BRADY CLEANS UP ON COLEMAN TEAM WED'DAY

The Brady ball team Wednesday went to Coleman and gave the citizens of that place an opportunity to see a real ball team in action—and they left no question of doubt as to Brady's ability to deliver the goods.

Between 150 and 200 Brady rooters accompanied the team, and together with something like a thousand Coleman fans, saw the Brady team give the Coleman aggregation a drubbing to the tune of 5 to 3.

Coleman had materially strengthened their team with West Texas league players, Hart, the left-fielder being of Abilene, Burt, catcher, being the Ballinger back stop, Wilson, second baseman, of Sweetwater, and Gideon, center, of Corsicana. Consequently their hopes of copping the game ran high, and they were vociferous in cheering their team during the early stages of the game.

Collins, Coleman's first man at the bat, led off with a three-base hit off Robertson, and brought in Coleman's tally in the first inning, which served to set the Coleman fans wild. In the third, Coleman scored another tally, but in the last half of the same frame, Brady scored two runners, tying the score, and following which Coleman was steadily outplayed all around.

Brady's scoring was started by Buck Bailey's three-bagger, scoring the man ahead of him, and later getting across home plate himself on Penn's safe hit.

In the 4th, Collins was struck on the head by a pitched ball, but aside from this, Robertson, Brady's crack monad artist, had perfect control and was never in difficulty. The Coleman swatters failed to solve his delivery, and when they did manage to land on the sphere, it was almost invariably for a high pop-up. On the other hand, Brady did some notable stick work, and kept the outfielders nerves jumpy and the players edging back towards the tall weeds. In fact, they drove Coleman's mainstay, "Smoky Joe," from the box in the 8th inning. All the Brady boys played jam-up good ball, and won praise from even the most partisan Colemanites.

The following was the lineup of Players:

ton will not preside at future games between Brady and Coleman, as his services are so efficient as to warrant his being drafted by one of the major leagues.

The Brady folks have much to say of the universal courtesy and attention shown them during their stay at Coleman. A section of the grandstand was reserved for the visitors, and everything done to make their stay a pleasant one.

It is now being planned to endeavor to get Coleman to come to Brady for a series of games during the reunion. Definite announcement will be made later.

FIRE YESTERDAY NOON DESTROYS REGINNING AT PURDY GIN—$2,000 LOSS

REGINNING PLANT, INSTALLED ONLY LAST SUMMER, IS COMPLETELY DESTROYED AND CONDENSER AND BALED AND LOOSE COTTON BURN.

Fire originating in the re-ginning plant at the Purdy gin at 11:30 yesterday morning completely destroyed the reginning outfit, damaged the condenser at the main gin plant, and caused loss in both baled and loose cotton, the sum total of which will approximate $2,000. The fire originated while the baling of some loose cotton was in progress. Effective work with the gin fire hose, together with timely aid on the part of the fire boys' chemical apparatus, confined the blaze and limited what might easily have proven a most destructive fire.

At the time of the fire, the gin was being operated to reg'n some loose cotton. The reginning was housed in a building adjoining the main plant on the east. It had been installed only last summer at a cost of about $1,000. This plant was entirely destroyed, the loss being regarded as total. The condenser, located in the main building, was badly damaged, as was also the bale in the press, a bale of cotton laying near at hand and a quantity of loose cotton samples.

In all, the loss is estimated at close to $2,000, with loss fully covered by insurance. If fire should visit you today, are you safe? Would your loss be fully covered by insurance? If not, why not? The premium rate is low, and the protection comes in time of the greatest need. "Better Safe than Sorry." See us today. Anderson & Carrithers.

Death of Mrs. Fred Wulff.

The sad news of the death of Mrs. Fred Wulff, mother of F. R. and H. A. Wulff of Brady, was received by wire here Thursday, demise having occurred at El Paso at 5:30 Thursday morning. The news proved a great shock, as both Messrs. Harry and F. R. Wulff had only returned the past week from El Paso, leaving their mother much improved from a serious operation, and apparently on the high road to recovery.

Wednesday a message was sent telling of a sudden turn for the worse and the death message was received only a few hours later.

H. A. Wulff left immediately overland Thursday for Abilene, where he took the train for El Paso. F. R., who was enroute with his wife to Battle Creek, Mich., received the message in Fort Worth, and left for that point for El Paso. Meanwhile, Mrs. F. R. Wulff is continuing her journey to Battle Creek in the company of her son, Fred, Jr., and her sister, Mrs. John Wall.

To the family is extended the sympathy of all in their affliction.

B. D. BLACK IS NAMED MANAGER OF HOUSTON FARM BUREAU WAREHOUSE

GEORGE ELLINGER, A. & M. COLLEGE GRADUATE, SUCCEEDS BLACK AS McCULLOCH COUNTY AGENT EFFECTIVE NEXT WEDNESDAY, 20TH

B. D. Black, McCulloch County Agricultural Agent, and local leader in the Farm Bureau movement, has been named manager of the Farm Bureau Warehouse at Houston, Texas, according to advice received here by Mrs. Black and local friends. Mr. Black has accepted the position, and has tendered his resignation as county demonstration agent, effective at once. Mr. Black has been in Houston the past week or so on matters pertaining to the Farm Bureau pooling movements, and because of his prominence and activity in the organization work, his accession to this important office comes as no surprise to his many friends.

Mr. Black is expected home next Sunday, at which time he will make arrangements for the removal to Houston, and where his family expects to join him the latter part of August. During the number of years he has been employed in McCulloch county, Mr. Black has proven himself a live, progressive citizen, and put all his soul into the work at hand, with the result that he has been accounted one of the best among the agricultural agents of West Texas.

Believing in the importance of the service to be rendered by the Farm Bureau to his constituents, he threw himself heartily into the work of putting the organization of that institution on a firm footing, and his appointment as manager is a well deserved recognition of his labors. Brady citizens will regret to lose Mr. Black and his estimable family, and they will be greatly missed in local business and religious circles. Nevertheless, all will join in wishing them farewell and godspeed. According to a telegram received yesterday from A. L. Smith, district farm agent at Lampasas, George Ellinger has been named to succeed Mr. Black as county demonstration agent. Mr. Ellinger is an A. & M. college graduate. He will begin his duties here on next Wednesday, the 20th. Mr. Ellinger may be assured of a hearty welcome from McCulloch county citizens, and earnest co-operation in the fulfilling of the important office to which he has been named.

PEAR VALLEY PIECES

Death of Miss Willie Baisden Causes Sorrow in Community
Pear Valley, Texas, July 12
Editor Brady Standard:
Quite a gloom of sorrow was cast upon our entire community Saturday eve, when word was received here that Miss Willie Baisden of this place, had died at the Brady Sanitarium, where she had undergone a very serious operation for appendicitis. Willie had been sick only a few days at the time of her death. In the passing away of this dear girl, Pear Valley has lost one of its best and most popular young ladies, and to you dear mourning loved ones we extend our deepest sympathy. Weep not as for those who have no hope; Willie isn't dead but has fallen asleep to await the arrival of those who were so dear to her that had to be left behind till God, says so, as He did to Willie, "It is enough, come up higher."

Little Jack Schooley, who was bitten by a rattle snake July 4th, is doing nicely at this writing.
Grandma Davee, who is visiting her son and family, Will DaFee, has been right sick for the past several days but is much better now.
Dorothy Slaughter, who has been suffering from an attack of typhoid fever, is reported better at this writing.
A good rain is badly needed at this writing; gardens and some feed stuff is suffering for rain. Stock water is getting low again.
Most everyone is up with their work.
The Christian meeting is still in progress at this place.
Miss Lola Bullock is visiting with friends at McKavett.

