PROMPT LEE HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION ASSURED

Great "Main Street of Nation" To be Ninety Percent Improved

The Lee Highway, from coast to coast, is included in the federal aid projects which will develop seven percent of the existing roads of the country through co-operation between nation and states. It is classed as a "main street of the nation," by the U. S. Bureau of Education, which thus denominates such roads as the Lincoln Highway, the Dixie Highway, the Old Spanish Trails and the Lee Highway.

In dedicating the Zero Milestone President Harding said: "There is another reason why this particular location should have been chosen for our 'golden milestone.' It marks the approximate meeting place of the Lincoln and the Lee Highway; of the northern and southern systems of national roads."

When President Coolidge touched a button in the White House and unveiled the Pacific Milestone in San Diego, Calif., the message he sent out said: "Lee Highway Association has done a work of national unification in opening up this route between the national capital and southern California. The monument may well be dedicated to the purpose of marking the meeting place of this splendid highway with the waters of the Pacific in the hope that it may hasten the coming day of a perfected system of highway communications throughout the entire nation."

One hundred and eighteen federal aid projects are now under construction or in the preliminaries between Washington and San Diego, calling for the construction of 1208 miles of road and the disbursement of over 22 million dollars. When that work is finished the Lee Highway will be 53 percent paved, 30 percent modern light-surfaced roads and 7 percent natural good road across Western Plains, which will make it 90 percent a good tourist route, leaving only 382 miles of little improved road, out of a total of 3820.

RECRUITING FOR NAVY

The local U. S. Marine Recruiting Station is in receipt of a letter from recruiting headquarters granting permission to this station to accept two young men between the age of 17 and 18 years for enlistment in the Marine corps for the sole purpose of learning the trumpet and drum course. Sergeant Hinton states that there is a big demand for trumpeters and drummers at the present time in the marine corps, and that young men enlisting for that purpose will find it very interesting as well as valuable vocation to prepare them for the outside after they have finished their enlistments.

The requirements for this service are that a man be not under 17 nor over 18 years of age, and weigh not less than 132 pounds, and not less than 5 feet and 5 inches in height, and have as much as a sixth-grade education.

Full information will be gladly furnished anyone interested by applying to the marine recruiting station which recently opened in the City Hall building. Applicants for any enlistment in the marines may have their choice of going to either Paris Island, South Carolina, or to San Diego, Cal.

STATE OFFICERS VISIT LOCAL WOODMAN CAMP

State Manager R. H. McDill, Capt. E. Z. Crowder, clerk of the Dallas camp; F. C. Harnischel, state auditor; and Major Harry B. Rhodes, all of Dallas, were visitors at the meeting of Liberty Elm Camp, No. 210, Tuesday night when veterans' medals were presented to Sovereigns Geo. H. Matthews, M. G. Hazle and R. W. Haselwood, who had been members of Liberty Elm Camp for 25 years. Sovereigns J. E. Gould of Jacksonville and S. A. Taylor of Palestine were also present. Talks were made by a number of the visitors. In discussing the growth of Woodcraft in Texas, General McDill said:

"Prior to the increase in rates made by our order some four years ago, we had a membership in Texas of 225,000. Due to a misunderstanding of the necessity for an increase in the rates, we probably lost 100,000 members. As rapidly as the boys are coming to understand the true facts in the case, they are coming back into the field. Our membership in Texas now numbers around 160,000."

General McDill stated that the W. O. W. Sanitarium at San Antonio is now caring for 131 sovereigns who are suffering from tuberculosis. There is room for approximately 100 more patients.

John D. Ruple, one of our own citizens, is being cared for at this sanitarium. General McDill stated that he talked with Mr. Ruple at a recent visit to San Antonio and that he stated he was getting on nicely.

Moss Adams, Arthur Seale, Horace Spradley, Uncle Jim Ray, and Bob Parrish are with the Dallas visitors at Shawnee for a big outing. Prospects are that the party will have a royal time for the next few days.

THE NATIVITY PRESENTED BY COLLEGE CHORAL CLUB

Those who were fortunate enough to witness the College Dramatic Club's presentation of "The Nativity" at the high school auditorium Tuesday morning are a unit in declaring it to have been one of the season's best entertainments. Miss Ruth Mays, dean of women of the college, directed the pageant, and was herself an active participant. Miss Ida Pritchett in charge of the Department of Music, made a substantial contribution to the success of the affair by and through her direction of the singing, which was done by the college choral club.

Among the students who had leading parts were Miss Samantha Cross of Troup, who took the part of Mary; Luther Garner of Gallatin, who, as the Angel of Annunciation, played his part splendidly; and James Edward Williamson of Garrison, whose impersonation of Joseph was all that could be desired. Miss Sue Nell Gunnung of Wilbren led the angel procession, and she well did she do her part. Special mention might be made of every one of the thirty people who took part in the pageant. These young people showed the result of careful training and also the ability to properly interpret the spiritual significance of the play.

Prof. Thos. E. Ferguson of the English Department made a very happy contribution to the hour with the rendition of O. Henry's "The Gift of the Magi."

A forehanded person is one who wishes at this early date that the holidays were over.

HUSBAND AND WIFE DIE WHEN THEIR HOME BURNS

Edwardsville, Ill., Dec. 11.—Charles Weatherly, 35, and his wife, 25, perished today in each other's arms in a fire which destroyed their home above their restaurant in the business district. The fire is believed to have started in the kitchen in the restaurant, and made its way to the second floor by the rear stairs, the only way to their apartment. The bodies were burned beyond recognition.

WAR SHIPS TO CHINA

Manila, P. I., Dec. 11.—Five destroyers of the American Asiatic fleet left here today bound for Hongkong. The vessels ordered to the Chinese port in connection with the situation at Canton and vicinity. The destroyer Peary, flagship of the squadron of the forty-third division of the Asiatic fleet, heads the detachment, and it is expected to arrive at Hongkong Thursday.

HUNGRY GERMAN KIDDIES

Houston, Texas, Dec. 7.—E. A. Peden, state chairman for Texas of the American Committee for Relief of German Children, received advice today from the Internal Revenue Department at Washington to the effect that the department had made a ruling whereby funds contributed to that committee will be considered as though paid directly to the American Friends Service Committee, a duly incorporated body, and such contributions will be deductible on income tax under the charitable subscription clause of the law.

National headquarters of the committee in New York advised Mr. Peden against diverting the campaign energies which he is now organizing to the collection of old clothes, which cannot reach Germany for many weeks. Emphasis was laid upon the immediate need of food, and money with which to purchase food, although later it may be possible to collect and forward clothes.

Late telegraphic advice from New York headquarters to state headquarters in Houston is as follows:

"According to authentic reports in our hands today, the situation in Germany is many times more distressing than we ever believed.

"Western civilization has never who has just returned from Germany known such a trial as is bound to come in Germany this winter. The need cannot be set forth too strongly.

A prominent American banker is fairly on fire because of distressing things he has seen among the whole population."

WINTRY WEATHER PREVAILS

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 11.—Sleet, snow and rain fell over the Panhandle and portions of West Texas yesterday and last night, while steady cold rains were experienced in North Texas. There was a sharp drop in the temperature throughout the state, and probably the coldest weather of the winter is predicted for Dallas and vicinity. A cold rain continued here today.

In Grip of Blizzard

El Paso, Texas, Dec. 11.—El Paso today was in the grip of one of the worst blizzards in twenty years, according to statistics in the weather bureau. Snow has fallen steadily for more than twelve hours, while a steady gale has caused damage to homes, farms and other properties throughout the Rio Grande Valley.

STUDENTS' EXPENDITURES

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 10.—Students of Southern Methodist University spend half a million dollars annually in Dallas, a survey by the University School of Commerce discloses. Expense of conducting the school aggregates another half million, which makes the school worth a million dollars a year in cash to the community.

Among the odd facts disclosed, is that boys spend twice as much as girls on movie tickets. Girls buy six hats a year at an average of $13 each, whereas the boys get along on three at an average of $4.85 each. Girls pay a average of $9.80 annually for gloves against $3.30 spent by boys. The average expenditures for clothes is $241 for boys and $503 for girls.

Not much is heard from the man who used to say that the human race now and then needs a war to cleanse it.

MANY MEN ENLISTING UNDER REBEL STANDARD

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 12.—Large bodies of armed men from all sections of the state of Vera Cruz are joining General Sanchez in his march on Mexico City, according to private advices received by The Daily Light from Vera Cruz. An open attack on Mexico City is expected to be launched Saturday, according to information received here.

Revolution Spreading

Nogales, Ariz., Dec. 12.—The revolution on the west coast of Mexico has attained great proportions, according to advices received here today. It has spread to Mazatlan, Sinaloa, where the garrison has divided. The report that several revolutionary generals were executed following a skirmish in Sinaloa is being investigated here. The Twenty-seventh regiment at Mazatlan revolted and disbanded the Seventeenth regiment, according to reports.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION TO MEET IN CLEVELAND

Washington, Dec. 12.—There will be nearly 1,100 delegates in 1924 to the Republican convention, compared to 984 in 1920, under a resolution adopted today by the Republican National Committee restoring the old representation from the Southern states. Cleveland was formally selected as the 1924 convention city and the date of the convention fixed as June 10.

A CAPTIVE GOVERNOR

Chihuahua City, Mexico, Dec. 11.—Governor Enriquez of the state of Chihuahua has been captured near Torreon by De La Huerta forces and is being held a prisoner, according to word received by legislators here today. The governor was returning to the state capital from Mexico City, where he went in an effort to prevent a rupture between Calles and De La Huerta.

HUSBAND GETS FORTUNE

New York, Dec. 11.—A verdict for Charles Webb, husband of the late Mrs. Gertrude Gorman Webb, who died of smallpox at the Country Club at Rye, was today ordered returned by Surrogate Foley in the contest for Mrs. Webb's $2,000,000 estate, brought by her father, Jennings Gorman of Bridgeport, Conn., and four other relatives.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT MEETING

We are very glad to announce that Prof. J. C. Pridmore, Agronomist of the Southern Soil Improvement Association, Shreveport, La., will spend two days, Dec. 18 and 19, in Nacogdoches county.

It will be remembered that Prof. Pridmore lectured to the farmers at Melrose and at the Maroney farm early last spring. Those who heard him will want to hear him again. He is recognized as one of the few real authorities on soil improvement, with special reference to the use of commercial fertilizer.

We have arranged to have these meetings at the following places: Oak Ridge, Tuesday morning, December 18th at 9:30; Prairie Grove, Tuesday evening, December 18, at 2 o'clock; Mahl, Wednesday morning, December 19, 9:30; North Church, Wednesday evening, December 19, at 2 o'clock.

It will be profitable for every farmer who uses commercial fertilizer, or who is interested in building up his soil, to hear Prof. Pridmore. He teaches the big, essential facts about soil fertility. He invites direct, practical questions about your particular soil problems. He will discuss your individual soil problems in a direct, helpful, pleasant way. You will like both the man and the message.

Come prepared to ask for the information you want.

AMERICA ACCEPTS

Paris, Dec. 12.—Colonel James Logan, America's observer on the Reparations Commission, officially notified Louis Barthou today that the United States government would view with favor the acceptance by American experts to the invitation to serve on the proposed committees which are to investigate Germany's finances. Louis Barthou, president of the Reparations Commission, expressed himself as greatly pleased with the American government's attitude.

FOX GOES TO TRIAL FOR COBURN'S MURDER

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 12.—Philip E. Fox, former publicity director for the Ku Klux Klan, went on trial here today on a charge of murder growing out of the death of William Coburn, attorney for the Simmons faction of the Klan. An effort to obtain a jury started immediately after the preliminaries were disposed of. The Ku Klux Klan issue was not injected by either side in selecting the jury.

