SEVEN BLOCKS OF CEMENT WALKS BRADY SECURES THE COMMANDERY

Work is now in progress on a stretch of walk seven blocks in length, and which will extend from North Bridge street the entire length of Crothers avenue to the Crothers' residence. The walk is being laid on the north side of the avenue, and will provide an unbroken passage for the entire distance. Property owners included in the good walks move are the following: W. D. Crothers, W. E. Campbell, J. E. White, Fritz Savage, Tom Bell, E. E. Polk, B. F. Matthews and M. P. Wegner. The walk will be of standard width—4 ft.—and the contract for the building has been let to Chas. Horn, who began work of construction the first of the week. The contract includes regulation street crossings for every intersecting street.

Brady, for the past three or four years, has been in line for free city delivery of mail, and so far as the volume of local mail is concerned, could have had city delivery all these years. However, one of the postoffice requirements is that the proposed route must have good walks. In fact, ten miles of walk are required before city delivery can be made possible. The building of the stretch of walks on Crothers avenue will aid considerably in making up the required ten miles of walk, and will be an example for other residential districts to follow. Brady should, by all means, avail herself of the opportunity to get city delivery. The good walks movement should be adopted in every section of Brady; thereby not only enhancing the value of the property but adding to the convenience and comfort of the citizens.

SHOWERS OVER McCULLOCH CO.

McCulloch county has been pretty generally visited by showers the past few days, which have proven refreshing, and in some cases stock water has been put out, while feed and food crops will be greatly benefited.

The first shower fell early Wednesday morning. In Brady it was of short duration, the total precipitation amounting to but one-tenth of an inch. In most parts of the county it was likewise light, although a splendid rain was had in the Nine and Calf Creek communities, where several large tanks were filled to overflowing. The rain also extended over towards Menard and out towards San Angelo. Sterling City and other western points, heavy rains being reported from that section. The Concho was reported on an 8-ft. rise at San Angelo and the San Saba river in the Camp San Saba neighborhood was reported on a 4-ft. rise, while Lost Creek was converted into a swollen stream. No rain was had at Hext or points beyond the river. The second rain came shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning, continuing to fall for about an hour. In Brady the rain amounted to a fraction more than half an inch. According Takes Poison—Suicidal Intent.

The startling news of an attempt at self-destruction upon the part of Jack McGaughey reached here Wednesday from Brownwood, Mr. McGaughey having swallowed a dose of poison. Hard work upon the part of physicians saved his life, and yesterday he was pronounced on the road to recovery. Practically ever since leaving Brady at the close of the cotton season a year ago, Mr. McGaughey has been in ill health, and his depressed state of mind has been commented upon numbers of times by his friends. His rash act no doubt resulted from worry over his condition. The sympathy of all his many McCulloch county friends is his. It is sincerely to be hoped that he may soon recover his former buoyant health and spirits.

And Its Re-Creation

"The music of the Hawaiians, the most fascinating in the world, is still in my ears and haunts me sleeping and waking. I can still hear the pulsing of the surf at Waikiki, see the plummy palms drowsing by the shore, the garland crags, and the leaping cascades, and this music fills me with the spirit of its woodland solitudes."—MARK TWAIN.

BRADY, TEXAS, April 20, 1917

THE FOOD SUPPLY.

The Standard is in receipt of a communication from the Hon. Thomas L. Blanton, U. S. Representative of the 16th District of Texas. McCulloch county having just recently been placed in this district, Mr. Blanton is naturally interested in McCulloch county view-points, and to keep informed has ordered The Standard to his address.

In his letter, Mr. Blanton calls attention to the communication of President Wilson of May 10th to the farmers of our country, viz: "By planting and increasing the production in every way possible, every farmer will perform a labor of patriotism for which he will be recognized as a soldier of the commissary, adding his share to the food supply of the people." Mr. Blanton further suggests that citizens of McCulloch county "plant and sow selected seed on every acre and vacant lot, initiating a movement to raise and conserve during the present season the maximum crop of cereals, winter vegetables and other staples."

Following the above worthy suggestions is true patriotism.

Let the flag fly not only from the housetops, but from the plow, from the garden hoe and from the kitchen. Raise and conserve—that's the best way of combatting high prices.

Think of the European nations entering war with huge reserves of food and supplies, reduced within a year's time to bread tickets, meat tickets and potato tickets. And then think of the United States, at war for only a few weeks, and already facing a scarcity of all food products—and flour advanced from $7.00 to $14.00 per barrel.

