A TALL BUILDING.

A House Twenty Stories High to be Built in Chicago.

Chicago, November 8.—The corner stone of what when completed will be one of the grandest edifices in the country dedicated to the use and purposes of the Masonic order was laid in this city with solemn and impressive exercises. The structure is to occupy one-third of a block of ground at the intersections of State and Randolph Sts., in the very heart of the city. It will have a frontage of 120 feet and a depth of 170, and will be twenty stories in height, the total height from the sidewalk to the upper cornice being in the neighborhood of 275 feet. The two lower stories will be of granite and those above of ashen gray brick and terra cotta. The structure will have a large interior court lined with marble. Besides several hundred offices, it will have upward of one hundred lodge rooms, some of them having a capacity of over one thousand, and magnificently decorated at an enormous expense. The cost of the structure will be in the neighborhood of two million dollars, and it is to be completed for formal dedication May 1st 1892.

It will have fifteen elevators, fourteen of which will run on the curve. These elevators will have the capacity of carrying forty thousand passengers daily,

On the roof there will be located a pavilion garden, a mammoth restaurant and an all-day orchestra.

The floors of the building will not be numbered as in ordinary structures, but will be given appropriate names, such as Chicago avenue, Boston street, Broadway, etc.

The formal exercises were preceded by one of the largest and most imposing processions of the Masonic fraternity that has been seen in the west since the national convocation of the Knights Templar in August, 1880. Hundreds of visiting brothers came from this and adjoining states to lend eclat to the occasion. Nearly forty lodges were in line, while music was furnished by fifteen bands. The brethren were attired in dark clothes and hats with white gloves and aprons, each also wearing the collar and jewels of his office, the lodge furniture being carried at the head of each detachment. The Knights Templar with their drawn swords, waving plumes and martial tread, had the right of the line. On arriving at the site of the temple, the Knights Templar formed in a hollow square. As far as the eye could reach the adjacent streets, windows and even roofs, were black with people.

Prayer was offered by Rev. H. W. Thomas, grand chaplain, and while, with the usual impressive exercises, the stone was lowered into place, the choir of the Oriental Consistory sang an ode written for the occasion.

The oration was delivered by Mayor Cregier, grand orator.

Before the stone was lowered into place an iron box containing many documents and papers that will prove valuable to some historian was inserted in the aperture.

Is there such a thing as Luck.

Arthur McEwen tells the following in the Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle on "Uncle" George Hearst, the mining man: All very rich men who have made their own fortunes are believers in luck, as they have reason to be. George Hearst, who thinks of a million as ordinary men do of a dollar or two, owned to me once that he regarded his possession of great fortune as a sort of a miracle. "I was 49 years old" he said "when the row made over the discovery of the Comstock silver mines in Nevada set the whole coast wild. I had been disappointed in the work I had been at and found myself nearly broke. I had enough to buy a horse and outfit, and started over the mountains with a party of the boys. That broke me, and I wasn't feeling happy, because I'd worked and struggled and speculated for a good many years, and it struck me as rather rough that a man of my age should have to start out as I did then like a young fellow. There were about ten or twelve of us in the party, and as I was blue they let me rather alone, and my mustang being rather worn down, I stopped on the trail, put my arm through the bridle, and picked out a rock to sit on. The rest of the boys rode on, but I sat there. There wasn't any reason why I should, particularly, only I did. The whip I had was a willow switch I'd pulled from a tree as I rode along. As I sat there I switched the dust off the trail and thought 'shall I go with them or shall I go back?' I switched and switched, and thought and thought.

I saw behind me all the hard work I'd done, all the chances I'd taken and lost, and felt old and used up and no good. My sense told me to turn back and make my fight where I was known. There was safety in that, anyhow. But I had been camping night after night with the boys ahead of me, and it made me lonesome to think of parting company with them. So after switching and switching the dust on the trail, and feeling weak and human because I yielded, I mounted my horse again and rode on after the party. I got to the Comstock and in six months I made $500,000. That was the foundation of what I have done since.—Now, why should I have not turned back when I hesitated? It would have been sensible, conservative to do that; but I didn't, because I didn't I won. If you are ever inclined to think there is no such thing as luck, just think of me.—Trade and Traffic.

