HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"When Clocks Stopped" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, everybody: Bryan Carlock of Bloomington, Ill., is one man who knows exactly when his adventure started.

When death is staring you in the face, you don't stop to look at your watches and say, "Ho hum, if I don't get out of this mess pretty quick I'll be late for dinner."

He knows it because, when the blow struck, all the clocks and watches stopped. It was the end of time. The end of the world!

It Was Just Before Dinner, When— In the meantime, they were busy getting dinner ready.

In the meantime, they were busy getting dinner ready. Chester Linton had come home. Sis was in the kitchen making salad and biscuits.

And then—terror! The words were hardly out of his sister's mouth when the building began to sway and rock.

The More He Struggled, the Worse His Fix. The apartment was on the second floor of a brick building at the corner of Broadway and Linden.

and the kids were safely at the bottom. The lieutenant was behind him. Bryan was half way down that tottering stairway when his foot went through a broken step and caught there.

The stairway was moving like an escalator.

He struggled to extricate himself, but the harder he tried, the tighter he seemed to be wedging himself in.

On the other side of the street, a neighbor was lying dead on the lawn—a great chunk of cornice beside him.

Tidal Wave Threatens Destruction and Hunger. And then, another terrible cry was passed from mouth to mouth through the stricken area.

"When we couldn't run any more, we walked. We went on that way for two or three hours, through streets filled with debris and ruin and desolation.

He Didn't Even Feel Nail in His Leg. They were all exhausted by this time. There was still no sign of a tidal wave and, tidal wave or no tidal wave, Bryan wasn't going to go a step farther.

They wandered back toward the ocean and, within a block of the Lintons' wrecked house they found an apartment building which was still in pretty good shape, and managed to get shelter for the night.

For the first time, then, Bryan noticed that his right foot was damp. He pulled up his trouser leg and found the foot covered with blood.

Calls Quake's Effects Worse Than War. The tremors continued all through the night. They stayed in the apartment house, but in the morning they had to move on, for the city's mains had been broken and there was no gas or water.

Matching Lace Trims Silk Sheers

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NO MATTER how much your taste and the general tenor of your life may call for practical tailored and sporty-type clothes,

Current collections include both dark and light sheers with matching lace trims. A costume done in monotone color scheme of either the very fashionable spruce green or beetroot red would be outstanding.

As to swank styling the redingote theme prevails since it offers such excellent opportunity to introduce border effects with lace insertions after the manner shown in the charming dress to the left in the picture.

The other young woman seeks and finds midsummer coolness in a gown of beguiling rose-glow silk marquisette trimmed with insets of matching lace.

MANY COLORS SEEN IN COATS FOR FALL

Coats of many colors have been featured so extensively in Paris that they are expected to be early fall fashion successes in this country.

One French designer has introduced a little jacket made of two-inch velvet ribbon sewn together in vertical strips, the ribbon combining shades of apple green, old blue, chamois, pink which has a blue cast and an orchid-purple.

Another jacket is made of red and blue grosgrain ribbon interlaced to suggest a woven pattern.

One-Piece Dress of Blue Linen for Morning Wear

For morning wear Schiaparelli makes a one-piece dress of pale blue linen in a coarse, rough weave. It is worn with a jacket of flame-colored linen made with short cap sleeves.

A CLEAR CASE OF HOLD-UP

By H. Irving King
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service.

ANNA WAKEFIELD had so many admirers that she could pick and choose when it came to selecting a husband. Mr. and Mrs. Wakefield looked the situation over and decided that they would do the picking and choosing themselves.

The parents stole a march on their daughter and chose Alexander Broadwood—a perfectly respectable and perfectly presentable young man who, if he was rather weak in the upper story, was possessed of a father whose money was sufficient to balance any little defects in the son. If Anna married Alexander, they reasoned, her life would be thenceforth free from care. Not a thing could they see against the wisdom of this choice—which had been arrived at after a thorough canvassing of the list of candidates—and when the parents announced it to Anna, together with a calm statement of the reasons therefor, they expected her to appreciate and applaud their work. But she didn't. Instead she exercised her rights and vetoed the proceedings of the parental congress; which veto was promptly and unanimously overridden and she was ordered to marry Alexander. The great weakness of Anna's position lay in the fact that she could not dispute any of the statements her parents made with regard to the qualifications of Alexander—and that she had no opposing candidate to present! She thought over carefully her list of admirers but could find no one she wanted to marry. Her mind lingered longest over Clinton Howard—but there were objections to him. He had no money and had once been a harum-scarum sort of fellow. He was very good looking, was now working hard to establish himself as a lawyer, and had the most charming manners imaginable. At least so Anna thought.

Clinton called that very evening. He and Anna discussed several subjects, he always succeeding in bringing her over to his view of the matter discussed. How different from Alexander who always agreed with her! When he had gone Anna thought: "What a wonderful brain Clinton has, after all. And how really charming his manners are. I wonder how one feels when they are in love?"