Not only should every farmer raise an abundance of food crops but every garden and every vacant lot should be utilized for this purpose. Furthermore, strictest economy should be exercised. The annual waste of food in the kitchens of the U. S. amounts to millions of dollars. A reckless, unheeding and blind waste of our resources has done as much to make food prices exorbitant as any illegal combination might have.

In the field, in the garden and in the home is the place to show real patriotism.

JUST A MOTHER.

A little story came over the wires from Chicago the other day that makes us pause and reflect that in "the concert of nations," the enlightened, free democratic peoples, who, after the world war, will keep the world peace, woman, with her vote will be one of the principal factors in making war an obsolete barbarism.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink is not only a world-famous prima donna—she is a mother. Of her five sons, one is enlisted in the United States Marine Corps, one in the German navy, one in the National Guard of New Jersey, one is a member of a regiment of Arizona cavalry and the fifth is a cadet at a widely-known military academy in the Middle West. The mother was born in Austria, reared in Germany and is a citizen of the United States, owning homes in California, New Jersey and Chicago, for her adopted country has showered her with honors and fortune.

"We mothers must suffer!" exclaimed the diva when war was declared. The probability, although remote, that one son may take the life of his brother in the war between the two nations which she loves almost as she loves her sons, has prostrated her.

"I love America, but I love Germany, too," wept the mother. "And the German people love America and Americans. O, those people who make war—all of them, all nationalities, all kinds—I hate them! I have a son in the German navy; I have a son in the American navy. Just think! Some day they may be shooting at each other. Brother against brother! There are thousands of just such cases on the battlefields of Europe. This is not a war of the people in any land. I am not pro-German. I'm not pro-ally, or pro-American. I am just a mother, and my sons are going out to take each other's life!"

Motherhood is of the Country of Love, first. The mothers of the world have suffered, since men took to slaying one another, the monstrous wrong of man-made system. Not upon them, but upon her has fallen the tragedy! But the day when the thorns are pressed upon her gentle brow and the cross is laid heavily on her anguished shoulders is passing. The world is listening, at last, to her voice in the councils of its nations!

"I am just a mother!" is a cry that will be lost in the night winds of the old order. Woman's heart, speaking through woman's lips, will help to shape and fashion the brotherhood of man in the world's lasting peace.

On Sunday night the subject "The Great Divorce," will be illustrated with special stereopticon views, highly colored. These views will cover "The Reformation and Open Bible," "Private Judgment"—also "Individualism," "Sectarianism," "Dogmas," "Other Worldiness," "A Missionary Centenary," "The World for Christ," and "The World a Neighborhood." This is a continuation of the series of illustrated sermons on the social gospel and is the fourth sermon of the series which Bro. Hornburg has been delivering during the past few weeks. These sermons are attracting interest to the extent that it is wise to go early in order to get seats. Come and bring your friends.

Rearranging Interior.

I. G. Abney is making some improvements on the arrangement of his store this week. The grocery department is being concentrated in the rear of the building so as to give practically two-thirds of the floor space to the dry goods department. The office and bookkeeper's desk will also be moved further to the rear for this purpose, and new tables and counters will be added to enable a better display of the goods in the dry goods department. Mr. Abney also purposes to move the shoe shelving further to the rear to enable the installation of a modern, glass front wardrobe in which a complete line of ready-to-wear and ladies' dresses will be displayed to special advantage. The wardrobe will be placed in the front of the store, just back of the show windows, and will prove a most attractive addition to the stock.

Instead of carrying part of his stock on the deck, Mr. Abney will use it only for storage, and his entire stock of ladies wearing apparel, dress goods and notions, as well as men's goods of every description will be excellently displayed and arranged in most convenient fashion on the main floor of the building.

MRS. RUTH RICKS.

Old Resident of Mason Died Last Sunday.

Mrs. Ruth Ricks, one of the oldest residents of Mason, died Sunday at 3:00 p. m. and was buried in the Mason cemetery.

The funeral services were conducted by Bro. Hornburg, pastor of the Christian church of Brady, Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. John Lemberg.

