OLD FIDLERS ARE INVITED TO LUFKIN
 Spicy Letter of Invitation Written By President Poston To All Fiddlers.

Lufkin News, 19th.
 The greatest musical thrill since Nero, with fiddle and bow, sat on a cypress stump just within the gates of Rome, is promised by Pres. W. S. Poston and Sec. C. A. Burke of the East Texas Fiddlers Association, to all who attend the old fiddlers' contest to be staged in the basement of the Lufkin high school on the night of Tuesday, October 9. In a very spicy letter of invitation, which is being mailed out to the old fiddlers of East Texas, Mr. Poston emphasizes in his own, inimitable manner the import of the event.

The letter of invitation is as follows:
 "By that tooth, not by own horn, it will not be toothed" (The Spectator in Politics, page 6060).

"He that sitteth down on a red hot stove shall surely rise again" (Automatic Resurrection, page 1).

There is a great aggregation of food for thought in the above quotation, but here we might add another well known quotation, which is, "He that heareth the fiddlers in a contest on October 9th, 1923, and piffeth not his foot is paralyzed." Yes sir, as the evening sun kisses the western hills good-night on October 9th, the genuine fiddlers of East Texas Fiddlers Association will be gathered in the city of Lufkin, Texas, under the auspices of the Angelina County Fair, all ready, willing and anxious to give their hearers the greatest musical thrill that has been experienced since Nero, with fiddle and bow, sat on a cypress stump just within the gates of Rome and by his ability as a fiddler brought forth enough tears from his hearers to subdue the raging flames that were fast consuming the ancient city. In this contest there will be no violin performers, no violin artists, but fiddlers will play their fiddles and the sweet strains that float on the evening tide will be taken up by radio and carried to the uttermost parts of the world, yes, even to Nacogdoches.

"Sallie Got a Wooden Leg," "Sallie Gooden," "Soap Suds," "Over the Fence," "Leather Breeches," "Polly Put the Kettle On," "Cotton Eyed-Joe," "Run, Nigger, Run," "Sallie Johnson," "Fisher's Hornpipe," in fact, all of the old soul stirring tunes of long ago will be heard to the satisfaction of all, even the most leather eared grouch that can be found. So get ready. Appropriate prizes will be given.

W. S. Poston, Pres.
 C. A. Burke, Sec.

County Treasurer J. F. Floyd remitted $27,572.50 Saturday morning as interest for six months on the county's outstanding warrants.

FEDERAL ACTION AGAIN LOOMS

Houston Post.
 Returning from his visit to the White House, Representative Dyer of Missouri announces that he will shortly lay before the president a brief of proposed legislation to enable the Federal government to curb the crime of lynching.

Presumably, if the president assents, Mr. Dyer will reintroduce in substantially the same form his anti-lynching bill which the democrats talked to death in the last session.

The political motive behind the Missouri representative's proposal is readily apparent, and it will make a strong appeal to the republican party strategists. The rapid increase in the negro population in the North makes it incumbent on the party to make definite advances to the negro voters in the doubtful States. Negro sentiment is solidified against the lynching evil for the reason that so many negroes have been the victims of mob violence. It need not be surprising if the party in power makes another desperate effort to put over an anti-lynching bill on the eve of the national election.

But that is only one side of the movement for Federal intervention in lynching cases. What sentiment there is for Federal action has resulted chiefly from the failure of the States to act for themselves in suppressing mob violence. Opposition to the bill in the last congress was based almost entirely on the claim that such a law would invade the rights of the States. The outcome of the contest was, the States were given another chance.

It can not be said that the States have improved greatly their opportunity. Though the lynching of negroes has declined somewhat during the past year, mob violence on the whole has increased. States North and South, East and West, have been disgraced by rioting and mob attacks, until the question of the supremacy of the constituted authorities in their prerogative to administer justice is pressing for an answer in many parts of the country.

When congress reassembles and the anti-lynching bill is again introduced, even the States' rights contenders will be faced with the undeniable fact that the States have neglected lamentably, with few exceptions, to take effective action against the growing evil of mob violence. Against a condition they will be able to offer only a theory.

The president has indicated his respect for the doctrine of States' rights, it is true, but as The Post has pointed out, he has coupled with it his insistence that the States accept corresponding responsibilities. Having failed in their responsibility to suppress the mobs, there is little reason to expect the president to discourage anti-lynching legislation, when party welfare will be served by it, and when there is some ground for believing that national welfare also will be served by it.

REV. HUB B. DELAY.