From The Lincoln Independent.

Geo. Curry and family moved to Pecacho this week. George has leased the Cline property and there will conduct a merchandise and hotel business.

John F. Hoffman, H. J. Sanders and L. Bader, are now in our county bastle awaiting the action of the next grand jury on a charge of theft. For some time past systematic series of robberies has been puzzling the good people in and around Col. DeLany's store at Ft. Stanton. Casks of beer rolled out bodily from the cellar, were among the chief items, and the thieves even got so bold that they went to Mr. DeLany's hog pen, butchered a hog right at the pen and carried off the meat. John Canning got on the track of the beer thieves finally and the result was that two casks of beer were recovered and three of the suspected parties now await trial.

A change in the time of the departure of the mail from Lincoln has been made, and the time for leaving is now 5:30 a. m., instead of 8 a. m., the former time. This is an uncalled for outrage and benefits no one, not even the contractor, and can only result in injuring the business of our town and greatly annoying our people. There is no sense in the mail leaving here at 5:30 a. m. It might just as well leave at midnight. The contractor himself will find that he will certainly lose by the change (which is made only to please some whim of his own) as no man will patronize a stage which leaves at such an hour if he can possibly travel by any other means.

"A MERRY CHRISTMAS!" is the cheery greeting shining from every page of the ideal monthly, DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE, the December number of which—a genuine holiday number—is just at hand. What one will know about preparing for Christmas, about trimming the tree and suitable gifts and good cheer and how to heartily enjoy the merry Christmas-tide, after reading this charming Magazine, is not worth knowing. "Lighting the Way for Santa Claus" is the very appropriate introductory water-color, the rich humor of which will be appreciated by the little ones and "children of larger growth" as well; and the page engraving that follows; "Raphael Painting the Virgin and Child," is from a noted painting, and will be appreciated for its historic value as well as its beauty. Besides these, there are at least two hundred and fifty other handsome illustrations, for this representative Family Magazine is noted for the quantity and good quality of its pictures.

"In the Streets of Paris" a profusely illustrated article, in reading which one is in fancy transported to that charming city; and if one prefers to visit nearer home, the description and exquisite pictures of the Washington residence of Senator Sawyer of Wisconsin, afford a revelation of beauty. There are splendid stories and poems, and every department is brimfull of just what you want to know in its special line. "Sanitarian" treats of that sad affliction "Obesity," and the common-sense treatment recommended is bound to be efficacious; and "Our Girls" will be delighted with the comedietta in their special department. But our advice is, subscribe for this splendid Magazine, and you can have a rare treat each month. It is only $2 a year, and is published by W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 15 East 14th Street, New York.

The Christmas edition of the Cosmopolitan Magazine is one hundred thousand copies. The order as originally given to the printers, was for 85,000 copies but while on the press it was thought advisable to increase the number to 100,000.

It contains a feature never before attempted by any magazine, consisting of 123 cartoons from the brush of Dan Beard, the now famous artist, who did such wonderful illustrations in Mark Twain's book, "The Yankee at the Court of King Arthur.

These cartoons are placed at the bottom of each page of the magazine, and take for their subject, Christmas during the Eighteen Centuries of the Christian Era," with variations, showing the way in which we modern Christians carry out some of the chief texts of the Christian Gospel.

Above, and at each side of the page is a quaint border, the whole effect being novel and extremely pleasing, and with the unusually varied table of contents, will make such a Christmas number as is worthy to go into more than 100,000 households.

The frontispieces of the Cosmopolitan have of late become noted for their beauty, some of them having as much as four printings. That for Christmas, while in but two printings, is not behind anything that has preceded it in artistic merit.

An excellently illustrated article is one on teapots by Eliza Ruhamah Scidmore. Literary Boston is treated with numerous portraits, and an article which comes with the ninetyeth birthday of Von Moltke, sketches the life of the great Field-Marshal in an interesting way, and is by Gen. James Grant Wilson. Elizabeth Bisland has one of her charming articles.

The Christian issue contains 228 illustrations, nearly double the number that have ever appeared in any illustrated magazine.

