MILLION DOLLAR RAINS VISIT TEXAS PAST WEEK—THREE INCHES IN BRADY

RAIN COMES MOST OPPORTUNELY FOR CORN AND COTTON—BUT LITTLE STOCK WATER PUT OUT—HEAVY RAINS IN WEST TEXAS DAMAGE R. R. TRACKAGE.

Count McCulloch county in on the million dollar rains had the past week, for practically all sections of the county were benefited greatly by the series of showers. In Brady the total precipitation was three inches, and in some parts of the county was even greater. In the Camp San Saba and Katemcy communities, and on down towards Mason, the rains appear to have been quite light, less than an inch having fallen over that section.

That the rains were most general is indicated by the fact that the down-pour extended from the Rio Grande Valley to Dallas, and from Fort Worth all along the route of the Frisco to Menard. West Texas to the Abilene and Wichita Falls country is reported thoroughly soaked, and all crops greatly benefited.

The series of rains had in McCulloch county began last Wednesday, following several days of cloudy and threatening weather. The rains had up to Monday morning were as follows:

June 9th	1.00 in.
June 11th	.40 in.
June 12th	.55 in.
Total	2.70 in.

The rains came most opportunely, upon the whole, as corn was beginning to peek rain, and the moisture will also prove very beneficial to cotton. Oat harvesting was interrupted by the downpours, many farmers being only partly finished with their harvest, while others had practically completed this work.

Continued threatening weather gives promise of the much-desired heavy rain needed to put out stock water.

MERCURY STAGES GREAT BARBECUE LAST SATURDAY

The splendid citizens of Mercury are coming in for unstinted praise from all who attended the big barbecue and celebration staged there last Saturday. Visitors were in attendance from all sections of the county and surrounding territory, and Mercury hospitality was dispensed with a cordiality and sincerity that left no question of doubt as to sincerity of the hosts and hostesses. Despite the threatening weather and muddy roads, over a thousand visitors were assembled and joined with the Mercury citizens in making the occasion a memorable one.

The dinner was, without question, one of the most elaborate and enjoyable spreads of good eats ever had in the McCulloch country. There was a superabundance of barbecue, bread, pickles, coffee, fruit and other salads, pies, cakes, etc., and no one was given the slightest excuse for going away hungry, as not only was the great crowd fed to its entire satisfaction, but there was ample of everything left to feed a small army.

Several showers of rain were had during the day, but not enough to seriously interfere with the pleasant gathering. However, previous rains had put the grounds in such a condition that it was found impossible to stage the polo and baseball games. An interesting 10-round bout was staged, however, just north of town, in which White, sailor boxer of Richland Springs, was awarded the decision on points in the ninth round over his opponent, Bentley, a young man from Rockwood.

Mercury citizens are to be congratulated upon the successful manner in which they entertained in spite of the weather handicap, and whenever they decide again to stage a public gathering, they can rest assured that every visitor of last Saturday will host for Mercury.

ODD FELLOWS TO HAVE CELEBRATION 4TH OF JULY

Brady Odd Fellow Lodge No. 257 will stage a celebration on July 4th at the Jordan summer camp, for members of both the local and the various Odd Fellow lodges in the county, and their families, and arrangements are now being completed which assure one of the most notable and enjoyable gatherings ever had by the Odd Fellows. Decision to have the barbecue on the 4th of July was definitely reached at the regular meeting of the local lodge Monday night, and committees were named as follows:

- N. B. Embry, chairman Arrangements.
- T. L. Bodephamer, chairman Cold Drinks.
- W. H. Goodner, chairman Meats and Bread.

These committees are now hard at work getting everything in readiness, and give assurance that nothing will be left undone. Some ten or twelve muttons are to be barbecued, and the lodge will also provide an abundance of bread, pickles and coffee. Soda pop, lemonade and all manner of cold drinks will be served to the celebrants, also. In addition, the ladies may be counted upon to furnish an abundance of pies, cakes and all manner of good things, so that there will be nothing lacking for the feast. A program of speaking is also to be arranged.

As before stated, an invitation will be extended all McCulloch county Odd Fellows and their families to join in and help celebrate upon this occasion. Instructions are to leave your purses at home, as everything will be absolutely free. The local lodge has been getting in some hard work this year, and the members feel they are entitled to some fun. So far the lodge has not missed working every Monday night since the first of the year, and the filing of five applications for membership last Monday night indicates its growing popularity.

BRADY WON THURSDAY'S GAME FROM ROCHELLE BY NARROW MARGIN—7 TO 6

Brady won last Thursday's ball game from Rochelle by a narrow margin, the final score being 7 to 6. Will Allen Jones was on the mound for the locals, and pitched a good game, while Bailey Jones received. For the visitors, Other Williamson started off the game, but was obliged to retire on account of a sore thumb interfering with his delivery. The locals touched up the visitors for three runs in the first inning, but the Rochelleites came back strong, and at the beginning of the eighth had the score reading 6 to 5 in their favor. In the eighth, Brady tied the score, and in the ninth, made the winning run.

Bailey Jones for the locals showed getting back to form by making five hits out of five times at the bat, and clouting out three two baggers—once with two men on base.

The balance of the series of games scheduled for last week were called off on account of wet grounds.

A CORDIAL INVITATION TO ATTEND THE BAPTIST MEETING STARTING SUN.

The Baptist meeting will be held in the Methodist tabernacle.

It is accessible to every part of the town and surrounding country. It has concrete walks so that people can get there in wet weather.

