NOTICE OF INTEREST TO COTTON FARMERS

We wish to announce that we have bought the Sisco gin on East Main street, and that it will be run by V. E. Simpson, who has had over thirty years experience in this line.

We find that a number of changes have to be made in the machinery in order to make it turn out the high grade sample that this gin is capable of producing. Besides making these changes we are installing a set of four cleaners of the very latest kind, which, added to the present system, make this gin as up to date as those being made and sold today, and ahead of anything else.

When these changes are made you will be assured of getting the highest grade of sample that can be made from your cotton by any gin anywhere. We believe that in ordinary grades of cotton the grade will be improved enough to cover the cost of ginning.

Best prices will be paid for seed at all times. The Simpson Gin. 16-1dw.

DR. KAHN ASSAULTED

Dr. M. G. Kahn, optometrist and optician, who divides his time chiefly between Nacogdoches and Lufkin, was taken from the Perkins jitney, en route to this city, about 7 o'clock Saturday night by a party of several masked men at a point a short distance south of the Angelina river bridge, on the Angelina county side, taken into the woods and lashed several times with a rope. He was then returned to Lufkin and dumped out of the car into the street in front of a drug store. Dr. Kahn and Mr. Perkins later in the night came to Nacogdoches in the latter's car and spent the night here, attending the Baptist Sunday-school next morning. It is understood he left on one of the noon trains.

Those who saw Dr. Kahn state they could observe no indications of rough treatment.

The Green Top jitney, which operates in opposition to the Perkins line, and which was just ahead of the latter, was stopped by a party of some ten men wearing black masks and union overalls. These men presented revolvers and scrutinized the passengers, then waved them forward, stating the man they wanted was not in this car. When the Perkins jitney reached the scene Dr. Kahn was dragged out and he was carried into the woods, where the punishment was inflicted.

There was no clue to the perpetrators of the outrage. If they were members of the Ku Klux Klan they did not wear the uniform of that organization. It is supposed the mob was composed of boys who resented Dr. Kahn's efforts to seek the society of young ladies, though it is difficult to see wherein this was a crime so long as he conducted himself in a gentlemanly manner. Whatever prompted the action of the perpetrators, decent people, law-abiding citizens, will regard the affair as an example of brutal cowardice and hope for the punishment of all such violator of the law.

It is understood Dr. Kahn will return to Nacogdoches Tuesday to resume his regular business. It is not likely that he will be further molested.

MINERS RESUME WORK

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 16.—Union bituminous miners at points all over national coal mining fields resumed work today for the first time since the nation-wide coal strike began last April. It is expected that approximately 200,000 strikers will be ordered to return to work before the week is over.

John Malone, colored, accidentally killed a negro woman Sunday in the Chireno neighborhood, it was reported. Malone was not to blame for the tragedy, it was said. The sheriff's office was not officially notified of the occurrence, a thorough investigation having been made by local officers.

PEACE SEEMS REMOTE IN GREAT RAIL STRIKE

Washington, Aug. 14.—Hope of immediately ending the rail strike was blasted here last night when the railroads and the unions rejected President Harding's third proposal for settlement.

After 44 hours of mediation and negotiation both sides declared there is no possibility of arbitrating the question of seniority and are prepared to fight it out to a finish.

But instead of having only the railway shopmen to deal with, the railroads now have all of the railway brotherhoods arrayed against them. They will support the shopmen on the question that they declare to be the "life blood of unionism", and are quite willing to accept the deflating railway executives for "a fight to the finish."

The only ray of hope in the situation was the withholding by the four brotherhoods of their reply to the president's proposal. This reply as originally framed was understood to constitute a flat declination of the executive's suggestion that the question of seniority be referred for decision to the railroad labor board.

L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, one of the "big four" organizations entrusted with the case of the striking shopmen, stated tonight, after perusing the reply of the railway executives, that the door was still open for a settlement.

An important point made by Mr. Sheppard was that the question of seniority had been "overplayed" during the strike controversy.

Federal Aid Offered

Washington, Aug. 14.—The president last night offered the aid of the government to passengers marooned when trains are abandoned by their crews.

In a telegram to the governor of Arizona, the president appealed to him to do everything possible to relieve marooned passengers within his state, and if he did not have the proper facilities to call upon the government. The president's telegram read:

"I am informed that several passenger trains on the Santa Fe railway are marooned at junction points in your state because of their abandonment by their crews. It is the obligation of the government to relieve the people who are thus shamefully subjected to hardships. If you have facilities for relief which I know you will gladly bestow, then any forces at the command of the federal government will be promptly ordered to your assistance. Kindly advise whether such assistance is needed."

Santa Fe Paralyzed

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—The Santa Fe system was virtually paralyzed by walkouts of brotherhood men at Needles, Cal., and Seligman, Ash Fork, Williams and Winslow, Arizona, today, and one is in prospect at Albuquerque, N. M. The Union Pacific line from Salt Lake to Los Angeles was solidly blocked by the refusal of brotherhood men at several points to move trains. It was planned to detour two trains over Southern Pacific trackage.

Open Port Law

Austin, Texas, Aug. 14.—Members of the State Ranger force, which had been investigating strike conditions at Texarkana, returned to Austin this morning and conferred with Governor Neff. Announcement that the open port law would be declared at Texarkana is expected late today. Adjutant General Barton, who had been at Denison, also returned to Austin today.

CIRCUMVENTING THE STRIKE

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 16.—Rather than risk train delays under the present schedules, Lieutenant Westside T. Larson, Kelly Field aviator, obtained permission to fly to his home in San Francisco for a visit and expects to reach San Diego late today in a one-day flight, with stops at El Paso and Nogales. The distance to San Diego is 1,100 miles.

Mr. Henry Schmidt writes from Rockaway Park, Long Island, that he is having a fine time, enjoying himself to the utmost and is buying a big stock of goods for his store.

STRIKE SITUATION

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 15.—The Pacific Coast states today felt the bitter pinch from railroad tieups which have been developing since Thursday night. Passengers marooned at the desert towns which serve as terminals for the Santa Fe lines in the Southwestern Division have been brought to places of greater comfort, but little or nothing has been done for the fruitgrowers of Northern Washington, Southern Oregon, Northern California, the San Joaquin Valley of California and farther north. Following a conference between officials of the Southern Pacific and members of the Big Four brotherhoods at Roseville, Cal., the trainmen who went on strike Sunday night agreed to return to work shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

New Peace Plans

Washington, Aug. 15.—At a conference with President Harding that lasted until after dark last night the railway unions decided to call another conference with railroad executives in an effort to reach an independent settlement of the shop strike.

The call is to be issued immediately to a group of rail executives said to be liberal. Among them the minority have already offered acceptable concessions of the shopmen. The decision of this conference is to be used as an opening wedge with the entire body of executives, the unions plan.

President Harding, it was said, approved the new move of the railroad brotherhoods, but will take no part in the deliberations. He feels that if anything can be accomplished now it can be done with the opposing factions facing each other across the table and not through mediation.

Anti-Climax to Crisis

This was the anti-climax to a situation that until late yesterday was regarded as hopeless and even now rail and union officials are not certain it will be successful. Spokesmen for the unions declared that they had not sounded out the executives and could only hope to get a sufficient representation here to have weight. Rail officials declare that the "incident is closed" unless the union come to their way of seeing things.

Harding to Act

Washington, Aug. 15.—President Harding will place the rail strike situation before congress and before the people within 48 hours, it was officially announced at the White House. The administration spokesman making known the president's purpose declared there was "no ground for the executive to stand upon in advancing any further proposition" for a settlement of the strike other than those already laid before the management and representatives of the striking workmen. The announcement came after the president had conferred with the cabinet and leaders in congress and after the railroad union labor organizations had made public their rejection of the president's last settlement proposal, together with the statements that the chiefs of the non-striking unions planned to continue efforts for mediation.

Government Will Aid Roads

Washington, Aug. 15.—President Harding, having abandoned all efforts for mediation in the rail strike, it was declared today by his advisers, has virtually decided to inform the railroad executives of the country, that operations of trains will be given the full protection and aid of the government. The president, it was stated, has determined that the only course the government now could pursue was the path followed in the coal strike—extension of an invitation to the employers to operate their properties, the federal government, with the co-operation of the states, to stand behind them in their efforts so far as they are directed to serving the public. Consideration is being given by the president, it is asserted, to the proposition of going before congress within the next few days with a comprehensive statement of the whole strike situation, including the rebuffs met by the government in its attempts at settlement. This statement, it is said, would include no suggestions for legislation, but is designed to place before congress and the country the facts of the situation as viewed by the government.

PACIFIC RAIL CRISIS WAS PASSED YESTERDAY

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—The railroad situation on the Pacific Coast cleared up materially last night.

Effective at 5 o'clock the Southern Pacific lifted the embargo on fruits, livestock and other perishables on their Ogden route east and also on their lines north. This opened the way for resumption of fruit shipments east.

HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT

Washington, Aug. 16.—The rail shop strike will be settled, if at all, in direct negotiations between the unions and executives here.

Late yesterday Warren S. Stone, chief of the engineers and spokesmen for the striking shopmen, sent a message to T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the rail executives, asking him to name a committee to negotiate a strike settlement.

Shortly after the sending of the message to Mr. Cuyler, Mr. Stone was able to announce acceptance of the plan outlined, saying that the conference would be held in New York at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Following is the communication to Cuyler which brought about an agreement to meet:

"Strike conditions are rapidly arriving at a critical stage and in a final effort to find some solution for the present trouble we ask that you call your committee together at the earliest moment and meet with the executives of the train service brotherhoods here in Washington. Will you kindly advise Mr. Stone of the time we may expect this committee, if you convene them?"

