WHITTLIN'

BY DOLPH MOTEN

Say, did you notice how quickly the Goldwater bumper stickers disappeared.

Now if we could just get those billboards changed. . .

Without regard to what happens from here on in, this has been a successful football campaign for Bovina's Mustangs.

They started the season with heavy losses from last year's club, inexperience and a lack of speed and two new coaches, Roy Stone and Mill Fitts.

With one regularly-scheduled game left to play, they've assured themselves of a winning season. They have six wins which double their three losses.

The defeats came in the season's first three games when adjustments were being made on the aforementioned handicaps. Two of the losses were to strong Class A schools, Farwell and Springlake.

The third came against Amherst, a Class B school.

The fourth game was the one in which the Ponies "jelled," as football experts say. They roared back in the second half to give the visiting Bronchoes a good thrashing.

And since that game, the Mustangs have come off a football field each and every Friday night with a win tucked under their belts.

Injuries have had a tendency to be a detriment to the team's success but in almost all cases the relief man has done a yoman job in replacing a regular who was recovering. The ability to continue on a reasonably good note even when one of the top 11 was out of action has been one of the strong points of the 1964 Mustangs, we think.

"Did you know," a football fan asked us this week, "that Parmer County could have three district football champions this year?"

Farwell can win its Class A title Friday night by downing Springlake and Friona can do likewise in Class AA if the Chiefs can best the Whirlwinds from Floydada.

The third championship would, of course, have to be brought to the county by our own Mustangs and they'd have to do it with a win over Vega here November 20 -- a week from this Friday night.

If the Parmer County teams win their three districts, we'd like to know how many counties in the state can boast of such a successful record.

It goes without saying -- and the Republicans probably wish we'd go without saying it -- that we were pleased with the outcome of the general election. We were especially proud that the Bovina and Oklahoma Lane boxes went solidly Democratic. We were disappointed that this county failed to give Senator Ralph Yarborough a margin over his Republican opponent.

But we don't mean to complain. The overall outcome is what matters and it was wonderful.

Following are some facts and figures in regard to the balloting in the state which we thought interesting. They were prepared by Vern Sanford of Texas Press Association in Austin: "An overwhelming majority of Texas voters liked the Demo ticket headed by native son Pres. Lyndon Baines Johnson. "Republicans were left with little to be encouraged about. However, GOP leaders insisted their party has "the zeal and spirit to make a fast comeback" and will begin the 1966 campaign immediately.

"Statistics for the two political parties have gone to work to explain the tremendous Democratic sweep of Texas. One logical explanation of Johnson's landslide simply was that 400,000 more Texans than ever before appeared at the polls. And apparently they were about all Democrats. Turnout was some 88 per cent of the qualified voters, also a new record in this century in Texas.

"President Johnson received 64 per cent of the 2,700,000 Texas votes cast (to 36 per cent for Sen. Barry Goldwater).

Girls' Football Here Friday

The Mustangs don't play this week, but Mustang Field won't be without a football game.

A powderpuff game is slated for 7:30 Friday night. The game will pit girls from the senior and freshman classes against girls from junior and sophomore classes.

Members of the Mustang squad will serve as coaches for the game, which is sponsored by the senior girls.

A faculty king and queen will be crowned during halftime activities. Tickets are being sold by members of the senior class in advance for 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students. At the gate, price of adult tickets will be raised to $1. Students tickets will remain the same.

THREE --

Auto Accidents Happen Here

Three automobile accidents occurred here Thursday and Friday.

Thursday afternoon about 6:30, Rex Bearden, who lives in Rhea Community, was driving north on FM Road 1731 when his car struck a Quarterhorse mare owned by T. C. Wiseman.

The accident occurred just north of Bovina Gin Co.

Bearden's wife and son were riding with him. There were no injuries.

The windshield was knocked out of the '61 Ford. Estimated total of damages to their car was $250.

The mare was destroyed.

Friday afternoon a '64 Ford pickup driven by A. E. Guthrie of Dimmitt collided with a '53 Chevrolet automobile driven by Evaristo M. Garza on Highway 60 in front of Bovina Restaurant. Both vehicles were going west and attempting left turns. Damage to the pickup was estimated at $35 and to the car at $150.

Also Thursday afternoon, an accident occurred a mile east of town on the Dimmitt highway.

A '56 Ford driven by Buford Stanberry backed onto the pavement and was struck by a '64 Chevrolet pickup driven by D. E. Lilly of Dimmitt.

Damage to the car was estimated at $250 and to the pickup at $500.

SCHOOL BUSINESS --

Board Meets Early, Late

Trustees of Bovina Independent School District had a routine meeting at an unusual time this week.

They met for a breakfast session at 6:30 in Bovina Restaurant Monday morning.

In another session Monday afternoon, beginning at 5, board members met with the architect and contractor for the present building project to discuss the completion date.

December 15 is the deadline set for finishing the work which includes new classrooms.

All materials for the project's completion, except some lockers, are on hand and at present and the project in now "just a question of getting the work done," Superintendent Otis Spears announces.

Former Resident Escapes Injury

A former Bovina resident narrowly escaped injury Monday when the plane he was piloting collided in mid-air with another plane near Ponca City, Oklahoma.

John Potts, now of Lawton, Oklahoma, and a passenger, H. B. Dalton, managed to make a belly landing and escaped injury. The two occupants of the other plane were killed.

Potts is a pilot for Southern Aviation Company. He was born and reared in Bovina and a brother, Herbert Potts, lives at Farwell.

City Plans Building Meeting

A special city commission meeting is slated to be called soon to discuss the city's proposed construction of a new municipal meeting.

Decision to have the special meeting at a time to be announced later was made at a regular meeting last week.

Business attended to at that session was routine, announces Mrs. Mary Ruth Martin, city secretary.

WITH VEGA HERE NEXT WEEK --

Ponies A'Waiting District 1-B Decider

Bovina's district championship-hopeful Mustangs sit out an open date this week.

Their practice sessions, however, are as serious as ever as they still have the championship deciding game left to play. That will be with Vega here Friday night of next week (November 20).

Vega meets Lazbuddie this week at the Oldham County seat. Mustang coaches will take advantage of their Friday night off to scout the Longhorns in person.

Coach Roy Stone gave his squad a day off Monday from regular practice duties so annual pictures could be made.

Work began as usual Tuesday afternoon.

The winner of the Bovina - Vega game will represent District 1-B in bi-district play. The Longhorns have a 4-0 district record going into the Lazbuddie tilt. Bovina is 5-0. But even if Lazbuddie upset Vega, the Mustangs would still have to win the final game to be the district representative.

If Lazbuddie beats Vega and then Vega beats Bovina, both Bovina and Vega would have one district loss, but Vega would get the nod as district representative because of the win over Bovina.

"We're going to have a rough game with Vega," Coach Stone predicts, "they look as good as anyone we've seen this year."

Commenting on the Lazbuddie game, which the Mustangs won by a 7-0 count, Stone said, "We played a good defensive game. Offensively, we were hurt by injuries. I think we should have had two more touchdowns and possibly could have except for injuries to our regulars, "The muddy field was a factor in the game, too. Their backs were big and could run better in the mud than our smaller one could. Lazbuddie has an underrated team."

The open date this week will give the three members of the Mustang squad who are bothered by injuries a chance to recuperate. All hampered by ankle injuries are Gene Pruitt, regular fullback, Scotty Rundell, regular halfback, and Richard Carson, a halfback.

The coach says he expects all three to be ready for action against Vega.

All other members of the district are in action against each other this week. In addition to the Lazbuddie-Vega game at Vega, Happy plays at Hart and Nazareth goes to Texline.