Waldrip Expecting Big Crowd at Rebekeh Picnic Saturday.

Waldrip, Texas, July 12
Editor Brady Standard:
Prospects for crops are now better than they have been in several years. The feed is already made, and the cotton is rapidly improving, and if the weevils don't get it, there will be an enormous crop.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Briscoe are now in Rising Star visiting relatives and friends.

Misses Lois and Emma Bratton returned Saturday from a visit in East Texas among friends and relatives and reported a most enjoyable vacation.

Mr. Elbert Briscoe was called to his home in Pecan Gap on account of the illness of his sister.

The Waldrip ball team went to Lohn and played a game Saturday and lost; the score was 11 to 3.

The Rebekeh of this place are planning a picnic the 23rd, and are expecting a large crowd. All kinds of amusements and a real good time. Everyone is invited to come and bring a basket well filled.

Mr. Hollnad and his two sons, Warren and Oscar, took a flying trip to North Texas the first of the week, and reported a fine time with the exception of "lodging" in the river for about an hour.

WONDER WORDS.

Wonder, Or., July 5th.
Editor Brady Standard:

Wonder why a pet cat will run in front of your feet to get itself stepped on and then do the same thing over and over again every chance it gets?

Here it is July and we can't get any onions at all. Not any green ones, even; large enough to eat. While Amos Keeter has had such large ones for about a month. The first onions we get in Oregon are shipped from Texas and Mexico. They are crated in patent slat crates and they are of the Bermuda variety. But we have been unable to get any so far this season. All kinds of garden stuff is a month or two later here than there. I also see where a Citizen had ripe melons last month. Melons here will not be ripe till the latter part of August and may not be till September. This will enable you to realize the difference in the seasons of the two countries.

My letter to the department of agriculture asking for information upon the subject of the use of tractors and horses upon the farm, has been forwarded from one department of the department to another and in consequence I have received several letters upon the subject; besides three or four bulletins treating upon the important subject which shows that it is a vital issue to the farmer. Here is one of the letters recently received; and kind editor if you care to print it I shall still say:

"O. I. C. U. R. RIGHT."

United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.
June 24, 1921.

Mr. J. T. Roberson,
Postmaster,
Wonder, Oregon.

Dear Sir:

Your letter of June 13th, requesting information on the practicability of raising horses for the future, has been referred to this office for reply. According to survey taken in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois late in 1920, the cost of plowing with the tractor was slightly less than with horses. The tractor was also more economical where a combination hitch of the disk and harrow or of a double disk was made. With all other farm operations, the cost of power when furnished by horses was slightly less than when furnished by tractors. These conditions were found under extreme cost of horse feed while under early 1921 conditions, even the cost of plowing was lower with horses than with tractors. Data indicates that the tractor is a supplementary or auxiliary power, rather than a complete substitute for the horse.

We are asking Mr. Wayne Dinsmore, Secretary of the Horse Association of America, to send you available leaflets of men who are strongly in favor of the horse for city use.

Very truly yours,
J. O. WILLIAMS,
Senior Animal Husbandman.

ROCHELLE RUMBLINGS.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Knight Proud Parents of Twin Boys.

We are at present having some very hot dry weather and are needing rain very bad. If we don't get it in a few days the corn will be cut very short. The cotton, though, is doing splendidly, and if the farmers can keep down the boll weevils there will be an abundant crop of cotton. But hear complaint of the little pest occasionally but do hope the hot sun will cripple them sufficiently that they won't be able to do much damage.

The thresher was in our midst last week and it seems that the grain has turned out better than was expected. But oh, that price, and so many farmers who are not prepared to hold their oats for a better price. Hence the sacrifice of a year's labor in this product.

The native or flying hopper is doing much damage to the crops in the Deep Creek community, eating up both cotton and corn. They eat the foliage and then the shock and don't stop till they have eaten the grain off the cob and just as far into the cob as it is possible to go. Also eat up the heads on maize and other similar grains, but they seem to be dying now. The damage already done is inestimable.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sellman were called one day last week to the bedside of her sick sister, Miss Mollie Conley, but her trouble was of short duration as she was some better when her sister reached her, and was able for them to leave for home on Sunday.

Mrs. Lou Townsend was married Sunday afternoon to Mr. Arthur Prater of Katemey. Best wishes of this entire community go out to them, especially to Lou, as she has lived here for years and numbers her friends by her acquaintances.

Mrs. May Tyson, daughter of Mrs. Nannie Sellman, accompanied by her brother, Howard, and also sister, Nell, came in last week from Mullin for a visit with her mother and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Oldman visited in the home of Orville Cottles Sunday.

Mr. Claud Knight and wife are the proud possessors of a bouncing pair of twin boys since last Friday. Mother and sons are doing nicely, and also the little one who some time back had the misfortune to swallow some lye. Since that time it has been doing as well as could be expected, but can eat no solid food and exists on condensed milk.

Willie Williams and wife are rejoicing over the arrival of a fine boy in their home, who came Tuesday of last week to gladden the hearts of both parents.

Brother Campbell, the Christian minister from Brady, delivered a very interesting sermon here Sunday, and baptized two converts in the afternoon.

The announcement of a very sad death near Mercury, of a friend of this writer, came here last week—that of Mr. Luther Stephens—leaving a family of orphans, indeed. The wife and mother preceded him some nine years ago.

Big Barbecue at Fredonia Tuesday Largely Attended.
 Voca, Texas, July 12.

Editor Brady Standard:

For the first time in a long while we are beginning to need rain, altho' corn is made, and it may be better on cotton not to have rain now, as the weevil cannot work quite so fast in dry weather. But some who do not know anything about the weevil will ask, "Why?" The reason is because when it is so dry and hot, the punctured squares will fall off and dry up and the young weevil will die. But I suppose nearly everyone knows this.
 When it begins to get dry, then is when those irrigation fellows come in for their share, for they have all the water they are entitled to have the truck to sell.

Henry Miller and wife of Richland Springs were up last week visiting old friends and relatives, and while here purchased one of those fine, blooded pigs of D. H. Henderson's, and took it home with them.

By the way, this writer has been saying for a long time that this part of the country was the best part of Texas for the raising of all kinds of truck and vegetables. And now comes Dr. Jackson of Voca and tells me that one of the men on his place has in one acre of onions, and, while they have not pulled but a few rows, according to the weight of these, the acre will turn out 12,000 lbs of onions. If this isn't a record, what is a record?

Figuring these onions at 5c per lb, it totals up $600 per acre. And one acre in tomatoes at a very reasonable price, will exceed $600 per acre.

must tell you about the big barbecue at Fredonia last Tuesday. Those people have a custom of pulling off these
 This writer has been at all of them, and have thought some of them could not be beat, but I must say that this one was the best of all by far, and all who missed it, missed the best barbecue of their life. They had fifteen goats and eleven beeves all barbecued to the taste and praise of all. It was estimated that there was 5,000 people on the ground. All ate to their full satisfaction, and there was lots left over. It was estimated that there were 1,000 cars on the ground.
 The first barbecue I ever attended at Fredonia, there were no cars, nor was such a thing thought of. All conveyance was by wagons, buggies and hacks. There would be hundreds of horses and mules tied in the bottoms—but now only a few horses with saddles on could be seen, and these were ridden there to rope goats on. I have wondered what change the next two decades will bring about. Time only will tell.
 Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Campbell of Hico have been here for several days visiting the lady's two uncles, Messrs. D. H. and W. W. Henderson.
 Mr. Campbell is connected with the Waco Manufacturing Co., and was looking after the interest of his company in Brady, and other towns in

ROCHELLE NEWS.

