

WHO IS THE REAL AGITATOR

From the Houston Chronicle.

The Ku Klux Klan is the only fraternal organization in this country that hides behind a mask.

It is the only fraternal organization that undertakes to discipline persons outside of its own membership.

It is the only fraternal organization that, by act and preachment, implies that the law has broken down, and the constitution is inadequate, that the press is corrupt and that the American people won't behave themselves, without a lash applied in the dark.

Whom it excludes is not important, but whom it kidnaps, whom it whips, whom it attempts to overawe and intimidate, is.

Since its inception there has developed an unprecedented reign of violence and mob outrage. There has also developed an unprecedented atmosphere of alarm and apprehension.

Up until two years ago we held our elections in peace and as American citizens, without regard to nativity or creed.

Now, we face a different kind of line-up. Who is responsible? What force has entered the political arena that was not present until two years ago?

Who took the viper of intolerance from its bosom and sent it forth to plague the public?

Who started all this whispering and insinuating that did not even spare the bowed head of Woodrow Wilson?

Who started the false and malicious reports that he had given the government over to a certain class of people?

Who intimated that he was not a good American because he appointed Joe Tumulty as his private secretary and Mr. Brandeis to a seat on the supreme bench?

Who arose, after the greatest victory this republic ever won, after it had exhibited the finest unanimity and accord, after the blood of its bravest had softened and sanctified Flanders Field, without regard to denomination and ancestry, to assert that it had a wormeaten structure, and ought to be split a thousand ways in the name of bigotry?

Who called on the flag, and on Christ himself, to justify the tyranny of disguised malice in every form?

Who taught the hater and malcontent how to robe themselves in a sheet and terrorize a helpless victim?

Who entered the church, the lodge room, the trade union, the business office, and sowed the seeds of suspicion where there had formerly been naught but godfellowship?

Who misrepresented the attitude of the greatest fraternal organization in this country—aye, in the world—in order to gain members?

The Ku Klux Klan has been denounced by the Masonic grand masters of every state, bar none.

Are the Masonic grand masters controlled by the Knights of Columbus, also?

Have they fallen under the same influence which the Ku Klux Klan holds responsible for the "downfall" of the press, the law and the government?

We could publish 100 columns of denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan, sanctioned with the Masonic seal.

We could publish another 100 from the most eminent ministers of the country.

Is this Jewish and Catholic propaganda, or is it the spirit of Americanism rising in revolt against Anti-Americanism?

According to the National Trustee Board, the most prominent Masonic magazine on the Pacific coast, Grand Master Burke of California says with regard to the Ku Klux Klan:

"Its practical workings appear to interfere with the orderly and lawful administration of the processes of our courts; a society that skulks and strikes in the dark under cover of masks; an organization so un-American and so un-Masonic as to merit the disapproval of all law-abiding, order-loving men."

OPPOSED TO ALL KLANS

From the Houston Chronicle.

The Chronicle is not opposing the Ku Klux Klan because it wants to see some other organization undertake the same thing.

It is not against a Protestant organization, per se, or a Gentile organization, or a white organization, or any other organization which, no matter whom it excludes, restricts its activities to a proper sphere.

The Chronicle is opposing the Ku Klux Klan on principle.

It is against any organization, whether Protestant or Catholic, whether Jewish or Gentile, whether white or black, which, while excluding American citizens for one reason or another, attempts political dictation.

The Chronicle is opposed to "Liberty Leagues" or so-called "Law and Order Leagues," that may be organized for purposes of political domination.

We do not need them to uphold the rights of free citizenship. Indeed we can not encourage them and expect to maintain a free citizenship.

The Chronicle will, other things being equal, advocate the selection of anti-klan candidates in preference to those who are in sympathy with or who espouse the Ku Klux Klan.

Such a declaration, however, has its limitations. The klan issue is the most important that we face, but it is not the only issue, and the Chronicle wishes it distinctly understood that candidates must have other qualifications for office in addition to their opposition to Ku Kluxism.

