Senator Wolcott to Marry.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 11 .- The New York Mail and Express prints the following under the heading: "Senator Wolcott to Wed-The Handsomest Man in the Upper House of Congress Captures Mrs. Lyman K. Bass."

Senator Ed. Wolcott, reputed to be the handsomest man in the United States Senate, is to be married next Wednesday. His bride will be Mrs. Lyman K. Bass of Buffalo, widow of ex-President Cleveland's old law partner. Senator Wolcott has arrived in town to remain a couple of a dry dock at Brooklyn costing a million days. The Gilsey house is his headquarters, and his many friends in this city are showering congratulations upon him. The wedding will be a quiet affair. A few relatives and close friends of the bride and groom will be the only guests. It will take place in Buffalo, the home of Mrs.

Senator Wolcott is one of the most popular men in the Senate, and has friends in every important city from the Pacific slope to the Atlantic coast. He is said to have few equals at the great American game of poker and many columns have been printed recounting his big plays at Long Branch and other places.

A Pleasant Surprise.

Washington, May 10.-When John C. Fremont was a lieutenant in the Fourth cavalry, in California, his accounts with the Government were left in such a state that he has always been regarded as the official debtor to the Government to the amount of $19,000, and it has been one of the chief sorrows of General Fremont's later years that he was unable to secure been murdered by his subjects. He tried this balance against him. The other day General Fremont called at the office of the Second Comptroller of the Treasury, as nis financial circumstances are such that if his salary as a retired major-general were retained to meet this alleged shortage, he would be for some time in actual want. At his request the Comptroller investigated his accounts and discovered that instead of General Fremont being a debtor, the Government had actually owed him for over forty years $1,900, and Congress will be asked to pay it.

An Ohio Storm.

AKRON, O., May 10 .- The worst storm that ever visited Northern Ohio and one of the worst on record, swept away a part of the city of Akron at five o'clock this afternoon. It came in the form of a tornado of the most violent form and mowed down everything in its path with irresistible fury. Buildings, trees and fences were whisked away and their remnants piled here and there in a shapeless mass. The path of the storm was a mile in length and a hundred yards wide, and scarcely a land mark remains of the populous part of the city visited by it.

The number of buildings destroyed cannot be estimated, but it will reach over 100, while $100,000 will not cover the money loss. The saddest aspect of the disaster is that it falls most heavily upon those least able to bear it. The ruined district was almost entirely occupied by the houses of poor workingmen. The storm was heavy all over the city and the streets were so flooded with water that it was almost impossible to reach the scene of the storm for hours. It is the most remarkable circumstance attending the tornado that many were not killed instead of uninjured as was the

The treaties which Stanley has made throughout his trip from the west to the east of Africa with the native chiefs and people are now lodged in the foreign office waiting ratification by the government. If his work in this bears its legitimate fruit, the explorer will have done a great service to England politically, and in a general way to the whole English-speaking world.

The Panama Canal.

Paris, May 8 .- The report of the special commission sent out by Brunett, liquidator of the Panama Canal Company, to investigate the condition of the canal, estimates that it would cost 485,000,000 francs to complete the canal on the lock system. To this should be added 20 per cent. for unforeseen expenses and 29 per cent, for expenses of the management and interest. The total cent is fixed at 900,000.

Stanley Scolds the English.

London, May 13. - The reception to Stanley in Guild Hall to-day was an enthusiastic affair. A dense crowd thronged the approaches and the guests numbered 2,000. The Lord Mayor presented to the explorer a gold casket containing an ad dress from the corporation of London.

Stanley, in returning thanks, said that Congo might have belonged to England had Englishmen listened to his lectures between 1878 and 1884. Belgium was reaping 100 per cent. England might have had East Africa, but her journalists see everything through an opaque glass. Germany to-day had the lion's share and cannot fail to win in the long run. Wissmann never heard of such things as Quakerism, peace societies, anti-enterprise companies and namby-pamby journalism, all of which are clogs to every hearty endeavor made by England. He hoped the govenment would remember the services of his companions and not chill their young souls with the neglect which first warped poor Gordon after his heroic achievements in China.