Mrs. Lou Townsend and Mr. Arthur Prater married Sunday.
 Rochelle, Texas, July 11
 Editor Brady Standard

Well here I am again, just can't keep from writing.

Revs. Mason and Walter Lobb, the Nazarine ministers, closed a very good meeting here last Sunday a weeks ago. Several conversions were made. The meeting has been a great help to our little town. May God bless these preachers as they go from place to place conducting revivals.

The Baptist revival will begin next Friday night. Everybody invited.

Mrs. S. Elliott, mother of George Lockwood, who has been visiting her son and wife for several days, returned to her home at Brownwood last Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Burt has been on the sick list the past few days.

Last reports from Miss Opal Mitchell were that she was some better. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Grandma Cates and grandchildren are moving from the place where they now live to her own place in the north part of town.

Prayer meeting was held at the Verdell home last Friday afternoon. There will be prayer meeting at Mrs. Verdell's home every Friday afternoon. All you ladies that can, come.

Mr. and John Wilson received word here that they are to have a new name now. The title being Grandma and pa. The proud parents were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams of Deep Creek.

Mrs. Freda Hurd and daughters, Misses Alma and Nina, Mrs. Elliott of Brownwood, Mrs. Geo. Lockwood and Rev. Walter Lobb, were invited to an ice cream feast at Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hurd's home. They all report a fine time.

Mrs. Lou Townsend became the happy bride of Mr. Arthur Prater of Katy, last Sunday. We wish for the happy young couple all the happiness possible.

Well I must close. When around Dinty Moore's come to see us.
 MRS. JIGGS.

FATE OF COUNTRY EDITOR.

The country editor is a millionaire without money, a congressman without a job, a king without a throne. He backs every man who can do things for the town and community whether they back him or not. He constructs without a hammer or saw, builds a railroad without spikes or rails and farms without a plow. He runs a butchershop in the journalistic world and deals out brains cheap for cash or credit. He loves those who advertise with him as he loves a brother. The editor is a teacher, a lawyer, a preacher, and he sends truth out to save souls and is himself condemned. He heals the wounded, cares for the dying and rescues the perishing and starves himself when a ham sandwich would jerk him from the jaws of death.—Overton Post.

Lesson in Manners.

Chicago school teachers are going to teach the three R's in the future, for hereafter they will train children in manners.

Miss Fannie Smith, dean of Wendell Phillips High school, has written a book which is considered the Hoyle of etiquette and every school child will be urged to obtain a copy.

How can a girl be a lady, the book asks, if she—

Crosses her knees on the elevated trains?

Chews gum in public?

Receives gentlemen friends on the street corners?

Tells her friends in the movie what George said to her and what she said to George?

Sings ragtime?

Toddles?

Wiggles?

Rouges?

And how can a boy measure up to the standards of Chesterfield if he—

Lolls in front of pool halls, flicking an amiable eye at the girls?

Monopolizes a popular girl's dance program?

Ignores the wallflower?

Remains at a girl's home until after 10 o'clock?

Dances cheek to cheek?

Holds hands in his pockets?

Whistles?

Runs?

Puts gum in girls' pigtails?

HOUSTON BUSINESS MAN IS DELIGHTED

Dalton Beard Says He Eats Better, Sleeps Better and Feels Better Now.

"Put me down for a firm believer in Tanlac, for when I tell you it has helped me over troubles that bothered me for three years I am giving you the plain unvarnished facts," said Dalton D. Beard, 223 Lennox Ave., a well-known and popular young business man of Houston, Texas.

"I don't know when I have found anything that did me as much good as Tanlac and I sure don't mind telling people about it, for it delivers the goods. I was in a run-down, nervous condition, was frequently bilious and nearly always constipated, having awful headaches every little while which seemed to be getting more and more frequent and was so restless at night I could hardly sleep at all. I used to get up in the morning feeling heavy and all worn out and wouldn't feel very much better during the day. I felt sure it was my stomach that caused this trouble, for nothing I ate agreed with me.

"I would be hard to satisfy if I wasn't pleased with what Tanlac did for me and there is hardly anything good enough for me to say about it. I am eating three good hearty meals a day now, am rid of the nervous headaches and every last thing resembling in any way stomach trouble. I eat better, sleep better and feel better, and no reasonable man could ask more of a medicine.

Tanlac is sold in Brady by Trigg Drug Co., in Mercury by J. T. Matlock, in Rochelle by C. W. Carr, and by leading druggists everywhere.

The following announcement will be of interest to the many Brady friends of the bride:

Mr. and Mrs. O. Galloway announce the engagement of their daughter Alma Jewel to Mr. Clyde D. Pemberton of Fort Worth, Texas the wedding to take place in that city on July twentieth nineteen hundred twenty-one.

Miss Galloway is one of Brady's most lovable and attractive young ladies, and has a wide circle of friends in Brady. For the past five or six years she has made her home with her aunt in Fort Worth, while holding a responsible position with a large department store. All will rejoice with her in her anticipated marriage, and wish for her a world of happiness.

Davis-Joyce.

An announcement received recently by Brady friends of the groom, read as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Davis announce the marriage of their daughter Winnie Leona to William L. Joyce Thursday, June the ninth nineteen hundred and twenty At Home 924 So. Henderson St. Fort Worth, Texas Mr. Joyce is one of Brady's young men who has fared forth into the big world to seek his fortune, and who has met with a great degree of success. The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Joyce of Brady, he grew to manhood in our midst. Several years ago he located in Fort Worth, where he now holds the responsible position of bookkeeper with the Stockyards Co. His recent announcement marks the crowning success of his life, and all his many friends rejoice with him and extend congratulations and best wishes.

Reception for Mrs. Yantis.

One of the most enjoyable events of the social season was the reception tendered Mrs. George Yantis of Abilene on last Saturday afternoon, from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock, by Mrs. W. J. Yantis, and the Misses Yantis, whose guest she is. The Yantis home was most attractively adorned with pot plants, ferns and blue bells. The dining table had an embroidered centerpiece with a basket of blue bells tied with a marine bow.

Little Miss Louie Marie Schwenker and Master Yantis McCollum received the cards in baskets.

As the guests entered the reception room, they were received by Mrs. McCollum and carried to the living room, where the following formed the receiving line: Mrs. W. J. Yantis, Mrs. George Yantis, Mrs. C. Crawford, Mrs. Sarah Newbold, Mrs. F. W. Lazalier, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. Bob Rutherford, Mrs. J. G. McCall, Mrs. Duke Mann and Mrs. Jim Mann conducted the guests to the dining room, where frozen punch, sandwiches and pickles were served.

Assisting in the serving were Misses Marjorie McCall, Carmen Anderson, Nola Meers, Willie Florence Yantis. The guests were then conducted to Mrs. Price Dixon of Dallas, Mrs. R. W. Turner and Mrs. J. S. Anderson to the bed room, where the following were in the receiving line: Misses Erin Yantis, Rebecca Francks, Leslie and Norma Samuel, Mrs. Jack Ragsdale, Mrs. Knight of Abilene. Mrs. Duke Mann and Mrs. Jack Ragsdale added to the afternoon's complete enjoyment with vocal and instrumental selections.