The Chronicle hopes to see klan candidates defeated, and advises its readers that their defeat is the best general result to work for in the primaries, but this does not commit the Chronicle to support candidates who are unworthy. Fortunately in this county nearly all the candidates who have had the courage to denounce the klan are worthy of the office to which they aspire. They are certainly as well fitted in a general way as their opponents, and being free of secret or masked domination, they can fearlessly represent the people. They will be under no secret oath and owe no allegiance to an imperial wizard in Atlanta.

It must be borne in mind, however, that the evil possibilities of Ku Kluxism would only be doubled if it were made an excuse for forming a flock of other organizations, which, though based ostensibly on opposition to the klan, were, in reality, founded on the same narrow-minded idea. Its malicious political effect would only be aggravated, if opposition to it could be picked up as an alibi by cheap politicians who had no other way of getting into office.

The Chronicle is opposed to the Ku Klux Klan on principle, not as a matter of prejudice, wherefore, it is opposed to all kinds of kindred organizations, no matter what purpose they pretend to serve.

Our government and our right as citizens under it offer the best and most logical means of beating the Ku Klux Klan.

TUBERCULOSIS OF CATTLE

Of late a great deal has been said about that dreaded disease—tuberculosis. It is the disease that practically annihilated the Indian race, yet the hands of time turned for a number of years with all eyes turned toward the cure of the disease rather than to the prevention of it. Then upon meeting with little success in curing the disease the eyes of the medical and veterinary profession were turned in search of the pathway which led to the infection of the human being.

It was first discovered that man was being infected by tubercular animals and shortly after 1901, when Koch announced that there was practically no danger of man contracting the disease from cattle. This statement caused numerous laboratories to begin examinations of cases of tuberculosis of man. These examinations revealed the fact that about a quarter of the cases of tuberculosis in children under 16 years of age is due to the cattle tubercular germ.

The exact relation of tuberculosis of cattle to tuberculosis of man is hard to define. However, it is estimated that in the United States tuberculosis is the cause of 9 percent of the deaths. If only 1 percent of these in this country were due to cattle infection it would mean a loss of about 1,000 lives a year. But the percentage is believed to be considerable greater than 1 percent, being placed by some at 7 percent.

It is a recognized fact that practically none of the lung forms of tuberculosis is caused by infection from cattle, but the cattle germ has been found to be the cause of numerous cases of tuberculosis of the stomach, throat and intestines.

We are all very skeptical of a person who has tuberculosis and would not even think of drinking water from the same glass he had used, yet we are often thrown closer in contact with the tuberculosis germ than that by drinking milk from tubercular animals. Of course we would be just as skeptical if we knew the animals had the disease, but that is the bad feature, for often a cow will have tuberculosis of the udder and her milk will be heavily infected with the germs, yet to look at the cow we would swear by all that was good that she was healthy. These cases can only be discovered by one of the three recognized tests for tuberculosis.

This condition is nothing to be alarmed over, but it is something that is worthy of thought from the father and mother who have children that are hearty drinkers of milk.

A Guide to What's Good to Eat

SOME one has said that if bread and butter were new inventions they would have to be advertised before people would accept them as standard articles of food.

Even in this progressive age, folks are somewhat wary of leaving the beaten path. They stick pretty close to the things they know, when those things come up to their expectations.

That is why alert merchants and manufacturers strive to tell about their products and their services in the advertising columns of the daily paper. They want you to know what they have to offer, in the belief that when you do know, you will be interested, and perhaps inspired, with some of their own enthusiasm.

Thrifty men and women find that it pays to read the advertisements. It enables them to rest assured that they are not overlooking anything. It lets them know where to locate some desired product or service; where to go for "this" or how to get "that" to the best advantage. Without its direction they would overlook much and consequently lose much. They would live in ignorance of things that might add materially to their wealth, health and happiness.

Make advertising your guide to what's good to get.

Read it—reflect on it—it pays!