Woman is Indicted

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 12.—Mrs. Margaret Weaver has been indicted as accessory before the fact in the slaying of Captain W. S. Coburn by Philip E. Fox, Solicitor General Baykin's office announced today that evidence had been obtained to warrant himself indictments against several other persons whose names were not disclosed, it was added. According to the solicitor's office, the Weaver woman is alleged to have been in company with Fox from Saturday preceding the shooting until a few minutes before Fox entered Coburn's office. In addition, the prosecution also announced that indictments charging accessory after the fact will be sought. According to the prosecution, the Weaver woman has admitted she told Fox, "Why, you big, fat baby, you haven't got the nerve to kill anyone." To this Fox replied, it is alleged by the solicitor's office, "I'll show you." Mrs. Weaver, the state charges as the basis for the indictment, knew Fox intended shooting Coburn.

AMERICAN ZEPPELINS TO LEAD THE WORLD

Commercial Air Supremacy Goal of the Lighter-Than-Air Development.

New York, Dec. 11.—With distance and speed airplane records set by American aviators and the altitude record alternately French and American, the aeronautic authorities and engineers of this country are turning to commercial aviation and transportation. Striving for records of the "stunt" kind has been useful for the development of airplanes of the war kind but now the trend is toward flying machines of practical utility.

For that reason the airplane is being given up by even its warmest advocates. These realize that this type of airship is suitable for short speedy flights only and even then the risk is great for the average traveler. Aeronautic authorities are rapidly turning to the Zeppelin type of rigid lighter-than-air machine with its great passenger-carrying capacity and absolute safety. Filled with helium and operated by trained crews nothing can happen to these ships—they cannot fall and can be handled as easily as a motor car on a broad highway.

The railroads and steamship lines of America are second to none and now it is planned to inaugurate air lines which will lead the world. With this intention, the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation has been formed and has secured all the American Zeppelin patent rights from their German owners. These patents give to America the results of the years of experimentation and all the discoveries of the famous Zeppelin organization in Germany. The "Shenandoah" of the U. S. Navy is the first of the fleet of American Zeppelins and her splendid flights demonstrate what can so easily be done with the lighter-than-air craft.

It will not be long before Zeppelin lines will be established connecting the most important cities of this country. America built the first airplane and was then forced to do the tedious experimental work that made them successful. In the lighter-than-air field this country is more fortunate since it has acquired the best that Germany has developed after years of ceaseless work. All that remains to be done is to adapt the Zeppelin to American conditions and that is now being done.

With safety, speed and comfort assured, Americans will not long hesitate to adopt Zeppelin transportation. Distances will be shortened so that the business man may "get there and back" in the time it now takes to "get there." From the prairie schooner to the railroad train to the Zeppelin will be the cycle of American transportation within a short time.

On Saturday night Mrs. Lamar Acker was in touch by radio with London, England, and Aberdeen, Scotland, the sounds coming as clear as a bell.

STATE COURTS WHERE NO COSTS ACCRUE

Austin, Texas, Dec. 11.—Establishment of state courts where small wage claims could be adjusted without delay and without court costs and attorneys' fees, is recommended in a report on wage claims received by the state department of labor, made by Joseph S. Myers, labor commissioner.

Mr. Myers, in his recommendations, points out that in the state court all claims would be presented by the claimants and that lawyers would not be permitted to have any part in the proceeding. The commissioner of labor and his deputies would have authority to bring about adjustments in delayed and disputed wage claims, and if necessary they would represent the claimants in courts for such cases.

The report made by the labor commissioner shows that more than 500 wage claims, involving half a million dollars and affecting thousands of workers, have been received by the labor department since February 1, 1921. Practically all of the cases came from the oil fields and were against companies and concerns that had become bankrupt before claims were filed with the department.

Only a small percent of the total amount involved has been collected by the department, the report states, as it could operate only under provisions of the semi-monthly payday law, and this law was inadequate to cope with the situation.

"The department was handicapped in collecting these claims," Mr. Myers said, "as there is no law with adequate provisions for our handling them without delay. I believe if there had been state courts for the purpose of settling wage disputes, they could all have been handled without delay. As it was, we have been able to settle a few cases."

THE WAR IN MEXICO

Vera Cruz, Dec. 11.—The gunboat Zaragoza prepared to sail for Tampico to assist in the attack on that city which is to be undertaken. Operations against Tampico will be directed by General De La Huerta, advices here say that Celaya, in the state of Guanajuato, north of Mexico City, has fallen into the hands of the rebels. A radio message from the headquarters of General Estrada, commander of the Western forces, says the advance on the capital is continuing.

FAMILY'S SLAYER DEAD

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 11.—Peyton Pierce, a carpenter, who shot and killed his wife and 14-year-old daughter, Ruth, and then shot himself through the head, died today.

WILL CONFIRM KELLOGG

Washington, Dec. 11.—The nomination of former Senator Frank Kellogg of Minnesota to be ambassador to Great Britain was ordered favorably reported today by the senate foreign relations committee.

COMMITTEE DEADLOCK

Washington, Dec. 11.—The senate again found itself in deadlock as it resumed balloting today for the election of a chairman for the Interstate Commerce Committee. Three ballots were taken today. On the last ballot Cummins received 39 votes, Smith 39 and LaFollette 7. Ballotting will be resumed tomorrow.

WILL HELP UNOFFICIALLY

Washington, Dec. 11.—The way has been opened for American unofficial aid in solving the reparations problem in Europe. It was announced in Washington today that a plan had been presented by the Allies and Germany which is looked upon favorably by Washington.

GREAT DETECTIVE DEAD

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—William Pinkerton, one of the owners of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, died here today.

THIS SOUNDS BETTER

New York, Dec. 11.—A recovery of approximately $4 per bale from yesterday's decline occurred today in the cotton market. January contracts were carried to $3.25 or 80 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

Mr. Firpo is speaking boldly concerning Mr. Dempsey, Mr. Firpo, you see, is in South America.

OUT-OF-DATE ROADS

Will the United States stop building motor cars, close up its factories and return to horse-drawn vehicles?

Absurd question! Yet there is only one alternative; if we are not to lose the economic and social benefits of motor transportation, we must supply roads upon which the power vehicles may run.

It is impossible to separate the water from the wave, the gold from the bracelet, or the track from the locomotive. It is equally impossible to separate the road from the truck, or the passenger car from the highway. They are halves of a whole; transportation is never vehicle alone, or highway alone; it is both together.

Our roads were planned and built for a means of transportation which is gone. The earliest highways were for horse riders, the stagecoach came next, after which we had the buggy and wagon. The narrow road, the steep grade, the soft surface were all admissible for these; none of them are economic for the swift and powerful motor.

We have "improved" our highways—some of them—and widened a few, but we still build a road that it will "last" but a few years and it will "constant repairs." We still build in widths predicated upon slow-moving vehicles, and we still wind our highways up hill and down dale and around devious curves because it is "easiest" and "cheapest" to do so.

That era is gone! The new one is fairly here. We must either build our roads for our modern vehicles or scrap motor transportation. As the latter is unthinkable absurd, it seems logical to believe that the era of the wide, expensive, permanent, hard-surfaced road is here.

HI CAN TELL ABOUT HITCHCOCK

Senator Hiram Johnson is in a position to satisfy the public curiosity over what becomes of Frank H. Hitchcock between presidential campaigns.

Mr. Hitchcock is a mysterious gentleman. For three years he is missing from the haunts of men. Then regularly as Leap Year, he bobs up as manager of a presidential campaign. Mr. Hitchcock is recognized as a professional manager of presidential possibilities. Sometimes his candidates win; sometimes they lose. After the campaign is over, Mr. Hitchcock disappears into the great open spaces. Nobody professes knowing how to reach him. There must be a way. Mr. Johnson should be able to tell.

Frank H. Hitchcock in his quadrennial appearances in American affairs, has won a wide acquaintanceship with former postmasters who would like to be postmaster again. These gentlemen come in handy in his profession, which is gathering delegates for his presidential candidates. As assistant postmaster general in the Roosevelt administration, Mr. Hitchcock was profoundly successful in lining up the boys for Taft. As postmaster general in 1912, he was naturally still for Taft, but not so successful. In 1916 he headed the mysterious movement which ended in the nomination of Charles E. Hughes and four years later he drove the bandwagon till the music ceased. Senator Johnson was on the opposite side of the fence in each of these campaigns.

But that is all forgiven. He has summoned Mr. Hitchcock from the great unknown, and placed in the latter's expert hands the job of making a non-shrinking violet president if he can.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Houston Post. The president's annual address, or message, deals with many topics of public concern, each of which is presented in terse sentences and in almost monosyllabic English. It would be difficult to recall among all preceding documents of its kind one so comprehensible by the average mind. Laborious arguments appear in no part of the address. It is a succession of facts clearly stated, alternating with recommendations almost bluntly made. For this reason the address possesses great informative value.

The president emphasizes tax reductions as the measure demanding immediate treatment, and he is in thorough accord with the proposal of Secretary Mellon, with which the nation is now familiar. He declares this to be paramount, and he places the responsibility squarely upon congress.

He favors the most generous treatment of disabled veterans through the most effective methods to be devised, but with respect to the bonus, a rather live issue before congress and the country, he declares, flatly, that "I do not favor the granting of a bonus." Thus he makes it plain that he stands for an actual reduction of taxes, genuine retrenchment and the avoidance of new and unusual appropriations. If the public must infer anything from the president's plainspoken words, it is that his objection to a bonus for able-bodied service men rests upon moral as well as economic grounds.

When one reflects that the message must be accepted not only as the president's formal advice to congress, but a statement of the principles and policies upon which his candidacy for the presidency rests, it must be conceded that he reveals a clear head, unambiguous speech and commendable courage. He has made the issue and one upon which he appeals to the judgment of the country, courageously and confidently.

It is not feasible to discuss so comprehensive an address within the brief space of an editorial, but it is fair to say that the president presents each topic and his recommendations bearing upon it along broad, rational lines. He recommends many changes of an administrative character, but these are of a constructive, rather than innovative, character. The tone of his address is strictly advisory, carefully refraining from the mandatory note which has characterized so many executive communications to congress within the last thirty years. It is evident that the president has no desire to usurp an atom of congressional responsibility or prerogative, and, in doubt, that body will rather like the prospect of discharging its responsibilities without a scolding from the White House.

In such politics as the late President Harding developed, the president remains steadfast. He is a republican of the old school, firmly wedded to his party traditions, but introducing in the Washington government his New England notions of economy, simplicity and hard common sense, to which the more eloquent and emotional republican leaders of the West have been strangers, for it must be remembered that Coolidge is the first resident New England republican to occupy the White House.

The president is going to be a safe executive. The character and tone of his message make that certain. He is also going to prove a strong, if not a magnetic candidate. Despite his frigid personality, his cold sentences, and his absence of sentimentality, there is an appeal in his direct style that will draw the attention of the country to his practical common sense, his conservatism and his political and intellectual honesty.

FORGOTTEN TRADES

The village smithy no longer stands under a spreading chestnut tree; the garage has taken its place; and the blacksmiths of today are so few that when one of them passes away it is a matter of comment. This is true in the case of James T. Harvey, who, though his shop was on West Forty-second street, New York, was known as "the village blacksmith of New York." He had in his day shod all the prize horses owned by Fifth avenue society leaders.

But horse-shoeing is not the only picturesque occupation that has disappeared or is disappearing. In these days of machinery, few now make shoes by hand, although the "shoemaker" is still applied to cobblers who only mend them. The country has no "cradle-maker," nor the town a cooper who makes barrels by hand, though the word still persists as a surname. These surnames offer a most convenient method of recalling forgotten trades. Who would guess that a Thacker or Thackary was the man who thatched the roof with straw; that Tylor was the one who tiled it, or Slater, he who roofed with slate? A few other names, as Collier, the charcoal burner, Chandler the candle maker, and Fuller, the cloth cleaner, will show how numerous were the ancient crafts. Blacksmith has no equivalent among English family names, unless it be the abbreviated Smith, though, in German, there is Klingensmith, the "clanging smith". But the horseshoer was a Farrier, dropped in our dictionaries but retained in the directories.

