."

Rosen Heights Baptist church had a capacity crowd Wednesday night, and the pastor, Rev. J. R. Murrell, arranged to have more seating room for the rest of the meeting. Two choirs, the regular singers and a children's choir, furnish the music. Children's services are held every afternoon at 3:30.—Fort Worth Star Telegram.

Pain In Your Side? Then This is of Vital Importance to You

Belton, Texas—"A few years ago I had a bad spell of feminine trouble, was in bed two months. My doctor did all he could for me, but I got only temporary relief and my side hurt me terribly, so I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After taking four bottles my pains were all gone and I have had no such trouble since. I have just taken two bottles of the Prescription this season for irregularity and find it does all that is claimed for it. It's a fine medicine and all suffering women will find relief if they give it a trial. I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as a tonic and blood purifier; it also is a good medicine."

"Come on, Alice, you know Mother said we are going to have Kellogg's Corn Flakes for lunch. And that's the kind I like to eat about a whole box of, because they don't tough to eat! Come on, hurry up!"

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are a taste-thrill at meals or any time

That's because Kellogg's Corn Flakes are so deliciously flavored—the Kellogg flavor that is known all over the civilized world! You, as well as the little folks, can eat great bowlfuls of Kellogg's Corn Flakes day after day—and each sunny-brown, crispy, crunchy spoonful thrills the taste as though it was the first!

Put Kellogg's in comparison with imitation corn flakes! Kellogg's Corn Flakes are never tough or leathery or hard to eat! They are all-the-time crisp, all-the-time good! Don't miss such enjoyment!

Insist upon Kellogg's in the RED and GREEN package that bears the signature of W. K. Kellogg, originator of Corn Flakes! NONE ARE GENUINE WITHOUT IT!

Don't forget, KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes are made by the folks who serve you the JUNGLELAND Moving Pictures. Coupon inside every package of KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes explains how you can obtain another copy of JUNGLELAND.

STANDARDIZING COTTON FOR GREATER PROFIT

Prospects of receiving from five to fifteen dollars more per bale for their cotton is one of the incentives prompting a group of Texas planters to adopt a unique plan for standardizing their crop.

The Calhoun County, Texas, extension agent, employed co-operatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, reports that already farmers representign 5,000 acres of cotton have subscribed to an agreement by which they will plant only selected Mebane Triumph long staple cotton seed, five carloads of which will be distributed. The grower who is to do their work has agreed to gin only the cotton from the 12 farms in order to prevent mixing of the seed and lint with that of other varieties. He is going to paint the gin a distinctive color, as well as the wagons of the co-operating farmers, and on each wagon the name of the farmer and the variety of cotton he grows.

The lint from these farms will be pooled, graded by experts and sold at a premium because of its length of staple and uniformity, as has been done in other counties. An abundant supply of high grade seed will thus become available for future planting in the county, with a surplus for sale.

This plan is merely another indication of the lively interest extension agents are developing in standardization of farm products and in the co-operative use of improved varieties of crops, the cost of producing which is in many instances no greater than that of raising an inferior variety.

County Judge Marshall is in receipt of a letter from County Judge D. R. Taylor of Shelby county advising him that there is a good prospect of favorable action by the commissioners of his county joining in the plan for building a bridge across the Attoyac at Grigaby, which will connect the highway from Shelby county across the little strip of Shelby county with the road in Nacogdoches county. He says Shelby now has the money and its co-operation in this important matter is practically assured. Judge Marshall has for a long time been trying to bring about the co-operation of Shelby county, and is highly elated to know his efforts will bear early fruit.

NEFF COMPLETES VISITS TO STATE DEPARTMENTS

Austin, Texas, April 7.—Governor Neff completed his visits to the state departments today with a visit to the capitol press room and spent about an hour quizzing the newspaper men about the work of disseminating news. Next week he visits the state institutions at Austin and later will visit the institutions over the state.