DESPERATE MAN KILLED AFTER SLAYING SHERIFF

Idabel, Okla., Aug. 13.—Seriousness of his wounds, which are expected to prove fatal, saved Clayton Thompson from the hands of a mob today, after a gun battle on the public thoroughfare of Wright City, near here, in which he slew Sheriff Bud Felker of McCurtain county, and dangerously wounded Cleveland Christian of Mountain View, who were attempting to arrest him for killing two men near Wright City.

The series of tragedies began late yesterday when Thompson, while intoxicated, it is said, shot and killed John Anderson, foreman of a ranch ten miles north of Wright City. Thompson then started to Wright City and overtook Clifford Pruett, 18. He shot the youth to death in a quarrel.

Cleveland Christian, owner of a ranch adjoining the one where Anderson was killed, joined Sheriff Felker and deputy in a search for Thompson. They traced him to Wright City and met him on the main street of the town. As they drove up to the curbing in Felker's automobile they commanded Thompson to surrender. The latter brought a rifle to play and shot Christian between the shoulders. A second shot struck Felker in the back of the head, killing him instantly and a third bored the sheriff between the shoulders.

Thompson then sought refuge in a restaurant. Jones called upon him to surrender and when he did not obey the deputy shot him twice in the abdomen with a rifle. Christian was taken to a hospital at Broken Bow, where it was said he is not expected to live.

LONDON CONFERENCE FAILS

London, Aug. 15.—Hopelessly deadlocked on the question of Germany's ability to continue reparations payments the London conference broke up yesterday without achieving any result.

The delegations will return to their respective countries today with the understanding that the problem be referred back to the reparations commission, which will decide the date and period for further moratorium for Germany. Last night it was not believed in official quarters that France will undertake an independent action against Germany.

COTTON CONSUMPTION

Washington, Aug. 16.—Cotton consumed during July amounted to 458,548 bales lint and 5,124 bales linters, compared with 570,869 of lint and 53,385 linters in June, the Census Bureau announced today.

PLAN TO SAVE MILLIONS ON THE 1922 COTTON CROP

The farmers, the ginners, public weighers and warehousemen of Texas are urged by Chas. E. Baughman, Commissioner of Markets and Warehouses, to join in a campaign to avoid a repetition of the heavy loss in the cotton crop as occurred in the season of 1919-1920. The newspapers of Texas as a whole are requested and urged to join in this campaign.

The Reason for This Campaign

In the 1919-1920 season the country damage to the Texas cotton crop was more than $30,000,000, caused by cotton having been ginned while wet, from weather damage after ginning and from careless handling and storing of cotton crop. We do not attempt to say to anyone to store your cotton. We are not wise enough to advise a man to sell or hold but we are deeply concerned about the way cotton is handled. We want to ascertain how many farmers in Texas are in a position to store their cotton immediately after ginning, if it is not sold; how many of them will agree not to have wet cotton ginned; and how many of them will not offer a bale of cotton for sale when it is wet. Then we want to know how many ginners will pledge themselves to a full compliance with the Gin Law by not ginning cotton when wet, by properly sewing the bagging over the ends, by properly tagging same with the metal marker or tag, and over all to put out a real neat package.

We can save the cotton growers of Texas millions of dollars, if everyone interested will co-operate. This is not a mandatory edict; it is merely a desire on our part to co-operate with above interests to the end that this loss may be averted. Therefore, if you will co-operate in this campaign we want you to sign the pledge, at the end of this and mail to this department at once.

The farmer who takes a part in this will pledge himself to haul no cotton to the gin while it is wet to be ginned; he will store no cotton in any place other than a building or a shed; and he will offer for sale no cotton that is wet.

The ginner will pledge that he will gin no wet cotton; that he will discourage the use of his yard as a storage place for cotton; that he will properly mark and tag every bale of cotton; will see that no water from his packer gets in the cotton; that he will sew the bagging over the ends of every bale; that he will carefully weigh every bale ginned by him; and that he will encourage the farmer in event the farmer does not sell his cotton, to store same in a bonded warehouse.

The public weigher will pledge himself that he will try to discourage the weighing of cotton when wet, and when he is called upon to weigh cotton while wet, he will call the attention of both seller and buyer to the condition of the cotton, and he also will discourage the use of his yard as a storage place for cotton.

The warehouseman will pledge himself to see that all cotton stored with him when wet is properly handled, in order to avoid damage.

Pledge

Mr. Charles E. Baughman, Commissioner, Markets & Warehouses, Austin, Texas:

Dear Sir—I desire to join in your campaign to save millions of dollars this year to the cotton growers of Texas and hereby pledge my co-operation in the movement and hereby pledge to discourage the hauling of wet cotton to the gin; to discourage the storing of cotton in any place other than a bonded warehouse; to have the ginner properly mark and tag every bale that he gins; to have the ginner sew the bagging over the ends and to not push the bagging back under the ties, to discourage the sale of cotton when it is wet.

SHREVEPORT BOY KILLED BY FALL FROM CLIFF

Denver, Colo., Aug. 16.—Falling almost 200 feet from the top of Cap Rock in a canyon near Cheyenne, Elmo Allison, 16 years old, dropped to his death at the feet of his mother, Mrs. R. O. Allison, standing below. They were summer visitors here from Shreveport, La.

"Look What He Got"

A farm hand wanted to borrow a lantern to go see best girl one dark night and the stingy old farmer said: "You don't need a lantern. When I was young I went courting in the dark." The hired man retorted; "Yes, and see what you got!"

Served him right, too. The more light the better with all honorable transactions. That's why we talk to you each week about our reliable Bank. We want you to know the advantages we offer and that it will pay you to identify yourself with our Bank. No chances of dealing in the dark with us. Everything frank, and above board.

CANCELING WAR DEBTS

Once again the chancelleries of Europe are in convulsion over the wholesale cancellation of war debts. England, which during the war was a great and generous creditor of virtually all the allies, is being pressed by its debtors to wipe off the slate and start new. England replies with a note that seems to irritate Washington that however much she would like to cancel the debts owing her, she cannot so long as she owes the United States several billion dollars.

Now arises United States Senator Borah, who declares that there can be no thought of this nation's remitting its war debts until Europe disarms. Now, that is a becoming thing for some United States senators to say, but not Borah; for it was he perhaps with more sincerity but with no less vehemence than some of his republican colleagues who raved and stormed against the League of Nations, the very agency that would have settled properly long ere this not only the question of war debts but disarmament as well.

The consequence of the United States' refusal to go into the league and give it force and vitality are still plaguing the world and will continue to do so until the league or something like it has the support of the United States. Had this government gone in to it, this nation's prestige as the big creditor country of the world, the most unselfish, disinterested in war booty and seeking only to secure and preserve the peace could have maintained the great moral leadership it won under President Wilson and recommended and had accepted the solutions for financial, economic and other problems that remain unsettled.

With America in the league there would have been world disarmament instead of partial or pacific disarmament, which is the extreme limit of the arms conference held a year ago at Washington. There would not be the huge budgets for armies and navies that now burden the war-stricken countries. A very great deal of the necessary dislocation which world wars entail would have been adjusted and the question of war debts settled and the nations of the world busily at work earning money to pay them off.

Fate cannot help but smile cynically as it surveys the follies which a great nation has committed in the interest of partisanship.

BUMPER CROPS IS OUTLOOK

Growing cereals, roots and fruits have the bumper sign attached to them, according to the August crop reports of the government. Conditions point to a yield of 263,000,000 bushels of spring wheat and 542,000,000 bushels of winter wheat or more than three-quarters of a billion bushels. For the fourth time corn will reach 3,000,000,000 bushels, the present condition of the grain indicates. Hay, now being harvested is estimated at 93,000,000 tons. Potatoes will be the second largest crop in history. There will be 200,000,000 bushels of apples, the eleventh crop of that size in 33 years, the reports state. Peaches are a crop second only to the production of the record year of 1915, according to the indications.

These crop reports are something the average person is only casually interested in, but they treat of conditions that affect all persons. They not only contain meaning to the farmer and the dealer, but they are a means of letting us all know how prosperous we are. We are apt to think that when nature smiles she is putting money into the pocket of the farmer only and that the brimming horn of plenty means nothing at all to the people in general. That, however, is a wrong conception of the situation, because plenty means plenty for everybody unless conditions are most abnormally askew.

About all that is retarding industrial prosperity is the fact of the rail and coal strikes. But we know that, no matter what intervenes, these drags are but temporary. Sooner or later, they will come to an end, and when they do we will be doubly blessed with an industrial boom and overflowing granaries. The sad part of it is the economic loss being sustained at present. Workmen are losing wages, carriers and industries are losing income and the public is losing in many indirect ways which, however, have a direct effect on the pocketbook. It is a situation in which everybody is losing now. Will anybody be the gainer eventually?

The report that the great composers' work is being jazzed is more proof that the best of everything can be brought within the reach of the lowest citizen.

HEAD OVER HEELS

From the Shreveport Journal. It pays to think. That is not a new idea, but at least it has the merit of always being a good one. A young woman in a certain county recorder's office has been made head of the office mailing department with a tidy increase of salary because she used her brain.

This young woman noted the time wasted because citizens had to call in person for the documents left to be recorded. It occurred to her that much of this time could be saved by the simple process of mailing the documents of their owners. She proposed the change to her chief, the suggestion was followed and promotion was her reward. The taxpayers whose time she saved could well afford to pay her increased salary.