IN FOOTBALL CONTEST --

Gobers Win Two Of Three Places

Two members of the Lloyd Gober family were among the three prize winners in last week's Bovina Businesses Football Contest. Daughter Kim named 10 winners, and was closer to the tiebreaker score than Larry Mitchell, who also picked all the winners, to earn first place and a $5 check.

Father Lloyd placed third and received $1. He picked nine winners but was closer to the tiebreaker score--the Bovina-Lazbuddie game--than were 18 others who also selected nine.

Mitchell received the second place prize of $3.

Gober predicted the score of the Bovina-Lazbuddie tilt would be 14-0. Actual score was 7-0, leaving him seven points off. This was much closer than other contestants estimated since most were expecting a high scoring game.

Placing in the overall contest remained unchanged. Dixie Carson, leader in the race for the grand prize, named eight winners to retain her one-point margin over Jeanne Kerby, who also had eight right.

Mrs. Carson has been in the lead or tied for it for the past six weeks. She now has a point total of 75 out of a possible 100 for a percentage of .750.

Mrs. Kerby has 74, Richard Carson 73, Gene Ezell and Jack McCracken 72 each.

Five points back with 70 are Jimmy Clements, Jay Sherrill and A. M. Wilson. Still in the race with totals of 69 are Melvin Terry and Flossie Rhinehart.

Others who named nine right last week but were too far off on the tiebreaker to place in the top three were Little Al Kerby, Joe Tarter, Ione Taylor, Richard Carson, Ezell, Tom Bonds, Frances Gober, Bill Askman of Clovis, Kathryn Johnston, Don Caldwell, Mike Barraza, Vernon Conner, James Taylor, Emmett Tabor, Earl Richards, Irene Spears, Jay Sherrill and John McFarland.

A total of 92 entered last week's contest. That's the first time this year for the number to drop under the 100 mark. The contest concludes at the end of this month. Grand prize winner will be determined following The Blade issue of November 25.

Contest sponsors are Oklahoma Lane Farm Supply, Charles Oil Co., Cicero Smith Lumber Co., Bovina Wheat Growers, Inc., Bovina Gin, General-gas, Bovina Dairy Freeze, Sherley Grain, First National Bank of Bovina, and Bonds Oil Co.

SPONSORED BY STUDY CLUB --

Christmas Card Project Set Again This Year

Bovina Women's Study Club is again planning to sponsor the Christmas Card Project in Bovina. The plan was put into effect for the first time last year and drew "good support", according to a club spokesman.

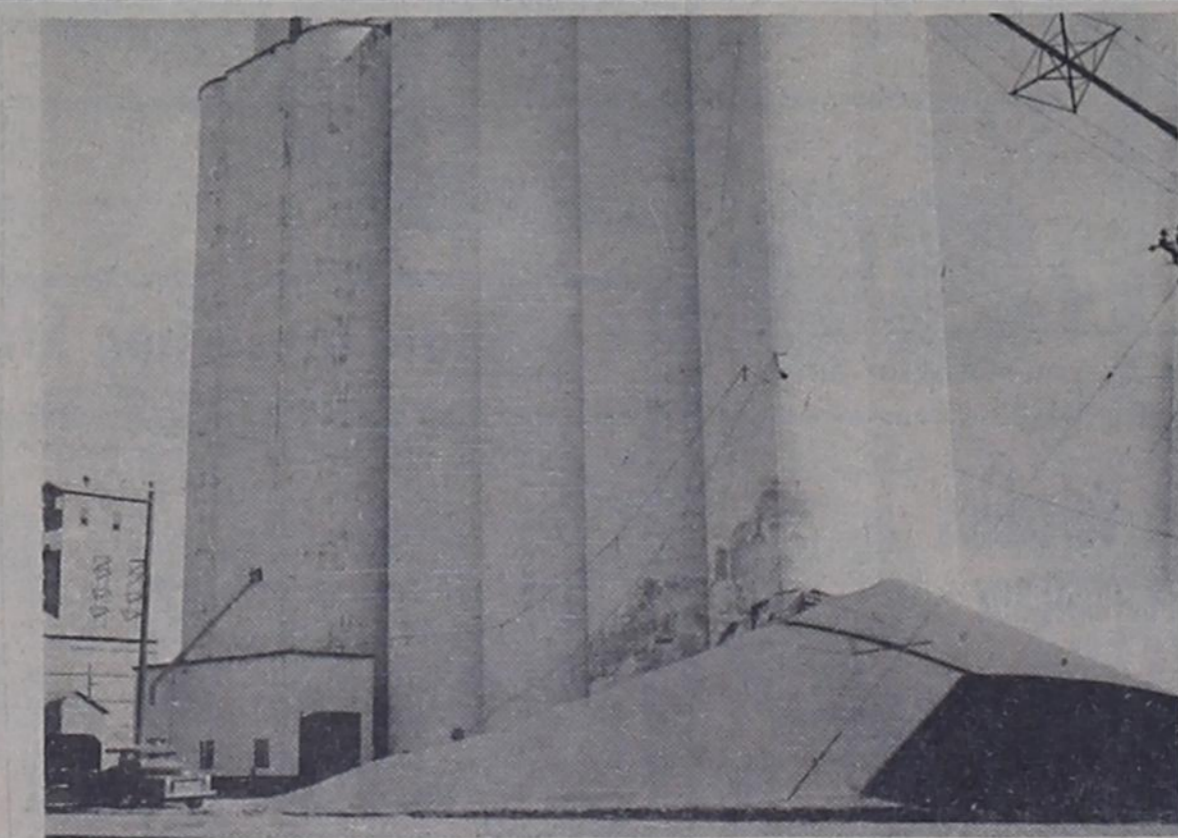

Object of the plan is for individuals and businesses to deposit the amount they would normally spend for cards and postage locally in a special account at First National Bank. The money given last year is still on deposit and will be left until there is a larger amount to provide funds for a worthwhile project. Various organizations of the community will be responsible for choosing the project. An ad will be carried in the Christmas edition of the Blade listing those who have participated in the program for this year.

MILO, MILO EVERYWHERE -- Storing of milo on the ground is again being practiced this year by Bovina's two grain elevators, Sherley Grain Co., left, and Bovina Wheat Growers, right. A shortage of boxcars is the reason given for a portion of the area's most popular crop to have to be stored "outside."

Consider Building Program

A building program is being contemplated by the board of trustees of Lazbuddie Independent School District.

Proposed new facilities include a lunchroom and cafeteria, a home economics department, a science lab and replacement of three classrooms and related facilities.

A public meeting to discuss the proposed building program is scheduled for Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium. E. A. Parham, president of the school board, asks all interested people to attend the meeting.

Plans call for the new unit to be constructed on the site of the oldest building on the campus, affectionately known as "Old Red."

Holcomb Attends

Water School

Paul Holcomb, city water superintendent, attended a water and sewer department school, the first three days of last week in Lubbock.

The school was sponsored by Texas Municipal League. This was one of two short courses attended annually by Holcomb.

NEWSLETTER
 From U. S. Senator
RALPH W. YARBOROUGH

Dear Fellow Texan:

The Senate has passed the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, commonly called the Anti-Poverty Bill. I was a co-author of this bill, a member of the Special Senate Subcommittee on Poverty which held hearings on it, and I am pleased to see this bill go to President Lyndon B. Johnson to be signed into law.

Its purpose is to help people help themselves. It is to help some of the 36 million people in families with low incomes, particularly young people, to cast off the chains of despair, to obtain proper training for our technological civilization.