About one hundred guests called. His bride is a most charming and talented young lady, the daughter of L. C. Davenport of Richland Springs, where she was born and grew to young womanhood. During the past year she taught in the Brady schools, winning the favor of pupils and patrons alike by her kindly and gracious manners. Mrs. Melton will again teach in the Brady schools the coming year. To the happy couple is extended the congratulations and best wishes of their host of friends.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

J. H. White Tuesday tendered his resignation as a member of the advisory board of the Brady Water & Light Works. Mr. White states he believes the company now to be over its worst trials, and that it is rapidly getting upon a firm financial footing.

P. A. Campbell and family left on Sunday for a two-weeks' sojourn in the Davis mountains. L. Ballou has charge of the district clerk's office during Mr. Campbell's absence.

Mrs. Fletcher Erickson is reported able to be up from her recent operation, and her many friends are glad to see her able to be about once more.

Lee Quicksall was here from Cleburne Wednesday on a brief visit, and states that he is preparing to move back to Brady, with the intention of joining his father, J. F. Quicksall, in farming operations in the Dodge community. Lee has been in the jewelry business at Cleburne the past seven years. His mother will accompany him back there and assist the family in making preparation for their removal back here.

Our good friend, Miles Abernathy, says that someone is always bringing the editor something, so he thought he would follow suit. Accordingly upon his return from Mercury last Tuesday, he brought us a fine lot of big, juicy, red-cheeked Elbertas from the orchard of his brother-in-law, R. B. McCarty, at Mercury. He says Mr. McCarty has between 800 and 1,000 bushels of the Elbertas now ripening in his orchard.

Do tomatoes do well in McCulloch? They surely do! A quarter acre of land will produce just about as much as a trucker can deliver and sell. At least that has been the experience of Camp San Saba irrigation farmers in past seasons. Now comes S. M. Fleming of Camp San Saba, and illustrates what he can do by presenting us with a stalk of large tomatoes, four in one bunch weighing two and a quarter pounds. Then he had another stalk containing seven smaller tomatoes in one bunch, the total weight of which was three and one-eighth lbs. For tomatoes McCulloch can't be beat.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Steffins, and son, Karl Keller, have returned here from Ranger with the intention of making their home here, both because of Mrs. Steffins' impaired health, and because of the financial depression in Ranger. Karl resigned his position as express agent at Ranger last April for the purpose of engaging in the produce business. In his new line of endeavor he was meeting with great success when the two remaining banks at Ranger closed, tying up all funds and paralyzing all industry. Karl says the next morning two of the biggest restaurants in town failed to open their doors. At present one of the banks has reopened, and depositors are permitted to withdraw as much as $10.00 per day, which sum, however, does not enable the carrying on of a business. A plan has been evolved whereby script is issued in the amount of one's deposits, and by this means the business of the town is kept going. In all, Ranger originally had five banks. First a private bank closed, then a national bank, and when the third bank closed, the depositors became scared and started a run on the other two banks, which forced them also to close. Karl says he was second from the paying tellers' window at the bank, when the window was slammed down with the announcement that no more checks would be paid. As indicating the big slump in business at Ranger, Karl says when he went there something like two years ago, he had 62 men employed in the express office under him; now the agent and four assistants do all the work.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Nettie Bellamy arrived Sunday from Fort Worth for a visit here. S. L. Kincaid was a business visitor here from the Rochelle community Wednesday.

Miss Gussie Rice is enjoying a vacation, and meanwhile B. A. Hallum is looking after the office duties at Brady Auto Co.

Prof. Henry E. Meyer, wife and children have returned to their home in Brownwood after a visit with W. W. Jones and family.

Mrs. Sam Wilensky, who underwent a serious operation about two weeks ago, is reported doing nicely and showing improvement.

Miss Bessie Rice leaves Sunday on a two-weeks' vacation, spending one week at home on the ranch, and then joining a party at Fife on a fishing trip.

Miss Pinkie Jones left last night for Mineral Wells, where she will visit several days with friends; then she will go to Dallas for a five-weeks' course in piano.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Phenix, daughter, Ida Mae, and sons, Lewis and Columbus, returned Monday morning to Fort Worth following a two-weeks' visit here with C. C. Ledbetter and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Branscum returned Wednesday from Dallas, at which place they had attended the wedding of Mrs. Branscum's sister, Miss Yrma Davenport, to Mr. P. B. Melton.

Miss Mozelle Glenn and sister, Mrs. Victor Wolf, left the first of the week for Maudlin, Texas, on the Gulf Coast, where they will spend several weeks as guests of Mrs. Maggie McCann.

Miss Mary McKnight came over from Carlsbad Wednesday for a visit with Miss Maggie White. She was accompanied here by John McKnight, Miss Helen Webb and Cornell Clerg, who returned to Carlsbad the same evening.

Leo Moore and family have just returned from a several weeks' auto trip out into New Mexico, visiting at Tularosa, the Sacramento mountains, Cloudcroft, and other places. They report a most enjoyable trip, and feel greatly benefited by their stay in the higher altitudes.

Carl Shepherd, The Standard's efficient linotype machinist, in company with his brother-in-law, R. S. Glaze, of Copperas Cove, and Matt Moore of the Sentinel force, enjoyed a camping and fishing trip on the San Saba river the latter part of the week, as part of a several weeks' vacation.

From Evangelist Campbell.

Due to the fact that our Rev. M. B. Harris, who ministers to the church at San Saba, has to undergo an operation, I have been urged to supply for him in his absence, and will take that field for a short time beginning Sunday, July 17th. From there, I shall take up work in the Temple district, with headquarters either at Temple or Waco.

I wish to express my deep gratitude to the people of Brady, and especially to the men and women of the Christian church, for their excellent treatment.

Now you have a pastor who will soon move among you as a shepherd of the flock, and not as I was, a sort of an efficiency or "deficiency" doctor. I am grateful for the many ties of warm, true friendship, and whatever I have done for the church and community towards promoting principles and ideals that were of value, I have done with a sincere and willing heart. I, therefore, exhort and plead that as a church whose successful future depends largely upon the individual, you should realize in full measure your obligations and responsibilities, and should stand cooperatively with your pastor, with sincere, devoted, four-square lives, and he will lead you by God's Grace into fields of abundant service and happiness.

I am, to one and all, your friend and brother.

What is the Proper and Scriptural Mode of Baptism, and Who are Proper Subjects For?

The Baptism of the Holy Spirit was never by immersion. Acts 8:14-16 Acts 2:14-17. Joel 2:28-31.

We are all baptized by one Spirit into one body. 1 Corinthians, 12:13. Now have our hearts been sprinkled from evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water. Hebrew 10:15-22.

For the promise is unto you, and your children, and as many as are afar off, even as many as our Lords calls. Acts 2:39.

That the purpose of God might stand, the elder shall serve the younger (spoken of unborn children.) Romans 9:10-13.

There are three that bear record in Heaven, The Father, The Son, and The Holy Ghost and there are three that bear witness in earth, The Spirit, The Water, and The Blood, and these three agree in one. 1 John, 5:6-10.

John said "I Baptize With Water" (not in water) John 1:26. He that sent me to baptize "with water" (not in water.) John 1:26-31-33.

When the Eunuch asked Philip to ride with him, Philip heard him reading Isaiah's Prophecy concerning the suffering and offices of Christ, in which Isaiah said, "So shall He Sprinkle Many Nations." Isaiah 52:15. It is a fact that the Books of the Bible were not then separated into Chapters and verses.

