Tells Italy France Is Prepared to Use Force . . . Japs Checked at Shanghai . . . Roosevelt on Farm Program

The news camera man took his life in his hands to secure this excellent photograph of Japanese "mopping up" operations in the Chapel district of Shanghai. "Mopping up" is the military euphemistic term for stamping out whatever life is left after the artillery bombardment has done its work.

Chaumtemps Gives Warning

IF THE necessity arises, France is prepared and ready to employ force in defense of her vital interests. At the same time she offers peace to all nations

"that will prove by their acts their desire to keep their engagements loyally."

Such was the warning, evidently directed especially to Italy and Germany, which Premier Camille Chaumtemps uttered before a congress of the central federation of his Radical Socialist party.

"I hope especially in the grievous affair of Spain this pacific, prudent, and courageous action will succeed in cutting short the violations of justice which cannot be renewed without constraining France and Britain to renew their liberty of action," Chaumtemps said.

The premier's declaration recalled French insistence that unless the nonintervention committee soon pulled foreign troops out of Spain France would open her frontier to aid the Spanish government.

Mussolini insists there are only 40,000 Italian volunteers in Spain and Fascist organs in Italy said these figures must be accepted by the nonintervention committee without argument.

Dispatches from Paris say that Mussolini and Hitler at their recent meeting in Germany reached an agreement by which Italy was given the right to order some long range guns from the Krupp works and armor plate for a new warship in return Hitler was promised a free hand in southeastern Europe to obtain the foodstuffs and trade Germany needs. Italy is plainly menacing France's African possessions, but the danger of an advance by Germany through Czechoslovakia and Austria has delayed a showdown in the Mediterranean.

Chaumtemps' declaration of policy may give Il Duce pause.

Francisco's Progress GENERALISSIMO FRANCO, having completed his conquest of Gijon and the rest of the loyalist territory in northwest Spain, began moving his insurgent forces eastward to the Aragon front, where his officers said the "decisive offensive of the war" would be begun.

Government dispatches announced the Madrid-Valencia loyalist regime was prepared to block the insurgents on all sectors of the 300-mile line from the French frontier south to Teruel, east of Madrid.

Ecuador Coup de'Etat GEN. ALBERTO ENRIQUEZ, war minister of Ecuador, and officers of the army executed a coup d'etat which forced Provisional President Federico Paez to resign and leave the country. Enriquez at once assumed power as "supreme chief" with a cabinet composed largely of army officers. He decreed the establishment of a popular tribunal to deal with persons accused of tampering with public funds and announced "a national political purge." The people accepted the change of government quietly.

Japanese Drive Checked SIX days and nights of intensified fighting around Shanghai brought from the spokesman of the Japanese army the admission that its general advance of more than 100,000 men with tanks and planes was

Animals, like human beings, often make strange friendships for which there is little explanation. For instance, a cat usually looks upon a rat as a one-course dinner, but Buddy, the kitty shown above, has made quite a pal of a white rodent.

Nellie was a New York spaniel. She roamed the streets homeless and hungry. Her eight puppies all died shortly after they were born, because the poor thing had been undernourished. But in a home for stray animals Nellie found eight new-born kittens who had lost their mother. She adopted them and they adopted her, proving that there is always an outlet for mother-love.

Pictured below Nellie and her feline brood is another odd animal affection. The Bible says that there'll come a time when the lion and the lamb shall lie down together, and here is the King of Beasts practicing up for the occasion with his bosom pal, a little black dog. Their owner is Mrs. A. J. Nannetti, of Oakland, Calif.

Furs or feathers, it really makes little difference. Above, an Australian Tabby throws a paw about her pal, the cockatoo. At right is a hen in a Chicago suburb. Deprived of her chicks, she adopted a brood of collie pups.

And just to prove once more that mother love knows no bounds in animal life, we present this kind-hearted kitty who adopted a brood of frisky yellow chicks.

Enemies by tradition, this dog and fox are friends in fact.

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Escaped Ax-Murderer" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY: This adventure yarn just proves, once more, that you don't have to prowel around the African jungles to find thrills. No, sir, you don't have to be a big game hunter, either, to run across tough spots where you have to do hair-trigger thinking.

Why, if Jimmy Hagle, who lives in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, never sees a jungle, well—he will have plenty of adventure to look back upon. Hold on to your chairs, boys and girls.