This country has always been known as a land of hope for a better way of life. In the age of the frontier, this hope was focused on free land. That free land was responsible for the settlement of the West. And nobody called it a give-away program in those days. That's the way the West was won. This opportunity for the early settlers was made possible by the government, in keeping with the needs of the people at that time.

And fellow Texans, that's just what the Anti-Poverty Bill does now. It is no more a give-away bill than the bill for the settlement of the West, for the great free lands of the West.

Our problems today are different. This is an age of technology, an age when only the very skilled can hold their own, an age when it is economic suicide to drop out of high school. Today a person needs at least a junior college education in this technological era.

It is this new technology, rather than any sudden decrease in moral fiber, that necessitates government programs such as the War on Poverty.

People talk about everybody losing their moral fiber. I don't believe it for one minute. Automation and technocracy and computers have just automated them out of jobs. People are willing to work if they can get work. They want to work.

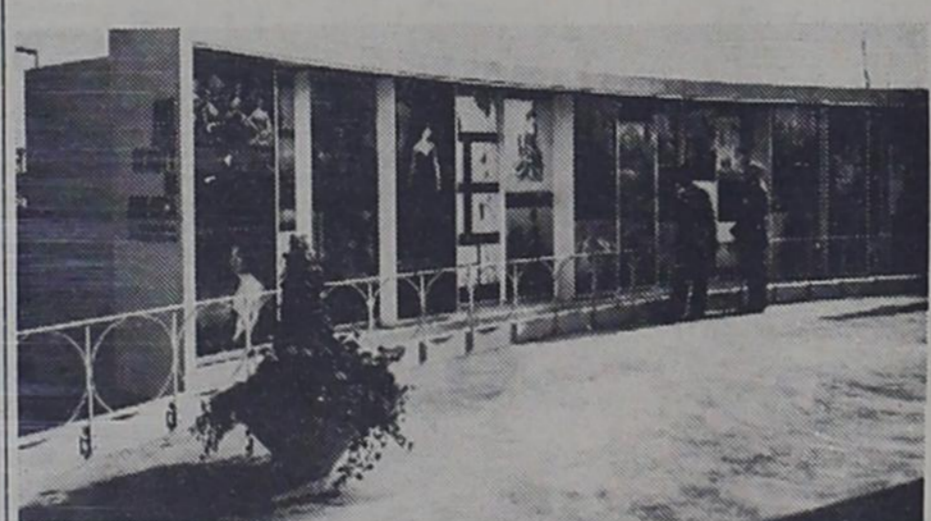

Now, what will the Anti-Poverty Bill do?

It will call for a Federal Job Corps for young men and women 16 to 21, to help those with less than high school training. About 200 conservation camps and 21 residential training centers will be set up around the country as a training program for young men and women between 16 and 21. There will be loans for rural families of low income, to help them get started with higher earnings to be a productive part in our society.

This is a rescue measure of an emergency nature, to help cut down the 4.9 per cent unemployment rate, to extend the benefits of a free and competitive society to those who have found the door of opportunity closed in their faces, primarily because of the lack of education and training. This is a burden borne by some families for generations.

We are trying with this bill to give the young people of America a share in their country, a share in their own future, a chance to train and educate and develop themselves so the future will be open to them and their children, as the great West was open to all Americans.

A Warm Welcome With Redwood Paneling

Spring and its freshen-up painting are a long way off. But winter presents an excellent time to remodel and enrich your home's interior. Home builders today are paying more attention to the entry hall. It is becoming more and more important to create a warm welcome for guests and members of the family. This can be done simply and effectively through the richness of wood paneling. The entry pictured above, for example, combines practicality and warmth. The clay tile floor prevents worry about mud, water, dirt or slush. A happy choice for an entry is the rich, warm color of redwood paneling. The subtly rough texture of Fictissawn redwood resists scuffing and fingermarks, making it ideal for entry halls. Redwood is a handsome background for works of art, antiques, and fine furniture, whether traditional or modern. Redwood board paneling, in either full thickness or the economical 3/4" panelings, can be easily installed by a person working alone, without need for power tools.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By VERN SANFORD

Nature has a way of taking care of her own problems. If you take a tract of land and never touch it, the balance of nature to available habitat will remain fairly stable all the time. Nature has many devices for such control — predators, disease, starvation. None of them are very pretty, but nonetheless they are quite effective. The real trouble starts when someone begins tinkering with this delicate balance of nature. As things now stand in Texas, there are no lands left which haven't, in one way or another, felt the presence of civilization. This, of course, compounds the problem. When a rancher chains the brush off his land, he destroys much of the wildlife habitat. As some of the predators are killed, it also knocks the balance out of proportion. The more this balance is altered, the bigger the need for competent wildlife biologists to try and get things back in some semblance of order again. Perhaps heavier hunting pressure is desired, to compensate for the lack of natural predators. But despite all the work of man, nature still makes her presence felt, quite dramatically at times. Experience has shown us that there are cycles of wildlife, diminishing populations in lean years, booming populations in years of plenty. Nothing we can do will alter this natural cycle. A drastic die-off of deer in Llano County a couple of years back was a dramatic example of this. It was, simply, nature's way of balancing the deer herd to the available habitat. Contrary to popular belief, game can not be stockpiled. Only so much wildlife can survive on any given number of acres. A covey of quail, for example, never will get any larger in numbers no matter how much it is protected. It may diminish in lean years, but even during good years it will go only to a certain level and remain there. This, whether the birds are hunted or not. Natural attrition annually takes care of about 80 per cent of the birds. This means that 80 of every 100 quail each year will be young birds. This also is true of deer. Many ranchers, upon seeing a drastic increase of deer on their lands, attempt to resort to artificial feeding. According to James Teer, with the wildlife management department at Texas A&M, this only compounds their troubles. "Such feeding programs only prolong and aggravate the problems," he said. "Such programs only treat the symptoms, not the disease. The symptoms are poor deer; the disease, poor range." Teer points out that deer are increasing in numbers, despite the fact that more have starved, annually, than legally were taken by buck hunters. Parasites also take a heavy toll. Yet we still have more deer today than ever before. "Removing surplus deer is a vital part of deer herd management," said Teer. "And common sense tells us that harvesting both sexes is sound and practical on some ranges." He asks landowners to look at the problem like this: Selling only bulls, rams or billies from herds of domestic stock is impractical management. Unless both sexes of livestock are marketed, the pastures soon become so overstocked with females that the range can not produce enough forage to feed them. The number of deer generally is determined by carrying capacity of rangelands, not by the annual harvest of deer by hunters. This, then, points up some of the problems encountered when man starts tinkering with nature. "Most deer never reach what is considered a ripe old age for whitetails," Teer went on. "Although some deer do live 20 years, a buck that escapes hunters and the toll of nature for five years is considered old. As far as the total deer production is concerned, deer over 7 1/2 years are not common members of the herd. About 95 per cent never see their fifth birthdays." So it readily can be seen that the sport of hunting is vitally necessary, not only for the economical value it brings to the various communities and the fun it provides for people of all ages, but also for the role it plays in wildlife management. Man has taken much of the control of nature away from the Old Lady herself. But nevertheless, the Old Lady Nature still makes herself felt quite dramatically and strongly in our everyday scheme of things, particularly in the great outdoors. ## This Week's Devotional

GOD ANTICIPATES OUR NEEDS

Read

Isaiah 65:17-24

The pastor of a city church told of working in a grocery store as a young boy. His job was filling the blank spaces on the shelves, sacking sugar, and filling coffee and potato bins.

He told of calling to the boy working in the storage room, "Charlie, bring me a sack of potatoes," and the answer came back, "They're already half way up there."

