Hamilton Joint Statehood Bill.

The Hamilton Joint Statehood bill contains about forty sections, which, of course, relate to Oklahoma and Indian Territory as well as New Mexico and Arizona. In fact, the first seventeen sections deal exclusively with the former two territories, and the part of the act which directly interests the inhabitants of the territories of New Mexico and Arizona begins with the eighteenth.

Naturally the text is too long for reproduction in full, so we present a synopsis.

Sec. 18. That the inhabitants of all that area known as Arizona and New Mexico may become the state of Arizona.

19. All qualified electors are authorized to vote for and choose delegates to form a convention. The number of delegates is to be 110, of which New Mexico is to furnish 66, Arizona 44. The delegates are to be apportioned from the two territories, on a basis of population as shown by the census of 1900. A registration list is to be prepared in the same manner as now authorized by the two territories, and the election of delegates to be conducted in the regular way.

Sec. 20. The delegates thus elected shall meet at Santa Fe on the fifth Monday after their election, and shall, upon organization, declare on behalf of the people of the proposed state that they adopt the constitution of the United States; and authorizes said convention to form a constitution for the new state. The constitution shall be republican in form and shall in all respects coincide with the requirements for statehood as provided in the Federal statutes. The debt of the two territories shall be assumed by the new state. Provision must be made for the maintenance of public schools, which shall be conducted in English; but other languages may also be taught.

That no restrictions of the right of suffrage on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude shall be enacted; and that all state officials must be able to read and write the English language.

That the capital shall be temporarily located at Santa Fe until the year 1915.

That said constitution shall be presented to the people, for ratification or rejection, not less than sixty days nor more than six months after the adjournment of the constitutional convention.

Sec. 22. That the new state shall be entitled to two representatives in the United States house of representatives, and that said representatives, together with the governor and other state officials provided for in the constitution, shall be elected on the same day of the election for the adoption of the constitution.

In this section provision is made for the support of free non-sectarian schools. Four sections in each township are set aside for this purpose; viz: 13, 16, 33 and 36.

Sec. 24. Two hundred sections of land are appropriated for the erection of legislative, executive and judicial buildings.

Sec. 25. Three hundred sections of land are granted for the exclusive support of universities.

Sec. 26. Five per centum of all the net proceeds from the sale of public lands in said state shall be paid to said state as a permanent fund, the interest only to be used for the support of the common schools.

Sec. 27. All granted lands for educational purposes may be appraised and disposed of at public sale, the receipts therefrom to constitute a permanent fund. But said lands may be leased for a period not to exceed five years; and such lands are not subject to homestead entry or preemption.

Sec. 29. This section provides for the support of asylums, penitentiaries, mechanical and military schools, etc., and gives 1,600,000 acres of land for this purpose.

Sec. 32. Two judicial districts are provided for; known as the eastern and western districts of Arizona.

35. That the constitutional convention shall provide for the election of officers for a full state government, including members of

CARE OF THE BODY

How to Acquire and Retain the Priceless Possession of Good Health

The Home Climate for the Consumptive.

Change to another, usually a warmer, climate, was once thought to be the only hope for the consumptive patient. At the present time, however, there is a consensus of opinion among the leading authorities that there is no climate which has a specific curative power over consumption. Many, including Dr. S. A. Knopf of New York, an acknowledged expert on the treatment of consumption, hold that cures effected in the home climate in which the patients will have to live and work after their restoration to health, are more lasting and assured than cures obtained in more genial climes. While it is known that patients cured in the salubrious region of the west have been able to return and live in the eastern states from whence they came, it is also known that others can never leave the region in which they recovered, for on their return to their own state their disease recurs.

Prof. Cornet of Berlin, a writer of international reputation, says: "Today we rightly regard no one climate as specific. Tuberculosis occurs in the warmth of the south as well as in the colder north, and upon lofty plateaus. Recoveries, too, are seen in every clime."