"PASSING THE BUCK"

It is said that some senators who voted for a favorable report of the Dyer anti-lynching bill from the judiciary committee doubt the constitutionality of the measure, but think "the bill should be enacted and put up to the supreme court." If the supreme court, in the exercise of the duty imposed upon it, confirms the doubt there will be another hue and cry over the abuse of judicial authority and reiteration of racial demands for abrogating the power of the highest tribunal to set aside acts of congress.

The supreme court has enough to do interpreting and construing acts passed upon in good faith without having to bear the burden and not infrequently the odium of pulling congressional chestnuts out of the fire. The courageous legislator is the one who votes his honest convictions in a case like this, even when he knows that his action may not be popular and even when he may sympathize with the object which a measure of doubtful constitutionality seeks to attain.

Congress, some of whose leaders complain of criticism aimed at their body and its personnel, would be less vulnerable if it were mindful of its heritage. Imagine trusting a congress animated largely by expediency to the enactment of statutes unreviewable by the judicial branch of the government or which by a two-thirds vote would become the fundamental law! What might not such a lawmaking body do, practically unfettered by any constitutional restrictions whatever?

Under any circumstances would the American people ever think seriously for a moment of surrendering their constitutional rights unreservedly to the whims of their senators and representatives in congress? The constitution belongs to the people, and it is for them to say when and how its provisions shall be enlarged or contracted.

BOTH DRUNK

"Now, Pat," said the Magistrate to an old offender, "what brought you here again?"

"Two policemen, sor," was the laconic reply.

"Drunk, I suppose?" queried the Magistrate.

"Yes, sor," replied Pat, "both av thim."

OUR GOVERNMENT

This is one of those times when every American citizen worthy of the name will remember that the government of the United States is vastly bigger than any political party or class and that the true interest of all demand that the law be kept supreme at any cost.

The people of no section can read of it calmly when some element of the population rises against the representatives of the law, as in the case at Herrin, Ill., betray their trusts. If lawlessness can triumph in any section it can be depended upon that it will be emboldened to strike wherever it pleases, and life and property nowhere will be safe. The American people cannot tolerate anything in the shape of rebellious conduct against their government.

In a strike, both employer and striker must be held strictly to respect for law and the rights of each other under it. No matter what the sympathy might be felt for either side which resorts to violence. Orderly process is the only way to gain a substantial victory.

There could be nothing more foolish than for a comparatively few individuals to defy the federal government or the authority of the states. In the more than 130 years of the republic no attempt of that nature ever had the least chance of success. The sentiment of the vast majority of the American people is always on the side of the law. The worst enemies of labor ever are those who counsel violence or who try to make it appear that this best Nation in history is of a tyrannical nature.

JUSTIFIABLE EXPULSION

Johnny: Ma, little brother came from heaven, didn't he?
 Mother: Yes, dear.
 Johnny: Well, say, ma.
 Mother: What is it, Johnny?
 Johnny: I don't blame the angels for throwing him out, do you?

Paris is to give prizes to polite youngsters. So that is where they have gone.

A congressman was wrecked while trying to campaign by aeroplane, emphasizing that even a politician can not stay aloft forever on just air and gas.

VISIBLE RESULTS OF PROHIBITION

From the Houston Post.

The stock argument of the propagators of the movement for the modification or repeal of the Volstead law is that prohibition has not decreased drinking in any considerable degree, and by making the pure liquor harder to secure, has made its effects upon drinkers more injurious than in the old days of the open saloon.

But somehow, those whose business it is to deal with individuals affected by the liquor traffic do not find substantial basis for this argument. While impure liquor frequently proves highly injurious and even produces death in many instances, welfare organizations which come in contact with the victims of drink find the general situation very much improved.

Even in Massachusetts, formerly one of the wettest of the wet states, the efficacy of prohibition in reducing destitution is testified to by welfare workers. A report just issued by a committee of the Family Welfare Society of Boston, charged with investigating the results of prohibition, concludes with the unqualified statement that "liquor prohibition is reducing drink cases coming to organized charity on an average of 90 percent, compared with the old license days."

Then a comparison of the cases of destitution from drink coming before the body from various localities during the year 1915, a wet year of economic depression, and during 1921, a dry year of even more economic depression, is made. The result of the comparison is overwhelmingly in favor of the dry year.