But with the passing of the old, new crafts are finding a place. Beside mechanics we now have mechanics and besides undertakers, morticians. Modern life is more complex than that of the past and calls for specialists.

The latest and greatest discovery of Doc Cook is that if you are selling oil stock it is important to have a little oil.

Paris, said a wit, is where good Americans go when they die. Others go there when love dies and they want a divorce.

It is an old adage that those who marry for money earn it, and for that matter the same can be said sometimes of marrying for love.

The 1923 grape crop was the largest in the history of the country. Even nature seems leagued on the job of making it tough for the prohibition enforcement officers.

SOUND POLICY FOR DEMOCRATS

Representative Garrett of Tennessee, who is expected again to be the Democratic leader of the house, has issued one of the most important Statements coming from Washington in a long time on the spirit with which consideration of the tax problem should be approached. He demands that the subject be dealt with on a plane above partisanship; with the single object of doing what is best for the people as a whole. In respect to attempts at revision of taxes following the war, the democrats now have a record of which they may be proud in that it was they who started the movement for reduction and pleaded for dealing with the problem with a spirit free of partisanship.

The attitude of republicans in congress toward the plea of President Wilson that this great subject be taken up without delay caused a postponement of action, and may have tempted some democrats now to retaliation. But that is an attitude too small for real democrats, Mr. Garrett emphasizes. No considerations of mere temporary partisan advantage, he says, will cause the democratic members to "play cheap or mean politics at the expense of the people as did the republicans during 1919 and 1920." Continuing, he asserted this common sense position:

"Internal revenue statutes are necessarily technical by reason of our complicated economic conditions, and the worst enemy of honest, equitable internal tax revision is the person who injects political or factional considerations or collateral controversies which bear no relation to the single problem of scientific equitable taxation."

The democrats will strengthen their position before the country by the extent to which they hold to that policy. Nothing should tempt them to forget their denunciation of obstructionists when republicans in congress were holding up constructive measures proposed by President Wilson. Obstructionism by democrats would commit the same wrong, and two wrongs never make one right. The only policy for the democrats, as pointed out by Mr. Garrett, is to do right where they said the republicans did wrong; to make a record that will enable them to go before the country and say: "We put aside thought of taking partisan vengeance and co-operate where our opponents, under similar circumstances, obstructed. We ignored an opportunity to retaliate in a partisan sense, keeping in mind that the interests of the country must be held above partisanship. We spurned the spirit that would play cheap and mean politics at the expense of the people."

If this policy of co-operation is held to, and if the republicans are able to get their blocs to anything like harmonious action, some helpful tax revision may result, and with the democrats entitled to their full share of the credit. It would be infinitely better for the democrats to be able to point to their part in the carrying out of any good program that may be proposed than to have a depend a policy of obstruction. For a time the republicans may have seemed to profit by their obstructiveness, but it can scarcely be overlooked that they have been losing rapidly and steadily in every campaign since 1920.

THE CHILDREN'S HARDING

Because Warren Harding's love for children was so well known, the action of the Harding Memorial Association in including the school children in plans for establishing a Harding Memorial will receive the hearty endorsement of the entire country. The children were among Mr. Harding's most enthusiastic admirers. He had straightforwardness, simplicity, love for animals and the outdoors in common with them. He was a staunch ally of the organization of youth, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire and a half dozen others. For many of the school children in the United States President Harding's death was the first contact with national calamity. It made an impression that they will retain through life.

The opportunity to express their affection and have some part in establishing a Harding Mausoleum and Shrine is a privilege properly accorded the 16,000,000 school children of the country. Teachers have been asked to carefully list signatures of each donor in their classes and forward the lists to Washington, D. C. There the names of the thousands of boys and girls will be bound for permanent placement in the Harding Shrine at Marion.

It is the sort of tribute the simple-hearted Warren Harding would have liked best and treasured most—the children's tribute to the twenty-ninth president of the United States. Our idea of a true vamp is one who can inveigle a man into wiping the dishes year after year. Prize fights have degenerated into something that might be classed as "ex-sporting events."

SOME NATIONS BAR KISSING

In Japan It is Looked Upon as the Depth of Human Degradation—Cut Them Out of Films.

Remarkable penalties are exacted in some countries from those found indulging in kissing. In Milan guilty parties are liable to a heavy fine; in certain towns in Russia before the war it was also a punishable offense; while elsewhere men cannot kiss the womenfolk on Sunday without risk of prosecution.

Recently, in Belgium, a man and his wife were fined 78 francs each for having kissed in public. This case is all the more surprising, as in Belgium and France a public kiss between spouses on meeting or separation is recognized as a traditional salute.

In Japan kissing is looked upon as the depth of human degradation. Every kiss in film has to be cut out, and there are film censors who do almost nothing else but look out for kisses.

Perhaps the worst sufferers from the kissing habit are railway authorities, and in a number of instances kissing on the station premises is forbidden by view of the delay thus caused. Special notices to this effect were issued by the Bavarian state railways. The penny platform tickets were introduced on railways in England during the war to prevent kissing on the platform and consequent delay.

How did kissing originate? The Bible is full of kissing of the widest range, from the treacherous kiss of Judas to Jacob's tender salute of Rachel at the well. The early Romans sealed all their nuptials with kisses, and kisses were a popular observance among the early Christians until, in 397, such salutes between the sexes were forbidden.

If we are to credit the Scandinavian tradition, kissing was a pleasurable habit introduced into England by Rowena, the beautiful Saxon.

Kisses have helped in no small degree to mold history. In 1794 the beautiful duchess of Gordon founded and raised the Gordon Highlanders, one of the most noted of Highland regiments, by kissing.—Baltimore Sun.

USE NEWSPAPERS FOR WALLS

Two Thousand Tons Shipped From Europe in Year—Helps Keep Vermin From Houses.

The Chinese, it is thought, are the greatest of all consumers of old newspapers. The official returns of the customs at Newchang show that that port alone, during the year for which figures are available, received approximately 2,000 tons of old European newspapers valued at $75,000.

It is not at first easy to imagine to what use so much obsolete news can be put. It is, however, ascertained that the middle class Chinese prefer newspaper to native wall paper as a covering for their walls. It has a greater power of resistance and affords a more effective barrier to the invasions of the vermin that infest Chinese houses, often driving out the inmates.

Moreover, the Chinese are experts at cutting out of newspapers waistcoats which they wear next to the skin. These paper waistcoats are said to be the best possible protection against a sudden "cold snap." In view of these admirable uses to which European newspapers may be put, it is not surprising to learn that the imports constantly show increase in weight.

It should be added, however, that the value of the import has declined. This fact is explained by the rapid development of the native newspaper press that has occurred during the last few years.

Freaks of Climate Shown.

Through underground observation stations, scientists have recently completed a series of experiments that indicate Mt. Desert island, a few miles off the coast of Maine, has a higher average temperature and greater evaporation than Long Island, more than 200 miles to the south. The recording instruments consist of thermometers that register maximum and minimum temperatures and specially designed bottles, filled with distilled water and fitted with porous stoppers that protrude above the ground. When the sun strikes them, the liquid is drawn from the glass containers in the same manner that moisture is extracted from the earth. Measurements of the water are taken at intervals and the differences noted give the amount of evaporation. On this island, trees, flowers, and plants that are characteristic of the lands of ice and the more southern climes thrive, while birds of the Arctic and the southland make it their common home during the spring and summer months.—Popular Mechanics.

The Tomb of Cyrus.

In a remarkable ruin, in a tolerable state of preservation, at Pasargadae in ancient Babylonia, is the tomb of Cyrus. It has been called "a house upon a pedestal," and consists of a pyramidal base constructed of huge blocks of white marble, surmounted by a house of the same material, covered with a sloping stone roof. The interior consists of a small chamber, ten feet long, seven feet wide and eight feet high, entered by a low and narrow door; there was deposited, in a golden coffin, the body of the great conqueror. It is supposed that a row of 24 columns (some of whose broken shafts still remain) enclosed the sacred spot. On these mutilated columns is repeatedly found the inscription (written in Persian and in the so-called Median): "I am Cyrus the King, the Achaemenian."

THE FIRESIDE MELTING POT

Indianapolis Freeman, a Negro Paper.

If there is to be increasingly a better feeling between the races, the basis for it must be laid in the education of the children of both races. Speaking particularly for the negro, the time has come when more caution should be used by parents and older people generally about loading up their children's minds with all the doubts, fears, suspicions, prejudices and dislikes of former generations. So, too, the habit of bringing home daily the bitter racial discussion in the presence of children who little understand, yet take in the difficulties so current, should be discontinued. The height of parental ambition should be that the negro child grow up healthy in body and mind both as concerns himself and his fellowman.

For the sake of the growth of the young negro's own life and the better relations that must obtain between the races in the future, great care should be taken that sound principles of good will, justice, helpfulness, brotherhood, be thoroughly inculcated in the plastic child life of our people. A self respecting race consciousness must never mean injustice and hate to anyone. Worth and service must and will be crowned. Any other teaching is error and only needs the years to reveal it and its brood of sorrows. America's real melting pot is around the family fireside.

MORE FUN

Me an' Huck, 'n Aunt Polly, 'n Red Riding Hood, 'n some city guys and gals of the Fidelis Clas of the Babbis church had a partie las' Friday nite at Mister Mack Knites house. We had more fun! They wuz gamés like London Brige, thimbal, spin the pan, we're marchin round the levee, the farmer in the dail and more nice speeches an songs. Yes, Virginia Widfeet wuz there; she most nerk skert us to pieces with her nice bare stories. On a reles party girl whafis last naim Grimes said some butifull speeches. Oh, yes, Virginia and Paul (ine) Buckner dun the cutes little old kicken danze. I neredly fertit to say that they wuz eats. We et and et on all day suckers un animal cakes. Don't you wish you had a came?

The forty Fidelis girls who were there regret that so many of the class missed the fun. Watch for a chance to come to another party.

THE BIG DIFFERENCE AND WHERE DOES IT GO?

Most everyone will admit that $1.10 a month, $13.20 a year; 10 years $132.00; 20 years $264.00; 40 years $528.00 is cheap insurance for men and women from 16 to 50 years of age, and nowhere can you get it for such a small amount. Still if we had been collecting $1.10 a month, whether any deaths or not, after paying all death claims and expenses, 64 deaths in 14 years in the Mutual Benefit, we would now have on hand a surplus of $88,000.00, and for 6 years in the Brotherhood, a total of 24 deaths, we would have a surplus of $39,600.00, a total surplus in the two orders of $127,600.00, and could stop assessing until 127 members died before it would be necessary to begin assessing again. And remember, there have only been 88 deaths in the two orders and all death claims and all expenses have been paid. Is not this vast saving by the Dorsey Way worth something to the people of the county?

Talk about Life Insurance the Dorsey Way is head and shoulders above any other Life Insurance and grows more in favor of the insuring public and grows stronger and stronger as time goes by. Life is uncertain and death is sure. See Dorsey today. We have openings all along in Orders that are worth $1,000.00 the day you get it should you die.

TRANSMITTERS TO REMAIN SILENT DURING ADDRESS

Washington, Dec. 7.—All radio transmitting stations in the United States were called upon yesterday by Secretary of Commerce Hoover to remain silent from 8:20 to 8:45 o'clock next Monday night to clear the air for the sending of the president's address on behalf of the Harding Memorial Association.

Hoover's request applies even to stations engaged in commercial business and the navy department has ordered to co-operate by suspending all radio operations, including those of the big station at Arlington, Va.