Brother DeLay writes to Rev. E. Gerard Cooke a very interesting letter in which he says that his health is much improved. He writes from Sulphur, Oklahoma. He is, he says, having the hardest battle of his life. The governor of the state and the people are having a battle royal, and DeLay is trying to cure the strife and hatred. Twelve churches are in the Hub DeLay Revival, and Hub says he is bombarding with forty-two centimeter guns. They are getting, we suppose, "Nobody at home"; and "You have got no sense". They are having big crowds in the City Hall. He is not quite better yet; still weak. Nacogdoches loves him and will be glad to hear that he is still fighting the good fight.

A count of the automobiles which pass through Main street at a prominent corner was made the other night. It was found that they were passing at the rate of 60 every five minutes. Traffic on our streets seems to have increased very much in the last few months. With an auto passing every 12 seconds the pedestrian must watch his step. The streets of Nacogdoches do not lend themselves easily to handling a big volume of traffic and the time is soon coming when we will have to install the systems which are used in the large cities.

JOURNALISM SCHOOL HEAD SELECTED

A. F. Henning Will Have Charge Of Department at S. M. U.

Dallas News, 19th.

The head of the department of journalism for the coming year at Southern Methodist University will be A. F. Henning, now financial editor of the Dallas News. The selection was made at a meeting Monday of the executive committee of the board of trustees. Dr. C. C. Seleman, president of the university, made the announcement.

Mr. Henning has been in the newspaper business thirty-five years and with the exception of one year all his work has been on Texas papers. He was with the Associated Press in Memphis, Tenn., for one year. For the past eleven years Mr. Henning has been with The News.

When the department of journalism was organized at S. M. U. in 1921 Mr. Henning was loaned by The News to the university. Last year the department was under the direction of Renfro Knickerbocker, who was given a leave of absence to study abroad. Mr. Henning will have full charge of the department, which offers both introductory and advanced work in newspaper writing. He will devote his entire time to the work beginning with the opening of S. M. U. Oct. 1.

Mr. Henning formerly resided in Nacogdoches, being for a number of years editor of the Nacogdoches Plaindealer. He is a good man and deserves all the nice things that may be said about him. He was very popular here both as a newspaper man and a citizen. His sister, Miss Lula, also well known here, married Dr. Pierce Rawlinson, a Nacogdoches county boy. Both are dead. Some of our older citizens retain pleasant recollections of the family.

A WANDERING BOY IS LOVED BY MOTHER

Center Champion, 19th.

Last week a lone bandit, a young man said to be between 20 and 25 years of age, robbed a bank at Mooringsport, La. He got away with something like $4,000 and came into Texas. At Marshall he was crowded so close by officers who were seeking his capture, until he took his own life. The money was found and will be turned back to the bank. The body was returned to Louisiana and held in an undertaking parlor until relatives finally identified him. In giving an account of the many visitors to the undertaker's parlors, the following is taken from the story in the Journal and shows how relatives and loved ones will cling to a wandering boy, even though he goes wrong and becomes connected with deep crime:

"In the crowds that have visited the undertaker were many women who have absent sons, brothers or husbands. Each yearned that the unknown dead might be her own, yet anxious to know even the worst. Once, Wednesday afternoon, an unidentified woman, gazing at the cold, still form of the dead stranger, uttered a piercing scream. She was soon lost in the crowd, and no one knows, yet, what she saw in the face of the dead man that so wrought upon her nerves.

"Many tears have been shed, as mothers, sisters, wives and sweet hearts gazed at the young bandit, tranquil now in his eternal sleep. In the line of silent, drawn faces are many fathers, there in the fear that it may be their boy. These mothers and fathers of missing sons are coming from far and near to ascertain if the unfortunate victim of his own folly is their own. They look upon his face, draw a long sigh of apparent relief, shake their heads and pass on.

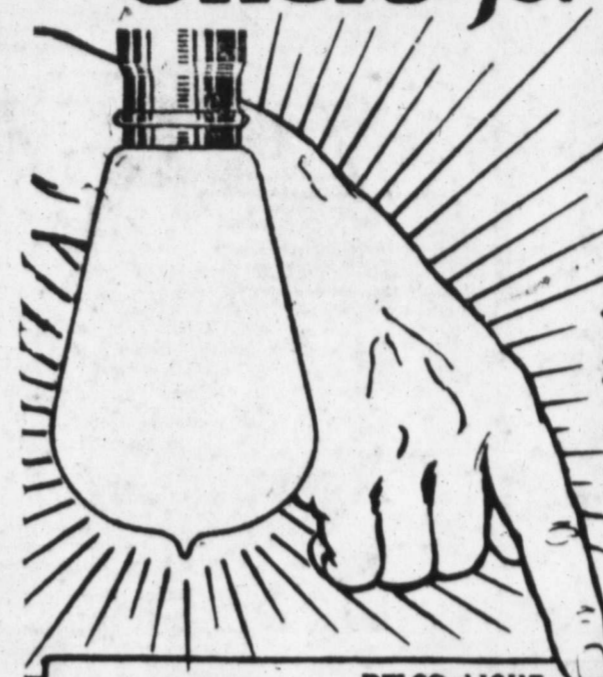

"Messages have been received by the authorities, and by the undertakers from all sections of the country. A pathetic message came to the police yesterday from Corrigan, Texas, where a mother feared that her son, missing for a long time, might be the bandit. Several inquiries for descriptions came from Oklahoma and Texas."