It is handy to the business men and plenty of room for everybody. It is cool in warm weather and dry in wet weather.

Come and see!
The meeting is for everybody and everybody is invited.

It begins next Sunday night.

LEE MORGAN SUFFERS BAD FALL SUNDAY—HAS BROKEN WRIST AND SPRAIN

Lee Morgan, Brady building contractor, is confined to his bed as a result of a bad fall sustained Sunday morning. Mr. Morgan was at Mrs. H. P. Roddie's residence inspecting the roof for a leak, and while climbing on the ladder, one of the rounds broke, throwing him to the cement porch floor. Examination showed the left arm broken at the wrist, and the left ankle sprained. The injuries have proved quite painful, and will incapacitate Mr. Morgan for some time.

MASON CARRIES $75,000.00 SCHOOL BOND ISSUE—FOUR TO ONE MAJORITY

The school House Bond Election which, for the past several weeks has been the leading subject of discussion among citizens of Mason, was held last Tuesday and the result was an overwhelming victory for the issuance of the bonds. The vote was 227 for the bonds, while those opposing the bonds polled a total of 54 votes. This gives the "Fors" a little better than a four to one victory.

It had been anticipated by a number of local citizens that the result would be much closer than it was, and the overwhelming win was naturally a surprise to everyone, but needless to say, it was a very pleasing and an agreeable surprise to those who had worked so diligently and dutifully for the proposed bond issue.

The News is gratified to know the people of Mason are enthusiastically in favor of a new school building, as they have shown by their vote. With the issuing of the proposed $75,000 bonds, Mason can have the present school building remodeled into a modern and up-to-date grammar school building and after furnishing same with modern equipment, will have sufficient funds left, with which to erect a modern and up-to-date high school building and equip the same.

No definite decision has yet been made as to what sort of building will be erected nor has it been decided as to the amount that will be spent in repairing the present building, but since the bonds have been voted the authorities may now go ahead and make plans and preparations and, no doubt, within a very short time, definite and specific arrangements for improving our local school conditions will have been reached.

No longer will it be necessary for the citizens of Mason to feel ashamed of her school accommodations. The time is drawing close to hand, when we may point out that Mason has a school as good as the best and we will be having additional children coming here to get the benefit of our school, while the regrettable fact that many of our own children have been going away from here to get the benefit of a better school will cease to exist.—Mason News.

Death of J. A. Bevans.

The death of Jimmie Bevans of Brownwood occurred early Sunday morning at San Antonio, and the body passed through Brady on this morning's Frisco train, enroute to Menard, where funeral services were held at the First Methodist church by the Rev. Thomas S. Barcus of Brownwood, and interment made this afternoon. The death of Mr. Bevans followed an illness of about two years and for some months past he had been under treatment at a sanitarium at San Antonio.

Mr. Bevans was a son of Wm. Bevans of Menard, and was born and raised in that county, being widely known as one of the leading stockmen and ranchers of that section. At the time of death, he was 39 years old. A man of excellent character and splendid traits, he was held in highest esteem by all, and was universally popular. He joined the Methodist church about seven years ago and has since that time been an active and devoted worker in religious affairs. He was a member of the W. O. W. and other fraternal organizations. His wife was formerly Miss Grace Mann, daughter of O. D. Mann, Sr., long-time Brady resident, and the family visited here upon numerous occasions, and for a time made their home here. The removal of the family to Brownwood occurred about two and a half years ago.

Besides the widow, deceased leaves three children—Jim Mann Bevans, 18; Grace Lucille, 17, and Luella Abilene, 12 years. His father, Wm. Bevans, one brother, Wm. P. Bevans, and one sister, Mrs. Daniel Benchoff, all of Menard survive; also two half sisters, Mrs. Josh Clark and Mrs. George Grandstaff, and one half-brother, Harold Bevans, all of Menard.

CIVIC LEAGUE MASS MEETING TO BE HELD THURSDAY EVENING, 8 O'CLOCK

ROUSING RALLY PLANNED BY CITIZENS OF BRADY FOR THE PURPOSE OF BUILDING, BOOSTING AND BEAUTIFYING BRADY—EVERYONE URGENTLY INVITED.

A Civic League is to be organized next Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock for the purpose of building and bettering Brady. Behind the move are some of the leading citizens—men and ladies—of Brady, to whom the work of building, bettering and beautifying means the making of a better and more inviting place to live. They are asking the earnest and enthusiastic co-operation of every civic organization, and every individual citizen as well. Brady citizens should join hands, and help.

Now that the organization of a Brady band has been assured, there still remains the building of a band stand and the providing of a place where the boys may play for the entertainment of the citizens. It is proposed to convert the courthouse lawn into a city park, provide it with benches and resting places and to erect a band stand therein. No better use could be found for this little beauty spot than to provide a place of rest and enjoyment for the citizens of Brady.

The removal of the courthouse fence and hitching racks and the placing of cement walks about the courthouse is another move that might well be initiated for the beautifying of Brady. Better streets, better walks, more street lights, more shade trees—these and many other things are matters which an active Civic League may be expected to carry before the citizenship for action.

There is no question whatever but that a live citizenship, co-operating closely and working harmoniously, can accomplish much towards making Brady a better place in which to live, in which to have a family grow up, in which to bring your friends.

Let's all co-operate and make this meeting one of the best and most enthusiastic ever held.

Don't forget the time—8:00 p. m. Thursday; and the place—courthouse; and the object—a better Brady.