Few persons make the mail the convenience that it should be. Practically all business and domestic banking can be done by mail, yet an aggregate of years is wasted weekly in banking errands. It is frequently more practical and just as inexpensive to do shopping or marketing by telephone. Yet, how many women take advantage of the convenience?

None but the thoughtless reckon their time as worth nothing and waste it in non-constructive running around. The boss makes more money than the office boy. He uses his head—the boy uses his heels. When the boy learns to use his head to save his heels he will be boss.

WHAT THE AUTO HAS DONE

The auto has put the livery stable out of business and banished the smell thereof.

Almost ruined the harness and saddle-making business, where harness and saddles were either to order or bought hand-me-down.

Caused diminution of the fly-pest in towns and cities—fewer horses and breeding places for flies.

Made travel more desirable for traveling men instead of waiting for trains and reading time tables.

Brought the auto truck out into competition with freight and express lines.

Has caused railroad lines troubles that necessitate diagnosis and treatment from an economic standpoint.

Caused world-wide activities in oil production giving work to many and created subsidiaries into industrial lines.

Shortened distances when errands of mercy and calls to the sick are made.

They do not stand around in winter and eat until their tails drop off and the flies never bite their exterior nor frighten their interior.

The auto has come to stay and its place would be hard to fill if the old gray mare and Black Beauty had to shoulder the burdens of the world today.—Ex.

PLANT A LITTLE FIG TREE.

A year ago the writer called attention to the importance of planting more fig trees, and told about the performance of a small tree in his yard. This year the tree is larger and has done better; up to this time about forty gallons have been gathered, and there are perhaps ten left. They have met with a ready sale at 30c a gallon, or $15 for the one tree. There is always a great demand for this fruit for preserving purposes, and it will pay any home-owner to put out several trees this fall. They will bear fruit in a few years and can be raised with very little trouble.—Ex.

A G. O. P. senator's idea of an important issue is a motion that the senate rest room be enlarged.

President Harding seems to be impressing a number that he is more proficient at golf than with the Big Stick.

Wonder what a small boy thinks about while being whipped for lying by a father who frequently lies to him.

People shouldn't let on that they get a great deal of pleasure in eating apple pies. They might prohibit them.

Congress might pass a law prohibiting the mining and selling of coal—and the bootlegger would do the rest.

The appointment of a coal administrator is an encouraging sign. It shows that someone has found some coal to administer.

The people might rhapsodize on the beauties of autumn if it were not for their feeling of foreboding for what is bound to follow.

One of the annoying features of a political campaign is to have the pictures of defeated candidates hanging around for weeks afterward.

THIS PREACHER GETS FOLKS OUT TO CHURCH

From the New York World.

A new type of preacher has stirred up the staid residents of Washington Heights by compelling them to notice the presence of his church, now worshipping in the roofed-over foundation. He obtains the largest theatre in the city for Sunday morning services and packs it; has paides headed by bands on Sunday to lead the people to church; invites Imita Gish to give her religious experience one Sunday night; another time he asks two rival candidates for district attorney to talk about religion on the same evening; advertises with thousands of striking cards every week and with window cards, sandwich men, newspaper space and billboards. He prints a 6-page paper merely because he was once a newspaper man, and puts it into thousands of homes weekly; hires the Gloria Trumpeters (a quartette), puts them into his motor car, has them play until the audience gathers, then urges everyone—Jew, Catholic and Protestant—to attend his own church.

He provides a nursery Sunday mornings, so that the young married people who cannot hire help can attend services while their little ones have expert care in another room; organizes fifty young men into a club who put a pool table into an unused basement; provides supper Wednesday nights so that the members can come to church direct from their work and then remain to a Bible study class and the attendance grows from six persons to two hundred and seventy-five of these folks who were never members of any church and who are being instructed for membership. In the first twelve months this new pastor increased the membership two hundred percent.

He is altogether unknown in New York. He was pastor of Grace Methodist church nine years and received more than three thousand into membership and had 150,000 a year in the various services.

The man who is always getting something off his chest seldom has a shirt to his back.

Nobody wants to be considered unsophisticated, so the airplane does not attract as much attention as it once did.

TO COLORED CITIZENS CHRIST'S IDEA OF DIVORCE

Our Master's language is sufficiently plain; there has never been any need of dispute about it. Let me simply call your attention to the principal statements: First, Moses did allow his countrymen divorce for other causes than the one which the Nazarene Teacher specifies; but he allowed it because of his countrymen's hardness of heart, that is, because of that moral obtuseness into which they had sunk as one of the sad results of their long servitude in idolatrous and polygamous Egypt. Secondly: In the beginning, however, it was not so; in the primal estate no divorce was allowed. Monogamy was a law of Eden. Thirdly: The marriage estate takes precedence of every other human relation: "For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife." Every domestic and social relation is to be subordinated to the law of monogamy. Fourthly: Marriage merges the dualism of man and woman into the unity of husband and wife, blending them into a two-fold, yet single personality. No longer twain; henceforth one. Fifthly: The marriage bond is divine, and therefore indissoluble while life continues. "What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." Sixthly: The one solitary exception to the indissolubleness of the marriage bond is infidelity to the marriage vow. "Saving for the cause of fornication." Seventhly: Remarriage, alike in the case of the divorcer and divorced, excepting the divorce based on the solitary cause of marital infidelity: adultery.

Loose notions touching marriage, divorce, remarriage, are painfully, alarmingly prevalent. Even among those who call themselves cultivated there are some whose teachings concerning marriage are so lax and sensuous that, were they carried into practical effect, the "holy estate of matrimony" would sink into the open polygamy and polyandry of savage tribes, and even the promiscuous society of roaming animal herds. Let it be thundered from the pulpit, from the academy, from the forum, that divorce, absolute divorce allowing remarriage, saving for one solitary cause, is a threefold crime—a crime against home, a crime against society and a crime against God. Such is the shining chastity of the carpenter's son. E. E. Burkhalter, B. Th.

SEEKS EXPERT OPINION ON APPLEBY GRAVEL

Secretary McKnight of the Chamber of Commerce is sending a sample of Appleby gravel to each of sixteen prominent road engineers in different parts of Texas, together with a letter asking for an opinion from each engineer as to the value of this material for paving purposes.

Each engineer is asked to state what actual experience, if any, he has had with similar material in paving work, and to state his experience or to give his opinion about the feasibility of topping this type and quality of material with asphalt, tarvia or other surface dressing.

It is expected that the replies of these engineers will be of interest and value to our people in selecting the proper kind of paving.

Candidates for county commissioner and others who are in favor of ordinary graveled highways, should take a hike over the road to the Angellina river. While the highway has been in use only a few months, it shows evidence of considerable wear and is an indication of the quality of such roads. It may also impress one with the ordinary expense of upkeep.—Lufkin News, 9th.

Considering the nature and volume of traffic over the stretch of road mentioned above, it is not surprising that the highway has deteriorated, the general opinion being that this road has stood up remarkably well. The heavy trucks and hundreds of cars which pass over this highway daily inevitably must damage its surface considerably, and this calls for constant repairs. Unless this is done, it should not be expected the road would remain in good condition. It is surfaced with Appleby gravel, said by experts to be the best road material available in this section, but even that could not indefinitely survive the heavy pounding inflicted upon it. The thing to do is to give this road reasonable attention.

The dynamiting of dipping vats in Shelby county is reported. When the federal government, state government and the county government spends enormous sums of money to improve the condition of the farmer and stock grower and they resort to such unlawfully tactics there is certainly something mighty badly wrong with the citizenship.—Lufkin News.

DISABLED SOLDIERS INDORSE W. B. BATES FOR DIST. ATTY.

We want the good people of Nacogdoches county to know that the disabled soldiers of the county heartily indorse W. B. Bates for a second term as district attorney. He not only spent 27 months in the army fighting for your peace and happiness, but since his return from Germany he has been persistently fighting for the wounded and disabled soldiers. He has aided more than 200 ex-soldiers to secure hospital treatment and compensation. He has neglected his own business to do it when others would not. He has never charged an ex-soldier a cent for such work, and seemed insulted if we offered to pay, while others have charged exorbitant fees. And when our disabled comrades die, he aids the relatives in securing the insurance and compensation due them, without costs. What more could we ask?

He has obtained more convictions than his predecessor. It is democratic to give him a second term. It will cloud his future to defeat him for a second term. Will you vote for the boy who has done so much for you and us, or will you forget the things he had done for you and hold against him the things a relative might have done? We don't believe you are so small.

We do this without Mr. Bates' knowledge or consent, but with a desire to aid our best friend.

EXPLOSION ON STEAMER BRINGS TWO FATALITIES

New York, Aug. 11.—Two members of the Adriatic crew were killed, five seriously injured and one is missing as the result of an explosion of undetermined origin in her hold No. 3, according to a wireless received today by the White Star line. The message reported the Adriatic proceeding to New York under half-speed. Coal was stored in the hold, and officials of the line, in the absence of details, though spontaneous combustion had caused the explosion.

PALESTINE BEEN PLACED UNDER OPEN PORT LAW

Austin, Texas, Aug. 11.—Palestine was placed under the provisions of the open port law by Governor Neff this morning, effective at 9 o'clock. Ranger Captain Jerry Gray was ordered there to take charge. Governor Neff in his proclamation specified the same reasons for invoking the law as in his other proclamations.

GREAT NEWSPAPER MAN DEAD

London, Aug. 14.—Viscount Northcliffe, the noted British publicist, died at 10:12 o'clock this morning. His death had been expected for several weeks, and the end was peaceful, according to physicians. It is stated the cause of death was suppurative or production of pus within the heart, which followed blood poisoning. The death of no official person could have made a deeper impression on the people of England than that of Lord Northcliffe, who was by far the most noted figure in English journalism.