God answers our prayers like that. By the time they are uttered, or even thought, "they're already halfway up there."

God is always more ready to hear and answer than we are to pray. We are often slow to feel the urgency of the need for prayer, but God anticipates our necessities. When the cares, burdens, anxieties, disappointments overtake us, then our stricken hearts seek the healing hand of God, and never in vain, for as we make our appeal, He is ready to bring peace to our agitated spirits.

Harold Morris, Pastor
Bovina Methodist Church.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS

From The State Capitol

AUSTIN -- Gov. John Connally remains the dominant figure on the statehouse scene. He received over 1,800,000 votes in the general election, to lead the Democratic ticket. An overwhelming majority of Texas voters liked the Democratic ticket headed by native son Pres. Lyndon Baines Johnson. Republicans were left with little to be encouraged about. However, GOP leaders insisted their party has "the zeal and spirit to make a fast comeback" and will begin the 1966 campaign immediately.

Statisticians for the two political parties have gone to work to explain the tremendous Democratic sweep of Texas. One logical explanation of Johnson's landslide simply was that 400,000 more Texans than ever before appeared at the polls. And apparently they were about all Democrats. Turnout was some 88 per cent of the qualified voters, also a new record in this century in Texas.

President Johnson received 64 per cent of the 2,700,000 Texas votes cast (to 36 per cent for Sen. Barry Goldwater). This represented the largest total in a presidential race since the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's 71 per cent margin for a fourth term in 1944.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough defeated GOP candidate George Bush by carrying nearly 56 per cent of the total. But Bush got more votes than any previous Texas Republican candidate for senator. The Houston oilman was the first GOP senate candidate to rack up more than a million votes. Republicans, although better organized and financed than ever, lost every statewide and congressional race and all legislative races except one, GOP Frank Cahoon of Midland won. In the scramble the Republicans lost two congressmen, Bruce Alger of Dallas and Ed Foreman of Odessa, and nine members of the Texas Legislature.

Makeup of the Legislature in general remains conservative-moderate. Leadership will continue in the hands of Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and House Speaker Byron Tunnell. The latter is assured another term as speaker on strength of member pledges.

Texas voters also approved all three state constitutional amendments on the ballot. In so doing they knocked out legislative authority to transfer one per cent of the permanent school fund to the available school fund; authorized the Legislature to enact a program of medical aid to the aged not on welfare rolls but having difficulty paying their doctor bills; and required bills creating or substantially altering conservation and reclamation districts to be published in newspapers and cleared by Texas Water Commission.

LBJ AT HOME -- President Johnson closed out his campaign and celebrated his landslide victory in the Central Texas congressional district where he got his political start. Final speech of his nationwide vote hunt was made to 100,000 at an Austin rally in front of the State Capitol. He voted at his old precinct in Johnson City on election day. Johnson returned to Austin to make his first statement to the nation after the election -- a call for American unity and a pledge to work for a government offering equal opportunities to all.

CHANGES -- Some Texans learned to their dismay that, if they had moved from one county to another within the last six months, they lost their right to vote. Others found that if they had moved from one precinct to another in the same county, but had failed to transfer their poll taxes by the Thursday before election, they had lost their right to vote.

These situations naturally led to talk of making changes in the law or of lawsuits to set aside the laws which cut off rights to vote on technicalities.

SALT WATER -- District Judge Herman Jones heard three days of evidence as to whether the Texas Railroad Commission or the Texas Water Pollution Control Board should regulate the disposal of the salt water which comes to the surface in oil and gas wells. Oilmen contend it should be wholly under the Railroad Commission. Users of surface and ground water contend that the new Pollution Control Board has the authority, and should exercise it, to prevent pollution. After filing on briefs and oral arguments, Jones will reach a decision about November 20.

COURTS SPEAK -- National chain loan companies got the word they wanted from the Texas Supreme Court. It upheld lower court decisions that an effort by the Legislature to restrict non-Texas companies from opening new loan offices in Texas clearly was unconstitutional.

Small Texas firms had convinced the Legislature that loan licenses should be issued only to companies owned at least 51 per cent by Texans. But the court said that is not valid, under both state and federal constitutions.

On request of Upshur Rural Electric Cooperative and Southwestern Electric Power Company of Shreveport, Supreme Court dismissed appeals in a dispute involving construction of a $9,000,000 rural power generating plant near Ore City in East Texas. Southwestern claimed the Upshur Coop, serving 10 North East Texas counties, had no authority to discontinue buying power and to start generating its own. All matters in dispute reportedly were settled.

An Austin district court refused the Houston House of Tobacco's request for a temporary restraining order to retain its distributor's permit. But it set a November 12 hearing on an injunction to keep the State Comptroller from revoking the permit. Firm's operator was charged with participating in cigarette tax stamp fraud scheme said to run into millions of dollars.

El Paso Electric Company is challenging constitutionality of stage gross receipts tax on its energy sales in El Paso, Van Horn and Anthony. It seeks a $300,000 refund in appeal to Third Court of Civil Appeals here.

COLLEGE GROWTH -- The 32 junior colleges which are supported in part by state money gained 16.7 per cent in enrollments this fall.

Growth of community colleges was even greater than state colleges and universities, which checked in 144,309 students, a gain of 9.4 per cent over last year.

New emphasis on the need for higher education, plus the simple fact that the bumper "war baby crop" is reaching college age, accounts for growth.

Community colleges, to give vocational and technical courses, are a major part of the recommendations of the Governor's Committee on Education Beyond the High School. Need for at least a dozen new community colleges is indicated.

AG OPINIONS -- Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr said a section of the state driver responsibility law requiring "immediate" surrender of driver licenses when accident liability requirements are not met is unconstitutional. Department of Public Safety said it still is unlawful for anyone to refuse to surrender a suspended or revoked license.

In other opinions, Carr held that:

El Paso Commissioners have no authority to lease the county coliseum to individuals for a furniture sale; construction of a highway bridge with fender system which may interfere with a landowner's access to a navigable stream is not unconstitutional seizure of property; State Board of Plumbing Examiners has authority to set minimum apprenticeship period for license applicants and to adopt necessary rules.

BLANK LAZBUDDIE, 7-0 --

Mustangs Take Fifth District Encounter

Encountering stronger-than-expected opposition and handicapped by an extremely muddy field, the favored Bovina Mustangs eeked out a 7-0 win over the Lazbuddie Longhorns there Friday night.

Quarterback David Anderson capped the only scoring drive of the night midway through the second quarter with a spectacular jaunt of 38 yards. End Al Shamblyn kicked the extra point.

This was the fifth consecutive District 1-B win for the Mustangs and it brought their season record to 6-3. Lazbuddie is winless in district competition. The muddy field handicapped the offenses of both ballclubs, but they both showed strong defenses. The Longhorns had an edge in first downs, 10-7, but the winners led in total yardage 191 to 149.

Bovina was able to complete only one pass with the soggy ball—that was a four yarder—and the Longhorns failed to complete any in three tries. The Mustangs attempted four aerials.

The strong Mustang defense, led by Roman Ramirez, didn't allow the Longhorns inside the 20-yard line throughout the game.

They got to Bovina's 25 one time on a 20 yard run by Quarterback Terry Parham but the ball was lost on the next play via the fumble route. It was from there that the Ponies launched their only scoring drive.

Fullback Gene Pruitt, who received an ankle injury during the quarter made five to the 20, Halfback Dean Stanberry added four more and Anderson made five to the 39. From there Halfback Billy Marshall sailed 23 yards for a first down on Lazbuddie's 38 to ready the scene for Anderson's scoring gallop.