The following reasons are given by the Illinois State Board of Health why an attempt should be made to cure a patient at or near his own home—if he be in a climate not unsuitable for the cure of consumption, and why he should not be sent a long distance from home:

The expenses of the journey are a serious drain upon his resources, and are often incurred unnecessarily. As has been aptly stated by the State Board of Health of Maine, "Many patients could be well put on the road to recovery in their own state at a cost which would barely defray their expenses to and from Colorado and Arizona."

The fatigue of a long journey is bad for a consumptive.

The lack of home comforts in a distant state, and the inability often to obtain proper accommodations unless at a prohibitive price, naturally handicap the best efforts made to cure the patient.

The expense of living in the states having "specific" climates is great. Even if his disease be cured, the patient may not be able to return to live in his own state.

If the patient must work, he can find no occupation. Too many have preceded him.

For the wealthy patient, who can be surrounded by his relatives and friends wherever he goes, a change of climate may be desirable. For the poor patient, a change of climate frequently quickens an unfavorable termination of the disease.

Consumption has been cured in the past, and is still being cured, in the eastern and central states. It is often not so much the best climate for the disease as the best place for the consumptive.

Worth Remembering.

Remember that well-tanned people are not apt to be sick.

Dr. Sunlight is the most successful doctor in the universe.

Chew your food—don't bolt it. The quick-luncher catches the early train for the cemetery.

Keep your lungs well filled with fresh air, and you won't need to have a prescription filled.

Bathe regularly, and use cold water, not warm. Cold-water baths and exercise are wonderful appetizers.

Exercise works off the old tissue and assists nature to build up the new. Lazy people get a lift in the black wagon before they expect it.

Twisting the Palate.

A large share of the physical degeneracy that is increasing on every hand, may be traced directly to unworthy eating of things never designed to be eaten, and which no one would ever think of eating except for the fact that they momentarily give an agreeable sensation to the tongue and palate. No thought or consideration is given to the possible effect of these palate-tickling substances upon the stomach after they have entered it. A gentleman once said to the writer: "I eat mustard, pepper, and similar hot substances because I like things that give my palate a twist." This gentleman, with thousands of others like him, quite overlooked the fact that those things that "twist" the palate are equally able to "twist" the stomach, the liver, the nerves, the brain and every organ and tissue with which they come in contact in their journey through the body.

An unperturbed palate is a wise and ever wakeful sentinel, which says promptly to the eater, "Enough," when he has taken a sufficient amount of nutrient material to meet the present requirements of the body.

The palate was given man, not as an instrument of pleasure, but as a guide whereby he might select in proper quantities food substances of the quality suited to his needs. The debasement of this function to the ends of pleasure is the beginning of a prostitution of the body which ends only in abandonment to the grossest forms of self-indulgence, and tends to premature exhaustion of the vital resources, early decay of the body's forces and ignominious death; for no death can be considered honorable which is the direct consequence of one's own acts, or suicide. Said an eminent French writer, "Man does not die; he kills himself."

Work as a Remedy for Nervousness.

Work alone does not unnerve us. Overwork seldom does permanent harm—the damage is done by worry, that arch enemy of peace and happiness.

"It has been proven over and over again," says Dr. H. J. Hall, "that honest manual work, even of the common, everyday sort, has in it the power to drive away worry. The woman who works with her hands at housework, day after day, may not appreciate the blessings of her hard task, but the blessing is there, and the average of 'nerves' is far lower among the workers of this type than among those who plan and think and have the social burden to bear. If the lady whose time is full of social engagements, and who is distressed over the servant question, would sometime go into the kitchen and cook, would get down on her knees and scrub, she might thereupon taste the joys of the simple life, and she might be surprised to find how soon, under the benign influence of work, the problems of life would grow less complicated. An hour of work each day, good hard work that clears the brain and leaves no room for worry, may prove a saving of time and of strength for the woman of affairs, for it will break the monotony of the intellectual strain and make life brighter and easier in every way."

The Country for Intellect.

This noted sanitarian thinks that the country is the proper breeding place for intellect. The country lad may be a little slower to learn than the city urchin, but he has staying power which the latter lacks. The abnormal growth of cities is liable to "dry up the reservoirs of strength in the population and leave an immense proletariat of inferior quality and without commanders."