The Queen Pays All Expenses.

The Queen's last "Free trip to Europe, having excited such universal interest, the publishers of that popular magazine offer another and $200 for expenses to the person sending them the largest list of English words constructed from letters contained in the three words "BRITISH NORTH AMERICA." Additional prizes consisting of silver Tea Sets, China Dinner Sets, Gold Watches, French Music Boxes, Portiere Curtains, Silk Dresses, Mantel Clocks, and many other useful and valuable articles will also be awarded in order of merit. A special prize of a Seal Skin Jacket to the lady, and a handsome Shetland Pony to girl or boy (delivered in Canada or United States) sending the largest lists. Everyone sending a list of not less than twenty words will receive a present. Send Six U. S. two cent stamps for complete rules, illustrated catalogue of prizes, and sample number of THE QUEEN. Address the CANADIAN QUEEN, Toronto Canada.

The expenses of this territory during the fiscal year ending March 3, 1890, were $149,430.39, and the estimated expenses for the present year are $160,000.

(Washington Cor. Globe Dem.)

Washington, D. C., November 7.

—Senator Joe Blackburn to-day gave his version of the famous scene in the Senate committee room when Mr. Blaine denounced the McKinley bill. The Senator is nothing if not dramatic. He told the story well. He was speaking of what everybody else is talking about—the election.

"Out of the general wreck," he said, "arises a solitary figure, alone but conspicuous. That figure is Mr. Blaine. Now that it is all over, I will tell you of a scene that I witnessed in which Mr. Blaine was the principal actor—a scene that to me was so full of intensity as to be almost dramatic, and which will never fade from my memory. It has never been told before. The McKinley bill had been passed by the House and was on the calendar of the Senate, though not yet taken up. It was a particularly warm day in July when Senators Allison, Hale and myself sat in the Senate Appropriations committee room waiting for Mr. Blaine, with whom we were to consult, as a subcommittee, about the consular and diplomatic budget. There was no one present except the clerk of the committee. Mr. Blaine finally appeared, and with him Mr. Curtis, the accomplished Secretary of the Pan-American Congress. The Secretary was rather in negligé costume, as suited to the temperature, except as to a particularly glossy and irreproachable silk hat—a brand new shining plug.

"The tariff bill mind you had nothing to do with the subject in hand, but, in a casual way, I broached it after the usual greetings had been exchanged. Probably I asked Mr. Blaine how he liked it. Imagine my surprise—and shall I say gratification?—when he launched forth a torrent of invectives against the act that McKinley fathered. "He said this bill is an infamy and an outrage. It is the most shameful measure ever proposed to a civilized people. Go on with it and you will carry our party to perdition."

I was feeling considerably interested and said: 'I wish you were in the Senate Mr. Blaine, to announce yourself in such terms.' 'I wish I were,' he answered. 'If so I would stamp it under my feet and spit upon it,' and then, advancing toward Senators Allison and Hale, he snapped his finger in the face of each alternately and with rising inflection said: 'Go on with your driveling idiocy and see to what destruction it will lead the Republican party. Pass this bill, and in '92 there will not be a man in all the party so beggared as to accept your nomination for the presidency.'

"Then he began to dissect the bill mercilessly, particularly the sugar schedule. This he inveighed against with all his force. I reminded him that the Senate had improved upon the labors of the House as regarded sugar; that to protect an American industry involving the enormous labor of boring a hole in a maple tree and boiling the juice the Senate had agreed to give the maple sugar growers of New England a bounty of 2c. This was the first he had heard of it, and he seemed hardly able to credit what I told him.

"It isn't true," he said.

"Allison and Hale confirmed me.

"I suppose this was done at the solicitation of Morrill and Edmunds?" he inquired. Mr. Allison replied in the affirmative. "It is a good sample of their breadth of statesmanship," said the Secretary. And then the climax came. His new beaver was lying on the table in easy reach. With a sudden blow he brought his clenched hand down on it with such force as to mash it flatter than a pancake, and then, seizing the battered chapeau, he hurled it against the wall violently. I never saw such an ebullition, but it only emphasized the deep earnestness with which the Secretary argued against the policy about which his opinion as then given now seems prophetic."