Except for the scoring play, the game was a defensive battle. Almost all the last half was played between the 20 yard lines.

The host team got a threatening drive going with some four minutes left to be played in the game. A Shamblyn punt rolled dead on the Longhorns' own 39, giving them possession at that point. They picked up two first downs in shoving the ball back to Bovina's 33 where it went over on downs after two long passes failed to result in a tally.

After that drive was killed, Anderson, not taking any chances on a miscued handoff which possibly would have given the Longhorns the ball, carried three consecutive times and moved the ball to Lazbuddie's 19 before time ran out on the contest.

Marshall, substituting for Scotty Rundell who was out of the game with an ankle injury, was the winner's leading ball carrier with a net of 90 yards in 10 carries. Stanberry made 49 in 11 tries. Pruitt, handicapped by his injury before he left the game in the second period, made nine yards in four trips. Anderson, who lost some rushing yardage when he was actually back to pass, came out with a net of 44 in nine attempts.

SC Delegates At Convention

A group of six students from Bovina High School, members of the Bovina Student Council, were in Phillips Saturday to attend the Top-of-Texas District Student Council Convention.

The convention opened with a general assembly with foreign exchange students as guest speakers. Some eight students spoke, including Alexander Orlovsky, Bovina exchange student from Germany.

They told of their experiences since coming to the United States and their first impressions of the nation.

Theme for the convention was "Becoming a Better Student Council." Following the assembly the students gathered in small discussion groups. Each group covered a specific problem and was led by a delegation from one of the high schools attending.

During the noon hour the students were divided into two groups. They ate the noon meal in the Phillips High School Cafeteria and the Phillips High School Stage Band presented entertainment in the auditorium.

The afternoon session opened with another discussion period and closed with a second general assembly. During the assembly officers for the coming year were elected. The officers are elected by high schools rather than individuals. Amarillo High School will serve as president of the group for the coming year. The officers will meet during the spring term and will set the date, place and theme for the next convention.

This is the second year for representatives of the Bovina Council to attend the convention. Students learned of worthy activities that are not now included in the local council program. They hope to include these in the future and feel the local group will benefit from the convention.

Making the trip were Orlovsky, Scotty Rundell, Mike Grissom, Kathy Minyen, Gwen Christian and Richard Carson. They were accompanied by Alan Staley, high school principal and student council sponsor.

THE N. S. SAVANNAH, the world's first nuclear-powered cargo-passenger ship, resumed visits to domestic ports beginning with a five-day stay at Houston, Texas. ## SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

No fresh-water fish fights harder for its size than does the bluegill; and certainly few fish are its peer on the table.

When summer comes and the water warms, big bluegills start feeding heavily. Juicy live crickets are the best natural bait in both spring and summer; but in hot weather, other baits as well become real killers. Insects that are falling into the water and on which bluegills can be seen feeding are always top summer baits. So are live catapla worms turned inside out. Earthworms native to the bank of the stream or lake that one is fishing are usually good. Sometimes, when none of the above baits are available, red wigglers will take lunker summer bluegills too.

The effectiveness of artificials against king-size bluegills also hits its peak during the warm summer months. For summer fishing, favorites among the artificials are small popping bugs (for surface-feeding periods) and tiny slow-sinking spiders with dark bodies and long white legs (for below-surface feeding).

"Catching big bluegills during most of the summer months is usually just a matter of being able to locate the beds," points out Col. Dave Harbur in the current issue of Sports Afield Magazine. In most waters, scores or even hundreds of big adult bluegills congregate in one small area to begin spawning. The industrious old bulls go to work digging beds about a foot in diameter, about a foot apart and in water that's only about a foot deep. This intensive operation usually takes place in a sandy or gravel bottom. After the female has finished her brief chore of egg laying, she takes off for good, leaving the old bull to guard the eggs. He does this job well for several days, expending his almost unbelievable remaining energy in chasing off any fish, big or small, that ventures near his bed and in going for almost all food that drifts or floats by. All this should help you locate a bluegill bed and then catch those old bulls!

BODY CELLS engage in a type of "chemical warfare" when faced by invasions of germs and bacteria, according to researchers at the University of Michigan School of Public Health. By tagging them with fluorescent bacterial antigens, the scientists have been able to photograph antibody-producing cells in action against bacteria in chickens and have noted a brilliant fluorescence when the defenders met the invaders. The University researchers believe their experiments will help them learn how antibodies are actually formed.

GARBAGE should be treated as a valuable national resource, say geologists at the City College of New York. They contend that waste should be processed into "compost" for use in agriculture and horticulture. This would decrease incidence of pollution and pest infestation, could be a source of profit, and would aid in conservation, the geologists say.

Carry a single edge razor blade (in a safety wrapper of course) for quick field dressing of small game. It is sharper than a knife and easier to handle. A half dozen take up but little space.

Use Shells for Sinkers
Loop a short piece of wire into an empty .22 shell and fill with lead. Makes a good, light sliding sinker. Works equally well without the loop as a wrap around sinker if longer wire is used.

Snell Hook Holder
A good way to keep snelled hooks in your tackle box or pocket is to coil snell neatly and wrap hook and snell in masking tape. This way rigs will not deteriorate, won't get damaged and won't catch and tangle in clothes or other gear.

Carpet Reduces Noise
More and more fishermen are lining the bottoms of their metal boats with old carpet. Cut down noise that might spook a wary fish.

Aid to Line Spooling
Wind new monofilament on your reel by putting the line spool in a bucket. Helps a lot in cutting down tangles, snarls and knots.

Foil Increases Lantern Light
You'll be surprised how much more light a regular gasoline lantern throws out if you line half of it with aluminum foil. Then too, the light can be directed where you want it.

Straightening Out Line
If you have trouble spooling new monofilament on your reel, try dropping the spool into a boiling pan of water first. Hot line will pay out smoothly.

On The Farm In Parmer County

By JOE VAN ZANDT
County Agent

During the past week we have had questions asked about the value of soybean straw as a livestock roughage. Since the soybean straw consists chiefly of course stems and pods with very few leaves it has a low feeding value.

Morrison's "Feeds and Feeding" book lists soybean straw as containing 1.1 per cent digestible protein and 34.1 per cent total digestible nutrients. Most good roughage feeds will contain around 50 per cent total digestible nutrients.

Since soybean straw is about 16 per cent below this standard of 50 per cent, it would be better to consider using another feed as roughage if one is available. As a comparison, Morrison lists milo stover, which is similar to our maize stubble or stalks, as containing 50.1 per cent digestible nutrients and 1.1 per cent digestible nutrients so maize stalks are a better roughage than soybean straw.

CATTLE FEEDING

Dr. Dixon Hubbard, Area Extension Livestock Specialist, will discuss commercial cattle feeding Thursday night, November 11 in Canyon at the Jr. Livestock Building, corner of 1st and 17th streets, at 7:30 p.m. Persons interested in hearing what Dixon has to say on this subject are invited to attend.

4-H NEWS

Officers were recently elected for the Bovina 4-H Club. They are: president, Michael Beauchamp; vice - president, Gregory Bell; secretary-treasurer, Brenda Dyer; reporter, Raymond Hise; council delegate, Lisa Charles; alternate delegate, Christine Mast and organization leader, Mrs. Earl Hise.

TREES, SHRUBS FOR WINDBREAKS
Some 17 species of trees or shrubs will be available for planting by Texas landowners, early in 1965, from the Texas Forest Service at a delivered cost of $1.50 per hundred plus the 2 per cent sales tax.