Mrs. Ricks was a native of Bardstown, Ky., and was 74 years of age. She had been a resident of Mason for forty-one years. She leaves three daughters to mourn her loss. She had been a member of the Christian church since early girlhood and she was never known to say an unkind or harmful word of anyone. She was an earnest and faithful member of the church at Mason, and, like the Christian of old, at peace with God and her fellowmen, she called her children and grandchildren to her bedside and gave them her blessing and told them to meet her in Heaven; then she closed her eyes and her life, like the waves of a tideless sea, ebb-ed out gently and her spirit took its flight.

She will be greatly missed in the home, church and community.

Improvements Well Under Way.

Improvements at the Broad Bros. store on South Blackburn are well under way, and already some idea may be had of the future attractiveness of these quarters. The walk fronting the building has been lowered some three or four feet, placing it on the street level, and the flooring of the building, and the entire front as well has been removed. The unsightly wood box pillars have been replaced with iron posts, which give practically a clear sweep of the entire interior. A deck has been placed in the rear of the building adding 1500 square feet floor space, and giving a total floor space of nearly 7,000 square feet. The new front is to be the most up-to-date, with heavy plate glass windows resting on a marble base, and with prism glass above the modern awning. The plate glass windows will be held in place by copper strips, avoiding unsightly pillars or supports. The extension of the cement walk along the north side of the building to the warehouse in the rear, will add to the attractiveness, as well as proving a convenience for customers and citizens.

Some Good Advice.

"Don't think too much of your own methods. Watch other people's ways and learn from them." This is good advice, especially when bilious or constipated. You will find many people who use Chamberlain's Tablets for these ailments with best results, and will do well to follow their example.

It is a pleasure to show our line of new collars—we handle both Ide and Arrow Collars—soft and laundered—in the very newest. Come and see them. Mann Bros.

CALOMEL SALIVATES AND MAKES YOU SICK.

Acts Like Dynamite On a Sluggish Liver and You Lose a Day's Work.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when 50 cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can't salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.

"A SPLENDID TONIC"

Says Hixson Lady Who, On Doctor's Advice, Took Cardui And Is Now Well.

Hixson, Tenn.—"About 10 years ago I was..." says Mrs. J. B. Gadd, of this place. "I suffered with a pain in my left side, could not sleep at night with this pain, always in the left side..."

My doctor told me to use Cardui. I took one bottle, which helped me, and after my baby came, I was stronger and better, but the pain was still there.

I at first let it go, but began to get weak and in a run-down condition, so I decided to try some more Cardui, which I did.

This last Cardui which I took made me much better, in fact, cured me. It has been a number of years, still I have no return of this trouble.

I feel it was Cardui that cured me, and I recommend it as a splendid female tonic.

Don't allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. It should surely help you, as it has so many thousands of other women in the past 40 years. FIFE FINDINGS.
 Harrowing Corn Saves It From Damage By Wind.
 Fife, Texas, April 18.
 Editor Brady Standard:

The high winds of the past few days have damaged crops considerably, especially corn, which has been almost ruined by the sand cutting it. Those who harrowed corn after the rain are not damaged. People are still planting corn and feed and say it will come up. J. S. Guyton and family of Rochelle were visiting with Frank Guyton here last week. Mrs. P. M. McCaskill of Taylor is here to visit with her brother, J. C. Nichols. Prof. Nichols has been sick for the past two weeks but is now able to be in the school room again. Crockett Reed and Los Watkins were visitors from Pear Valley here Saturday. Dr. J. E. Powell and Benton Willey were down from Waldrip Friday swapping yarns. C. M. Conrod was a visitor at Brady Saturday on business. Henry Martin shipped out another car of cattle to market Tuesday. H. D. Bradley and Jas. Finlay attended the Masonic lodge at Brady Tuesday night. Thos. Mitchell was at Brady Tuesday on business. A. M. Finlay and C. L. Bailey were at Brady Tuesday on business. E. Z.

Forty thousand signed testimonials are appearing now in public print. Some of them are Brady people. Some of them are published in Brady. No other remedy shows such proof. Follow this Brady man's example. H. A. Metcalf, stationary engineer, Brady, says: "About five years ago, I was doing heavy lifting and the drinking water was none too good where I was living at the time. These two conditions brought on kidney complaint. At first, I had a dull ache through my back, which gradually got so bad that I couldn't work. My kidneys didn't act regularly and the kidney secretions contained sediment. I used lots of kidney medicines, trying to get relief, but none helped me. I then read of Doan's Kidney Pills and made up my mind to try them. It wasn't long before my back was easier, my kidneys were acting regularly and I felt like a different man. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mr. Metcalf. Faith of Women
 By ALBERT REEVE