A Cruel Joke.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 13 .- Arthur Bohlman, a cook in Raider's restaurant, committed suicide this morning. Two weeks ago he received a letter from Germany stating that the woman he was to marry shortly had deserted him for another. Bohlman became very despondent and threatened suicide. Ten minutes after Bohlman's body was found hanging from the rafters. This morning Raider received a letter for him. It was opened, and its contents read that the former letter received was written by a friend as a joke, and that Bohlman's sweetheart had not married.

War on Mormons.

ERNON, La., May 13.-Two Mormon elders, hailing from Utah, have been tramping through Washington and Holmes counties distributing their religious tracts. They had proselyted to a considerable extent and especially among young unmarried females, and a party of eight women were secured to go West.

Abram King had two daughters in the party. King and his son and neighbors pursued the Mormons and captured them, tied them to trees, and after flogging them unmercifully loosened them and began firing on them.

The Mormons ran into the swamps. They have not been seen since, and undoubtedly perished. The young women were returned home, and every one of them well switched, the parents making each one whip the other.

General Caprivi's Speech.

BERLIN, May 12 .- Chancellor Caprivi made a long speech in the Reichstag to-day in regard to Germany's colonial policy. He said that regarding the boundaries of their respective possessions in Africa, the predominating wish of Germany was to go hand in hand with Enggland and cultivate the common interests of both countries. Regarding slavery the chancellor said: "We must found stations, and the bullet and Bible must act in the civilization. Without killing off the slave-dealers you can never abolish slavery."

The colonial movement, he said, had its origin in the same idealism or romatic idea of a unified empire. There was a surplus of this after war, and it was directed toward colonizing. The movement was inudicious, as if one had only to raise his hand to conjure forth lumps of gold and ready-made cigars-and was begun with little practical knowledge of prudence-An atlas was taken and half of Africa painted blue. [Laughter.] Such, how ever was the invariable beginning of such movements. It was difficult to convert enthusiasm into hard cash, still he cherished the hope that East Africa would become a fitting sphere for the investment of private capital.

In reference to the speech a correspondent says: By to-day's speech in the Reichstag Von Caprivi passed with one bound to the first rank of European statesmen. The opinion universally expressed in the lobbies was that in comparison with his predecessor he has nothing to fear. His speech was an intellectual treat of the His whole bearing and especially the strength revealed by his con-dilatory manner toward opponents showed nobility of nature, high integrity and clearages of purpose. The emperer and Europe are to be congratulated.

CONGRESSIONAL.

THURSDAY, MAY 8.

SENATE-It was agreed to lay the silver bill over until Monday.

The Senate passed without amendment the House bill providing for classification of worsted goods as woolens, and it now goes to the President for his signature. The vote was a party one—yeas 32,nays 20.

The pension appropriation bill (appropriating for the next fiscal year $97,090, 761) was taken up. The amendments of-fered by Mr. Sherman and Mr. Washburn to increase the number of pension agents from eighteen and twenty to twenty-one gave rise to a long discussion, and as a ote disclosed the absence of a quorum the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE—During the day and evening sessions the tariff bill was taken up. In the speeches a great deal of attention was paid to the condition of western farmers. Mr. Dockery of Missouri, submitted an argument in favor of free wool and a reduction of the duty on manufactured products. In his State there were 1,000,000 more people than sheep, and between people and sheep sympathy was with the peo-

SATURDAY, MAY 10.

SENATE.—The army appropriation bill was taken up. Mr. Hale's amendment, providing that no alcoholic liquors, beer or wine be sold and supplied to enlisted men in any canteen or building in any garrison or mil thary post, was agreed to—yeas 30, nays 13.

Mr. Cockrell's amendment striking out the words "beer or wine," was disagreed
to. The bill then passed.

The Senate then took up individual pension bills on the calendar and passed all of them—185 in an hour and half.

House.-The House went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill.

Mr. Lanham of Texas, in a speech generally critical of the measure, urged the importance of reciprocity with Mexico. He especially antagonized the feature of the bill which places a duty on silver-lead ore, declaring it would destroy the smelting interests of Texas and neighboring States, and would invite retaliatory legislation on the part of Mexico.

Mr. Springer of Illinois made a speech against the bill, humorously criticising its provisions. The debate continued during the day and evening.