SWIMMING POOL TO OFFER MANY ATTRACTIONS

A swimming pool on Brady creek is the newest attraction to be offered the public, and is one which promises to prove deservedly popular with young and old. The new enterprise is being fostered by Mr. S. S. Shearly and will be located at what is known as the Rock Hole swimming pool on Brady creek, and about one mile above town. The pool is about a quarter mile in length, and the water runs from shallow to between ten and twelve feet in depth.

In response to a popular demand for a swimming hole in which young and old may disport themselves, Mr. Shearly is fitting up the Rock hole as a summer place which will offer many attractions. A "shoot the chutes" has already been installed, a cable with rope and pulley has been provided for those who would like to try a lightning glide into the waters, and a big swing will also be provided for those who wish to try this form of diving. In addition, there will be spring boards, diving platforms, rafts and safety ropes. All these various attractions will be placed in the main pool, where the deep water will serve to attract the best and most daring swimmers.

For the little folks, similar attractions will be placed in the lower end of the hole, where the water is comparatively shallow, and where a good gravel bottom is to be had.

Temporary dressing rooms for both sexes, each equipped with shower baths, will be provided, and everything is expected to be in readiness by tomorrow for the swimmers. Bathing will be expected to provide their own suits, and the fee for use of the swimming pool will be placed at 15c for grown-ups and 10c for children.

As soon as possible, Mr. Shearly will move the Jordan summer house to the bathing grounds, and convert it into dressing rooms and shower baths. The long veranda will be given over to sight-seers, who are welcome to come out with bathing parties and to whom admission will be free. Mr. Shearly will also open up a direct road to the swimming hole, making it readily to access, and promises to overlook no opportunity for making it readily of access and prom-pleasure resorts in this section.

BRADY, TEXAS, June 14, 1921

HONEST INJUN.

Brady has everything needed to make a model city—including the citizenship.

A GOOD START.

When a bunch of enthusiastic citizens get together, there's no telling just how much good may be accomplished. Take, for instance, the Chamber of Commerce meeting held last week, and at which such good results were accomplished. The starting of all the various enterprises endorsed at the meeting means much to Brady and Brady citizens, for their accomplishment is going to make Brady a better place in which to live. A good band, a live reunion of veterans and citizens, the remarking of the highway pointers, a camping ground for tourists, and a fight against the unjust truck tax law. These are the projects started by some 75 enthusiastic citizens.

Now, instead of letting these 75 citizens carry on this work, why not have every citizen join hands, and help. How much easier it will be. How much more smoothly will the work progress. How much greater will the results be. That is the spirit that makes communities! That is the spirit Brady citizens should show upon every occasion.

Then, there is the meeting called for next Thursday night to organize a civic league—another most worthy enterprise. Let the citizens show the same spirit of unity and progressiveness as they did in the Chamber of Commerce meeting, and the results obtained will more than repay all for the effort required, and the time and work expended.

We are all for Brady—let us all work together for Brady!

BEGGAR WOMAN IN DIAMOND MARKET.

Within five minutes after the local charity committee had turned her down, and after the city authorities had informed her that she could not beg on the streets of Ballinger, a woman called at a local jewelry store last Wednesday and asked to be shown some diamonds. She stated that she wanted to buy about a two hundred dollar store.

The woman appeared to be partly paralyzed, using a crutch and also carrying a crippled hand. She began her work on the streets, but was soon informed that she was going contrary to the laws of this city and directed to the charity committee, where she was informed that her case was not such as to deserve aid from the local charity board.

The Ledger would not say anything or do anything that would cause anyone to withhold aid from an unfortunate who needed help, but the public has been imposed upon from time to time, and so much money has been in a manner wasted, that it is high time for some systematic plan to be adopted for dealing with beggars.

Any worthy object of charity will find a willing hand in this city. Ballinger people are charitable to a fault and the sympathy for the unfortunate is shown whenever a call is made for aid, but money expended in supporting impostors should be conserved for the worthy causes which confront us from time to time.

When once the outside world learns that Ballinger's gates are closed good and tight to such a class of people, and that grafters will not be permitted to ply their trade here, they will save railroad fare and hotel bills, and this city will be kept free of such impostors. You can aid in keeping them out by referring them to the proper authority when they call on you.—Ballinger Banner-Ledger.

COMMERCIAL TRUCKS OVERCHARGED.

That no satisfactory principle has been evolved for determining what rates of charge should be made on motor trucks for using improved highways is shown by the great diversity of regulations that are imposed. Apparently no two States in the Union have treated this matter in even a similar way. The methods of taxing motor trucks are not only multifarious, but the rates of charge range over a long scale. State Legislatures, in levying taxes on motor trucks, seem to have been governed almost exclusively by the desire to get revenue. In this new means of transporting freight they appear merely to have perceived an opportunity to aggrandize their treasuries, and to have exploited it without much regard for considerations of economic policy. It has generally been recognized that both the ethical and economic end to be attained is to assess such a charge for the use of improved highways as would recompense the public for the wear and tear put on the roads by trucks in passing over them. But while, as an ideal, that principle commends itself to men's sense of justice and expedience, the difficulties, not to say the impossibility, of giving it exact application are manifest, and it is doubtless because of these difficulties that one sees, in the charges that have been imposed, a flagrant disregard of the only principle that has been suggested to determine the action of State Legislatures. Everywhere the charges seem to have been fixed arbitrarily, with the result that there is great diversity both as respects the amounts and the rule of determination used.