FRANK WOOD DEAD.

Mr. W. H. ("Uncle Billy") Wood, who was called to San Angelo by the illness of his son, Frank, sent the following note to the Sentinel under date of Sunday, the 23rd inst.:

"I made the trip here, 548 miles, by rail in 23 hours and feel that I am o. k. I find my boy, Frank, just alive, but totally unconscious.

"Your grief-stricken friend,
 "W. H. Wood."

A telegram received by his sister, Mrs. Herbert Arnold, Monday morning conveyed the sad intelligence that Frank died at 9:15 Sunday night, and interment was made at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at San Angelo.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to our old friend in his sorrow over the death of his boy. "Uncle Billy" had hardly recovered from a desperate illness when he started for San Angelo last week, and his family and friends have been anxious about him. He was given strength, however, to make the long journey without apparent injury, and for this they are thankful.

Frank Wood was a former Nacogdoches county boy, and his passing is regretted by all who knew him. His old father, bowed down with grief, is comforted, so far as loving partnership in sorrow, by the tender sympathy of unnumbered friends in this dark hour.

The reason there is no fool like an old fool may be because practice makes perfect.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

Henderson News, 19th.

Scott Compton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Compton, of the New Salem community, was killed early last Tuesday morning, while engaged in cutting timbers for a saw mill. Scott was cutting a tree when a large dead limb on another tree was knocked off and fell on the young man, crushing his body to such an extent that he died within a few hours without regaining consciousness. Scott was twentyone years of age and was known as one of the best young men of the community, being a member of the Baptist church and always active in religious matters. The News joins the friends of the good father, brothers and sisters in expressions of deepest sympathy in the tragic death of their loved one.

NACOGDOCHES ENTERTAINS TEACHERS ROYALLY

Center Champion, 19th.

Teachers from this county who attended the institute at Nacogdoches last week are very complimentary in their remarks of the way that splendid town entertained them. Plenty of amusement was furnished the visitors and it is said that the institute program was the best that they have ever witnessed. It was unanimously voted to hold the institute at Nacogdoches next year and while this vote will have its influence, the matter is to be arranged by the county superintendents of the several counties participating in the joint institute.

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT

The faculty of the Stephen F. Austin Teachers' College gave a reception for the student body Saturday night in the basement of the Baptist church. Under the direction of Miss Virginia Broadfoot, incharge of physical education for girls, assisted by Miss Jessie Ruth Goodly of the English Department and Miss Ida Pritchett, head of the music department, the students were divided into four groups and each group allowed to play the part of some educational institution. The four institutions represented were the Stephen F. Austin Teachers' College, the West Texas Technological College, State University and A. & M. College. An "indoor" track meet (?) was held, consisting of a candle relay race, standing "broad grin," shot, shot put, using an inflated paper bag for the shot, javelin throw, using a broom straw for the javelin, and other like "contests". A. & M. College was declared the winner, and was awarded a handsome "loving" (?) cup, an ordinary tin cup. The "track meet" was followed by practice in college yells, songs, etc.

More than 200 students took part in this reception, and every one was heard to say when the party broke up that they had never had a better time anywhere. In addition to Misses Broadfoot, Goodley and Pritchett, other faculty members took a prominent part in helping the youngsters to have a good time. Among these were Messrs. Ferguson, C. E. and Thos. E., Garner, Hinds, Ray, and Misses St. John, Floyd, Hairstone, Foster, and others whose names are reporter does not recall at this moment. Of course, Miss Mays, Dean of Women, was there. Miss Mays is always present and always smiling when there is an opportunity for "my girls," as she lovingly calls them, to have an hour of innocent fun and relaxation.

One of the exciting moments of the game came when Dr. Ray, head of the department of chemistry of the college, represented his institution in a banana eating contest in which all the contestants were blindfolded, and were fed the bananas by their blindfolded competitors. Those who saw Dr. Ray make way with a large banana wondered what he could have done with both eyes open. It was in this banana eating contest that Prof. Garner was charged with cheating. The charge grew out of the fact that when Garner's opponent attempted to feed him a large banana and missed the professor's mouth, and broke off more than half the piece of fruit by slamming it against his ear, Garner kicked the broken piece under the chair, presumably to make way with it. Some of the students on the opposing team yelled "Foul!", and compelled Miss Broadfoot to declare the game a forfeit.