ITCHING SCALP HUMOR.

Lady Suffered Tortures Until Cured by Cuticura—Scratched Day and Night.

"My scalp was covered with little pimples and I suffered tortures from the itching. I was scratching all day and night, and I could get no rest. I washed my head with hot water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment as a dressing. One box of the Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap cured me. Now my head is entirely clear and my hair is growing splendidly. I have used Cuticura Soap ever since, and shall never be without it. (Signed) Ada C. Smith, 309 Grand St., Jersey City, N. J."

Upper Egypt to the Red Sea.

About a year ago work was begun on a railroad in Upper Egypt from the Red sea to the Nile. Little has been said about it, but it is now reported that about 180 miles of tracks have been laid, leaving about 130 to complete the road, whose Red sea terminus is not at Saukin, which has always been the port from which the caravans have crossed to Khartoum, but at a point thirty miles farther north, where a better harbor is being built. This has been called Barud, but will be named Port Soudan. Thence the road pursues a south-westerly direction to the point where the Atbara falls into the Nile. Work was begun at both ends at once. There is very heavy work on the road and many bridges, for though there is little rain, when it comes it comes in torrents. The railroad may be said to be a competitor of many of ours, says the New York Railroad Gazette, for a chief reason assigned for building it is to encourage cotton growing in the Soudan by giving a cheap outlet to the sea.

Same Thing to Him.

A little boy attended church one Sunday, and upon his return his mother asked him if he could repeat the text. He said he could; and this was the way he remembered it: "Don't be afraid and I'll bring back the quilt." The mother said that could not be it, but the child insisted. Upon meeting the clergyman some days later, she inquired of him as to the text. He replied: "Be not afraid, I will return and bring you a comforter."

As a rule those who fail to chip in when the collection plate is passing are the first to criticise the sermon.

FROM TEXAS

Some Coffee Facts From the Lone Star State.

From a beautiful farm down in Texas, where gushing springs unite to form babbling brooks that wind their sparkling way through flowery meads, comes a note of gratitude for delivery from the coffee habit.

"When my baby boy came to me five years ago, I began to drink Postum Food Coffee, having a feeling that it would be better for him and me than the old kind of drug-laden coffee. I was not disappointed in it, for it enabled me, a small delicate woman, to nurse a bouncing healthy baby 14 months.

"I have since continued the use of Postum for I have grown fond of it, and have discovered to my joy that it has entirely relieved me of a bilious habit which used to prostrate me two or three times a year, causing much discomfort to my family and suffering to myself.

"My brother-in-law was cured of chronic constipation by leaving off the old kind of coffee and using Postum. He has become even more fond of it than he was of the old coffee.

"In fact the entire family, from the latest arrival, (a 2-year old who always calls for his 'potie' first thing in the morning) up to the head of the house, think there is no drink so good or so wholesome as Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

NOT A TRACE LEFT

Rheumatism Thoroughly Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

There is one remedy that will cure rheumatism in any of its forms and so thoroughly eradicate the disease from the system that the cure is permanent. This remedy is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and the proof of the statement is found in the experience of Mr. T. S. Wagar, of No. 72 Academy street, Watertown, N.Y. He says:

"The pain was in my joints and my sufferings for over two years was beyond description. There was an intense pain in my shoulders that prevented me from sleeping and I would get up and walk the floor at night. When I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the improvement was gradual, but by the time I had taken four boxes I was entirely cured and I have not had the slightest touch of rheumatism since that time."

Mr. Wagar's wife is also enthusiastic in her endorsement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "I have tried the pills myself for stomach trouble and have experienced great relief from their use. My daughter, Mrs. Atwood, of Gill street, Watertown, has used them for female weakness and was much benefited by them. I regard Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People as an extremely valuable family medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured the worst cases of bloodlessness, indigestion, influenza, headaches, backaches, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, nervousness, spinal weakness, and the special ailments of girls and women whose blood supply becomes weak, scanty or irregular. The genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drugs and cannot injure the most delicate system. At all druggists or from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

K C BAKING POWDER.