When Philip baptized the eunuch Ezekial also prophesied of Christ "Then Will I Sprinkle Clean Water Upon You." Ezek. 36:24-30. Peter said, "Then Remember I the Word of the Lord, how that he said John indeed baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost." Acts 11:16-17.

Not one of the cases where Jesus came up out of the water says that He was baptized IN WATER. Neither does the baptism of the eunuch say that he baptized him IN WATER. Now then who are proper subjects for baptism? Let Paul answer. "Who are Fit Subjects for Baptism? Let Paul Speak."

For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the believing wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the believing husband, else were your children unclean, but now are they Holy. If Holy, then they are entitled to Baptism. Isaiah 44:3. Joel 2:16-28-31. Acts 2:14-18-39.

The Artist and His Helpmeet

By MARTHA M'WILLIAMS.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mamselle told me the story—Mamselle, who exhales the aroma of old Paris here amid the turmoil of big New York. We were part of the picture in a gathering of celebrities—the most celebrated, of course, set in the forefront of battle, high on a rostrum for all to see and hear. Never mind what for—our talk didn't in the least interrupt anything. We were rather far back, and in a sort of eddy that saved us from crowding yet gave us a clear view.

"Look! O, the good fellow, bon! bon!" Mamselle ejaculated as a fine, straight figure, not overly tall but crowned with a face that was like a benediction, came clearer into view.

"He is good! So good! Also he is great. But his wife is greater. She made him—he will tell you so if you give him the chance. He had not need to tell me. You see, I saw the making. In Paris—the two of them were there—in a house away from all the world—except the people thick about who did not count. They paid 300 francs yearly for the small place—tiny is no name for it—but it sheltered love and art and happiness—and a real lionheart. A woman heart at that. Madame, you see yonder," nodding toward a majestic yet appealing figure beside the man.

"When they married in America he was all business—at the office all day—her people called him rising—she was happy though they had not much money—but after a little she saw he was not."

"What is it?" she asked him. He told her—he wanted to paint. "Then do it!" she said. "There is the night school. You can at least try it." But after a month he said: "It is not enough. I must have the day also." "Then take it!" she said. "We shall manage—somehow."

"He obeyed—quit his work—painted, painted. Oh, very bad things, no doubt—but somehow he could not

"He Works Too—Terribly."

By and by, unknown to her, he painted signs—in time she might have spent walking. Presently she told her: "I must have Paris." "You shall have it," she say back to him. "So they make ready to go. Somebody wished to lend them money—he will not take it. 'I might never pay it back,' he say. But they come—they find the house—she does everything in it—cooks, washes, sews, mends—makes over garments kind people send her, tends the little garden—it helps them to eat.

"She is so kind she would cook my potatoes with her own. I will not have it—she say I must not pay. I find her always smiling, always singing, clean and beautiful, her house fresh as spring—her hands never idle one minute of the day. She goes errands now and then, she reads to a blind man, she takes out the dog of a rich charcutiere. Oh, there is nothing honest she will not do to help m'sieur the artist. He works too—terribly, wasting no daylight, driving himself as though he were a troll. You do not know the trolls? We believe in my country that they could, if they chose do the work of the world, never tiring, but that they help only a little, fearing men will harness them so tight they will never get free again. I wished sometimes a great troll would help him—being so strong they must know much more than poor mortals.

"M'sieur, the artist, worked many times he made a little to it—never much. And it is in his canvas—pictures like flowers. Many times he was so gaunt with hunger that he let her ask the artist on asking. He lived on, keeping shifts, many times—

—they love on words. She darns and patches, always the lady, almost the grande dame, always the kindly human soul, eager to help all she can if by chance she find a place for helping. They belong, those two, to the soul-aristocracy, which alone is real. Maybe they loved the better, drew the closer, for the hard life. I do not know—but surely they were happy, in spite of their grim housemates.

"By and by came the third season. He sent a picture to the salon. It was hung—well hung, praised—well praised; people flocked about it—there were offers of purchase. But somehow he hung back—he wanted all the sunshine of knowing it valued, on those walls, to shine in his heart.

"But after a little while he said to madame: 'Now you may write. I will not let you starve and freeze and work fingers to the bone any longer. I am artist—I have shown it, I can paint, I can sell. Write instantly to the kind soul who would have helped us. Tell him we accept—and pocket our pride so far as not asking him to accept other security than ourselves.'

"But behold—before madame got pen and paper—came the postman with a letter from America. It said: 'I hear you are not living, but suffering—that I cannot permit to go on. Spend the money inclosed with free hearts—more will come quarterly, so long as you may need it.'

"As if that were not enough, came a dealer with a patron—who gave a price unbelievable for the salon masterpiece. Now, if he chose, he could sell it for ten times as much—even though the world has many other pictures from that same hand. M'sieur went up, up, straight up.

"But a while they kept to the small house—only making it fresh and fine within and without. 'This is how we give thanks for its shelter,' madame said. She made me sometimes come and stay with them—cooking potatoes for the unchallenged—but she did not raise them herself. She forgot nobody, slighted nobody—read now and then to the blind man, and once at least took out the wheezy dog. And the poor—I cannot tell you all she did for them—because she herself would never tell any of it.

"By and by they went other-where—I also did the same. But so long as they stayed abroad I saw them at intervals. When long after they had come home I followed them to America, they were nearly the first to welcome me and wish me luck. They are full of goodness. Poverty and privation left no scars on their souls—I think because throughout they loved so much it overflowed to life and all that live. No—I will not go to them now—leave them to the people who rejoice in them only as celebrities. But—next month I am asked for a sensore fortnight. I shall go—I shall bathe and swim in spite of my gray hair—and, talking of youth and Paris, all of us will find that they are gray.

"M'sieur says rightly God gave him a helpmeet—that without her he would have been less than nothing. I do not know—having no husband nor wife. But it seems to me it was the pulling together that brought these two into the land of heart's desire."

POLISHING THEIR OWN SHOES

Ex-Service Man Tells Bootblack Why So Many Army Men Now Take Care of Footgear.

"Gee whiz! You was a soldier, wasn't you?" asked Jimmie, the bootblack, as he got out his round box of paste and the necessary brushes and cloths. "I knew that by the button you're wearin' there. But, say mister, there's somep'n I would like to know from one of you fellers.

"Shoot ahead," said the ex-service man, leaning against the park railing in City Hall place.

"Why," began Jimmie, applying the polish, "why ain't our business as good as it was before the war? No, it ain't, mister. These young fellers who came back don't get as many shines of us as they used to. It seems to be a kinda dress occashun with 'em."

"Well, I'll tell you, Jimmie," the veteran said. "We had to shine our own in the army. When most of us got back the habit was with us, so we bought us a little box of polish and a brush. We're feelin' natural by doing them ourselves. Sorry to hurt your business, Jimmie."—New York Times.

Their Strong Point.

"Great governor!" ejaculated a hypercritical guest. "I never witnessed such a riot as your volunteer fire department stages when there is an alarm. While the fire bell is ringing they run about like wild men and yell as if being tortured. They are lucky if they do not upset the hose reel in getting it out of the shed. When they finally arrive at the fire they do little but get in each other's way, howl like dervishes, and smash things with axes until the conflagration burns itself out."

"I presume so," replied the landlord of the tavern at Wayoverbehind. "But look at their sincerity, man! They couldn't be any more deeply interested if 'twas their own homes that were bein' holocausted."—Kansas City Star.

An Even Break.

"How are you getting along, old top, in your courtship with old man Brown's daughter?" "Fair enough." "Hasn't he kicked on you burning up his coal and gas all winter?" "How could he so long as he burned up my cigars?"