MONDAY, MAY 12.

SENATE.—The Senate bill appropriating $200,000 for the public building at Ogden, Utah, was reported and placed on the cal-

The Senate then proceeded to consider the action authorizing the issue of treasury notes on deposits of silver bullion. Mr. Jones, of Nevada addressed the Senate in its favor. He declared the financial de-pression due to the shrinkage in the volume of currency. The motion of demon-etization in the case of silver, as well as gold, was, Mr. Jones said, to aggrandize the creditor class of the world, and confiscate farms, the practicable rewards to the hardy toilers.

He spoke of the demonetization of silver by Germany after the war with France as having inflicted greater evils on her people her armies inflicted on Franc said that when it began to have its effect a veritable hegira of the German population began to take place.

He warmly defended the silver miners from the charge of selfishness in desiring the demonetization of silver. At the suggestion of Mr. Teller, Mr. Jones postponed finishing his speech until to-morrow House.-The tariff bill was taken up and

A number of amendments offered by

Democrats were rejected.

TUESDAY, MAY 13.

Senate.—Senator Jones, of Nevada, continued his address. He opposed the idea of redeeming treasury notes in bullion on the ground that when they were redeemed the monetary circulation would become con tracted, and putting bullion on the market would not make up to the country for the loss of money from circulation. He predicted that the restoration of silver to its birthright will mark an epoch in the history of this republic. It will place in circulation an amount of money commensurate with our increasing population, it will give as-surance to our languishing industries that the volume of our circulating medium is not to continue shrinking, and that the tendency of prices shall no longer be downward. It will increase the wages of labor and the prices of the products of labor; it will reduce the price of bonds and other forms of money securities; it will lighten, but not inequitably, the burden of mort-gages; it will increase largely, though not unjustly, the debt-paying and tax-paying power of the people. It will loosen the grasp of the creditor from the neck of the

In answer to questions. Mr. Jones said that if there was free coinage of silver he believed that in three days silver, not used for coinage, would be worth $1.25 an ounce, and there it would remain.

House.—A large number of amendments to the tariff bill were considered and rejected. Thirteen pages out of 156 were dispatched.

The Buckeye, mentioned incidentally in our notice of the Virginius, is doing very well indeed. The sultan of Morocco has thirty-seven vives. His domestic affairs are more troublesome than his foreign relations. The prince of Nagles, heir apparent to

It is said that the natural gas of Indiana has been the means of bringing into that state more than $20,000,000 in capital and fully 10,000 mechanics. A horse fell into an abandoned shaft at

Silver Fork, Nev., on Jan. 19 and lived nineteen days without food or drink. When rescued the animal was able to walk, and in a few hours was able to move about all right. The largest tree in the world is reported to have been recently found in California, ceased to be a disturbing factor in the politics of France and is no longer an interesting figure. When P. T. Barnum said farewell to a well known English circus manager the latter remarked: "We shall meet again in neaven, my dear Barnum." The American looked thoughtful for a moment, and then said: "Yes, if you are there." Humor has had an illustration in the south. A minister announced to his congregation one Sunday that on the next Sunday he would preach on "Looking Backward." A large audience assembled to hear him when he discoursed to the people on Lot's wife.

The intelligence of animals became one of the subjects of discussion at a little dinner party. An enthusiastic advocate of the dog was asked: "Do you mean to tell us that there are some dogs with more sense than their masters can boast of?" "Certainly; I have one."

Sam Jones seems to have been more offensive down in Texas than usual. Perhaps he thought the people down there required something ruder than elsewhere. At Tyler he said "dancing girls look like tadpoles and fashionable girls look no more like God Almighty's women than a Chinaman looks like a salt mine." He is always an ardent seeker after notoriety.

The German emperor having issued an order suppressing the use of all French words in the postal service, the czar has antagonized it by a circular which declares that all letters, telegrams and packages sent abroad must be addressed in French, and the Russian authorities will not be responsible for the transmission of any mail matter that is not addressed in that language. The dagger with which Ravaillac assas sinated Henry IV. of France has been found by a Berlin antiquary. He bought a curious thick cane from a peasant and on examination the stick proved to be hollow and to contain an ancient poniard and tiny snuff box. In the latter was a paper stating that the owner of the stick had carried off the historical dagger from the Paris Palais de Justice in 1815.