One of the candidates on the democratic ticket, J. E. Wharton, wrote a letter to the chairman of the democratic central committee, Paul Mayer. The letter was in response to one calling on the gentleman to contribute his share toward the necessary expenses incident to the campaign. Mr. Wharton in his answer did not feel able to contribute the sum assessed, or any amount. For this refusal no one criticised Mr. Wharton, as other gentlemen, candidates, refused and all were supported by the rank and file, regardless of the fact of their inability to contribute.

The letter in question was not a private communication, and the chairman, Paul Mayer, deemed it his duty to place it before the committee, hence its publicity, and now comes its publication in the Nogai Banner, the Editor, who is

J. E. Wharton, commenting, etc., together with several articles in the same issue—some showing a slight soreness for the publicity and use the letters were put to in defeating J. E. Wharton for Supt. of Schools. We do not care to make a mountain out of a molehill, and do not deem the affair of the importance attributed by the Banner.

One paragraph in the letter we will comment on: "Storm is getting a good vote as Assessor, and of course will go to the end. So I shall take no stock in Assessor's race." Further, the writer says: "My position is no secret, etc."

Mr. Wharton went as a delegate to the democratic county convention and was made its secretary, and was nominated as the candidate of the party for Supt. of Schools. As to the duty of every man on the ticket, they owe allegiance to every other on the ticket; and when Mr. Wharton flew the track on Assessor, what was he to expect from the candidate for Assessor and his friends? We think this is the hair that broke the camel's back. Mr. Wharton was indiscreet in writing such a letter, in the first instance, and if he was surrounded by such circumstances as made it impossible for him to aid his co-candidates, he could satisfactorily, and privately explained his position.

Mr. Wharton is an able young man and possesses qualities which would make him a valuable Supt. of Schools, and his many friends throughout the county regret the letter. But Blaine and Henry Clay wrote letters, and why not Wharton?

Mr. Wharton received his party vote at White Oaks, but many were undecided, and felt that the rebuke, although severe to Mr. Wharton, was in a great measure his own folly. And now, after election, lengthy and tiresome explanations are out of order.

A prominent and influential man in Federal legislation says: "The result of Tuesday's elections gives strong hopes to the advocates of free coinage that over forty Republicans in the House of Representatives will now vote with the Democratic free silver coinage members, in favor of a Free Silver Coinage bill, and that such a bill could therefore be passed over the President's veto, if he should determine to veto it, much easier than the Bland bill was passed over the veto of President Hayes in 1878. They argue that the recent advance and decline in the price of silver demonstrates that its price governs the price of American cotton, wheat and other farm products. In the Senate, during the session of Congress just closed, all of the Democratic Senators, except one, voted in favor of free coinage, and in the House, all of the Democrats also, save twelve, voted for it."—Financial and Mining Review.

Justice Field, in the Supreme court of the United States has rendered a decision that will attract general attention throughout the country. The case in point was that of the Chief of Police of San Francisco, against one Christensen, who had been arrested for doing a retail liquor traffic after his license had expired, and its renewal had been refused by the city authorities. Christensen applied for a writ of habeas Corpus, and the United States circuit court ordered his discharge on the ground that his arrest was, under the circumstances an arbitrary interference with his personal liberty, and to the practical effect that the revocation or denial of a license in his case should not operate to the suspension of his business. The Supreme Court on appeal reversed this finding, but its decision is somewhat extraordinary not so much in maintaining the local right of States, cities, or other communities to deal with the liquor traffic as they may deem most expedient, either by absolute prohibition or by granting or refusing licences in their discretion as in the radical and unusual emphasis with which it is declared that no man has any inherent right to retail intoxicants, and that the person who does engage in such retailing is primarily responsible for the injury, of whatever nature it may be, that may thereby accrue to the consumer.

Under this decision the business is to be dealt with as an evil, and nothing but an evil, to the suppression of which the extreme power of the law may be invoked, and in behalf of which no plea of arbitrary enactment upon the liberty of the person can be successfully maintained.