Jimmy Hagle—it's James Ruthven Hagle now—was twelve years old, back in 1917, when America jumped into the World war. Frances—that's his sister—was eighteen. Both went to the same schoolhouse. Thanksgiving rolled around and school was dismissed at noon the day before, for the holidays.

Jimmy and his schoolmates were leap-frogging home, snowballing and whetting up their Turkey Day appetites.

Siren Meant Convict Had Escaped. Right then, from over those snow-covered, vacant lots, came a low moan. It sharpened in the crackly air until it became a shriek. That meant just one thing to kids and grown-ups in Fort Leavenworth. There were three prisons around that town and when a siren groaned it meant that one or more convicts had escaped. It meant terror to women at home alone.

Jimmy and the boys were too busy with Thanksgiving plans to worry much about the siren's wail. Escaped convicts wouldn't bother kids. So they all shivered a little, started snowballing again and romped home.

Jimmy neared his house. A strange, black tomcat scurried out of the open coal chute. Jimmy heaved a snowball at it and ran into the kitchen to sniff of Thanksgiving preparation. Mother and Dad were all dressed up. Big affair up in Kansas City they had to attend. Mother would be back bright and early to fix that turkey. Jimmy and Frances had been tentatively planted with the neighbors for the night.

"Nix," said Jimmy. "We'll stay here. Think we're afraid?" Well, they did stay. Alone for the first time, the house seemed dark and sinister. The light snow turned into a Kansas blizzard. Rattled doors and windows and howled around the corners.

Lights out and twelve-year-old Jimmy lay sleepless, listening to noises of the storm. Memory of that wailing siren came back. Memory, also, of his father's comment on newspaper articles. Dad had read aloud, before he left, that five convicts—four of them convicted murderers—

It was the Ax-Murderer, Insane—Desperate. had escaped. One was a maniac murderer, guilty of a triple slaying— butcherer of three persons with a knife and ax.

Jimmy tried to think of Thanksgiving. Troubled sleep came at last. He was being shaken. His body tensed. Then, a voice called, "Buddy, I hear a noise in the basement. What do you suppose it is?" Jimmy put on a brave air. "It's that cat I saw running out. He must have come back through the coal chute."

Giant Negro With a Knife. Frances went back to her room. Jimmy's mind turned again to the siren—the escaped murderers. Ten-fifteen minutes passed. The unmistakable rattle of sliding coal. Clump clump, clump. Footsteps down there, surely. Frances was at his bedside again—trembling. "I can't sleep. You must go down and put that cat out."

Jimmy wasn't sure at all that it was a cat. Cats don't clump, clump over concrete. But he couldn't back down before his older sister. Both Jimmy and Frances tiptoed down the cellar steps, turning on the lights. Jimmy first opened the door to the food-storage room. In the dim light he saw nothing unusual. Then he threw back the door to the furnace room and entered. He glanced backward to see whether Frances was following him. She was. But behind her, at the door, was a sight that froze the blood of that twelve-year-old lad.

A giant negro—bared teeth and bloodshot eyes—was pressing the door shut with his powerful back. His right hand was on the knob. His left held a long-bladed knife—a butcher knife. It was the escaped ax murderer—insane—desperate. He was mumbly-gripping the knife convulsively.

Jimmy and Frances screamed in chorus. Jimmy thrust his sister behind him. They retreated toward the wall. A twelve-year-old boy facing an armed maniac who had fought off armed posses of grim men for days—overpowered prison keepers and escaped.

The murderer was weaving stealthily forward, muttering. The knife was bobbling for a thrust. His words were intelligible, now. "They'll never get me. They'll never get me," he repeated.

Jimmy's arms stretched backward to protect his sister. His hands touched something. Dad's tool bench!

Good Hammer Throw by Jimmy. The smooth hickory handle of a riveting hammer was in Jimmy's fingers. Instinctively they closed upon it. The convict was still advancing. Hardly aiming, Jimmy flung the hammer with his good right baseball arm at the leering face less than six feet away.

Blood spurted. The heavy hammer had struck the murderer squarely across the bridge of the nose. He sank to his knees, scrambled for a few dazed seconds—staggered to his feet.

Frances raced for the dark stairway. A black hand seized her flowing nightgown. Jimmy seized her, literally tore her free. She plunged up the stairway. She fell. Jimmy fell across her. Up again. Into the kitchen. The stairs shook with the heavy tread of the killer behind them. They were crossing the dining room—the front door their goal.