Shakespeare is well appreciated by the higher educated natives in India, and last year a large number of his plays were published in the vernacular. "As You Like It" and "The Winter's Tale" were translated into Tamil and Telegu for Madras; "The Taming of the Shrew" came out in the Punjab, and "Hamlet," "Much Ado About Nothing" and "The Comedy of Errors" were great favorities in the northwest provinces. Scott Keltie, librarian of the Royal Geographical Society, says that, reckoning the whole territory where British influence is paramount, the dominion includes about ten million square miles, or very nearly one-fifth of the total land surface of the globe. This shows the British empire to be nearly three times the size of Europe and only about a million acres less than Africa. At least a fifth of the whole population of the earth are British subjects.

A remarkable telegram broke up the en tire establishment in a big Broadway store recently. The head of the firm received a dispatch conveying the information: "A mosquito ili to-day. Can't come down. He called in the other partner and chief clerks for a consultation. They had no cipher that fitted the telegram, but after a while light dawned upon one of the party. A bright young man in the store rejoices in the name of Amos, and, being under the weather, his mother wrote this telegram : "Ames quite ill to day. Can't come dewn."

Boomerangs.

More has been written, and less is understood, of the boomerang than of almost any other weapon. It is generally known to be a flat stick of wood bent in a shape which suggests a combination of a "V" and a "U," although with the extremities spread apart until they are at right angles with each other. In point of fact, boomerangs are of almost every shape from semicircular to nearly straight, and seem to depend for their efficiency not so much upon the evident form as upon the curves which are shown upon their flat side. The boomerang maker knows instinctively just where his boomerang will go when he throws it, although he never seems to aim any two in the samé way. More lies have been told about the boomerang than can be well enumerated. One hears of men who can so throw a boomerang that it kills an enemy behind a tree and then comes cheerfully fluttering back to its owner, who thereupon hurls it on a fresh mission of carnage. A flock of frightened cockatoos, speeding in intricate gyrations through the air to escape the attack of natives who want a bird for dinner, are pursued at every turn by these erratic weapons, which strike them down a dozen each, and so return to the hand that cast them. Old wives' fables, these, at which Australians

The boomerang is sufficiently remarkable without being regarded in the light of a long bow, and drawn by every tourist in the colonies. It is held perpendicularly and taken firmly in the hand by one of its extremities, with the other pointed forward, and is hurled with a full arm and assisted by a run and swing of the whole body. A slight turn of the wrist at the moment of discharge causes it to assume various erratic courses. Sometimes it will fly straight forward for 100 or even 200 yards, then rise sharply in a row. A suggestive feature of the to a great height, lose its force, and flutter down to the feet of the thrower. Again, it will rise in the air, swoop around in a great semi-circle a few inches from the ground, rise once more, and return to the spot whence it started. It will also start off in a great swoop to the right, reverse it and turn to the left, skim around the thrower in a series of ever-narrowing circles, and, finding their centre, fall into it like an exhausted bird. There is something uncanny about the thing; its movements are so nnexpected and out of reason that it seems to be alive, and to take a savage delight in strange shoots and dashes, which make the new chum (Australian equivalent for tenderfoot) dodge every time it turns, lest it should

John Brown's Irons.

James N. Atwood of Livermore Centre has in his possession the veritable "leg irons" worn by John Brown during his imprisonment previous to being hanged at Harper's Ferry. H. Atwood, Jr., (Company I, First Maine Volunteers), was at the jail shortly after John Brown's death. The officers in charge of the buildings vouched for the identity of the irons at the time, and Mr. Atwood was thoroughly satisfied with the proof. He also formed the acquaintance of the old negro and his wife who had the care of the cell where Brown was confined.

On the day of the execution the old man, being afraid that he would forget which pair it was, tore a strip from the quilt on John Brown's cot and tied it into the key of the shackles. but the old negress, his wife, said: "Law! I didn't forgit nuffin, for it was de only pair of irons in de whole jail where de key turn de wrong way."