Those interested in motor truck transportation in this State make a stern and formidable complaint against the bill enacted during the recent session of the Legislature. They assert that the charges it levies on motor trucks for the use of the highways are so exorbitant that they must greatly restrict the growth of that kind of transportation. Whether they are capable of having that effect or not may be debatable. But that they are excessive, by the test of what other States have done, is undeniable.

The News the other day reproduced from Facts and Figures, a publication of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, some of the statements made of what other States have done. Exact comparisons are not possible because of the differences in the schemes of taxation employed. But it is possible to make a calculation that will serve as a basis of comparison and enable one to come to conclusions which will fairly approximate the facts. The Texas law imposes both a licensing fee and a mileage capacity of the truck, in addition to other minor charges which will be disregarded for the purposes of the present consideration. On a five-ton truck the licensing fee would be $120 a year. Those who operated it in transporting freight would have to pay, for their use of the highways 3c a mile in addition. If such a truck should make but an average of fifty miles a day—rather a low estimate, one should think—and for only 300 days a year, this additional charge would amount to $1,200 a year. This would make the total cost assessed by the State $1,320. The assertion that truck transportation would be rendered impracticable by rates which that charge would require must, at the least, be thought plausible.

But, without entering on a consideration of that question, some enlightenment can be got as to the justice and expedience of that charge by comparing it with the charges which would be made for the operation of the same truck in other States. In Alabama the whole charge, aside from registration and chauffeur licensing fees, both of which are nominal, would be $75 a year. In Colorado it would be $50 a year, plus a tax of 1c a gallon on the gasoline consumed. Those who know how much gasoline a five-ton truck would consume in operating fifty miles a day can complete the comparison. In Georgia the State's charge for operating such a truck would be $150 a year, plus a charge of $50 for five number plates. In Iowa such a truck would have to pay an annual charge of $150, and in this, as in the other States named, without regard to the distance traveled during the year. In Massachusetts, where the motor truck seems to be used to an extent that has made its competition distressing to the railroads, and where the highways are superior to ours, the annual charge is $10 per ton of capacity. In Missouri the charge on all motor cars, passenger or freight, is graduated to the horsepower; but the maximum is $24 a year. In Oklahoma the annual charge of a five-ton truck is $300.

It would not be worth while to carry the comparisons further. These that have been made show that the charge made on motor trucks for the use of the highways is from five to fifteen times as great in Texas as it would be in the States mentioned, assuming that, in Texas, a truck should travel as much as fifty miles a day for 300 days in the year. One can readily believe that such a charge as our law imposes would be destructive of motor truck transportation. But whether that would be the practical consequence or not, the comparisons made must convince every one that the charge made by our law is grossly excessive.—Dallas News.

Writes Thrilling Tales

RANDALL PARRISH

One of the most popular, most industrious and typically American writers of the day, is Randall Parrish. He deals largely in plots of romance, mystery and adventure. Frequently the setting is in the West, but not always. His latest story "The Mystery of the Silver Dagger" is laid in the East and introduces new characters and incidents. One of its unusual angles is the mystery with which he surrounds the principal female participant. You do not discover until the final chapter whether she is a dangerous criminal, a foreign plotter, a secret service agent or just a normal, sweet American girl acting from a high sense of duty. Such uncertainty adds to the charm of the narrative. It will be offered soon as a serial in these columns. Be sure to get the opening installment.

THIS BIRD REAL POLLYANNA

No Imaginable Adverse Circumstance Can Keep "Cucuboro" From His Fit of Laughter.

The real Pollyanna of the feathered tribes has just arrived at the bird house in Central park, for if any one can bear up under the name of Cucuboro and still keep cheerful, it shows one of those persistently gay natures that nothing can mitigate. Of course, Cucuboro has won a better deal from the public at large than he did from the ornithologists who saddled him with his gloomy scientific appellation, for the people of Australia, where he comes from, recognize his propensity to "Keep Smiling" by calling him the "Laughing Jackass."

And, equally, of course, he has earned this soubriquet, for he is reported to thrive on vast quantities of water—no matter what other beverages are available—and to have a habit of laughing before he gets up, an hour or so before sunrise. Now, any one who can laugh an hour before dawn on just plain water—even Pollyanna and her followers never did anything so blatantly cheerful as that.

This kingfisher bird, for that is his family, is sometimes hailed as the settlers' clock, because of his regularity in bursting out into a spasm of wild, ribald laughter, that surpasses any alarm clock in rousing the inhabitants of the Australian bush, while it is more than probable that a relapse into this fiendish merriment that takes him about sunset serves for the dwellers in the hinterland as a dinner bell, cathedral chimes, and factory whistle, all in one. They show their gratitude by making a pet of him and protecting him in his merry chorus.—New York Post.

SPAIN GAVE WALES DAFFODIL

First Flowers Said to Have Been Received in Exchange for a Consignment of Coal.

According to an old legend, the first batch of daffodils ever seen in Wales reached there in return for a consignment of coal. The daffodil is indigenous to the Bilbao district, some of whose seafaring inhabitants were about two thousand years ago conveyed by the flow of the Gulf stream to Pembroke-shire. There they saw the inhabitants digging what is now known as anthracite, and making fires with it. They also noted that the Welsh were sun worshippers. Taking some of the anthracite back with them, the Spaniards realized its immense superiority over charcoal for the purpose of smelting iron ore, for which the country round Bilbao was celebrated even in those days, so an expedition was organized to procure their supplies from Wales.