Thus, in Boston proper, 24 percent of the charity cases in 1915 were caused by drink, while in 1921, 2.38 percent were drink cases. At Haverhill in the wet year 44 percent were drink cases and in the dry year only 7 percent. At Salem the drink cases were reduced from 37.50 percent in 1915 to 2.2 percent in 1921.

If more and worse whiskey is being drunk than in license days, as the liquor organization is trying to make the people believe, why are the results so dissimilar from those of the open saloon era?

Some men would not need to get much personal freedom before they had more than was good for them.

HOW BASEBALLS ARE MADE

In the center of a standard baseball is a small rubber ball about an inch in diameter around which is wrapped a few layers of coarse twine. By means of accurately adjusted machinery layers of blue and white yarn are then wound. During this process, the ball is several times soaked in a cement solution and laid aside to dry in order to give it compactness. Finally a still smaller cord is wrapped snugly around the ball. The cover is made of the best horsehide, cut by hand and prepared for the purpose in a special solution. After the ball is put into clamps, the cover is sewed on with cotton thread, which has great frictional strength.

Nearly all the work is done by machinery. The seams on the cover are ironed out and the complete ball is polished. Some of the most highly developed machines are still "trade secret" and are operated in locked rooms where no outsiders are permitted to see them in operation. The ball is weighed five times in the course of manufacture—it must weigh exactly five ounces.

A RESTFUL CITY

From the Lufkin News.

The comfort and conveniences of the Lufkin-Nacogdoches highway are many, not least among the good things provided being the safe and rapid transit for those Nacogdoches folks who find it their shortest route to motor over in the early morning to their places of business, and after the tedious hours of the day, motor back to their homes and firesides for a quiet night's rest in a zone of peace and tranquility, away from the roar and din of traffic never wholly subsiding in this bustling city. It is this restfuling alumber across the Angelina that accounts for their pep and vigor as they appear here serenely each morning for the day's routine. Their example might well be followed by others; there is plenty of room for more, and the latch string hangs on the outside of the city's gates.

Anyway, prohibition has done much to increase the interest in astronomy, or moonshine.

Paint on a house usually helps to find a market for it, but the same thing can not be said so certainly of a woman.

IS YOUR HEALTH GRADUALLY SLIPPING?

Interesting Experience of a Texas Lady Who Declares That if More Women Knew About Cardui They Would Be Spared Much Sickness and Worry.

Navasota, Texas.—Mrs. W. M. Peden, of this place, relates the following interesting account of how she recovered her strength, having realized that she was actually losing her health:

"Health is the greatest thing in the world, and when you feel that gradually slipping away from you, you certainly sit up and take notice. That is what I did some time ago when I found myself in a very nervous, run-down condition of health. I was so tired and felt so lifeless I could hardly go at all.

"I was just no account for work. I would get a bucket of water and would feel so weak I would have to set it down before I felt like I could lift it to the shelf. In this condition, of course, to do even my housework was a task almost impossible to accomplish.

"I was . . . nervous and easily upset.

I couldn't rest well at night and was . . . just lifeless.

"I heard of Cardui and after reading I decided I had some female trouble that was pulling me down. I sent for Cardui and began it . . .

"In a very short while after I began the Cardui Home Treatment I saw an improvement and it wasn't long until I was all right—good appetite, splendid rest, and much stronger so that I easily did my house work.

"Later I took a bottle of Cardui as a tonic. I can recommend Cardui and gladly do so, for if more women knew, it would save a great deal of worry and sickness."

The enthusiastic praise of thousands of other women who have found Cardui helpful should convince you that it is worth trying. All druggists sell it.

HOME CANNING

Quite a number of the good housewives of the county have provided themselves with steam canners, sealers and savers and will put up their own fruit, vegetables and berries this season, thus evading the rather heavy expense entailed by them being forced to purchase these articles of food in small lots from dealers. The cans (three pound) cost 4 cents and the tops one cent each. The cans may be saved and used for three seasons, at least, and when used the second or third time the only additional expense is for the tops, which at one cent each, does not place a very heavy burden upon the home manufacturer.