The Best Example of What a Pure Baking Powder Should Be in Quality and Price.

A popular and efficient baking powder requires two things—first, that the food made with it shall be absolutely wholesome; second, that it shall be sold at a reasonable price.

In talking about the healthfulness of baking powder, it must be remembered that baking powder is not an article of diet any more than compressed yeast. One would be quite as objectionable for food as the other, except that of the two, the baking powder might be preferable.

We do not eat either baking powder or yeast. What we do eat is the biscuit and bread raised with them. When placed upon the table no yeast remains in the bread and no baking powder in the biscuit. Both leavening agents have been destroyed in the aeration and the baking; otherwise, instead of light bread and biscuit we should have a mass of heavy, hard-baked dough.

One well-known brand, K C Baking Powder, is sold under a $500,000 guarantee of its healthfulness and purity. There can be no doubt that a baking powder so guaranteed is absolutely wholesome and perfectly reliable. Even if it did remain in the food it could do nothing but good.

With regard to price, a baking powder as efficient and wholesome as is possible to make can be sold, at a fair profit, for one cent an ounce. If it costs more the price is exorbitant.

Millions of pounds of K C Baking Powder, made by the Jaques Manufacturing Company of Chicago, have been sold at the above figure all over the country; and K C offers the best example at present on the market of what a good baking powder should be, both in respect of quality and reasonable price.

Joys of solitude have little in common with a lonely dollar bill.

FLESH-EATERS AMONG PLANTS.

Scientists Know of Many Murderous Species.

"The leaves of this plant were curious," the botanist said. "Each had a lot of long, coarse hairs on it, and a knob in the center covered with green mucilage."

"A bee lighted on one of the hairs. Then a strange thing happened. The neighboring hairs seemed to come to life. They reared up and pounced upon the bee, they carried it over to the knob and they pressed it firmly into the mucilage. Life then left them. They were simple hairs again."

"The bee struggled helplessly, like a fly stuck on fly-paper. The leaf gradually folded round it, enveloping it at last, as in an apple dumpling the pastry envelops the fruit. And a few hours later the leaf opened again, but no sign of the bee remained. It had been devoured."

"This plant was the sundew, the flesh-eating sundew, about which Rossetti wrote his best poem."

"There are many flesh-eaters among plants. The bladderwort, the toothwort and the butterwort attract insects and animalcules, and, imprisoning them by means of hairs and mucilage, devour them at leisure."

"In Borneo and South America it is said that there are large flesh-eating trees, powerful enough to capture and digest foxes, gulls, children, even men. But we have no scientific truth that such trees exist. They could exist, of course, but, till we actually see them, it is best to regard the stories about them as rative twaddle."

Graduated Costs.

The chauffeur had been hauled up in the rural court for violating the speed limit.

"How much, your honor?" asked the prisoner.

"Ten dollars," drawled the long-whiskered judge, with a look of importance.

"But the bailiff needs a new pair of gum boots for this winter."

"Twenty dollars fine."

"And the constable needs an overcoat and a fur cap."

"Thirty dollars fine."

"And the old horse that draws the lockup wagon needs a blanket."

"Forty dollars fine. And, young man, you better run while you have the chance, for if the court finds it is in need of anything else we are liable to attach your machine."

A Modest Man's Desire.

I would not care to be so rich
That all the world would envy me;
I do not crave possessions which
Would bind me down to slavery;
I merely want a little more
Than they have who live next door.

To have the worldly means whereby
I might outshine my friends and not
Be forced to strain would satisfy
And make me happy with my lot;
I merely want a little more
Than they possess who live next door.

Thus favored, I would leave behind
My present friends and move away
And richer, prouder neighbors find
And there as now still meekly pray
But to possess a little more
Than they might have who lived next door.

And, having that, how fine and fair
A planet this would be! And when
I outshone all around me there,
I'd proudly move ahead again,
And ask for nothing, as before,
Save to eclipse the ones next door.