As barter for the "black stones" the Spaniards took a consignment of daffodil bulbs, because they thought that people who worshipped the sun would be impressed by the beauty of this flower as it unfolded itself and displayed its form and color, and that in its corona and radiating petals they would see reflected the glory of the sun. Thus used as barter and carefully cultivated by the ancient inhabitants of Wales, the daffodil eventually became the floral emblem of the country.

Pity the Telephone Girl.

One hundred telephone calls a minute, as is usual after any sporting event, were coming in over the wires at the News office after the Kentucky Derby. The majority of the calls were inquiries as to the results of the race, which was won by Behave Yourself in 2:04 1-5.

One enthusiastic baseball fan asked the telephone operator who won the game between the Indians and the Colonels.

"Behave Yourself," was the answer, and a cracked receiver at the other end of the line was the reply.

A little later some one asked how the race was at the quarter.

Another became indignant when the girl replied: "Behave Yourself," thinking she was "kidding" him.—Indianapolis News.

Colonial Styles Endure.

In many parts of this country there has been a decided tendency among manufacturers of furniture to comb European mansions, palaces and museums for possible inspiration in the domestic arts, apparently oblivious to the fact that we have in America what generally is considered one of the most graceful, simple and beautiful types of decorative art—that of the colonial period. That this style is authentic and of intrinsic value, artistic and useful, has been abundantly proved.

That manufacturers have been wise in modifying extreme period designs to meet modern conditions in this country seems pretty well established.

Woman Juror Caused Trouble.

The question as to whether women will make successful "jurymen" has been raised in England by the recent collapse of a woman juror in a Manchester court. The woman became ill and almost swooned during the hearing of a charge of malicious wounding. She finally collapsed, had to leave the court and a substitute had to be found. Of course, the trial had to begin all over again.

PROPERLY RANKED AS HERO

Deserved Tribute to Collie Who Gave Master the "Last Full Measure of Devotion."

Clyde Scott, four years old, lies dying on his father's farm near Beckley, W. Va. His pet collie is dead. A vicious sow, bearing the scars of battle to the finish, is so badly mangled that she must be killed, too.

It is one of those simple stories of a dog to which all human sympathy responds, remarks the Baltimore Sun. The boy, playing in the yard, was attacked by the sow, which had escaped its pen. Hearing the child's screams the collie rushed to the rescue and engaged the sow in fight. It needs no assurance of the telegraphed item to tell him who knows his dog the details.

The child's mother came into the picture, bearing her torn baby to safety. But the dog remained. His was a supreme duty, that knew no compromise. The infuriated sow was a menace to those he loved. It was his business to remove that menace, and into the job he put his concern. It was his concern only to remove the menace, and at any cost. His own life mattered not at all, and in the end he lost it, in as noble a struggle for what he believed to be righteous as any that ever brightened the annals of man or nation.

We do not know the "little collie's" name. If we did we should like to print it in honorable memory of his gallant conduct. He was a soldier and a gentleman; he was a devoted comrade and playmate; he was all that a dog is and that a man should be. We hope he had a Christian burial, for he was a Christian, if to be Christian implies sacrifice of self and love for others. He was all of that and he was a hero—a hero on four legs.

PLAGUE THAT FOLLOWS WAR

In All Ages Rinderpest Has Marked the Path Taken by Armies on Their March.

The newspapers told recently of the trouble that arose when the authorities of Montevideo refused to admit to that port a little dog owned by a woman who had taken it there on a passenger steamer, the refusal being based upon the epidemic of rinderpest prevailing among the cattle of Uruguay. Rinderpest is the most terrible of the diseases that affect cattle, and is often called simply "cattle plague."

It affects, so far as is known, only the ruminant, cloven-footed animals—oxen, sheep, goats, camels, etc.—but is so infectious that it may be carried from one herd to another by attendants, dogs, cats and birds or by fodder. Therefore, the dog was excluded from fear not that it would contract the disease but that it might contribute to spreading it.

The cause of rinderpest is not yet definitely known, but it is an ancient disease which always breaks out after great wars. The ravages of the Goths and Huns in the early Middle ages were followed by frightful epidemics. Its commonest symptoms are fever, cough, dysentery and exhaustion. Its mortality is high, but the disease is not necessarily fatal.

Grossmith Defines Humor.

Lawrence Grossmith, the English comedian, is quoted as saying: "There is no more difference between English and American humor than there is between English and American tragedy. All humor, whether it be English or American, depends upon the seriousness with which the person trying to be humorous acts the fool. This may sound like a paradox, but it is one of the most extraordinary paradoxes which are vitally true. If an actor does not enter into his humor with the full possession of his senses and all his faculties he misses the most of it."

"To be humorous it is necessary to lose oneself in one's part, retaining just sufficient introspective faculties to feel the sincerity of one's acting. Sincerity here, as in all other branches of acting is the mainstay. And 'sincerity' gets across the footlights whether it is in Germany, France, England or America, whether in tragedy, comedy, musical or dramatic plays."

Kaiser's Coach Brought Trade.

The ex-kaiser's gala carriage is for sale in Berlin. "One of the best strokes of business I ever made was to buy it," said Herr Zielka, owner of a Friedrichstrasse establishment containing a restaurant, billiard room and a theater of varieties, according to the Continental edition of the London Mail.

"I bought it from the court-marshal and used it as an advertisement for the theater. Every night the carriage drove up to my theater and out stepped a grand gentleman or lady with the air of a royal personage. Naturally, crowds followed into the theater. Unhappily the royalists made such a fuss that the police forbade me to continue using it."