FOR the next few days all she could think of was Clinton. A few days after his call upon Anna he went to see Mr. Wakefield at his office in the city—went to see him about some law business, for the firm of which Clinton had just become a junior was handling a very important lawsuit for Mr. Wakefield, the loss of which would cause him much distress of mind and depletion of wealth.

"Howard," said Mr. Wakefield when they had discussed the lawsuit for some time, "you are the first man who has seemed really to get a grip on this case—and I have tried many lawyers in it. I must win the suit or I shall be practically ruined—and I see clearly that you can win it for me."

"I can," replied Clinton, "and I believe I am the only man that can. Now to change the subject—I want to marry your daughter."

"What?" gasped Wakefield, "marry Anna?"

"Precisely," replied Clinton; "I love her and I believe she loves me. I want your permission to find out, anyway. I have a sufficient income and my prospects are good."

"Oh, my dear Howard," cried Wakefield, "I couldn't think of it. Anna's mother and I have already chosen a husband for her."

"Has Anna agreed to your choice?" asked Clinton.

"No," faltered Wakefield, "not yet."

Lesson for August 8

GOD FEEDS A PEOPLE.

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 16:11-20; 17:3-6.
GOLDEN TEXT—Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father. James 1:17.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When God's People Were Hungry.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God Feeding His People.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Provides for Our Needs.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Supply Adequate for a Nation's Need.

Israel, led by God, is on a journey to the promised land. But to reach their goal they must pass through the wilderness. Not only are there weary miles to travel, but there are privations to be endured. Life is like that.

"People may be strong and hopeful at the beginning of a project, and most effusively and devoutly thankful at its close, but the difficulty is to go manfully through the process. Israel was in the desert, and never were spoiled children more peevish, suspicious, and altogether ill-behaved. If they could have stepped out of Egypt into Canaan at once, probably they would have been as pious as most of us; but there was the weary interval, the inhospitable wilderness! So it is in our life. Accept it as a solemn and instructive fact that life is a process . . . more than a beginning and an ending" (Joseph Parker).

Note how elemental are man's needs in the final analysis—bread and water. The very things we take almost for granted as we concern ourselves with life's weighty interests and profound problems become, if lacking, the only things that have any real meaning. And who is it that can provide them? No one but God Himself.

I. Bread from Heaven. (Exod. 16:11-20).

Observe first of all that this was a divine provision. There are responsibilities in life which we may bear—and must bear, but in the ultimate meeting of our real needs we must look to God.

Secondly, we note that it was a daily provision. What forehanded folk many of us are, and no doubt rightly so, for God puts no premium on improvidence. But once again we must recognize, as did Israel in receiving the daily manna in the wilderness that ours is indeed a moment by moment existence. We plan bravely for the next decade or the next generation, but as a matter of fact it can only come to pass "if the Lord will." Read James 5:13-17.

Finally, it was a limited provision—enough for the day and no more, except for a double portion on the sixth day, and none at all on the Sabbath. These provisions were made close to Israel, and yet there were those who attempted to lay up for the morrow, and some even went out to seek manna on the Sabbath day.

We marvel at their stubborn obstinacy, but are we not often just like them. Some there are who are always expecting that the laws of both God and man should be set aside for them, but mark it well, they ultimately come to grief. The spiritual application is obvious, and most serious. God has provided a way of redemption, and has made clear how man should and must relate himself to it. Folly it is to ignore God's plan, and vaguely and wishfully think that there is some other way.

II. A Rock in the Wilderness (Exod. 17:3-6).

"And the people thirsted"—for the daily manna was not enough—they must have water. Needy, yes, constantly needy are God's children. "Every life knows the bite of necessity . . . every soul cries out in pain because there is wanting some completing favor, some culminating and all-containing benediction. Here it is bread; there it is water; but everywhere a famine of . . . in many a case a famine of soul, a spiritual destitution, a consciousness of a void which time cannot satisfy or space content."

God always provides. There is a rock in the wilderness. But what pleasure does a murmuring people find in a rock when they famish for water? It is God's delightful custom to meet our needs in unexpected ways and by means which we do not understand. Even our physical necessities come from unthought of sources.

III. The Bread and the Water of Life.

Let us make certain that we do not miss the spiritual truth of our lesson which is revealed by Scripture itself. Paul speaks in I Corinthians 10:1-4 of this very incident in the experience of Israel, and says that they "did all eat the same spiritual meat and did all drink the same spiritual drink; for they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them: and that Rock was Christ." See also John 4:14.

Hungry and thirsty soul, you who are still unsatisfied after tasting all that life apart from Christ has to offer, will you not, just now, take him who is the living bread, and come to the Rock which flows with living water?

Sew, Sew, Sew-Your-Own

TO MAKE you the girl of his dreams (and to keep him always dreaming), that's the happy ambition behind these newest creations by Sew-Your-Own. One of these frocks to enhance your beauty, and an evening to spend in that romantic lane of Moonlight and Roses—isn't it quite likely that you will become the girl of his dreams?