RAIL INVESTORS MEET WITH RAILROAD HEADS

New York, Aug. 11.—Haley Fiske, president of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, which is a large investor in railroad securities, went before the conference of rail executives called to act on the Harding peace proposal shortly before noon. It was reported he carried an important message to the executives from financial interests. Executives from all parts of the country entered the main conference and are expected to face many hours of debate, as indications are that a vote will not be taken until late in the afternoon.

FLORIDA FEUD BRINGS DEATH TO FOUR MEN

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 12.—Feudal warfare brought death to two more members of the Wingate family Thursday night near Hilliard in Nassau county, leaving only the fourth son, Elijah, surviving, the father and three sons having been killed in the last three years.

William Wingate, the father, aged 71, and his son, Scriven, 41, were shot dead in their automobile last night, but a seven-year-old son of Scriven was spared when he begged for his life.

Two other sons were shot and killed some months ago. No arrests are known to have been made.

Mr. Lacy Hunt's car, which was stolen Wednesday night from its parking place on North street, was recovered Thursday from the rear of the colored Knights of Pythias hall, where it had been abandoned by the thieves. Its top was smashed, radiator bent and the body and running gear covered with mud. There is no clue to the miscreants who misappropriated it.

TIME BOMBS EXPLODE IN SANTA FE STOCKADE

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 11.—Twenty-three bombs exploded at intervals from 1:30 to 3 o'clock this morning in the stockade of the Santa Fe railroad within 200 feet of the company's roundhouse, according to the sheriff's office. The bombs were buried in the ground, and in exploding did no damage, but blew much dirt into the air, it was said. No guards were hurt. More explosions are expected momentarily, and no one is allowed in the stockade. Investigators believe the bombs were previously planted, and United States Marshal Greenwood said he believed the explosions were intended to frighten the men at work. The high-voltage power line of the Southern California Edison Company was broken just as one of the explosions occurred. The breaking of the line caused the lighting system of the city to become grounded and the city was in darkness for more than an hour.

Officer Seriously Injured

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 11.—Deputy United States Marshal Albertson was seriously burned when a bomb exploded in his hands after the explosion of the 23 bombs. The explosion of the bombs created terror in the vicinity of the shops, hurling fragments several hundred feet. The bombs were cast iron pipe elbows filled with white powder, and, according to investigators, apparently were thrown into the stockade.

LABOR OFFICIALS MEET IN JOINT CONFERENCE

Washington, Aug. 11.—The chief officials of the railroad labor organizations went into joint session shortly after noon today to consider the response which shall be made by the seven striking shop craft unions to Harding's latest proposal as a basis for settling the railroad strike. Officials of the seven striking railroad unions, through Chairman Lewell, said the session would be a long one. He said he had nothing to add previously given indications that the shop unions intended to reject the president's proposal providing for leaving the seniority status of all strikers to adjustment by the Railroad Labor Board this afternoon upon their return to New York.

To Recommend Reply

Washington, Aug. 11.—The heads of 148 American roads today appointed a committee to recommend a reply to Harding's latest proposal for a settlement of the strike. It was not indicated by those leaving the conference chamber what would be the nature of the administration's suggestion in the matter of seniority.

STATUS OF THE STRIKE

Washington, Aug. 12.—President Harding, it was said by administration advisers today, has abandoned, temporarily, at least, his plan for asking legislation by congress to deal with the railroad strike situation.

Reject Harding's Proposals

Washington, Aug. 12.—Heads of the seven railroad organizations now on strike have decided to reject completely the last strike settlement proposal of Harding, one of the chief officials today declared after the final conference. The striking unions in a written response sent to the White House, according to this official, told the president they could not call off the strike unless a guarantee was given that all their men would be reinstated in service with seniority right unimpaired. The president had proposed that the seniority status of the strike be left to adjudication by the Railroad Labor Board.

Roads Badly Crippled

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 12.—Transcontinental traffic, both passenger and freight, on the far western divisions of the two main rail systems, the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific, was disorganized today so badly that scheduled service has been practically abandoned. The third trunk line, the Union Pacific, is threatened with a similar condition. A rapid spread was reported all over the country of sporadic walkouts of engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen.

Trains Tied Up

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 12.—Four trains running over the Chicago & North-western from Chicago, three through to the Pacific coast over the Union Pacific after they leave Omaha, were tied up at Boone, Iowa, for three or four hours because the firemen did not want to man the engines, it was stated at the headquarters of the Northwestern today.

DECISION PROTECTS INNOCENT
HOLDER OF STOLEN BONDS

Austin, Texas, Aug. 11.—When a negotiable instrument is stolen or lost by its owner before maturity and finds its way into the hands of an innocent purchaser for value, such purchaser obtains good title as against all the world and can enforce collection, held the attorney general's department in an opinion written by Assistant Attorney General F. C. Gibson to County Attorney Audley Harris of Nacogdoches County.

The question came up over an issue of $800,000 of Nacogdoches county bonds, issued, and sold by that county in 1919. In January, 1921, the county was advised that $62,000 of these bonds had been stolen from the registered mail, in a mail robbery in Chicago. These stolen bonds were sold to an innocent purchaser, who demanded the payment of the interest due thereon. County Attorney Harris wanted to know if the county was legally bound to pay the interest. Assistant Attorney General Gibson held that the county was bound to pay the interest upon proof being made by the innocent purchaser of his ownership of the bonds.

BLANTON UPSET

Abilene, Texas, Aug. 11.—Congressman Blanton today sent telegrams to numerous leaders throughout the country asserting that President Harding had summoned congress to take over the railroads. "This means national bankruptcy and a weak truckling to the autocratic unions far worse than when they forced the passage of the Adamson law," the message said.

GOVERNMENT WILL PROBE
THE CAUSE OF CANCER

Washington, Aug. 11.—The government is to begin an investigation into the causes of cancer, it was said Wednesday at the treasury.

Dr. J. W. Scherechewsky, assistant surgeon general of the public health service, officials said, has been designated to make the inquiry. The public health service, officials declared, will try to put cancer, which is responsible for one out of every eight deaths occurring after the age of 45, into the same category as typhus, malaria, pellagra and other diseases brought under control by government scientists.

FOR TEXAS RIVERS

Washington, Aug. 11.—A final allotment of the $35,000,000 appropriated by congress for the rivers and harbors improvements during the fiscal year 1923, made by the chief of army engineers, was announced by the War Department today. The allotment included for the Sabine-Neches canal, and the Neches river to Beaumont, $150,000.

A FINE SHOWING

Denton, Texas, Aug. 11.—The College of Industrial Arts at Denton has had a most successful summer session, matriculating over 700 Texas college girls. The summer session, covering a period of twelve weeks, will close with regular graduating exercises. The Rev. Robert Gibbs Mood, presiding elder of the North Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will preach the baccalaureate sermon Sunday, August 20, at 11 o'clock, and Senator Robert A. Stuart of Fort Worth will deliver the commencement address to the forty-seven graduates on Wednesday, August 24, at 10 o'clock.

Including the close of the regular session and of the summer session, the College of Industrial Arts will have conferred, during the present academic year, 147 bachelor's degrees, and issued 72 college vocational diplomas and certificates to its graduates, making a total of 219 in all. This number does not include about three hundred teachers' state certificates that were earned by the students of the college, and issued without further examination, by the state department of education at Austin.

The mass meeting of farmers and stockmen called at the courthouse at 2 p. m. Friday by the Nacogdoches County Livestock Association for the purpose of asking the commissioners court to reconsider its recent order to discontinue the tick eradication work in Nacogdoches county was attended by some 200 of the leading farmers and stockmen of the county.

The meeting was called to order by County Judge Marshall, who explained that, on the request of the Livestock Association, he had called a special meeting of the court to hear what the stockmen and farmers had to say regarding the matter. After a brief explanation of the court's attitude in the matter, Judge Marshall called Billie Wortham, president of the association, to the chair. Mr. Wortham called for expressions from a number of those present, among them County Judge-elect A. T. Russell, Andy Thompson, Frank Garrison, Belton Latimer, Henry Millard, Judge S. W. Blount, Eugene Blount, Judge J. M. Marshall and others. The sentiment expressed by these gentlemen was all in favor of the continuance of the eradication work.

At this point, H. L. McKnight, secretary of the livestock association, exhibited two petitions, one protesting against the tick eradication and signed by 130 people, the other asking the court to rescind its order and go ahead with eradication. This last petition carried the signatures of 876 of the leading citizens, taxpayers, stockmen and farmers of the county.

The chairman then called for Hon. J. E. Biog-Scott, chairman of the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas, who was present by request of the county livestock association. Mr. Biog-Scott explained in a very clear, forcible way that if Nacogdoches county wanted to keep her cattle ticks she would be obliged to keep her cattle also, since the authorities would be compelled under the law to quarantine the county. At this juncture, Prof. R. F. Davis made one of his characteristic speeches of progressive optimism, urging that the dipping be continued until the job is finally finished. It was plainly evident that Prof. Davis had voiced the real sentiment of the audience.

The chairman then called on each of the county commissioners present to state his position. Commissioner W. B. McKnight responded by stating that he had always favored dipping, and that in his opinion the work should continue. Commissioner A. B. Stoddard explained that personally he favored dipping, and that if it could be shown how the county could finance it, he would favor going ahead with the work. Commissioner F. N. Lyles followed Mr. Stoddard with about the same line of reasoning.