Road Building in India.

There is considerable activity in road making in various cities in India, depending upon the local authorities. In some places stone rollers, pulled by gangs of men, are used, and in other places steam rollers are to be found. A very useful machine is used in Lucknow, that has two rollers, the front one a steering roller. The rear chain is driven by a gasoline engine. It has a large gasoline tank and is well adapted for light work.

WAS UNABLE TO WALK FOR SIX WEARY MONTHS

"For six months before I began taking Tanlac I had rheumatism so bad I wasn't able to walk without someone helping me or without holding onto a chair," said Mrs. Mamie Garcia, 506 Holmes Street, Kansas City, Mo.

"Three years ago I began to suffer with rheumatism. I had to give up my housework. My joints were stiff and swollen and pained me every time I moved. I had pains all over my body, and sometimes I was in such agony I thought I would go distracted. I also suffered badly from constipation and headaches, and at times I would get so dizzy I had to sit down to keep from falling. My stomach became badly upset and at times what little I did eat made me nauseated. My heart would palpitate terribly, and I felt so choked up I had to gasp for breath. I lost weight and finally I got so I couldn't walk without help.

"After I began taking Tanlac the pains began to ease up, and by the time I had finished my second bottle I was able to walk and now I have taken up my housework again. The swelling and stiffness have left my joints and I hardly know what it is to have an ache. I can eat anything I want, my digestion is perfect and I never suffer any bad effects at all. My constipation has been relieved and I am free from headaches and dizziness. My sleep is sound and refreshing and I now weigh one hundred and twenty-eight pounds and my health is better than it has been for years."

Tanlac is sold in Brady by Trigg Drug Co., in Mercury by J. T. Matlock, in Rochelle by C. W. Carr, and by leading druggists everywhere.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

A. M. Harkey of Kamecy, accompanied by his attorneys, J. E. Shropshire, Sam McCollum and Jas. Flack, went to Austin yesterday, where arguments will be heard today by the Court of Criminal Appeals for a rehearing in his case.

A. B. McKnight was here from the Kamecy community yesterday and reported very light rains as having fallen east of his place, and that more rain would prove very acceptable. A heavy rain to put out stock water would also be greatly beneficial.

The City well has been shut down since Friday, June 3rd, on account of both heavy drills having jumped a pin. The bits were carried to Ranger by the drillers, Messrs. Bodner & Conaway, and were yesterday reported at San Saba, which would indicate that drilling should be again in progress by tonight or tomorrow. The hole is now at about 800 ft. and the hard lime in which the drill has been working, has been the cause of the series of accidents and delays.

Fred Otte was a business visitor in Brady from the Camp San Saba community Monday, and reported the rain in that section as having been the lightest had anywhere in the county. According to P. W. Appleton's official weather reporter at Camps, 3/4 of an inch of rain was had the early part of last week, but little, if any, has fallen since, and Mr. Otte says he can readily plow up dry dirt. Corn is needing rain badly in west part of the county. The rains the local light also in the immediate vicinity of Mason.

The Standard editor has every reason in the world for a strong breath, inasmuch as he has just returned from the Mexican border, and furthermore, upon his return to Brady having found three fine, large Bermuda onions reposing upon his desk. The onions were the kind remembrance of Mrs. J. P. Waddell of Rochelle, and are evidently meant to signify that Mrs. Waddell this year is again raising one of those fine gardens for which she is famous. Each of the Bermudas weighs over half a pound, and the combined weight of the three is 1 3/4 pounds. At that, Mrs. Waddell says they are average size, and that her patch contains many much larger. No question whatever but that Bermudas grow in McCulloch as fine as any place in the world.

LOVE AND THEORY

By JOSEPHINE S. BROOKS.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Ellen went singing around the house, happy to toll for love of her dear ones. She felt that nothing mattered if they all remained well. How thankful she ought to be for these blessings.

Her song, rising clearer this sunny morning, was cut short by the ring of the doorbell. Ellen smoothed her hair, cast aside her work apron, and then hastened to the door.

"I heard you singing and I don't see how you do it," said Elsie Smith, the caller.

"Do what, Elsie?" asked the hostess in surprise.

"Why, be so cheerful and happy in such—"

"In so humble a home?" supplied Ellen.

"Well, that was my thought—then I mean your work. You do work hard, Ellen, and you can't deny it. And for what? No one gives you any credit."

"Credit, Elsie? No true wife does it for that, but out of love."

"Love is all very well for a while, but year after year, to go without rest, with no vacations, is unjust. I'll never marry a man who makes me work all the time."

Ellen stood silent. She wondered if her face had lines in it like this friend's of thirty-five birthdays.

"Oh, Ellen." The young woman clasped her hands. "I have a plan. Let your husband do your work for one day and I'll wager your trying times will end."

"You think it over, Ellen," tempted Elsie, "and see if I'm not right. I'm studying these subjects, and I know what I'm talking about. Assert yourself. Good-by."

The young wife's song had ceased. The sun shone less brightly and her task now seemed heavier. As the hours passed bitter thoughts grew and magnified.

"Come to think of it, John's kisses of late have been hasty, with no earnestness in them. Is his love weakening? He seems to take my many cares as a matter of course; also my attentions to himself. Once he thanked me; now he is always in a rush."

Ellen left her work and sat down by the table, hand on chin. Soon she rose.

"I'll do it," she whispered. "I'll go—let's see, it's Saturday; I'll go tomorrow after John and Rodney start for their walk. I'll leave a note saying that I must have a vacation of a few days."