(Copyright, 1916, by W. G. Chapman.)
 "Do you know why I like you, Miss Gray?" inquired Doris Dinsmere, seating herself in her friend's comfortable chair. "It's because you're so sensible."
 "That's a mixed sort of compliment," answered Elizabeth Gray, laughing. "I think I know what you mean, though."
 "I mean you're the sort of person to come to for advice," said Doris, patting her friend's hand coaxingly.
 Elizabeth Gray and Doris Dinsmere had been school friends. Five years afterward they had met in New York, where Doris was studying art, at the expense of her well-to-do parents, while Elizabeth lived in a tiny flat and worked as a stenographer.
 Miss Gray was the sort of a woman who would never be quite beautiful, as Doris was, but there was more in her head than had passed through Doris' flighty one in all her life.
 "You are in love again," said Miss Gray calmly.
 Doris nodded. "To Charlie Ross," she answered. "We're engaged."
 Elizabeth was unable to repress a little sense of pain. It was she who had introduced Charlie to Doris. Charlie had been quickly infatuated with the empty-headed little girl, who represented all that was sacred in his eyes. She thought with a pang how much he had begun to mean to her before he met Doris and ceased coming to her apartment. They had discussed things together; he had told her everything that was in his life, all his ideals. And he had been thrown off his balance by Doris, who had nothing but beauty and vivacity. She knew Doris would never make a good wife for Charlie. And the pity was that she could do nothing. Time must teach them.
 "This is what I want you to do," said Doris. "He writes me the most beautiful love letters. And I—I don't know how to answer them."
 "Just be natural, dear," said the older woman. "Don't try to say what you don't mean. Charlie will come to understand."
 "But you don't understand," said Doris plaintively. "He thinks I am all sorts of things I am not. He thinks I am clever and—and all that. Elizabeth"—she used the word when she meant to coax—"won't you write me a love letter to Charlie?"
 "My dear child!" faltered Miss Gray. "Oh, you must," pleaded Doris. "Or else I shall lose him. You don't know how much he means to me, and all he thinks me which I am not. Please, please, Elizabeth."
 "But he will know it is not you speaking in the letter, my dear," protested Elizabeth Gray.
 "Please," repeated Doris, sobbing.
 Doris was very winning when she meant to be. And so her friend capitulated and, conscience stricken, sat down to indite a letter to Charlie Ross that should sound like Doris and yet be what Doris was not.
 She wrote it from her own heart. She spoke of what love means to a woman, of all the things that she knew and Doris could never know. She poured out her heart in that letter, and in many others.
 For the first letter brought back a reply that touched her vividly. It showed something in the man's nature, something idealistic which even Elizabeth Gray had never known existed in the man, something to which her heart responded as the steel to the magnet. And after that the descent was easy.
 Letter after letter came to him from her pen. "You must not wonder," she wrote once, "that I seem so different to you when we meet from what I seem to be in my letters. It is very difficult for me to express myself face to face."
 "Charlie is devoted," said Doris happily one day. "He thinks I write all those letters, and you know, Elizabeth, that they are incomprehensible to me."
 Yes, there were many things that were incomprehensible to Doris. Elizabeth Gray began to see that more and more clearly as the weeks went by. But she was too far in the slough of deception now to be able to extricate herself. Passionate letters passed between them, and she poured out all her longing and all her love to this lover who, unknowing whence the letters came, could never be hers.

"Just Be Natural, Dear."