FOR BRIDAL PARTY

Conventionally Correct Apparel Should Be Worn.

Souvenirs in Memory of Occasion Are Presented to Ushers, Best Man and Bridesmaids.

The costumes which may be worn by the entire bridal party are of such infinite variety that it would be impossible in this brief account to give them all, says a writer in Good Housekeeping, but it is always safe to follow the conventionally correct descriptions given here.

The bride is always dressed in white tulle, chiffon, satin, or—what is very new—cloth of silver, trimmed with old lace, if it is in the family. A train is more imposing, and should come from the shoulders, but if the veil is of tulle instead of lace, that may form the train and will give a very soft appearance.

The accessories, such as slippers, stockings, gloves and bouquet, are all of white. In fact, no color of any kind is introduced, unless orange blossoms are worn. If the bride is a divorcee or a widow, she should wear a smart afternoon or traveling gown, and a hat to match. A prayer book is often carried, while a few orchids or gardenias may be pinned at the waist in place of the conventional bouquet.

The groom, ushers, and bride's escort wear the conventional afternoon costume—cutaway coat, striped trousers, white or gray four-in-hand cravat, light or dark waistcoat, as preferred, patent leather shoes and white boutonniere.

The bridesmaids are all dressed alike in any light color scheme, with hat to match. In England they often wear bands of silver or flowers in their hair. The maid of honor and flower girls are dressed differently to distinguish them, and often there is a page and a flower girl dressed in fancy costume, after Reynolds or Van Dyke, who walk together. The favorite color of the bride is usually chosen for her bridesmaids' costumes, and great individuality may be expressed in the costuming of the wedding procession.

The bride's mother wears a smart, elaborate afternoon gown of mauve or some other dignified color, and carries or wears a small bouquet to match. The groom presents his ushers and best man with some souvenir, such as a scarfpin, sleeve links, or cigarette case in memory of the day, and the bridesmaids receive something of the same from the bride. Bracelets, lockets, brooches are always charming gifts.

FOR SUMMER COSTUME

This midsummer hat is of blue straw with a charming lining of flesh-colored georgette. A Pollu-blue velvet ribbon lends to the daintiness of the model and its drooping brim.

FASHION NOTES OF INTEREST

A wrap of gray crepe de chline is effectively trimmed with monkey fur. The skirt edge may be finished with the new diamond-shaped scalloping.

Shells, straw flowers, leather cut-outs and wooden beads trim the spring hats.

A frock of blue linen is trimmed with applique lines of a contrasting color.

A chic hat of black milan is faced with red and trimmed with burnt goose.

White stockings are worn with black slippers and with evening frocks.

A cross-over vestee of Roman silk is worn under an Eton jacket of navy poret twill.

Parasols of silk duvetyne are lined with chiffon and trimmed with bunches of fruit.

Sport shoes are trimmed with colored leathers to match one's sweater or girdle.

Checked taffeta is effectively combined with plain taffeta in a smart afternoon gown.

The waistline varies greatly, sometimes high, sometimes low and sometimes normal.

A frock of cotton etamine is trimmed with motifs of cretonne embroidered in floss.

It seems that the added length of skirts will be in uneven hangs and drooping side panels.

"MAGIC VALLEY" OF THE RIO GRANDE —THE EDITOR'S IMPRESSIONS OF THE SOUTHERNMOST POINT OF THE STATE

Those who have read my first two articles concerning the Texas Press Association trip to the so-called "Magic Valley" of the Rio Grande, have doubtless come to the conclusion that this narrative is a rather long-drawn out affair. "Smatter of fact, it so happens that some weeks the article is crowded out for lack of space, and again at other times for lack of time to set the article in mind. So for those who find this disconnected story of interest, we here present another chapter. If you do not care for it, there's good reading on the other side of this sheet.

Little as readers of The Standard may imagine, I made my debut as a movie star at McAllen—the occasion was the presence of a Pathe Weekly representative who evidently desired to show the world what a bunch of real editors looked like.

Most enjoyable features upon the program of entertainment provided by the citizens of McAllen were the various trips and banquets tendered the Press gang. One of the first of these was at noon the day after our arrival, when we were carried to the McColl club house, about a mile and a half from McAllen, where we were treated to an elegant chicken roast dinner, furnished by the citizens of McAllen and served, not by negro or Mexican waiters, but by the good ladies of McAllen themselves. And it was a wonderful dinner at that. The long veranda of the club house, together with the ball room, was set with tables, and amply took care of the 300 or more guests. The chicken was supplemented with every imaginable appetizing dish, and topped off with pie a la mode. This was the first of a continuous program of such delightful occasions; in fact, so many entertainments of this nature, and so many trips to the various towns of the Valley had been planned, that the program had to be curtailed in order to allow time for holding the business meetings of the association. This, necessarily, caused disappointment to many of the Valley towns who had planned to entertain the press, but whom we were unable to visit.

And speaking of the club houses, these institutions appear to be a part of every community, and are admirable institutions for the entertainment of some folks and visitors alike. Each is provided with a beautiful ball room, which may be converted into a banquet hall upon occasion, and the spacious verandas provide cool and comfortable places for rest or entertainment. Most of the club houses are fitted up with sleeping apartments upstairs for the benefit of members desiring to spend the night, and a number of newspaper men were entertained at the McColl club, preferring that to the hotel accommodations. I forgot to mention the fact, but it may well be imagined that each of these clubs is provided with a model cuisine wherein were prepared those wonderful dinners as were served us.

During the afternoon of the first day, Gov. Neff made his much-quoted address before the convention in which he said that with the aid of officers who would enforce the laws, he would "make Texas so dry a man would have to be primed before he could spit." Taking the Governor at his word, a number of the gang repaired forthwith to Reynosa, on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, where they proceeded to the priming in the good "old-fashioned" way.

Before making the memorable trip to Reynosa, a part of the program was a drive to the Shary Lake and Club House, where we were tendered a watermelon feast with the compliments of John H. Shary. At first sight, Shary Land was promptly rechristened by the bunch "Fairyland." Beautiful citrus groves, beautiful fields of corn and cotton, beautiful surroundings everywhere. Would you believe that even the roads about Sharyland were kept free from weeds? The club house itself was one of the most beautiful in the Valley, and in interior decoration and appointment ranked favorably with the magnificent King ranch home at Kingsville. Adjoining was a bathing pavilion nestling alongside a gem of a lake, which covered possibly ten acres, but which was then being enlarged with a circular driveway at the new lake's edge, and which encompassed an area of about 80 acres.

Following the watermelon feast, the route lay back towards McAllen, and then heigh-ho for Reynosa. Believe me, that Reynosa road is used to the extent of being abused. We had a good driver going, and a better one coming back—so it seemed. At any rate, the former missed all but about a mile of very rough-going road, while the latter apparently knew a secret road that was good traveling all the way. After traveling some eight or ten miles we saw "Old Glory" waving on high, and knew we were still in the U. S.—and dry in spite of the gravity irrigation. The U. S. customs house is located at Hidalgo, one of the oldest towns in the Valley—and it looks the part. The brick walls of the houses have the appearance of being made of "dobe," and the entire place has a dust-covered, age-worn appearance. Ordinarily the customs officials maintain a strict watch for possible smuggling across the border, but the newspaper folks were passed without even so much as a cursory examination. Perhaps it was because the bunch generally wore ties that they were upon their honor, and for that reason made no effort to commit any unlawful act. It was related, however, that a certain representative of a supply house did acquire a bottle of wine at a cost of $12.50, U. S. A., which he concealed underneath his coat. As he was climbing up the steep bank of the Rio Grande he noticed that the soldiers had stopped and were searching a member of the party, who did not chance to have the protection of a press badge. Becoming alarmed, this salesman promptly consigned his flask of wine to the waters of the Rio Grande. You can judge his chagrin when the officers, having completed their search of the leader, passed the rest of the bunch with a nod and a wave of the hand.