The trees and shrubs may be used for windbreaks, soil stabilization and Christmas tree plantings but cannot be used or resold for shade or ornamental purposes. All seedling orders will be packed in moss and moisture proof paper and shipped prepaid direct to the purchaser.

Orders for species shown on the application must be in multiples of 50. This is a real bargain for those of you who need something to slow the wind down around your place. Application forms can be obtained thru the County Agent's office. Orders to the Texas Forest Service must be received before February 12, 1965.

Weather Lowers Quality Of Cotton

The rain and extremely heavy dews the past week lowered the quality of the cotton classed at the three South Plains Classing Offices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the Lubbock Office.

The harvest was continuing to gain momentum until interrupted by the mid-week rains. Samples received at the three USDA Classing Offices at Lubbock, Brownfield and Lamesa declined sharply on Friday and Saturday. Sample receipts at the three offices were averaging 15,000 daily early in the week.

The three USDA Classing Offices at Lubbock, Brownfield and Lamesa classed 57,600 samples during the week ending Saturday, November 7th. This brought the season's total for the three offices to 164,800. At this date last year the three offices had classed 236,000 samples.

During the past week, approximately 60 per cent of the cotton classed at the Lubbock Classing Office were in the White grades with 30 per cent of all cotton classed being Middling or better. This was a sharp decline in the percentage of the higher grades from the previous week when 51 per cent of the cotton classed was Middling or better. During the past week, approximately 40 per cent of the cotton classed was in the Light Spotted and Spotted category with Middling Light Spotted making up 27 per cent of the total.

Average staple length declined slightly again the past week. The average length was 30.3 thirty-seconds of an inch compared to 30.4 thirty-seconds of an inch one week earlier. During the past week 40 per cent of all cotton classed at the Lubbock Office was 31/32 and longer.

Micronaire readings continued to decline slightly but were still very good. Eighty-eight per cent of all cotton "miked" in the Lubbock Office was in the desirable category of 3.5 and better.

The USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service reported continued increased trading in new crop cotton. Prices for White grades ranged from CCC loan levels to 55 points over the loan. Light Spotted grades were still in greatest demand and were bringing from 20 to 130 points over CCC loan rates.

Prices quoted in the Lubbock market for the most predominant qualities were 28.75 for Middling 15/16, 29.35 for Middling 31/32 and 30.25 for Middling 1-inch, 27.65 for Strict Low Middling 15/16, 28.10 for Strict Low Middling 31/32 and 28.70 for Strict Low Middling 1-inch. In the Light Spotted qualities Middling Light Spotted 15/16 was quoted at 28.05, Middling Light Spotted 31/32 at 28.50, and Middling Light Spotted 1-inch at 29.05.

Prices to farmers for cottonseed ranged from $44 to $50 per ton, averaging $45.70.

Sewing Ability Just So-So?

This is the time of year women begin to think about fall and winter wardrobes - and often they try their hands at making some of their own clothes. If you are one of these amateur seamstresses, here are a few tips to help you sew the easy way.

A simple machine attachment, the seam guide, takes the guesswork out of stitching a full seam allowance. This gadget adjusts to any width, and it's a help in sewing an accurate, even seam.

Another trick that's good to know is how to gather by machine. This helps distribute fullness evenly.

If, for instance you want fullness at sleeves and waistline to be soft and comfortable, try using elastic thread, Wind the elastic thread on the bobbin by hand, then lengthen your machine stitches. The thread will gather while you stitch.

Here's a way to give your garment that "finished" look. If hem is slightly flared, machine gather the top edge of hem then pull underneath thread to ease fullness in top of hem to fit the dress. A quick slip stitch by hand will finish the job and give a neat smooth appearance on the right side.

House Plant Pests?

It doesn't always take an insecticide to rid your house plants of insects and other pests. Sometimes a bath will do the trick.

A washing with soapy water and a soft brush (or cloth) may be all that's needed to remove aphids, mealybugs, and scale insects from broad-leaved plants. Use 2 tablespoons of a mild detergent to a gallon of water.

A number of these insects may also be washed off the plants with a lukewarm spray of water. If only one or two plants are infected, try removing the aphids and mealybugs with tweezers. Or, use a small thin stick (a toothpick will do nicely) with a tuft of cotton on the end. Dip the stick in rubbing alcohol and dab up the insects.

Judge: "You've been appearing before me in this court for 20 years."

Drunk: "Can I help it if you don't get promoted?"

"Thanks to our electric heating - we never worry about Shawndi kicking off the covers!"

Individual room control gives the Danny Smith family of Earth, Texas comforting assurance of desired warmth!

Shawndi, like any other normal child, occasionally kicks off the covers when taking a nap or sleeping - thanks to the constant, controlled temperature, the Smiths know from experience that Shawndi will stay warm.

The Smith's home is completely electric. Here in their attractive electric kitchen, Shawndi helps Mother serve Daddy's coffee by bringing his cup to him.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith specified ceiling cable electric heating when they built their Gold Medallion home because they could have a thermostat in each room to insure individual room control. The Smiths set the thermostat in their bedroom at 60 degrees; in Shawndi's room 70 degrees; with appropriate settings in other rooms. So even is the temperature and so accurate that Mrs. Smith's tropical fish (in the family room) have not required auxiliary heating. In short, the Smith's enjoy comfort for all, all through the house.

Occupational Outlooks Are Projected For Next Decade

Occupational outlooks for the years ahead have been projected by specialists with the U. S. Department of Labor.

Their findings should be of special interest to young people who must soon choose careers, and to their parents, says Mrs. Wanda B. Meyer, Extension specialist in home management.

For the next decade -- at least -- greatest increases in demand will be for people in professional and technical fields -- in jobs that generally require at least a bachelor's degree from college.

Also needed will be more skilled craftsmen, clerical and sales workers, service workers, people for management jobs. There will be only moderate increases in semi-skilled jobs, few increases in unskilled jobs, a decline in farm jobs.

Outlooks in some specific fields, as indicated by Labor Department studies, are:

Engineers will continue to be in strong demand, with greatest gains in chemical, electrical and mechanical engineering. The strongest demand will be for those with advanced degrees for research and teaching jobs. Physicians, dentists and nurses will be needed in growing numbers, along with more medical technologists, dietitians and therapists.

Teachers will find sharp increases in job openings, with demand heavy for science, mathematics and industrial-art teachers. There'll be a need for many more school counselors.

Also in demand will be mathematicians, economists, sociologists, historians, welfare workers, accountants, graduates in business administration and programmers for electronic-computer operations.

Only moderate numbers of job opportunities are expected in the printing and machinist trades. The outlook in law is for keen competition. Musicians, actors, singers and dancers will find their fields overcrowded, according to the job projection.

Proper Dressing Brings Home Quality Venison

Quality venison depends primarily on how the deer is handled from the time of the kill until it is placed in the freezer. That's why field dressing a deer properly is so important, says Wallace Klussmann, Extension wildlife conservation specialist, Texas A&M University.

After making the kill, begin field dressing at once, using a strong, sharp knife with a guard and at least a four-inch blade. The first step, says Klussmann, is to strip the deer on its back and remove its external sex organs.

Beginning between the hind legs, cut down to the pelvic bone; then cut up the middle, through the breastbone and all the way to the jaw (unless the head is to be mounted). After cutting the windpipe and esophagus as far forward as possible, grasp both and pull downward to free the insides to the mid-section.

To free the entrails from the ribs, roll the carcass on its side and cut the thin layer of muscle (diaphragm) down to the backbone. Then turn the deer over and do the same on the other side, the specialist points out. Cut around the vent so the entire visceral mass can be removed without severing any part; then, using both hands, pull the entire entrails out.