 "He is so serious," pouted Doris one day. "And he talks of such heavy things! They make my head ache. And I have to pretend to understand—because of this silly plot. Why did you ever let me into it, Elizabeth?"
 "That was Elizabeth's thanks," she smiled; she could afford to smile, for she knew from Charlie's letters that she held his heart absolutely, although he never dreamed of it. But that night she prayed for his sake that he might not marry Doris.
 The prayer seemed to be strangely answered. For the next week Doris came to her, after a longer interval than usual. She sat down at her feet and began patting her hand.
 "What is it, Doris?" asked Elizabeth.
 "I don't love Charlie," Doris burst out. "It was all a mistake. I have found the man I love, and he loves me. So you will not have any more of those horrid letters to write. He isn't the sort of man who is above me. He is Frank Bewlett."
 "The actor?"
 "Yes," answered Doris meekly. "What will Charlie say?"
 "I want you to write and tell him," answered Doris. "Promise me. You know, you got me into this trouble, Elizabeth, and you must get me out—you must!"
 Elizabeth sat down that night with a heavy heart and wrote to Charlie. Doris was going home; she loved another; he must forget her and never write to her nor try to see her again. She did not sleep that night, and went to work with a heavy heart next day.
 That evening Charlie called, and she was totally unprepared for it. He came in with a white face.
 "I haven't been to see you since I met Doris," he said. "I can't forgive myself for neglecting an old friend in my happiness, as I supposed it to be. Do you know—know—?"
 Elizabeth nodded. She could not manage to utter the trivial sympathy in her heart.
 "Why did she do it?" he demanded. "We loved each other. If you could have seen the letters she wrote me! They were not the letters of a foolish girl. There is something I can't understand in this. The man she thinks she loves now is—well, not the sort of man that girl would love."
 He forgot himself in his despair. He paced the room. Suddenly he stopped before Elizabeth's desk. Elizabeth sprang up. He was looking at a half-finished letter she had been writing when he came in.
 He turned and faced her. "What does this mean?" he asked, looking at the handwriting. "Doris has been here this evening. See, the ink is scarcely dry! She has been here, and she is here now."
 "No, Charlie," said Elizabeth helplessly. "You don't understand. Our writing is very much alike."
 "I have never seen her writing," he answered, with slow suspicion. "But I know that the writing of that letter is hers."
 "It isn't, Charlie, I—"
 "Then you wrote those letters at her dictation! She showed you my letters and dictated her answers to you. So they filtered through two people—all those fine professions of love and eternal loyalty!" he said bitterly.
 Elizabeth did not know what to say. And she solved her problem in a woman's privileged way, by sinking down into her chair and bursting into bitter tears.
 She looked up at him. "Go, now, please!" she sobbed. "Yes, think anything you please. I wrote them for Doris, if you like. What does it matter, now that your trust has been betrayed by a heartless girl?"
 He stood irresolutely in the doorway; then he came forward to where she sat, her head bowed on her arms, striving to still the sobs that rent her as she thought of the bitterness that had overtaken their two lives.
 "It means a good deal," he said. "Did you—did you help her to compose those letters? Or were some of those thoughts yours? Believe me, I see her in her true light now, and it seems to me incredible that she can ever have written to me as she did. The woman who wrote those letters was a woman of a soul as far above Doris'—"
 "Hush! Do not think unkindly of her," said Elizabeth softly, raising her streaming face. "It is all over now. She would never have understood what love means."
 "You inspired them," he persisted doggedly.
 "I wrote them all, Charlie," said Elizabeth, rising and facing him. "She was afraid you would look down on her. She loved you in her way—remember that. She is only a child. She asked me to help her keep your love, and I wrote them."
 He held her hands. "I thank God," he answered gravely, "that at least I can keep my faith in women."
 And he was gone. But Elizabeth Gray's heart was singing. For she knew that he would come back, and that her love for him would find its reward—some day.
 Reproof.
 "Does your boy Josh have any ideas about running a farm?"
 "I should say so," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "He says I'm all wrong. I'm spollin' the makin' of a fine set of golf links for the sake of a little corn an' hay an' such."

AN EFFECTIVE LAXATIVE FOR GROWING CHILDREN

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Highly Recommended as a Family Remedy.

In children the slightest irregularity of the bowels has a tendency to disturb the entire digestive system, and unless promptly remedied invites serious illness. The experienced mother knows that by training her children to regularity in this respect, and when occasion arises administering a mild laxative, she will have little need for the doctor's services.

Mrs. Leo Weigand, 3251 Central Ave., N. S. Pittsburg, Pa., whose two boys, Frank and Joseph, are shown in the illustration, writes that she has found Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin a most effective laxative, not only for the children but also for herself, and that she will always keep it in the house to use when needed. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that acts easily and naturally, without griping or other pain or discomfort. It is pleasant to the taste so that children like it, and is equally effective on the strongest constitution. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents, and should have a place in every home. It will save many times its cost in lessened doctor bills and maintain the health of the entire family. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a fac-simile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

"THE SUPREME TEST OF THE NATION HAS COME; WE MUST ALL SPEAK, ACT AND SERVE TOGETHER"

Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, issued a personal appeal to the citizens of the United States on Monday morning, April 16th. In compliance with the request of the president to publish everywhere, The Standard is reprinting it herewith.