(It was a left-handed key.) .Untying the dirty strip of calico from the key Mr. Atwood went to Brown's cell and found the torn place in the quilt, the figure of the cloth matching perfectly.

Mr. Atwood tried to buy the shackles from the authorities, but they goodnaturedly told him they "Had no right to sell;" then he made this proposition: "If these irons should disappear and a new pair be found hanging in their place would there be any investigation?" They answered him,

"Probably not." He then paid $8 for a new pair and made the transfer on his own respon sibility.

The shackles were sent home. For a few years previous to the death of H. Atwood, Jr., the shackles were on exhibition in the museum in connection with the Boothbay Custom House. Mr. Atwood after returning from his service in the war, entered the Free Will Baptist ministry. He was a brother to James N. Atwood, who now has these shackles in possession. The present proprietor prizes them very highly, and says they are not for sale, being almost the only souvenir he. has of his departed brother. -Auburn Railroad for Roswell. Colorado Springs, May 13.—Messrs. Irving Howbart, Charles E. Noble and J. T. Humphrey, of this city, have filed articles of incorporation of the Pecos construction and land company to build and operate the Pecos Valley railroad from a point on the Texas and Pacific railroad in Texas to the boundry line of Reeves county; also for a railroad to Roswell, N. M., south through Eddy county to a point on the southern boundary of this county and New Mex-ico. The capital stock is $50,000, and the principal offices will be in the city of

If a citizen really wants to feet proud of New Mexico he has only to take a run falls, spilled from an urn an angel has eastward and mingle with the people upturned. It falls on hate, and lo, its eastward and mingle with the people and curse the climate and note the discontent prevailing there. All are looking towards the west, and the southwest now, especially, and each one is eager for information pertaining to this region of country. We of New Mexico have a far better country than we usuall allow ourselves to believe. Our blessed sun-shine is itself a God-given boon that is by no means appreciated until one gets away from home for a time. New Mex-ico's nateral resources are wonderful as ico's natural resources are wonderful as compared with those of the eastern and central western states; and above all, the broad spirit of hospitality here prevailing and the contentment of our people—these are elements of life here that stand out in bright contrast and endear this soil to every man whose good fortune it has been to once call New Mexico his home.—New Mexican.

The New Mexican is informed that Hon. C. B. Eddy has placed in New York all the bonds to build the Pecos valley railroad from the Texas & Pacific to Rosrailroad from the Texas & Pacific to Roswell. Parties of the latter point are now making inquiry as to the anthracite coal deposits about Cerrillos and it is hinted that the Pecos valley line will be after them ere long.—New Mexican.

In New Mexico.

The following, written by one of our young farmers, we clip from the Brook-lyn Daily Times, omiting the report of their trip from the east to the New Mexico line, as our space is limited:

"On the 7th of November, 1889, three young fellows left their homes in Brooklyn and turned their faces towards the plaines of New Mexico. They are too modest to desire their names used, but one of the trio gives the following in-teresting chronicle of the trip. * * * *

After seven days traveling we came upon what was called the bottom lands, where there is nothing but grass as far as the eye can reach, and one can see a great distance, for the land is very level. Off to the northwest is the grand mountain called El Capitan. From where we were it was about seventy-five miles over to it, but it looked as if one could ride to its base before breakfast, so deceiving is the atmosphere.

On Sunday afternoon, December 15, we reached the source of the South Spring River, which is about six miles from our destination, the town of Roswell. We reached the town about 5 o'clock and camped on the Hondo River, about half a mile from the village; here we remained till our land was surveyed and water obtained on it. This was done by tapping a ditch about two miles away with one running from our own land crossing several other people's land in its course. We three boys who left Brooklyn on the 7th day of last November are now "batching it" out on the plains about six miles from the town of Roswell, where we are about to begin to farm on about 800 acres. The first object is to get in a big crop of "Alfalfa grass," which is a very good feed for cattle and horses in this country. Besides this there will be one garden patch as well as melon and cucumber lots.