I would not be so rich that hate
Must follow everywhere I went;
As I have tried to plainly state.
With little I could be content;
All that I ask is always more
Than they may have who live next door.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Deadly Whisky Barrel.

From the experience of two or three Oklahoma men lately, a whisky barrel seems to be about as dangerous after it is emptied as when it is serving its original purpose. Two bad accidents of the sort are reported in the last week. J. H. Dent, living near Stillwater, took an empty whisky barrel to his home and lit a match to look into it. Mr. Dent and his son Lester, were both badly bruised in the explosion which followed. On the same day a Mr. Brown, living north of Woodward, received a bad scalp wound in a similar manner. It is perhaps noteworthy that both accidents happened on Sunday.

A GIANT LAID LOW.

Crippled and Made Ill by Awful Kidney Disorders.

John Fernaays, fruit raiser, Webster, N. Y., says: "I used to lift railroad ties easily but wrenched my back and began to suffer with backache and kidney trouble. I neglected it until one day a twinge felled me like a log and made me crawl on hands and knees. I was so crippled for a time that I couldn't walk without sticks, had headaches and dizzy spells and the kidney secretions were muddy and full of brick-dust sediment. Doan's Kidney Pills made the pain disappear and corrected the urinary trouble. I have felt better ever since."

J. H. Canning, treasurer and ex-officio collector, has a notice in this week's NEWS that cuts both ways. The collector intends to collect the delinquent taxes of this county, and a purchaser who buys livestock upon which the taxes have not been paid will be called upon for the delinquency. In the past, a great deal of personal property taxes have been lost to this county on account of the original owner disposing of same before the taxes are due. This has largely been the cause of our present financial condition, and has worked a hardship on those who did pay their taxes. The present collector has inaugurated a policy that will not only bring in present amounts that are delinquent, but will produce a salutary effect in the collections for the future.

Attorney H. B. Hamilton, of Lincoln, left on yesterday's train for El Paso. His family is now there and all will return after the holidays. Mr. Hamilton goes more particularly to be present at the taking of testimony before a referee, in a suit in which H. B. Hamilton, as administrator, and the other heirs of the Hamilton estate, are plaintiffs and Eagle Mining & Improvement Co. are defendants. The amount involved is $20,000.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Phillip Flint, of Alamogordo, and Miss Edith Parker, of White Oaks, and the date is Wednesday, January 3, 1906. These young people are quite well and favorably known in Lincoln county, and have many friends with whom the NEWS joins in extending best wishes.

SUPPLEMENT.

K. P. Entertainment.

Myrtle Lodge No. 19, Knights of Pythias, Capitan, will give an entertainment lunch and dance Monday night, January 1, 1906. This date has been chosen so as not to, if possible, conflict with entertainments elsewhere during the holidays.

The price of admission will be $1.00 per couple, or if any gentleman is so unfortunate as to be unable to secure "company," he will be required to "cough up" the coin just the same. Remember the date, the place and the cause, and come running.

Will have a Car of Flagstaff apple boxes. Welch & Titsworth.

The little nine-year-old daughter of W. S. Kirby, Picacho, was terrible lacerated Sunday. She was riding a horse which became frightened, and, starting to run, threw the little girl, but her foot hung in the stirrup. The horse ran through two barb-wire fences, which cut the little one's body fearfully from head to foot and finally kicked the unconscious body loose from the stirrup.

More apples and hay have been shipped from this point this season than ever before, in fact, more than has been shipped during the whole history of the town. The shipments continue and will continue until the surplus products of the county have been disposed of. The new management of the railroad has given liberal rates, the first this section has enjoyed; hence the people are taking advantage of the situation and keeping the road hot.

There has been a sharp rise in the price of wood recently, and for proof of this we refer all inquiries to Perry Humphrey.

The young man, dressed in his best, was walking along looking pretty well satisfied with himself. Standing near a telegraph pole was an old negro woman. As he approached her she accosted him.

"Why, Mistah Tom," she said. "Good mawin' to yoh." The young man stopped.

"Hello, Aunt Nancy," he said.