EVANGELIST PREACHES FOR ROSEN HEIGHTS

Rosen Heights Baptist church reports large attendance at three services Tuesday and several conversions. Evangelist S. D. Dollahite is preaching and the pastor, Rev. J. F. Murrell, is in charge of personal workers. A special service is held each afternoon at 3:30 for the school children, the church being near Rosen Heights, Sam Rosen and Central Park schools. The Rosen Heights congregation gave the pastor a new auto Monday.—Fort Worth Star Telegram.

NO DEFENSE

BY GILBERT PARKER

AUTHOR OF "THE SEATS OF THE MIGHTY" "THE RIGHT OF WAY"

COPYRIGHT, BY SIR GILBERT PARKER

ANYONE who has read the fascinating romances by Parker knows what it is to find him at his strongest, as in this tale.

The setting is Ireland, England, the Atlantic Ocean and the West Indies, with some connections which carry it to the shores of America, during the stirring days of the French Revolution.

The story has a dramatic sweep of action that is irresistible. The author with penetrating insight and great artistry, has contrasted the Irish and English temperaments; as a result, many deft and tragically humorous touches enliven the tale.

In all respects a very unusual romance, we have selected it for serial reproduction in these columns. Regular readers are requested to watch for it and others should subscribe now in order not to miss the first installment.

YOUNG MEN'S BOOSTER CLUB ORGANIZED

Among the chiefest associations for the upbuilding and betterment of civic and moral conditions of Nacogdoches is the Young Men's Booster Club, just organized. It is comprised of the younger men of the city—"boys" with ambition and vim and vigor and vision—whose aim shall be to work in and out of season for the good of Nacogdoches. It is gratifying to note this movement, for it is certain that, undertaking the accomplishment of their purposes in the proper spirit and with the proper energy, the Boosters will be able to accomplish great things for their community. They should (and will) have the hearty endorsement and co-operation of all our people. Upon these young men must sooner or later devolve the responsibility of conducting public affairs, and it is well for them to get in training early and learn the hows and whys of the duties they will be called upon to meet.

It has been arranged for the Boosters to meet every Monday night at Mrs. Lockey's Tea Rooms, where a luncheon will be served and discussions of the club's work held.

Following is a list of the officers and directors:

F. W. Betts, manager; J. E. Reese, president; G. E. Stripling, vice president; N. H. Horton, secretary; Richard Haltom, publicity manager; Orland Patton, T. D. Hill, W. W. Beck, Rho Cox, A. T. Mast, J. H. Muller and Hal K. Brown, together with the following additional members:

R. H. Pierce, Emory Monk, C. Gramling, John Crawford, Holland Smith, Jim Summers, Dwight Thrash, Dallas Feazell, Leon Stripling, Ford Simpson, L. H. Hunt, W. D. Burk, Clarence Thompson, H. J. Schmidt, Robert Monk, H. R. Mast and H. M. Ford.

With a bunch of boosters like the above, things ought to begin to move in Nacogdoches.

BIG APPROPRIATION FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

An apportionment of $6,450,000 of the available school fund, which is the largest single apportionment ever made in the history of the state, has been announced by the State Board of Education, through S. M. N. Marrs, assistant state superintendent of public instruction. This apportionment is $5 per capita, based on 1,290,000 scholars in the state. Mr. Marrs said that the cash is now available in the state treasury and the warrants of teachers or school districts will be paid on presentation. There has been some complaint recently by teachers who claimed they were unable to get their salaries and this large apportionment is destined to relieve the situation. With the $5 per capita apportionment made today a total of $9.50 so far paid out of the annual apportionment of $13 for the scholastic year of 1921-22. This leaves a balance of $3.50 per capita still to be paid.

ELKS INSTALL OFFICERS

At the regular meeting of the local lodge of Elks on Thursday night the following officers were duly installed for the ensuing term:

Ford Simpson, Exalted Ruler.
F. L. Bell, Est. Leading Knight.
H. W. Rusche, Est. Loyal Knight.
Roy Nelson, Est. Lecturing Knight.
Claude Gramling, Secretary.
H. J. Schmidt, Trustee.
J. J. Simpson, Tiler.

The Elks lodge just closed a very successful year and is in a thriving condition at this time, being one of the strongest organizations in the city, and it is the anticipation of the members to launch a movement at an early date for the erection of an Elks' Home, which will not only mean much to the lodge, but quite an addition to our city as well.