Ellen imagined, when on her way to Cousin Jane's, how amazed John and their boy must be as they read her note.

She laughed at the picture of him tugging at the big pile of washing, blankets and all, arose. Perhaps he would revolt.

Ellen's thoughts were not all joyous, as she swung next day in the hammock beneath her cousin's elm tree. She had missed the "hasty kisses" that morning.

In the morning a very determined woman faced her cousin.

"I can't stand it another minute, Alma," declared Ellen.

As the wife neared her journey's end, she breathed: "After all, home looks good. There's no sign of life. No doubt John and Rod are at work."

Ellen entered the hall, where a sense of emptiness seemed to strike her. She passed into the dining room, then went on to the kitchen. A noise startled her. She opened the door, and paused on the threshold.

"Washing dishes, mother," the boy answered, as if dish-washing were an ordinary task.

"Father has been—phew," came from Rodney, as he nearly let fall a cup.

Without waiting for the boy's answer the mother dashed into the bedroom, where upon the bed lay her John.

"John, John," she sobbed. "I'll never leave you again." Then out came the whole story. "She's wrong, utterly wrong," she snapped. "It's love, not theory, that counts. What happened, dear?"

She fell by the bedside and began kissing the hand that hung down.

"It was washing," he feebly answered John, with close-shut eyes. As Ellen bent over him his eyes unclosed and a mischievous light shone in them.

"I scalded my foot from the boiler water stopping on it, so Rodney had to leave his work and do the house-keeping."

"And all this evil came about through my—my sin," she cried. "I was trying to prove Elsie's theory."

"I've had my lesson, and it has done me good, dear wife, for I was becoming thoughtless. Such washings! They are too hard for you."

"I just love them—now, John. They'll be reminders of my cruel treatment of you."

As soon as John could free himself from the clinging arms, he rose and hobbled to a chair.

"Why, John? I thought you were too weak to move."

"A little lesson for you as a reminder," he laughed. "But my foot isn't entirely well, Rodney, when you can leave your work, come and kiss your mother."

"To think of all the mischief my act caused. Won't I triumph over Elsie and her theory!" Ellen vowed, as she sat, once more content, with her arms around her dear ones.

COPIED OLD ENGLISH BARREL

Pennsylvania Man Made First Standard Size Receptacle for the Transportation of Oil.

When crude oil was discovered in Pennsylvania in 1859, barrels commonly used for wine, beer, whisky, cider and other liquors were utilized by oil men as containers for their product. Anything that resembled a barrel was used and sizes differed so radically that there were many opportunities for fraud.

As an instance, it was discovered that frequently the staves were made extra thick, with the result that the content of the barrel was less than represented, and purchasers often found that they did not get as much crude oil as they were paying for.

In 1864-65 the first standard-size barrel was made by Samuel Van Syckle, at Miller Farm, near Titusville, Pa. It was of 42 gallons' capacity, the size fixed in 1461 in England for the herring barrel during the reign of Edward IV.

Van Syckle specified the size of the staves to be used and made an honest 42-gallon barrel. Almost immediately he had practically a monopoly of the business and the odd-size barrels gradually disappeared.

The present system of gauging oil tanks was started in 1865, when P. E. Hammond of Miller Farm, Pa., was asked if he could figure the amount of oil contained in each vertical foot of certain tanks. In a few days Hammond prepared a table of one of these tanks, showing the amount of oil it would hold per inch from bottom to top, based on a measurement of 42 gallons to the barrel. Hammond's table came into general use, and this method of measuring tanks never has changed.—Oil News.

SOME MEASURE OF SUCCESS

Collector Got His Half of Debt, but Creditor is Wondering Where He Comes In.

A Vancouver man tells of a sea captain who, ashore, makes his home in that city, and who had loaned a sum of money to a neighbor. The latter, after the loan was a year or two old, made no effort to pay it.

Now, the captain began to look upon the debt as a bad one, indeed. On one occasion, however, upon his return from a voyage, he heard of a debt collector noted for his ability to extract money from such delinquents. Accordingly, the captain called upon this collector and advised of the circumstances.

"If," said the skipper, "you can collect that debt, I'll give you half of it."

The collector promised that the thing would be done. The captain sailed away on another voyage, and, on his return, sought out the collector again. "Any success with that bill?" he asked.

"Well," said the collector, "I haven't collected the whole of it; but I did collect my half. He hasn't paid me a cent since. I keep after him, but it's just as you said when you gave me the bill—he hasn't any conscience about it."

Modeling in Rags.

It was the fashion of a little time ago, to think scorn of the woolwork screens, the paper flowers, or the wax figures made by the women of the past, but now they are eagerly sought and added to collections of articles illustrating home life.

History repeats itself, and to this busy athletic age has come a wave of the old finger-work fashion. Lately it was pictures made with feathers, now it is little figures made from rags. These last were the idea of Mme. Wolkoff, nee Princess Troubetskoy, formerly of the Russian imperial court, when at Petrograd, where the little figures were sold for the benefit of Russian soldiers. Since Mme. Wolkoff has been in England she has modeled little statuettes of well-known people, all in characteristic attitude and lifelike appearance. Odd pieces of rag have been manipulated to make these charming little figures, which vie with the paper modeling and the wax groups of the past.—Christian Science Monitor.

Breaking a Land-Clearing Record.