The next step is to prop up the deer's rump to spread the back legs, cut through the seam in the middle of the pelvis and finish cleaning the visceral cavity.

To allow remaining blood to drain from the body cavity, hang the deer by the head or antlers from a nearby tree for about 20 minutes. If no tree is near, turn the deer upside down on a clean place to drain, advises Klussmann.

Skinning can be begun while the deer is draining. However, if the head is to be mounted, hang the carcass by the hind legs to skin. The skin comes off most easily while the deer is still warm, explains the specialist, so it is best to skin the animal within two hours after the kill.

To remove the skin, cut down the inside of each leg to the deer's middle. Then cut the skin all the way around the neck, grasp with both hands at the back of the head and pull down. Usually the skin will come off down to the front legs. Use a knife to work the skin off the legs and other areas where it sticks tightly to the meat.

If the specimen is to be mounted, do not make any cuts in the skin around the neck or head but rather cut around the shoulders when removing the skin. Allow the skin to remain intact with the head, says Klussmann, and salt or freeze until delivered to the taxidermist.

Back at camp, hang the carcass in a tree by the hind legs for four or five hours. This will allow all the tiny blood vessels to drain. Wrap the carcass in a sheet, cheese cloth or sack made for this purpose, and always remember to keep the carcass in the shade.

After it has cooled, cut the carcass in half or quarters and wrap to take home. It is wise to keep the hide, head, antlers, legs and tag until the meat is placed in a freezer or commercial locker, advises Klussmann.

If commercial processing is desired, it is only necessary to remove the entrails and to allow proper drainage of blood from the body cavity.

More detailed information, including illustrations, can be obtained by referring to the Extension leaflet, "Field Dressing a Deer," available at the county Extension office. This leaflet contains information supplied by Klussmann and the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

Gardens Offer Chores As Winter Draws Near

By A. F. DeWerth
Professor of Floriculture
Texas A&M University

In regions that experience only mild winters such as those along the Gulf Coast, gardeners are not always as winter-conscious as they should be, especially during November.

In these areas, however, occasional hard winters may develop and kill unprotected or neglected plants. Such winters have provided a certain amount of knowledge about the hardness of semi-hardy or tender plants that have been introduced into gardens.

When a hard ruinous frost occurs, it does not descend suddenly and without warning. Usually there will be several nights of light frost that may nip the soft growth on plants without killing them before the real damaging freeze arises. This can be a real help to the gardener in many ways.

In addition to providing some notice of the impending danger, light frosts also enable the gardener to locate where more severe frosts will take their toll. White patches of light frost on the lawn and the tops of plants indicate where severe frost damage and plant loss may occur.

Frosts often occur in the Gulf Coast areas as early as November 15, so gardeners still have time to make preparations for the welfare of plants that may be severely damaged by extremely cold weather.

The tender growth on plants should be hardened off as soon as possible and where necessary, providing the protection they may require. This can be done by reducing watering and feeding practices, but care must be taken to see that some of these precautions are not overdone.

Last summer's drought makes it imperative that the watering of plants during this period be studied carefully. Even in normal years it is usually a mistake to assume that winter rains will take care of all the water requirements of the garden.

While most garden plants will require less water in November than in the summer or early fall, they can dry out, especially after a dry summer similar to the one experienced this year. This situation most often occurs when plantings prevail under roof overhangs or under trees that cast heavy shade.

Spring flowering bulbs should be planted as soon as possible, if not already done. Shrubs and trees that need moving in the garden should also be transplanted at this time.

Move container plants into protected areas on the terrace or patio, or place them behind windbreaks or close to buildings if they are exposed to the sweep of prevailing winds.

Now is also a good time to move or plant out new broad-leaf evergreens such as azaleas.

When subtropical fruits such as citrus trees are garden subjects, they should be protected by constructing shelters for young trees and, in exposed areas, even the older ones. Spraying with antidesiccants has also proved to be a good precaution. If such plants have not yet been sprayed for scale insect control, this should be done as soon as possible.

Roses also continue to grow well through the winter in Gulf Coast locations. It is often a good practice to reduce and finally discontinue watering so that dormancy will begin to take place. In many instances, however, the plants will not become dormant even after watering has been discontinued completely or when winter rainfall is high. Then remove some of the inside branches to allow for next season's growth.

Hydrangeas should receive attention in November as well. Head back at least half of the year's growth, except for the tips of branches that did not flower this year, since they may produce flowers next season. Then remove some of the inside branches to allow for next season's growth.

Occupational outlooks for the next decade indicate greatest increases in demand will be for people in professional and technical fields, in jobs that generally require at least a bachelor's degree from college, reminds Mrs. Wanda B. Meyer, Extension home management specialist. Also needed will be more skilled craftsmen, clerical and sales workers, service workers and people for management jobs. These job projections come from the U. S. Department of Labor.

Selections of fresh vegetables are improving. They afford possibilities for eye-appealing salads and nutrition-rich dishes, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt of the Extension Service.

At most stores, the consumer marketing specialist says, there's variety in tender, young cooking greens -- including collards, mustard and turnips and greens. Good offerings of broccoli, cauliflower, eggplant, celery, sweet potatoes and lettuce are to be found in most markets.

Cabbage prices remain relatively high. Don't overlook the waxed rutabagas and dry onions now on the market, the specialist says.

Retailers continue to offer "specials" on a steady supply of high quality beef. With cooler weather bringing a greater demand for pot roasts and steaks, some stores feature the quick-cooking cuts, especially steaks and chops. Since cow slaughter remains high, there are good buys on ground beef.

Frying chicken remains at a low price level, with large supplies expected for the remainder of the year. Turkey, too, continues to be a good value, with quality high.

Pork values include smoked hams and picnic, half or whole pork loin roasts, shoulder roasts, shoulder roasts and steaks and pork liver.

More Texas grapefruit joins that from Florida to make the supply greater. Flavor of the fruit is improving, too. Fresh apples of several varieties highlight fruit counters. There are all sizes. Other good fruit choices are grapes, pears, and bananas.

What has been accepted as fact for some time -- that the present one-price cotton program would come before Congress during its next session -- has now been made official by an announcement from Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman. The Secretary has said that the Agriculture Department will ask Congress for an extension of the law.

In his statement, which was sandwiched into a press conference discussion on domestic and international agriculture questions, Freeman said, however, that any new cotton legislation may have some modifications and that new legislation is not likely to be "precisely the same."

One-price cotton is being given credit for the recent upsurge in domestic consumption, and producer organizations across the belt have joined the textile industry in going on record as favoring an extension of the program. The law's chances for life beyond the present July 31, 1966 expiration date were enhanced somewhat in Georgia recently when President Johnson revealed that the administration favors a permanent one-price cotton program.

Not so favorable to prospects for cotton legislation, from the producer's standpoint, is the well known preference of Vice President-elect Hubert Humphrey for direct compensatory payments in farm programs. Growers, fearing the imposition of limitations, have consistently voiced strong opposition to such a feature in cotton legislation.

Probably the first inkling of what Secretary Freeman may have had reference to when he spoke of "modifications" will come from the Cotton Advisory Committee meeting scheduled in early December. In the announcement of this meeting the Department of Agriculture said there would be, among other things, a "Discussion of program provisions, ways in which the program may be strengthened, including the need to obtain additional acreage reduction, the support price level, the rate of payment under the domestic allotment program, and other aspects."