The lifeblood of the fight of the nations for free government is in food supplies. The United States will soon put 1,000,000 men in the field. These men will have to be fed. We must help in feeding the allied nations in Europe, and we must also have a reserve for our own use.

Do not be deceived by the thought that German militarism is about to yield. We are in a world's war, cold, hard and bitter, and the way to end it soon is to produce bountiful food supplies for the men in the field.

Text of President's Appeal
"My Fellow-Countrymen: The entrance of our beloved country into the grim and terrible war for democracy and human rights creates so many problems of national life and action which call for immediate consideration and settlement that I hope you will permit me to address to you a few words of earnest counsel and appeal regarding them.

"We are rapidly putting our navy upon an effective war footing and are about to create and equip a great army, but these are the simplest parts of the great task to which we have addressed ourselves. There is not a single selfish element so far as I can see, in the cause we are fighting for. We are fighting for what we believe and wish to be the rights of mankind and for the future peace and security of the world. To do this great thing worthily and successfully, we must devote ourselves to the service without regard to profit of material advantage and with an energy and intelligence that will rise to the level of the enterprise itself. We must realize to the full how great the task is and how many things, how many kinds and elements of captivity and service and self-sacrifice it involves.

"These then are the things we must do and do well, besides fighting, the things without which mere fighting would be fruitless:

"We must supply not only abundant food for ourselves, our armies and our seamen, but also for a large part of the nations with whom we now have made common cause.

Must Supply Ships.
"We must supply ships by the hundreds out of our shipyards to carry to the other side of the sea, submarines or no submarines, what will every day be needed there and abundant materials out of our fields and our mines and our factories with which, not only to clothe and equip our own forces on land and sea, but also to clothe and support our people for whom the gallant fellows under arms can no longer work, to help clothe and equip armies with which we are co-operating in Europe, and to keep the looms and manufacturers in raw materials, coal to keep fires going in ships at sea, and in the furnaces of hundreds of factories across the sea; steel out of which to make arms and ammunition both here and there; rails for worn-out railways back of the fighting forces; locomotives and rolling stock to take the place of those every day going to pieces; mules, horses, cattle, for labor and military service; everything with which the people of England and France and Italy and Russia have usually supplied themselves, but can not now afford the men, materials or the machinery to make.

"It is evident to every thinking man that our industries must be made more prolific and more efficient than ever and they must be more economically managed and better adapted to the particular requirements of our task than they have been; and what I want to say is that the women who devote their thought and their energy to these things will be serving the country and conducting the fight for peace and freedom just as truly and just as efficiently as the men on the battlefield or in the trenches. The industrial forces of the country, men and women alike, will be of great national, a great international, service army—a notable and honored host engaged in the service of the Nation and the world, the efficient friends and saviors of free men everywhere.

Appeal to the Farmers.
"I take the liberty, therefore, of addressing this word to the farmers of the country and to all who work on the farms:

"The supreme need of our own Nation and of the nations with which we are co-operating is an abundance of supplies, and especially of foodstuffs. Without abundant food, alike for the armies and the peoples now at war the whole great enterprise upon which we have embarked will break down and fail. The world's food reserves are low.

"Not only during the present emergency, but for some time after peace shall come, both our own people and a large proportion of the people of Europe must rely upon the harvests in America. Upon the farmers of this country, therefore, in large measure, rests the fate of the war and the fate of the nations. "I particularly appeal to the farmers of the South to plant shall confidently expect to deserve and win the confidence of the people of every sort and station.

"To the men who run the railways of the country, whether they be managers or operative employes, let me say that the railways are the arteries of the Nation's life and in them rests the immense problem of seeing that these arteries suffer no obstruction of any kind.

"To the merchant, let me suggest the motto: 'Small profits and quick sales'; and to the shipbuilder, the thought that the life of the war depends on him. The food and war supplies must be carried across the seas, no matter how many ships are sent to the bottom.

"To the miner, let me say that he stands where the farmer does and the work of the world waits on him. If he slackens or fails, armies and statesmen are helpless. He also is enlisted in the great service army.

"The manufacturer does not need to be told, I hope, that the Nation looks to him to speed and perfect everything he can, and I only want to tell them that their service is adequately indispensable and is counted on by abundant foodstuffs, as well as cotton. They can show their patriotism in no better or more convincing way than by resisting the great temptation of the present price of cotton and helping to feed the Nation and the peoples fighting for their liberty and our own. The variety of their crops will be the visible measure of their comprehension of their national duty.