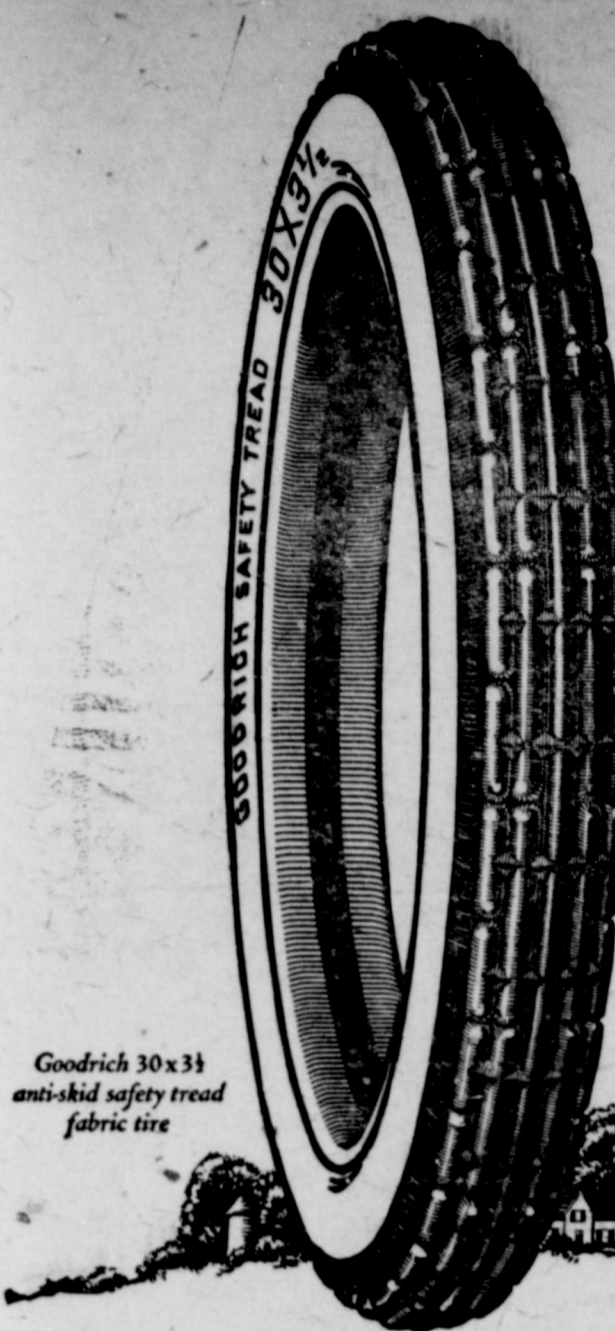

A total of 18,000 acres of land in Marinette county, Wisconsin, were cleared during the season of 1920. This is a record, and the increase will represent at least $1,000,000 a year in crops. The closing of the task was marked by a great blast of an acre of stumps near Wausaukee. At this point 158 sticks of dynamite were set off simultaneously as an electric impulse was transmitted by a presiding official who closed a switch. A land clearing school and 57 educational meetings were part of the campaign that made their efforts so successful, and explosives to the extent of 14 carloads were used in the undertaking.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

White Gold as Platinum.

It is an easy matter for the metallurgist to make an alloy with gold as a basis that has all the appearance of platinum and in London, recently, a great many persons have been "taken in" by the competition, paying platinum prices for jewelry afterwards found to be an inferior material.

For Japanese Women.

An important advance toward the emancipation of Japanese womanhood was made recently when the house of representatives in Tokyo adopted a bill granting women the right to attend political meetings.

BARBER SHOPS, BAKERIES, AND RESTAURANTS AFFECTED BY NEW HEALTH LAWS

Five health laws enacted by the last session of the Texas Legislature become effective June 12, 1921.

The first law covers the operation of barber shops and beauty parlors by requirements and inspections which insure the safety of patrons. It forbids the employment of a barber who is known to have a communicable disease or with skin infection and requires the sterilization of all tools used after each customer is cared for. No towel which has not been washed and boiled since last used may be used again and a fresh cover must be placed on the head rest of a barber's chair for each customer. A person infected with an inflamed face or a skin disease may be shaved only if individual cup, brush and razor are provided.

The act of the Legislature providing for the sanitation of all food shops and restaurants and requires an examination of all food handlers at least every six months. The law provides that all dishes and utensils used in the serving of food must be sterilized in boiling water before being used. It forbids the employment of any person unless such person shall present a certificate of freedom from communicable and infectious diseases not more than one week prior to applying for work. Any employee found with communicable diseases at the semi-annual examinations must be discharged.

The third of the new health laws to become effective June 12 regulates the operation and provides for the sanitation and the purity of products of bakeries operated in Texas. It first requires the sanitation and cleanliness of bakeries and the persons engaged in the business, forbidding the use of tobacco by the bakers and the employment of any person suffering with an infectious or contagious disease. The law establishes the weight of loaves of bread at sixteen ounces, or one pound, twenty-four ounces, or one and one-half lbs., and a thirty-two ounces or two pounds and forbids the manufacture of loaves made in any other weight. It forbids the adulteration of the products of bakeries and the use of materials which are spoiled or which are injurious to health.

Another law to become effective June 12 provides for the operation and regulation of maternity homes or "baby farms." The law requires the licensing of such institutions by the State Board of Health. It provides for frequent inspections and requires a full report of each birth within 24 hours.

The fifth of the new laws require the administration of prophylactic drops in the eyes of each newborn infant to prevent blindness, and provides that such prophylactic drugs may be obtained free from the State Board of Health.