MOTHER! OPEN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Your little one will love the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" even if constipated, bilious, irritable, feverish, or full of cold. A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sour bile and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California" Fig Syrup handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California" Fig Syrup which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

LITTELL'S

It is a powerful and scientific combination of sulphur and other healing agents for the relief and cure of diseases of the skin. It is especially effective in the ITCHING VARIETIES; giving instant relief from the itching and smarting sensations and by its germ-destroying properties it exterminates the microbes which is the cause of the eruption, thus curing the disease completely.

Littell's Liquid Sulphur Compound is used in all cases of Eczema, Tetter, Barber's Itch, Psoriasis, Herpes, Rash, Oak and Ivy Poisoning, also for relieving the annoyance caused by chiggers and mosquito bites.

In the treatment of ECZEMA—the most painful and obstinate of all skin diseases—it is one of the most successful remedies known.

NO MORE SEED OF "NACOGDOCHES" CORN AVAILABLE

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, A. & M. College, recently announced a limited supply of seed of a new variety of corn developed in Nacogdoches county. The announcements were carried in a number of papers in the state and applications for the seed were received in a short time far in excess of the supply. It is expected that those receiving the seed will keep it pure and will have supplies of seed to offer next season. The Experiment Station is not in position to grow seed in quantity for distribution and only undertake to develop a desirable varieties in quantities sufficient for a few interested growers to get a start. The effort is made to distribute these to reliable growers, who will increase them in the localities that seem best suited to the varieties in question.

Further orders for Nacogdoches corn should not be sent in this season, as it has been necessary to return a large number of checks.

WILL REPAIR DUMP AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

Owing to the high water yet of the Angelina river, which is now receding, the extent of the damage to the dump on the south side of the new iron bridge can not be definitely ascertained. Between 500 and 600 feet of the dump was washed away, including some culverts, and the commissioners court will immediately make necessary repairs, which will consist of several hundred feet of crescent piling, floored with heavy timbers, and openings along the dump to the extent of about 300 feet, all told. This work will be executed by the county, which is already equipped with a driver, and when finished, with 50-foot openings at intervals for free passage of flood waters, no such disaster as has happened will occur again.—Lufkin News.

PROGRESS MADE IN AVIATION

Records Show That the United States is More Than Holding Its Own in Aerial Travel.

During the year 1921 the use of aircraft for civilian transportation increased 20 per cent over the previous year, according to a report forwarded to the Department of Commerce by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America.

The reports show that throughout the country 1,300 civilian airplanes were in operation during the year, and they carried approximately 275,000 passengers a total distance of 6,500,000 miles. These figures, according to the report, are based upon authenticated returns received by the aeronautical chamber from all sections of the country "and tend to prove that America is holding her own in the air, as far as individual effort and accomplishment are concerned."

Every phase of aviation is covered in the report, including the various records made during the year. Among the outstanding civilian achievements is that of the aerial mail, which "in 1921 made such a record for efficiency on the transcontinental route that it is recognized as a model for civilian aerial transport the world over," the report says. "Letters have been delivered in New York two days after casual mailing on the Pacific coast," it continues. "The service has an average of 98.82 per cent efficiency, that is, in completed trips on scheduled time since it was started in May, 1918."

"The air mail has during the last year completed its wireless communication system, the 14 stations now having radio plants, three operated by the navy department and the others by the air mail service."

LAND ADAPTED FOR REINDEER

Northern Canada, It is Estimated, Could Support Enormous Herds of Good Food Cattle.

Canada is a roomy land, and its back region can never be used for agricultural purposes and where neither sheep nor cattle can be raised profitably, comprises about 1,500,000 square miles. If we may accept as fairly accurate the statement of Alaskan reindeer men that a reindeer requires about 80 acres for grazing in the sub-Arctic and Arctic regions of North America, then Northern Canada can support between 20,000,000 and 40,000,000 animals.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Canadian explorer, who has been trying to convert his countrymen to reindeer culture for several years and has given the subject a great deal of study, thinks that the Canadian mainland, north of the so-called habitable line, and the great Canadian archipelago can support 50,000,000 reindeer and musk-ox, another sub-Arctic animal which he thinks may in the near future furnish the world with an appreciable supply of "good" wholesome meat.—John G. Holms' in Bessie's Weekly.