The present board of county commissioners should secure the assistance of Col. D. J. M. A. Jewett, of White Oaks—formerly of Louisiana—to help them out. His experience on "returning boards" should be worth something.—Cerrillos Rustler.

The democrats of Santa Fe county should not call on Col. Jewett, he is not accused of counting in any members of that party, and has no desire to aid democrats by giving them pointers of former methods practiced by the G. O. P. Their process, they have reserved all rights—the thing was patented in 1876—will expire with the present administration in 1892.

The total debt of the territory of New Mexico, according to the figures given by Governor Prince in his report to the secretary of the interior, is $870,960.93.

Mr. H. V. Smith, from the San Louis Valley, Rio Grande county, Colo., is in this part of the country attending to business matters, and is highly pleased with the sample of our Italian climate.

We acknowledge the receipt of a complimentary ticket from Will E. Race, the secretary of the Annual International races, at El Paso, which open December 9th. Eight thousand dollars in purses are offered and the meeting promises to be very interesting.

Messrs. McDonald and Ulrick arrived at the Carrizozo Ranch Tuesday morning. McDonald stood the journey very well and with a short rest will be in good health. The many friends of the gentlemen are pleased to see them home again.

The Masonic fraternity of White Oaks, by special dispensation, organized their new lodge this week. The installing officer was Rev. Mr. Bush, of Albuquerque. The new lodge starts out with a fair membership. We have not learned the names of the members elect.

Mr. Meylert Brunner has been appointed temporary clerk of the district court for this district. We understand that a young lawyer from the patent office in Washington will assume the duties in a few months and that Mr. Brunner will become his assistant. Mr. Brunner is thoroughly competent and will make a good clerk.—Advertiser.

MASONIC.

Last evening the Rev. Mr. Bush, of Albuquerque, delivered a very able and instructive lecture in Young & Taliaferro's Hall, on the above subject, to a large and attentive audience.

The taking of testimony in the White Oaks land contest cases, Victor Lueas vs. J. Gardner Riggles and Peter Sepulver vs. J. B. Collier, was finished yesterday, after a four days' siege.

M. Whiteman and family arrived Thursday from White Oaks. They will make their home in Roswell in the future, Mr. Whiteman having just completed comfortable quarters for them adjoining his store building.

Hon. John Y. Hewitt, Col. D. J. M. Jewett, Messrs. Geo. B. Barber, J. B. Collier, Wm. M. Lane, Jones Taliaferro, Sam Baird, Peter Sepulver, Cruz Gallegos and U. Ozanne, of White Oaks, have been in Roswell this week, as principals, witnesses, or attorneys in two contest cases on trial before Register Cobean and Receiver Lesner, of the Land Office.—Roswell Register.

The above named on their way home, were caught in a fearful snow storm and compelled to camp out in the open prairie all night. The whole party had a narrow escape from perishing.

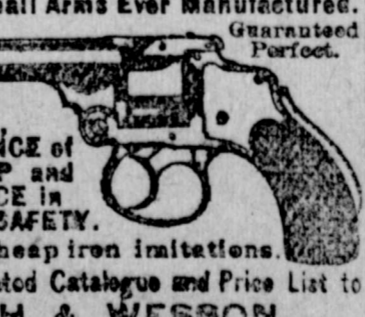

W. C. McDonald, of White Oaks, member-elect of the legislature from the district composed of Lincoln, Chaves and Eddy counties, is in the city on his way home from Liberal, Kansas, where he went some two months ago on business, and where he was brought very near to death's door. His election took place in his absence, and when his constituents knew not that they would ever again see him alive.—Optic, 13th inst.

The fellow who has been telling you for two months past exactly how the Congressional election was going and whose predictions were all wrong, has already begun telling who is to be elected Speaker of the House of Representatives in the Fifty-second Congress. This fellow—everybody is acquainted with him—knows more that isn't so than was ever printed on a circus poster.

Baring Bro's, the great English banking firm, were about to fail Monday, and as a result the Santa Fe R. R. stock sold in the N. Y. stock market at 24. A panic prevailed for a time. The Bank of England came to the rescue and saved the firm, and a great panic which would have gone around the world.