H. L. McKnight then offered a motion that the chairman name a committee of 10 citizens to meet with the court Monday to work out details of a financial plan to continue the work. At the suggestion of District Inspector A. B. Tumlin, this motion was amended to make it effective at once instead of Monday. The motion carried, and the chairman named the following committee:

Sid Smith, Holly Springs; T. E. Burgess, Nacogdoches; Geo. C. Reese, North Church; Frank Garrison, Garrison; Henry Millard, Nacogdoches; Belton Latimer, Garrison; E. H. Blount, Nacogdoches; A. P. Thompson, Melrose; S. W. Blount, Nacogdoches; T. J. Maroney, Nacogdoches.

Eugene Blount then stated that if the court would issue county warrants sufficient to meet the requirements, he would guarantee their sale. It had been pointed out by Judge S. W. Blount that the court had the right under the law to issue such warrants.

At this juncture Judge Marshall arose and stated that if any member of the court would offer a motion to reinstate the dipping order, it could be disposed of in quick order. Commissioner McKnight offered such a motion, but it was not finally passed until later when the meeting had adjourned and the court met in its accustomed place.

The temper of the people of the county concerning the whole matter is reflected in an order passed by the court authorizing the employment of private prosecution in all cases where complaints are filed for refusing or failure to dip. By this order the court has shown very clearly that so far as lies in its power, the cattle tick must be destroyed.

It was pointed out by several speakers, the cattle industry is the second largest industry in the county. To allow an industry of its importance to suffer serious handicap merely for the lack of a few thousand dollars, or, on the other hand, because a few individuals dislike to comply with the law, is certainly not justified under existing conditions.

The commissioners' court is to be congratulated and commended for its firm stand and for the vigorous policy that is to follow.

RECORD CROPS PROMISED

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 10.—With the exception of a light wheat crop, the year 1922 bids fair to go down as a prosperous one in the agricultural history of Texas, according to figures collected from various sources by the Research Department of the Texas Chamber of Commerce.

It is yet too early to predict the cotton crop, which, according to the best indications at present will be about 3,500,000 bales. Crops or more advanced season of harvest all bid fair to turn out well. The latest statistics approximating the production of Texas crops this year are as follows:

Corn, 122,000,000 bushels; wheat, 11,300,000 bushels; oats 41,000,000 bushels; barley, 1,800,000 bushels; rice, 5,300,000 bushels; all hay 1,000,000,000 bushels; grain sorghum, 55,000,000 bushels; potatoes 2,400,000 bushels; sweet potatoes, 9,100,000 bushels; rye, 144,000 bushels; apples, 209,000 bushels; peaches, 1,700,000 bushels; pears, 400,000 bushels; sorghum syrup 2,800,000 gallons; peanuts 113,000,000 pounds; broom corn, 15,000 tons.

Truck crops have done well this year, and indications are that final figures upon Texas production will closely approximate the following: Cabbage 3,638 carloads; cantaloupes, 125 carloads; mixed vegetables 1,800 carloads; tomatoes 1,650 carloads; watermelons 9,000 carloads; onions 4,800 carloads.

HIGHWAY BODY PLANS EAST TEXAS CAMPAIGN

From the Fort Worth Star Telegram, 10th.

The membership campaign of the Texas Highway Association will be carried to East Texas, according to W. T. Wheeler, secretary, who returned Thursday morning from Galveston, where the first convention of the association has just closed.

Wheeler plans to visit Nacogdoches, Center, Athens, Lufkin and Marshall. He is going at the invitation of H. L. McKnight, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. McKnight attended the convention at Galveston, and since returning home has created considerable interest in the work of the association, with the result that Wheeler was invited to come to East Texas and tell the people of that section of the association's plans.

After leaving Galveston, Wheeler stopped in Houston and enlisted the aid of city and county officials and obtained the indorsement of some of the civic organizations. A membership campaign probably will be conducted in Houston and Galveston in the near future, Wheeler stated Thursday.

Wheeler described the Galveston convention as one of the "snappiest and best" ever held in the state.

SUPPOSED MURDERED

Fort Worth, Texas, Aug. 14.—Three posers today are still engaged in a search of Eastland county for Hugh Maples, mail carrier and stage driver, who has been missing since Thursday and who is believed by the police to have been murdered. The only clew obtained was the report from Carbon that Maples' automobile was seen near there late Sunday.

Colds & Headache

"For years we have used Black-Draught in our family, and I have never found any medicine that could take its place," writes Mr. H. A. Stacy, of Bradyville, Tenn. Mr. Stacy, who is a Rutherford County farmer, recommends Black-Draught as a medicine that should be kept in every household for use in the prompt treatment of many little ills to prevent them from developing into serious troubles.

THEDFORD'S
BLACK-DRAUGHT

"It touches the liver and does the work," Mr. Stacy declared. "It is one of the best medicines I ever saw for a cold and headache. I don't know what we would do in our family if it wasn't for Black-Draught. It has saved us many dollars. . . . I don't see how any family can hardly go without it. I know it is a reliable and splendid medicine to keep in the house. I recommend Black-Draught highly and am never without it."

HARDING AND HUMAN NATURE

It may be that President Harding, who is reported discouraged by his failure to date as a mediator in the strike situation, expected to accomplish too much on the instant. However, his methods of procedure to which some of his critics have applied the term "wiggling and wobbling" are causing considerable unfavorable comment.

That he has been practically rejected by both sides in the railroad strike as a mediator is indeed a rather serious matter for the First Citizen of the land, but, in dealing with such a situation, full recognition must be given to the difficulty of mediating human nature in a conflict. No matter how wise a plan of settlement might be pointed out, there still are questions of pride of opinion and saving of faces to be taken into consideration. Disputes involving large numbers of persons on both sides, we are reminded again and again, are seldom, if ever, to be settled by a mere word from a human being.

Perhaps President Harding's disappointment over delays is keener on account of the pedestal he was placed upon by some of his campaign supporters in 1920 and the partisan attacks upon Wilson as if the latter should have made the world over with a word or two or a mere wave of the hand at the Paris peace conference. No account was taken by his critics of the fact that the Democratic president had to wrestle with the traditions of national ambitions of 40 peoples or more and speaking different languages. One should have found a way to make the representatives of all those varied people accept his views on the instant.

A Warren G. Harding, they would have us believe, could have done that. Naturally that set a severe standard for the new administration. Some expected it promptly to bring about the millennium. Certainly, in view of the picture drawn in 1920 of the manner in which Mr. Harding could tranquilize a world of nations, it was thought a small test of his power when he was called upon to mediate an industrial dispute in his own country. But this only brings out that human nature in the United States is the same as elsewhere, and that patience is required in this matter same as in a peace conference involving many nations.

AMERICA NOT REPRESENTED

Another important European conference is convened at London. Upon it, observers agree, depends future Anglo-French concord and the possibility that Germany may be "dragged back from the verge of bankruptcy." Again the United States is not represented, save by an unsympathetic ambassador, a man of prejudices, passions and eccentricities, who may look on, owl-like, and say nothing.

International statesmen are more emphatic every day in asserting that America's elected isolation hampers the cause of reconstruction throughout the world. James M. Cox, one of the best informed students of the League of Nations, after visiting many European countries, puts it concisely: "Europe is deadlocked, and an outside, unprejudiced power to break it. Our assistance would be appreciated by every interested power in Europe."

Are there still some who cry that our reward for participation as a balancing force in world affairs would be the brick-bats? It is probable that we are more likely to be the target if we remain aloof than if we help? Certainly if the London conference of today shall achieve substantial results we shall share no glory in them; if it fails we shall be blamed by many for that breakdown.

It is futile to say that Europe's affairs are none of our business. Europe's business was our business in 1917. And Europe's business is our business in 1922. It is far more profitable to interest ourselves in Europe's business to the extent of protecting peace than to the extent of ending a bloody war. It is cheaper to prevent fire than to put it out.

WHO STARTED THE STRIKE?

From the New York Herald. Whether it is a leader of the striking shop crafts or a leader of any other railway union, when he talks about the roads making a drive in this shop workers' strike to break up the rail unions he should take into account the fact that American people are not fools.

Who started this strike? There isn't a man, woman or child in the country that doesn't know who started it and who is still keeping it up to its last gasp.

The railroads did not put the shop workers out, did not want them to go out. The shop workers took themselves out—took themselves out on strike after a defiant ultimatum on the decision of the United States Railroad Labor Board. They went out against the orders of the United States Railroad Labor Board. They went out against the injunctions of the President of the United States.

On the very day the unions went out they could have gone back, not on the terms of the railroads, but under the decision of the United States Railroad Labor Board. The Board tried to get them to back, but they would not. They would not even confer with the board. The roads tried to get them to go back but they would not. They all could have gone back any time during several days following the strike, but they would not.

If they can not all go back now it is because the places of more than half, perhaps three-quarters, of the strikers have been filled, and the majority of the great railroads have pledged themselves not to throw out the men now on the job in places of the strikers. The roads have pledged themselves to preserve the seniority rights and other privileges and the benefit of those men now on the jobs. And the roads could not betray these men and throw them out or sacrifice them in any way to the strikers, who were not forced out, but who insisted on going out against all efforts to keep them in—the roads could not sacrifice these and loyal workers without staining their own honor and outraging American sentiment. So there isn't room now for all the strikers to go back.

But the striking shopmen are still free to go back into as many vacancies as as yet remain. They still can go back, not on the wage scales and working conditions fixed by the railroads, but on the wage scales and working conditions handed down in that decision of the United States Railroad Labor Board. Those for whom there is room can go back as members of their unions.

Such strikers as could be taken back would go back, it is true, with their labor organizations shattered as to numbers. But that would not be the work of the railroads. It would be the work of the unions which so badly ripped up their own organization by going out and staying out until the great bulk of the places had been filled permanently by others.