A thud on the floor. The butcher knife, hurled by the convict, quivered in the floor beside Jimmy's foot. Blood spurted high, but brother and sister plunged on.

Frances flung open the door. Out into the blizzard, screams rising over the howl of the storm. Lights flashed on. Jimmy and Frances fell exhausted upon a neighbor's porch. Police found marks of the struggle, and giant footprints leading from the Hagles' front porch. The convict had disappeared in the blizzard.

A few nights later, the killer prowled again. He was captured after a desperate battle. Today he is serving, in solitary confinement, the remainder of his life sentence in the Kansas State prison.

Scenting Hounds Bloodhounds, otterhounds, beagles, dachshunds and all the long-eared steady-running trailers, hunters and bayers are scenting hounds. The lion hunting dog of old Assyria competes with the greyhound for antiquity, and his descendants include the mastiff, Great Dane, St. Bernard, bulldog, pointer, Dalmatian and Boston terrier. Even the pug and pekingses belong to the nastiff group.

Meaning of Quipu Quipu is a system of writing and record keeping used by the Incas in which they used knotted cords called quipus. Small cords with knots in them were attached to a main cord; the color of the cord, its place, size, and the number of knots were all of significance to the record or the message. The quipus had to be made up and deciphered by specially trained persons. The method of deciphering is not known.

Home Heating Hints By John Barclay Heating Expert

Building Furnace Fire Is Easy Operation When You Follow Few Simple Rules

IT'S really no trick to build a good furnace fire quickly and easily.

Leave a layer of ashes about two inches deep spread on the grates. Spread about two inches of coal over this layer of ashes. Over the coal, place a generous amount of kindling—newspapers and light, dry wood.

The turn damper in the smoke pipe and the ashpit damper should be open wide. If the ashpit damper on your furnace is in back, open it and also the ashpit door in front. This assures maximum draft and quick ignition.

When the kindling is burning well, add fresh coal gradually. In this way you get a deep fire in little time—the kindling burning the coal beneath it, and the fire, in turn, lighting the coal above it.

From time to time, add additional fuel until you have a solid, deep fire. When this is done, check your dampers and close the ashpit door.

Should the kindling while igniting smoke a bit through the furnace door crevices, it is due to the chimney being cold and not providing enough draft to carry off the smoke. This is easily overcome by wadding a bit of newspaper, lighting it, and inserting it into the check damper. This heats the air, creating a draft in the flue pipe and chimney and carries the smoke away.

ALKALIZE THE EASY PHILLIPS' WAY

The quick way to alkalize is this: Take two teaspoons of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia 30 minutes after eating and drinking. Or, when among others—take two Phillips' Tablets that come in a small flat tin you carry in purse or vest pocket.—You do it unnoticed.

Relief is almost immediate. "Gas," nausea, acid breath and other offensive symptoms leave.—That "stuffed" feeling and pains from "acid indigestion" cease to annoy. You feel great.

This is the way, we believe, more doctors use than any other when alkalizing upset stomach.

Improved Uniform SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for November 7 CHRISTIAN CHARACTER AND PEACE

LESSON TEXT—Colossians 3:1-17. GOLDEN TEXT—And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to the which also ye are called in one body.—Colossians 3:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—In His Name. JUNIOR TOPIC—In His Name. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How May I Have Peace? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Cure for Strife.

Armistice day is but a few days away, a fact which was probably in mind when the title of our lesson was chosen, for while it speaks of "Christian character" it also refers to "peace." But the peace spoken of here is the peace of God which is the result of peace with God and which issues in holy living. The only hope of this world for a real and lasting peace is in the winning of men and women to glad allegiance to the Prince of Peace, our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Although proper is the close connection in Scripture between the most profound spiritual truth and practical holy living. Whether it be done in a land of enlightenment or in the midst of heathen darkness the teaching of the deep things of God brings forth in the receptive heart an appreciation of God's provision for our redemption, a consciousness and hatred of sin and an appropriation of victory in Christ. All three of these factors emerge in the study of our lesson.

I. "Seek Those Things Which Are Above" (vv. 1-4).

Faith in Christ makes us one with him in his death and in his resurrection. We are therefore to live in resurrection power. Our Lord has entered into heaven, and is there seated at God's right hand. If we are in him, if we have died and arisen with him, we are dead to the things of this world and our one desire is to "seek those things which are above."