"Why, Mistah Tom," the old negro went on, "yoh is sutinly de pixcher uf prettiness. Yoh lookin' swell dis mawin'. Mah goodness, yoh's de nices' lookin' young man Ah's seed in a month."

The young man was pleased. "Thank you, Aunt Nancy," he said, straightening up a little, "I'm afraid, though, that you're a flatterer."

"No, sah, Ah isn't, Mistah Tom. Yoh suahly look delightfil. Ah's mighty proud ter know you. You's de essence uf swellness."

The young man smiled and began to move away.

"Say, Mistah Tom," she called after him. He stopped. She hesitated.

No Chloride of Lime for Him.

Pat Egan, a plasterer, and a well known character of Cambridge, Mass., walked into a shoe store on Massachusetts avenue on Saturday evening recently to purchase a pair of shoes, and found that they did not pinch or chafe, but complained that they went on too hard.

"Oh, that'll be all right, Mr. Egan; I'll easily fix that," remarked the clerk, who immediately took the shoes off and proceeded to sprinkle powder into them.

He was about to try them on Pat again, when the latter stood wrathfully up in his stocking feet and shouted out:

"Oh, no, you don't! No, you don't! Mr. Bell! Mr. Bell! Come here! Come here! I've bought shoes of you for the lost foive years, but the divil a shoe will I buy of you again. This brazen-faced clerk of yours tried to put chloride of lime in my shoes, but I was too smart for him."

Why Mother Is Proud.

Look in his face, look in his eyes, Roughish and blue and terribly wise— Roughish and blue, but quickest to see When mother comes in as tired as can be;

Quickest to find her the nicest old chair; Quickest to get to the top of the stair; Quickest to see that a kiss on her cheek Would help her far more than to clatter, to speak.

Look in his face, and guess, if you can, Why mother is proud of her little man.

The mother is proud—I will tell you this; You can see it for yourself in her tender kiss.

But why? Well, of all her dears, There is scarcely one who ever hears The moment she speaks, and jumps to see

What her want or her wishes may be, Scarcely one. They all forget, Or are not in the notion to go quite yet. But this she knows, if her boy is near, There is somebody certain to want to hear.

Mother is proud, and she holds him fast, And kisses him first and kisses him last; And he holds her hand and looks in her face, And hunts for her spool which is out of place, And proves that he loves her whenever he can— That is why she is proud of her little man.

Higher Education.

Two sisters were sitting in a hotel writing-room. They audibly were discussing their friends.

Have Proved Their Worth.

The campaign undertaken by interested publications to undermine the faith of the people in proprietary medicines has drawn forth the following from a high medical authority: "It must never be forgotten that the interest of the manufacturer is to put out a remedy which is not only meritorious but safe. With a small army of enemies constantly on the alert, ready to seize upon and magnify every unfavorable circumstance, how few are the cases of accident or injury from the use of proprietary medicines! Complaints in regard to the use of such remedies are exceedingly rare and utterly insignificant, in comparison with the amount sold and the millions of people who avail themselves of these remedies."

Remarks by a fool may discount the unspoken thoughts of a wise man.

Wealthier than any brother sovereign; master of legions, which number over a million; lord of more than one-sixth of the surface of the globe, with subjects of many colors and races, amounting to over one-hundred and twenty million souls, the Czar of all the Russias will not be invincible until he adopts Pillsbury's Vitos as his regular breakfast diet.

"What makes that fellow so strong-headed?" "Oh, I suppose it's his habit of butting in."

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Mothers Should Watch the Development of Their Daughters— Interesting Experiences of Misses Borman and Mills.

Every mother possesses information which is of vital interest to her young daughter.

Too often this is never imparted or is withheld until serious harm has resulted to the growing girl through her ignorance of nature's mysterious and wonderful laws and penalties.

Girls' over-sensitiveness and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, as they so often withhold their confidence from their mothers and conceal the symptoms which ought to be told to their physician at this critical period.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude; when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change, and start the menstrual period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Hundreds of letters from young girls and from mothers, expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them, have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., at Lynn, Mass.