When the unions were in their places under the decision of the United States Railroad Labor Board nobody except themselves could have put them out, and under those decisions of the board nobody except themselves could have broken up their organizations. But if they wait until all, or nearly all, the vacancies are filled it is a fact that their organizations will be broken up, will be utterly destroyed—destroyed by themselves.

Neither labor union leaders nor intervening, intriguing politicians can fool the clear-headed American public about these hard facts and plain truths. They might as well give up trying to fool the clear-headed American public about them. If they want to do something for the strikers, let them quit spreading palpable falsehoods and get the strikers back to work, those that still can be taken back, before it is too late for any of them to be taken back.

THE STUDENT LOAN FUND

Austin, Texas, Aug. 16.—Showing the value of the student loan funds to help shorten the educational road for ambitious students, a report was recently made by the Students' Memorial Fund of the University of Texas. Seventy students have been aided by this fund during the past session. In addition, through special small loan funds, or scholarship funds handled by the ex-students' association, ten other students were aided. Including the special funds, $10,463.54, all in loans, were advanced to the students.

"It is gratifying to know," said Mr. John A. Lomax, secretary of the association, "that during the year $6,027.06 were paid back into this fund by the former students of the university who had received loans, and that, in addition, $792.60 were received in interest payments. Much of this money had not been out over two years, some of it not more than one year. To have it so quickly and satisfactorily returned is ample proof that a revolving fund is being started, and that the benefits may be shared by a constantly increasing number of individuals."

The Banita Lumber Company's plant, which has been in litigation for some time, was purchased Monday by Mr. Sam Hayter. Details of the transaction could not be obtained Tuesday.

EAST TEXAS INSTITUTE

The East Texas Teachers' Institute, composed of the five counties of Shelby, Nacogdoches, Angelina, San Augustine and Sabine, will meet in the high school building at Center September 4 to 8, inclusive. The superintendents for the several counties are: Shelby, W. M. Chandler; Nacogdoches, Miss E. Maud Lewis; Angelina, W. A. O'Quinn, Jr.; San Augustine, W. E. Matthews; Sabine, O. P. Pate.

Purpose and Organization
The purpose of this institute is to furnish a short Normal College Course to the teachers in attendance. The organization of the institute and the courses offered lend themselves to this purpose.

The courses are definite and given by specialists. College standards will be maintained throughout.

The last hour each day will be Superintendent's Hour. The County and Independent District Superintendents will meet with their teachers, and will be responsible for the work of the hour and for attendance of teachers.

Instructors and Courses

Miss Nina Glass, Waco City Schools, Waco, Texas, Primary Methods.

Mr. Lynton Garrett, George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., Intermediate Methods.

Mr. A. W. Birdwell, Stephen F. Austin Normal College, Nacogdoches, Texas, High School Methods, School Management.

A. W. Birdwell, Conductor.

Suggestions as to Courses

Each teacher must enroll for a course of methods and should choose one other; that is, teachers of grades 1 to 3 inclusive should take primary methods; teachers of grades 4 to 7 inclusive should take intermediate methods; high school teachers should take high school methods. The courses in rural school methods and rural leadership should be chosen by rural school teachers; courses in Psychology and the Psychology of reading may be chosen by all classes of teachers. Intermediate teachers especially will find the course of Reading given by Dr. Gray very attractive and helpful.

School Management I will be arranged for those who have never taught, or who have taught only one year; School Management II for those who have taught for more than one year.

ALAZAN FOR BETTER ROADS

A committee of leading citizens from points on the Lower Douglass road appeared before the Commissioners' Court Monday afternoon, to request that the 30c road tax by property owners be set aside specifically to be expended in road and bridge work on that road.

The committee was composed of W. L. Harrison, Jeff Munday, W. N. Beck, J. A. Tindall, J. L. Hodges, W. J. Christopher, W. P. Norton, A. J. Johnson, Dr. W. T. Castleberry and J. N. Roberts.

The committee asked Secretary McKnight of the chamber of commerce to present their case to the court. Secretary McKnight was assisted by Frank Sharp and Sam Stripling.

After stating the case to the court, and after an explanation by Judge Marshall to the effect that 14 1-2 cents of the regular 30 cent road and bridge tax had been set aside to take care of the $200,000 deficiency warrants issued to complete the highway contracts, leaving only 15 1-2 cents for road and bridge maintenance.

ance, and after some further discussion, the request of the citizens committee was made a matter of record on the minutes of the court.

The spokesman for the committee then proposed a plan whereby the citizens on the Lower Douglass road and the county road forces "get together" and work the road.

The citizens committee and the court readily agreed to co-operate in the undertaking. The following agreement was entered into, and, as a result, it is confidently believed that this neglected section of our roads will be greatly improved.

The agreement follows: Nacogdoches, Texas, Aug. 15. 19 Nacogdoches, Texas, Aug. 14, 1922.

We, the undersigned, hereby agree to donate the amount of work or labor or money, set opposite our respective signatures, same to be used or put on the Lower Douglass Road. We do this in consideration of the Commissioners' Court promise and agreement to place the county teams now in Mr. Lyles' precinct on the Lower Douglass Road, to be used in connection with the labor and money here subscribed.

Messrs. Oscar Matthews, Ellis Ivy, Josh Henson, J. W. Byrd and Giles Haltom were guests Thursday night at a fish supper given by R. T. Weaver at Valley Queen. It is said no one in this country can cook fish to compare with Mr. Weaver, and on this occasion he surpassed himself. The "boys" reached home just before daylight Friday morning in a state of repletion with mud cat and corn pone, and all say they had the time of their lives. It was great.

ARE THE BOOSTERS OF ANY VALUE TO OUR COMMUNITY?

There are those chronic GRIPERS who would answer the above in the negative. But, as an enthusiastic citizen, I am persuaded that one can not lay too much stress on the affirmative answer.

When we look back over a short period of only about five months and compare the outstanding workings of this splendid organization, composed as it is of the thriving manly manhood of our town, who unselfishly adapt themselves to the local conditions with a view of improving the moral and living spirit of our town, we can only realize what we have missed by not encouraging such organizations years ago.

There are some of us who realize that the responsibility of better citizenship, improved living, educational and moral conditions rests on the generation represented by this body of young men and it is selfish and inhuman that we do not lend our hearty co-operation and encouragement to them in every undertaking.

Of course, there are those who will kick—some people will kick after the last breath of life is drawn from them—but listen: Nacogdoches is not the place for a KICKER; if you can't boost there is one of two things for you to do. ie. First, you may go into your hole and pull all your influence and belongings in with you. Second, you can put out the fire, grab your bird cage, call the dogs and move away. The time has come for us to unite with these young men and to give them a chance. THEY are willing to do the work with no compensation—aren't you willing to lend them your co-operation and encouragement?

Take the wonderful work they did in the paint-up and clean-up campaign, which made the old town look better, a more sanitary place in which to live. It never costs us much, only a little energy—and it made our visitors take notice.

Then again: They moved the sore eye from us—something that has marred the looks of Main street for years and years; the old awnings that hung on the south side of Main street are being removed and a uniform awning built that is a credit to any modern city.

Then again: They are asking you to do something that won't hurt but will help the looks of your own home and your own premises—remove the old wooden fences, mow the lawns and cut the weeds.

What more can we ask of a bunch of young men of this type?

Let us trust that these young men will instill into the young generation that is to follow them the same pluck and energy that they have in them.

Now in behalf of numbers and numbers of the best citizens of this good town, we wish to thank "YOU BOOSTERS" for the good you have done, and may your good work continue.

CAR STOLEN

A Ford car belonging to Mr. Fred Wilson of the Frost-Johnson Lumber Company was stolen from Ysleta Lake Monday night and up to noon Tuesday no trace of it had been found, though officers were making a diligent search.

Officers are hot on the trail of a man named A. C. McSpadden, who hails from Zavalla, and who is accused of stealing the car. It was found where he had camped near town, and it was also ascertained he had loaded his camping outfit into the machine and took a course westward. Descriptions of the car and of McSpadden, his wife and 18-months-old baby have been broadcasted and it is thought to be only a question of time when they will be located.

TURKEY PEAK— CENTER OF TEXAS

Editor Sentinel:

Last Sunday I spent with some Brownwood friends on Turkey Peak, said to be the exact geographical center of Texas. This peak or spur, which juts out from a series of hills, has an elevation of 2,000 feet and from its summit with the aid of good field glasses a vast stretch of country may be seen, including the counties of Brown, Hamilton, Comanche, Mills, San Saba, Lampasas, Callahan, and Eastland. Turkey Peak is almost on the line between Mills and Brown counties and is about equidistant between Brownwood and Goldthwaite being about 18 miles from either place. Old-timers say the Indians used to keep sentinels on this peak who with keen eyes swept the country continually and gave the alarm in case of the approach of an enemy, or of a movers' caravan, which they generally plundered or stampeded the stock at night. On top of the peak in many places a small bush covered with spines grows and produces a small red fruit which looks very much like one of the large red haws of Nacogdoches county, although it is brighter and sweeter, and which is called Algerita berry. These berries make jelly of a most exquisite flavor and are gathered out here in large quantities for that purpose. In the rock clefts and caves po'cats and rattlesnakes are plentiful, while prairie dog towns and coyote wolves are found in large numbers in many places. It may seem strange, but it is true that at this late date coyote wolves are so numerous in many Central West Texas counties that stock-raisers have organized wolf clubs and have periodical hunts to keep the pest down as much as possible. The jack-rabbit is also a great pest, and when I came here three years ago great rabbit drives were organized to herd the pest into large wire pens and kill them. Few East Texas people ever saw a rabbit drive. Think of seeing 10,000 mule-eared rabbits in one vast herd covering a thousand acres and extending along a front of ten miles, where men and boys, yelling, hooting, blowing horns, beating tin pans and making all kinds of noise possible to keep the animals on a move until they are driven between two long wire fence-wings into a pen that does not cover more than two acres. Then the killing begins and what a slaughter. Men and boys with sticks enter the pen and strike right and left. The animals become frantic and try to escape by leaping the fence, but it is too high and they fall back to be met with a club. Often it happens that wolves and wildcats are rounded up in the rabbit drive, but on reaching the pen they immediately scale the fence and escape into the chaparral. In the drive the western bird known as chaparral cock is numerous, running, dodging, skipping here and there and finally slinking away among the thorny cactus stalks or huisache bushes where it could not be followed. The chaparral cock is the natural enemy of the poultry raiser; of these birds will destroy more eggs than fifty hens can lay, seemingly having no other design except to eat its fill and then break every egg in sight. Quail in the west have been practically exterminated by these pests finding the nests and destroying the eggs.