Before closing this article allow me to say a word regarding this town of Roswell. It is situated in the southeastern corner of the Territory of New Mexico, in the County of Lincoln, up to January 1st of this year, when, after that, it will be the county seat of Chaves County and, next November, elect its first county

It has about 500 inhabitants, not counting the neighboring ranches in a radius of twenty miles, who obtain their mail at Roswell Post Office. Most of these are mechanics and cowboys who are employed in and around the town. It has three large general merchandise stores, with a fourth about to open, a branch store of an Amarillo, Texas, Jaffa, Prager & Co, are the largest and do a business of upwards of $75,000 annually; then comes Poe, Lea & Cosgrove, who have the Post Office, and besides these is Williamson & Sanders. Two smiths and wheelwrights find plenty of work, also two butchers. There is a church congregation in town which worship in the school house, awaiting the completion of their church, which is being constructed.

The social element of the town is quite lively, and during the last month there have been six or more dances besides a number of card parties. The town also has a paper, the Pecos Valley REGISTER, and the editor, Mr. Erwin, is doing good work, it now has circulation among several small towns in a ridius of 200 or 300 miles. The town also boasts of a very good brass band of fifteen Roswell, therefore, considering the distance it is from any railroad, is a very lively little town. By January 1, 1891, the new Court House will be finished and a new jail erected, besides a large hotel. named will be very convenient for those strangers who come to this town and now find it difficulty to get lodging. Roswell is 200 miles from a road, being the furthest town from a railroad in the United States.

The mail is carried from Carthage, on the Santa Fe Railroad, to Lincoln by stage and then here by buckboard. The mail is a little slow, oftentimes a letter being eight to ten days arriving here from the east.

If any young man thinks of going west let him come to New Mexico, for the weather here is perfect. Not one day this winter so far has the thermometer been below 30 degrees. There are hardly twenty-four hours at a time when the sun is not shining on some part of

The Gould System for the Pecos Valley. From the Fort Worth Gazette.

A Mr. Ullman, a prominent business man of El Paso, has a better opinion of Mr. Gould than the Dallas genius has, and credits him with intending to buy existing roads instead of defunct and played out projects. Mr. Ullmann, in an interview with an El Paso Herald report-er, stated that "Mr. Gould was not here and down in Mexico for either health of pleasure exclusively; he believes Gould is about to obtain control of the Santa Fe system and will get an outlet for it and the Southern Kansas by building a road to El Paso from Washburn or Kiowa, and when the new road running south from Deming into Mexico is built we will have a road from Juarez, which will tap it south of the line in Mexico and eventually this city will be headquarters for a great part of the system, if not all of it. As soon as Gould gets everything ready he will have both the Santa Fe and Texas and Pacific shops located in this city.

Mr. Ullman may be right or he may be wrong, yet his ideas have that virtue of being sensible at any rate.

wrath has gone, melted and lost in dear forgiveness. It drops, balsamic soft, on aching hearts, and pain flies off, whilst gentle comfort comes and hovers o'er the sufferer, with wings white as the plumes of some celestial bird, soft dripping perfumes full of healing down. It touches grief that have corroded lives, and like the acid pierces iron through so enters in its hard, unyielding ore and melts it into softness. Into the ocean of our human life, salt with the mineral of a thousand woes, bitter with sorrow, brackish with despair, where streams of deep unhappiness have poured the sorrows they have drunk from broken hearts, from awful crimes, from guilt, remorse and fear, the tear of woman drops like gentle rain, and lo, the whole is sweetened, and its tides rise swelled to life again in calm content .-- Ex.

D. M. OSBURNE MOWERS AND MOLINE PLOWS.

To those who use Machinery, and especially to the farmers of this country, we take this method of bringing to your notice that we are handling machinery, and the kind that you need, and guarantee any machine that we propose to sell, to give entire satisfaction, or no sale.