Miss Mills has written the two following letters to Mrs. Pinkham, which will be read with interest:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.) "I am but fifteen years of age, am depressed, have dizzy spells, chills, headache and backache, and as I have heard that you can give helpful advice to girls in my condition, I am writing you."—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.) "It is with the feeling of utmost gratitude that I write to you to tell you what your valuable medicine has done for me. When I wrote you in regard to my condition I had consulted several doctors, but they failed to understand my case and I did not receive any benefit from their treatment. I followed your advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now healthy and well, and all the distressing symptoms which I had at that time have disappeared."—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Miss Matilda Borman writes Mrs. Pinkham as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my monthlies were irregular and painful, and I always had such dreadful headaches.

"But since taking the Compound my headaches have entirely left me, my monthlies are regular, and I am getting strong and well. I am telling all my girl friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Matilda Borman, Farmington, Iowa.

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free, from a source that has no rival in the experience of woman's ills, and it will, if followed, put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of cures of female ills of any medicine that the world has ever known. Why don't you try it?

General Booth Honored.

The freedom of the city of London, a distinction on which many statesmen and warriors have set great store, was recently bestowed on General Booth of the Salvation Army, who accepted it as the recognition of the world-wide work of the army. The presentation was made in the presence of a distinguished company, including civic officials, several thousand citizens and many officers of the Salvation Army. The address referred in glowing terms to the work of General Booth and his organization, not only in London, but throughout the world. The general in reply referred to the difficulties which beset him in his early days and which are only now becoming officially recognized.

Instead of the usual gold casket the address was inclosed in an oaken casket, the balance of the money voted by the municipal council being, at the request of General Booth, given in the shape of a check toward the funds of the organization.

Get at the Cause.

Sacramento, Ky., Nov. 13th (Special)—A typical illustration of the way Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure Rheumatism is well told by Catherine Devine, who is very well known here. She says:

"For over four years I was greatly troubled with Rheumatism. It used to take me worst in my legs and feet. At times I would be so bad I could not put my feet to the ground. As I am over seventy-three years of age I began to think I was too old to get cured and should have to bear my Rheumatism the best way I could. But I heard about Dodd's Kidney Pills and thought I would give them a trial. So I got a box and began taking them. Well, I must say Dodd's Kidney Pills did me a wonderful lot of good. They eased the pain from the first, and today I am in better health than I have been for many years."

If a man gives you a ton of coal don't expect him to strain his back helping you to carry it upstairs.

The Richest Man.

Croesus was king of Lydia, a country of Asia Minor, in the seventh century before Christ, and was renowned for his prodigious wealth. His country was conquered by Cyrus and annexed to Persia, 546 B. C. His wealth gave rise to the expression, "As rich as Croesus." But with all his money he could not buy food so wholesome, nourishing and palatable as Pillsbury's Vitos, the leading cereal food of the day.

Happy is the man who can adapt himself to circumstances.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

"Embroideryitis"

A New York physician has decided that many of the nervous breakdowns of women are due to what he terms "embroideryitis," which, defined, is a form of nervous prostration brought on by too much fancy work. Any form of fancy work seems to have a fascination for the majority of women, and they will sit hour after hour in a stooped or cramped position performing marvels with the needle, truly, but also working wonderful harm to their own delicately constructed bodies. Many women after working hard all day consider it their rest to pick up a bit of fancy work and spend an hour or two on it. Some even become so engrossed with it that they sit up late at night to finish "just one more flower" or "one more scallop." Instead they should be having a brisk walk in the open air, a frolic with children or a social evening. Girls who have been in school all day pick up their bit of fancy work as soon as they get home. This, too, at the very age when they need every bit of fresh air and exercise they can get. Better by far to set them driving in cows or anything else which will relieve the body and mind from the strain of a day's work in the school room. Fancy work is well in its place, but it is a certainty that it must be made to keep its place.