TO OUR FARMERS

The Nacogdoches Truck Growers' Association, now in progress of organization, will hold its third meeting at the courthouse Saturday, August 19th at 2 p. m.

Many of the best farmers of our county have attended these meetings and have agreed to plant tomatoes, and other truck crops next season. We ask each man who has attended our previous meetings to be with us again Saturday and to bring his neighbors with him.

We are not attempting or offering any get-rich-quick schemes. We have made a careful investigation of the condition of some of our neighboring communities where trucking forms a sensible part of the cropping system. We find that diversified farming has paid elsewhere. It will pay here. We have the land to produce early tomatoes and other truck crops. We have railroad facilities for shipping.

Don't wait for "George" to do it. Come to this meeting and help your neighbors and farmer friends organize a real business-like growers' association.

Yours truly,
T. J. Lloyd,
Temporary President, Truck Growers' Association.

OLD NORTH CHURCH

To the Sentinel:

Old North Church is said to be the first Baptist church erected in Texas. It has survived so long I come making a plea that we be proud enough of her to want a building placed where she now stands that the world, as it passes her doors, will know Baptists have helped make old Texas what she is today, a land of Christian freedom, a place 'tis safe to wend one's way to God's house and worship, according to the dictates of our hearts and none dare molest.

Will We?

Dear Old Church who has stood the storms of summers and snow of winters for lo, these many years! I would to God I could tell you what you mean to us today. Though now you are small and mean-looking to passers-by, to us who have struggled on from year to year you are sacred and grand. Some day ere long we shall tear away those old worn walls and on the pillars beneath we shall build a house worthy of the name you bear. It shall be of brick and stone, in memory of all workers gone on to rest. We will face you about and plant vines at your door and then in white letters about your tall steeple we will place your name. And on your bosom a plate you shall wear giving your age and names of your founders. Why shouldn't you lift up your head and bedeck yourself in grand array? Why should you not be admired in all the splendor of any place of memory in our old state? Wake up, oh ye children of Old North Church; bring forth the robe and let's dress her in purple and gold; let's remember our children's children will want to worship at her shrine. Now while we live let's get busy and not spare cash or labor. God will be pleased; our children will point back with pride.

RESOLUTIONS CONCERNING RAILROAD STRIKE

Whereas, The Railroad Labor Board, duly created by the Congress of the United States after an exhaustive investigation participated in by all the interests of the nation, having jurisdiction over all disputes between common carriers engaged in interstate commerce and their employees, handed down a decision fixing the wages and hours of certain classes of labor; and,

Whereas, Certain employees have refused to accept such wages and conditions and have left the service of the companies by which they were employed; and, notwithstanding warnings from the Labor Board and railway officials, have refused to return to their posts within a certain specified time, following which the carriers proceeded to employ new men to fill the vacancies thereby created; and

Whereas, The Association of Railway Executives meeting held in New York on August 1st rejected a proposal advanced by the President of the United States contemplating that former employees be reinstated with full seniority rights, which proposal in our opinion did not give proper consideration to the rights of their present employees; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Texas Chamber of Commerce commends the action of the railway executives in protecting the interests of the public, the employees who have remained loyal and the service and the new employees who have entered the service under promise of protection and permanent employment to fill vacancies caused by the refusal of certain former employees to accept and abide by the decisions of the Labor Board; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Texas Chamber of Commerce favors upholding the decisions and orders of the duly constituted authorities of the government and the purposes and intentions of the laws of the land. Be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States, the senators and congressmen from Texas, and to the press.

EAST HAMILTON VAT BLOWN UP SATURDAY NIGHT

It is reported that the dipping vat near East Hamilton was blown up Saturday night. This makes some seven vats that have been destroyed in this county within the last several weeks; five of them being in the eastern part of the county and two in the Eagle Mills community.

So far there has been no arrests made in the matter, though the reports have been made. It is said that action will be taken at the proper time.—Center Champion, 9th.

WANT A LOCATION

G. H. Dungan, formerly of Jacksonville, now of San Augustine and G. M. Wilburn of San Augustine were here Friday prospecting with a view of getting into the trucking industry another year.

Mr. Dungan has grown tomatoes for 18 years and Mr. Wilburn has had two years' experience in the business.

Mr. Wilburn has three boys old enough to do good farm work and would like to rent about 35 or 40 acres of good farm land. He has his own teams, tools, etc., also three good milk cows. Mr. Wilburn can give A-1 references from the best people of San Augustine.

Mr. Dungan is a middle-aged man without family, but comes well recommended.

There is no foretelling just how many young people will be killed in the auto smash which is sure to come unless the reckless driving now prevalent on North street and the road beyond the city limits is stopped. The practice is idiotic and dangerous, and shows no particular "smartness" on the part of the foolhardy perpetrators. When you are lifting the broken bodies of half a dozen or more girls and boys from the wreckage some fine night, don't say you have not been cautioned. Parents are foolish to allow their daughters to take these night auto rides, anyway.

FARM BUREAU SIGN UP MILLION BALES

First Advance on Cotton to be $50.00 per Bale. Start Move for Big Warehouse

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 11.—Having done $8,777,799.12 worth of business in its first year the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association decided here at a statewide convention of 300 cotton farmers to put on a membership campaign to sign up 1,000,000 bales of cotton. The campaign started August 7 in South Texas and is moving north to the border, taking as much time as is necessary.

The decision to wage a campaign was made amidst much enthusiasm after a two day session during which farmers from all parts of Texas investigated the workings of the first year of their cotton association. President John T. Orr and the board of 21 directors, all of whom are dirt farmers living and working on farms, outlined plans for more growth of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

Secretary J. W. L. Hall of New Boston says that the campaign will depend very much on local support so as to keep down expenses. An advance of $50.00 a bale will be made when bank draft is attached to the bill of lading. Another check will be sent the farmer as soon as his cotton is classed.

The Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association was organized September 1, 1921, receiving its first cotton one week later. Texas was one of the first states to market cotton co-operatively, the others being Oklahoma, Arizona, Mississippi, Arkansas, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Alabama. Texas, however, signed less than 20 percent of its cotton, or 600,000 bales.

Starting with no friends, the young organization now numbers among its supporters the War Finance Corporation, the Federal Reserve Bank, many leading local banks, A. & M. College of Texas and many newspapers. Large quarters have been rented, the clerical force has been improved and increased. A field service under Mr. Hall will be maintained permanently for the information, aid and service of its members. An expert corps of cotton classifiers have been employed. Relations have been established with cotton co-operatives of other states through the American Cotton Growers Exchange. Very advantageous contracts have been secured for the handling and storing of cotton. Financial arrangements have been made which include banks' acceptances, some of which last year were as low as 4 percent. A loan of $9,000,000 has been negotiated with the War Finance Corporation at a low rate. This was all asked for. F. F. Florence, vice president of the Republic National Bank of Dallas, says that the association's finances are so sound that the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association can command enough money to finance every bale of cotton in America.

Mrs. H. M. His death several years ago was a source of regret to his numerous friends, and the visit of his estimable wife, who was equally as popular as he, and daughters to their old home will be fraught with much pleasure to them and to a large circle of acquaintances.—Lufkin News, 9th.

RIBBON CANE GROWERS HOLD MEET AT LUFKIN

Several representatives of cane growers from the ribbon cane growing counties of East Texas met in Lufkin Thursday and were entertained by the Chamber of Commerce.

W. M. Hall, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, delivered the address of welcome and M. E. Hays of the Texas Farm Bureau responded. The 30 cane growing counties were divided into 14 districts, and the intention now is to locate ultimately a concentration plant for the manufacture of ribbon cane syrup in each district. Lufkin will secure the first plant and will be ready for this season's crop. The cane growing counties have signed up to produce at least 250,000 gallons each season, and of that amount Angelina county has signed up for 105,000 gallons.

RICE PREPARING FOR BIGGEST YEAR IN HISTORY

Rice is making preparation for what appears to be one of the best years in the history of the school. Incidentally, the school is beginning the second ten-year period of its existence. The past ten years have been crowded with achievements which have placed Rice among the first universities of the country in point of view of scholarship. Also during this short period Rice has taken her place in the front rank of colleges of the Southwest in the matter of inter-collegiate sports, putting out teams which, in spite of her high scholarship requirements, have been the very successful rivals of schools all over the South that were many years older and many times her size. The large attendance which crowded the Rice classrooms to the doors last year will supply a greater number of old students than usual and present indications are that, in spite of hard times, the Freshman class will be well filled up. Practically all of the rooms in the Rice dormitories have been reserved and the officials are urging students to send in their applications early in order to be able to provide for all and be able to avoid the fall rush.