REVOLUTION IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Dec. 8.—General Calles has renounced his candidacy for the presidency and has offered his services to President Obregon against the insurgent forces in Vera Cruz and Jalisco. The president accepted the offer and has named Calles as head of the federal opposition to de la Huerta and Sanchez, the rebels. Twenty-eight thousand federal troops, it is said, are converging upon Vera Cruz in the revolutionary zone. Obregon has issued a manifesto calling on the people for their support against the military coup and branding it as a conspiracy against the common people on the part of reactionary conservatives.

Won't Halt Rebellion

Vera Cruz, Dec. 8.—General Calles' renunciation of his presidential candidacy will not halt the rebellion against the Obregon government, it was stated at headquarters of the rebels. The news, however, caused much rejoicing. Chimes were played on church bells and battleships in the harbor blew their whistles.

PERISHED IN STORM

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 7.—Several persons are believed to have perished as the result of a gale which swept across the Northwest Territory Wednesday and early yesterday, causing hundreds of dollars of property damage and inundating portions of Hoquiam and Aberdeen, Wash., and Warrenton, Ore.

Fifteen persons are believed to have been drowned when the steamer T. W. Lake sank yesterday near Anacortes. Four bodies, three of them unidentified, have been recovered. One of the bodies was said to be that of Captain E. E. Mason, of Tacoma.

In Lynn, Mass., a horse kicked an automobile to pieces. There had been bad feelings between the two for an age.

AIR SLEEPING MACHINES TO COME SOON, ENGINEERS SAY

New York, Dec. 6.—Aerial sleepers in which passengers will slumber peacefully as they travel from one city to another between dusk and dawn will provide de luxe transportation of the not far distant future, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers' convention was told today by Archibald and Donald P. Black, aeronautical engineers of Garden City, N. Y.

Berths for airplanes have not been designed because there has been no need for them as yet, they said. But the rapid development of commercial flying ultimately will necessitate their construction, they added.

THE TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT

Austin, Texas, Dec. 6.—Dr. W. H. Beazley, state health officer, interviewed recently in his office at the capitol, said: "I am glad to endorse the work of the Texas Public Health Association in its campaign to reduce tuberculosis in Texas. This association during the past several years, has actively co-operated with the State Board of Health in many important matters. Their informational campaign regarding tuberculosis and the need for tuberculosis hospitals in the various counties in Texas, together with the Modern Health Crusade, which is teaching thousands of children health habits, is a more effective and useful adjunct to the State department.

"Tuberculosis, throughout the United States, has been reduced during the past nineteen years 75 to 80 percent. This means that every man, woman and child living today will live two and one-half years longer than he would had tuberculosis continued as it was in 1904, when the death rate was 202 per 100,000. In 1921 the tuberculosis death rate was 99 per 100,000."

"The Texas Public Health Association, is incorporated, under the laws of the State of Texas, as a charitable eleemosynary institution and is supported entirely by the Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. I hope that the citizens of Texas will see to it that the Texas Public Health Association is better financed this year than ever before, in order that the campaign against tuberculosis may be continued even more effectively than in the past."

R. A. M. ELECT OFFICERS

Waco, Texas, Dec. 6.—Officers elected by the Grand Royal Arch Masons, at its session here Tuesday, include: Sam J. Washington, Dec. 6.—Plans to carry on the fight against the right of Senator Earle B. Mayfield of Texas to a seat began in real earnest here yesterday with the arrival of Luther Nickels of Dallas, chief attorney for George E. B. Peddy. Nickels was joined here by R. B. Creager of Brownsville and J. S. Cullinan of Houston.

Scott Woodward of Fort Worth, attorney for Peddy, has been here for several days.

ENGLISH ELECTIONS

London, Dec. 7.—Prime minister Baldwin has been re-elected to parliament. His constituency of Bewdley district, Worcestershire, gave him a majority of 6,369 over Sardinus Hancock, liberal, this being an increase of 926 over last year's majority.

Former Prime Minister Lloyd George was re-elected from the Carnarvon district, Wales, over Austin Jones.

GINNING REPORT

Washington, Dec. 8.—Cotton ginned prior to December 1 amounted to 9,243,917 running bales, including 22,879 round bales, counted as half bales, compared with 9,319,601 running bales, including 15,768 round bales, to that date last year, the Census Bureau announced today.

Texas ginned 3,919,458 bales.

COTTON AWAY DOWN

New York, Dec. 8.—Cotton broke $4 a bale in the local market today upon publication of the government's ginning report. January fell to 33.78 and March 34.15, new low levels for the present reactionary movement. This represents a decline of $15 to $16 per bale from the season's high point.

EDUCATION IN CITIZENSHIP BY DeMOLAY ORDEK

Course Prepared by Authorities on Subject

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 7.—The second number of the American Citizenship Practice series launches by the Order of DeMolay have been mailed to each of the 1,100 chapters throughout the country.

In issuing these Citizenship Practice pamphlets, the Grand Council Order of DeMolay plans to stimulate every young man of the order to become more intelligent, more useful and more contented citizens.

Each of the eight lessons in the series deals with a special phase of citizenship practice. The topic for each of the series is: (1) The Art of Living Together. (2) Citizenship in the Home, the School and the Community. (3) How the Citizen Earns, Saves and Spends His Money. (4) Citizenship Practice in Voting and Holding Office. (5) Citizenship Activities in City and Country. (6) How the Citizen May Know and Help His Nation. (7) America and the World Community.

Establishment of this citizenship building program is based on the assertion that DeMolay is the only movement exclusively for young men between 16 and 21 years of age and seeks to avoid overlapping the work of any other organization. It is felt that no other movement places definite attention upon the youth's future responsibilities and privileges as a citizen, consequently the average young man has but a basic knowledge of what citizenship will require of him when he reaches a position of leadership in national, political, religious, economic and social life. The citizenship program is not academic, but appeals to the interest and curiosity of youth.

MAY PARDON TRAITORS

Washington, Dec. 10.—Representative Berger, socialist, Wisconsin, after a conference with President Coolidge, said he had reason to believe all the thirty-two imprisoned violators of the war laws would be granted amnesty before Christmas by the president.

A young boy named Leon Longan, whose family reside about six miles east of the city, was taken in charge by the sheriff's department Wednesday for selling a car which he obtained from the Stovall Garage at Alto. The officers reported that the youth disposed of the car to a man named I. C. Myers, who was arrested at Lufkin and returned to Nacogdoches, where he paid fines for carrying a fictitious number on the car and for abusive language against the Logan boy's father. The lad was held here for Cherokee county officers, who came for him Thursday, and it was said charges of forgery were laid against him in that county for forgery of the application card by which he was enabled to hire the car.

Aviator whose plane crashed to the ground in Illinois was fined $10 for trespass. Those chaps will have to learn to make their repairs in the air.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM TIGER

Hunter in India Shot Animal Through the Heart While Being Carried into Jungle.

The most terrible experience I ever came across in India, reports W. A. Fraser, was that of a sahib whose name I have forgotten, though I remember the name of his associate, Mr. Fowndes.

This sahib was lying flat on a gravelly bar beside a salt lick, waiting for sambar (deer), when suddenly some terrific force hit him between the shoulders, driving his face into the gravel.

It was in the cold weather, so he was wearing an ulster, and now he was lifted by the something that gripped the coat across his shoulders and dragged along the bar. He could hear a purring, like the whirl of an electric fan. A ghastly smell of carrion was in his nostrils, and on either side of his head showed the yellow foam of a tiger.

He realized that as soon as they reached the jungle, 50 yards away, the tiger would make a meal of him. And how helpless he was!

Suddenly it flashed through his mind that he had a heavy revolver in his coat pocket. His arms were quite free, so he managed to get the pistol, cocked it and fired upward, trying for the tiger's heart.

At the pistol's report he was lifted bodily, whirled around and thrown several feet. They had reached the jungle, and six feet away the tiger was roaring, clawing up the earth and rolling over and over. The sahib crawled through the bushes and came out to the river, where he was seen by Fowndes. He was a wreck, naturally.

Next day they found the tiger dead, the big bullet having gone through his heart.—Saturday Evening Post.

ESKIMOS TAKE CARE OF OLD

Elders' Counsel Always Considered—Mutual Kindness the Rule in Arctic.

Old people are held in great respect among the Eskimos and their counsel is always considered. They help as fast as they are able in the household work, the old men repairing weapons, harness, etc., and the old women in sewing and tending the lamps. In times of scarcity, as in winter, meat and oil is always shared around.

Directly a seal or deer is brought in it is cut up and sent to each needy family. In times of plenty each family is supposed to provide for itself, but old people, widows and orphans have always the first claim upon those who have the means.

Among these people mutual kindness is a general obligation. A widow or orphan child is never left alone, but taken into the house and family circle of the nearest relative. The widow gives her services in return for food and lodging and clothing and the child is cared for exactly as the man's own offspring.—Detroit News.

Fooled the Dogs.

A dog recently entered a church in Aberdeen, Scotland, and after causing much commotion was summarily ejected by the minister. The canine intruder would have passed almost unobserved in many a Highland kirk half a century ago, when it was the general custom for the shepherds to take their faithful collies with them to church.

In some districts, where the population was scanty, the congregation on Sunday mornings would frequently be made up half of humans and half of dogs. The canine auditors sat out the service with commendable patience until the announcement of the last psalm, when there was a general stretching and yawning preparatory to scampering out as soon as the benediction had been pronounced.

In one kirk the congregation determined that the service should close in more decorous fashion. When a strange minister officiated one Sunday he found all the folk sitting when he was about to pronounce the blessing, and paused for them to rise. "Say awa', sir," whispered one old shepherd near the pulpit, "we're a' sitting to cheat the dogs."

Dishonest Procedure.

The captain of a ship put into a little harbor in Scotland to recruit two seamen. One man presented himself with a sheaf of excellent testimonials, and another offered his services without possessing a single credential. As they were the only two applicants, however, the skipper had no choice but to engage both. Before the voyage had gone far the two new "hands" were instructed to swab the deck, and one of them was washed overboard together with his pail. The other rushed to the captain's cabin.

"Dye remember that fellow w' the great bunch o' 'characters' you signed on?" he exclaimed.

"I do," replied the officer.

"Well," said the other, "he's awa' w' your bucket."—London Tit-Bits.

Many Sailors Desert.

More than nine thousand foreign seamen deserted their ships in New York during the first six months this year. So many desertions are a serious handicap to foreign vessels; one British liner was delayed in port more than five hours while its officers rounded up enough men to replace forty missing employees. There is little that can be done to defeat the condition. By the seaman's act sailors, except Orientals, may have shore leave without restriction, and if the men fail to return it is very difficult to get track of them again.—Youth's Companion.

BLOCKS ORGANIZATION OF SENATE COMMITTEES

Washington, Dec. 10.—Organization of senate committees was blocked today by Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, who objected when Senator Lodge, republican leader, offered the usual resolution embodying committee selections made by the majority and minority organizations. The measure went over until tomorrow under the duels. Senator Mayfield of Texas was appointed a member of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

WALTON APPEALS CASE TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

Washington, Dec. 10.—The appeal of former Governor Walton of Oklahoma from the dismissal of his injunction suit to prevent the Oklahoma house of representatives from proceeding with his impeachment case was filed today in the Supreme Court. When the case may be reached is uncertain.

INVESTIGATE FATAL WRECK

Forsyth, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Four investigations were launched today on the wreck of the New York Central "Twentieth Century Limited" near here yesterday, when nine persons were killed and a number of passengers injured, five seriously. Inquiries were instituted by the authorities of Chautauque county, New York, representatives of the New York Public Service Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the railroad company.

KILLS FAMILY AND SELF

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 10.—Peyton Pierce shot and killed his wife, Cora, and his 13-year-old daughter, Ruth, and probably fatally shot himself at the family home here today, according to the police. Officers said Pierce brought the girl home from school, led her to a bedroom, where he locked the doors and fired the fatal shots. He is not expected to live.