The cost of installing the plant is small and the benefits are incalculable. It is hoped that every family in this section will look into the matter, buy the necessary outfit and can enough corn, tomatoes, potatoes, berries and fruits to tide the family over during the winter months when such things are so necessary to health. If a family is small and feels unable to go to the expense of purchasing a plant, two or more neighbors with small families might combine and divide the cost among them and use it in turn. It will pay big dividends.

MRS. R. A. SIKES

Mrs. R. A. Sikes, widow of the late John Sikes, died Thursday, July 20th, at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Tom Crawford, at Keltys, after an illness of only an hour. She was the mother of 13 children, and of these Mrs. Dick Clevenger is the only survivor. She was the grandmother of 17 and the great-grandmother of 23 grand-grandchildren. She was born in Alabama in 1842 and moved to Texas when only 4 years old, and was 80 years 1 month and 1 day old when she passed to her reward.

She will be sadly missed by all who knew her, and we are sure that she is with the blest.

A Loving Friend.

Conditions will be ideal when everybody has jobs except the persons who do not want to work, if the persons who do not want to work are in jail.

NOT OUR FIGHT

Several railroad strikers, or sympathizers, from Lufkin were in the city Thursday for the purpose of placarding the town with declarations of sympathy for the strikers. It is understood nearly all the business men of Lufkin have allowed such signs to be placed in their windows announcing their sympathy with the movement, and it is said those who have declined to be thus drawn into the fight have been boycotted.

Our business men took the position that it was not their fight; that there were no strikers here, and that it would be taking sides in a contest in which they had no direct interest, and every one of them refused to allow these signs to be displayed on their premises.

It is none of the Sentinel's affair what the people of Lufkin do in regard to the strike, or any other matter, but it is the desire of Nacogdoches citizens to treat everybody with equal fairness, and it is evident that bulldozing tactics will not swerve them from this attitude. If the strikers have money with which to buy our goods, they can have anything they want; and if the strikebreakers have the money and wish to patronize our merchants, they also can have what ever they want in the shape of merchandise.

REPUBLICAN "ECONOMY"

Washington, July 26.—Republican claims of economy in federal appropriations and expenditures were denied by Senator Overman of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the senate finance committee, in a statement today in the senate comparing present and past appropriations. "All the big headlines which have been appearing in the newspapers showing great savings made by the budget system under the Harding administration were nothing but camouflage and pipe dreams." Referring to recent statements by Chairmen Warren and Madden of the senate and house committees, respectively, excluding from the present appropriations all war aftermath major expense for legitimate expense of the government this year, the appropriations were $1,329,000,000 against $793,000,000 for 1915.

The return of long hair isn't exactly tempered to the one who has just been shorn.

HOME TALENT EMPLOYED

All the work on the additions to the high school building will be done by home people; the Sentinel is glad to note. Mr. John Habin, who was awarded the contract, has sublet contracts for the wiring to E. M. Roberts Electrical Company, steam heating to William Calvert, and the plumbing to the Smith-Hunt Company.

The skill and general standing of these contractors is an assurance that the work will be done equally as well as if it had been awarded out-of-town concerns.

Master Preston Means, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Means, is at the sanitarium suffering from several serious hurts received Tuesday afternoon when he was thrown from a wagon at the Kennedy corner. The team had been unhitched, but when the animals became frightened at a sudden noise they sprang forward and jerked the vehicle violently, precipitating the boy to the ground, with the result that the fall resulted in a broken left leg and the left shoulder badly bruised, a painful gash in the right arm and the right elbow bruised. He was taken to the Smith Sanitarium, where his hurts were attended to, and Wednesday morning he was reported as getting along satisfactorily.

EDUCATION FOR MARINES

Washington, July 24.—The United States Marine Corps is now offering every recruit a complete correspondence school course of instruction in any one of a great number of subjects. The course is taken at government expense during the three-year period of enlistment.