Mirror in Man's Hat

A man can manage somehow to get along without a powder rag, but there are occasions when he does need a mirror and a comb for emergency use. To meet this demand, Gustav Fessnerack, of Trenton, N. J., has contrived a holder for both articles which may be conveniently fastened inside of a hat. It is sewn in, being made of cloth, a rectangular piece of which is attached to the inside of the hat by snap fasteners at the corners. This makes the back of the holder; the front is provided by a second piece, of like size, secured to the first one by stitching. The two thus form a pocket. A horizontal line of stitching divides the pocket into two compartments, an upper one to receive the mirror and a lower one to hold the comb. One end of the pocket is left open to permit insertion of comb and glass. A slidable catch engaging the end tooth of the comb retains it in place, and the safety of the mirror is obtained by a flap which snap fastens over it.

Woman in Finland

Woman in Finland enjoys almost equal rights with the man. In school she has, in the common instruction with the male youth, opportunity to contend with them and to acquire the same knowledge. After completing the school education almost all vocations are open to her, and she is found in all branches of industry, but especially in business houses, in public offices and similar institutions. She cannot occupy the office of minister, however, and some high appointive posts. Practically, woman is the equal of man. She has the right of suffrage and she herself is eligible to all elective offices. The Finnish diet actually counts 20 female deputies among its members.—New York Tribune.

Ambassador of the Air

For some time France has had a new diplomatic function, that of ambassador of the air. And for that delicate function, for which not every one is fit, a woman, Mlle. Adrienne Bolland, has been nominated. This intrepid aviatrix was the first, it will be remembered, who flew over the Cordilleras of the Andes. This feat made her famous in South America. The renown incited the French government to accredit Mlle. Bolland to the Republic of Argentina, where she will represent France in all matters concerning aviation. Mlle. Bolland has left for Buenos Ayres, equipped with all diplomatic powers.—New York Tribune.

DOES NOT UNDERSTAND GIFT

Frenchman Absolutely Without Education is Unable to Explain His Mathematical Powers.

Jacques Inaudi is in Paris. Nightly he demonstrates his extraordinary feats of calculation. He displays always the same assurance, the same accuracy, and when, occasionally, he gets too stiff a question, for just a second he presses his hands to his wide forehead, before answering—exactly the same gesture he had, forty-two years ago when he came to the capital for the first time.

That was in 1880, observes Le Petit Parisien, Paris (translated for the Kansas City Star). Inaudi was then 11 years old. The son of poor Piedmontese peasants, he knew neither how to read nor write, but after a few minutes of the intense abstraction of the savant he could solve the most complex mathematical problem.

Wandering about the world, displaying a trained monkey in cafes for a livelihood, it was a custom to ask his audience to put arithmetical problems to him, and his fantastical ease in solving them finally attracted the attention of a Marseilles merchant, who brought him to Paris.

He completely amazed the scholars and in a few days was celebrated. He could never explain the mechanism of his calculations. He simply possessed the mysterious power with which certain human beings are sometimes gifted. Broca, who measured his skull, found the head abnormally developed on the right side. That was all. Inaudi has remained ever since a marvelous calculating machine, a living prodigy, but has made no new contributions to the progress of mathematics.

CAN SEE GROWTH OF METALS

Interesting Experiments Conducted by Ohio Professor Recently Made Public by Scientific Monthly.

When a piece of iron wire is placed in a solution of potassium ferricyanide (2 to 4 per cent), containing some egg-white or gelatine to act as protective colloid, and a little sodium chloride, delicate blue-green vesicles and tubules of ferrous ferricyanide are quickly formed; the tubules grow out rapidly into the solution, and within half an hour or less the whole wire is covered with a dense filamentous growth resembling blue green algae, writes Prof. Ralph S. Lillie of Nela research laboratory, Cleveland, O., in the Scientific Monthly.