"The Government of the United States and the Governments of the several States stand ready to co-operate. They will do everything possible to assist farmers in securing an adequate supply of seed, an adequate force of laborers when they are most needed at harvest time, and the means of expediting shipments of fertilizers and farm machinery, as well as of the crops themselves when harvested. The course of trade shall be as unhampered as it is possible to make it and there will be no unwarranted monopolization of the Nation's food supply by those who handle it on its way to the consumer. This is our opportunity to demonstrate the efficiency of a great democracy and we shall not fall short of it.

To the Middlemen.
"This, let me say to the middlemen of every sort, whether they are handling our foodstuffs or our raw materials for manufacture or the products of our mills and factories:

"The eyes of the country will be especially upon you. This is your opportunity for signal service. The country expects you to forego unusual profits, to organize and expedite shipments of supplies of every kind, but especially of food with an eye to the service you are rendering and in the spirit of those who enlist in the ranks for their people, not for themselves.

every man who loves the country and its liberties.

To the Housewives.
"Let me suggest also that every one who creates or cultivates a garden helps and helps greatly to solve the problem of feeding the nations, and that every housewife who practices strict economy puts herself in the ranks of those who serve the Nation. This is the time for America to correct her unardonable fault of wastefulness and extravagance.

"In the hope that this statement of the needs of the Nation and of the world in this hour of supreme crisis may stimulate those to whom it comes and remind all who need reminder of the solemn duties of a time such as the world has never seen before, I beg that all editors and publishers everywhere will give as prominent publication and as wide a circulation as possible to this appeal. I venture to suggest, also, to all advertising agencies that they would perhaps render a very substantial and timely service to the country if they would give it a widespread repetition. And I hope clergymen will not hold the theme of it an unworthy or inappropriate subject of comment and homily from their pulpits.

"WOODROW WILSON."

Nature Cures. The Doctor Takes the Fee.

There is an old saying that "Nature cures, the doctor takes the fee," but as everyone knows you can help Nature very much and thereby enable it to effect a cure in much less time than is usually required. This is particularly true of colds. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy relieves the lungs, liquefies the tough mucous and aids in its expectoration, allays the cough and restores the system.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists, Inc.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

S. W. Espy was in Brady yesterday and reported good rains out his way and especially on his upper ranch and the H. S. Espy ranch, where tanks were filled and an abundance of stock water secured.

Judge J. E. Shropshire, who was reported very low following the operation for removal of the appendix last Saturday, is now making a splendid recovery, and it is thought he soon will have regained full health and strength.

W. F. Davis, the efficient court house janitor, has been confined to his bed the past week with a spell of sickness, but is reported somewhat improved now. W. E. Kitchens is temporarily taking his place at the court house.

J. A. Westbrook has returned from Mason where he has been the past month or two, and reports having completed the handsome new residence for Mrs. R. C. Doell at that place. The new home is a handsome 7-room roof bungalow of the latest type and style of architecture.

A letter from Ernest Noble at San Angelo states that the Concho is 8 ft. high in San Angelo, as a result of the rain Wednesday morning, and that heavy rains fell in the neighborhood of Sterling City and Water Valley. Heavy rains also fell between San Angelo and Ballinger although the rain at Ballinger and Coleman was comparatively light.

Jack McGaughey was resting fairly well this afternoon though still in a critical condition as a result of mercury poisoning late yesterday. Owing to the nature of the poison it is impossible for attending physicians to determine whether or not he can recover, but every effort is being made to save his life. His sister, Mrs. Charles Blakeney of Stephenville, came in last night to be at his bedside.—Brownwood Bulletin.

J. H. Drinkard, one of McCulloch county's erstwhile and highly esteemed citizens, who is now making his home in Fort Worth, arrived here yesterday to spend a few days looking after business affairs. While Mr. Drinkard has property interests here, as well as holding the citizenship in high esteem, he does not allow himself the privilege of making very frequent visits to Brady. His last visit here was two years ago last August, and his visit before that was four years ago last winter. He has endeavored to keep up with the country through the medium of The Standard, and held an indignation meeting with us because we allowed his subscription to lapse despite forewarning against just a very act. We compromised by promising never to fail him again—and actually left him smiling in good humor.