With Public Law 78 (the braccero law) expiring December 31 of this year, many area farmers have been asking whether they will be able to get any Mexican Nationals at all in 1965, and if so, how. At the moment, no one can give a specific answer to this important question. However, officials of the Department of Labor in Washington have indicated to the National Council of Agricultural Employers that workers from Mexico will be available under Public Law 414 if they are needed and if certain prerequisites are met. No indication was given as to the nature of these prerequisites except that wages and full utilization and recruitment of domestic workers were mentioned.

At retail meat counters, best beef values will be found on ground beef, arm and blade pot roasts and steaks, short ribs, round steak and beef and calf livers.

Top pork values this week include smoked ham portions and picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks. Fryers remain a big bargain, and frozen turkeys are available at reasonable prices. Grade A large-size eggs continue to offer food shoppers the most quality and economy for the price.

The fruit counter offers a wide choice including cranberries, apples, grapes, bananas and pears. Grapefruit is again on the market and most of it is from the Rio Grande Valley of Texas -- and is sweet and tasty. Persimmons and pomegranates, along with new-crop offerings of nuts, also are available.

Texas farmers and ranchers received $206.3 million during August from the sale of all crops, livestock and poultry products, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Cash receipts from all marketings were down 4 per cent from August 1963. The August 1964 cash receipts came from the sale of $124.7 million worth of crops and $81.6 million from livestock and livestock products.

Eradicate Lice Now With Suitable Controls

Lice are busy with their annual invasion of Texas livestock and will take a sizable chunk of producers' profits again this year unless controlled.

These pests appear in greatest numbers during fall and winter, and losses can be reduced materially if control measures are taken now, says Weldon Newton, associate Extension entomologist, Texas A&M University.

Animals infested with the parasites usually are restless, eat less, do not have good feed conversion and have a rough, coarse appearance.

Sprays recommended for controlling lice on beef and nonlactating dairy animals include Clodrin, coumaphos (Co-Ral), methoxychlor, malathion, dioxathion (Delnav), Lindane, Ruelene, carbaryl (Sevin), ronnel (Korlan) and toxaphene.

For dairy animals, Newton recommends these formulations: Clodrin, pyrethrin and rotenone.

Irrigation induced by lice on sheep and goats causes the animals to rub or bite themselves. Thus wool or mohair may be pulled out or become matted or low in grade.

A thorough spraying, immersing or dusting is suggested for ridding sheep and goats of these pests. Coumaphos (Co-Ral), DDT, dioxathion (Delnav), toxaphene, Diazinon, malathion and ronnel (Korlan) are effective controls, says Newton, but should not be used on milk goats. Lindane, as well as methoxychlor, is specified for use on milk goats.

The blood-sucking lice occurring on swine can be controlled by such insecticides as coumaphos (Co-Ral), DDT, dioxathion (Delnav), malathion, lindane, ronnel (Korlan), methoxychlor and toxaphene.

To control these tiny parasites on horses, the entomologist suggests chlordane, coumaphos (Co-Ral), dioxathion (Delnav) and toxaphene.

Poultry are also attacked by several species of lice that irritate the birds and cause weight loss, reduced egg production, decreased quality of market birds and even death. Coumaphos (Co-Ral), malathion, carbaryl (Sevin) and nicotine sulfate all rate as good controls.

In using insecticide formulations, Newton stresses the importance of following the manufacturer's recommendations and observing all safety restrictions.

More detailed information on the control of lice and other external parasites is found in Extension publication, MP-691, "Texas Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry," available at the local county agent's office.

The five-man Texas Farm-City Week Committee have asked mayors of 850 Texas towns and cities to proclaim the week locally and to appoint committees to work on projects to help carry out the theme of Farm - City Week, November 20-26. "Partners in progress," a speakers bureau has organized and local county agents and soil conservation districts will participate in local planning. Dolph Briscoe, Uvalde, is chairman of the committee in Texas. Other members are Calvin Pigg, Renner; John G. McHaney, College Station; Dan Sparks, Texarkana and James E. (Monk) Vance, Fort Worth.

Frost can mean trouble for livestock producers, Johnsongrass and sorghums often develop a high prussic acid content after a killing frost and if grazed by livestock can cause animal losses, warns, A. M. Meekma, Extension dairy specialist. He suggests a visit with the county agent or local veterinarian for detailed information on grazing, harvesting and storing of frost-wilted plants.

Consumers who shop for belts after January 1 will receive more protection in the form of additional labeling, says Lynn Parks, Extension consumer education specialist. Labels must then indicate, as the case may be, if they are "genuine cowhide," "split leather," "alligator" or whatever materials are used in the article of clothing.

Parmer Ag Census Being Organized

Faye Marie Hall of Dimmitt, Texas, has been named a crew leader for the 1964 Census of Agriculture, Percy R. Millard, director of the regional office of the U. S. Bureau of the Census at Dallas, announced today. The new crew leader is one of about 1,825 persons throughout the U. S. to receive this appointment.

The new crew leader will supervise a team of census enumerators who will visit all farms and ranches in Parmer county to collect official census questionnaires from farm operators. Enumeration of all farms in the county will take place in November and early December.

The census will be taken in the following way: Shortly after November 5, the Bureau of the Census, an agency of the U. S. Department of Commerce, will mail census questionnaires to all rural boxholders. Those required to fill out the forms should do so and hold the questionnaires until a census enumerator comes to collect them. At that time, the enumerator will help answer any questions that may have proved troublesome.

The crew leader is a key person in conducting a Census of Agriculture. He recruits and trains the enumerators, schedules their work, reviews the accuracy of completed forms, and conducts difficult interviews.

The Census of Agriculture is taken every five years in years ending in "4" and "9" to gather information on the nation's agricultural resources and production. Such information is vital in making decisions affecting many segments of the U. S. economy. Data gathered include the number and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock inventories,

Field Conditions Influence Cotton Stripper Efficiency

Three factors will determine the efficiency of your cotton stripping operation says Bev Reeves, Extension Cotton Mechanization Specialist. These are:

1. Field conditions at harvest time;
2. Machine characteristics and adjustments; and
3. Skill of the operator.

Very important is field conditions at harvest. In damp weather, performance of a cotton stripper will be less efficient than under dry conditions. Extensive testing has shown best cotton stripper performance is obtained when humidity is below 60%.

So, for better grades and cleaner fields delay harvesting until the relative humidity is 60% or less at boll height in the field to be harvested. This measurement can be conveniently made with a dial-type hydrometer -- a relative humidity measuring instrument. Dial hydrometers are available and information on farm equipment and improvements and income and some production expenditures.

The information will be published starting in 1965 for counties, States, and the nation.

from hardware stores or instrument houses for approximately twenty dollars, points out Reeves.

Measuring relative humidity and using this measurement as a guide for scheduling harvesting operations is important. However, also of importance, is condition of the cotton stalk. Strippers are designed to handle comparatively large volumes of dry trash efficiently. But a small amount of green leaves and other green trash can cause a significant reduction in the grade of stripped cotton. For this reason, cotton harvested with a stripper prior to frost should be treated with a chemical desiccant to kill the leaves.

After the desiccant application, delay harvesting for a week or ten days, recommends Reeves. This will allow leaves and leaf stems to become brittle. Harvest should not be delayed until the main stalk and branches are dead, as this will cause more bark to be accumulated with the cotton, which can cause a reduction in grade.

Harvesting after frost should be delayed until frost-killed leaves and stems are brittle or crisp. Here again, harvesting should be done while the main stalk still has enough sap in it to be limber. Brittle stalks and branches mean more bark in the cotton, but leathery leaves and limber leaf stems mean extra moisture in the harvested cotton which can cause sweating during storage prior to ginning.

Careful hunters know the safety rules but all hunters need to take the time to review them.