Iron is an especially favorable metal for such experiments apparently because of the presence of numerous local electric couples between different areas of the metallic surface, and filaments several centimeters long are readily obtained. These often exhibit delicate and regular cross-striations and other appearances suggestive of organic structures.

If instead of iron the related metals, cobalt and nickel, are used, a different type of growth is obtained, coarser and more vesicular in structure and with finer tubules; many of the latter follow a characteristic, tortuous or zig-zag course.

Ballet Among Soap Bubbles

Beautiful scenes are common in the motion picture studios, and many mechanical effects are produced which fairly dazzle the eye of the onlooker. As a climax to an unusually gorgeous "set" a director recently called for a dance in the midst of soap bubbles. Accordingly, since a space 20 by 40 feet had been designated to be filled with the frothy substance, a metal sieve of this size was fitted in the floor. A soap solution, made with 200 barrels of the product and mixed in the same manner as plasterers prepare lime, was piped to the porous floor, and steam forced through it. The immediate transition into bubbles began, and these soon rose to a huge scintillating mass, in which the dancers performed, the whole presenting, according to illustration and description in the Popular Mechanics Magazine, a scene of fairy-like splendor.

The Country of Mothers-in-Law

China until recently was the country of mothers-in-law, where they reigned and used their power to make martyrs of their daughters-in-law. One cannot imagine to what point this ferocious authority was carried. But their good time is nearing an end; the young wives have liberated themselves in the Chinese republic.

The feminists of Canton have won a "glorious victory":
First—There is no longer any marriage code.

Second—the wife has the right to keep all she has earned.

Third—The divorce laws are the same for the two sexes.

It would be interesting to know what is thought of all this by the old mandarins with crystal or mother-of-pearl buttons.

Forest Fires in Quebec

The establishment of a permit system whereby all sportsmen, surveyors, trappers, prospectors, lumbermen and others intending to pass over land leased by the provincial government as timber limits, should be obliged to obtain a permit, was one of the subjects discussed at the forestry conference of the Quebec Forestry Protective association, held at Montreal recently.

During the period of 1917 to 1920, 2,500 forest fires in Quebec were attributed to carelessness of sportsmen and workmen. These 2,500 fires swept over approximately 577,000 acres, of which at least 375,000 acres were estimated to be green timber and young growth.

SINGING AT TRINITY

There will be a singing at Trinity church, four miles from town on the Martinsville road, next Sunday afternoon, to which every lover of sacred music is invited. Plenty of books, and all singers wanted to lend their aid. Come out.

County Judge Marshall has been advised that the commissioners court of Shelby county, which met Monday, passed an order providing for the payment of one-fourth the cost of a county-line bridge over the Attoyac at Martinsville. He was asked to "advertise for bids, which he will do, and thus the good work will soon be accomplished. This bridge will be a great convenience to the people of both Shelby and Nacogdoches counties—not to mention San Augustine.

Some of the churches are planning elaborate Easter services, and doubtless there will be large attendance at all.

CARD OF THANKS

Words fail me when I try to express my sincere appreciation for the many kindnesses showered upon us, and for the loving words of sympathy and comfort extended to us in our great sorrow.

I feel especially grateful to those who encountered such difficulties in getting to us over the extremely bad roads; and I pray that the God that Mr. Perry loved and trusted may abide with each of you, and that when this hour comes to you and you are called to walk through the dark shadows, may you hear, as I have heard, that voice speak, "Peace!" to your troubled soul and help you to say in the midst of your affliction, "The Lord gave, and the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord."

Sorrowfully,

Mrs. V. L. Perry and Children.

Revi. T. H. Perritte, pastor of the Methodist church at Longview, arrived in the city Tuesday afternoon for a visit with his mother and other relatives, but shortly after reaching here he received a telephone message telling him of his wife's sudden illness, which necessitated his immediate return home.

Mrs. D. A. Washburn returned Monday from Dallas, where she went for medical treatment by specialists. The Sentinel regrets to note the good lady did not receive the benefits expected and was weaker than when she went away. We hope, however, to be able soon to report her recovery.