Washington, Nov. 15.—General John C. Stockwether died this morning.

Gen. Stockwether was an old Wisconsin soldier;—and since the war has been conducting a pension claim office at Washington—an old neighbor and friend of Judge T. B. McCourt. It is only last week that he received a letter from him regarding the pension of Mrs. Stephen Lloyd.

There are several competent applicants for the position among whom the REPORTER notes the names of Judge W. E. Kelley, of Socorro, and T. W. Heman, of White Oaks. These gentlemen are competent and staunch Republicans.—Advertiser.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The amount of silver offered to the treasury to-day was 1,475,000 ounces and the amount purchased 745,000 at one dollar to $1.00.50, mostly the former. The amount purchased at the mints during November to date was 425,375 ounces. The amount purchased to date, including all at the mints, was 3,977,375 ounces.

With a solid south and a solid north nothing should intervene between now and the time of holding the next presidential election that will impair the bright chances of the democratic party.

W. C. McDonald, manager of the Carrizozo Ranch company, of Lincoln county, was in Las Vegas this week. He has just returned from Liberal, Kansas, where he delivered a large herd of the company's steers, for which he received $15 for the two—one of the best sales of the year. While away, Mr. McDonald was sick at Liberal, and for several days his life was despaired of. He will remain at the Las Vegas hot spring until able to undertake the hard trip to his home. Mr. McDonald has just been elected to the New Mexico legislature, and his well known ability guarantees Lincoln county an able and active representative.—Stock Grower.

President's Proclamation.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The following is the proclamation by the President of the United States: A proclamation. By the grace and favor of the Almighty God the people of the nation have been led to the closing days of the passing year, which has been full of the blessings of peace and the comforts of plenty. Bountiful compensation has come to us for the work of our minds and of our hands in every department of human industry. Now, therefore I, Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Thursday the 27th day of the present month of November to be observed as a day of prayer, and of thanksgiving, and I do invite the people upon that day to cease from their labors, to meet in their accustomed houses of worship and to join in rendering gratitude and praise to our beneficent creator for the rich blessings he has granted us as a nation, and invoking the continuance of his protection and grace for the future. I commend to my fellow-citizens the privilege of remembering the poor, the homeless and the sorrowful. Let us endeavor to merit the promised recompense of charity and the gracious acceptance of our praise. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this 8th day of November in the year of our Lord 1890 and of the seal of independence of the United States the one hundred and fifteenth. (Signed,)

Mr. Lee: "Why, Addie, you needn't cry about it! I only said Mrs. Allen was a very well-informed woman, and I wished you would follow her example." Mrs. Lee: "Yes, and last week you said you wished I could manage to look as stylish as Mrs. Allen, and she makes all her own clothes. But she has what I haven't." Mr. Lee: "What is that?" Mrs. Lee: "Well, she gets all of her information from the Magazine they take. I admit that she knows all that is going on, and is bright and entertaining in conversation; but I can't do as well as she does if I had the same source of information. She lent me the last number of her Magazine lately, and I learned more in one hour's reading, about various social matters and the topics of the day, than I would pick up in a month by my occasional chats with friends. It certainly covers every topic of interest, from the news of the day down to the details of house-keeping; and everything is so beautifully illustrated, too. Every time Mamma goes over to the Allen's she comes back and tells me to get you to take Demorest's Family Magazine, as the stories are so good. Ever get it, boys, watch for it every month, as a place is found for them also in its pages; and Mr. Allen swears by it. It is really wonderful how it suits every member of the family!" Mr. Lee: "Well, perhaps I had better send for a Specimen Copy; for, if it is anything like what you say it is, it will amuse and instruct the whole of us." Mrs. Lee: "I see that W. Jennings Demorest, the publisher, is 14th 1/2 Street, New York, is offering to send a Specimen Copy for 10 cents, so we can't lose anything, as each number contains a 'Pattern Order' entitling the holder to any Pattern she may choose, and in any size—which alone makes each copy worth 30 cents; and I just want a jacket pattern like Mrs. Allen's. The subscription price is only $2.00 a year; and I must say I can't see how they can publish so elegant a Magazine for so little money."