LISTENING IN

Wednesday night the radio set of Jack Reavley and Ceson Mast worked exceptionally well. Eight stations were heard and all of these were very loud and clear. There were several listening and all of them were greatly enthused over what a home-made radio could accomplish. Two sets of amplifiers had just been added, and this made the signals very loud. A small Victrola horn was used for a loud speaker and strange to say the signals were heard throughout the room. The stations that were heard from are as follows: K S D, The St. Louis Post Dispatch; W S B, The Atlanta Journal, Atlanta, Ga.; W A S, Jackson, Tenn.; W D A F, The Kansas City Star, Kansas City, Mo.; W E A U, Shreveport, La.; W A A P, The Wichita Broadcasting Station, Wichita, Kansas; W A A O, Radio Service Co., Charleston, W. Va.; and W E A H, also at Wichita, Kansas.

This set was made by Jack Reavley. He has been in the radio game for a year and a half and has a government license to operate a transmitting station. So he hopes to install a 500 mile set.

The best music that was heard was from Wichita, Kan. Alex. Charleston, W. Va., came in. The distance to Charleston is 900 miles. We believe that this is the best set in town.

All those who are interested in radio are invited to call on Mast's home.

At the normal held last week for colored teachers there were 30 examinations for second-grade and one for first-grade certificates. Miss Lewis, county superintendent of schools, stated that these applicants made a much better showing than the colored teachers applying for examinations last year.

RADIO POWER TO RUN AUTOS, SAY EXPERTS

Having unquestionably demonstrated the practicability of transmitting the voice hundreds of miles through the air without wires, radio engineers are now turning their attention toward solving the problem of transmitting electrical power without the use of metallic connecting mediums.

Should they be successful the following are possibilities of the future:

1. Gigantic radio power stations supplying hundreds of thousands of electrical horsepower to machines of industry many miles away.

2. Abolition of the use of gasoline for automobiles—electrical fuel to be supplied for engines from central stations.

3. Universal use of electricity in place of coal for all purposes. The step of sending power by radio is not nearly so great as that which first gave the means of receiving radio impulses, such as in wireless telegraphy.

Just as roads wear out with the steady pounding of trucks and automobiles over their surfaces, so do wires wear out from the constant friction of electricity. The Atlantic cable is a case in point. Obviously it can not last forever.

Another need for the harnessing of radio power to the machines of the world is the shortage of coal, made more acute by the strike. While authorities differ on just how great a supply there is in the United States leading mine operators have declared that the present supply cannot possibly last for more than 100 years. To date no system has been developed that will permit the transmission of power wirelessly without enormous loss. That is because a directional system has not been perfected. Energy must flow in a narrow stream through the air, which is in contradiction to the present method of broadcasting electrical energy in all directions. Guglielmo Marconi is known to be working on a plan whereby the electrical energy can be concentrated and sent in one direction and only one. He claims that he now can send radio messages in one direction and only one.

While the famous Italian inventor has veiled his research along these lines in utmost secrecy, it may be presumed that he has worked out a plan whereby an air lane is created for carrying electrical energy, this energy being enveloped to reduce waste in the city to a minimum.

It has been said that there is enough electricity in a green pea to supply the world with mechanical power for 1,000 years. The difficulty comes in harnessing that power.

Hundreds of thousands of homes are now kept warm by central heating plants. What makes this heat so expensive is the costly underground pipe system which is necessary. When radio power can be flashed in to individual homes without the use of pipes or wires of any kind the cost will be trifling compared to the average family's coal bill at present.

Because of the similarity of magnetism and electricity the problem seems to be not so much one of sending the radio power accurately in one certain direction as one of reducing waste to a minimum. Powerful magnets have a dominating influence on electricity, and experiments now being made to send radio power are attempting to link them together. Magnets might be used to attract power to the receiving station from the sending station.

Imagine the comfort of automobilizing, knowing that it would be impossible to run out of "gasoline." Just as long as your device for receiving radio power is in working order, that's all the worry one need have.

Millions of dollars are spent yearly in "white coal," harnessing water power to keep the wheels of industry a-whirling.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION AND THE PRESS.

(Editorial from Fort Worth Star Telegram, July 31, 1922.)

G. I. Christie, director of extension of Purdue University, Indiana's agricultural college, of Lafayette, Ind., and a man who is doing a wonderful work toward increasing the corn production per acre in Indiana, and in many other ways promoting better farming in that state, made a significant statement in an address before the Farmers' Short Course at the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College Friday.

"When it becomes popular to make light of higher education," he said, "a dangerous symptom has arisen and it is time for those who know the practical value of education to arouse themselves to the point of making such an attitude unpopular."

While Mr. Christie may not have known it, he put his finger on one of the most dangerous symptoms of the times in Texas when he made that declaration. The spirit that ruled the legislature when the appropriations for the two year period through which we are now passing were before it was one that "made light of higher education." In consequence the work of all of our state institutions has been crippled during the coming year. There has arisen in Texas a type of office seeker who has found it popular among a certain class to ridicule everything that relates to higher education, and too frequently men and women who do not agree with such tactics have nevertheless voted for such candidates. It is truly time, as Mr. Christie says, "for those who know the practical value of education to arouse themselves to the point of making such an attitude unpopular."

It must be confessed, however, that much of the popular distrust of higher education, especially agricultural education, is due to lack of proper information about it. And to some degree, at least, this in turn is due to the fact that the work of the state institution, of the extension service and of the experiment stations, is not kept properly before the people by the daily and weekly newspapers of the state. This does not apply alone to the work of the institutions, but to agriculture itself. Half the people of Texas live on farms and ranches, and yet the activities of these people and the news relating to their industry, the most important in the state, are not presented understandingly and sympathetically by a great majority of the publications printed in Texas.

It is because of this situation that one of the most hopeful signs of the times is the launching of the Texas Agricultural Writers' Association. This body was organized at a private conference of the Agricultural & Mechanical College during the past week. The conference itself was a most important one and of great profit to those who participated in it. Incidentally it went on record unanimously in favor of a mill tax for the support of the state educational institutions and the public free schools and recommended the establishment of courses in agricultural journalism at the college. But the launching of the organization and the decision to hold an annual conference at the college were of great import to the future and much good can be expected to come of it. Every editor of a newspaper in a community depending upon farmers for support should participate in the movement which the association has started. Its ideal is to improve the methods of presenting matter of interest to the farmer and the conference last week proved beyond a doubt the great progress which such discussion can bring about in this respect.

The farmers can be depended upon to support everything that is in their interest, provided they know that it is in their interest. Ignorant opposition to higher education is due to a lack of such knowledge and nothing which has happened recently, it seems to us, gives greater promise of supplying this knowledge and eradicating this ignorant opposition to higher education than the organization of the Texas Agricultural Writers' Organization.

L. N. Coule, foreman of the Red Flat Lumber Company's mill near Nat, about 15 miles west of Nacogdoches, was the victim of a serious accident Friday morning and had a remarkably narrow escape from a fatal hurt. It is said he was passing the trimmer saw and stopped and leaned under to remove an obstruction, when the saw moved and his head was painfully gashed, though, fortunately, the skull was not penetrated. The injured man was rushed to town and at 11:20, and surgical treatment was administered. Unless complications arise, it is thought the hurt will not prove dangerous. The cut in the head is about six inches long.

SIMPSON AND RAMBIN WERE GRANTED BAIL

From the Tenaha Optimist. Elsewhere in this week's paper will be found a clipping from the Nacogdoches Daily Sentinel which reports that Jess Ramin and Alfred Simpson, who are under indictment for the murder of Dr. Parrish and for robbery by firearms, the latter charge having been filed after they had been granted bail in the former, had been refused bail by Esquire Frank Huston and remanded to jail.

Counsel for the defendants carried the matter to Judge L. D. Quinn on habeas corpus Friday afternoon and bail was granted, $7,500 for Ramin and $5,000 for Simpson, which, we understand, they made and were released.

The case was submitted on the testimony introduced at former trials, and seems to have been handled in a very quiet way, none of the relatives here being apprised of the proceedings and not learning of it through other sources until two days later.

The Optimist also learns that Hon. S. H. Sanders of Center has been employed to assist with the prosecution in further proceedings that come up.

THE FIRST BALE

The first bale of the 1922 cotton crop reaching Nacogdoches was brought in by Mr. W. C. Thomas from his farm about half-way between Melrose and Chireno and auctioned off Tuesday by Secretary H. L. McKnight of the Chamber of Commerce. The bale weighed 500 pounds and was bid in by Hal K. Brown & Company for twenty-five cents per pound. A premium of $47.50, subscribed by the business and professional men of the city, also was earned by Mr. Thomas, making the total for this bale $172.50. A further sum was subscribed to a further sum of $25 was subscribed as a premium for the second bale coming to this market. Mr. Thomas said he would go home, pick and gin another bale, bring it in right away and get this premium, too.

Mr. Thomas has 25 acres planted to cotton, and from this expects to get at least 12 bales. His neighbors say he will get considerably more than that. It is land which has been in continuous cultivation for 42 years, and this crop was grown without fertilizer of any kind. He was born and reared on the farm he is now cultivating, and has never resided elsewhere. His success he attributes to the thorough cultivation he gives his crops. He is not afraid of work.

Enginer Brown and crew are now at work making a survey of the city for the proposed street and sidewalk improvement measure recently launched upon petition of the Boosters and Chamber of Commerce.