We have on hand the best Mower that was ever introduced in this country, and for many reasons: 1st.-It is the lightest draft machine made, no side draft, no weight on your horses necks, the draft comes direct from the main bar underneath the tongue. 2d.—It has the loose and flexible cutting bar, the outer end will drop 21/2 ft. into a ditch; the very thing you farmers need in this country to cut over your ditches. Other mowers can't do this, as they are stiff in the heel. 3d-The pittman runs in a straight line from a direct powerful stroke. In fact we are willing to give the D. M. Osburne a field test, and put up ($50.00) fifty dollars that with two 800 lb. ponnies we can cut as much grass as any other machine with any size horses or mules, and we can cut over ground they can't, and do good work. All we want is to sell our machine, if you want one, is to give us a trial and we will willingly go and let you see it work and satisfy you it is all we represent it to be and that is, the best mower made. The Stevens arched all spring tooth harrows needs no recommendation from us, for some of your best farmers has it and don't hesitate to say it is the best they ever saw, and the very thing the country needs. Will have on hand binding twine and extras for all machines we handle. Will have in a few days the Moline Plows of ever discription and Rakes, the flying Dutchman J. R., the best three wheel plow that is made, as some of your farmers can testify to. The Moline cultivators with there 1½ plows (bull tongue's) the very thing to go down in the ground and cultivate your corn, corn planters, and in fact everything that is needed in farming will be here in a few days. We handle the K. C. Hay press, full circle all steel, and a No. 1 press; there is one now being used by Mr. P. F. Garrett, and gives satisfaction. Bailing wire we order for any one wishing it me. order for any one wishing it, and if we should not have on hand what you want will take pleasure in ordering it for you, and will sell as low as goods can be sold by any one to be of first-class quality, for we handle no other goods. Come and see for yourselves and let me tell you what Osburne Mowers can do. Will take grain for machinery. W. A. JENKINS & Co.

Wanted: 12 or 15 mares to breed to my Percheron Stallion "Bibi." $15 to insure a colt, or will contract colts on reasonable terms. Pasture free, but will not be responsible for accidents should any occur. Ranch 45 miles north of WM. H. FUQUE.

We will have for sale in Roswell and vicinity, not later than the 1st day of June, two hundred and fifty head of good broke saddle horses, from four to seven years old, and from fourteen to fifteen hands high, and free from blemishes. WILLIAMSON & SANDERS.

From the Lincoln County Leader.

The people of White Oaks are glad t note, the prevailing signs of substantial prosperity in the new Counties. As the children of the County of Lincoln, they will always seem peculiarly near to us, and their prosperity will always be near the hearts of their brethern, who remain under the old name. The day is not far distant, when all three of our counties will have railroad facilities, and then we want to see the man who can show us a better country, than lies within the borders of Old Lincoln County.

From the Lincoln Independent. To Roswell and community: We desire to give warning that on Wednesday, the 14th inst., there left here a man who was bound for Roswell, for some purpose that may bear watching. In size he is about two by five, has a gingerbread-colored mustache, wears clothes, has a dark brown breath and has an insinuating method of approaching people. He has seven long hairs growing in the middle of the bottom of his left foot and asks a great many questions. He can't come nearer a blush than a snowball, and his gall starts under his arm and runs to his ankle. He's among you, my friends, and you'd better keep your eye on him.

A Well Known German Wins $15,000. Indianapolis (Ind.) Sentinel, April 29.

A few days ago Philip Reichwein of 98 N. Noble St., received a draft through the M. Noble St., received a graft through the Merchants' National Bank of this city for $15,000 from the Louisiana State Lottery Company at New Orleans—Mr. Reichman holding a twentieth part of the ticket winning the capital prize of $300,000. During the month of February Mr. Reichwein made a trip to New Orleans with the In-dianapolis Maennerchor Society, and while there purchased a ticket for the March drawing, leaving it with a friend there. That ticket drew $5, and sending word to his friend to invest that in more tickets he gave little thought to the matter. Shortly fter the last drawing he found he held ticket drawing a twentieth part of the capital prize. He is a prominent German well known in the city and Supreme Secretary of the Ancient Order of Druids, which gives him a large circle of acquaint ances in New Orleans.

BISMARCK AT HOME.

The Daily Life at Frederick's Rest-A Modest Home in a Forest.

In my last letter, writes a correspondent of the New York Tribune, I told you I would write a description of Friedrichsruhe and the daily life of Bismarck in that residence, if the rumors about his resignation were confirmed. So they are now, and the greatest of all Germans will now live as a private citizen at his castle of Friedrichsruhe. "Frederick's rest," was originally a hunting rendezvous, built in 1763 by Count Frederick von Lippe Sternbery and Schwabenberg. Near by was an ancient hostelry, called Frascati by its proprietor, a retired valet of the Berlin princes.