To cross over into Mexico, you have to descend a very steep bank to a ferry maintained by the Mexican government—two ferries, in fact. These are nothing but big, flat-bottomed scows, which will accommodate three automobiles at a time. They are anchored to cables stretched from the American side to the Mexican side of the river. The motive power is furnished by some half-dozen Mexicans pulling on the cables with their hands, meanwhile shoving the ferry across with their feet. Fare 10c (always American) please!

Arriving on the other side, one did not have far to go, before coming to the First Chance or Last Chance (it only depended upon the direction in which you were headed) saloon. There were brush houses of rustic, or rusty, design, where one could obtain beer and other liquid refreshment, together with hot tamales, enchiladas, etc. (so I was told).

To see Reynosa one must travel a mile and a half of road, and as this section of Mexico has evidently given more attention to the appetite than to other material comforts and advancements, the roads leave much to be desired, especially as concerns fewer chug-holes. Reynosa is a very antiquated town. They use such obsolete English there as "XXX Saloon." Just what that meant my tender years did not permit me to say. Perhaps they meant it for 30c—the place looked the part anyway. Desiring to see more of the town than this depot where all the caravans apparently unloaded their human freight we climbed the chalk-dusty, sidewalkless streets to the plaza with its inevitable hero statue, common with all Mexican cities, I suppose. About the most imposing thing we saw was the sign, "American Bar" emblazoned across one of the buildings. The proprietor of this wet-goods emporium was a very crafty individual, and when he spied the real American money coming his way he promptly advanced the price of the rather unpalatable Mexican rice beer from the customary 35c per bottle to 40c per. His attention was directed to his sign on his bar mirror which gave the price of beer as 35c, but he promptly declared that price obsolete and quickly erased the tell-tale chalk marks.

Reynosa, we were told, was once a city of about 40,000 population. Today it would scarcely number a couple thousands. Villa staged a big battle at Reynosa during his warrior career, and ever since the town has had the appearance of being more than half shot. Roofless houses are to be seen on all sides; shell-marked and bullet-pecked walls. One of the scarred old victims of the battle is the cathedral, erected in 1656. An air of poverty and dejection marked everything and every inhabitant, and the invariable question that fell from the lips of the visitors was "How do they live?" There is good ranch country back of the town, we were told. The souvenir hunters had poor luck in Reynosa, and about the nearest approach to a souvenir was some pottery mugs. The hombre who presided over this establishment figured the value of these mugs at fifteen cents each, six for $1.25, or three for 65c, and verified his figures with a stub pencil and a piece of blank newspaper. There was also a dry goods store and other business establishments in the town, but they would have served the most imposing spectacle was the Mexican garrison, in garish uniforms, and the number of the soldiery apparently outdistanced that of the actual inhabitants.

In some of the better-preserved houses dwelled what was evidently the "upper crust" of society. Here attractive, black-eyed señoritas all decked out in their fiesta finery, were sedately seated before the heavily-barred high windows, with green shutters carefully folded back. One could almost imagine the romantic swains come strolling along serenading his love with his guitar.

For the first time in its history of several hundred years, Reynosa was illuminated that night in modern fashion, Col. A. D. Rogers, live wire of McAllen, having moved a Delco Light plant over, and strung lights about the plaza. This was for the barbecue furnished the press jointly by citizens of McAllen and Reynosa. I did not remain for these festivities nor did I hear the exchange of fraternal greetings between the governor of the Mexican state and Gov. Neff, who was a member of the press party. Each of these speeches had to be translated, sentence by sentence, by an interpreter, which made slow going and lacked much of being interesting.

A threatened rain storm also added to my desire to be up those slippery banks of the Rio Grande and safe on American soil, and consequently my departure was taken quite early. Many others also had had quite enough of Mexico for the time being and returned at the same time, while others prolonged their stay until after the storm broke and the rain, falling in sheets, prevented their departure. Of these, a number had to spend the night in Mexico, the ferries closing down and refusing to operate after 12:00 o'clock, possibly because of international agreement and to prevent possibility of wholesale smuggling in the darkness.

The next day the inimitable Joe Taylor, better known as State Press of the Dallas News was on the program for an address upon the subject of "Sheep-Killing Dogs." Evidently having become imbued with the spirit of the occasion as result of the Reynosa trip, he climbed on the rostrum, hung his hat on one light, and his handkerchief on the other, and smiling one of his most benign and infectious smiles he broke forth: "Senors, Senoras, Senoritas, Muchachos, Muchachos, Reynosa la boosa, la terquilla, la beerosa, mucha enjoyosa." Pausing and struggling for a moment, he then broke forth into English, telling his audience that they had witnessed the specific irrigation of the other side of the river and the gravity irrigation of this side and were, therefore, competent to judge as to which species of irrigation they would prefer.

The next most noteworthy entertainment was the drive to Mercedes, one of the older established towns of the Valley, and the banquet tendered us there. At Mercedes again the club house was the seat of entertainment, the Stewart club being a most inviting place. Here was served one of the most elaborate three-course dinners ever attended by the writer. The table decorations were water lilies composed of the hollowed out halves of squash, with pieces of oranges and grape fruit and cleverly carved carrots, forming the center of the lily. The dinner was prepared by the ladies of Mercedes, with two returned over-seas boys acting as chefs, and when one considers the amount of chicken and other good eats that can be stowed away by three hundred or more hungry editors, with appetites whetted by drives over 25 or more miles of road, the magnitude of the undertaking may well be imagined. But like all other events, the dinner was a complete success, and the wonderful hospitality of the Mercedes folks will long be recalled.

Mercedes' business section was evidently built with a view to leaving plenty room for expansion, as the business houses are quite badly scattered, but one or two, as a rule, occupying a block. The pride of Mercedes is a $30,000.00 school building just completed. The mission style of architecture, open corridors and patios, enable it to catch the cool Gulf breezes, and make it one of the most attractive buildings to be seen. Set in a five acre tract, ample opportunity is given for landscape gardeners to beautify the grounds.

Mercedes, like all the newer Valley towns, segregates the Mexican population, and they have their own school building where kindergarten, and first and second grade work is taught.

Following a delightful sojourn as guests of the hospitable citizens of Mercedes, the bunch returned to the McColl club house near McAllen where invitation had been extended for a dance there.

Leaving McAllen at noon Saturday, amidst rousing cheers and the singing of songs of praise to McAllen and all the individual citizens, and the various organizations that had given us such a delightful stay, we journeyed back to Harlingen, from which point a side trip to Brownsville was made. At Harlingen we were joined by Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hundley, who made the trip to Brownsville and Matamoros all the more enjoyable because of their presence.

Arriving at Brownsville we were at once taken captive by none other than Ulrich Carroll, who, with his sister, Mrs. W. E. Lyle, and Mr. Lyle are making their home in that city. Ulrich is traveling representative for Liggett & Myers tobacco Co., and is making all the Valley towns. It just chanced that he noticed my advance reservation on the hotel register during one of his visits to McAllen, and the result was the pleasant surprise mentioned in a former article, viz: an invitation from the Lyles to be their guest at dinner during the visit to Brownsville.