The recruit may select from a wide range of courses, ranging from engineering to stenography. All text books are provided free by the government and instruction is conducted through the regular staff of the International Correspondent School. The course is taken while in camp in addition to the regular military training.

Recruits who have a high school education may be sent to Washington and given practical training in subjects such as bookkeeping and accounting. It is the purpose of the Marine Corps to give every enlisted man an education in some trade or business during his enlistment period.

IMPROVEMENTS AT GARRISON

D. A. Walling & Son of this city are installing a Matthews Full Automatic light and power plant at Garrison for C. B. Powell, C. E. Irwin and the Dale Drug Company, who will soon discard the tallow dip and coal oil lamp for an electric service. The plant is of the latest improved type and, as its name implies, is altogether automatic, requiring no attention beyond seeing that it is supplied with gasoline and lubricating oil. The machine does the rest. When the current generated falls below a certain point the engine "starts on its own hook," and when the requisite amount has been generated it automatically stops. This is a 50-light 50-watt plant, sufficient to supply all the needs of its enterprising owners with all the electric current required for lights, fans, motors, etc., and will certainly add vastly to the comfort and convenience of the places where installed. And the cost of operation, divided between the three firms, will be trifling. Considering the initial cost and the low cost of operation and maintenance, it is a wonder that more of these plants are not installed by people remote from the sources of electrical supply.

HOW MOSQUITOES PERFORM

New York, July 22.—Why and when does a mosquito sing? Why and when does he feast at your expense?

These vital questions were answered today by Willem Rudolfs of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, who tested the critters to find out. And it's all a question of heat.

Mr. Rudolfs conducted his experiments on mosquitoes he had enclosed in a glass jar. The insects were gayest when subjected to a degree of heat like the human body. At a temperature of 63 they were dull and slow of movement. When it reached 78 they began to grow more lively. At 86 they were decidedly livelier and at blood heat life looked so rosy to them and they sang about it. As the heat grew more intense they sang in a higher key and flew with short rest periods. When the temperature was raised a little more they lay on their backs and wiggled their little legs. As it grew still hotter the little fellows were pronounced dead.

PRETTY SOLID PEOPLE

The total savings deposits in banks in the United States is placed by the American Bankers' Association at $15,500,000,000; the United States government, including in its figures mutual savings bank deposits and outstanding United States bonds, sets the total at $27,000,000,000.

The more conservative figure of the American Bankers' Association is sufficient to warrant optimistic deductions, for the citizens of this land do not live frugally, their savings are not, as in France, the result of primitive conditions and lack of the reasonable utilities of comfort and health. The American lives high, with an abundance of perfected conveniences and an elaborate social system protecting his health, welfare, property and the education of his children. He pays for all these things cheerfully, he wants them; he wants first-class plumbing, bath room, basement, electrical fixtures, heating plant, screens and a car and no one considers it abnormal for the most modest of workers to wish for and obtain these things.

Yet with his expensive manner of living and attention to personal comfort he saves money to the tune of sixteen and a half billion. It is significant that these savings are built up under so many different methods, for it places the money virtually beyond the control of any effective grouping of financiers, and still represents a fluid national wealth of incalculable importance to American society.

Baby Found Out

Yells from the nursery brought the mother, who found the baby gleefully pulling small Billy's curls.

"Never mind, darling," she comforted. "Baby doesn't know how it hurts."

Half an hour later wild shrieks from the baby made her run again to the nursery.

"Why, Billy," she cried, "what is the matter with baby?"

"Nothing, muzzer," said Billy calmly; "only now he knows."

The committee from the city council recently appointed to investigate the cost of a complete survey of the city for street improvements are at work on the problem and probably will have something definite to report within the next two or three days.

A LETTER TO FORMER STUDENTS OF THE TYLER COMMERCIAL COLLEGE

Dear Friends:
You are naturally interested in your school that has grown to be the largest of its kind in the country. We are receiving letters daily from ex-students, business men and prospective students commenting on the growth and success of the Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas, and asking us for suggestions and advice. The interest of the Tyler Commercial College in its graduates never ceases, and we are more than pleased to keep those interested informed as to the progress of the school as well as to assist you in solving your business and financial problems. We are able to do this because the growth and success of the school has in a measure been the result of such excellent management. The Tyler Commercial College being managed by men who have made a success of business and who know HOW, gives our graduates prestige and influence which means much to them in not only securing employment but in affording promotion. Our graduates are holding positions of responsibility all over the country.