When Emperor William, who owned the place in his quality of Dnke of Lauenburg, made a present to Bismarck of the domain upon which Frascati stood, the Iron Chancellor remodeled the hotel and made it his country residence, to the great annoyance of the Hamburg bourgeois, who used to come there for picnics. There are no neighboring cottages around, and Bismarck is not disturbed on his estate. At some distance from the castle stands the inn of the locality in the midst of a few houses which form the village. There are no peasants, but only some forest-seekers, letter-carriers, railroad employes, the workmen of the saw mill owned by the prince, a blacksmith, a tailor, a miller, the landlord and the waiters of the hotel.

The principal personage of that small colony is the forest-keeper of the Sachsenwald, who is also mayor of Friedrichsruhe, and the manager of Schwarzenback, a small estate near Friedrichsruhe belonging to Bismarck, and of the farms and tilled lands of Silk and Schoenau, which also belong to the prince. The latter does not disdain to have frequent and friendly talks with his chief forest-keeper. Bismarck is fond of ask ing all sorts of practical questions, and he listens with pleasure to the progress made in wood-cutting and the profits to be expected therefrom.

Friedrichsruhe is as isolated as any solitary hermit could desire, though reached in one hour's time by express train from Hamburg. The forest called Sachsenwald (Saxons' wood) surrounded the estates entirely. The railroad passes from one end of it to the other. It is little frequented by hunters, and troops of deer are to be seen from the windows of the express train, quietly feeding on the very embankments of the railroad track. A small brook, the Au, flows across the forest under the foliage of the trees, and when it comes out from the wood it gives the motive power to the saw mill belonging to Bismarck. The fact is that the chancellor's home is the last place where affectation and posing are allowed.

It is quite a family home, without any pretense to dignity. Dolly and Bichette are the friendly nicknames given to Princesses Furstenberg and Radziwill, great friends of the house, and Madame Bismarck's aged friend is familiarly called Mother Boltzmann. The prince is never so happy as when he can afford to stay in the midst of his family, with his children around him.

The house at Friedrichruhe has only two stories, and is painted yellow. The first story is occupied by the chancellor, the second by his wife and daughter, the Countess von Rantzan, whenever she comes on a visit to her parents. It is not likely that Bismarck will change much in the daily routine of his life. with the exception that he will reside all the year round at Friedrichsruhe, and devote to his own private affairs the time he used to consecrate to those of the Empire. He begins the day by working at his desk, and afterwards takes a ride or a walk, which is never shorter than five miles. At the second break fast all the members of the family appear, and sometimes there is a distinguished visitor. The afternoon is spent in working and in a short promenade. At 7 dinner is served, after which the prince retires to his smoking-room.

Dwellings of the Poor.

Professor Richard T. Ely's impaper on "A Programme for Labor Reform," in the "Present-Day Papers" series, in the Century magazine, we quote the following: "Stricter sanitary laws are required, and a better organization of the sanitary administration of cities. Houses unfit for habitation should be torn down, and small parks provided to give breathing-places for the crowded sections. The beginning made in New York city deserves commendation. While not prepared to recommend at present the construction of houses by the municipality, we regard English experiments in this direction as worthy of study. Private philanthropy should concern itself more than heretofore with the dwellings of the poor and strive to make them fit for human beings. It is a sad commentary on our Christian civilization that when there is more than one man in New York city claiming to be a Christian who, alone and unaided, could reconstruct the entire tenement-house dis trict or districts of the city, the unspeakable wretchedness and squalor of its slums continue almost unabated.'

Grave of an African Queen.

Hester Cora Mitchell, as she was known here after becoming the slave of ex-Governor Mitchell, is buried in the cemetery in this city. She was a queen of some African tribe, and came to this country voluntarily, bringing with her all her insignia of royalty-crown and robes and jewels, etc. She was pleased with this country and resolved to lay down her robes of royalty and become a slave, as above stated. Every Christmas until her death she would appear before the negroes in all the gorgeousness of her queenly paraphernalia. After this exhibition she would retire, lay aside her queenly attire, and go into the kitchen as humbly as any of the other servants of Governor Mitchell. When Hester Cora tion and promotes all the digestive and assimilative processes.