Quite naturally it afforded the greatest of pleasure to meet up with these splendid Brady folks, and to talk about "home" and home folks and happenings, and the dinner proved entirely delightful. The lemons for the lemonade were grown in the Lyle's back yard, the tree supplying them practically the year around. Master Bill Lyle, the junior member of the household, recalled with every evidence of pride, his visits and stays here in Brady with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Lyle, Sr. Will Lyle is employed as bookkeeper with the Walker-Bennett Dry Goods Co., a wholesale concern, which, though but about two years old, has already developed a great volume of business in the Valley, and is reaching out for additional trade territory in Old Mexico, extending its service as far as the city of Monterey, and carrying a stock of goods fully adequate to take care of its growing business.

A ride over the city of Brownsville with the Lyles disclosed a remarkable example of the differing modes of living, or rather, standards of living of the two peoples—Americans and Mexicans, who, in the main, compose the city's inhabitants. Unlike the other cities we saw, the population is intermingled, not only as regards residence, but also as regards intermarriage, and it is currently estimated that about 80% of the population is Mexican. The result has been that the more progressive Americans have experienced difficulty in getting the Mexicans to see the need of improved streets and thoroughfares, more modern buildings, and the like. Despite all this however, Brownsville has miles upon miles of paved streets and boulevards, and has just completed

Scarcely Comforting.

At a meeting of a Bible association an officer told a story to illustrate the fact that some people need guidance in the selection of their Bible reading. This story was a reminiscence of this officer's mission days, when a man came to one of his meetings and told of his efforts to comfort a wife as she lay upon the sickbed. "I read to her every night," said the man. "What do you read to her?" asked the mission worker. "Well, sir," said the man, "I began at the first chapter of the Book of Proverbs, and when I had finished she died!"

a ten-mile stretch of concrete highway that is an example of modern and substantial road building.

Crossing over the railroad bridge, for which a charge of 15c per auto, and 5c per passenger is customarily made, we arrive in Matamoras. It is not difficult to distinguish the Mexican streets from those of the U. S.—the chug-holes give them away. A ferry is also operated over the Rio Grande at this point, and the most antiquated specimen of a burro-drawn street car hauls pedestrians from the river bank up into the city proper of Matamoras.

Matamoras is somewhat more of a regular city than was Reynosa. They have a rather commodious and modern appearing opera house there located just across the street from the American consulate. There were more addresses of welcome and responses at this opera house, but we did not stay to hear them, despite the tempting array of glasses set out for the purpose of serving Liquid Refreshments to the visitors.

There is a new law recently promulgated in Mexico, which closes all saloons at noon Saturday and not permitting them to reopen until Monday morning. For those who knew the way, however, there were back alley institutions, according to current report, where wine could be obtained at the rate of 50c for a glass containing about two thimblefuls, and beer and liquor brought near-fabulous prices.

Under these circumstances a visit to the bull ring or to the curio shops formed the most interesting diversification. The former was a huge circular amphitheatre of wood construction at which seats for the next bull fight were being sold at some $5.00 or $6.00 per. At the time of my visit, the Mexicans did all their figuring in American money. More recently a law has gone into effect that nothing but American gold will be accepted as legal tender in Mexico, and all silver must be exchanged for Mexican silver before the Mexican shop-keepers are permitted to accept it. Also, no one is to be permitted to carry any gold whether American or Mexican, and are always charming attempts to get any more than you expect to spend.

The curio shops have some very attractive articles for sale, including intricately carved canes, wonderful Mexican drawn work, beautifully constructed baskets, most attractive blankets, and shawls that are made of cactus fibre, and which, for all the world, resemble silk.

Returning to Brownsville, we made a pop call on T. C. (Tinker) Allen, who looks not one day older than he did when he was in Brady. Tinker has a very attractive jewelry store, carries quite a large and well-selected stock, is official watch inspector for two of the railroads, and admits to a very satisfactory degree of success since going to Brownsville. He has recently taken up the local fad of hunting with target pistols, and has attained great proficiency with this little weapon. He exhibited with no small degree of pride, a kokak of himself and his bag of white wings—a very palatable game bird somewhat larger than the quail. Tinker says he can kill them at 50 yards with the target pistol.

The balance of the evening was spent at one of the country clubs, where dances and characteristic talks by Judd Mortimer Lewis of the Houston Chronicle, and others passed the evening very quickly.

Then back to our special, fond good-byes to our host and hostess of the day, and the beginning of the end was about to be reached—we were on our homeward journey.

REUNION COMMITTEES GETTING IN SOME GOOD WORK

Good work has been done by the various committees named to handle the affairs of the big U. C. V. Reunion to be staged in Brady August 3, 4 and 5th. Every indication is that nothing will be left undone towards making the affair a grand success.

The subscription committee has been active in soliciting funds and has met with encouragement on all hands.

The grounds committee has planned the arranging of the grounds in orderly and convenient fashion, and will have everything accessible, and yet permit of ample room to accommodate the immense crowds expected in attendance.

The program committee is busy at work arranging for the three days' entertainment, and, among other things, has closed a tentative agreement for a splendid band for the entire three days.

The sale of concessions will be held on the reunion grounds next Wednesday, the rights being auctioned off to the highest bidders. From the interest already manifested, there will be a large number of bidders, and some lively bidding.

L. Ballou advises that there will not be enough cots available to accommodate all the old veterans, and has asked the citizens of Brady to open their homes to these grand old men. Many citizens have voluntarily already done so, and all others who can accommodate one or more of the veterans, or members of their family, are requested to notify Mr. Ballou at the district clerk's office at once.

The reunion is being effectively advertised far and wide by means of auto banners and circulars. Some especially effective advertising was done by the base ball club and accompanying rooters, who went to Coleman Wednesday.

Patent Granted.

The patent office at Washington will patent anything at all, provided it does not infringe on any others. Some are sensible, rational ideas and some are not. The patent office is a benefit of man kind and is a good thing in this sort. In any case, the patent office shows no partiality and if a person offers an original subject and can pay for the registration of his idea at the office, it will be accepted.

Some of them are exceedingly strange. For an instance, one patent is issued for a tornado proof house, which is built on a pivot so that every breeze turns it with its head towards the wind, the same as a weather vane. There is a polisher for false teeth which is nothing but a piece of a corn cob stuck on a stick. Another curiosity is a sanitary packet for parking chewing gum after it has been chewed. This must have been the idea of either an economical genius or of a person who has had some sad experience with macerated gum.

Then there is a wooden bit or gag to prevent snoring; a very noiseless alarm clock, that yanks the sleeper's arm instead of ringing; another that starts a mechanism that throws him out of bed, and final a machine for counting eggs as they are laid.

For the benefit of those who suffer from cold feet, another genius has evolved an apparatus for warming them. This one is the most curious and novel of all devices registered at the patent office. It is called a "pedal calorificator" and is a tube worn under the clothes with a branch leading to each foot and a mouth piece at the top through which one can blow on ones toes and warm them. Such an invention is only a sample of many similarly ones submitted by "nuts," "cranks," and others, who think they have discovered a method of meeting some of the hardships of life.

The law says that patents are to be granted for inventions which are "new and useful," but the patent office hesitates to say, what is or what is not useful. A thing may seem very silly to one person and yet another person may find it useful; hence, "useful" is a quality which is difficult to corner up. Many people thought the telephone would never be of any practical use. The same thing was said of the telegraph and other great inventions.—The Pathfinder.