Our president, Mr. H. E. Byrne, is the author of the systems we teach. He knows big business from beginning to end and has proven himself a financial genius. He is president of the Security State Bank of Fort Worth, Texas, as well as president of ten other large corporations. The official publication of the Salesmanship Club of Fort Worth has the following comment on one of his addresses recently: "Mr. Byrne proved to be the type of man that his good Irish name and title would suggest. Strong and sturdy of mind, body and voice, every inch a man, his speech held our undivided attention, and then he did not have the time to tell us all he intended to. The longer he talks the better he gets. Here's hoping he has all the time needed again soon." Mr. Byrne has associated with him men who are not only good commercial school men but live wires in business. Our vice president, Mr. W. M. Roberts, is vice president and director of the Tyler Building Loan Association, a corporation with a capital stock of one million dollars. He is also on the board of directors of the Citizens National Bank of Tyler, Texas. Security State Bank of Fort Worth, Texas, Texas Finance Corporation, Dallas, Texas, Byrne Publishing Company, Tyler, Texas, Tyler Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, etc. With these men of experience and success in business, they know and understand what business men demand of young people and are in position to give you practical training and advice. We want you to feel perfectly at liberty to write us for any information you desire at any time concerning your financial or business enterprises. Our Service Department will send it to you free of charge.

We will gladly furnish free, one of our latest catalogues to any of your friends who are contemplating a business course. Fill in their names and addresses and mail to us at once. With best wishes to all our friends and former students, we are,
Your friend,

Enrolling Secretary.

Names and addresses of those who are interested in a commercial course:

Mrs. N. J. Strahan, Mrs. E. J. Strahan and Miss Frances Neely of Shady Grove, accompanied by Mrs. Lee McKnight, visited the Sentinel office Thursday afternoon and watched the wheels go round. The ladies were here to attend the Rambin-Simpson habeas corpus hearing.

Miss Venie Eddings and little niece, Miss Gwendolyn Eddings, left Tuesday for a week's visit with relatives at Cushing.

A small blaze at the home of E. H. Powers, South Fredonia street, called out the department at 11:45 Wednesday morning. The damage was slight.

Thousands of people who had given up all hope, have been restored to perfect health by taking Tanlac. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

Miss Junie James was in charge of the county superintendent's office Wednesday, Miss Exier Lewis, superintendent of schools, being absent on account of illness.

Attorney L. G. King and family of Houston arrived by auto Tuesday afternoon and are guests of Mrs. King's sister, Mrs. Louis Muller. They were accompanied by Miss Mary Louise Layton, who had been visiting them at their Houston home.

Tanlac, the powerful, reconstructive tonic, is the ideal strengthener and body builder for old folks. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

Attorney S. M. Adams made a professional trip to San Augustine, and says the crops between here and that town are about the finest he has ever seen. He scouts the idea of "hard times" for this section. And other observant ones agree with him.

Mrs. N. J. Strahan, Mrs. E. J. Strahan and Miss Frances Neely of Shady Grove, accompanied by Mrs. Lee McKnight, visited the Sentinel office Thursday afternoon and watched the wheels go round. The ladies were here to attend the Rambin-Simpson habeas corpus hearing.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Haltom, Mrs. Leon Clark and two children and Messrs. T. J. and A. D. Haltom have returned from along the coast country and report an enjoyable outing. They state that the crop prospects in this section are more favorable than any of the country through which they passed.

Rev. M. C. Johnson, who is conducting a revival meeting at Athens, La., writes that the revival is unusually successful and a great work is being done. He held four services on Sunday, and at each the house was filled to capacity and the interest pronounced.

They say that the senate never learns anything, but it seems in a fair way of learning that it isn't very popular.