OBREGON REVIEWS TROOPS

Mexico City, Dec. 10.—President Obregon, accompanied by his staff, left Mexico City Sunday for Irapuato for the purpose of reviewing a division of troops under which General Amaro is preparing to begin an advance upon the rebellious forces in Jalisco under command of General Estrada, former secretary of war.

HEADLESS BODY FOUND

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 8.—The headless body of Mrs. Belle Tompkins, wife of Ray Tompkins, was found today in the vicinity of Whitefish Bay, a Milwaukee suburb, following a search which began when the woman was reported missing Thursday.

FOX'S MOTIVE KNOWN

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 10.—Solicitor John Boykin declared today that the state had established a motive in the slaying of Captain Coburn by Phil Fox, Klux Klan publicity man. "The defendant asserted it within less than a minute after the shooting. This will be developed from competent witnesses at the trial," he said. He would not discuss the statement alleged to have been made by Fox.

COTTON SKIDS DOWNWARD

New York, Dec. 10.—The local cotton market today broke 100 to 102 points below Saturday's close owing to weak Liverpool cables and the readjustment of ideas as to the next crop estimate. Liquidation carried January down to 32.78 and March to 33.20.

The British medical scientist who asserts that we are what we eat probably entertains the suspicion that the world has been filling up lately on animal crackers.

LARGEST INDIVIDUAL SHIPMENT OF COTTON

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 10.—The largest single water shipment of cotton ever more by any one shipper from Texas to Liverpool or other foreign consuming markets will leave Houston December 22, according to T. M. Edwards, general sales manager for the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, when approximately 20,000 bales of co-operative members cotton will be shipped.

"The cargo is valued at approximately $4,000,000," Mr. Edwards said, "and the entire cargo will be cotton of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association. A particular outstanding and important fact in connection with this shipment is that the approximate 20,000 bales represents sales made from our members direct to the consuming markets.

"These sales were consummated during the ten days when the market was at its peak," Mr. Edwards said, "and represents a big profit to the members of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association."

The "Abercos," a ship of 6,076 gross tonnage, has been furnished by the U. S. Shipping Board, and will dock at Houston on December 17th. Five days have been allowed for loading, and arrival of the cargo in Liverpool will be about 21 days later. Plans have been made for officials of the Association to accompany the boat from Houston to Galveston.

It was also announced that Texas would be widely advertised through this shipment, steps being taken to extensively mark the boat so that "the world will know it's From Texas."

"The association has made previous shipments to Liverpool and other foreign markets this year," Mr. Edwards said, "but this is the largest shipment that has been made to date and according to the best information we have, is the largest single water shipment of Texas cotton by any one shipper from Texas."

RUM RUNNERS SUCCESSFUL

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 8.—Coast guards today reported that during the night rum runners from Atlantic City and vicinity completed one of the most successful landings from the rum fleet ever made at South Highlands, hitherto the center of smuggling operations.

A steamer and four sailing vessels, believed to be part of the fleet of fifteen craft reported earlier in the week off Highland, are now anchored off here.

Booze Ship Captured

New York, Dec. 8.—The Dutch schooner Zeehond was seized off Fire Island today by the coast guard cutter Learnton and her captain and crew held for violation of the prohibition laws. Two thousand and five hundred cases champagne and other liquors, valued at more than $200,000, were found aboard the vessel.

REBELS CAPTURE TOWN

Mexico City, Dec. 10.—The capture of Jalapa, capital of the state of Vera Cruz, Saturday morning by rebel forces was officially confirmed here. With this single success it was declared in official quarters that the revolt headed by General Sanchez, who favors the presidential candidacy of De La Huerta, had reached the maximum development possible with the nucleus of the outbreak centered at the city of Vera Cruz, and in the states of Guadalajara and Jalisco. The defenders of Jalapa, a portion of the federal garrison which refused to join the revolt, retired to the nearby village of Oriental together with 2,000 volunteer agrarians, who were poorly equipped. At Oriental this badly organized force will await reinforcements.

PREMIER WILL "STICK"

London, Dec. 10.—Prime Minister Baldwin arrived in London from Chiquera Court today and shortly afterward had an audience with the king at Buckingham Palace. The Central News says: "Mr. Baldwin did not tender his resignation. It is understood that he will inform the cabinet tomorrow that he is prepared to retain the reins of government until parliament meets next month."

NIGHT WATCHMAN SLAIN

Ferris, Texas, Dec. 8.—W. H. Horn, a night watchman, was shot and killed here some time last night by robbers who entered the Farmers & Merchants State Bank building, but failed to open the vault. Horn's body was discovered this morning. He had been shot through the head, death probably being instantaneous. The back door to the bank had been forced. The vault was badly damaged by blows from hammers, but remained intact.

"THE FULL POWER BILL"

Berlin, Dec. 8.—The reichstag today voted the "full power bill" asked for by the government, 313 to 18, on the third and final reading of the measure.

THE AUTO AS A KILLER

Palestine Herald.

While the figures of the Census Bureau, showing 11,666 persons killed in automobile accidents in the past year will prove disappointing to the average cheerful pessimist, still they reflect with considerable emphasis the gravity of the situation into which general disregard of safety in driving automobiles has led the country. To the average newspaper reader, seemingly never without a daily grist of accident reports, the thought occurs that somebody has made a mistake in figures. But the tables of the census bureau are compiled from the "census registration districts," which embrace a large part of the territory of the country, including 67 leading cities, and account for 85 percent of the total population. Therefore, without proof to the contrary we must accept the figure 12.5 representing fatal accidents per 100,000 population, as the nationwide index of the automobile's efficiency as a mankiller.

It would be interesting to have for study a division of the 11,666 accidents into preventable and unavoidable causes. It is safe to presume, however, that 90 percent would fall in the first category, but either to careless or criminally reckless operation. The experience of four large cities, where increases were recorded despite intensified efforts of authorities to curb the reckless driving, indicate that the ordinary traffic laws in force at present are inadequate to cope with the situation. Los Angeles, where persons involved in automobile accidents are forthwith locked up under serious charges, and compelled to make heavy bond, and where speeding convictions bring jail terms, led the country with an index of 29.5, increasing 2.4 during the year. Chicago which recently has been engaged in a campaign against the careless driver, had an index of 22.0, an increase of 1.5 for the year. Kansas City, in spite of a like campaign, saw its fatal accident rate increase 4.2 to 15.8. St. Louis, also aroused in a safety campaign, had a rate of 16.9, an increase of 1.8 over last year.

It may be possible, as these figures indicate, that the ordinary machinery of the law is not capable of dealing with the problem. Some such legislation as to require drivers' licenses obtained after rigid examination, and indemnity bonds for all operators of automobiles, add a clear and more direct code for punishment of negligent or reckless motorists, may be found necessary. Certain it is that the present frenzy of uncontrolled speed must be brought to an end in some way.—Fort Worth Star Telegram.

The above facts are interesting and should cause people to think seriously of this modern menace. One trouble is that little effort is made generally to enforce the laws we have against reckless driving. Another trouble is that the laws are not strenuous enough. The Herald has always been in favor of denying to habitual reckless drivers the right to drive a car on the public highways. And jail sentences in extreme cases should be assessed.

However, arrests and fines have a tendency to slow down some of the drivers, as we here in Palestine have cause to know. The situation since the city administration has been enforcing the traffic laws has greatly improved, and the city has also collected quite a bit of money. The enforcement will be continued and fines will be increased for repeated offenses.

THE RIGHT TO TRIAL BY JURY

Most opportune and of vital importance is the bill, presented in congress at its opening, limiting the contempt of court powers of federal judges to acts of contempt committed in the courtroom. This proposed law is most significant, coming as it does at the climax to New York's contempt of court episode in which Federal Judge Mayer and City Comptroller Craig were the principals. Representative Stengle, democrat, of New York, is author of the contempt bill in congress, presenting it with the explanation that it was inspired by the action of Judge Mayer.

The Stengle bill would prevent a judge who has been criticised for an official act from adjudicating his critic in contempt of court without a jury trial and sentence that critic to imprisonment. It would make in violation the constitutional privilege of every American citizen to a trial by jury.

The stamp of public approval has been imprinted on the action of President Coolidge in preventing Comptroller Craig from serving out the 60 days penitentiary sentence imposed upon him by Judge Mayer, yet there is general dissatisfaction in the statement of Attorney General Daugherty, that Craig's sentence was remitted, not as a repudiation of the action of Judge Mayer, but "only because the affairs of a great city might suffer through the imprisonment of its comptroller."

There has been no public wish for the vindication of Comptroller Craig's criticism of Judge Mayer and if that criticism was false, unjust and malicious Craig deserves punishment, but the American public, jealously guarding its right to free speech and trial by jury, in spite of the remarks of the attorney general, will consider the remission of Craig's sentence in the light of a repudiation of the high-handed method of meting out punishment upon a critic of a judge.

That the public has been aroused to a high point of anxiety and protest by the Mayer-Craig episode speaks for the perpetuation of the American constitution and the right to free speech and trial by jury bestowed by it upon every man and woman within the confines of the United States, whether citizen or alien.

A NATURAL ALLIANCE

Instead of an organized labor alliance with the farmer a new idea has been sprung, that of banker-farmer alliance.

The new combination will involve co-operative marketing and greater diversification and business efficiency on the farm.

Bankers have profited by farm bank deposits, farm bank loans, and in turn have helped farmers improve their live stock and purchase labor saving machinery. And farmers are naturally socialists.

Upon a statement of its belief in three fundamental agricultural policies—diversification, sound co-operative marketing and improvement of unit efficiency on the farm—the agricultural commission of the American Bankers' Association has built a plan for bringing the farmer and the banker into an alliance of understanding and mutual assistance in every part of the country.

Features of the plan include organization of bankers' committees on agricultural in ever yfederal reserve district, then by states and then by counties or groups of counties.

No single specific program will serve for the whole country. But nationally and by states bankers will be committed to close co-operation with agricultural colleges, to encouragement of boys' and girls' clubs as the hope for a new generation of competent agrarians, and development of new agricultural enterprises in states which today stand or fall as a single crop prospers or fails.

Co-operative enterprise is infinitely better than socialism, government ownership, government price fixing and all the legislative cure-alls ever devised.

Be not deceived. While Santa Claus has many agents hereabouts he has no genuine double.

If the Chicago preacher is right in asserting that no new sin has been invented in 2,000 years, saxophone playing has been going on much longer than is commonly supposed.

JUMBLED LOGIC

Like those benighted individuals who argue that there are just as many good people out of the church as in it, Secretary of State Hughes is explaining with much gusto that a nation can be just as moral outside a league as in one. Both premises are admitted without argument, but will the non-church goers and the secretary of state refute that the church and the league make it just a little easier for individuals and nations to be good?"

The foreign policy pursued by this nation under the guidance of Mr. Hughes maintains that the United States "reserves judgment, is opposed to discrimination, for an even break in mandated territories, is willing to co-operate in the peaceful settlement of international disputes, is desirous of sound economic conditions, in favor of international conferences where the accomplishment of something helpful is possible and is co-operative in varied humanitarian effort."

Does the secretary of state wish it to be inferred that these virtues are possible only outside a League of Nations and not possessed by any of those nations now members of the league? To the contrary, these national qualities are enjoined on its members by the league covenant.

Mr. Hughes braces his argument with the statement: "We are still opposed to alliances. We refuse to commit ourselves in advance with respect to the employment of the power of the United States in unknown contingencies." But every treaty is an infringement on sovereignty and the United States has entered into treaties ad pacts heretofore, yes, even since Mr. Hughes has been captain of the ship of state.

The principal weakness of many movie marriages appears to be in the continuity.