Beginning at the Bottom

We sometimes read that it is the poor boys who become the great men. This is very often true, but it is not the fact that they are poor which makes them great, but the fact that they must begin at the very bottom and work up. Thus they not only learn the full value of time and money, but they learn every inch of their business thoroughly. Benjamin Winchell, a Chicago boy and son of the president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, is about to begin his career in railroad service by going to work as a rodman in a surveyor's gang. But he does not intend to work on any of the lines controlled by his father. In speaking of his plans, he said: "We all have to go to work some time. There is nothing remarkable in that, is there? Last month I read an article telling how President Roosevelt's son gave up his berth to an old colored woman. At that time I thought, 'What do people care about the president's son?' And now I think the same about this. There is nothing in being a big man's son. It all depends upon oneself. I naturally expect to make something of myself and I do not want it said that it was the result of pull. This always has been my idea and my father has encouraged me in it. He began that way, too. The only way to learn the railroad business is to begin at the bottom."

Emerson as a Boy.

In speaking of Emerson's appearance as a school boy, N. P. Willis once wrote: "We remember him perfectly as a boy whom we used to see playing about Chauncey place and Sumner street—one of those pale little boys, with their shirt collars turned over, who are recognized by Boston school-boys as 'having fathers that are Unitarians,' and though he came to his first short hair about the time we came to our first tall coat six or eight years behind us, we never lost sight of him."

History in the Making.

Prof. J. A. James of Northwestern University recently announced to the students in his American history class that they would be expected to come to the class room prepared to answer questions on the news of the day. In the course of a lecture he referred to an article in a morning paper and upon questioning the members of the class, found that only two of them had read the day's newspaper. He thereupon made the announcement:

"Hereafter I shall expect you to have an accurate knowledge of current events as chronicled each day in the newspapers, and I shall consider it fully as important as the daily lessons assigned from the books."

The plan thus announced by Professor James is one which is followed by many instructors of history, not only in the colleges, but in secondary schools as well. The news as contained in the daily press dispatches is history in the making. What is history to-day was once news and what is news to-day will soon pass into history. Familiarity with events that occurred decades or centuries ago coupled with ignorance of affairs that are now shaping the destinies of nations and individuals is surely an absurdity.

What practical value can history have unless from it we may draw lessons for the present, and how can such lessons be drawn unless we are familiar with events of the day?—Colorado Springs Gazette.

Policemen's Kind Act.

Shivering in the cold morning wind, a small lad, about four years old, was picked up on the sidewalk at Eighteenth and Larimer streets at 10 o'clock this morning by Officer Ustick. He was taken into a clothing store at 1820 Larimer street and warmly dressed and then into a shoe store and provided with a new pair of shoes, after which he was taken to the matron's department at the police station. The clothes which he wore when found, a small shirt and a ragged pair of trousers, with shoes full of holes, were placed in a cigar box and carried by the boy to police headquarters. He said his name was Henry Kuner and that he did not know where he lived. The new clothes which he wore were provided for him by Officer Ustick and Sergeant Batie.—Denver Times.

Every housekeeper should know that if they will buy Defiance Cold Water Starch for laundry use they will save not only time, because it never sticks to the iron, but because each package contains sixteen ounces—one full pound—while all other Cold Water Starches are put up in three-quarter-pound packages, and the price is the same, 10 cents. Then again because Defiance Starch is free from all injurious chemicals. If your grocer tries to sell you a twelve-ounce package it is because he has a stock on hand which he wishes to dispose of before he puts in Defiance. He knows that Defiance Starch has printed on every package in large letters and figures "16 ounces." Demand Defiance and save much time and money and the annoyance of the iron sticking. Defiance never sticks.

"Were you ever the victim of a train robbery?" "No," answered the man who kicks, "unless you count the times I have been held up with a whisk broom by the Pullman porter."

"Yes."

"Did she know it?"

"Probably not."

People enjoy most the favors they are not expected to return.

Insist on Getting It.

Some grocers say they don't keep Defiance Starch. This is because they have a stock on hand of other brands containing only 12 oz in a package, which they won't be able to sell first, because Defiance contains 16 oz. for the same money.

Do you want 16 oz. instead of 12 oz. for same money? Then buy Defiance Starch. Requires no cooking.