In the foot race, Snodgrass, representing Stephen F. Austin Teachers' College won easily with a measurement of over 11 inches. Snodgrass has a foundation second to none. The winner of the standing broad grin showed a measurement of more than four inches from corner-to-corner. My! But the chap has a smile like the proverbial "over-seer's wages." He comes from Shelby county.

An interesting football game is scheduled to take place at Athletic Park, this city, next Friday afternoon at 3:30, the contest, being between the Logansport and Nacogdoches high school teams. This will be the first game of the season. Only two of the old players from last year will have part, but the new members of our home team are showing splendid form and a good game may be expected.

"I used to feel miserable with dull headaches and awful drawing pains around my stomach. My back ached like it would kill me and even my legs hurt so at times I could hardly walk. I would get terribly dizzy and nervous, too.

"Then my appetite failed, my food seemed to do me no good and I fell off in weight. After starting on Stella Vitae I began to feel better and gain in weight and strength. I am today feeling just fine and am proud of Stella Vitae which has done so much for me."

Stella Vitae may be obtained from any good druggist and the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief.

BOOSTER MEETING.

A very interesting and enthusiastic meeting of the Boosters was held on Monday night at the Lockey Tea Room, with only one member absent.

Guests: Mr. Zimmerli, representing the Lawyer's Co-Operative Book Co.; Mr. Louis Duggar of Tampico, Mexico; Messrs. G. A. Blount and W. L. Paek, this city.

W. W. Beck and Geo. E. Kennedy were the two members scheduled for five minute talks at this meeting, both of whom responded with something of interest to the club.

Mr. G. A. Blount stated that the Boosters, being the liveliest organization in East Texas, he had come before them with a proposition which is of very much importance to our city at this time, stating that some few years ago the Nacogdoches Athletic Association was organized who leased the grounds and equipped the present athletic park that we now have for amusements, such as football and baseball. This park will be used by our high school team this year as heretofore, and the football team of the Teachers' College has also been tendered the use of same this season, which means still more amusement for the football fans of our town. At this time however, there is an outstanding indebtedness on same for rental of something like $100.00, and there being no funds in the treasury of the Athletic Association with which to take care of this amount, he asked that the Boosters take the matter in hand, appointing a committee to solicit funds with which to liquidate this small indebtedness. This being a matter in which this club, as well as the entire town no doubt, is interested, a good live-wire committee was appointed to act on the matter of soliciting these funds, and we feel sure that every good citizen will respond quickly and liberally to this good and worthy cause when called on by this committee.

Interesting talks were also made by Messrs. Zimmerli, Duggar and Paek.

The question of seeking some action from the County Commissioners with reference to the dragging of our highways was brought up and a committee was appointed to call on the commissioners regarding the matter.

The matter of cleaning up the new pavement on Main Street was also brought up and a committee was appointed to call on the paving people and ascertain whether or not the dirt can be removed from this new pavement in the down town district, and if agreeable with them this committee is to take the matter up with the city council with a view of getting some action on getting "Main Street Clean" by next Saturday night, in order to give our town a more attractive appearance during Sunday. This is a matter of great importance to our city and is one in which The Boosters are particularly interested, though no action has been taken on same due to the recent completion of the pavement, and we hope on next Sunday to have clean streets to welcome the hundreds of out-of-town visitors who like to visit a good town every Sunday.

Complaint is made of the weeds along the sidewalks leading to the college, the condition existing both within and without the city limits on North street. Teachers and pupils using these walks are put to great inconvenience and discomfort in wet weather, as they cannot travel them without becoming soaked from the waist down. It has been suggested that owners of property along North street where the nuisance prevails get together and cut the weeds and that the city attend to the matter inside the incorporate limits. Failing in this, a public subscription to pay for the necessary work should be forthcoming. Anyway, the weeds should be cut at once in justice to the teachers and pupils residing on or being compelled to traverse North street and the streets intersecting it. The attention of the Boosters is respectfully directed to the matter.

Miss Daisy E. Wiley of Houston was here Tuesday in charge of the demonstration of Rice Hotel products at McLain-Adams, local distributors. She served toothsome samples to all who came, and there were many. Delicious coffee, cocoa, chocolate, dainty cakes, preserves, marmalades, fruit, pickles, relishes, salads, etc. were handed out to visitors, all of whom pronounced the Rice products the very acme of excellence. The young lady in charge convinced everyone that she knows what she is doing when she undertakes to demonstrate the line displayed Tuesday.