The mystic union of the believer with Christ brings us so close to God our Father that we may say with the poet:

"Near, so very near to God, Nearer I could not be, For in the person of His Son I am as near as He."

We are "hid with Christ in God." He is our very life. Note however that this union with Christ expresses itself in a most practical manner for us as Christians are admonished to

II. "Mortify Your Members . . . upon the Earth" (vv. 5-9).

The most spiritual Christian is the one who is most sensitive to sin and most earnest in his purpose that it should be mortified—which means "put to death." We may not temporize—we must not compromise with sin. Put it to death.

The list of things which are to be put away include a number of sins which we recognize at once as utterly inconsistent with a Christian profession. But note also that there are a number of them which are all too common among Christian people—covetousness, anger, wrath, malice, and so forth. Lying and shameful talk are condemned by some (and practiced by many). We have a rather long list of what Dr. Van Dyke called by the anomalous name of "Respectable Sins of Nice People." But a realization of what it means to be a Christian at once rules out as sinful indeed those things which may be received with a false cloak of respectability among some who profess to follow Christ.

III. "Put On the New Man" (vv. 11-17).

Christianity is positive. We put off sin—we put on righteousness. Knowing no lines of racial or creedal distinction we recognize Christ as "all and in all." Then as "God's elect, holy and beloved," we are clothed with the Spirit of Christ. Tenderhearted, kind, lowly, meek, of a forgiving spirit, long-suffering; all these Christlike ways of living should appear in those who are hid with him in God. As the encircling band which holds together these beautiful and precious virtues, we have love, "the bond of perfectness" (v. 14).

These outward manifestations of our oneness with Christ have an inward controlling power—for in our hearts "the peace of Christ" is to "rule." The word means to serve as "umpire," as a referee in times of difficulty. There in the Christian man's inmost being we also find the "word of Christ" dwelling, really abiding, and not in scarcity but "richly." Small wonder that there is in such a heart a never-ending song which glorifies God's grace and which helps and admonishes others.

Our final verse sums up the life of the Christian, for in whatsoever he does there is but one motive, one purpose—a willing thankful response to the will of God. He does nothing that he cannot do in the name of the Lord Jesus. It is a gloriously simple and delightful life. Dear reader, if you are not saved, not a Christian, will you not take Christ as your Saviour just now?

HOW TO SEW

There May Be Many Reasons for Making Quilted Chair Pads.

IF ALL the reasons for quilted chair pads were lined up in order of their importance the most intangible reason of all might head the list. Yes, it is quite likely that any decorator, amateur or professional would place atmosphere at the top. But then it is also possible that first rating might be given to the reason that the pressure of slats across the backs of chairs is softened by quilted pads. Then, though it might not be mentioned, it is a known fact that worn out cane seats are sometimes replaced with inexpensive composition seats which may be disguised by gay quilted pads.

Chintz, calico or gingham chair pads are in fact one of the simplest and most inexpensive ways of adding color and charm as well as comfort to a room. Such pads are often used on the backs of chairs and not on the seats, and especially for side chairs, the seat pads used without any back covering. In making such small things as these it is quite easy to do the quilting on the machine. Or, if you wish to take the other point of view about it, the work of quilting them by hand would not consume an unreasonable amount of time. There is no doubt that handwork has a certain quaintness that machine work lacks.

The pads shown here are made with one layer of sheet wadding between the two layers of the chintz. The edge bindings and ties are made of bias tape. Cut the three layers of the pad material exactly the size and shape you want them to be when finished. Place the sheet wadding between the two layers of covering material as shown here at A. Either pin or baste in this position, and then quilt as shown here at B. Make the ties by stitching the lengthwise edges of the bias tape together, and then tack them to the corners of the pad as at C before it is bound. Now, bind the edges, sewing the ties right in with the binding as shown here at D.

Why of Eiffel Tower

Although the Eiffel tower is perhaps the most distinctive structure in Paris, how many know what its uses are and why it was built? The Standard American Encyclopedia tells that it was built for the Paris Exposition of 1889, and now, aside from being one of the chief ornaments of the city, it is immensely valuable for meteorological purposes.

Since 1910 the tower has been used as a wireless station and also serves as a time signal center, an electrical illumination system flashing forth the hours and quarters.