Luncheon for Two. When he takes you out to luncheon you should be the very essence of chic. A two piece like the one at the left will bring the sort of eye-compliments you like, and you'll find it a great boon to comfort if the date is to be soon. You will probably want it made of the season's hit material, sheer crepe. The vestee is smart in a contrasting color.

When It's Dancing. He'll be very Scotch about giving away dances when he sees you in your copy of the frock in the center. It was really born to dance. The tucked skirt has all the thrilling sophistication of a gored one, and it's much easier to sew. Little touches of grosgrain, and pretty puff sleeves add the kind of quiet elegance that makes this your choice for those happy hours of dancing under the stars.

End of Summer. The season, like romance, rolls swiftly. But you still have time to do a few summery things in a summery frock such as the one at the right. In dimity or swiss it will make you more youthful and charming than many a more ornate style (and after all the girl of his dreams must be young and charming). A good suggestion might be to cut a carbon copy, while you're about it, in sheer wool with long sleeves. Then there'll be nothing to worry about when a cool evening happens along.

The Patterns. Pattern 1288 is designed for sizes 14-20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material. Pattern 1326 is designed for sizes 12-20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material. Pattern 1228 is designed for sizes 11-19 (29 to 37 bust). Size 13 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 or 39-inch material. With long sleeves 4 3/4 yards are required.

HAGERMAN GIRL SCOUTS AT PINE LODGE

Twenty-eight girls, with bed rolls, chuck and much hilarity, left Tuesday morning, in Jim Michelet's sheep truck, for a three day stay at Pine Lodge in the Capitan. Arriving about 9:30 they made camp, had lunch and spent the rest of the day exploring the nearby ravines, canyons and mountains.

After a much appreciated supper they gathered in a natural amphitheater, a break in the canyon wall, for their ceremonial, the awarding of twelve merit badges and a religious service to dedicate their 1937 camp. Taps and benediction closed the day's activities, in a gentle shower of rain as night settled over Capitan. Next day the girls in Patrols One and Two, managing their own unit, under the direction of Blanche Lane, and doing their own cooking, with only sparse suggestion from Mrs. Boyce, were the first ready for the day's hike to McKellis Falls from the Devil's Playground. All but three of the entire troop, leaders and supervisors made this very trying and difficult trip of eight miles. Unless you have scaled these cliffs, dropped down these sheer ledges, and blazed your trail through these Spanish Daggers and prickly pears, in many places being obliged to crawl, or barely squeeze through Fat Woman's Misery, you will fail to appreciate just what all this meant to the scout troop.

After supper the girls held their "Foolish Frolic" and learned songs by rote, under the leadership of one of the younger girls, Roma Ellen Stroud. Taps and benediction closed the day.

At 6:30 the next morning the group that were to attempt to go to the summit had their rucksacks on their shoulders, were in hiking formation and ready to hit the trail with their guides, Ed Egger and Jim Michelet, who had led them on the hike of the previous day. After a seven hour climb, an encounter with a big rattler, and a lunch at the noon hour the guides, the mascot and sixteen girls reached the summit of Capitan eight miles from camp, six of the girls having been forced to turn back at about half the distance.

During the day the girls who had remained at camp, did kitchen police, ate lunch at the spring three quarters of a mile up the canyon, took pictures and collected flowers for their wild flower badges, then made up and loaded all the bed rolls and chuck boxes so that no delay would be experienced in leaving camp as soon as the hikers returned and supper was over.

On the way home, singing and sleeping became the chief occupations and, with the exception of an "impromptu fire drill," filled in the time until the truck reached Hagerman at midnight, spilling a troop of very tired but happy girl scouts into the waiting cars of their parents.

Those making the trip were: Margaret Michelet (mascot), Lucile Michelet, Polly Cumpsten, Maudine Solomon, Alphadeen Hinrichsen, Dorothy Rhodes, Marie Cassabone, Jimmie Wheeler, Dorothy Sue Davenport, Gladys Graham, Mabel Jo Wade, Doris Hinrichsen, Loretta Davis, Lila Lane, Hannah Burck, Willa Smith, Lola Ridgley, Blanche Lane, Virginia Earhart, Rose Marie Jetton, Lorraine Keeth, Wanda Davis, Jeanne Marie Michelet, Marie Wheeler, Willene Andrews, Roma Ellen Stroud, Mrs. Raynal Cumpsten

(captain), Maryedna Burck (lieutenant), Mrs. I. E. Boyce (cooking supervisor and Mrs. Jim Michelet and Mrs. T. D. Devenport, representing the Scout committee. The first sixteen in the list were the ones to reach the summit. Much of the joy and success of this camp had been directly due to the fine cooperation and help given by the father of three of our finest girl scouts, Jim Michelet.—(contributed).

Bowls of colorful zinnias added cheerfulness to the rooms of the church basement yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Aubrey Evans and Mrs. C. O. Holloway were co-hostesses to the Ladies aid. After the business session, delicious refreshments of fruit jello, brown bread sandwiches, ice tea to the grown-ups, and fruit punch to the little folks were served. About twenty were present. The next meeting will be at the church basement on August 18th with Mrs. J. T. West as hostess.