W. J. West and son were in the city yesterday on business. Although Mr. West's family still continues to make their home in the Rochelle community, Mr. West for the past year has spent much of his time at Tahoka, where he has purchased a section of land and where he is engaged in raising maize and cotton. Mr. West is greatly pleased with his new location, and expects to move his family there as soon as he gets his property improved. He reports having sold $53.56 worth of maize off of one acre of his land the past year, and while the balance of his crop was not all as good, he is sure this record can ordinarily be more than equalled. Mr. West was formerly an extensive land owner of McCulloch county, having farms at Richland Springs, Rochelle and Lohn. He has disposed of all of his local property except that at Rochelle.

SPRING COLDS ARE DANGEROUS

A dose of Dr. King's New Discovery is sure relief, this happy combination of antiseptic balsams clears the head soothes the irritated membranes and what might have been a lingering cold is broken up. Don't stop treatment when relief is first felt as a half cured cold is dangerous. Take Dr. King's New Discovery till your cold is gone.

Frozen Fish Can be Revived.
 A live fish gradually frozen in a cake of ice does not die; it merely suspends all life processes. When the ice melts if it does so slowly, the fish takes up its vital activities again as if nothing had happened. This phenomenon, says the University of Washington News-Letter, was described by Prof. E. Victor Smith of a recent announcement that a Swiss naturalist had revived frozen fish.

"There is no reason why a fish if frozen slowly in a cake of ice, should not be revived even at the end of ten years," said he. "Cases of frozen cold-blooded animals are not uncommon. Frogs are many times frozen for long periods of time, and even turtles will live even under ordinary circumstances for a year without food. The process of freezing fish must be accompanied with the greatest care, he said. The temperature of the water must be reduced slowly in the freezing process and must be gradually raised in the thawing part of the experiment."

An Arkansas newspaper once printed some cloth hand bills for a traveling show. The show went broke and these bills were never called for, so the thrifty wife of the editor used the cloth to line little Johnny's pants. As the months rolled by the pantaloons grew threadbare and at school one day he accidentally tore the seat out leaving about one foot of lining in sight, and the boys were surprised to read the following words standing out in plain type: "Doors open at 7:30; performance begins at 8."—Swiped.

Rules of Success.
 Alfred C. Bedford, newly elected president of the Standard Oil Company, gave Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. members these rules for success:

"Do all you are told to do.
 "When you have finished look around for more to do.
 "Have no regard for hours.
 "Read and study, and think of your work.
 "Have imagination, have some vision.
 "When a fellow misses a chance he worries. But there is another coming—it is just around the corner. Catch it as it goes by.
 "I always ask any young man that comes into my office whether he has any religious affiliations or not. When any fellow has somebody or something stronger than he, on whom he trusts in temptation, it will bring him out of his trial, and give him any drug or adviser, and try it Standard.

Unfortunate Words.

In a church in Ohio the minister gave out the hymn, "I Love to Steal Away," etc. The regular leader of the choir being absent, the duty devolved upon a young fellow of timid nature. He commenced, "I love to steal," and then broke down. Raising his voice a little higher, he then sang, "I love to steal." At length, after a desperate cough, he made a final demonstration, and roared out, "I love to steal."

The effort was too much. Every one but the parson was laughing. He rose, and with the utmost gravity said: "Seeing our brother's propensities, let us pray."—Chicago Herald.

Suffers Injuries in Fall.

Ben Bergamon, while assisting in making deliveries at the Borschow store Wednesday, suffered severe injuries in a fall from the wagon. While in the act of placing a sack of salt in the delivery, his foot slipped allowing him to fall heavily against the side of the wagon. He has been suffering considerable pain since the accident, and it is feared internal injuries may have resulted. An ex-Ray picture will probably be taken to ascertain the extent of the hurt.

Holds Confirmation.
 Bishop Capers of the West Texas Diocese held confirmation of a class of five at the Episcopal church Wednesday night. Rev. John Power came over from Brownwood for the services, and Archdeacon Garden, who had just closed a week's mission, remained over for the confirmation. Bishop Capers proceeded to Menard yesterday morning, while Mr. Garden returned to San Antonio and Parson Powers to Brownwood last night.

Constipation and Indigestion.
 These are twin evils. Persons suffering from indigestion are often troubled with constipation. Mrs. Robert Allison, Mattoon, Ill., writes that when she first moved to Mattoon she was a great sufferer from indigestion and constipation. Food distressed her and there was a feeling like a heavy weight pressing on her stomach and chest. She did not rest well at night, and felt worn out a good part of the time. One bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets corrected this trouble so that she has since felt like a different person.