THREE BILLION DOLLARS

As an indication of the importance of banking to a state, community or city consider how much progress would have been made in Colorado during the past five years, with THREE BILLION DOLLARS taken away from the state's wealth.

During the past five years, the banks of Colorado have loaned out, for the purpose of promoting agriculture, mining, industry, business and to satisfy personal needs more than this amount. This money has made possible the growth and progress of the state. Without banks, the state would be forced to a primitive existence; daily lives would be entirely changed; life would lose much of its appeal.

Mark Twain's War Recipe

With cannons booming to the right of us and left of us it becomes timely to print once again the formula usually used to drag nations into war, as described by Mark Twain in his posthumously published "Mysterious Stranger." Here it is:

"The loud little handful—as usual—will shout for the war. The pulpit will—warily and cautiously—object—at first; the great, big, dull bulk of the nation will rub its sleepy eyes and try to make out why there should be a war, and will say, earnestly and indignantly, 'It is unjust and dishonorable, and there is no necessity for it.' Then a handful will shout louder. A few fair men on the other side will argue and reason against the war with speech and pen, and at first will have a hearing and will be applauded; but it will not last long; those others will outsmart them, and presently the anti-war audiences will thin out and lose popularity. Before long you will see this curious thing; the speakers stoned from the platform, and free speech strangled by hordes of furious men who in their secret hearts are still at one with those who stone speakers—as earli-lier—but do not dare say so. And now the whole nation—pulpit and all—will take up the war-cry, and shout itself hoarse, and mob any honest man who ventures to open his mouth; and presently such mouths will cease to open. Next the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame upon the nation that it attacked, and every man will be glad of those conscience-soothing falsities, and will diligently study them, and refuse to examine any refutations of them; and thus he will by and by convince himself that the war is just, and will thank God for the better sleep he enjoys after this process of grotesque self-deception."—Pittsburgh Press.

Hull, Author Of Kearney Code To Be Honored Soon

To one man more than to any other, the citizens of New Mexico owe a tribute of respect for his service to the state in establishing an orderly and legal form of government when this section was taken into possession by General Philip Kearney in 1846. Quite naturally there had to be some form of law and the then existing law was not, in its entirety, adapted to our theories of government. Until the Organic Act, which created the Territory of New Mexico was passed in 1850, the country was under military government. During this time a code of laws, known as the Kearney code, was in effect. It was so complete and equitable that it was carried down, in great part, into our laws in effect today.

The author of this code was a private soldier in General Kearney's division, Willard Preble Hull by name. He was a graduate of Yale college in the class of '39 and was elected to Congress from his district in Missouri while with General Kearney at Santa Fe. He served three terms in Congress and was later elected Governor of Missouri.

Through the efforts of one of our own citizens his photograph has been obtained with a view to having a creditable portrait made and placed in the supreme court building at Santa Fe. We hope that the plan will be accomplished.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Michelet and Mesdames Jack Cassabone and J. V. Brown went to Santa Fe last Saturday, where Mrs. Michelet transacted American Legion affairs. They returned home Saturday night. Mrs. Michelet is to go to Indianapolis, Indiana this month on official business.

"Kryl and His Symphony Orchestra have been a watchword of the musically-minded for more than a generation. It was thirty-three years ago that this organization under its dynamic conductor, set out upon its first tour, yet today, as it completes preparations for another coast to coast trip, its popularity is greater than ever.

Kryl and his symphony orchestra have presented over twelve thousand concerts in these thirty-three years and have travelled more than a million miles. They have a special appeal for educational institutions, for in recent years they have appeared in more than a hundred colleges and universities annually.

Mary McCormic, Soloist Bohumir Kryl, who has been called "the most remarkable cornetist in the world," has also received highest praise as a conductor. For this year's tour his soloist will be Mary McCormic, brilliant American soprano, whose recent appearance at the Grant Park outdoor concerts in Chicago was one of the most successful of the entire summer. Said Eugene Stinson of the Chicago Daily News, "... there are six or seven phenomenal voices in a generation, and Miss McCormic is one of the phenomena of ours."

Kryl's 1937-38 schedule is now entirely filled and he is making arrangements for the 1938-39 season.

The New Mexico Military Institute will present this famous organization at Roswell on Tuesday, November 9th at the Junior high school auditorium. See the announcement to be found elsewhere in this issue for details.