MEDIA LAND CASH PRIZE AWARDED HEROIC LINEMAN

Cleve Floyd has been awarded a Theodore N. Vail silver medal for "Noteworthy Public Service" because of his self-sacrifice, courage, and quick thinking in rescuing from a position of grave danger a fellow telephone employee who had been trapped in a manhole by a sudden explosion.

The accident took place on the morning of July 8, 1922. Mr. Floyd and his helper, H. Montgomery, were making electrolysis tests at the time, the former a few feet from the manhole, the latter in it, making the necessary connections.

Suddenly feeling an intense heat at his back, which was toward the manhole, Mr. Floyd turned and saw a sheet of flames, ten feet high, issuing from the manhole. Realizing the danger of his fellow worker, Mr. Floyd immediately reached down through the flames and, grasping Montgomery, lifted him to the surface of the street.

Although the rescue took but a few seconds, the lineman was severely burned while dragging his helper to safety, his right hand and the right side of his face being badly blistered. Regardless of his injuries, he attempted to continue his work, but was unable to do so. He suffered from second degree burns and was incapacitated for work for four days.

Mr. Montgomery was seriously burned by the explosion and had it not been for Mr. Floyd's presence of mind and courage, the accident would in all probability have resulted fatally, as the flames, which were of great intensity, continued to pour from the opening of the manhole for about a minute and a half. Had Mr. Montgomery been exposed to them for this length of time he would almost certainly have been so severely burned that his injuries would have resulted in his death.

The above company left Linn Flat, in this county, on the 5th of the present month (N. v. 1861) for Coast service. We know many of the gentlemen comprising it, and we assert a fact well known, when we say a braver or more determined set of men never went into the field to serve their country. The people of Linn Flat and vicinity have done their whole duty.

The above list of Nacogdoches county soldiers enlisting in the Confederate Army a little more than 62 years ago was handed us by J. W. Murph of Linn Flat, a member of the organization, who is now himself 92 years old. This roster will prove of interest to many of the people of the county. It was clipped from a newspaper published in November, 1861, Mr. Murph having treasured it all the intervening years. Many whose names are on the list are dead; in fact, few of the old Linn Flat company are living, but their descendants remaining in the county will be pleased to have a copy of the old document.

Mr. Murph is bowed by the weight accumulated years, but his heart is still true to the old cause and his old comrades.

An epicure is one who can tell. Apparently Europe needs everything whether it got that way in cold storage or was aged in the turkey. America has to offer except advice, vice, opinions and suggestions.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE HEARD BY RADIOPHONE

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Acker Thursday noon the message of President Coolidge to congress was heard by radio, every word coming with perfect clearness. The voice of the doorkeeper was distinctly heard announcing that "The president of the United States now enters," and the handclapping which followed was clearly audible.

The president told what he favored and what he opposed. He favored the proper care of the disabled soldiers and their dependents, but opposed the bonus. He declared that profiteering in fuels must stop through government control but not government ownership. He favored the consolidation of railroads, but opposed government ownership of the roads. He was against the League of Nations, but favored a World Court in which the United States would participate. He favored a strong and active advancement of the farmers' interests, but opposed direct federal aid; that railroad freight rates and fertilizer prices should be reduced in order that the farmers should be benefited, but claimed that organization and co-operation would do more good than anything else. He favored a disposal of the Muscle Shoals plant with a provision for its return to the government in case of war. These are only a few of the high lights of the president's message, the address being too long for us to attempt even a brief synopsis thereof.

The wonder of it was that it was heard here as plainly as though the hearer were in the room with him at the capitol in Washington.

NEW COURSES OFFERED IN TEACHERS' COLLEGE

The Stephen F. Austin State Teachers' College will offer the following new courses in the winter term: In education, secondary education (high school curricula and methods), child psychology, the art of teaching the primary and intermediate grades, practice teaching; in home economics, elementary cooking, home hygiene and home nursing; in history, the teaching of history; in mathematics, solid geometry, introduction to the Calculus; in English, the teaching of English in the high school; in business administration, business law. All departments, of course, will continue many courses started in the fall, and many of them will repeat courses offered in the fall term.

In order to accommodate people of the town and the high school who wish to take an advanced course in the college, Prof. Thos. E. Ferguson will create a division of his course in the English drama for the winter term. Those who wish to take the course should plan to start promptly with the beginning of the new term. The class will meet at 4 o'clock on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at the high school building. Information may be had about this course by phone.

MILLION AND HALF DOLLAR FIRE

Detroit, Mich., has just suffered this tremendous loss from nothing but a piece of carelessness. We may suffer proportionately from the same cause if we are not careful. This appalling loss was caused by a man building too much fire in his heating stove in his little shanty and not watching it close enough. The heat became so intense that it ignited the wall paper of this shanty and when it was discovered it had grown to such magnitude that it was beyond control of the man and by the time the fire department had reached the scene, the fire had eaten its way beyond their control. Should you have a stove in your home please see that the walls are well protected from the heat and do not build up a big fire and leave your home to the mercy of the fire.

Too much care cannot be exercised in looking after the little fire. If we neglect the little fires they will grow rapidly. Let CAREFULNESS be our slogan.

L. I. MULLER,
City Fire Marshal.

TEACHER BADLY CUT

Prof. F. F. Smith, principal of the Alazan school, was stabbed in the back about 10 o'clock Wednesday by one of his pupils, a 15-year-old boy named King, a son of Mr. Rufus King of that community. It was stated that the teacher was trying to inflict corporal punishment upon the youth for some misdemeanor, when the boy drew a knife and stabbed Mr. Smith, inflicting a cut about four inches long on the left side of his back, the knife blade penetrating to the hollow, it was reported. Young King was arrested by Sheriff Vaughn and a charge of assault and battery filed against him. He was released on a nominal bond to await the outcome of Prof. Smith's wound.

SECOND TEST WELL
SPUDS IN MONDAY

Garrison News, 7th.

The drilling at the deep test well has been progressing rather slowly the past week on account of unusually hard rock formation through which they went since last report. They are now (Wednesday) down 2,463 feet, going through chalk formation.

The second well, three miles north of the first well was spudded in Monday. With each passing day the interest grows keener in this trying out of our oil. Even those who have seen the bubbles of many a rose tinted hope, founded on the tests in wildcat fields, burst and disappear, yet feel that there are good prospects for substantial developments here. The formation of the earth and the location of this field in relation to some of the proven fields amply justifies the faith that to our already long list of natural resources will be added oil in commercial quantities.

MRS. MATTIE BROWN

In the recent death of Mrs. Mattie Brown, another of the old-time pioneer people of Nacogdoches county passes away. Mrs. Brown, in her girlhood days, was a Martin, and most of her life was spent in the vicinity of Martinsville. However, she was not of the family or of the line of Dr. J. D. Martin. In her girlhood she married John Brown, a son of Uncle Ezekiel Brown, one of the real old-timers who settled in the vicinity of where Martinsville now stands way back about 1830 or 1835. The writer still in the hazy memory of childhood recalls Uncle Zeke Brown—remembers that he was crippled, and that he pulled teeth for his neighbors and neighbors' children, and it was with a pair of old-fashioned "pullikens," that he, as a frightened child, first met Uncle Zeke—52 years ago, when his mother took him to Uncle Zeke's home to have a tooth pulled; and again he recalls a few years later when the believed wife of Uncle Zeke died and all the neighbors gathered to pay their last sad tribute of respect. That was a long time ago, and yet memory comes tripping down the years and presents the scenes of that day once again.

John Brown was an honest and humble farmer who lived and died only a short distance from the home of his father. He has been dead many years. He and his wife, the good woman who died a few days ago, reared a large and splendid family—two boys and several girls, nearly all of whom are living yet in widely scattered parts of the country, and all doing well. Mrs. Brown is almost if not indeed the very last of the old-timers who used to live around Martinsville and whose humble efforts made that part of Nacogdoches county a delightful place in which to live. They are all gone, and others have taken their places, to grow old in turn and be succeeded by still others, as the years go by; and so here is a white rose to place on the grave of her whose death is the latest to be mourned by those who knew and loved her best—Mrs. Mattie Brown.

Henry C. Fuller,
Brownwood, Texas.

SCAR TELLS WOMAN'S AGE

Size of Vaccination Mark, Bared by Sleeveless Gowns, Shows Period of Inoculation.

Twenty years ago when the popular wave of sunlight vaccination swept the land, and when every school girl bared her arm for the medical process that necessitated a permanent scar, it is probable that neither mothers nor doctors foresaw the coming of the present-day fashions in sleeveless gowns.

Those were the days of trailing skirts, bustles, long sleeves and high feminine collars, and when the doctor inquired of the solicitous mother as to where he should put the mark upon the little girl the mother felt quite safe in choosing a position so well concealed as the upper arm.

Few mothers of those days could believe that a scar upon the arm well up toward the shoulder would ever find its way into the light of public attention, but the passing of years, with the consequent changing of styles, has brought about circumstances that were unexpected, and the marks are at last out in the open, exposed to the gaze of whoever cares to look.

Observing persons assert they have little difficulty in telling the age of a young woman merely by noting the kind and size of vaccination scar. The doctor at one time thought it necessary to make marks the size of a half dollar, but with the passing of years they became smaller and smaller until now a scratch that is almost invisible is all the process requires. The girl whose vaccination mark corresponds to the size of a dime belongs to a different period from the girl with the nickel mark, the quarter mark or the half-dollar mark, and with the donning of the sleeveless gown she feels that her age is stamped indelibly upon her.

The modern physician's system marks an advance in surgical science that will be appreciated by the debutante a decade or so hence.

BOYS OF 1,400 YEARS AGO

Field Museum at Chicago Has Beautiful Chinese Painting Which Shows Youngsters at Play.

In a room of Chinese art relics in the Field Museum of Natural History at Chicago hangs a curious, beautiful painting on silk, called "A Hundred Boys at Play." It is a panel, many yards long, which was made during the Sung period of Chinese history, about 1,400 years ago, by an artist named Su Hanchen.

There you may see a hundred Chinese boys busily occupied with indoor and outdoor pastimes. And from the expressions on their little painted faces it seems that they are about as boisterously happy at their play as boys of the present day. The interesting part is to see that the games they played in China so long ago were the same sort that boys play now.

Those boys even seemed to know a form of football, for you see boys scrambling for a kicked ball. Others are wrestling, shooting at targets, playing war and amusing themselves with fighting crickets. Still others are engaged in less active sports, such as playing chess, riding hobby horses, flying kites, dancing and playing the organ and lute.

On one bank sits a boy with a fishing pole. Across from him a Chinese friend has set up a store and is a merchant.

Disillusioned.

She had come to New York to study art. She was only sixteen, and when she heard that her roommate was to be a Spanish girl she was thrilled. She was really seeing life, to be in New York and to have a romantic, ardent Spaniard for a roommate. Perhaps she would even stab a lover or two.

The woman saw the young girl the other day.

"And your roommate? Is she exciting?" the woman asked.

"Exciting," sneered the girl, "anything but! She practices scales so diligently I feel as though I'll go mad, and she's so proper and modest that she even wears high-necked and long-sleeved nightgowns made of thick cotton."—New York Sun and Globe.

Powdered "Pharaoh" Wanted.
Powdered "Pharaoh" was one of the sovereign remedies of medieval times. It cured wounds. It was made into salves and ointments. It was swallowed as a physic. It formed the basis of all the black arts.

Othello's handkerchief owed its magic power to dyes made from mummified maidens' hearts. The witches in "Macbeth" gave potency to their charmed brew by adding powdered mummy. To such an extent was tomb-robbing carried on even in ancient times that mummies of the great kings were taken from their own tombs and hidden away in secret places, while proxies were left in their stead.—Detroit News.

The Honest Neighbor.
At dusk a suburbanite headed sheepishly across to the next abode, called out the occupant and said: "Mr. Wombat, I want to return your lawn mower."

Wombat declined to take it, whereupon the other man was much perturbed.

"I know I have kept it a long time," he murmured. "Pardon me and let me return it."

To which Wombat responded: "I must be honest with you. I had only one lawn mower and neighbors have already returned six."

BALLASTING ACTIVITIES
ON E. & W. RAILROAD

Sterrett & Vaughan, contractors of Dallas, have established a camp just above the plant of the Nacogdoches Grocery Company, where there are already 40 teams and a large number of men, who will at once begin operations in preparation for draining the cuts and arranging the fills for ballasting the tracks of the Houston East & West Texas division of the Southern Pacific road.

With the exception of a short stretch at Goodrich, the roadbed between Houston and within three miles of the Neches River has been ballasted and is placed in good condition.

Grading and ballasting on the T. & N. O. division are making fine progress, and as rapidly as men and money can accomplish the work these roads will be in first-class shape.

PARCELS DURING HOLIDAYS

Help protect the dainties from the roughnecks.

They all travel together in the mails—pretty dainties, delicate and artistic pieces, instruments of precision tools, heavy castings, electros, hardware, the light, the heavy, the weak, the strong, the beautiful, the ugly—all travel as parcel post. Let's see that they go in harmony, each considerate of the other.

Fragile parcels should be wrapped and adequately packed and the heavy ones should be wrapped so they won't damage the dainty and weak. Provide good and strong containers.

When postoffice clerks ask what your parcels consist of, don't get cross nor grow sarcastic. Tell them whether contents are fragile and easily broken. They are not asking out of curiosity. They are just wanting to help you have your package reach its destination in good condition and be a joy instead of its arriving damaged or broken and be a disappointment.

There was great excitement Saturday night at the Morgan Show tent when the rain and wind storm struck this city. Mr. Morgan appeared on the stage and announced that the stakes possibly would not hold in the earth softened by the frequent rains, and stated those remaining would do so at their own risk, as he would not be responsible for accidents. This created a panic and most of the audience of several hundred rushed for the exits, women and children screaming, and the men not being altogether silent. Rushing out into the heavy down-pour of rain, people were all wet to the skin, many of the women having their new hats and suits ruined by the soaking. A ladder propped against a tent pole fell, striking Mrs. June Rose of Melrose upon the neck, inflicting trifling injuries but badly frightened her. She remained overnight in the city and left for home Sunday morning little the worse for her experience. No one else was reported injured.

Tax Collector Johnson wishes to clear up a misunderstanding in regard to the registration of automobiles, considerable confusion having developed concerning the requirements. Those purchasing new cars before the first of the year must register them for 1923 before they are entitled to register for 1924. This is the law and the provision must be recognized in every case. If they wish to register for 1924, they can do so after registering for 1923. This should be plain to everyone purchasing a car before the first of January.

When motor cars and liquor are mixed only a mix-up can result.

WIDOWS LIVE IN A PALACE

Structure at Hampton Court Occupied by Pensioners of King George—Built by Cardinal Wolsey.

At least one Sunday a year I like to spend among the romantic surroundings of Hampton court, built by the great Cardinal Wolsey but taken from him by Henry VIII. I have often wondered why this dignified palace is not used as a background by some enterprising "movie" producer, says Sir John Foster Fraser.

It is a delight to saunter through the banquetting hall and the audience chamber and the king's bedroom and the queen's antechamber and look at the paintings by Peter Lely and Godfrey Kneller of the ladies who were court favorites in the roystering days of the restoration after Charles II came back to the throne.

I generally go down to Hampton court to visit a dear old lady, for though the palace belongs to the king, he makes no use of it except that he gives suites of apartments to the not very well-to-do widows of men who have served the state in some distinguished capacity. Can you imagine a more charming gift than a suite of apartments in a place like Hampton court with its peace and unrivaled old world gardens—Arts and Decorations.

TRAVEL BY WATER CHUTE

Flume Filled With Water Offers Thrills in Small Boat in Mountains of Sierra Nevada.

In the mountains of Sierra Nevada, the water chute, or flume, is used as a means of traveling from one spot to another. The flume is V-shaped and made of wood. It stands on wooden trestles, sometimes, where it crosses deep ravines, of immense height. A swift and strong current of water, chiefly used for floating logs and sawn timber, is constantly running down the chute.

The boat made to navigate the flume is also V-shaped and fits inside it. It can be floated down at a good speed in about an inch of water. Only one passenger is carried at a time, and he has to sit as far forward as possible in order to tilt up the back of the little craft. In steep places the pace is great, quite twenty miles an hour being reached.

Riding the flume is full of thrills, though the little craft runs smoothly and as there is no machinery, without vibration. But when once it has started on its journey it cannot be stopped until it reaches its destination. The sensation of rushing alone through space at such a speed is wonderful. But it is a mode of traveling than only recommends itself to the strong-nerved—London Answers.

Light Fire With Steam.

In the great oil fields of the West, where the ever-present danger of fire haunts the drillers, steam has been found to be one of the most effective means of combating the flames. As a flash of lightning, a spark from a piece of metal, or a lighted match, may start a blaze that will result in the destruction of millions of dollars' worth of property, ceaseless guard is maintained over the wells. Nevertheless, fires are frequent, and batteries of steam boilers are kept in readiness to fight them, as water would only aid their spread. When a gusher turns into a volcano of liquid fire, it is surrounded by a sand embankment to catch the blazing oil; then huge boilers are brought up, and jets of live steam are turned into the heart of the flames, slowly smothering them.—Popular Mechanics.

"Our Poet."

"Hee doth not onely show the way, but giveth so sweete a prospect into the way, as will entice anie man to enter into it; Nay, hee doth as if your journey should lye through a faire vineyard, at the verie first give you a cluster of grapes, that full of that taste, you may long to passe further. Hee beginneth not with obscure definitions, which must blurbe the margent with interpretations, and loade the memorie with doubtfulness; but hee cometh to you with words set in delightful proportion, either accompanied with or prepared for the well enchanting skill of Musick, and with a tale forsooth hee cometh unto you, with a tale which holdeth children from play, and old men from the Chimney corner."—Sir Philip Sydney

Haunted by Lightning.

An Australian government inspector, traveling in the northern territory, was caught in an appalling storm and took refuge in a tunnel in the rocks. This place was about 100 yards long, 20 feet wide and 20 feet high. When the storm and darkness began to pass the inspector realized that close by him were a number of mummified bodies. He counted between forty and fifty. The natives told him that these were the remains of a tribe that had camped in the tunnel during a storm, and had all been killed by lightning. They were amazed that he had survived, for they spoke of the place as being "haunted by lightning."

Poppcorn in the Making.

Corn popping is an explosion due to the expansion, under pressure, of moisture contained in the starch grains. Until the explosion takes place, this force is contained by the celloidal matrix in which the starch grains are imbedded. As a result of popping, there is a hydrolysis of much of the starch, a loss of moisture, and the obliteration of all cellular structure in the endosperm.

Doings of the Literary Society
The Thomas J. Rusk Literary Society held its regular weekly meeting Thursday, December 6th, 1923. After attending to the roll call, our picture for the annual, and other official business, the society was entertained by a "short-but-sweet" little program, consisting of a debate. The question for debate was, "Resolved, That foreign immigration to this country should be limited." The Hon. E. L. Bailey and Bennett Gray, esq., represented the affirmative and Messrs. Fred Tillery and Gail McClain the negative. The affirmative won unanimously.

Hey! Spud! Dessert!

Hey, you college girls, you should have been with the Scouts Saturday afternoon. Where did we go? Come to Room 21 Friday at 4 p. m. and investigate. No obligation on you; Miss Broadfoot will gladly demonstrate and we are able assistants.

All our money didn't we spend for good things to eat? Do you want your name in the next pot? We are anxious to have it there; come and be a sister scout. Scout Reporter.

INTERESTING "ADS"

We have been reading proofs of the Christmas shopping "ads" of Nacogdoches stores that will appear in the Sentinel today.

They are as interesting as anything that one may peruse these days, for they speak not only of the approaching yuletide, with all that means, but they illustrate as well the rapid growth of the city and its development.

Sometimes we are apt to think of the modern Nacogdoches in terms only of population and of public improvements—street paving, parks, public playgrounds and a dozen other items of the kind.

But the real earmark of the progressive city is its stores.

The real badge of prosperity is the type of retail stores a city boasts.

The advertising columns of the newspaper of today demonstrate the fact that Nacogdoches has stores of which any city may be proud and as metropolitan as those of many cities boasting larger population. And the stores themselves are as interesting as the "ads."

Miss Mabel Urey, who is the teacher of a large class in expression in the city, left today at noon to spend the week-end with her parents at Nacogdoches.—Lufkin News, 8th.

"Built Me Up"

"I USED Cardui for years and it did me more good than any medicine I ever used," writes Mrs. M. C. Ragsdale, of Port Towson, Okla. "I used to suffer with womanly trouble that weakened me until I was a mere shadow, nervous, and could not sleep. I did not feel like I could live.

"It seemed that nothing helped me till I heard of Cardui and began to use it. It strengthened me and, as 'twas recommended to do, it regulated and built me up till I was like another woman."

If you are weak, run-down and feel that you need a tonic, take Cardui, the woman's tonic, the tonic about which you have always heard, the tonic that helps weak women regain their strength.

Cardui acts on the womanly system and helps relieve pain and discomfort due to female ailments.

Try Cardui, today, for your trouble.

GIRL REFUSES TO DIE WITH PLEDGE UNPAID

Miss Elizabeth Bason of El Paso, Texas, a young school teacher, became suddenly ill, and informed by her physician that she could not live, asked for her check book and wrote a check for $50, to finish paying her subscription of $250 to the 75 Million Campaign, saying that she could not go out to meet God with her pledge unpaid.

A CARD OF THANKS

The ladies of Christ church desire to extend their thanks and appreciation to all who helped to make their sale and luncheon held last Saturday a success. Especially Mr. Hazle and Mr. McLain for the use of building, Goldsberry Bros. for a donation of Sunset Coffee, to Mr. C. W. Bailey for Maxwell House coffee, to Mrs. Lucian Buchanan for pies, to Miss Mary Hoffman for a child's hat and to Mr. Bowdon Cason and others for substantial donations. Also to those who gave so generously of their time and labor.

The many friends of the H. B. Davis family will sympathize with them in the loss by fire a few days ago at their old home place at Cushing, which was totally destroyed by fire, which originated from laundry spread in front of an open fireplace, the occupants being absent at the time. The insurance will not nearly cover the loss. This was their home for a number of years before their removal to Nacogdoches, and all regarded it as only "the old home" can be, hence the members of the family are grieved very greatly over the misfortune.

The barn of P. R. Keith, a tenant on the Parmley place, 4 miles east of town, was struck by lightning during the terrific storm Saturday night and his mule killed. The building was not damaged to any great extent. The above named calamity leaves Mr. Keith with one decrepit mule, past the working age, and the loss of his only good animal seriously handicaps him in his farm work and practically prevents him from planting and cultivating another crop unless the mule can be replaced. A subscription paper was circulated in town Monday for the purpose of raising a fund with which to purchase another work animal for Mr. Keith.

Parker, who is operating oil wells in the Corsicana district: "My number two well came in last night six thousand barrels." This is fine! The lucky oilman is a native of Nacogdoches and has a host of friends throughout this section, who will rejoice at his good fortune.

Dr. Turner has made several trips to Nacogdoches this week in attendance upon Mrs. Ed Smith, who has been seriously ill but who is now greatly improved.—Garrison News, 7th.

Miss Exier Lewis, county superintendent, was absent from her office Thursday, having been called to Alazan on account of conditions resulting from the wounding of the principal of that school, Prof. F. F. Smith, by Donald King. Miss Lewis taught the school Thursday, and then turned it over to Miss Zenie Seale, who had been selected to serve as principal pending the recovery of Prof. Smith, who was reported as not dangerously injured, but who will necessarily be absent from his duties for an indefinite time. Misses Ira Seale and Mattie Bonner are the other teachers in the school. The King lad was expelled from the school Thursday by the directors, Miss Lewis reported.

IMPORTANT TO STUDENTS

Are You Planning to Return to School After Xmas? If Not, Read This

To the young man or woman, who for any reason, does not expect to return to public school after the Christmas holidays, let us suggest to you to "kill two birds with one stone". Enter the Tyler Commercial College for any one of their courses with which is given a complete literary course (without additional cost), just as you would get if you continued in public school, in a more practical manner and is much more interesting. The records of this great school show that a large number of their graduates who are now holding responsible positions and drawing good salaries, came from the graded schools. It is not, by any means, necessary to have a high school diploma to succeed with a course in this school. Some of the most successful graduates entered from the 7th to 8th grades. The two essential requisites to succeed are a LITTLE COMMON SENSE and a WILL to work hard. If you enroll with these, they will do the rest. By entering now, you may complete the General Business Course by the time public school ends its term—thereby enabling you to step into a good position.

A PRIZE FOR YOUR EFFORT

To the student entering the Tyler Commercial College, who makes the highest average in all courses taken for the year of 1924, will be given, free of cost, a transferable scholarship, value $70.00, any course taught. This is to encourage hard work and honest effort on the part of the student because the more proficient the graduates, the greater they reflect on the institution and the better service they can render the business man. The only requirement to enter this contest is HARD WORK, and to notify the Enrolling Secretary either by letter before you enter, or at any time you enroll, that you are going to WIN. P. J. ALLEN

Mr. P. J. Allen, an ex-Confederate Veteran and a former resident of this county, died Friday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. G. Ratcliff, in Houston. His death was entirely unexpected, as he was only ill about two hours. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Ratcliff, and a son, Pink Allen, of Dallas. Mr. Allen was somewhat more than 80 years old, it was said.

Funeral services were held and interment made at Glenwood cemetery, Houston, Saturday morning. Rev. States Jacobs conducting the service. He had been a member of the Presbyterian church for many years. The pallbearers were old ex-Confederates, and the floral offerings exquisite and profuse, being sent by the Daughters of the Confederacy and other women's organizations allied to the Veterans.

Many of the older residents of this community will be saddened by the passing of their former friend.

NEW NAMES.

Have you noticed the new names in the social columns of the daily newspaper?

The city is changing; changing fast. Newcomers there are by the score—not only newcomers from the standpoint of residence, but newcomers in the sense that they have but recently arrived, socially speaking.

Reading the social news these days in philosophical mood and with thought to be amused one may spend many a delightful hour.

Truly that old adage is based on fact which has it that "there are three generations between shirtsleeves and shirtsleeves," but the author might have gone a bit further and added, "But in one generation a man may get from the gulf to gulf; from over-clothes to evening clothes; from the country to the country club; from the peanut roaster to the social roaster."

And we rejoice that it is so. If it were not America, would be no different from Europe and instead of electing a new president every four years we should be studying how to get rid of an unpopular king without endangering our own heads.

Yes, verily, folks, the social column, read from the standpoint of one who knows the town and can get amusement out of what he knows, is a veritable mine of entertainment.

Christmas is coming. Do your shopping now. Nacogdoches merchants have the goods you want.

ROTARY MEETING

The Rotarians were delightfully entertained with a very interesting program at their regular luncheon on Wednesday, the same being in charge of Hoss Thomas and Little Joe Langston, who had as their guests Miss Grace Bailey, teacher of Educational Training, and Miss Ida Pritchett, director of Music, in the Teachers' College.

Miss Bailey in her most charming manner, being very ably assisted by Miss Pritchett as accompanist, rendered two beautiful vocal solos.

Bill Nye Tilford in his very entertaining way gave one of his readings, "The Invalid's Story."

This committee also had as their guests Mr. J. Doug Morgan, owner of the famous Doug Morgan shows, who are now sojourning in our city, together with his original Hawaiian orchestra, composed of Mr. Wilcox and two Mr. Blakes, which orchestra entertained for several minutes with some of their native songs and music. Announcement was made that a special meeting would be held on Friday, December 21st, at which time Lester Dawley, governor of the 13th district of Rotary, will be with us.

The attendance at this meeting Wednesday was exceptionally good, there being only one absentee.

MARINE RECRUITERS HERE

"The Marines have landed and have the situation well in hand" is now a proven fact since the arrival here of Sergeants I. L. Hinton and Charles M. Michael of the U. S. Marine Recruiting Service. Sergeants Hinton and Michael arrived in Nacogdoches last Monday afternoon and will establish a recruiting station for the U. S. Marine Corps in the City Hall building through the courtesy of the city officials.

This splendid branch of the armed forces of the United States has many splendid opportunities and advantages to offer the "red-blooded" American "he-man," such as extensive travel, good pay, adventure, and an opportunity to master any of the 86 trades that are being taught to Marines in the United States Marine Corps Institute, which school is being conducted by the Marine Corps and exclusively for the United States Marines.

Sergeant Hinton stated Thursday morning that he hopes to have the station open here and ready for business Friday morning, but at the present was handicapped on account of some unknown delay in the arrival of the freight which is en route here from their former station at Waco. He also stated to the Sentinel that the outlook here for desirable men was excellent and that he expected to do even better here than in Waco, where the Marines maintained an office for practically a year and a half. And that either of these men will be glad to explain this splendid organization to anyone at any time either by stopping them on the streets or by communicating with them at the City Hall building, as they have adopted a slogan, "Courtesy Costs Nothing, but Pays Large Dividends."

ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved—Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfected Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The last triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines, thus enters upon a wider field of popularity—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no gripping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price 35 cents for the large family size; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(Adv.)

TRAGEDY AT DANCE

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 12.—John George, 26, an insurance agent, shot and probably fatally wounded his wife, fatally wounded Eugene Coats, 17, Mrs. George's dancing partner, and killed himself at a dance in the home of his mother-in-law here a few minutes after midnight today. That George was crazed with jealousy because his wife had refused to dance with him and was dancing with Coats was the theory advanced by investigators who sought a motive for his act.

Promises are funny things; they landed Doc Cook in jail and politicians in high places.

Information has reached the city that George Millard, a well-known and popular Nacogdoches boy who is attending the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., has been elected captain of the football team of that institution for the coming year—an honor well deserved, and which will be gratifying to his many friends.

A composite summary of all football scores made in this country this fall discloses 25,122 defeats and 25,122 practically perfect alibis.

A SEARCHING MUST

The word that Jesus spoke to Nicodemus is more searching than all the other Scriptures which says ye must be born again that strikes at the very root of the matter. It makes useless all that a man can do as a means of salvation, the man that Jesus spoke these words to must have been a very good man, yet he was not a fit subject for the Kingdom of God, for Jesus said ye must be born again. He still had carnality in him and the spirit of God is the only thing that takes carnality out of man and he must be born of the spirit and then the person becomes spiritual in relations. 6:8 Paul says, he that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption, but he that soweth to the spirit shall of the spirit reap life everlasting and it is impossible to sow to the spirit until you are born of the spirit. So the main thing is to be born again. How careful preachers ought to be in urging people to join these co-called churches because when they get a person to join them that has not been born again they will baptize them and write their name on the church book, then they are possibly sealed for the devil. WILL SPEAK TO FARMERS

Mr. J. W. L. Hall, secretary of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, Dallas, will address the farmers at the courthouse on Thursday, December 20, on the subject of systematic marketing of cotton.

The Farm Bureau plan of marketing cotton has stood the test of actual experience, and has proven to be safe, sound and economical. Fifteen Nacogdoches county farmers have sold through this organization for the past three years. Eighty-five other Nacogdoches county farmers have only recently signed the cotton contract, and will sell through the organization for the next five years.

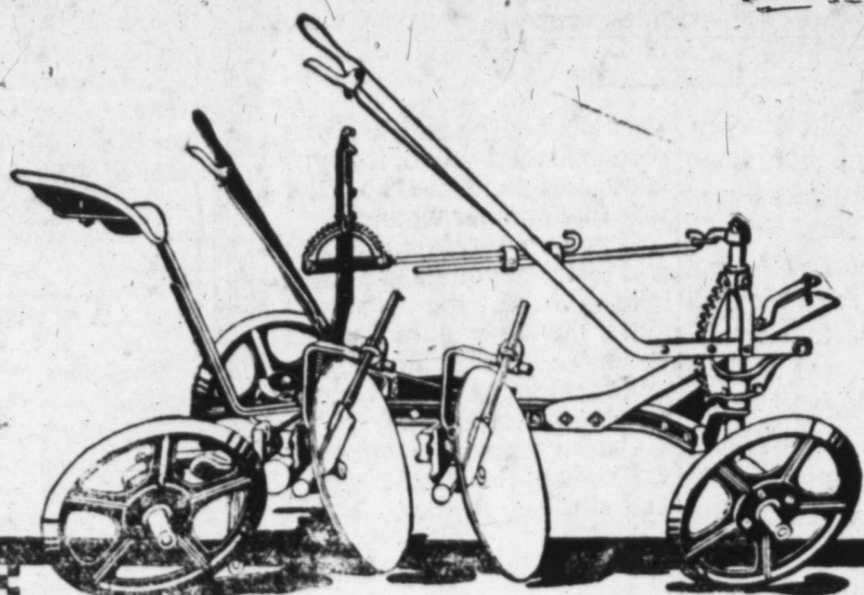

The Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association sold and paid for 96,000 bales of cotton in 1921, 76,000 bales in 1922, and will handle 156,000 bales during the present season.

Mr. Hall will explain the method of handling the farmers' cotton now in practical use by this organization. His address will be worth hearing, both by the farmers and the business men.

If the cotton farmer would only adopt a safe, systematic plan of marketing his product throughout the entire twelve months, rather than to dump it all on the market as soon as he gathers it, we would stabilize the price and be free from the losses caused by violent fluctuations. Every cotton farmer in the county should hear Mr. Hall's address.

In addition to the center counter, show cases, scales, thread case, and other fixtures, we have one 60-gallon capacity, self-measuring coal oil tank, one heater, one rope rack, one 4-foot step ladder, and other fixtures for sale. One oil or molasses faucet, one bung borer, a lot of counter trays, one Boge needle case, this case belongs to the company. We can turn it over to anyone who buys the needles to be used. We have a full selection of sewing machine needles which we will sell below factory cost. These we can sell with or without the case. The day after Christmas we will devote selling the stock out to merchants. There will be something attractive in our offer that day. Until then we will sell goods out of stock at prices given in former advertisements. In addition, these special offers: Gloves, 15, 20 and 25c. Children's socks, 10c pair; cedar faucets, 15c. One thousand sheet tissue toilet paper, 9 for one dollar, only two weeks more to get in on these prices. A great many articles that he haven't mentioned will be sold at a low price. 12-1dw1 C. W. Holds to Its Work A Little Giant for Plowing

Correct angle of the strong, clean-faced, keen-edged discs; weight of the driver on the seat set well back, and the pull of the team combine to give unusual penetration to the

John Deere Pony Disc

It is built for use with small mules or light horses, but is as strong as larger plows—a giant for work. A popular plow among planters of the cotton belt for many years.

Opens up full depth furrow the first round, with both discs cutting same depth. Simple lever control to meet all field conditions.

Adjustable scrapers keep the discs clean, lighten the draft, and improve the quality of the work. High-speed, long-lived disc bearings—discs revolve freely.

Single- and double-disc sizes. Single-disc can be made to cut eight, nine or ten inches by shifting landing lever. Double-disc cuts eight inches per disc; can be changed to triple-disc by using third beam attachment.

Drop in and see this plow next time you are in town.
